PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING AND DEDICATION

O Lord, our heavenly Father, we thank You for the many examples of courage, devotion, and dedication to life which we find written on each and every page of this book.

When times were hard and difficult, we thank You for making Your presence known to our ancestors and all who have gone before; those brave pioneers, both men and women, who have guided us and prepared for us a better way of life.

To them and to You we dedicate this book and we pray that, as it is read by succeeding generations, all may find inspiration and enjoyment in its contents, thus enabling them to continue in that great pioneering spirit.

In the name of Jesus Christ we pray,

Amen.

Rev. L. George Macdonald

It is hard for us to imagine how this beautiful Central Alberta countryside looked to those first white explorers who resolutely ventured westward more than two centuries ago. Highways, scattered towns and land developments have altered the landscape some, but the overall beauty of this area remains relatively unchanged, and it is still possible to show, in imagination, their thrill of excitement and challenge.

To those first pioneers and their families who came, struggled and endured and to their descendents this land has been good. But lest we think that the settlers who came from other parts of Canada, or other parts of the world, enjoyed the advantages we have today we must pause briefly and look back over the years. I think it is tremendously important to take time to record the intimate local history that is part of the rich, background tapestry of the Eckville area; record the names, the pictures, and the events which are in fact an integral part of our heritage - and legacy.

The history of a nation is conveyed with broad brushstrokes which record major events affecting the future of the country. The history of a people is a finely etched recording of day to day personal events: the recalling of names and times and places: the reliving of joys and griefs closely shared with loved ones, friends and neighbours.

I am sure this book will provide an invaluable link between our treasured past and our exciting future.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Eckville and District Historical Society acknowledges with gratitude the many sources of help received in compiling this book.

We thank those who researched old records and the devoted people who wrote numerous letters, travelled many miles encouraging people to write their family stories. If not for themselves for their children and grandchildren. We also wish to thank our devoted typists and proof-readers who worked so diligently.

Deserving special mention are those long time residents of the area who made available their personal knowledge, recorded memoirs and photographs.

And for a different kind of help, much patience, and great understanding over the past year, a heartfelt thank you to our families. We know roast beef would have tasted better than hot dogs.

No doubt, you will find many errors and omissions, but none of us has ever written a book, we have tried to be accurate in all aspects and if we have missed some information please accept our apologies.

This has been truly a fascinating experience, there have been many ups and downs, as with everything else.

We hope you will enjoy reading this history book as much as we have enjoyed compiling it.

Whose Joy It Was to Serve His Fellow-man

He walked before the Lord in truth and with a perfect heart. II Kings 20:3.

To Keep One

A host of friends, associates, patients and business associates can only watch this day's sad chronicle. Too early in life Dr. Coppock is taken away from a field which attracted his tireless energy for the better part of his adult years.

The old saying "Once a man Doctor" is as he was just as true of Dr. Coppock. Even though he had been in semi-retirement for a number of years, his heart was in his work. People in need of help from whatever source, at any hours of personal loss, all called upon Frank Coppock for a measure of his time and his skill. He was a physician who was dedicated to the alleviation of pain and suffering of people. And from this knowledge as a physician was rewarded. He was a medical man, personal and devoted man. Devoted to the profession he studied long, delved his last mile and the best way he knew how.

True to the moral concepts of the craftsman, Dr. Coppock was just that - moral to each step on his undertaking. To the best of his ability he kept abreast of the latest advances in medical science and this knowledge was placed at the service of his patients. Death was his greatest enemy and he fought it unceasingly on behalf of those in his charge - at times his personal fight was lost as even it should. However, none were his specialty and the welfare of both remained as much an object and distinction as it had been in his earliest days.

Many words could be used to paint a picture the man who was our doctor. His many, many contributions to the welfare of community through the modern office, the hospital, the ... the ... his ambulance service and his own committee ... the list could be long of his personal contributions of skill through his skill as a physician and whether in service ... community considerations, his assets, various aspects of any thing which stood for a better community and human living conditions of its inhabitants.

It is indicative of Dr. Coppock that he died as he had lived - in the service of his fellow man. It is fitting that as the good doctor passed away in the hospital which was his dream, a new home entered his final day.

We do not feel it may be appropriate to mark a man as Dr. Frank Coppock because, by virtue of his contributions to the general well being of the community, he has become a part of it and not as individual, but rather as accomplishments as spokesman as the progress of the world.

He has given the opportunity to someone who will always be with us in so many ways. Instead of the past year. So long, Doc. Rest in peace assured that you will always live on in the hearts of those you served so well.

I. William Allan Ash, was born in 1892 at South Molton, Devonshire, England. I was the eldest of three boys. I also had two sisters whom I never saw as they died of diptheria before I was born.

My early years were spent at South Molton where I went to school. Later we moved to Woodbury, South east of Exeter Devonshire because my parents died and we lived with relatives.

I came to Canada in 1907. My brothers came after. I did. Harold Joe the second youngest joined up with the Manitoba Dragoons in the First World War and was killed in action. Jack my youngest brother now lives in Amherstburg, Ontario.

ALHAMBRA

This book deals with Alhambra
From its very earliest day
From creek with stubborn oxen
To C-B and Chevrolet

The month the Great War started
Brought to us our first train
And with the men departed
Made many tears and pain

A big shack served the purpose
Of a temporary shade
Until they built the schoolhouse
At the corner of the road.

The hamlet near the station
With a stopping house began.
It was built by Mr. Perry
In a very simple plan

Soon a store was added
Also filled with all things nice
Where you could sell your surplus eggs
And trade for prunes and rice

Many days have passed since then
Twenty years or more
And now you buy your groceries
At H. von Hollen's Store

If you should want some medicine
Or lotion for your face
Then you must walk across the street
To Miss Jessie's place

If your disk or plow needs fixing
To a tractor you must go
He'll fix it cheaply while you wait
He's neither rough nor slow

Miss Scott's our postmistress
And her patience does not fail.
Though you may be a little late
In going for your mail

And if you want to sell some grain
Then go to Hall Hill.
He'll grade it fairly, give you cheques
That will your bankbook fill

Emil Mushka as the section boss.
Has been here many years
Upon his charge you leave your cream
Then you need have no fears

Wm. Farquharson is the shipper
Of your fine Barrow hog
On Wednesdays he's always there
In rain or snow or fog.

The hall in this community
Is near the softball ground.
And though a little out of town
It's very easily found.

Miss Sande is our teacher
And she takes great care
And urges all to do their best

Meeting at the home of a friend, and lunch together before Laura returned to school.

Carl loved to fish and whenever he could find a willing partner he would head out to some stream or lake nearby. He and Laura both appreciated purebred Shorthorn cattle and purchased two quarter sections of land for pasture. This was the SW 20-40-3-W5, where the Leonard Swonsberg family have built their home and SE 21-40-3-W5 which has been purchased by Verral and Anna Tims.

In 1915 Laura transferred to Wellerville School and then to David Thompson in 1917 where she remained teaching until her retirement. Perhaps because Laura and Carl had no children of their own, her interest in 'adopting' those around them. Many students, neighbours, nieces and nephews will remember being made to feel especially important as young people around Mr. and Mrs. Westergard. Following her retirement from classroom teaching 'Westie' brought young people into her home where she taught piano, organ, theory or tutored in academic subjects for a very small fee and often none.

In February 1964, Carl died after a short illness. He is buried in the Gilby Cemetery. The store was too involved for Laura to handle alone and was sold to Jim and Johanna Blades. Carl and Laura had owned it for 30 years. Laura also sold one quarter section of their land and to Simons Bergs but retained the 'home' quarter. She continued to teach music in her home until April 1971 when she died very suddenly. She is buried in Gilby. Laura had married Eric Whidden of Rocky Mountain House in 1917. He is presently living at Rocky Mountain House.

REIDLINGER JOHN by Clydie Roth

Mr. John Reidlinger was married to Lydia Sclevanoff in North Dakota, U.S.A. in 1914. They were both born and raised in North Dakota. They came to Sunny Alberta shortly after their marriage and farmed near Medicine Hat until moving to the town of Medicine Hat in 1924. Here John worked whenever he could find employment. They had nine children while living in and around Medicine Hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reidlinger

We left Medicine Hat in the 'hungry thirties' and, along with five other families moved west of Leedale. Our farm was about 12 miles west. We came up on the '$600 Plan'. This meeny had to buy everything — two horses, one cow, a wagon, machinery and another $600 was what we have to live on. Some months we had $10 and also remember sometimes it was only $5. From this amount we had to buy 200 pounds of flour per month. And whatever was left was spent for other necessities. We surely learned to live off of the land. Getting to school was not easy either. We had to walk four miles to the Aurora School, while in Medicine Hat we had had to go only two blocks.

All six of the families moved into the Indian Cabins, which were two miles from the farm. They all traveled back and forth every day.

The Indian Cabins had sod roofs and dirt floors. When it rained we had pots and pans set out everywhere to catch the drip. Dad found a frame house closer to our farm, and we then lived in this until we got our log house finished enough to move into. We still had dirt floors in part of the house when we moved in.

In later years, when most of the family had left home, Dad built another house, but Mother never lived to enjoy it. She died of cancer in May 1951, at the age of 49 years. She was buried in the Rumsey Cemetery. Dad never went back to the farm to live, and later sold it to Hugh Halliday.

Dad lived in a granary on Perry Thomas's farm for a year or so, then built himself a little house on a corner of a quarter owned by his daughter Clydie and her husband, Irvin Roth in the Andrew area north of Eckville. He lived here for a number of years, but eventually went to the Senior Citizen's Lodge in Innisfree, in Rocky Mountain House, and in Sylvan Lake where he would spend the winter, but come home to his own house in the summers. He always enjoyed a little farming if he could drive the John Deere tractor.

Allie was known for her gardening and plants. She enjoyed needlework and spinning wool which she loved to knit many pairs of socks and mitts as well as heavy sweaters.

Many teachers of the Hoyle School boarded at the Solberg home.

Ole and Allie had two sons, Melvin and Fred. Melvin married Hilda Melling of Abbotsford, B.C. They have five children: Beverly, James, Barry, Raymond and Sharon. They reside in Abbotsford, B.C. Fred lives in Montreal, Quebec.

Allie and Ole celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1969 shortly after retiring to their home in Penhold. Ole passed away on January 23, 1976 at the age of 92. He is buried in the Vig Cemetery, west of Bentley. Since then, Allie has resided in Red Deer.

When Pa is sick, he's scared to death.
An' Ma an us jes' hold our breath.
He crawls in bed an' puffs an' grunts
And does all kinds of crazy stunts.
He wants Doc Brown in mighty quick
For when Pa's ill, he's awful sick.
He gasps an moans an sighs sighs
He talks so hoarse an rolls his eyes
Ma jumps and runs all 'round us
An' all the house is in a fuss,
An' peace an joy is mighty skeerce
When Pa is sick, it's somethin fierce

WHEN MA IS SICK

When Ma is sick she pegs away
She's quiet enough, not much to say
She goes 'bout an addin' things.
And sometimes laughs, or even sings.
She says she don't feel so extra well,
But when she's just a kinda spell
She'll be alright tomorrow sure
An good ole sleep will be the cure
An Pa, he sniffs and makes no kick
For women folks is always sick
An Ma, she smiles lets on she's glad.
When Ma is sick it ain't so bad

Woman was created from the rib of man
She was not made from his head to top him.
Nor out of his feet to be trampled upon.
But out of His side to be equal to him.
Under his arm to be protected;
And near his heart, to be loved

Summerland, B.C. and a deal was made. His homestead and stock were traded for a ten acre orchard with a house plus implements and a horse named Jerry who also went with the place when sold later.

On May 24, 1916, John, Emma and a family of four children left Gilby for B.C. going by train to Okanagan Landing and the rest of the way by boat S.S. Sicamous which is now a museum on the lake shore at Penticton to Summerland. Here they stayed for four years during which time he built up the orchard and remodelled the house which still stands in Summerland.

In 1920 they decided to return to Estonia, now with five children. John's parents were still in the same house as when he left in 1905. As John was now a Canadian citizen he was not entitled to own land in Estonia. To fill in time he had a machine agency until he could get started on a farm for himself. The three eldest returned to Canada, namely Henry in 1926, Anna in 1927 and Eddie in 1929 leaving two brothers and one sister and their parents in Estonia. John passed away in 1949 at the age of 75 and Emma in 1962 at the age of 80.

On coming to Canada Henry attended Technical School in Calgary taking up Industrial Electrical Engineering. This was during the Depression and not many jobs available of our choosing so was offered and accepted a motor mechanic's job and stayed at it for over thirty years, over 29 years with Edmonton Motors, until retiring in 1976. During this time he married and raised two boys and one girl and presently has five grandchildren. Henry and his wife are in Edmonton and previous to that lived in the Peace River country.

Anna married soon after arriving in Canada and raised three boys and six girls and now has 27 grandchildren. Anna was widowed some years ago.

Eddie did farming and carpentering in B.C. Here he married and raised two boys and three girls and now has five grandchildren.

E. T. WOLD FAMILY by Magda Anderson

My parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wold, came to Condor in the spring of 1924. Thelma, Elvin, Roy and Erling arrived with them and came after school closed at Cedar for the holidays. We rented land in this area for a few years. Then they went to dad's homestead near Bretton, Alberta. The boys attended school at Prairie Rose and Shady Lane. Erling took Grade Eight at Daisy Nook. Mother passed away in 1966 and dad in 1968.

Thelma worked in Calgary, married Ed Long and raised five children, Laurence, Edwin, Thelma, Donna and Gordon. Edwin was killed in a shooting accident when he was 16 years old.

Elvin married Anna Jensen of Bretton. They have three sons, Arman, Victor and Raymond. Elvin and Anna live in Leduc, after selling their farm south of Warburg. For a number of years they had the Battle Lake Store. Erling and Roy are farming south of Waphusy.

I, Magda, married Norman Anderson and have lived west of Eckville ever since. Our daughter Glenda married Robert Wacker and they live on the Anderson place. They have three children, Cathy, Steven and Vicki.

Our son, Norman Jr. lived only 17 months.

Marjorie married Vern Heybourne and they have two sons, Kevin and Shane. They live at Abbotsford, B.C.

Norman died in 1973. He was interested in hunting and fishing and was a good shot. He shot a bear in their barnyard in 1972. Friends will remember Norman for his old-time violin music.

Taught school in this area for over 25 years.

BENSON, LEO – by Norman Benson

In 1905 or [illegible] Benson came to Glenwood, Minnesota and homesteaded in NW [illegible]-Wilmar, being five miles north west of Leedale church at that time was known as Wilmburg. There were very few settlers in the area at that time and supplies were brought in from Alexandria generally twice a year in the spring and fall. One of the main items was a gallon of alcohol, which was used for medicinal purposes. Very little was ever used for social events.

Leo Benson [illegible] ready to [illegible]

A friend came up from Glenwood the following year and homesteaded the [illegible]-23-41 W1. His name was [illegible] Miller. The two were followed by others and there was left no [illegible] Arthur [illegible] on all corners. The Grand Trunk Railroad was being built. Its northern alberta at that time and there found plenty of stiff competition among the settlers and workers.

Frank Harper stood his homestead to Josephine Gramma Simmons and went back to Minneapolis where he joined the City Police Force. While trying to apprehend some men who had just robbed a bank, he was shot and killed.

In 1910 Norman and Harold Chiarneck with their sister Geraldine came from Detroit. Much gossip and took homesteads in what is now [illegible] and the Midland district. Norman homesteaded the farm now owned by Harold Lemieux. Harold took the place now owned by Florian [illegible]. The new Wilmburg school was built [illegible] and Geraldine Chiarneck was one of the pupils. The teacher was a Mr. [illegible] in 1915 she was married to Leo Benson in Fort [illegible] and after a honeymoon in Banff and Calgary returned to the homestead.

Life was always a challenge in those early days, being no doctor closer than Lacombe. Gramma Simmons was a practical nurse and was always there when needed. Many families owed a great deal to this wonderful person.

The Bensons raised a large family, there being eleven children. Lloyd, the first born, then Gilman, Claude, Vernon, Elmo, Melvin, Cora, Norman, Rose, Stella and Gordon. Only seven, Melvin, Norman, Rose and Stella are left. The rest of the family have been taken by illness and accidents. Leo Benson passed away in 1941. His widow in 1974.

behind. A cattle car and a settler's effects car came on on the Peanut behind an old steam locomotive. Our cattle looked pretty sad on the snow in the stock yards. Later Dad and I took them up Rimbey's main street out to strawpiles at Tarrabain's farm just north of town. The snow was gone when we left the Porcupine Hills.

That first summer at Mount View was a busy one for the Tyndalls. A house was started, some land was cleared and sheds were put up.

We stacked over one hundred ton of hay for Jack Barwick for one-quarter share to get feed for the stock for the winter. Dad and I then went up to Fred Wagar's farm and bayed till it snowed in October. I was so sick of haying I wished we were back on the prairies.

We left the Mount View district in 1958 and bought a farm at Holmeglen, northeast of Rimbey. Thad died in 1956 and Mom passed away in 1967 after a long illness.

While we lived at Mount View Thad built a water well drilling rig to drill a well at the barn. Thirty three years later I am still drilling wells in the Leedale - Rimbey area. Tyndall drilling is now the oldest drilling business in this area. A modern cable-tool rig had been added and there had been many changes to this trade.

My wife Carole and I were married in Lacombe in 1959 and still live on the old farm at Holmeglen. Carole is the daughter of George "Doc" and Cora Allison of Rimbey. We were blessed with three girls. Dallas married Russel Adams and has one son Darrell. Lois and Dixie are still at home.

I have many memories and many good friends from the early years out west. There was a community spirit then that is missing now. I wish we had it back.

WITTENBURG — LEEDALE — research by Carrol Mannis

In 1902 ABRAHAM LINCOLN (TINEY) BOYER from Valparaiso, Indiana and GERRY GUY FARROW from Mitchell, South Dakota came to the Medicine River Valley. They cut a trail from the Fred Schrader homestead, south of Rimbey to the Boyer homestead, SE 26-37-6-W5, one and one half miles east one mile south of Leedale. They thought they had found wonderful cattle and horse range but the valley soon settled with homesteaders.

In April 1903 MR AND MRS PAUL BRODERSEN came from Jennings, Kansas, and in 1907 started the first post office and store. Mr Brodersen named the business Wittenburg.

after his ancestral home in Denmark. He ran the post office and store until the end of the First World War.

In 1904, WILLIAM, THOMAS AND CHARLES GARDNER homesteaded west of the Medicine River W½ and NE 3-42-4-W5 and were the first to do so in this area. Tom and Bill lived there all their lives.

LEEDALE, JUNE 1941

For many years the Indians in this central area had a Rain Dance in the spring. For a week before the ceremonial dance the Indians passed through Leedale in great numbers. Their destination was a pretty secluded valley 10 miles west of Leedale.

John Strawberry, an Indian who died at 110 years.

Most of them drove a team and wagon and many were leading horses. There were always two or three dogs and sometimes more with each wagon. The squaws and the children sat on the floor of the wagon box. Many stopped at the store on get a few supplies which usually included tobacco, baking powder, flour, matches and a yard of brightly covered material. They would hang the cloth on the limbs of the trees which surrounded the encampment and dancing area.

If the dance was meant to bring rain it certainly accomplished its purpose as it usually rained the whole week of the dance.

BUSH FIRES

Every spring we live in fear of bush and grass fires. Years ago there was very little equipment that was very effective in controlling the dreaded fires.

Many settlers lost their homes and belongings in the raging fires which were fanned by strong winds in the under dry bush.

In 1917 Mrs. Lapeare saved her home from the flames although the barn, chicken house and wood pile burned.

In April 1941 Dick Hollingsworth, and S. A. Lyons narrowly escaped losing their buildings and fire fighters were out for several nights trying to protect homes and granaries.

Terry Chetland Terry Chetland passed away on November 21 1977 at the age of 84 years. A popular long-time resident of the Rimbey town and district Mr Chetland enjoyed life to the full.

He was born in Iowa, the eldest of a family of seven, on February 8 1873 and came to Canada in 1906 to the Lacombe district. He returned to the USA in 1907 and returned with his bride Lovenah Archer. They proved up a homestead in the Lacombe area southwest of Rimbey where he farmed until 1952 when he moved to Rimbey. He kept an interest in farming and even helped with some of the work on the farm in his 90th year.

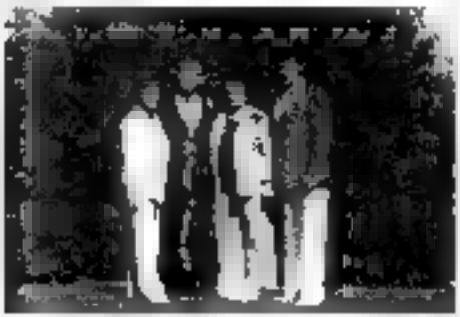
He entered the Rimbey Auxiliary Hospital in 1969 where he resided until his death. Funeral services were held on Thursday November 24.

Rimbey Alma married Edward Bell also of [illegible] Bell was a well-known figure in the district [illegible] and was a [illegible] Bell [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Saskatchewan. Our first baby, Edward was born on March 22 1940 at the Rimbey Hospital which is now a Nursing Home.

That same year Pete's brother-in-law and sister Nick and Helen Sulak from Edson, purchased Palamuk place. In the fall of 1941 we had a sale to raise enough funds to make a down payment on the land we purchased northeast of Rimbey. We rented Sulak place for a year then moved to our new home on April Fool's Day of 1943. There was so much snow that there were deep banks on each side of the road. As we turned the corner to make the last half-mile home the horses and sleigh kept on going and the rack with our belongings was left hanging on the snowbank.

On February 22, 1944 our second baby Deanna was born.



Chiles family. Deanna, Peter, Lillian and Edward.

We are semi-retired living on the same farm north east of Rimbey. Edward married Mildred Jensen, have two children and is Bank Manager of the Treasury Branch in Castor, Alberta. Deanna married to Charles Montalbetti have two children and are living in Edmonton.

CHINE

Mr. Chine, a bachelor came from France first to the Aurora district, then bought a raw Canadian Pacific Railway quarter NE 33-41-4-W5, about 1919. He sold to A. E. Westlake about 1921 and returned to France.

HAROLD CUMBERLAND - NW 23-42-5-W5

Harold Cumberland was born in 1890, in the Wallace Township, Perth County, near Listowel, Ontario to Wellington and Hester Cumberland. He moved to Portage la Prairie, Manitoba in 1907.

He convinced his parents to sell and move west in 1911 and he moved on to Saskatchewan in 1912.

He married Mae Greer in 1913, at Moose Jaw then brought his bride west to the homestead his father had filed on for him, NW 23-42-5-W5.

However, because of its remoteness and his love for the prairies, Harold and Mae stayed only until 1916, and returned to the Dunford farm.

He kept up the taxes on the homestead until the dirty thirties.

They raised nine children. Harold died in Rimbey in 1972. He was predeceased by his wife in 1967.

L. to R. Marley, Florence and Harold Cumberland.

JAMES D. CUMBERLAND by Mildred Cumberland Parker

My father James D. Cumberland, came west from Listowel, Ontario in March 1917. He had bought the S.W. 36-41-4-W5 from a Mr. Dahl in the Medicine Valley. Post office "Wilenburg", store and dance hall operated by Mr. Brodersen.

Dad and my elder half brother, Elwyn Casey, had moved out in February 1912 with furniture and some farm implements. Mother and we three younger children, Mildred, Nelson and Arthur, came a month later. Dad met us in Lacombe with a wagon, spent the night at Bentley at a Stopping House and spent the next day getting to Wilenburg. Turned west at about the present hamlet of Pinehee. There was really no road - moved cross-country of our trail and forded creeks.

Dad had moved west for health reasons. He had been plagued with boils while in the east. His doctor advised him that a change in climate might be beneficial. It did! There were the dreams - one being that the railroad had surveyed through the valley.

JUDGE NOT

Pray don't find fault with the man that limps
Or stumbles along the road,
Unless you have worn the shoes he wears
Or struggled beneath his load
There may be tacks in his shoes that hurt
Though hidden away from view
Or the burden he bears placed on your back,
Might cause you to stumble, too.

Don't sneer at the man who's down today
Unless you have felt the blow
That caused his fall or felt his shame
That only the fallen know
You may be strong, but still the blows
That were his as dealt to you.
In the selfsame way as the selfsame time
Might cause you to stagger, too.

Don't be too harsh with the man who sins.
Or pelt him with words or stones.
Unless you are sure, yea, double sure.
That you have no sins of your own.
For you know, perhaps, if the tempter's voice
Should whisper as soft to you
As it did to him when he went astray
Would cause you to falter, too.

Arthur and Fanny Oliver

Mrs. Oliver was noted for her quilt making. She made many that were on display in various places.

Mr. Oliver enjoyed singing, reciting, and dancing and was always in the fore at social functions and gatherings. They had a family of one son, Lawrence and three daughters - Aileen, Joy and Mary and eight grandchildren.

Mr. Oliver died in 1956 at the age of 75 years and Mrs. Oliver died in 1964 at the age of 78 years.

PEEVER, S — by Jenny Peever Shoveller

In 1925, my dad, Charles Peever, came to the North Leslieville district from the drier, outer areas of Carendish, west of Empress, Alberta. My mother had died in 1923, so I was the only one to accompany my dad.

I, Jenny, was born near Cobden, Ontario on the family farm where my father was also born.

For the first year that we were in the Carlos district we lived in a house on the SE 32 until we located the land to buy, the former Ambery homestead, SW 10-4-5-W5.

For many years the school teachers of Washington Heights found a hearty welcome and many meals at our home. Some of the teachers that boarded with us were: Margaret Whiteside, now Mrs. Tim Nelson, Washington Heights was her first job in the teaching profession. Florence Everett, who later went to Africa as a missionary and married Leslie Crawford. Mrs. Gertie Wilson from [illegible] M. Boyer, Miss Koengerski, Lyla Fretwell, Isabelle Simpson, Ruth Lindsay, Hattie Dobbs, Salme Peabbs, Roy Watson and Shug Sterling were others who served with us. The last teacher was Miss Adelle Hallman who married and is still teaching out in Victoria. My dad was a trustee for several years. He also built a cement foundation for the school in 1928. Mr. Hank Ulzer and Neal Johnston helped with his project.

My dad passed away in December 1940 at 194[illegible]. I married a farmer who lived nearby, Earl Skoveen. We were married in Rocky and have continued to live on the farm here ever since.

PEPPER, EDWARD L.

Fate has decreed that Jimmie Pepper be the one responsible for writing an account of the Pepper family, one of the early homesteaders in the Leslieville community. Although at this late date there are many gaps in my memory concerning the events that took place and the order in which they occurred. What follows is my best recollection of the lives of our family.

My mother and father met in San Blas, Argentina, South America. Both of them were employed by an English family who had a large ranch and other holdings in that area. My mother was a governess in the family and my father was one of the overseers.

Thomas and Edward Pepper on their wedding day, 1911, in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

My mother and father were married in Buenos Aires, Argentina circa 1900 and shortly after went into ranching on their own. Annie, Eileen and I were all born in San Blas but lived at the headquarters of our ranch at Punta Alouva, about 30 miles from San Blas. A severe and extended drought forced the family to sell out in 1910 and seek a more favorable place in which to make a living.

who was then 11 living on what is now the Mazik Station when she took ill. She walked to a spring for a pail of water some distance from the house when suddenly she was overcome by a white light about her. Alick as he returned to the house saw it hovering above him and then circled the house several times before disappearing. Apparently she was ill for a few months and was bedridden for a few weeks around that date. No satisfactory explanation has ever been given as to what it was.

Alick and Hodge Lawson have always had a great deal of satisfaction in accomplishing what many would call a rough and hard life here. He went deeply into the old Livered Wagon Hauling trade.

Dick passed away February 1978 with interment in the Derby cemetery.

LAWSON DICK AND DOROTHY

Richard Dick Lawson and Dorothy Rawhana were married in Rambey on June 29, 1957. Prior to their marriage Dorothy had taught school in Rimbey and Alliston. She was born west of Rocky Mountain House where she took her early schooling and later attended Concordia College and [illegible] of Alberta Edmonton.

Dick was born in the Derby District northwest of Rocky Mountain House and attended the Medicine Valley school. He later farmed with his brothers Bill, Alick and Roger. Their father had passed away in 1951. They also ran a sawmill near home and later moved the mill 30 miles north of Rocky Mountain House.

In the spring of 1940 a big fire went through the area burning out the McIntyre and Mourga. Mills but missed the Lawson camp. A large amount of logs and lumber was lost at the Mountain Mill but about 200,000 feet of sawn Brown lumber which had been hauled there for the summer road job [illegible] was saved. The McTighe [illegible] who their crew were trapped at the mill and in the confusion, were separated. However most of them escaped by a bush road past Mourga's Mill. Percy and Maurice McTighe and a few others had almost given up hope of getting out but managed to get away through before the valley sank and the flames engulfed them. Dick and Dick Lawson got there about 10 o'clock at night and found the whole mountain on fire. He managed to get into the mill yard and bring out a man suffering burns and exposure. He had climbed into a large [illegible] water [illegible] he passed after that night. The fire cut off the road out burning the two bridges over the Wolf Creek so he had to stay at the burnt out mill until the road [illegible] the bridges. Fred Lange of Iowa, U.S.A. filed on a homestead in Medicine Valley in 1910 and he and Nora Withers were married in the spring of 1913. They lived on their homestead until 1937 when they and their two children moved to Iowa, U.S.A.

Mrs. Best the trained nurse started a girls basketball team. From a previous marriage she had three girls and one boy by the name of Thompson. The girls on the original team were Anna Bardenhagen (Mrs. Easter), Helen Lockhart, Luella Thompson (Mrs. Best's daughter) and Nora Withers (Lange).

Mr. Amos was the first mail carrier out of the Valley. The first bridge across the Medicine River in our area was built in 1911.

GEORGE HENRY EDWARD HARRY AND MABEL WILLIAMS — SW 16-42-5 W5

Harry Williams was a veteran of the 1899 Boer War and because of a physical defect he contracted during this war he was unable to join His Majesty's forces in the first World War.

Three of his brothers had gone to Canada early in the 1900's and in 1916 he followed them.

He took over the Francis Marshall homestead on SW 16-42-5 W5 which joined his brothers land.

He freighted goods from Edmonton to Rimbey in 1918-19 with his team Prince and Bess bought from Mel Sheppard of Rimbey.

In September 1919 he was joined by his wife Mabel and two children Barbara Joan Norton and Helen. They farmed there until Harry died in 1936. The farm was then taken over by his son Norton Jr. he joined the army in 1943 in World War II. He returned in 1945 bought another quarter and continued farming until he passed away in February 1976. IGNATIUS, George and Olga George Edward Ignatius was born August 20, 1886 in Antelope, a small mining town five miles east of Banff where his father worked in a coal mine. The family left Antelope for Butte, Montana, U.S.A. where his mother operated a boarding house. After the death of his father, his mother thought it wise to leave the big city with the children and return to Canada in hopes of finding a homestead where she could raise the family.

George arrived at the homestead site SW 13-38-4 W5 a the tender age of nine years with his mother, two brothers and two sisters, in the year 1906.

Even though the children were very young it was necessary for them to help in one way or another. George chose to help his mother fence the quarter.

At the age of ten George went to work for a farmer, Martin Anderson who lived in Bentley. There he worked on the threshing crew cutting the twine from the bundles as they were fed into the threshing machine.

Supplementing the farm income George worked in the coal mines in Nordegg and assisted in clearing more land on the home place.

At the age of 28 in the early 1920's just prior to his marriage he purchased the adjoining quarter SW 13-38-4-W5. from Henry Jensen.

Money was difficult to borrow from banks and George did not have sufficient funds to get married. Rudolph Simpsen kindly lent him $50 to defray the expenses. He was united in marriage to Olga Mary Kuhlmann, aged 21 years 3 days in the United church in Red Deer by the Rev. Churchill. She was the eldest daughter of Abram and Mary Kuhlmann born February 17, 1894 at her home one mile west of Penhold. Olga took her schooling at Mellita. Education was difficult for her as she had to assist on the farm during the spring in all months year ing only the winter months for school attendance.

Olga and George Ignatius 1920

One of her summer daily duties consisted of rounding up the geese on horseback. This to be rid of ticks. There were bulls and mules of men and on the cattle to graze on. Very often a cow would stray away from the herd causing many tiring days of searching. Many times Olga reminisces about an incident happening while in search of cattle.

Quite her horse being a high spirited one sensed a car following on highway and wished to play in the lane. This it did for approximately three quarters of a mile when Olga decided to leave the highway and turn off on a side road. The car also came to a halt and informed her it was a young girl who are now in the movies. The men in the car had been taking movies of their countless performances.

The organizational meeting of the Eckville and District Historical Society was held January 31 1977 at the home of Mrs. Helen Terry

What an enthusiastic group they were Eckville and District was going to compile a book of their heritage

Oh We thought this would be a neat challenge, everyone seemed like mature intelligent individuals who would enjoy working together

We were soon to find that we had problems. Due to these delays some of our pioneers are not with us to see our book in print

Our book will no doubt have errors and omissions. Please accept our apologies If it had not been for sheer determination on the part of some members this book would not have materialized.

God willing, in the near future Eckville will compile a follow-up book and hopefully things will go more smoothly

PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING AND DEDICATION

O Lord, our heavenly Father, we thank You for the many examples of courage, devotion, and dedication to life which we find written on each and every page of this book.

When times were hard and difficult, we thank You for making Your presence known to our ancestors and all who have gone before, those brave pioneers, both men and women, who have guided us and prepared for us a better way of life.

To them and to You we dedicate this book and we pray that, as it is read by succeeding generations, all may find inspiration and enjoyment in its contents, thus enabling them to continue in that great pioneering spirit.

In the name of Jesus Christ we pray.

Amen.

Rev. L. George Macdonald

It is hard for us to imagine how this beautiful Central Alberta countryside looked to those first white explorers who resolutely ventured westward more than two centuries ago. Highways, scattered towns and land developments have altered the landscape some, but the overall beauty of this area remains relatively unchanged, and it is still possible to share, in imagination, their thrill of excitement and challenge.

To those first pioneers and their families who came, struggled and endured and to their descendents this land has been good. But lest we think that the settlers who came from other parts of Canada, or other parts of the world, enjoyed the advantages we have today we must pause briefly and look back over the years. I think it is tremendously important to take time to record the intimate local history that is part of the rich background tapestry of the Echville area, record the names, the pictures, and the events which are in fact an integral part of our heritage - and legacy.

The history of a nation is conveyed with broad brushstrokes which record major events affecting the future of the country. The history of a people is a finely etched recording of day to day personal events, the recalling of names and times and places, the reliving of joys and griefs closely shared with loved ones, friends and neighbours.

I am sure this book will provide an invaluable link between our treasured past and our exciting future.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Eckville and District Historical Society acknowledges with gratitude the many sources of help received in compiling this book

We thank those who researched old records and the devoted people who wrote numerous letters, travelled many miles encouraging people to write their family stories. If not for themselves for their children and grandchildren. We also wish to thank our devoted typists and proof-readers who worked so diligently

Deserving special mention are those long time residents of the area who made available their personal knowledge, recorded memoirs and photographs.

And for a different kind of help much patience and great understanding over the past year, a heartfelt thank you to our families We know roast beef would have tasted better than hot dogs.

No doubt you will find many errors and omissions, but none of us has ever written a book, we have tried to be accurate in all aspects and if we have missed some information please accept our apologies.

This has been truly a fascinating experience, there have been many ups and downs, as with everything else

We hope you will enjoy reading this history book as much as we have enjoyed compiling it

Indian Tales

THE BUFFALO POUND — by Bob Campbell

There is a buffalo pound on our home place. This pound was used by the Indians. They would watch for the buffalo as they came down to the lick, then they would chase the animals up the valley to the pound and kill them. The Indians had dug a ditch to lower the water in a slough, so they could build a catching pen.

There was a cram and curing pit. In the summer time after the animal was butchered the meat would be cut in pieces, wrapped with grass then rolled in the mud at the mud hole. This was their way of cooling, or getting the animal heat out of the meat, in the shortest possible time to avoid spoiling. After that, the meat would be smoked.

There is another pound up near Lampman Valley. There is a big swamp near Squaw Hill, west of Open Creek Dam, where there are narrow holes and a buffalo lick. Indians would chase the buffalo over the east end of Squaw hill. They had a cram and curing pit there too.

THE INDIANS AND THE COW — a story by Bob Campbell

Mr. R. C. Block was always having fun with the Indians. One day in March, 1930, three Indians came through here on the Hudson Bay trail. Our cow had just had a calf. Mr. Block asked the Indians to come and look at the new calf. The cow took one look and gave chase. One Indian went along side of the barn and held on to some rails that were there. Another Indian went over the manure pile and the third jumped the fence. My brother Clifford, was there and popped through the fence. The cow hit the fence right behind him.

About two weeks later the same Indians came by.

Mr. Block said, "How would you boys like to buy a new calf?"

The said "NO, no, your crazy cows do not like Indians, they give chase."

When I see one of the Indians in Rocky Mountain House he often asks me if we still have those crazy cows that chase the Indians.

INDIAN ARTIFACTS — by Bob Campbell

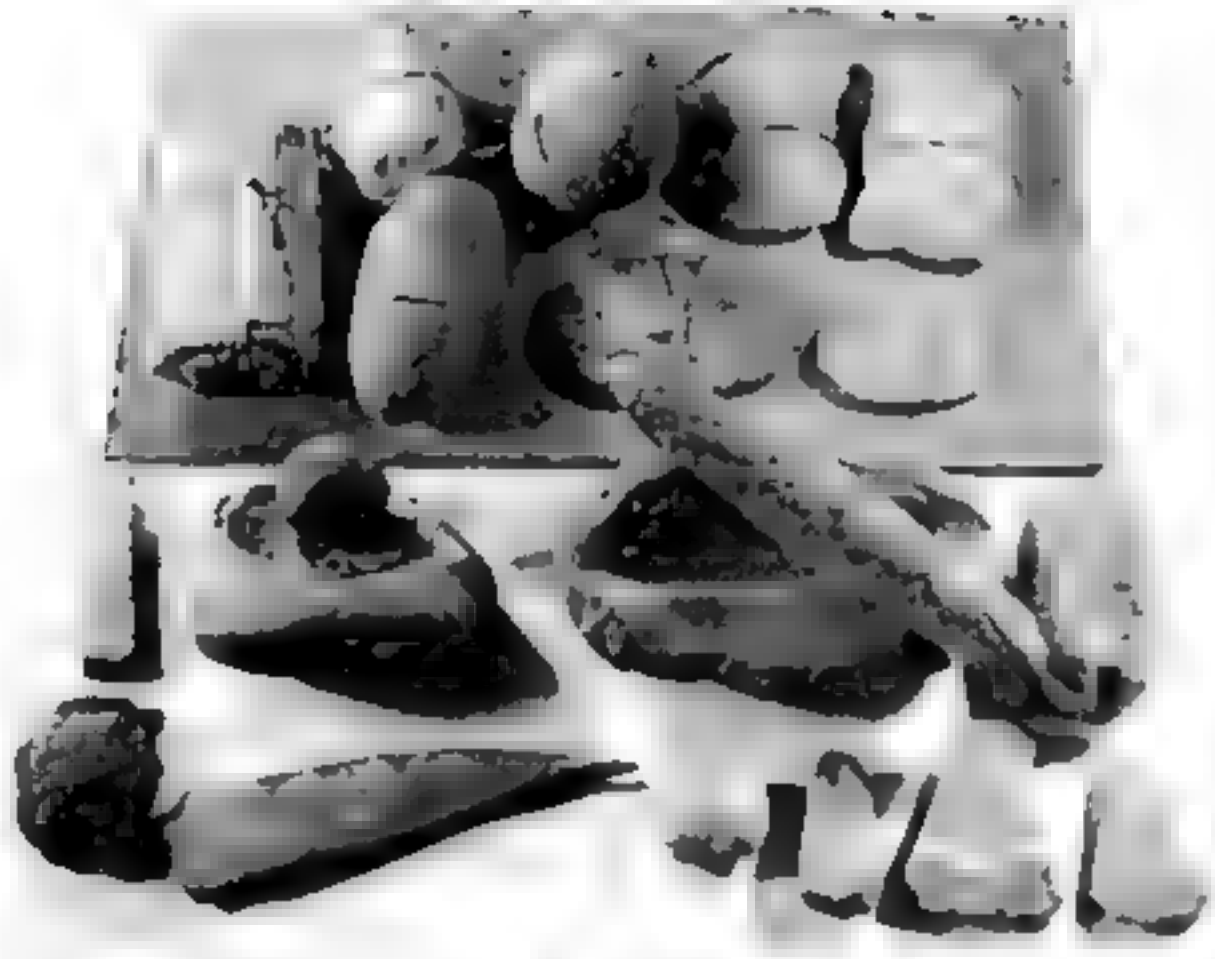
Mr. Block came in the spring of 1921, just west of where Aurora school now stands. I came in the spring of 1930. Before I came Mr. Block had found some arrow heads. I have found some every year since.

There are some arrow heads that date back to 6500 to 7000 B.C. I have a spear near 7000 years old and several clam shells which are 12 million years old. I have had archealogists from Glenbow Foundation and the Archives of Alberta confirm the ages of these finds.

Bob Campbell showing a portion of his arrow head collection



In my collection are hide skinners, battle axes corn pounders, a corn roller stone hoe, wheat stone, tomahawk, pemmican hammers, hide scraper tanning tools, petrified raw lava burned lava and petrified wood These have all been found on the SW 4-5-5

We started a guest book on October 5, 1975 recording the names of people who came to see the artifacts. It has signatures from Norway Denmark, Holland Australia, Albuquerque New Mexico and all parts of Alberta and British Columbia So far 195 people have signed the book

Some old Indians tell that Rev Gaetz from Red Deer did fur trading and missionary work in this area around 1885

Jack Bunk an archaeologist from the Provincial Archives of Alberta in Edmonton came to see my artifacts and look at the buffalo pound They will be doing some digging in the spring and summer of 1978 and will give us a record of what they find

PIONEER TALES OF THE INDIANS IN THE CARLOS AREA – by Bob Campbell

Jonah Strawberry tells of how he and another Indian named Joshua shot a young grizzly bear in about 1898, up on Kinnikinic hill between sections 9 and 4-42-5, east of Ival Johnston's buildings. The old Indians say that they never heard of a grizzly bear coming this far out from the mountains before

The old timers tell me that all the Indian families had dog teams, and big dogs that they used for packing. They tell me a big dog can pack 35 to 40 pounds on their back. Josie Strawberry had a pack dog in the 1940's. Two brothers, Len and Rudy Kruger, who lived on the SW 5-41-5 Glen Bradshaw's place had a dog team

Jim Yellow Face had around 75 head of horses in the old days They were branded Y/F Yellow Face kept his horses in the Lampman Valley He camped for years on the S½ 17-42-5 near a slough that is between two hills that run north west

Other Indians camped on the SE 8-42-5 and in Campman Valley. They trapped for furs in winter and dug seneca root in spring and summer. They sold these things to Louis Robinson, a fur buyer who lived at Leedale. They also cleared land for farmers, and in fall they stooked grain and helped with threshing.

Old timers also tell me of the existence of two totem poles up by Gimlet creek.

The Indians had sundances up in the area around SE 8-42-5. They travelled through our home place and we have seen as many as 150 teams and wagons go up for one sundance. The least we ever saw in any year was 68 wagons. Some of the Indians that came here were from Montana, North Dakota, White Court, Hobbema and Gleichen. Ival Johnston bought the SE 8 in about 1944 and the Indians moved their sundance grounds farther north.

There are some Indian graves on the corner of NW 9-42-5. Old timers tell of seeing guns, blankets, and footwear left on the graves. There are also two graves on the east of Kinnaminie Hill, NW 34-41-5.

I've heard tell of a Stoney Indian who lived on the E½ 23-41-5 by a small lake in the centre of the land. He had a cabin and a small dug out that he used for a cooler. He was buried near the lake somewhere, on the land later owned by Fred Valouch and Harold Allen.

Some of the Indian families who lived in the area in the early days were named Strawberry, Brenner, Red Bear, Little Bear, O'Chiese, White Calf, Beaver Bone, Iron Bow, Lagrell, Big Child, Daychief, Yellow Eyes, Yellow Face, Sunchild, Crookedlegs, Little John, Goodrunner, Joshua, Red Calf, Whitford, Todd, Frenchemier, Joseph, Dan, John and Bill Swan.

STRAWBERRY J. — by Bob Campbell

Josie Strawberry, son of Jonah Strawberry, lived on the SW 15-42-5, by a spring. He built a log cabin. Josie bought some cattle from Jack Davies and Jimmy Smith around 1940 or so. He put up hay for Bill Gardner on shares for several years around 1945.

In 1946 Josie and Bill Swan cleared land in the district for Rob Ervin.

In around 1956 Josie moved his family and livestock out to the Sunchild-O'Chiese Reserve.

Eckville

HISTORY OF ECKVILLE

Mr Arthur Eckford came to this district in 1902 He was the original owner of NW 22-39-3 W5. This was later subdivided and became known as Eckville or as we call it today Old Eckville Jarvis Onofryszyn now owns the land where Old Eckville was situated and would be about a mile and a half north east of our present townsite. The actual subdivision map is dated April 2, 1906. Mr Eckford donated the land for the first store and post office, and Eckville was named after him. Their first son, Thomas, was born on the farm on October 20, 1915, second son, Edward was born in Red Deer, May 14, 1917 and number three son, Arthur, was born in North Vancouver on May 13, 1920. To our knowledge, Mrs Eckford still lives in Vancouver Mr J H Killick built the store and was the first postmaster in 1905, having the two combined in the one building A B. Koski (August hauled the mail from the Evarts post office to Old Eckville for five and a half years. His pay was $1 70 for the round trip. His contract with the government was dated December 1, 1905. The mail was hauled by team with a rig that Mr Koski made himself Fritz Kinna then took over this mail haul from Mr Koski. It was in 1904 that the bridge north of Eckville was built over the Medicine River Mr Killick sold his business to a Mr Rene Bruyseraed and moved to the town of Rocky Mountain House. In 1910, Dan Clausen and Oswald Forhan bought out this store and post office. Then, Mrs. Snell and her sons came out from Red Deer and built a hotel and feed barn T B. Millar started a cheese factory; Mr Foreman from Lesheville built a blacksmith shop — Eckville was booming — streets were named Main Street, Dominion Street, Willow Street and Prince Street There were probably a lot more buildings out there but we cannot find a record of them now

In 1906, it was decided that there were enough children to go to school so a school should be built. On March 29, 1906, the first school board held a meeting with board members Charley Kasper as chairman, J H Killick as secretar treasurer and W W Gasgarth the member That same spring they sold debentures in the amount of $800 and the school was built Nothing slow about our forefathers, once they made up their mind to do something. Mr E E. Randall owned the land west of the river and this is where the school was built. Later this land became the home of Mr and Mrs Lenny Kingsep. Miss A Fenerty was the first teacher with a salary of $50

Around 1910, word spread that the C N R. was looking for land and would build a railroad Much speculation took place on where this would be built and people from Eckville were watching very closely Finally, the C N R. purchased the NW 16-39-3-W5. Ralph Wesley Matchett owned this land, having taken title to it on April 2, 1907 Thus the C N R started construction and was completed in about 1912. The Alberta Central Railway later known as the C P R. came into Kootuk or South Eckville in 1914. Now with the building of the railroads, the folks from out at Old Eckville started moving or building their shops and homes in New Eckville, our location today Oswald Forhan and Dan Clausen started their store and post office on the site where the present drug store now stands. The first building to be erected in the new townsite was the kitchen part of the Dan Clausen residence (now the site of the Alberta Government Liquor Store) Many a man had their meals in this kitchen with the Clausens while they were building their own places. Mr Forhan built his house across from the store and this was later Dr Crosby's drug store and residence, and then again in later years, the Forhan Drug Store. Clausen Brothers had a mill, and logs and lumber were purchased for many of the buildings in the town from them Clausen Bros. put up a pool hall on the east side of Main Street and Jack Clausen built his house Dr W G. Evans, moved in his residence and drug store were on the west side of main street and beside it was the Erickson Bros butcher shop. Harry Palmer had a blacksmith shop located where Revelstoke Building Materials have their lumber storage today His residence was there as well. Emanuel Olson opened up a restaurant on the east side of main street and a few months later sold out to John E Lundberg who in a couple of years with additions and alterations made it into a hotel. August Mitzner also built a hotel on the east side of main street beside the Clausen pool hall. Charlie Gustavson opened up a livery stable which was sold to John Kemila and later to Fred Isaacson who remodelled it for a garage, and today Eckville Motor uses this lot for storage. Mr Gustavson owned the first automobile in Eckville. The co-op store was built where now stands the J & K Food Store (the old Bakery) and some of its first managers were Archie Litt Dan Clausen, Bill Rogers, and Oswald Umari along with many others along the line. After leaving the Co-op. Mr Rogers had Charley Kasper build him a store of his own Mr Eckford had his real estate office on the south side of the Co-op store Gus Sestrap had a hardware store to the east of the Clausen residence. August Mitzner's feed barn and wood sawing was along railway avenue to the west and a feed mill beside it Mr Storey owned the feed mill. In 1912 Forhan and Clausen picked out a site for a dance hall or as they called it a "Town Hall. So once again with the same spirit that the original town was built, a meeting was held this was on May 12, 1912, the first sports meeting The floor was laid to be used as a dance pavilion. In 1913, the Eckville Improvement Company was formed and incorporated shares sold with which to build a hall on the same floor It seems that they must have had an outdoor dance hall for awhile. This building was used as such until it was sold for a restaurant some years later Now. Art's Jewellery and Gift Shop is located in this old town hall. The C N R station is still in the same place as it was originally We presume that the elevators were built during this time. as well as other buildings throughout the years. J M McDonald built his house in 1918. Mike Sestrap built his house and today there is a modern four-plex dwelling going up on this lot with the old house being demolished a short time ago. The George Lutz House and the Fred Isaacson homes were built in 1919 and 1920. Many old timers will never forget the year 1918, the year of the flu. Anybody who was able was called out to do nursing duties and to help out in any way possible during this siege Mr Bill Brown opened up a creamery or receiving station across from the McDonald residence now the modern A G.T building is located on the land. The cream was tested and the farmers received their cheques from the Browns. We presume the cream was shipped to Alx

In 1918, the Canadian Bank of Commerce opened up their bank on the lot where they have now their beautiful new building The old original bank was donated to the town in 1976, and this in turn was turned over to the Eckville and District Friendship Club for their use as a drop-in centre. Mr J W McIntosh was the first bank manager Mr Matt Perry was an early accountant who was, a few years ago, living in Calgary We are not sure if it was the Imperial Bank or the Bank of Commerce for whom he worked. In January 1920. Dan Clausen raised a petition requesting the hamlet of Eckville to be incorporated into a village. The first man to sign the petition on January 25, 1920, was Mike Sestrap. Other signers were Bill McHattie (a blacksmith), Archie Litt (manager of the co-op store , J M McDonald, J F Helmbecker Harry Lowe, E Wickstrom, R. Bertram Dan Clausen, and J Johnson. At this time there were 30 buildings in the hamlet — nine dwellings, eleven business premises also occupied as dwellings and ten business premises with no dwelling space There was an elevator, hotel, restaurant, hardware store, lumber yard, meat market, two real estate offices, a bakery presumably in the restaurant) a feed and livery barn, two general stores, a public hall, blacksmith shop, creamery Bank of Commerce, dry goods store, garage one implement store. and one Imperial Oil station. I believe the Imperial Oil station was run by Mr Von Holtum. The petition was given to John A Gaetz, MLA for Red Deer constituency, who in turn handed it to Mr J H. Lamb, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs. An inspector from the government, Bill Robertson came out. inspected the hamlet and said "no" It included too much farm land and there were not sufficient dwellings to meet the requirements of a village Dr P. L. Backus had his residence and office and a few spare beds for emergencies in what is now he Roy Saari residence, but this was not in the hamlet In 1921 a committee of Bill McHattie. Dan Clausen, Mr Crosbie, Mr Garries with Joe Marshall as chairman formed to work on incorporation again. On February 18. 1921. Mr A. H Garries wrote to Edmonton to say that he had been appointed to a committee to look after the incorporation Another petition dated May 30. 921. was signed by Mike Sestrap, general store manager Dr P L. Backus, Jack Coughlin, hotel keeper J F Helmbecker, Walter Herring, John Kemila, Mrs. Augusta Clausen, Joe Marshall. W McHattie. and J M McDonald. This time the inspector that came out was Mr Alex Sout er He found that there was now a school in the hamlet. this being moved in, and that folks were most anxious to incorporate to enable themselves to make some provisions towards proper fire protection. Finally on Sept. 15, 1921 in the early morning Mr. Art Garries, an implement dealer and an auctioneer posted notices which had been signed by the Hon. R. G. Reid, Minister of Municipal Affairs which were notices of intention to incorporate. One was posted in the hotel one in the post office and one on the town hall. Some acreage owners in the area but not included within the hamlet were John Platham, C. H. Von Hottum, Mrs. M. Johnson, Henry K. and Charley Kasper. On November 5, 1921, Mr. Reid signed an order that the hamlet of Eckville was now the village of Eckville, effective that date. Now the village had to have a village council. Dan Clausen, then a hardware employee was named returning officer for an election for councillors. Nominations were received at 8 p.m. on Monday, December 5, 1921 in the town hall. There was no election required. Bill McHattie, Clarence Crosby and Joseph T. Marshall were elected by acclamation. Thus was Eckville's first council. The first meeting was held on January 3, 1922, and Clarence Crosby was appointed as reeve or mayor with Dan Clausen as secretary-treasurer. The surrounding area was then known as the Municipal District of Lorne, No. 400, now the County of Lacombe No. 14. Messrs. Crosby and Colpitts of Red Deer and Eckville were the solicitors for the village. Mr. J. M. McDonald was the agent for the Home Insurance Co. of New York.

February 16, 1922, saw the first by-laws of the village passed. No. 1 being the adoption of the common seal. No. 2 — set out the proceedings of council. No. 3 — appointed Dan Clausen as secretary-treasurer at a salary of $125 per year and appointed Dr. P. L. Backus as Medical Health Officer for the village. A number of very active people in town who deserve a lot of credit for the time and effort they put in in helping make Eckville a thriving village were Jack Clausen who with Brother Dan had a construction company and sold most of the logs or lumber that was used in the building program, Gus Sestrap in his hardware store, Ralph Brown, James Olsen, the Isaacson families, Armstrong Bros., O. M. Forhan, Mrs. Frank Andrew and Mrs. Orval Rasmussen (the Botten girls), J. F. Knorr, Fritz Kinna, Glen Caton and family, the Thorkman families, Dr. Somerville, Dr. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herring, Dr. Claxton and many many more that we do not hear about or have their names. Cal Fletcher came here from Kansas City in 1919 and stayed till 1925 and then went to Hespero until 1946 when he moved to British Columbia. He was a man of all trades and worked in every store and business in Eckville except the blacksmith shop. He stayed with the Louis Weeks' on the present Tom Smith farm. The Presbyterian Church was moved in 1921. It was the school at Old Eckville and the first minister, we understand, was Rev.

Through the effort of many local residents in 1916, it was decided to build rural phone lines so in 1917 some rural lines were built to Gilby, then to Hugo Mottus's. Mrs. Frank Andrew worked for the Lundbergs in the hotel. The phone lines were operated from there, so she was the first telephone operator. Five lines ran from the hotel, four in the country and one in town. At this time no long distance calls could be made. The town and rural lines, known as the Eckville and Gilby Telephone Company were then incorporated and changed to the Eckville Mutual Telephone Association. This was being operated from the Clausen front room with Theresa Botten (Mrs. Orval Rasmussen) as the operator. She worked there for six years. Fifty years later in 1967 came the dial system to Eckville and in 1969 the direct distance dialing. We had many operators during this time and names cannot be found of all of them but we know there was Esther Johnson (Mrs. Bill Oliver), Mrs. Morrie Cross, Sylvia Wuori, Mrs. Kit Armstrong, Mrs. Louise Delaney who for many years was a faithful worker at the switchboard along with Kathy Ferguson as night operator. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McNeil and Mrs. Erna Soerd also gave faithful service. The Forhan family left here around 1921, and were at the coast for a number of years — came back around 1925.

Dan Clausen went to work on the railroad in 1923, came home around 1928. The Sinclairs left in 1925. That same year saw Fritz Kinna going to Tech in Calgary to take an electrical course. When he came home he wired buildings in town and the power was supplied by the Moro Bros. from their flour mill on the east side of the village.

In 1926, Feb. 2, Walter Herring was appointed as secretary-treasurer and O. M. Forhan as reeve. On Dec. 13, 1926, there were six candidates nominated — for council — Joe Marshall, W. H. Cowen, Mike Sestrap, J. F. Helmbecker, Oswald Umarl, and O. M. Forhan. Mr. Forhan withdrew before the election. There were 33 votes cast with Messrs. Marshall, Umarl, and Sestrap elected. Mr. Marshall was mayor and Mr. Herring secretary-treasurer. In 1924 saw Harry Lowe as reeve with O. M. Forhan as secretary-treasurer. From 1928 to 1930 Bernie Dennett was reeve with Don Clausen as secretary-treasurer, a position Mr. Clausen held until 1935. During those years Joe Marshall, Bernie Dennett and Mike Sestrap were named as reeves. From 1936 to 1942 Bernie Dennett was mayor with Robert G. Gish as secretary-treasurer. Some of these men as they went off as reeve were still on the council. William MacDonald and Fred Isaacson are names listed as councillors.

March 31, 1924, saw the Bank of Commerce close. Jack Bromling opened his meat market in the bank building. He closed this in the fall of 1930. The Imperial Bank opened a sub branch from Sylvan Lake in November 1927. This was on a three times a week basis, and was operated from a small office next to what was then the Atlas Lumber and now Carritt & Sons Hardware Fred Appleton or Harold S. Mann, with one assistant would make the trip. If the roads were passable they came by car; when not which was about half the time, they came with a very good driving team. In this bank's supply of stationery and equipment, were two very good buffalo robes, probably the only bank that had this added equipment At times, they came by train Have any of you ever travelled on a mixed train in the olden days? Cecil Caton at that time was the janitor at the bank He had to be around early to get the fires going and have the ink wells thawed out before the others got there. This building was later used as the office of the Medicine Valley Livestock Co-op under the able managership of Alf Thubron Phil Laybourne John Reid and Tom Smith, Sr In December, 1930, the Imperial Bank became a full-time branch and the old Commerce building was purchased from Jack Bromling, and with some alterations and the addition of a vault the bank moved n Harold Mann and Cecil Caton were the staff. Now the Imperial Bank and the Bank of Commerce have amalgamated and just a short year ago the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce moved into their spacious and beautiful new bank. The old one was donated to he town who in turn turned it over to the Eckville and District Friendship Club for their drop-in centre

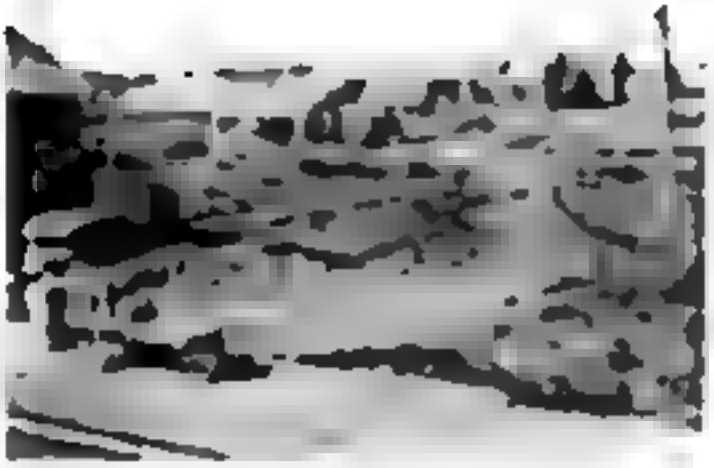
Mrs. Porter (Mrs. Laura Marshall a mother a registered nurse, came to Eckville from Condor in 1929. and opened up a nursing home in the house now owned by Janet Handford. This was operated until 1932 and without this service and the willing hands that served, some of our folks would not be here today No one was ever turned away She looked after many patients brought to her by the local doctors, Dr Somerville and later Dr Claxton

We cannot forget the creamery built in 1921 on the southeast corner of town, built by Pete



Palleisn with Harry Woods as manager It burnt down in 1928 and a Mr Patchett rebuilt it and Henry Hansen was manager followed by Bill Morris, who managed it for a good number of years – several others following until it was finally closed down

On April 19, 1924, around 4 p.m., Mike Sestrap's store on the west side of main street burnt down. First thing taken out when the fire started was the cash register set out in the middle of the street. Fire again struck in 1928 when the whole business section on the east side of main street was lost. They were soon replaced, folks had a lot of faith in the growth of Eckville

In 1937 residents of Eckville voted for Calgary Power to supply them with power This vote passed with a big majority and thus Calgary Power came to Eckville and still serves us today with much higher rates of course

The annual meeting held in January of 1938 showed the town was really active. The report showed that in 1937 26 ½ yards of gravel had been purchased, with some of the previous years stock pile being used as well, 1490 feet of lumber had been bought and used to build and repair wooden sidewalks. The tax arrears list shows $581 42 unpaid taxes at the end of 1937 This was $67.81 higher than the previous year Still they ended the year with a bank balance of $427 43 They had also signed a new lease with the Eckville Curling Club. This was a three year lease at $150 a year The rink was built by volunteer help in 1936

1936 — The Medicine Valley Community Hospital, operating from the Dr Backus original home was in financial difficulties and asked the village for help. They were given $50. Nineteen thirty-eight saw the mill rate go up by 10 mills penses of the garbage grounds and street lights The school board approached council on using the club room of the curling rink for a class room until the new school was built The board would pay for part of the cost of a new floor in the building By the fall of 1939, the curling club was in financial trouble they could not pay their rent — some members had not paid their dues for a couple of years. Times were tough

In March 1939, the council decided to try to have the garbage hauled out on a contract basis Prior to this, folks hauled out their own The by law enforcing garbage regulations was put into effect Garbage cans sold at $3 and the pay for picking up the garbage was set at $2 50 per week No garbage was hauled out during the winter months. Pay to the contractor was stopped in October

April, 1939, saw the purchase of a fire siren Then in 1939, the village was able to put the mill rate down nine mills. The curling club were able to pay their rent of $150 The estimated expenses for the village that year were set out in their budget as $806

Lance Rowatt opened a pool hall in September 1939. By this time the Co-op had moved to their new location from what we now know as J & K Food Store to the premises where the Co-op main store now is situated. James Needham, presently retired and living in Eckville, opened up a bakery in the old Co-op building around 1937 or 38. He later sold to Ernest Jackson who in turn turned it over to his sisters, Alice Snyder and Frances Cooper, and her husband. They in turn sold to the Coppens family who operated it for several years before selling to Jim and Karen Tubbs. It is no longer a bakery

November 1938, a Mr Harvey Thompson was appointed as night watchman for the village The following year, 1940 a tree trimmer had to be appointed, this was Dan Clausen and his pay was 50 cents a year For a couple of years the mill rate stayed at 10 mills plus three for a social service tax However, the village did have to borrow $400 this year in order to do some gravelling on the streets. The M D of Lorne had a gravel crusher in the district and since it would be moving out, the council had to get the gravel right away and pay cash for it

In 1943, a proper hospital district was formed and work started on the construction of a hospital, one that is still being used today In 1949 the mill rate went up to 18 mills. It was in 1944 that Calgary Power requested that the village permit them to bill customers every two months instead of monthly Their reason a shortage of paper as well as staff

The Knights of Phythias Lodge trustees approached council on taking over the cemetery They would donate the land and a trust fund of $115.68 that was held by them for cemetery purposes. The land was all ready in use for this purpose. Thus, it became the Eckville Municipal Cemetery Around 1946, the Eckville Cemetery Association was formed and taken over by them Mr J Hopkins had cut most of the brush on the cemetery land and spent a great deal of time and work on this project with gratifying results

1945 saw cement crosswalks, more wooden sidewalks, and sidewalk repairs done. In the five blocks of the village, there were nine street lights. The hospital was not in the village limits at this time. This was the year that saw a fire fighting pump purchased at a cost of $19.56. Four fire fighting ladders had been built at a cost of $2.50 each. Residents felt quite safe with this fire fighting equipment. In 1944, the matter of building a tie shed for the farmers to tie their horses to when coming to town was discussed and by 1945 it was completed. Mr. R. L. Tuck completed the job.

In 1946, the village had to start collecting the school taxes. Before this time, the school board had to do it. Thus the secretary's salary was boosted to $240 a year.

The theatre was built in 1946. Previous to this, shows had been held in the hall. As years went on, the village grew, improvements were made. In 1953, garbage was hauled all year around.

Five, five-gallon tanks for fire fighting were purchased and placed on power poles around the village. Each fall, these had to be checked to see that the right solution was in them so they would not freeze up. In 1947, a more up to date fire siren was purchased. This was three quarter of a mile vertical non corroding fire siren which was installed on the telephone office. When a fire call was rung in, the telephone operators would ring the siren.

In October 1949, after many months of working on annexation, 12 more blocks were added to the village. This was officially declared annexed on January 1, 1950. We were now 17 blocks large. Prior to the annexation of the 12 blocks, a road grader was purchased.

Now to go back to 1942 and list some of the councilors and officials of the town. They were Fred Isaacson, Jake Bussinger, Dan Clausen, Mike Sestrap. In 1942, Bernie Dennett left town so resigned his position and Phil Laybourne took the office. Tom Forhan took over as secretary-treasurer. Clarence Ferguson was acting secretary-treasurer in 1944 for a month or so, and then Bob Gish went back on until 1947 when Larry Forgues took over the position. He left in March 1949 and Mrs. Lea Zeb from Calgary took the position. She had to leave and go back to Calgary so on April 4, 1949, Margaret Schofer was appointed as secretary-treasurer, a position she still holds today. Other active and civic minded men that took on the job as councillors were Russell Eastman, Tom Forhan, Tom Smith, Sr., Red McAndrews, Dr. Gordon Gibson, Larry Knudsen, Albert Schofer, Stanley Nunn, Chester Kasha, Archie Huhtala, George Armenean, Olva Elson, Alfred Miller, Julian Sambrook, Gordon McNeil, Bill Maki, Arvid Anderson, Rex Baker, Ken Krintila, Adrian Vandevelde, Bob Mathews, Bill Elliuk, Don Macrae, Hans Coppens, Bill Gordon, Leo Remillard, Arthur L. Carritt, Lyall French, James Keegstra, Ed. Olsen, Harold Leach, Dennis Guenther, Doug Rhodes, Clarence Phol, and at this date, November 1977, our present councillors are Jim D'Amico, Jim Lecert, Jim Keegstra, Bob Kraft, Peter Mielke, Randy Forhan and Harold Leach as mayor.

The early years were hard years for the council members, there was not much money, not too much borrowing power and not enough people to pay for the things that we needed and that we have finally acquired. Way back in 1948, water and sewer installation for the village were discussed. This is as far as it got until 1953 when it was possible to borrow money. Thus, a debenture was issued for $52,500 and the sewer was installed in 1953-54.

In 1954, a modern up to date fire engine was purchased and brought home from the factory in June by Helen Kasha and the late Chester Kasha. A fire hall was built in the same year which also housed the town office. In 1956, the town had a well drilled at the fire hall and a pump installed. Thus ended the hauling of water to the reservoir under the fire hall. Now we have a very modern three bay fire hall built in 1975 and 76. This houses our own fire truck plus a county of Lacombe fire truck that our local building is used for storage of town equipment. Our fire department is well looked after, with about 22 volunteer men. We cannot give these boys enough credit as they are ready to go any time, whether they have to leave their jobs or leave their nice warm beds. Doug Rhodes was fire chief for many years and the instigator of getting the fire hall. Corny Hughes is now our had put in enough years of this, and it was now time for someone else to take over.

A covered arena was the next step towards modernizing the town and get the recreation program going. Thus in 1964, through donations of money and hard work, our present arena was under construction. There were no debentures issued to pay for this. It was all donated. Through the years some equipment had to be purchased and a new front end put on the arena. For this purpose money was borrowed from the government and with the very active Eckville Arena Operating Committee, sponsoring rodeos, ice carnivals and other activities, this money has been paid back. Now in 1977 the big project is for artificial ice in the arena. It is hoped that this will be completed in 1979.

Another big project, and, we feel a big step forward, was in the installation of the water system with the water tower located in the Memorial Park Grounds. The official opening of this was held on August 6, 1965 with the Major Dr. Gordon Gibson turning the valve.

Natural gas, installed by Northwestern Utilities was another step towards progress. This was done in 1961 and the late Mr. Dan Clausen was elected to light the flare which signalled natural gas in Eckville and a lot of fuel oil barrels and propane tanks soon disappeared from yards

The new town office was built in 1983 and 1984 It was opened in March 1984 and was quite a change from the old buildings. It had been moved several times since the fire hall origin but now we have a permanent spot and already we have outgrown it Hopefully an extension will be built in the next year or two. On one side of the office is the library This was originally the council chambers and council meetings are still held here, and many other organizations use this as a meeting room.

In 1965, we annexed about 10 acres to the town and again in 1974 the property east of the secondary highway No. 766 was annexed to town We are presently in the process of annexing another .55 acres, more or less. This land, if it is approved, will be to the north of town, taking in some of the Bill Elliot and Bill McDonnell land and also south of the railroad tracks. This is, at this time, almost sure to go through but there is still a lot of government red tape

The Centennial project was the building of the Childrens' Playground. This was done with government help and equipped through donations of merchants and organizations in town and country

In 1966 Eckville's population was 766, and at this time to become a town, we required a population of 700 people Thus, on July 1, 1966, Eckville became a town instead of a village This order was signed by Ernest C. Manning. In 1968 house numbers, street names and number signs were erected. Also, in 1968 and 1969 some of the streets were paved and since then a few more have been done

When we finally paid off our original sewer installation debenture, our Provincial Government came along and said the septic tank system was out dated and we had to build a sewage lagoon Again we were forced into debt. We borrowed $271 960 and installed two pumping stations and the lagoon

The Eckville and District Agricultural Society was formed April 25, 1973, and this was done for the purpose of getting grant money to build a multi-purpose building, which houses the new curling rink Construction started in the spring of 1975, and the curling rink part of the building was officially opened in January 1977 A draw was made to see who would throw the first rock and

Pat Baker was the winner, and a very suitable one at that, as she had spent many hours as secretary of the society to get things going. The upper hall of the building was completed in November 1977, and the lower room in October and is now occupied by the Mother Goose Playhouse. The curling area has a cement floor and is used in summer for larger events, rodeo dances, auctions, firemen's barbecue and many other functions. The old curling rink, some 50 years old, was demolished by Bud Lightbown and Bob Kraft during the summer of 1977.

This is the story of the growth of Eckville, a small community, but one we are very proud of. Our population as of June 1977 is 797. We are growing. Our gratitude for what we have today goes to the many, many folks who came to this land in the early years and with perseverance and fore-sight helped make Eckville what it is to day. Through the years, many new things have come into being to make our life one of comparative ease and pleasure. If only some of the original settlers could see what their work and time brought us. We should all pause in our daily routine and give thanks to those folks who worked so hard for Eckville.

ECKVILLE IN THE EARLY DAYS — by A. [illegible] Denham

Back to 1925 after my second year in theology at Knox College I was appointed as student missionary for the summer to the Eckville pastoral charge in Alberta. Dr. James Edison was home missions secretary in Toronto and the Reverend Walter Brown, a big man in every way, was Red Deer Presbytery's home missions convener. He asked to come to the college to interview students.

Over the space of 50 years time one's recollections diminish, but I remember being welcomed by the McDonald family at Eckville and having my first meal with them. Mr. McDonald had an artificial leg and so was known locally as "Peggy", which he didn't seem to mind. He was one of the kingpins of the church but no "mealy mouthed Christian". I do not remember where I stayed at first, but eventually I moved in with Doctor Sommerville, where I was housekeeper, cook, laundress and also anaesthetist for minor operations. His sister, who had been keeping house for him, left to go East to be married.

house. We had a small congregation and a Sunday school. We also had a boys' group, either Tuxis or Trail Rangers. During the summer we camped at Sylvan Lake where I built a fireplace over and baked pies and Yorkshire pudding. Some summer evenings we swam in the Horseguard River and on one of these occasions we were fooling around when I realized that one of the Sestrap boys was drowning. I carried him out of the river and he soon recovered. I don't think anyone knew about this incident.

I can't remember whether we had any Finnish families in our congregations but we did have some of their sons in our boys' groups. The Sestrap family had the general store and Leyda Sestrap went to Calgary Normal School at the same time as the young lady who later became my wife. After teaching she went into the army having in the meantime studied medicine. I met Leyda many years later at the Menninger Foundation in Kansas, U.S.A. where I was also studying. She took up practice in Victoria under her married name of Lythgoe.

The manager of the lumber yard was a Scot named Sinclair and he and his wife were in terested in the church. The local druggist was an Anglican who used to pull teeth. He sold out to a family named Hayes who attended our church. Dr. Sommerville, fresh from medical school in Manitoba, bought his practice from Dr. Backus, who had built a house which was really too large for us, but we used it sometimes as a hospital. Backus eventually became a psychiatrist of some note in London, England. Dr. Sommerville's mother was the widow of a Methodist minister and she visited us from Manitoba.

There was a preaching point west of Eckville at Condor and I usually got a ride to it though sometimes I rode horseback. The Scott Hastie family had a store at Condor and were particular friends and church supporters. Mrs. Hastie, who was English and Anglican, was a great reader and hungry for good conversation. I held an occasional service at Leslieville which was further west. Further west still at Rocky Mountain House and Nordegg, Harry Lennox served one summer. He used to tell about one of the male members of his congregation turning up somewhat inebriated and having a difficult time finding the hymn number. In a stage whisper he asked, "where the hell is it?"

Once I was asked to conduct the funeral of a bachelor at a cemetery about three miles out in the country. It was 'Peggy' McDonald who drove me there in his open Gray Dort touring car. The roads were almost impassable due to rain and it took over an hour of slipping and sliding in the sticky clay to arrive at the cemetery. Before we left the car outside the cemetery fence "Peggy" asked me if I would like a bottle of beer. I told him that if I drank one, there might be a repetition of Hamlet's grave scene with me in the grave beside the corpse. When we stood at the graveside the rain pelted down and ran out of the bottom of my trouser legs. I don't think I have ever been more glad than I was that day to get back to Eckville still in one piece but soaked to the skin.

The summer of 1925 was a rather pleasant one for me since Dr. Sommerville and I got along well together. We remained friends throughout his lifetime. He became the Deputy Minister of Health for Alberta and was responsible for many of the good health measures in the province.

THE ALBERTA CENTRAL RAILWAY

The Alberta Central Railway got its start in May 1901 when the Dominion Government granted a charter to G. W. Smith, W. A. Moore and George W. Greene of Red Deer, D. J. Munn of New Westminster and John T. Moore, John Flett and Roger C. Clute of Toronto. Initially, the line was to run from Coal Banks (a point near the Content Bridge) to Red Deer, and then on to a point in Township 39, Range 7, West of the 5th (near present day Rocky Mountain House). Over the years the planned route was expanded west to the Fraser Valley via the Yellowhead Pass and east to Moose Jaw with a further extension to Saskatoon and on to Fort Churchill on the Hudson's Bay. In short, eventually it was planned that the A.C.R. become a "transcontinental" extending across the whole breadth of the prairies and on to the Pacific Coast.

For many years, very little happened with the A.C.R. Time extensions to the charter were granted by the Dominion Government in 1903, 1905 and 1907 but no surveys were made and no agreements were made with other railroads to buy or lease the charter and construct a railline. This is not to say that the A.C.R. was forgotten. J. T. Moore, who had become president of the company, had political ambitions and in the 1905 provincial election, he made a successful attempt to become Red Deer's first M.L.A. He also made an unsuccessful attempt to secure the Liberal nomination in the 1908 federal election. In both these campaigns Mr. Moore played up his role in the A.C.R. to garner votes, particularly in the Pine Lake, Burnt Lake, Evarts, Eckville and Leslieville areas. It was proposed that the A.C.R. would run through these districts, and a railroad would provide a much-needed boost in growth and development.

By the end of 1908 there was a growing cynicism about the continued promises of construction of the A.C.R. made by Mr. Moore, and a growing anger over the lack of any meaningful action. During the 1908 election campaign Mr. Moore sent an un-named surveyor to the area west of Red Deer, but this action did nothing to reduce the angry feelings because it appeared that this mysterious person was only putting survey stakes in politically sensitive areas in readily noticeable locations.

By December 1908 criticism of Mr. Moore and the A.C.R. became very loud and widespread. Mr. Dick Bleay, leader of the Medicine Valley Labor Party, organized a protest meeting at Evarts, where demands were made that either the A.C.R. begin construction immediately or sell its charter to another railroad, such as the C.P.R. or the Canadian Northern. A petition was circulated and signed by over 250 persons. The Red Deer Board of Trade held a special meeting on the A.C.R. and a motion was put forward asking the A.C.R. to give an option on its charter to any bona fide purchaser for the expenses of the charter up to a maximum of $10,000.

All this came at a critical time for the A.C.R. and Mr. Moore. The two-year extension to the charter that had been granted by the Dominion Government in 1907 was running out, thereby necessitating an application for another extension, and Mr. Moore was in the midst of a bid for reelection to the provincial legislature. Moore attempted to counter the criticism by claiming that the A.C.R. had discussed with the C.P.R. the possibility of an arrangement whereby construction of the line could be started in the near future. He also claimed that unnamed parties had offered to purchase the A.C.R.'s charter, but had been turned down because they would not guarantee that they would take steps to immediately start construction

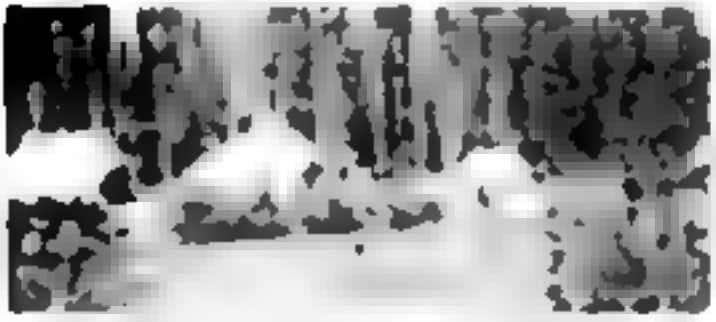
Eventually, Moore managed to persuade many of his critics to support the A.C.R. in its bid for one more extension to its charter. Although Moore himself lost in his bid for reelection to Edward Michener (the father of the former Governor-General, Roland Michener). In April 1909 the Dominion Government granted a two year extension to the A.C.R. charter and also agreed to offer a subsidy of $6400 per mile to a railway constructed between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House.

Greatly aided by this offer of a subsidy the A.C.R. now managed to find enough capital primarily in Great Britain to make it feasible for the company to start making concrete plans for construction. In the fall of 1909 and continuing in the spring of 1910, surveys were made in the area between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House, and by March 1910 the A.C.R. was able to file a route map with railway authorities in Ottawa. In May, a construction department of the company was formed and work began in the area west of the town of Red Deer and east of the Red Deer River.



In August of 1910, the Canadian Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier arrived in Red Deer together with G. P. Graham, Federal Minister of Railroads and A. L. Sifton the Premier of Alberta, to drive the first spike of the A.C.R. The ceremony took place at the proposed station grounds near the present-day location of Mountview School and was cut short by the sudden appearance of a summer rainstorm.

rest of the summer and early fall. Brushing and grading were carried out and starts were made on the bridges over the Red Deer River and Waskasoo Creek as well as a trench to drain off part of Burnt Lake. Several hundred men and teams were hired either by the Company itself or by small sub-contractors, and by October 1910, there were four main work camps in operation with some 300 to 350 men in each camp. These camps were located at the Red Deer River west of town, at Burnt Lake, at Evarts and at Pelcox (now Hespero). In November a camp was set up some four miles east of Eckville and another at Edwel.

For administrative purposes, the Company divided the area west of Red Deer into three divisions with a resident engineer in charge of each division. Mr. Robert G. Dawe was in charge of Division No. 1 which extended from Red Deer to Sylvan Lake. Mr. George S. MacKay was in charge of Division No. 2, which extended from Sylvan Lake to Evarts, and Mr. James M. Robertson was in charge of Division No. 3, which covered the area west of Evarts. Mr. J. Grant MacGregor was the chief engineer.

In the winter months of 1910 and 1911 some work continued with survey parties under Mr. Paget, Mr. Chalk and Mr. Woodbury working in the area west of Rocky Mountain House. Also gangs of men started work on the bridges across the Saskatchewan River at Rocky Mountain House and the Medicine River south of Eckville. However, the A.C.R. found itself in increasing difficulties. The Company, which had already spent over $3,000,000 by the end of 1910, was [illegible] to face a scarcity of funds. The sub[illegible] from the Dominion Government was slow in coming through, since payments were only made as each mile of construction was completed. There were heavy expenditures caused by the construction of the concrete and steel bridges across the Red Deer and Saskatchewan Rivers and by the maintenance of the very high quality of grade (.4% or 20 feet to the mile with curves of no more than three percent), to which the Company had committed itself in order to become a "transcontinental" line.

The shortage of funds was also complicated by the appearance of competition in the form of the Canadian Northern Western Railway which in late 1910 began construction of a rail line which paralleled the A.C.R.'s line from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House. This competition meant that the A.C.R. could not afford to delay construction, as this would mean forfeiting the better grades to the C.N.W.R. It also created a scarcity of available labour and materials, which forced up their cost. For example, the A.C.R. had been paying $2.50 a day for men (75¢ a day deducted for room and board) and $5.00 a day for men with teams. With the coming of the C.N.W.R. the A.C.R. found it necessary to pay $3.00 per day for men and $6.00 a day for men with teams. The cost of oats reached 80¢ a bushel at Rocky Mountain House and 35¢ a bushel at Red Deer in contrast to the 20¢ to 25¢ that a bushel of oats cost in Edmonton.

The A.C.R. faced numerous other problems, being that 1911 was an extremely wet year and this made the roads in the west country all but impassible. The heavy traffic brought about by the freighting done by the A.C.R. and the C.N.W.R. compounded the problem. As an illustration of the seriousness of the situation, an A.C.R. contractor had to use 10 horses to get a grader out on the main road west of Pitcox to a grading camp.

The A.C.R. was also plagued by illness among those who occupied its key management positions. John T. Moore's health deteriorated to the extent that he was no longer able to deal with the necessary detail work. Mathew Neilsen, the A.C.R.'s general manager and vice president came out from Montreal to take Mr. Moore's place, but came down with a fatal case of pneumonia.

In late March 1911, the Board of Directors of the A.C.R. decided not to rely on day labor and small sub-contractors any longer, and announced its intention to let out the contract for the balance of construction. An agreement was made by John T. Moore and J. Grant MacGregor with James McDonnell & Co., but the Board of Directors found McDonnell's price of $2,500,000 far too high. It ordered that the plans and specifications be amended and that a call for new tenders be made. In the meantime, the Company found itself so stranded for funds that it had to close down some of the work camps pending the result of an inquiry as to the status of the subsidy of the Dominion Government.

Finally on July 8, 1911 the Company awarded the contract to Duncan F. MacArthur of Winnipeg at the cost of $25,000 per mile for some 70 miles of construction. Immediately the pace of work picked up, with MacArthur starting up seven new grading camps in one week. The town sites at Benalto and Sylvan Lake were surveyed.

The flurry of activity was short lived, and by the end of 1911 the A.C.R. found itself completely unable to cope with its legal, administrative and financial problems. An informal agreement was made with the C.P.R. in December, 1911, and that company began to take over construction of the line. In January 1912, the C.P.R. began issuing the pay cheques on behalf of the A.C.R. and in December 1912 a formal agreement was drawn up whereby the C.P.R. leased the A.C.R.'s charter for 999 years.

For a while there was talk of the C.P.R. using the Alberta Central line as the main line from the prairies to the coast because of the high quality of the grade and because the C.P.R. was looking for ways of relieving pressure on its main line to the south. However, gradually it became apparent that the C.P.R. was really not interested in the A.C.R. line. Agreements were made with the C.N.W.R. for joint use of track near Rocky Mountain House and the bridge over the Saskatchewan River. Modifications were made to the grade and right-of-way in order to reduce construction costs, and it was not until August 1914 that the line from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House was finally completed.

The A.C.R. has left its mark on the Central Alberta area. It helped to open up a strip of farmland 60 miles long west of Red Deer and it provided homesteaders struggling to get started with both well-paying jobs to help get the money necessary to make it through the difficult early years and with ready markets for their produce. However it seems the line will not last much longer, as it is one of the rail lines slated to be abandoned in the near future.

THE CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAY

In 1908 and 1909, rich coal fields were discovered in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains west of Rocky Mountain House. In April, 1910, the German Development Company and Mackenzie & Mann, the railway magnates behind the Canadian Northern Railway, formed a company by the name of Brazeau Collieries to exploit these newly-found coal fields. Shortly thereafter, Mackenzie, Mann & Co. announced that they would construct a rail line from Stewartwyn, Stettler to the Brazeau coal fields in order to gain access to the holdings of the new company.

Mackenzie, Mann & Co. wasted very little time in getting started. By August 1910 they had presented to the federal railroad authorities for approval a route map, even though they had not done any significant surveying. Mackenzie, Mann & Co. were able to do this by borrowing heavily from surveys and plans made by the Alberta Central Railway in the winter of 1909 and 1910 which had been placed on file in Ottawa in March 1910. The proposed route of the C N R followed the A.C R 's line. In the meantime, approval was given to the C.N R 's planned route from Stewartwyn to Range 25

The C N R. was in no mood to slow down, and by September 23, it had pushed its grading to a point which was just east of Blackfalds and some 25 to 30 miles west of the limit of Range 25 set by the federal railroads authorities. It also dispatched parties of surveyors to work on a new route west of Blackfalds By November 9, these surveyors had progressed as far as Eckville

In late November 1910, Mackenzie, Mann & Co. decided to seek a charter from the provincial government, in part to avoid some of the entanglements with the federal railroad authorities and in part to secure a bonding power of $35,000 per mile Previously they had been relying on a charter granted to a subsidiary company, the Alberta Midland Railway and a Dominion charter granted to the German Development Company As might be expected, the bill to grant the charter caused stormy debate in the Alberta Legislature, particularly from those who were friendly to the Alberta Central Railway However, the carter was eventually granted with the name of the new railway to be "The Canadian Northern Western Railway Co." The provisional directors were F.H Phippen, Gerard G Ruel, George F Macdonnell, Reginald Temple and J H. Phippen. These men held only 60 of the 20,000 shares in the new company with Mackenzie, Mann & Co. holding the rest. The charter also expressly allowed the C.N.W R. to make agreements with the Canadian Northern Railway to sell or lease the line

In February 1911, the surveys were practically completed to Rocky Mountain House and the Provincial government agreed to guarantee the bonds of the C.N.W R. The Northern Construction Co. a subsidiary of Foley, Welch and Stewart, in which Mackenzie, Mann, & Co had an interest was given the contract for the construction west of Red Deer

For the months of March and April, the Northern Construction Co. devoted itself to freighting in necessary construction materials before the roads broke up in the spring Surveyors were also sent out to put in the grade stakes along the line

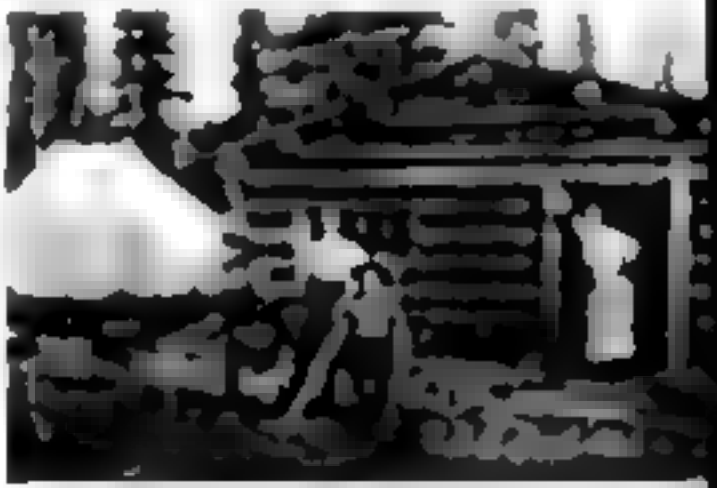
At the beginning of May the Northern Construction Co began grading and brushing work north of Red Deer and west towards Sylvan Lake Camps were quickly established all along the line. There were four camps set up within a short distance of Eckville alone, and two quite large ones were set up at Lesliеville By mid May the Northern Construction Co. had some 2300 teams and more than that number of men at work west of Red Deer

While all this feverish work was going on, the C N W R. was busy locating possible station sites at Sylvan Lake, a site belonging to M. Matchet which was two miles south of Old Eckville NW 15-39-3 W5 and a site at Lesliеville (S 26-38-5 W5 The Canadian Northern announced that it was investigating the possibility of erecting a mammoth summer hotel at Sylvan Lake

The work on the C N W R was not without its problems and delays. The years 1911 and 1912 were extremely wet and the roads were very bad hereby making the movement of men, horses, equipment and construction materials very difficult The C N W R often faced legal problems with trespass because of an inability to secure the right-of way fast enough. At one point, the C N.W R faced five restraining injunctions from the Saskatchewan Land & Homestead Company alone

The C N W R was also involved in extremely fierce competition with the Alberta Central Railway, whose line it paralleled. The A.C.R sought and received injunctions preventing the C N W R. from crossing its properties, particularly in the Rocky Mountain House area. The C.N W R. where possible put its grade up to six feet above the A.C R. grades where the two lines

There were a few incidents of violence between the men of the two companies. In late October 1910, a survey crew of the C.N W R. got involved in a prolonged fist fight with an A.C R crew which the Red Deer Advocate described as a near riot Later in 1911 a C N.W R crew tossed into a nearby slough several A C R. constables who were guarding the A.C.R. right-of way The A.C.R. responded by having the C N W R men arrested, transported to Red Deer and left there to find their own way back out west



By July 1911, the Northern Construction Co had begun to lay steel and by September 8 they had reached the Blindman River, where they were held up by a court injunction granted to the Saskatchewan Land and Homestead Company and by the need to build a large trestle across the river valley. By October, the C.N.W.R. had managed to have all the court injunctions along its line removed and the laying of steel continued rapidly sometimes at a rate of three miles a day. By late October steel had reached Sylvan [illegible].

Once freeze-up came, the Northern Construction Co. continued to blast some cuts between Eckville and Lestieville. The last of the grading was finished up and a decision was made to lay some of the steel over muskeg in order to help move in supplies for the next year's work. Government surveyors were hired to survey the C.N.W.R. townsites at Sylvan Lake, Eckville and Lestieville and in February 1912, people began to move out of the old village of Eckville to the C.N.W.R. townsite. Forhan and Clausen were the first to build a store in the new town but by mid March 25 lots had been sold and there were a few stores and two pool rooms in operation at the townsite. Not everyone was happy about the move. The Eckville correspondent to the Red Deer Advocate complained that the new townsite was a place of "open on Sunday" pool rooms and "seven day" stores. He advised a change of name to Cripple Creek. Actually, the name Sakatoo was used by the railroad for some time as a name for the new town.

With the coming of spring, construction of the line moved ahead rapidly and by April steel had reached Lestieville. A phone line was built alongside the line as far as Eckville and by June some people were shipping freight in and out over the new line. On June 10, 1912 the line was completed to Rocky Mountain House, with J. H. Bertrand driving the last spike at that point.

For the rest of 1912 and 1913, the C.N.W.R. was pushed on to the Brazeau coal fields. Ballasting of the track and construction of station grounds were carried out between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House. Repairs were made to the track at points where the rapid construction of the line was all too evident. For example the trestle at Poplar Ridge sank three feet shortly after it was built and heavy rains severly damaged the track in the Lestieville area.

By March 1914, trains were running every day, regular shipments of coal from Nordegg began to be made. It was in August 1914 that the whole line was officially completed.

The C.N.W.R. became eventually part of the Canadian National Railway system, and like the A.C.R. line to the south, it helped the farmers by opening up the country between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House. Among the many people who helped work on the road were such contractors as Mike Madden, H. J. Griffith, F. M. Mahon, Boomer and Hughes, Carrol and Harvey and W. D. Maxey. Local contractors such as A. Eckford, Capt. Dominique and Henry Reinholt, as well as such lumber outfits as McDougall and Martin, Walsh Bros. and Wright and F. R. Pettepher did a lot of work for the C.N.W.R. Right-of-way agents were G. A. Mantell and R. [illegible]ohnston. Some of the doctors who worked for the C.N.W.R. were Drs. Collison and Grey at Red Deer and Dr. Honey at Eckville.

HISTORY OF THE BRAZEAU SUBDIVISION OF THE CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS
by W. J. Bothwell

The Brazeau subdivision of the Canadian National Railways, on which Eckville is situated at mileage 85.7, was constructed by the Canadian Northern Western Railway, a subsidiary of the Canadian Northern Railway. The Canadian Northern Railway placed most of their construction contracts with the noted financiers Mackenzie and Mann who in turn sub-contracted the [illegible].

A more substantial fuel than that being used on the prairies was required for the winters and there was an abundance of coal along the eastern Rockies and in the Red Deer Valley where Drumheller was the central point. Lines were constructed from Drumheller to principal connecting points such as Drumheller-Vegreville (for Edmonton) a distance of 173 miles, opened November 29, 1911, Aisask-Munson Jct (for Saskatoon), 222 miles, opened October 27 1911, and Drumheller-Calgary, 85 miles, opened February 12, 1914. These lines ensured that Drumheller and it's coal fields were adequately served, and the Canadian Northern turned it's interest to the Brazeau coal fields which were situated in close proximity to the Bighorn Range. As a further inducement to the railroads, a Federal subsidy was offered for a railway to these coal fields. Mackenzie and Mann obtained this and then built the line elsewhere, originating their line at Warden, 64 miles north of Drumheller on the Drumheller-Vegreville line and it was completed as follows in Fig. 1

In 1921 Alix South Jct became the Junction of the Brazeau and Three Hills subdivisions. Mirror became the home terminal and originating point for trains to the Brazeau subdivision and still is.

An interesting story was that there was a "race" between the CNWR and CPR to reach Brazeau, the latter having taken over from the Alberta Central Railway in 1911 during the construction of their line to reach the Brazeau coal fields. I do not know how much credence may be placed in this story, but when the CNWR reached Brazeau in 1914, the CPR had only arrived at a point between Saunders and Alexo. They ceased immediately the grading of their roadbed at that point. I have seen this final abrupt point of the roadbed and it may still be seen. The CPR however stole a march on the CNWR when their surveyors were surveying prior to building from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House and across the North Saskatchewan river. They had selected the best site for the railway bridge. The CNWR would now have to build a bridge next to it or go much farther west to find a suitable location which would necessitate much more capital. This seemed unwise considering that the bridge would cost about a quarter-million dollars while one bridge could easily handle all the traffic of both railways. The subsequent negotiations resulted finally in a grant of running rights over the bridge to the CNWR, by the CPR and for which they must remunerate the CPR in accordance with the terms of the lease. The bridge, which is located on a six-mile stretch of joint trackage from Otway to Ullin Junction, is owned and maintained by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Brazeau Collieries opened in 1914. The man most responsible for the formation of this Company was Martin Nordegg, whose family name was Cohn and changed to Nordegg after his arrival in Canada in 1906 from Germany.

Martin Nordegg came to Canada with a great deal of German investors' money. He was backed by German financiers and businessmen and a syndicate set up to finance him. He passed up other opportunities to speculate and decided to invest in Alberta coal fields, some of which he was to discover himself.

Nordegg first discovered, staked and filed claims to the South Brazeau, Race Creek and Bighorn coal fields and later the Nordegg coal basin in 1910-11 which turned out to be the more important field as he had forseen. In the latter, several geologists had seen the dark streaks or coal strata in the southern mountain of the two mountains forming the well-known gap, but had failed to realize the meaning as Nordegg had

Nordegg was soon in a successful partnership with the widely known promoters, Mackenzie and Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway Within six years, he had a complete coal-mining operation working which produced 155, 322 tons of coal in their first year of commercial operations, 1915. In Martin Nordegg's last year at the mines, they produced 261,156 tons. He also had a town named after him which still bears his name The railway station was originally named Nordegg also but altered to Brazeau during the first world war

In all probability the most successful of all the Canadian Northern undertakings were the coal s. It was a matter of only months after completion of the lines that they were moving large volumes of coal and of which the Nordegg coal was only a small portion

Nordegg coal was considered to be of a good grade and probably the best grade for coke Briquettes were also made from this coal. Nordegg coal was eagerly sought by the railroads for use in their steam locomotives Most of the coal produced at Nordegg was used by the Canadian Northern Railway and by settlers living near the Canadian Northern Railway s prairie lines

The coal movement from Nordegg in particular but also the coal from Saunders and Anexo to a much lesser extent, formed the largest carload movement on the CNR Brazeau subdivision at that time. This coal traffic continued until 1955 when the last coal mine in Nordegg closed although the volume had been decreasing since the first mine closed in 1948. Between these years the coal industry faced many problems including a post war decline and a drop in domestic and international coal markets The change from coal burning steam engines to diesel-electric locomotives on the railways doomed the Brazeau mines, which had been opened specifically to supply Canadian Northern locomotives with coal

Lumber was also one of the commodities moved by carload but I have been unable to ascertain the volume of this traffic

Following is a synoptical history of the Canadian Northern Western Railway

CANADIAN NORTHERN WESTERN RAILWAY

INCLUDED IN CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAY CO AFTER AMALGAMATION

INCORPORATION December 5, 1910. The Canadian Northern Western Railway was incorporated under the laws of Alberta, Act 1, Geo. V Chapter 48, Statutes of 1910. to build certain lines in the Province of Alberta

CAPITAL STOCK Prior to amalgamation The amount of capital stock was Authorized 60,000 shares—par value $100-$6,000,000. Issued 20,000 shares — par value $100-$2,000,000. The issued stock was pledged as security for the Dominion Guaranteed Debenture stock

BONDS 1). 4½% First Mortgage Guaranteed Debenture Stock and Bonds The amount authorized was $2,851.750 of which $6.424,000 was issued and held by the public Date of maturity was February 16, 1942 This issued was guaranteed by the Province of Alberta

(2) 4½% First Mortgage Guaranteed Debenture Stock and Bonds. The amount authorized was $2,851.750 of which $2,799.997 73 was issued and held by the public Date of maturity was October 22. 1943. This issue was guaranteed by the Province of Alberta

(3) 4% Debentures. This issue was a charge on the Canadian Northern Western Railway to the extent of $2,124.164 for which supplementary indentures had been drawn up and pledged as security under the 4% Dominion Guaranteed Debenture stock

DECLARATORY Works and undertaking declared to be works for the general advantage of Canada - Dominion Act 4-5, Geo. V Chapter 20. 1914, P C. 443. February 20. 1917

HISTORY Under Act 1, per foregoing, Canadian Northern Western Railway Company was incorporated to construct and operate a railway from Edmonton or Strathcona to Pine or Peace River Pass also a line from the Canadian Northern Railway between Edmonton and Calgary to Rocky Mountain House to Brazeau and McLeod Rivers, with branches to coal areas, etc Dominion P C 443, February 20. 1917 declared the Railway for the advantage of Canada and open for traffic

AMALGAMATION Many smaller railroads which had become financially troubled and or bankrupt had already been taken over by the Canadian Government and were known as the Canadian Government Railways. During 1915 and 1916 two of the largest railways, the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern and their subsidiaries, were in serious financial trouble A Royal Commission known as the Drayton Acworth Report recommended by a 2-1 majority vote of the three-man committee, that both railways be acquired and operated by the Canadian Government. This report was tabled in Parliament in May 1917. In August, the Government passed legislation to acquire the stock, the price of which was to be decided by a board of arbitration. In December, 1918, a new Board of Directors was appointed and took over management of the "Canadian Government Railways" including the Canadian Northern Railway and it's subsidiaries.

An Order-in-Council, P.C. 3122 dated December 20, 1918, was passed and this was the first official use of the title, Canadian National Railways, by the Board of Directors.

In the meantime, the Grand Trunk Railway held out against the Government until March 1919, when the railway went into receivership and in November, 1919, was taken over by the Government. Again, a Board of Arbitration settled the cost factor and in January 1920, the Grand Trunk Railway was operated by the Board of Directors of Government Railways.

here appears to be a confusion as to the date of complete amalgamation. This is probably due mainly to the matter of legal technicalities of some titles and including same in the corporate name of Canadian National Railway Company. For all intents and purposes the final amalgamation is considered to have been in early 1923.

The mixed train service which was operated on the Brazeau subdivision by the Canadian National Railways for many years was discontinued in early 1959. These trains were known as No. 319 in the Westward direction and No. 320 in the Eastward direction.

The last steam locomotive to pass through Eckville was number 2139 on Train Extra 2139 east, March 13, 1959. The first diesel-electric locomotive to pass through Eckville was No. 1043 on Train Extra 1043 west, March 16, 1959. I took pictures of these locomotives and same are accompanying this history.

The Brazeau subdivision has always been a busy line in carload traffic and in recent years the volume has been increasing steadily through the movement of new commodities.

The construction of the propane facility at Elspeth was completed in December, 1967. The first car of propane shipped was on December 26, 1967, consigned to Continental Oil Company at Thief River Falls, Minnesota. The average number of cars shipped from this facility is fourteen cars per week.

The pipeline system bringing propane to Elspeth originated at Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas Co. Ltd., Sylvan Lake Gas Processing Plant located six miles south on Diamond Valley road from Highway 11 and one mile west. It was subsequently extended to the HBOG Caroline Gas Plant located approximately twenty miles west of Bowden. Propane from Chevron Standard Plant two miles south of Elspeth also is marketed through Elspeth. The pipeline system for propane terminates at Elspeth. HBOG provided the pipeline and loading facility at Elspeth and operates same. Propane for all shareholders in the three Gas Plants is handled there although some of the companies involved market their own share of the product. HBOG handles and loads cars for these companies. Allan Russell has operated this Elspeth terminal since it was built and is still doing so. This propane loading facility is located at mileage 57.6 on the CNR Brazeau subdivision.

Having been unable to obtain information in connection with the Texaco Exploration Canada Ltd., propane loading dock at mileage 64.5 Brazeau subdivision, I can only say that I believe it was built in 1969-70 and that the first cars of propane shipped were two cars on October 22, 1970, destined Melville, Saskatchewan.

There is another propane loading dock on the Brazeau subdivision at mileage 93.9, Lochearn. The Company concerned is Amerada Petroleum Corporation.

The CNR station in Eckville was built in 1912 It was stuccoed in 1945 with electricity being installed at that time Additions and improvements were made to the living quarters which were provided for the agent, over the years including connection to the town water system when the town undertook this project My wife, Hester, son Craig, daughter Diane, and myself lived in the living quarters during our sixteen years in Eckville

I have been unable to obtain the names of all CNR station agents who have worked and served Eckville and district in the Eckville station, but following are those I can recall

Mr Barnett dates unknown but understand he was agent in Eckville for 25 years probably up to 1950-51

A H Elliott approximately three years 950-51 to 1954

E R. Rogers three years, 1954 to 1956

W J Rothwell 16 years, 1956 to 1972. Retired in 1972 but returned to work each summer in Eckville station until July 18, 1975, on which date I had the unpleasant duty of closing the Eckville station permanently

F A Theberge One year 1972-73

M. Medved. Two years, 1973-75

The only section foremen of the CNR at Eckville whom I can recall are: R T Stout 1951 1962; G. Gillis, 1962-1963 M Rogutski 1963-1970. R T Stout 1970-1972 His return to Eckville gave Bob a total of 12 years there. , G. Brzak 1972-to present date

In my railroad career, I witnessed many events, both tragic and otherwise. One event which was the most unusual occurred on the Brazeau subdivision. In 1972, two empty propane cars which were in the Elspeth yard, mileage 57.6, in some way started moving, which indicated that brakes were not set. ran through the west switch and onward along the main line westward. The section men on their motor car eastbound were rounding a curve when they saw these two cars approaching and had time only to jump off the track motor car to save their lives The motor car upon impact with the two propane cars did not leave the rails and continued on with the runaway cars, being pushed. The section foreman on motor car was Bob Stout who had to walk a considerable distance to a farm house to notify CNR of this and they in turn informed me It was a peculiar sight as they passed my office window and one person came in soon after and said that it was the first time he had seen a railway motor car pulling two tank cars. There was a train coming from the west and while I knew there was practically no chance of these cars being able to climb hills near Withrow and Lesliville, especially the latter I had to take the precaution of having the train use the necessary protection which I did through the elevator agent, A Dennis at Lesliville by telephone. A collision could easily have resulted in a catastrophe and when you think of two runaway tank cars together with the possibility of motor vehicles passing over unprotected private crossings it was a matter of great concern However the two tank cars stalled on the first hill at mileage 66.0 near Wilbrow , rolled back down the hill and came to a stop. They had travelled a distance of 10.4 miles. The train pushed them into the Eckville yard. I have a picture of these two motorless runaway cars. All is well that ends well.

During 1973-1975, the Canadian National Railways re-built their roadbed on the Brazeau subdivision and installed 100-125 pound main line ribbon steel bringing it up to near main line level. This was necessary in order to handle the large amount of traffic in 100 ton cars and 90 or more cars per train. such as the sulphur from Aquitaine Plant and propane from Elspeth and Eckville. The CNR now operates unit trains on the Brazeau subdivision with several engines according to the tonnage of traffic to be handled

Eckville is a busy town on a busy railway line Caution at railway crossings is essential as the trains now operate at a higher rate of speed than we had become accustomed to

HISTORY OF POSTAL SERVICES OF ECKVILLE, ALBERTA

In the early 1900's, as settlers were gradually moving westward from the main Calgary Edmonton line. mail facilities were called for with the result that in the year 1903 plans were made for a post office that was to become the centre of Eckville

Mr Eckford. a homesteader and one of the progressive type, erected a suitable building to house the post office and a trading post on his land, and then looked for a man to operate both of them for the benefit of the community [illegible] made plans for the building, Mr Eckford obtained permission to operate a post office so that when Mr John Killick, a young Englishman not long out from the old country was chosen as the businessman to operate the post office and store authority and supplies arrived in the name of Eckford Post Office. Mr Eckford, considering the name too personal. changed it to Eckville – a name which has since become well known throughout the country

about a mile northeast of the present town of Eckville. a spot known for many years as Liberty Hall Corner, just west of the J Onofryszyn residence

Mail was first hauled from the Evarts post office. about 12 miles southeast, by the late Mr A B Koski. Two years later the mail contract was taken over by Mr F Kinna. Mr Kinna later hauled the mail from Red Deer for several years

In those days, travel was very different. as rivers and creeks had to be forded muskegs were numerous. and roads were only trails that led to the west so no doubt many difficulties were experienced before mail or other supplies reached the settlers

Mr Killick gave up the post office in 1906 and moved 30 miles west. to Rocky Mountain House where he operated a general store for more than 47 years. Following his departure, the Eckville post office was taken over by Mr R Brunsenaede who carried on until 1911

In 1910 the country west of Red Deer was being rapidly developed, with farming, timber and coal mines which called for transportation To fill this need, the C P R. and the C N.R. both built railway lines west to Rocky Mountain House, with the C N.R going 60 miles further west to the coal fields at Nordegg

When the railway went past Eckville in 1911 the trading centre and post office was moved from Old Eckville to its present site, and the late Mr O M. Forhan was pos master and storekeeper from 1911 until 1918. Mr C. S Crosby was postmaster from 1918 until 1925 when he was succeeded by Mr W E. Hayes, who carried on for about a year Mr Daniel Clausen now deceased, then took over the position and was postmaster for 24 years — until he retired in 1[illegible]

Mr Clausen saw the greatest changes take place with the village growing rapidly for about ten years, until the district had a complete line of services that few other villages of its size had to offer. As land was cleared and roads were being built, the population of the district increased, calling for extra mail services, so that in 1928 the first rural mail delivery was inaugurated and later this was increased to three routes which served about 300 farm families with mail service three times a week.

About 1937 daily mail delivery was given to Eckville. By this time both railway trains were hauling mail. The trains travelled on alternate days, thus giving a great improvement in the mail service, which had previously been three times a week.

Mr Clausen and his staff saw the change that took post office employees into the Civil Service in 1948. This was a great step forward for the employees because it gave them better working conditions, regular hours, holidays with pay, and a steady salary according to average work performed.

When Mr Clausen retired in 1950, his assistant, Mrs. M. K. Schofer took charge for seven months until the position was filled late in the same year by Gordon McNeil, who is still the postmaster in 1977. Fifty years of progress have seen many changes and many moves from the first little office that was only a corner in a pioneer store to the present large modern office. The post office was moved to the present building in September, 1966, from its former location in the building now occupied by Rhode's Radio and TV.

The latest improvement in mail service has been that the mail delivery from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House was changed from rail travel to Motor Transport in September, 1955. A daily schedule gives the most regular and fastest service possible between Eckville and the main city points. Of course, these improvements, and others, must be paid for. Postage rates for letters have risen from three cents in the pioneer days to the cost of 12 cents for mailing a letter in Canada in 1977, and the end is not in sight.

EARLY RELIGIOUS SERVICES AT ECKVILLE AND CONDOR — by Reverend J Mayne

In 1926 I was appointed by the Board of Home Missions of the United Church of Canada to the Student Mission Field at Eckville and Condor. My experience there was fairly successful, although church attendance at both places could have been better. I had learned from previous experience not to be discouraged on Sundays when the congregations were small. I boarded at the McDonald home in Eckville and was well taken care of in that way. Generally after I had been a few weeks on a Field, I would hear of the previous students, and could judge in that way how my work was going. I do not remember hearing such comments on the Eckville-Condor Charge, and had to be content.

On all my student mission fields I did considerable visitation and thus got better acquainted with the people, some of whom never came to the services. On one such visit in Condor district the man considered himself above attending the service — or, was it below? We had a considerable amount of discussion but neither was able to persuade the other to his way of thinking. I think I could find the house where we lived, but I have forgotten the name.

At Condor there was a small but active Orange Lodge. On the twelfth of July there was a meeting in the morning which I attended as I was a member of the Order. The parade at Condor was small, compared with ones I had seen in other places, particularly Northern Ireland where I had lived until coming to Canada at the age of fifteen.

For transportation on Sundays and during the week I used a bicycle. On two wet Sundays I started to walk to Condor on the railway track. The Section man was out with his hand car and gave me a ride almost to Condor. When the weather cleared I again used my bicycle.

At that time the late Mr. William Aberhart was beginning his preaching. I was not personally interested in his line of thought. One or two of the Condor congregations, perhaps more, I felt were drawn to Mr. Aberhart.

Bill Bradshaw, of Alhambra, was doing high school work in Eckville at this time and he was boarding with me at McDonald's. I was invited to his home on two or three occasions and had a very pleasant time, as Bill's parents were very kind to me. Several years later I read in the paper that Bill had been killed in a highway accident, but I never learned any of the details.

Nineteen twenty-six was fifty-one years ago so I do not remember many names. Scott and Mrs. Hastie and Peter "Wink" Ormie McKee and Laura Porter were some at Condor. Doctor and Mrs. Sommerville, the McDonalds, and Joe Marshall come to my mind at Eckville.

A Sports Day was held in Eckville and for me the specialty was the bicycle race. About half an hour before this race was to start a young lad asked to borrow my bicycle for a few minutes. I let him have it and away he went, not to return until the race was over. Bill Bradshaw insisted on me using his bike. An older boy had his bike fixed with a larger gear to enable him to go faster. However he was not strong enough to push it for the one-mile distance of the race. At the three-quarter mark I looked back and the nearest rider was at the half-mile mark. I coasted the rest of the way and it was announced that I had done the mile in four minutes. Had I known that I was being timed, I could easily have completed the mile in less time.

ST PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH — by Mr T E. Curran

The history of St Paul's Presbyterian Church dates back to 1920 when the original building a school house located one mile north of town, was bought for a community church and moved to the site where the present church stands. The title was held by several interested people in the town. Rev. W G. Brown, the Presbyterian minister in Red Deer, was a promoter of the [illegible], of Toronto was the first student minister, coming in May 1922. He stayed for the summer in the Dr Backus home, now the Roy Saari home. Next came a blind minister who took the services at Sylvan Lake, Evarts, and Eckville.

In 1921 the "Ladies Auxiliary to the Eckville Community Church" was organized. The Charter Members were Mrs. Helmbecker, Mrs. Coughlin, Mrs. Litt, Mrs. J. M. McDonald and Miss Tompson. During the year they donated one hundred and twenty-five dollars towards purchase of the church building, held an ice cream and strawberry social, bought and varnished the benches in the church, had a refreshment booth at the baseball tournament and put on a chicken supper at which they charged fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for [illegible].

When the vote was taken for church union in 1925 there were four votes for union and one opposed. Under the United Church student ministers were included, Mr Mayne from Edmonton, Mr Wilson from Toronto and Mr LaCorow from Newfoundland. A two-room shack moved on to the church grounds served as accommodation for the student ministers. Then for a few years there were no church services and the building was rented by the school board to be used as a school.

Unable to continue, the United Church recommended that the Eckville parish be returned to the Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church. The first Presbyterian student Mr Harold Corky arrived from Ireland for the spring and summer of 1931. He travelled by bicycle, and saddle horse before obtaining a light delivery truck for fifty dollars from Red Deer, which he learned to drive on the return trip to Eckville.

Summer, 1932, brought Mr Hartley Casler from Ontario. In 1933 Mr Essler was sent out to the Eckville field. He lived in Benalto during the summer as it seemed more central. In 1935 Mr Malcolm McLean was the student minister. He remained here until the fall of the following year.

He was followed by Mr Duncan Campbell. During his ministry Benalto instead of Centreville became associated with Eckville and Hespero, a manse was built on the church grounds, a church was built at Hespero and the use of the church in Eckville for a school room was discontinued. The ladies changed the name of their organization to Eckville Church Ladies Aid.

Mr T M. Fraser came in 1941. It was during his ministry that the trees were planted on the church property and the grounds were fenced. The early 1940's brought a dedicated deaconess, Miss Ruby Walker, who travelled to Rocky Mountain House to give religious instruction to outlying schools and formed a young people's group and a Mission Band, as well as conducting services.

The first ordained minister to be called to Eckville was Rev Fred Howick, who came in 1946. Up to this time the church had been run by the Ladies' Aid and a board of managers. Now a Kirk Session was elected and the Eckville Church was given the name St Paul's. The title to the church was transferred from the United Church to the Presbyterian Church.

During the late 1940's an evening group of the Ladies' Aid was organized for those who could not attend afternoon meetings. They have continued to carry on the work of supporting the church started by the senior group. Their turkey supper put on every fall has become a community attraction and a tradition.

The new church building was started in 1960 and dedicated in 1962. Many volunteers from the community assisted in excavating, pouring concrete, and constructing the new building. The old building was sold to Eric Korhonen who now uses it as his residence. A mortgage burning ceremony was held in 1971 and the Eckville and Hespero charges were united in 1974. Plans are now being made for the construction of a new manse on a lot purchased on 53rd Street.

Other ministers, students and deaconesses who have served in our Church include Mr A V Bentum, Mr R L. Bacon, Mr Forbes, Mr M Coles, Mr C F McGregor, Rev Kingsley King, Rev D L. Crecker, Rev. Wm. Klempa, Mr K. C

On February 5, 1921 an organizational mee ing was held at the home of Mrs Heinbecker to form a church auxiliary Mrs Heinbecker was acting chairman and Miss Thompson acted as secretary The name chosen for the auxiliary was "The Ladies Auxiliary to the Eckville Community Church The ladies present at this meeting were: Mrs. Heinbecker Mrs Coughlin, Mrs. (Dr ) Backus, Mrs O'Brien Mrs Herring Mrs. Litt, Mrs. Garries and Miss Thompson

On February 25, 1921, the first meeting of the new organization was held at the home of Mrs Heinbecker The members enrolling in the club at this first meeting were. Mrs Heinbecker Mrs. Coughlin, Mrs. Litt, Mrs McDonald and Miss Thompson. Mrs Heinbecker was [illegible] president, Mrs. McDonald as secretary and Mrs Coughlin as treasurer

Junior members who became members of the club in April, 1921 were Jessie Orr, Olga Mackie Edith Smith, Edith Herring, Olive Garries and Rosa Hansen. At the end of the first year there were 18 members belonging to the club

In August, 1921, $30 worth of lumber was purchased from Wilson Lumber to build church seats. W H Johnson hauled 10 loads of gravel for the foundation of the church at a cost price of $18

The ladies held a chicken supper in the fall of 1921. They charged 50¢ per adult and 25¢ for small children Proceeds $29

The ladies were very busy through the years [illegible] money raising projects were: grab bag sales guessing contests, sale of candy and home-made flowers, lunch at the annual meeting, social evenings, suppers, plays, St. Patricks teas booth at the Sports Day and ball tournament strawberry and ice-cream socials' lawn suppers pie socials, birthday socials, bazaars, lunch at the home cooking contest at the school, on elec tion day, ploughing bees, auction sales, Jubilee tea induction service, catered to Sestrap s wed ding reception, goose auction and held an old maids convention

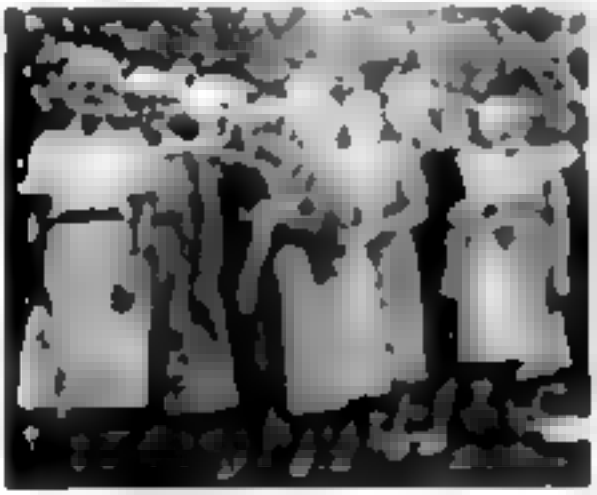
At a social evening in 1925, the adies decided to have a sawdust pie. They collected 100 articles and had one pie for 10¢ articles and one for 20¢ ar ticles. I believe it is similar to our fish pond

Many months they held two meetings as there was a lot of organizing to do

In February ,1928, the name of the society was changed to the "Ladies Auxiliary of the Eckville United Church

In March, 1929, a cabin was purchased from Mrs Dahl for $125 and moved onto the church lots to be used by the studen minister later it was rented out for $5 per month

In 1936, because of the change in the church denomination to Presbyterian, the auxiliary name was changed to "The Eckville Church Ladies Aid



Many of the charities the ladies supported were teas for ladies who were not members donations of money and clothing to the Womens Missionary Society donated articles toward the Post Office, handkerchief showers for new comers, reception for Mr Clarihue, donations to he choir CGIT, Camp Kannawin and the Mis sion Band pantry shower for minister scholarships for students to attend school at

They acted as judges of home cooking at the school, held picnics, made payments on the mortgage on the old church, new church, old manse, paid insurance on church and transferred deed on old church

Built chimney in cabin, painted church and cabin, varnished seats, fenced around church purchased chairs, hymn books and song books for church, built cupboards in the manse Donated often toward minister's stipend. They did a lot of visiting to the sick and shut-ins, gave farewell gifts to ministers and hospital patients They made quilts for needy families, for the Red Cross and donated a quilt to Camp Kannawin

The ladies decorated the church for Easter Mother's Day Thanksgiving and Christmas

It all amounted to many hours of work and time given to the church and community The Ladies Aid decided to try to organize a younger womens group which was formed in January 1948. The Senior Ladies group disbanded in 1966

ST PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN "EVENING GROUP" — Eckville — by Verna Parsell

In January 8, 1948, Mrs. Crocker reported to the Senior Ladies Aid of St Paul's that a meeting was to be held to form a Junior Group of St Paul's Church Charter members of the Junior Group included Mrs Jean Stopsen, Mrs Crocker Mrs. Myral Sestrap, Mrs Ann McIntyre Mrs. Esther Yeo plus several more we do not have a record of Mrs. Jean Stopsen is still a member of our group and the only one of the original charter members

We do not have any records of the first 10 but no doubt they were busy worthwhile years with lots of activities. One of which was a play, put on in 1952 by members of the Group to help raise money

Ten meetings were held during the year with no meetings held during July and August unless some important event came up and then executive meetings were held Memberships have been as high as 26 and as low as 16. A highlight of 1959 was the group visit to CKRD-TV program "Late Breakfast" A play was also put on in 1958 with the proceeds going to the building fund for the new church. Rev Sheldon MacKenzie was the minister at St Paul's at that time and he also took part in this play Members served a turkey dinner as well as morning and afternoon coffee to the 30 some men who turned out to help pour the cement for the new church basement in June 1960 Church services were held in what is now "Carriti's Hardware Store until the church basement was able to be used before the upstairs completed. Dedication of the new church was held on April 12, 1962 with the guest speaker being the Rev Peter Walters, a former minister at St Paul's Deaconess Miss Iris Ford was minister at that time and put a tremendous amount of effort into the dedication Iris has since been ordained a Presbyterian Minister in January 19, 1978, after many years of study and hard work Being a very dedicated person, she

Group served a dinner and lunch for this special Dedication Service

Several missionaries and deaconesses have invited to speak at our meetings over the and their experiences have proven very interesting Members of the group have done volunteer visiting to the sick and shut-ins and at one time visited all new-comers to the town and district

The group have helped financially in conjunction with the Ladies Aid and the Hespero Presbyterian Ladies Aid with the up-keep of the manse as well as buying furnishings, cleaning and painting the manse at various times when needed. As well they have made several donations to help pay off the mortgages on the old manse which was finally paid off in 1965

Our group has given financial assistance to the church youth groups such as C.O.C.'s, Explorers C.G.I.T. and the Sunday school and have sponsored girls to various camps. Members also assist with Mother and Daughters banquets. Among the several fund raising projects over the years have been putting on plays, rummage sales, bake sales, bazaars and teas as well as our main annual event the turkey supper. Twenty two of these suppers have been held up to date. We have also served lunch after funerals and at auction sales and helped with the beef barbecue sponsored by the church board.

The Junior Group worked in conjunction with the Senior Ladies Aid in several of their activities until the Seniors disbanded in January 1968. Since then, we call our Group "St. Paul Evening Group". Mrs. J. M. McDonald and Mrs. Cummings attended our meetings for many years and so became our Honorary Members. Some early memories of the group were contributing home baking and canning to our many single student ministers. We also have hosted dinners for several W.M.S. and Presbytery meetings, hosted and took part in World Day of Prayer Services, served lunches for Induction and Recognition Services for new ministers as well as taking part in clean-up bees and financial aid to Camp Kanawan. Also have helped with T.B. x-ray clinics in Town.

In December, 1970, the Evening Group donated $1000 to the Church Board to finish paying off the mortgage on the church. A Mortgage Burning Ceremony was held in April 18, 1971, with Rev. Sheldon MacKenzie of Newfoundland, a former minister here and very instrumental in getting the new church program started, as guest speaker.

After the new church was built, a Memorial fund was started to help pay for an electric organ. The latest venture has been the building of a new Presbyterian Church Manse in Eckville. A tremendous amount of volunteer labour has been put into this by the men of the church and several of our group have painted and cleaned. Rev. George Macdonald, our present minister, came to us from Nova Scotia and he moved into this new Manse in February, 1978. An Induction Service is to be held April 16, 1978, with which the Ladies will be assisting.

Our group presented Mrs. J. M. McDonald with a Life Membership and pin in the W.M.S. for her many years of faithful service to both rounds. It was presented to her at the 50th An eldest member of the church. Mrs. J. M. McDonald and the youngest member, Mrs. Sharon Lemke (nee Onofryszyn) had the honour of cutting the Anniversary cake.

At the present time, March, 1978, our group has 23 members and one honourary member. Our group continues to be active and enjoys good

GIRLS' GROUPS OF ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

C.G.I.T. began in Eckville in 1925 when a group of girls was organized and led by Miss Kathy Herring. The girls met each week with their leader at the Herring home after school. Sometimes the girls from the country rode horses. Some of the activities included sleigh riding down Kasper's hill, picnics with homemade ice cream, and hikes looking for snails, frogs and things of nature. The Christmas party where homemade gifts were exchanged was a highlight of the year.

The group was led by Miss Ena Paul in 1928-1929. Some of the girls who belonged were Bessie Bromling, Lela Lowe, Ada Tolvonen, Sylvia Kanaputas, Elvie Sestrap and Evelyn Spurgeon. With no resident minister, Vesper Services, Mother-Daughter Banquets and Graduation ceremonies were not possible.

In 1933 the group was led by Margaret McKinnon and Ruth Craig. Leaders and girls would walk to the homes for meetings — sometimes as far as three miles.

An event that the girls looked forward to was three weeks at Camp Kasota on Half Moon Bay. The total cost of camp was $5. Girls slept in cabins and were asked to bring their own mattress "ticks". Fresh straw would be supplied. Girls from the surrounding towns came and became good friends of the local girls.

In 1942 with the arrival of the deaconess, Miss Ruby Walker, C.G.I.T. again became very active. Meetings were now held in the manse. The girls assisted with the Christmas service of the church and helped the Ladies Aid in packing Christmas baskets for the needy. They took the lead in the first World Day of Prayer Service held in Eckville.

C.G.I.T. continues to play a major role in the spiritual and social development of teen-age girls in the community. Present-day activities include Bible study, crafts and games, and singing. The girls take turns running the "Tuck Shop" in the hospital. The C.G.I.T. Choir can be heard at many community affairs such as the Remembrance Day Service. The Christmas Vesper Service, the Mother Daughter Banquet and the Senior Citizen's Tea are the main events of the year.

The Explorer group of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was organized by Mrs. Marie Wilson and Mrs. Janet Lightbown in Oc tober of 1961. The program for the Explorers includes Star Ceremonies, Mission Study and a Mother and Daughter Banquet. Singing, Bible study, crafts, hikes and games are included in the meetings.

The C.O.C. (Children of Church) group for little [illegible] organized a year or two after the Explorers. The program is much the same as for the Explorers.

Miss Iris Ford, the deaconess who served the church at this time, was the instigator behind the organization of both girls' groups.

At the present time the C.G.I.T. leaders are Barbara Olsen, Maxine Taylor, Iris Eluik.

The Explorer leaders are Donna Andersen, Pat Lindberg and Sharon Watson.

The C.O.C. was reorganized in 1973 by Susan Skocdopole and Ingrid Lindberg. The present C.O.C. leaders are Susan Skocdopole, Ingrid Lindberg and Sandra Cordon.

ECKVILLE CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

The Church of the Nazarene came to Eckville because a family was interested and asked the district church leader for services to be held here. Early in 1948 a Christian Workers group from Canadian Nazarene College in Red Deer took the responsibility for services, which were held in the Mike Covlin home. For a few months services were held upstairs in the "Den" of the Memorial Hall, then again in Mike and Eileen's home.

In 1949 Russell Quantz, who was attending C.N.C., accepted the pastorate and for a short time came from Red Deer by bus on the weekends with his wife and two children to Covlin's home. They visited extensively and the work began to grow. Two lots were purchased on what is now 53rd Avenue from Mrs. Fanny Jones, and under the leadership of Russell a church building was soon erected, even though by this time he was also pastoring in Rocky Mountain House. Many thanks to several farmers, business men of the village and others, both men and women, who so willingly gave money for the lots and materials, and labor for the building. The church was completed and ready for use at Easter 1950, and was dedicated in July of the same year.

A four-room parsonage was built on the other lot. Miss Ruth Lawrence, who was then the pastor, did some of the building herself. Rev. Garfield Ferris of Red Deer was pastor from 1952 to 1954, when Rev. Herbert Quantz came with his family from Victoria to live here. He pastored for seven years, leaving to move to Calgary in the summer of 1961 to attend University. Rev. E. V. Swarthout followed as pastor for almost a year and then Rev. Norman Falk was a supply pastor for four months. Rev. Harold Quantz came in August of 1962 from a pastorate in Redcliff.

In the fall of 1963 the congregation ventured on another building program on the same lot, to provide needed Sunday School classrooms. So Pastor Harold Quantz and various people worked diligently during the fall and winter and the first service in the new superstructure was held in April, 1964. Many thanks go again to everyone who worked and gave in any way. Numerous cups of coffee were shared in hospitality and much fun, too, as we worked together. The pen in the office surely seemed lightweight after laying blocks during noon hour. What do you do when you paint yourself into a corner? Finishing work continued so that the building was dedicated in October, 1965. The former church building was moved, as it was sold to the village of Eckville for a garage. In 1967 the present parsonage was purchased from Archie Hubtala and the former residence was sold.

Rev. William Baptist became pastor in 1967 and continued for five years, then Rev. Victor Bulley came. In January, 1974 he left to take studies at Canadian Bible College, now in Winnipeg. Rev. Isaac Reatman came from Red Deer and supplied until Rev. Harold Quantz came back as pastor for a second time in July of 1974 and is at present the pastor.

As life is, pastors come and then move on, people come and go; but we believe each has contributed to the work of God's Kingdom. As we continue to work and worship together may we follow the example of our Lord Jesus Christ and tell the good news of salvation and serve our generation.

ECKVILLE ST. MARY'S CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The group started in December 1958 as the Catholic Ladies Organization. Some of the founding members who still belong are Dorothy Forhan, Ellen Armeneau, Helen Kasha, Jenny Psikula, Hazel Cordon, and Gertrude McDonald. Others who are not too far away are Bert Kuntz, Birdie Peta and Maxine McAndrew. Another founding member was Aileen Forhan who passed away December 10, 1976.

The group had hopes, at one time, of having a local church and were willed two lots in town for that purpose. With changing times, better roads and faster travel it never came about so we are part of the Sylvan Lake parish.

As in any organization, we have had our share of bake sales, bingos, raffles, rummage sales and catering to raise money for what we thought was a good cause, at the time. Times changed and circumstances altered our needs. We do some service work such as helping host showers, serving coffee at funerals, taking a turn for the World Day of Prayer and have helped with T.B. X-Ray clinics by addressing cards, supplying postage and helping on clinic days.

Our Lady of Victory Camp at Gull Lake has received our support and of course our children over the years attended summer camps Aileen Forhan cooked at camp one summer For a number of years we helped with food by supplying two pies each (enough for a meal) or double batches of cookies

During the school term we used to hold catechism classes in our homes on Fridays after school (later changed to Monday) until our classes became too large. We had Christmas parties in the hall for families. For a few years catechism was held in the school. For the last few years, it has been held at Sylvan Lake after mass on Sunday in conjunction with the children from that district Our Eckville group always supplies the lunch for the catechism Christmas parties at Sylvan Lake, ever since we started this amalgamation

April 26, 1961 was charter night for our St Mary's Catholic Women's League as a part of a world organization. It was in the form of a banquet catered to by Mrs Greenman and attended by ladies of surrounding organizations and priests. The ladies have helped with house clean taking part in parish picnics and socials Catholic youth groups have been held for periods off and on over the years under various names through special interests of some of the priests

In 1962 our C.W.L. started a scholarship to the top boy and girl students in grade nine. These were first based on results of departmental examinations but, since they were discontinued it has been left up to the staff Following is a list of winners to the present, according to our records and those at the school. 1962—Clara Dobbs Allan Toivonen 1963—Vicky Liska, Gerald Sambrooke 1964—Dianne Covlin. Rein Mattsen 1965—Sylvia Andrew, Robert Spittal 1966—Bernadette McDonald, Bryan Kasper, 1967 Judith Kuntz, Ron Rietala, 1968—Faye Johnson Ronald Koots, 1969 Debbie Soerd Harry Thomas 1970—Ann Kasha. Dwayne Ophus 1971—Pat Purnell, Clarence Koots, 1972—Ruth Rietala, Keith Pragoda, 1973—Wendy Keegstra Tim Gefle, 1974—Noreen Onofryszyn, Mark Lavam, 1975—Ingrid Lundberg, Paul Twa 1976 Nancy Fischer, Micheal Weitstein 1977 Shirley Nelson Leslie Burdick

Since 1962 our club has bought the flowers for Christmas for the altar at Our Lady of Assumption Church, Sylvan Lake In November 1968 we wrote a letter to Mr Hooke about having a senior citizens home in Eckville Eight years later this small request may have helped it to become a reality On November 20, 1974 we gave up our Eckville C.W.L. charter to become a circle of the Sylvan Lake group. During the winter of 1975 we ried whist card parties as a form of socializing We are still somewhat active so you will probably be approached to buy a ticket by one of our group to support our commitments such as the scholarship or the good cause of the time

FINNISH MINISTERS AND CHURCH HISTORY — by Mrs. Anne Parkkari

In the early 1900's, when many Finnish families had settled in Alberta, there were also short-time ministers of the Presbyterian Church who came to minister The first recorded minister was Reverend Hjelt, succeeded by Pastor Blomgren. Then in 1910 Reverend K E Korhonen came to serve more permanently and faithfully served until his death In 1913 Reverend and Mrs. Andrew Harju and family moved into the parsonage east of Eckville and served also at Kuusamo, Brightview and Manyberries. In 1919 he moved to Portland Oregon, U.S.A

On July 19, 1919 Reverend and Mrs John Luomala and family moved into the parsonage coming from New Hampshire, U.S.A. He served more years. After this the parsonage was empty until it was moved to Sylvan Lake for a Presbyterian Church Manse

In 1932 a Reverend Kopra and family ministered for a while He built a house at Sylvan Lake which he sold and moved away

Reverend Kultunen was a well-educated man and had been here for a short visit

Reverend Jarvinen from California, U.S.A. was preaching at one time for a short period These two men were through here after Reverend Kopra. Reverend Muroma from Finland kept a service or two at Sylvan Lake and a year or so later Reverend Yuonen from Finland had a few services

Reverend and Mrs. Wallas from Finland were here for about a year and a half, making their home at Sylvan Lake. One summer Reverend and Mrs Lehto from the States held meetings. In the early 1940's a young graduate minister Alex Koski served here and at Wapella, Saskatchewan as a temporary minister At this time also there was a young lady, a graduate of Camrose Lutheran College, that did preaching among the Finnish congregation Her name was Jenny Ecola

Then in the late 1940's two young Pentecostal ladies traveled by car and preached in different homes, mostly in the summer months. Their names were Lahja Rouhiainen and Eva Ecola A few years later another two ladies visited the area and had meetings in homes. They were Anna Ponni and Aina Monkare

At present there is Mr and Mrs. Elia and Emil Klump come from Calgary about once a month and hold services in Eckville

CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE

In November 1927 the Canadian Imperial Bank decided to open in Eckville a sub-branch of the Sylvan Lake branch Mr Harold S. Mann who was employed in the bank at Sylvan Lake was delegated to come to Eckville two or three times a week to handle the business. Sometimes

Mr Fred Appelton, the bank manager, would come, theoretically to check up on the business The banking facilities consisted of a little wire teller's cage and a desk and counter in a small office north of the lumber yard (now Carrill's Hardware) Mr Colpitts, a lawyer, also shared the office There was a tiny safe in the bank, but nothing was left there overnight. When Harold Mann and the junior clerk went across the street to the hotel for their lunch one of them carried the bills and the other one the silver, and of course one of them had a gun

Cecil Caton, who at that time was attending high school, was employed to light the fires and do other custodial work. He must have done his work well, for when the bank opened full time in 1930, Cecil was taken on the banking staff

In 1918 a bank building was constructed on the corner lot where the present bank is located This operated on a part-time basis at first, but in December of 1930 Eckville became a full-time branch of the Imperial Bank of Commerce. In the original building Mr and Mrs Mann moved into the living quarters — four tiny rooms. Later a 10 by 10 foot kitchen was built on, and one of the bedrooms was converted into the manager's office

The first manager of the original bank was Mr J M. McIntosh, and it is believed that the first accountant was Matt Perry When the bank was opened for full time business in 1930 the staff consisted of Harold Mann and Cecil Caton At that time a vault was added, a few other alterations were made, and the building was in use until October 1976

In October of 1976 the old bank was moved off the site and temporarily the staff operated out of two trailers at the rear of the property During this time a new modern bank building was being constructed. The new building came into use on January 31, 1977, with a staff of 10 employees and Mr A. G. Drapaka as manager The new bank building was officially opened on Saturday February 5, 1977, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house for the public

The new building offers expanded services for its many customers. Four tellers are now employed, a night depository service has been added, and several new safety deposit boxes are also available The new modern structure is unique in design. The inside is built from concrete rafters and is the first of its kind to be put into use in the Alberta region

ECKVILLE CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION LIMITED Information derived from the Notice of the Report and Statistics to be Presented at the 50th Annual Meeting on March 21, 1963. The Anniversary Review was written by Mr. John Lilyam, and the Manager's Progress Report written by Mr W G McAndrews. Additional information was provided by Mr. Morley Cowling, General Manager, in 1975

The formation of the present Eckville Co-operative Association Limited was the out growth of an early experiment, utilizing the advantages of co-operative buying, which was begun in Lacombe in 1939. The United Farmers of Alberta also encouraged this practice, and it was to the Red Deer branch of the U F A. that the Medicine Valley Estonian Society turned for information as to the steps leading to the formal establishment of a Consumer's Co-operative The Estonian Society was first formed in 1910 for social purposes, but apparently deviated from this restriction and on April 9, 1911 met to discuss the formation of a consumer co-operative. A public meeting held in the month of June 1912 drew considerable interest and it was decided at that meeting to organize the Eckville and Gilby Co-operative Company By August a provisional board was organized and they engaged the services of a Mr Archibald Litt from Hamilton, Ontario as Manager Mr E. N. Matchett was chosen as president. Mr Fritz Kinna as vice president, and A. E. T Eckford secretary treasurer Other board members were Carl Langer, R Stopsen M. Rangen and A. Litt. A later formal organization meeting was probably held at which time F Kinna was made president J Lundberg vice-president and A E T Eckford secretary C Raabis, H. Kingsep and C Gustavson were chosen as directors

Operating capital was obtained by issuing shares of $50.00 each. Many people invested their savings in these shares thus enabling the Co-operative to purchase facilities and inventory The first premises of the new organization was where the Eckville Bakery now the J and K Foods, now stands. Their first six months of business brought a profit of $71.00 which the members agreed to re-invest in the business to provide additional capital. At this same meeting on April 13, Mr A. Isaacson was added to the board of directors. During an Estonian Society meeting held at the Henry Kinna home on September 14, 1913, the members present decided that the store manager could assume the position of the Co-operative s secretary treasurer, following the resignation of Mr Eckford from this position. The store manager was to be paid an additional sum for his added duties. The minutes of this meeting also note that H. Kinna would be invited to take an inventory for the year-end report, due late in November

For the next two decades, the volume of business showed a slow increase, probably due to the economic conditions of the time. A Mr Rogers, newly arrived from England, soon succeeded Mr Litt as manager and, while acting in the dual role as secretary-treasurer and manager, helped write out many of the original by-laws of the organization. During this time Mr Rogers was also the entire staff of the store, as well as a real estate dealer on the side. In 1932 Mr D. Clausen replaced Mr Rogers as manager passed the Co-operative Association Act in 1937 and the following year the Eckville and Gilby Co operative Company was incorporated as "The Eckville Co-operative Association Limited", with the objective of the Association being "to operate a general store" The number of shares to be issued is unlimited and the value is fixed at five dollars each Head office of the Association is to be situated in Eckville. Mr O Umart was manager at this time The business expanded to include a lumberyard and about 1938 a new store building was built on the present site

Business was apparently good, and when Mr L Kalla took the manager's helm in 1939 it began to expand quite rapidly U F A. oils was taken up from private contractors in 1944 and in 1947 a locker plant and slaughterhouse was added to the services provided for Co-op members, followed by a seed and feedmill in 1949. The capital for this particular venture was pledged by members, but, unfortunately only two of the pledges were honoured and the Association was forced to borrow the greater part of the money that was needed to purchase and remodel the flour mill which C. Moro had constructed some years earlier

Although this new service greatly aided the community, such large borrowing reduced the association's available operating capital and prompted the board to venture into the automobile retail field in 1950. as a means of in creasing turnover Further. a parts service for Canadian Co-operatives Implements Limited was added to the services provided. This proved to be too great a burden for the capitalization of the enterprise and sharp credit restrictions began to curb the Association's activities. The board was forced to make policy changes and decided to change managers as well W G McAndrews, formerly as assistant manager was made co-manager with Mr W McIntyre. who had been managing the lumberyard

In 1936, under the management of Mr Oswald Umart. a new store was built on the site the present store now occupies Mr Dee Kalla followed Mr Umart as manager and under the guidance of Mr Kalla the association had an era of expan sion and by 1950 the business departments con sisted of groceries, meat. dry goods, hardware, lumber, garage machinery feed and seed mill, trucking petroleum and lockers. The Associa tion was doing about $500.000.00 volume of business a year and was regarded as one of the better co-operatives in the Province of Alberta Records are not available from 1936 to 1950. but there was quite an era of expansion and the volume increased by leaps and bounds However one director stated that the entire volume of business in 1945 had been less than $100,000.00

In 1950, Mr Kalla left the Association and W G. McAndrews took over as general manager Due to the heavy expansion program, increase in inventories, personnel, etc., the Association found itself in an embarrassing financial posi tion. The board of directors at this time decided to cut back on some of their departments until a stable financial position could be established The petroleum and garage business was dis posed of and a campaign to raise new share capital was embarked upon

A quota of $20,000 was set, but only about $9. 000 of this was raised. With this new share capital and loyal support from the members business continued to increase and by the end of 1955 the current liability to current assets ratio which in 1950 was in a bad position at 1.1, was back to a very healthy position of almost 4 to 1 Total volume was still about the half million dollar mark, but the Association had two departments less than in 1950. namely the petroleum and the garage

Fertilizer sales were added to the business in 1956 and have continued to increase each year since. Sale of the garage and implement parts business at a severe loss) and retirement from the retail sale of oil and gasoline followed in short order

In the meantime Mr McIntyre had left for another position and "Red" McAndrews was left in sole possession of the post of manager of the entire Association. Fire destroyed the main store and its contents on the night of November 13. 1957, and at first it looked almost hopeless to try to finance a new operation. However, the board entered into an agreement with the Atlas

Lumber Company (now Revelstoke Sawmills Ltd.) whereby the Atlas bought the Co-op lumber yard and after this Co-op was back in business in groceries, meat, and some dry goods, the new store being officially opened on September 5 1958

The new era of prosperity which seemed to have begun was interrupted by another major fire in the spring of 1961 which destroyed the old feedmill. This meant a further expenditure of capital when it was decided to rebuild on the present site of the feedmill. The new feedm began operations in June of 1961. During 19 new fertilizer storage sheds were built and with our new premises the total Association sales in 1962 were $900,000 with a total savings of $43,000

A membership meeting held on November 10 '71 approved the renovation of the main store and the construction of a new hardware - home furnishings center. This work was carried out through the winter and on April 20, 1972 the official opening of the new center was held and Mr Fritz Kinna, the first president and charter member of the Association cut the ribbon and declared the new center officially open

Mr McAndrews served as manager of the Association from 1950 until he resigned on August 12, 1967. Mr Oliver Stopsen was then chosen as manager and served in this position until November 1, 1973, when he was succeeded by Mr Morley Couling

These remarks out of the past constitute a brief review of how the Eckville Co-operative Association Limited made its first steps up a path leading from its first retail outlet in the building now occupied by the J and K Foods store with their first six months of business realizing a profit of $71.00 to its present modern facilities and a volume of business rising from $677,000 in 1966 to $1,242,000 in 1971, and a still higher figure of $2,300,000 in 1975

Many people have served on the Eckville Co operative Association's board of directors. All of them have so contributed to community welfare in this and other ways that their names have become familiar to us. People like C. Gustavson H. Mottus, H. Talson, John Saari, H. Lapp, H. Kingsep, J. D. Phillips, R. Sestrap, J. Lundberg A. B. Koski A. Llivam, W. Burns, J. Caton, E. I Erickson, Bill Smith, F. Andrew C. Raabis and many others

THE ECKVILLE MUTUAL TELEPHONE

The Eckville Mutual Telephone Central served several subsidiary lines surrounding the village. These party lines each served an area of approximately 20 square miles. Such a telephone network served an area south and east of Eckville in the Benalto district. This was mostly a Finnish settlement. Persons wishing to join were charged $1.8.65, later lowered to $100 per membership, which sum paid for the construction of a line to the homes. Members paid 25 cents per month above the long distance charges. Each member had his own signal ring which was heard throughout in each home

Poles were assessed at $1.75 each. A two-wire system was strung, but proved unsatisfactory. The second wire was eventually sold to the United Grain Growers Elevator Co. at Kootuk for a stretch of one and a half miles of line. Wire was sold for $27 and insulators at 10 cents apiece

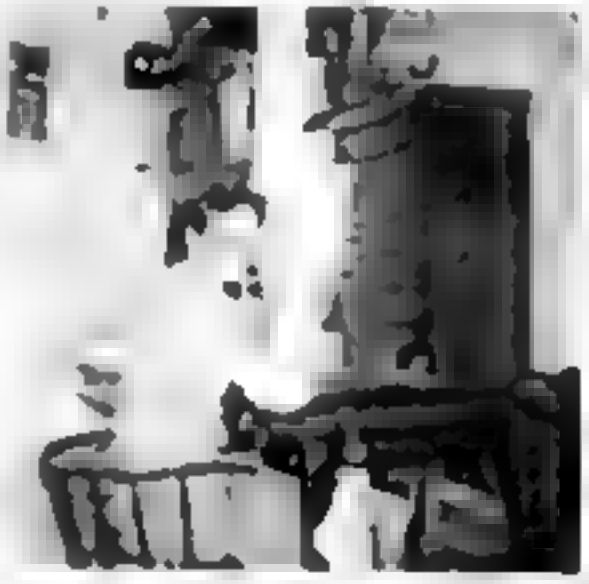
When it became necessary to replace four poles at two railroad crossings, Mr. John Heikkinen agreed to supply these for the grand total of $11. Poles were to be tamaracks 30 feet long and not less than six inches in diameter at the top; the used poles sold at $1.30 each

The treasury seldom had a large sum of money, as witness the treasurer's report of $3.20 and $1.30 on two occasions

Considerable friction was aroused by the fact that in case of emergency it was impossible to reach Eckville Central on Sundays and holidays except from 10:00 a.m. until noon

In 1936, following the advent of the Calgary Power line which caused interference, it was decided to sever the line to Eckville Central and members maintained the line between themselves. Lines were strung, avoiding the power line, and sometimes using insulators on fence posts to carry the wires

Meetings throughout the period from 1919 to 1936 were held and the minutes were recorded in the Finnish language. The following are translations of their organizational and final meetings



Evelyn Andrew on the switchboard of the Eckville Mutual Telephone Association.

Minutes of the organizational meeting of the Eckville Mutual Telephone Association held at the home of Herman Talson December 7 1919, for the purpose of discussing and resolving matters concerning the Association

1 The meeting was called to order by Henry Talson. He explained the purpose of this meeting and suggested officers be elected to represent this telephone association

2 Officers elected were the following Chairman – Henry Talson. Secretary – Frank Nikkola, Treasurer — Abram Huhtala

3 The drafting committee for the constitution Alexander Hietala, John Heikkinen and Henry Talson

4. Executive Committee — Abram Huhtala Henry Talson and Frank Nikkola

5. Henry Talson was unanimously chosen as a representative to the Eckville Mutual Telephone

6. Following a discussion, it was decided that new telephone poles be installed. These were to be ready by August 1, 1920; also that a two-line system would be strung at this time

7 A discussion arose as to whether more members would be accepted into our association It was decided that membership be limited

8. The meeting was notified that the following persons had applied for membership G.N Barhan, Buchanan, and Kinna, Weeks, and George Gilpatrick

9. The following applications were accepted G N Barhan. Buchanan. and Kinna. Mr Weeks was rejected because of the distance to his home George Gilpatrick's application was tabled

10. The secretary was authorized to purchase a minute book at the association's expense Meeting adjourned, Frank Nikkola, Sect., H Talson, Chairman, Last Recorded Minutes

HISTORY OF ECKVILLE SCHOOL

Eckville School had its beginning at the site of Old Eckville" Mr A. E T Eckford was the owner of the land on which the town was situated. The name Eckville preserved his name. The agitation to establish a school when there were enough children in the settlement took definite form. The first meeting of the elected board of Eckville School District No 1459 was held on March 29. 1906 at the Eckville Post Office. The late Charlie Kasper was elected chairman. Mr J H Killick was elected secretary-treasurer Another member was W W Gosgarth That same spring, debentures for $800 were sold and the school was built west of the river on the land then owned by E E Randall. later the L. Kingsep farm. and now owned by Bill Eliuk Miss A Fenerty, from the Maritimes, was the first teacher Her salary was set at $50 per month She boarded with Mrs Killick The school opened with the fall term of 1906. Other early teachers were Amy Richardson who stayed with the Eckfords, Agnes Hampton, Miss McMann, who boarded with the Matchetts, and Emma Goodmanson who later became Mrs Art Kinna

In 1920. the original school building was sold to St Paul's Presbyterian Church for the sum of $200. It was moved into town from its location, one mile north. and relocated where the Presbyterian Church still stands. (1)

On May 30. 1921 the residents of Eckville signed a petition to have Eckville declared a hamlet This carried because of the consolidated school. The club room of the curling rink was used for school rooms until a new school was built. For this, the school board paid part of the cost of a new floor As well, in the later 1920's the old school building purchased by the church, was once again used as a temporary classroom. The rent for use of the Presbyterian Church was set at $75 per year. In June, 1930 the rent was raised to $100 per year. Some of the teachers of the 1920's and 1930's were: Gladys Jones, Ena Paul, Henry Ludwig, Laura Byers, Lydia Lunitsky, E. Baldwin, M. McKinnon, Ruth Craig, Benjamin Upshaw, John Benjamin Scott, Margaret Gardiner, Catherine Farries, Ada Tipman and J. Henley-Lewis. A. W. Harju was treasurer in 1928 and in 1929 Mrs. Ruth Lundberg assumed this job.

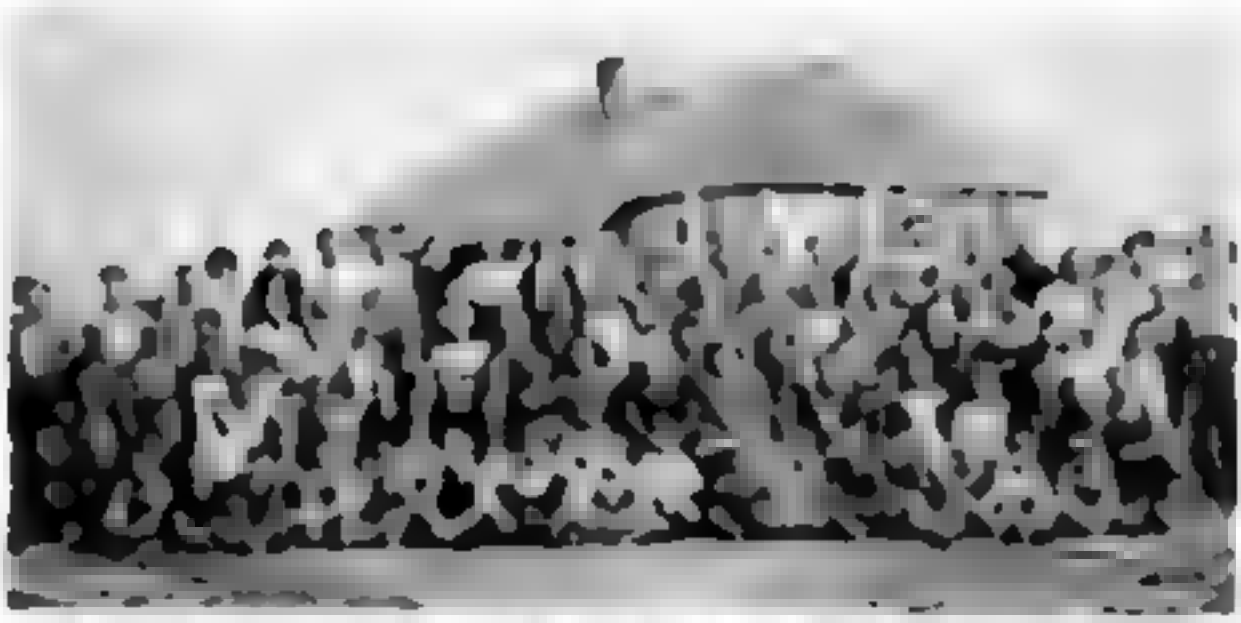
The early school days were not totally without fun. In a letter from Archie Litt's memories of November 15, 1971 we read: "The box socials were great, the gals would pack the refreshments, and the young bucks would bid on them at auction. Some good looking school teachers would raise bids up to $15 or $20 which was real money then — especially in the scarcity of that particular commodity. If the boys were wise to anyone who was after any particular gal they thoroughly enjoyed bidding them up." (2.)

During these early years, students from outside the Eckville School district were permitted to attend Eckville School to get their high school. Tuition was set at $3 per month. This was paid either by parents or by their local school district if so authorized.

On July 14, 1936 an ad was put in a Calgary paper to sell debentures for $5,500 in order to borrow enough money to build a new school. This building stands yet at the north end of a present Junior Senior High School complex. Mrs. Agnes Bowen acted as Secretary of the Eckville School District for many years.

September 14, 1940, the largest School Fair was held with 1,613 entries. Ewart McDonald won the scholarships with 126 points. Elsie Kult of Shady Lane won the girl's scholarship with 91 points.



In 1946, the village started collecting the school taxes. Previously it was done by the local school board. The next change was the organization of the Lacombe School Division No 56 on January 1, 1947 Due to the shortage of teachers several neighboring districts had been placed under the charge of correspondence supervisors The school term 1948-49 saw the inclusion of Eckville School District into the Lacombe School Division No. 56. Centralization continued to be he dominant theme throughout the early 1950's due to teacher shortage and improved school facilities Many stormy meetings were held between local district boards and members of the Lacombe Division Local districts that finally were included in the Eckville centralization program were. Estonian, Andrew Benjamin, Medicine Valley, Wolfe, Saima and Blue Bell. About this time the Home Economics and Shop Programs were offered as part of the Curriculum

The Home and School Association was organized in about 1950 It was very active in supporting school programs and projects. Driver Education was one of the topics initiated by Mrs Olga Stenvig This brief was presented to the Provincial Government. This has been realized and has become part of the High School Program now. Bill Rothwell, as well as others, served as President. This group disbanded in 1968 due to lack of support of parents. Through the years Eckville High School had a Glee Club under Marge Lazzer; also the band grew under the direction of Mr Barrigan

The Eckford Trophy was set up in 1953. The letters leading to this follow Since the awarding of this coveted award each year, several other awards have been set up. The list is included

To: Mr Eldon Bliss, Principal

I wonder if it would meet with your approval [redacted] educational or sports for a small trophy or cup? You see, it was fifty years ago this past summer that I took up a homestead on land that was a few years later the site of "Old Eckville"

I have pleasant memories of those early days and would like to leave some small remembrance Our two older boys, born while we lived on the farm, were not of school age when we left Eckville district for the coast in Dec. 1918 but I have always been interested in young people — their work and play

, feel that it is most fitting that a trophy be offered for annual competition by the founder of this town, and so I heartily accept your suggestion. I suggest, and I know that the students here will feel, that such a trophy, no matter what its actual monetary value, should be the most highly prized award in the school. Therefore, I would like to recommend that your contribution take the form of a trophy to be awarded annually to the student who contributes the most to the life of the school while in attendance at this High School. That would mean that the award would go to the Grade Twelve student who, from Grade X to Grade XII was the outstanding student scholastically, athletically, and executively. Such an award would not go to a student who was an outstanding scholar but contributed nothing to the life of the school in the way of Athletics or Student Union representation. Similarly it would not go to a student who is an outstanding athlete and Student's Union representative but a poor scholar.

In my opinion such a trophy should remain in the school and have a base sufficiently large so that each year the name of the winning student could be affixed to it, engraved on a small silver shield.

I might also suggest that the trophy be one of the "statue" type rather than of the "cup" type. In my opinion, the inscription should read something as follows:

The ARTHUR E. T. ECKFORD Trophy Awarded annually to the Eckville Student
Who has contributed the most to his school in the academic, athletic and executive fields.

Granthums Landing B.C
To Mr. Eldon Bliss, Principal

Dear Mr. Bliss:

Many thanks for your letter of Dec. 31st. I should apologize for having written to you at such a busy time, but mine was really a much delayed letter — put off from time to time during the past year. I was really a bit doubtful as to how you would receive my suggestion of a trophy. Now that I have your kind letter — and your acceptance, it was quite a relief! I will do my best to find something suitable for such an

AWARDS IN ECKVILLE SCHOOL

Students require incentive, encouragement and recognition in their growth toward adult maturity. Recognition of this fact has led to the establishment of a number of trophies and awards that are presented to deserving students each year. Most of these trophies and awards are kept on display in the school.

A. Eckford Trophy — This trophy is to be awarded to the grade 12 student who has contributed the most to the school in his or her school career. The student must be outstanding scholastically, athletically and executively. The candidate is chosen by a vote of the grade 12 class with the principal and staff making the final decision. This trophy is presented at the Graduation Exercises.

B. Athletic Trophies (Presented at the Graduation Exercises). 1. Most Valuable Athlete Awards — presented by Dave and Mona Beckman. One trophy is awarded to the top girl athlete and one is awarded to the top boy athlete in Eckville High School. The candidates eligible for this award must participate in a number of sports, demonstrate good sportsmanship and help create good school spirit. This award may be won only once by a given student. The students in High School select three boys and three girls as a nominees for the trophies and the coaches and Phy. Ed. teachers are to make the final choice. 2. Eckville High School Co-op Bonspiel Champions — This award is given to the best High School rink. 3. Eckville High School League Champions — This award is given to the best High School rink if in Eckville High School there is a High School Curling League. 4. McDonald Trophy (Junior Athlete) — This trophy is awarded to the most outstanding boy or girl athlete in the Junior High School. The candidate is selected by coaches and Phys. Ed. teachers. 5. Weikum Trophy — This trophy is awarded by coaches and Phys. Ed. teachers to the top athlete from grade 1-12. The candidate must posses leadership qualities and must be of good character. (Staff reserves right not to award this trophy.

C. Academic Awards (Presented at the Graduation Exercises). 1. Academic Award — Grade 10 (H. N. Anderson). 2. Academic Award — Grade 11 (T. H. Curran). 3. Academic Award — Grade 12. (Home and School Association). Each of the above awards is presented to the student with the highest academic average in each grade. (Note: The H and S also presents the Valedictorian in Grade 12 with a cheque.) 4. Legion Award — This is a cash award given to the diploma student in grade 12 with the highest average. 5. A. T. A. Honor Pins — The Lacombe Local of the A. T. A. presents honor pins to all honor students in grades 9 and 12 and to the top honor student in grades 10 and 11. 6. Eckville Junior High School Award for Academic Achievement — The name of the top boy student in each of grades 7, 8, and 9 is engraved on one plaque and the name of the top girl student in each of grades 7, 8, and 9 is engraved on another plaque. 7. Catholic Women's League Award — The grade 9 boy with the highest average and the grade 9 girl with the highest average each presented with a $25 award.

D. Queen of Hearts. 1. Queen of Hearts Plaque — The Senior High Student Union has the name of the Queen of Hearts engraved on a plaque which is kept in the school. The Queen of Hearts, who is a grade 12 girl, is selected by vote of the high school students and is traditionally crowned by the previous year's Queen as part of the Queen of Hearts program. 2 Queen of Hearts Locket - - The H and S Association presents a locket to the Queen of Hearts each year.

E Senior High Students Union Awards (Presented at the Graduation Exercises) 1 Senior High Student Union Pins — The Senior High Students Union presents Student Union Pins to each of the Student Union Officers: Pres., Vice-pres., Sec. Treas., Social Convenor, Ways and Means Convenor, Boy's Sports Rep., Girl's Sports Rep. and Room Representatives. 2 Year Book Editor Pin — The Senior High Students Union presents the Year Book Editor with a pin each year.

F Junior High Student Union Pins — The Junior High Students Union presents pins to each of the Student Union Officers.

In 1959 a new addition was built onto the old High School to accommodate the Junior-High and Senior-High population. As well, a gymnasium was constructed. The school population from Grades 1-12 were now housed in one building.

Lacombe School Division No. 66 changed to County of Lacombe No. 14 effective January 1961. By this legislation, Eckville school and district had coterminous boundaries for school administration. Financial matters were now handled by one administration body instead of two separate units.

In 1961, a parcel of land was purchased from L. Kingsep. A new six-room school was built on this property to house Grades 1-3. This move resolved the problem of over-crowding found in the one school unit. In 1970, the new addition - four classrooms, library and offices plus a gymnasium were added to the original elementary school at a cost of $213,000. This unit now accommodated Grades 1-6. The other unit is used for Grades 7-12. In 1977-78, Eckville Schools (Grades 1-12) have a student population of about 465 students and has 24 teachers. Secretarial services are provided by Mrs. Laura Sambrook. Mrs. S. Haglund and Mrs. B. Wyzykoski are Teacher Aides.

The High School has an annual formal affair called the Queen of Hearts, which is held in February. Grade 12 girls who have been chosen through the years are: 1961 — Tiuu Koppel, 1962 - Nora Sambrooke, 1963 — Beverly Anderson, 1964 — Anna Haapala, 1965 — Patricia Dunn, 1966 — Frances Frid, 1967 - Muriel Fiss, 1968 - Isabel Smith, 1969 — Janice Matthews, 1970 - Joanne Erickson, 1971 — Jean Erickson, 1972 — Mary Ann Waisanen, 1973 - Ann Kasha, 1974 - Pat Purnell, 1975 — Debbie French, 1976 — Gwen Erickson and 1977 — Sandra Taylor. Graduation Banquet and Exercises are held in early June of each year. The Elementary School has an annual Christmas and Spring Program. In addition to this, the track meet is held in the spring. For the last four years, this school has been involved in two E.O.F. projects — one in reading improvement and the other dealing with leisure time. Many parents have helped with teaching crafts to these young people.

Some of the names of teachers who have spent many years or several years serving the Eckville School are: Eldon Bliss, Mr. Inman, B. Curran, Henry Anderson, Marge Lazzer, Lynne and Harry Densmore, Steve and Berdu Peta, Dorothy Lawton, Gertie McDonald, Jim Keegstra, A. Ralph, Mrs. H. Terry and the present High School Principal, Ed Olsen. Elementary school teachers who have taught here or are teaching now include: Mrs. E. Morrisey, Miss E. Graves, Mrs. D. Hoven, Mrs. M. Niemi, Mrs. M. Palm, Mrs. H. Rothwell, Mrs. M. Wilson, Mrs. J. Kasha, Mrs. M. Brososky, Mr. V. Angus, Mrs. C. Frostad, Mrs. G. McCann, Miss A. Coverdale and the present Principal of the Elementary School, Mr. J. Walker.

THE ECKVILLE AIRPORT — by Douglas Hawkes

Previous to 1928, the federal government assumed responsibilities for the natural resources of Canada. The R.C.A.F. was engaged in fire observation for the forests of the eastern watershed of the Rockies and their main airport for this was at High River. One day a flight would go south to the U.S.A. border with an emergency landing facility at Pincher Creek. The following day, the flight would be up to Rocky Mountain House with an emergency landing field on the north side of Eckville, where the Elementary School is now located.

This was one of Canada's first few airports. The only airman posted at Eckville was Corporal Stan Green. He remained for one summer to receive two flights for refueling. After the province took over the responsibility for natural resources, the airport was abandoned.

Corporal Green went on to head the aviation section of the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology. In retirement he built a replica of the Blerlot aircraft which was the first aircraft type to fly over the English Channel. At the time of writing he is building a replica of the Sepwith Triplane single seat fighter circa 1915), at the Calgary Centennial Planetarium.

Eckville was further identified with the R.C.A.F. with a camera installation for bombing exercises for the Service Flying Station at Penhold during World War II.

During the early 1930's Earl C. (Rudy) Platt of Rimbey had a plane he brought to Eckville, on sports days, to provide rides to those daring enough to buy a ticket. There are various opinions as to the admission charged He had a helper along who would take tickets and turn the propeller to start the motor When the helper turned the propeller to compression he called "contact" and the pilot turned on the ignition Hopefully the plane would start with the next turn of he propeller

Rudy was married to Edythe Andrew of the Gilby district He lost his life in April 1943, in a plane crash, while flying a load of fish from the far north

The pilot needed assistance to start the plane on one occasion, so Edgar Clausen, a Grade nine student in the Eckville school, had the privelege of leaving class to turn the propeller and pushing the plane thus getting it started. It was sometimes necessary to push the plane across the field until it got enough momentum to get air borne

THE ECKVILLE MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL

Early in the fall of 1934 a number of public spirited citizens met in the Eckville Hall to discuss the need for a district hospital in Eckville This original meeting was chaired by H. S Mann. After considerable discussion, a committee was formed consisting of W S Ignatius G. L. Caton, J Buresh, H T Arnold, J Mullarkey H. B Belt F Kinna, J Saari, with H S. Mann as secretary and O. M Forhan as chairman A person-to-person canvas for funds was conducted, bringing in $321 in cash and $100 in promises. Due to poor crops in the area, very little was accomplished until the spring of 1936, at which time the original committee was discharged with thanks and an official board of managers was appointed. This board was made up of O. M. Forhan, J. Saari, Dr S M Palmer D Clausen, G. L. Caton and E I. Erickson, with H. S. Mann as chairman

Their directive was "to get busy and do something" The establishment of the Medicine Valley Community Hospital was officialy underway! The "Jenkins" house was purchased and opened as a hospital on September 1, 1937 The first month's operations were considered most satisfactory, with 119 patient days and a surplus of funds The hospital operated until May 16, 1938, when it was forced to close due to lack of funds and set up a medical practice. Dr Coppock was

In April, 1943 the Minister of Health instructed the Eckville Hospital Board to have a meeting with regard to building a new hospital. The first hospital board members were R. B Cash, representing the Municipal District of Eckville O. Omari, representing the Municipal District of Lorne, A. E Avery, representing the Municipal District of Lochearn, Alec Duncan representing the Municipal District of Golden West and J Buresh, representing the Municipal District of Raven. H S. Mann was appointed secretary-treasurer The purpose of the meeting was to acquire the present Medicine Valley Community Hospital and to purchase a suitable site to erect a 15-bed hospital They also prepared a plebiscite to obtain authorization to borrow $42,000 by way of 20-year debentures at five percent interest.

The plebiscite was held on August 5, 1943 Results of the vote were. For — 545, Against — 106 Spoiled — two; Total — 653 Percentage in favor — 83.6%. Walter Crouch of Condor was the Returning Officer Ratepayers were to [illegible] hospitalization for one dollar per day if they p a hospital tax of $6 per quarter section of land per year. Non-ratepayers were to receive hospitalization for one dollar per day if they paid a yearly sum of $6 to the hospital

Eight acres of land was purchased on the west side of the village for $400 from Mr W H Cowan Walter Crouch was appointed the first auditor Fred Moos drilled the well for the hospital in June, 1944. Contracts for the new hospital were awarded to General Construction, Morin Bros Edmonton whose bid was $27,500. Plumbing and heating contract was awarded to Locherbi and Hole, Edmonton, for $8,948 90. Meeres and Hicks of Red Deer contracted the electrical work for $3,105. Morin Bros were given the contract to complete the east end of the basement of the new hospital for nurses' quarters for $2,585

The old hospital building was sold to W B Cowan for $2,000 and was rented by the Board for $25 per month until the new hospital was ready. The funds from this sale went toward building of the nurses' quarters in the basement of the new hospital. The Hospital Aid operated a booth at the Benalto Fair and donated their proceeds of $200 to the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Heath were appointed the first janitor and cook for the hospital.

In 1949 supporters rates were: individual residents of the district — $12, family residents of the district — $16, individual non-residents of the district — $16, family non-residents of the district — $20.

In 1967 the total operating cost was $28,466.40 with a patient day cost of $4.55. In 1977 the budget allowed $606,000, with a patient day cost of $93.

The hospital land was annexed into the village of Eckville in April, 1949.

In February, 1950, Dr. Frank Coppock proposed increased hospital accommodation by building a nurses' residence to house 18 staff members. This would increase the hospital capacity by eight adult beds and four childrens beds. The board agreed and tenders were placed in January 1951. The tender was awarded to the Sandquist Construction of Red Deer at a cost of $56,463.10.

In July, 1953, a tender for the solarium to be built on the west end of the hospital was awarded to Frank Fernell of Red Deer at a cost of $6,116.82.

Minor structural alterations were made on the top floor of the hospital in April, 1968, but this did not reduce the number of beds. The Edmonton hospital planning authorities did not give any encouragement for a new hospital or any major changes to be done.

In August, 1969, the Board met with Mr. Lang of the Associated Hospitals of Alberta, who was to assess the hospital. His survey here indicated several areas within the hospital which were totally inadequate and facilities poorly arranged. Currently the board is actively involved with essential upgrading of the hospital to present day safety standards at an approximate cost of $100,000. Looking into the next five-year plan, a new hospital complex is expected. This would be a combination of extended care as well as active care hospital.

Eckville Hospital Board Members past and present include: R. B. Gish, 1943-1948, O. Umard 1943-1944, A. E. Avery 1943-1945, Alec Duncan 1943-1946, J. Buresh, 1943-1948, Martin Stenvig 1944-1950, F. ## "So long, Doc"

A host of friends, acquaintances, patients and business associates, not only within this district but throughout the province and Dominion, became aware in the grief which surrounded the Christmas season for Dr. Frank Coppock's family this year.

The old 'Doc' or just "Doc" as he was best known to most of us, through his many years of service to his neighbors had become an integral part of their lives. Rich or poor, old or young, native born or newcomer, they were one and the same to him — people in need of help. From personal experience he knew the strain of long hours of physical labor, the absence of material wealth, the struggle for success, the brevity of life and the suffering of pain — and from this knowledge he gave us what was needed. His was a dedicated life, personal gain counted little compared to the satisfaction he obtained from doing his job well and the best way he knew how.

True to the finest concepts of the traditional 'country doctor' Dr. Coppock was yet not content to coast along on his reputation. To the best of his ability he kept abreast of the latest advances in medical science and this knowledge was placed at the service of his patients. Death was his greatest enemy and he fought it relentlessly on behalf of those in his charge, yet, when his personal fight was lost, he met it calmly. Maternity cases were his specialty and the wonder of birth remained to him as fresh and miraculous as it had been in his earliest days.

Mere words cannot in themselves picture the man who was 'our doctor'. His many, many contributions to the community, materially through the modern office, the hospital, the nurses residence, the 'ambulance' service and his yet unfulfilled dream — the old folks home; or his personal contributions of self, through his skill as a physician and adviser, his service to community organizations, his active, earnest support of anything which stood for a better community and better living conditions of its residents.

It is indicative of Dr. Coppock that he died as he had lived — in the service of his fellow man. It is fitting that as the good doctor passed away in the hospital which was his dream, a new baby uttered its first cry.

We do not find it easy to say 'goodbye' to such a man as Dr. Frank Coppock because by virtue of his unforgettable contributions to the general well-being of the community he has become to all of us not an individual but rather an institution, as aglow as the process of life itself.

No, we cannot say "goodbye" to someone who will always be with us in so many ways. Instead, let us just say 'So long, Doc' first in prose, secured that you will always live on in the hearts of those you served so well.

E.

THE DOCTORS OF ECKVILLE — by Laura Marshall

The first doctor to practice in the village of Eckville previous to 1920 was Dr Evans followed by Dr McDonald, who stayed only a short time Dr Evans left Eckville to practice in Didsbury The only information the writer has been able to unearth of Dr Evans is that he had a son, Alfred, who taught school in Calgary

In 1920 Dr. Percy Backus opened a practice here and built the present residence of Roy Saarl It was home and office combined. Some minor surgery was perhaps performed, such as tonsilectomies, or lancing of an abcess. Perhaps even extracting a tooth occasionally In 1924 Dr Backus sold his practice to the late Dr A Sommerville In 1931 Dr Sommerville sold to Dr Claxton and left for Toronto to take a course in Public Health. He later became the doctor in charge of the High River Public Health Unit Following this he was deputy Minister of Health in the Aberhart Government

As his last patient from Eckville, Dr Claxton performed an appendectomy on Mrs. Laura Marshall He said good-bye to her in the Red Deer General Hospital A Dr Schreiber then practiced in Eckville for about a year Then Dr Palmer arrived to take over the medical needs of our community He opened the Dr Backus house as a hospital and Miss Jolly was the matron and nurse, helped with the cleaning and even worked in the garden when she found time Ruby Land, now Mrs. Edward Mottus, was maid of all work and also the cook. The dining-room was turned into an operating room, if you can believe it! I think the maternity cases were on the second floor This being during the "dirty thirties" when there was no government health care programs, the hospital finally had to close down due to economic reasons

In 1938 Dr Frank Coppock arrived in town he at once rolled up his sleeves and told Dr Palmer, who was residing in Eckville in the house that Jim Brown now lives in, I'm opening up the hospital. He opened an office on Main Street but later moved his office into the residence now owned by the Pat Hovens and used this building until he built the present Eckville Clinic

After the death of Dr Coppock in December of 1956 Dr Gordon Gibson took over the practice He had been working with Dr Coppock for some months previous to the death of Dr Coppock. Dr Gibson sold the practice to Dr Bob Swain, who had come out from England to look the situation over in 1965

Much to the regret of all in the community Dr Swain left Eckville in 1974 and moved to British Columbia. Since then our medical needs have been attended to by a succession of doctors some of whom have been here for only a very short time. These have included two Dr Wards Dr Binning, Dr Inglis, Dr Bell and Dr Gray

THE ECKVILLE CEMETERY

In 1927 Charles Kasper donated three and a half acres of land for a cemetery site This parcel of land is bordered on the north by the C P railway and on the east by the Medicine River A county road on the south side makes this a very suitable location for a cemetery It is located on the SW 15-39-3-W5

The Knights of Pythias were very active in the district at the time They had the land surveyed and registered as the Eckville Cemetery The first burials in the cemetery were in 1928, being the bodies of Mrs. Jack Mackie, Jim Merriman Sr and Charles Kasper, Sr

Two blocks had been surveyed. The first grave lots sold for $5 a lot Later three more blocks were surveyed and these sold for $10 a lot The third survey made brought the price of lots to the present price of $25

There have been 200 burials in the cemetery and 400 lots surveyed

Joe Marshall was the first secretary treasurer for the cemetery, and served in this capacity until his retirement in 1947 Ed Stopsen has been the secretary-treasurer and caretaker for the past 30 years

As one of their community projects over the years, the Country Ladies' Aid purchased the cemetery sign and the wrought-iron gate and had them placed at the entrance to the cemetery

Burials during the early years were often on the farms. As well, many people had purchased lots in the Kuusamo and Guby cemeteries and are buried there. Others have been taken to Red Deer for burial

ECKVILLE BASEBALL — As Told to Sylvia Thorkman

Baseball was a very active part of Eckville during the 1920's. The first baseball team recalled is a team coached by Bert Bertram He was the section foreman on the CNR in Eckville at the time. They were in a league with Ponoka Lacombe, Red Deer, Olds and Innisfail The summer of 1922, they received the pennant in that Central Alberta league. Players recalled are: Bill Wacker and Fred Hopper, who worked on the section, Percy McGill and George Cummerford, from Lesliеville Grainger, from

Baseball Team. Back row: Ike Kaila, Mgr., Ben

Red Deer, Homer Isaacson and Matt Kalaputas, local boys. Percy was an accountant in the Canada Bank of Commerce and Steiner Johnson from Sylvan Lake. Williams came from Oregon. He stayed with the Harper family, and had played pro ball. There were probably other players which cannot be recalled.

During the years baseball went on and in 1938 and 1939 another group of players grew up. They were coached by Mr. Biss from Sylvan Lake. Mr. Biss had played ball in the National League. He coached the Eckville players twice a week and Sundays, when they played teams exhibition games, like the House of Davids, the Zuloos from the U.S.A. teams named Cubans, Edmonton Cardinals, Calgary Pucksters and Nacimine Miners besides their league games. These players were Fred and Ole Bardenhagen, Carl, Waldo and Arthur Raabis, Ray and Bill Tolvanen, Ralph Kingsep, Ray Morris, Bill Marks and Tom

There may be some names here which have not been recalled.

During World War II baseball was at a standstill, but was resumed after the war.

ECKVILLE BASEBALL FROM 1946 TO 1955 - by Don McDonald

Following the war, baseball was once again renewed. In the year 1946, A league was formed, consisting of teams from Nordegg, Rocky Mountain House, Eckville and Benalto. Some of Eckville's senior players were Tom Forhan, Ole and Fred Bardenhagen. The younger ones were Charlie and John Phillips, Bob Umari, Don McDonald and Jack Bardenhagen. In the final, Nordegg played Eckville. Nordegg won, mostly because of their terrific fan support.

In 1947 the Eckville team improved greatly with Ike Kaila as manager and Tom Forhan as coach. The League expanded to two divisions, East and West, with Rocky Mountain House, Eckville, Bentley and Benalto in the west. Red Deer, Lacombe, Clive and Ponoka made up the East division.

In 1948 baseball was still gaining popularity in town. Ike Kaila was still manager, assisted by Bill Marsh and coach Tom Forhan. On the year's team the players were John and Charlie Phillips, Wally Franks, who had previously played in Nordegg, Howard Mullen, who played previously for Benalto, along with Ted Hansen, Bert Cole, Bob Umari, Jack Bardenhagen, Bill Hawkins and Don McDonald completed the team. Our bat boy was Jack Marsh.

Nineteen forty-nine was perhaps the best year for baseball in Eckville. A new ball diamond was built, with an eight-foot fence surrounding it. Complete with dugouts and an official score sign, it was without doubt the best ball park in Central Alberta. The team participated in eight ball tournaments, winning top money in seven of these. Some of the games were played in Brooks, Carstairs, Olds, Stettler, Clive and Rimbey.

That year the team won the league with 20 wins and eight losses, and swept the playoffs over Ponoka. New faces on the teams included Frank Leslie, Ernie Gare, Red McAndrews, Bernie Hanna, Roger Berlando and Art and Leslie Stone. The club physician was Dr. Coppock and Ken Krintila was Bat Boy. The coach was Ted Hansen, who also played. For a town of 500 population, it was not uncommon to get three or four hundred spectators to a game.

In 1950 Alfred Isaacson was lured out of retirement to play a few games for Eckville. Alfred was the best local ball player ever on the Eckville team, having played professional ball both in Canada and in the United States.

During the following years baseball interest slowly declined and the local interest went with it. By 1955 the local team was playing only exhibition games and tournaments. Fastball was gaining popularity, with the younger players taking up this game.

Alfred Isaacson still farms just north of Gilby. Red McAndrews is now working for the Co-op in Winnipeg. Tom Forhan and Jack Bardenhagen are still living in Eckville. John Phillips and Don McDonald farm in the Eckville area. Charlie Phillips farms in the Joffre district. Bob Umari lives in British Columbia and still occasionally visits in Eckville. Ernie Gare lives in Trail, B.C. Roger and Jimmy Berlando live in Drumheller. Ted Hansen works for Revelstoke in Calgary and Howard Mullen lives in Red Deer. Bernie Hanna came from Trochu and coaches baseball in Edmonton.

HOCKEY IN ECKVILLE

1927 — The first hockey in Eckville was now the Coppen's residence or in the earlier days, east of Moro's flour mill.

Around 1931, the rink was moved up town and was on the ground that is now the Lions playground. Some of the early hockey players who played on the river or on the new rink up town were. Bill and Barry Armstrong. Bill, Reg and Ray Morris, Arvo Pickles? George and Ray Sestrap, George Johanson. Bill Toivanen, Ted Barnett Dick Mayer who used to work in the Bank Ken Coutts senior) George Finley, school teacher later became a Colonel in the army. Tom and Harold Forhan

When the rink was first moved up town they had no electricity, so they purchased two Delco generating plants, which worked sometimes and these were used until Calgary Power came to town in around 1937

In those days of open air rinks, it was quite a problem to get the snow off the rink If there was a game on Sunday afternoon, we would have to spend the forenoon cleaning and flooding the ice all by hand and when the snow piled up so no more could be shovelled over the boards we would have to have some shovelled back to make

During the war years, there was a lull in hockey In 1945-6 things picked up again. We had some return men coming back who had played before the war and some younger ones came along. We had some very spirited games with Nordegg and other teams, too. We used to go by train to Nordegg on a Saturday afternoon and play that night on their open air rink beside the railroad track and again on Sunday afternoon and return home on the Monday train

Later we went by car and that was a real expedition as there was only one way traffic between Rocky Mountain House and Nordegg If you met something bigger than your vehicle, you took the snow bank and the heavier vehicle

would almost always pull you back on the road

In those days, plumbing and running water were not too common especially in the country But Nordegg had both in the miners hostels where we stayed

We will never forget Clare Thomas's astonishment when he found he had a well right in his bedroom. The only complaint he had was that every time he went for a drink the lid fell down and hit him on the head

Transportation got more modern and later we used to charter buses to take players and fans to the various playoffs in which we were involved Those trips were far from dull. We think everyone who was involved had a great time

In 1961, the rink was moved to the fair grounds and a cement block building was built to house dressing rooms and lunch counter These facilities were used for only three years when a canvas was organized under the capable chair build an arena. The canvas was an overwhelming success and the arena was built Later a whole new front end was added The whole venture has been of great benefit to hockey figure skating and the annual indoor rodeo and also other community activities

After the arena was built a minor hockey association was formed and has served the younger players very well This has only been accomplished with the dedicated help of parents, coaches and referees

We think a tribute should be paid to those who by their involvement and support have helped to make possible what we have today Mr Goldfinch, Maud and Uno Krintala Ike and rene Kaila. J M. McDonald. Mrs. Ku Armstrong the oldest and most constant hockey fan Eckville ever had Ole and Helen Bardenhagen

We, also, think a tribute should be paid to Don McDonald who by virtue of his ability got to play for the Olds Elks and went on to win the Central Alberta Hockey League scoring championship in 951 52. Following that he played professional hockey in Scotland

A SUMMARY OF OUR LOCAL MIXED BONSPIEL — by J. E. Schisler — Love and Kisses, March 3, 1960

I've been requested to unree
A rhyme about our mixed bonspiel
To tell you who won, which and how
And every incidental row
If all went fairly smooth this year
And all of us are in the clear
Except a few of the lively boys
Who won a game by making noise
It's very well to root and cheer,
But don t you think there's something queer
About a man who s such a pest
He will not give a moment's rest
To skips, while they are trying a shot?
Or do you think 'tis tommyrot?

When Dr Palmer played Bill Marks
The air was thick with lively sparks
Hardly had they started play
When the Doc was called away
Two skips rushed out to take his place —
Norman Forhan won that race
One end was played, Bill counted one
The doctor came back on the run
Said he. "What s all the fuss about?
"We'll start all over rub than one out
Now Goldfinch and Deman played ball,
When Bernie Dennett caused a squall
Said he, as he began to grouse
A lead can't sweep within the house
"You can t get away with that you know
You this and that, you so and so

There was a rumor 'round the town
That a certain skip of high renown
Did rage and fiercely bang his broom Against the wall like the crack of doom
And just because he missed his shot
He carried on like a tiny tot

I would be amusing, my dear friends.
To jot down all the incidents,
All the trivial tales of woe.
How so and so could be so low
So much of that is better unsaid
I'll deal in prizes now instead

First there was the challenge grand —
To win that round it took some sand
Kennedy played against Deman
And played as only Kennedy can Never a man so smartly played.
Nor yet his rocks so neatly laid
He must have plotted many moons
Just how he'd play to win the spoons
Deman came in for second best
And there the cake plates came to rest
Battling Marks — please don't be sore
I'd dearly love to give you more
But as you only won third place,
Accept the crumb trays with good grace
Mr Campbell, full of tricks,
Finished fourth for the candlesticks
But after all is said and done
Half a loaf is better than none

Memorial Park showing Multi-purpose building and Rotunda

First prize in the Primary event
Again to Mr Kennedy went While Mr Campbell, looking dour
Got fifty pounds of Robin Hood flour
Harrison crawls into a hole
And munches at his cottage roll
He might have gone to greater heights,
But stays up much too late at nights
What does he do, where does he go?
I'll bet a dime you'd like to know

The secondary event came next
Where many a skip was sorely vexed
Mr Mann did sweat and toil,

[illegible]

And drilled and bored until he struck oil
A Banker's Toady" — you will say
But lest you chance to get too gay
Let me remind you of the fate
Of men now looking through a grate
For putting words like those in print
So kindly take the proffered hint
Derman won coffee — not too bad
For such a mediocre lad
He won flour by the bag
But listen to this — it's not a gag,
He saved the town a lot of grief
By keeping Goudy off relief
With sausages, and biscuits, too,
I think they'll almost see him through

Now we're in the final heat
Where all the second-raters meet
And haggle over meagre spoils
As they unsheath their curling foils
Marks got sweaters nice and blue
To better clothe his fighting crew
He ousted the Doc in the final bow
Who humbly took his bag of flour
Norman Forhan came in last.
By all the others he was passed
But even so, he's not so slow
He won free tickets to the show

I hope you will take this in fun
And not go reaching for your gun
For I have spent a lot of time
In trying to make these verses rhyme
So if I've said a thing or two
That might have irritated you,
Stop a while and think a bit
Don't wear the shoe if it doesn't fit

DIVERSIFIED FARM AREA REAL MODEL
District, Sure-Crop Belt West of Red Deer, Draws Many Settlers June 21, 1946
Eckville Busy Spot
Dairying, Stock Raising, Grain Growing. Year round Markets

Featuring the village of Eckville a program was given over Journal radio station CJCA Wednesday night. Included in the program was an article on the district text of which follows

The district of Eckville might be called and rightly so, the sure-crop district of the southwest part of central Alberta For never in its many years of production, has it felt the disastrous effects of drouth plague, frost or extensive hail While parts of the district are occasionally so visited the activities of the farmers are so diversified that use is put to every kind and condition of grain and fodder to great advantage

So this area might well be held up as an example of real diversified farming. The results have been so noticeable that the attention of credit men of large machinery firms and wholesalers has been attracted. Much favorable comment has followed

Eckville is one of the oldest settlements west of Red Deer And since the first settler located on the banks of the Medicine River it has attracted many people of various races. They have succeeded in establishing substantial homes as well as raising thriving families

Throughout the area one may notice the features of peoples from many of the countries of central Europe, as well as from the Scandinavian countries. The Finnish and Estonian people predominate north of the Central Alberta railway while Scandinavians are most numerous to the south

Dependable Citizens

While there is a tendency for a few Finnish and Estonian people to lean toward Communism, it cannot be regarded as the more radical type practiced by some in the east It has not spoiled their ability to realize the advantages of living in a country blessed with many good things. They are energetic, industrious, very dependable and peaceable A good many of them are well-to-do and influential in the district They farm well and their activities as such have done much to bring a good name to the district

While the village comprises only a small group of buildings Eckville is the scene of a great deal of business in the space of a year Four elevators attend to the many carloads of wheat and coarse grains that are shipped out The two great railway systems operate regular services for both passengers and freight over their branch lines

A large creamery operates the year round, turning out over one-third of a million pounds of butter annually This in itself is a great asset to the community for it provides ready cash daily to supply the tables of practically every farmhouse around.

One of the most up-to-date and efficient of smaller flour mills in the west operates steadily It turns out flour of different grades, wheatlets and other by products every hour of the day the year round. The product ranks favorably with that of larger mills and customers are drawn from places 60 miles distant

Two large shipping firms handle the cattle, hogs and sheep raised in the district And every Wednesday sees several carloads of livestock loaded and shipped out

Home-Trained Players

While Eckville is but two miles from a gravelled highway one does not have to travel to the city to conduct business. Four stores handle extensive lines of merchandise and the prices vary little, if any from those prevailing in larger centres. The village has the reputation of being a good trading centre and it deserves the name

The social activities are many Several community halls have been built throughout the area and there is maintained a lively program of events the year round. The village boasts the largest and best equipped of these, provided through the donations of a goodly number of public-spirited citizens. It is used for lodge purposes as well as for clubs, dances, movies and other activities. The building is provided with a clubroom, dressing rooms, balcony and well equipped stage

In sports, hockey, badminton and skiing are the favorite pastimes in the colder months while tennis, basketball and baseball are played at other times. Eckville boasts of a real home product baseball team that gives a good account of itself in any company

Steady improvements may be seen from day to day Settlers from other parts have been coming into the district for two years past and now practically every available piece of land is taken. Outside of two or three farmers who work large acreages, lands round about are widely held and a maximum number of people are supported

It is a rare bit of country to live in, and one is making no mistake in picking the Eckville district for a home

HISTORY OF THE ECKVILLE R. E. A. LTD

As early as 1945 the area farmers were talking about the feasibility of rural power in the Eckville area. Whenever farmers got together in homes or on street corners the talk was rural power A few of the farmers had lighting plants or wind chargers, but these plants did not prove very satisfactory but gave us electric lights

Then on July 3, 1947 the first organizational meeting on record was held in the community hall at Eckville. Mr J M McDonald called the meeting to order and explained the situation He then suggested that the meeting appoint a chairman and secretary Mr H Bice was nominated as chairman who took the chair Mr Eastman acted as Secretary

Prior to this date it is believed that a few farmers locally had been contacted regarding power on the farm, with the idea that Calgary Power would build all farmers' lines. Each farmer to pay $100 cash and $5 per month service charge, plus two and a half cents per kilowatt used. At the above mentioned meeting, Mr F T Gale, Superintendant of Farm Electrification for Calgary Power explained that the Power Company had built four such areas in the province as experimental areas, but had discontinued building any more. Mr Gale then went on to explain a new system to the farmers which he felt would be more satisfactory to all concerned.

His proposal was that all interested farmers form an association. The Power Company would build the lines at cost. The farmers were to pay the cost and two dollars and fifty cents per month service charge plus two cents per kilowatt used. The Association would then own the lines. His suggestions were not acceptable to several attending the meeting. However, at the meeting a provisional board was appointed to further investigate and feel out farmers as to their personal opinions. Those appointed on that board were: Mr Harry Bice, Condor; Mr Albert Hansen, Diamond Valley; Mr Clyde Stauffer, Evarts; Mr Charlie Skocdopole, Hespero and Mr Adolph Roke, Evergreen.

August 5, 1947 the provisional board met in Eckville. Mr H. Bice was appointed chairman, Mr Hansen, secretary. In attendance at this meeting was Mr Fitzpatrick, Supervisor of Co-op activities for the Provincial Government. He explained that an association could get financial assistance for building the lines from the Government. The secretary was instructed to carry on negotiations with the Power Company.

November 13, 1947 the Provisional Board met at the home of Clyde Stauffer. The secretary was instructed to write Calgary Power and get definite information on the points listed below:

I estimate cost per mile

II estimate cost per month for public liability and total maintenance

III definite date Calgary Power would be prepared to build the lines and supply us with power and

IV ask the Power Company to send a man to attend our next meeting that could give us a definite deal so we would have something with which to go to our people.

December 11, 1947, the Provisional Board met at the home of Harry Bice, with F T Gale in attendance. He explained that line costs were about 12 cents per foot, with a flat rate of $250 from the main line to the farmers' buildings. He also stated the Power Company would guarantee to construct the lines and make the power available to farmers by Christmas 1948. Mr Gale also agreed to send us the necessary material to sign up the farmers. The Board then agreed to set up an association, its name to be Eckville Rural Electrification Association Ltd.

January 5, 1948. The Board met at the home of Albert Hansen. Ninety-three farmers had signed contracts since the December 5 meeting. An estimation of 3/5 of a mile seemed to be about the distance between farmers willing to sign contracts at an estimated cost of $645 each.

January 12, 1948. The board met at the home of Clyde Stauffer. Four directors had gone to Calgary to see Mr Gale. They have a report on their talk with Mr Gale. Also, 116 members were paid up to date.

February 11, 1948. The board members met at the home of Albert Hansen. Arrangements for the annual meeting, March 6, at the Hespero Hall were made.

March 6, 1948. The first annual meeting of the Eckville Rural Electrification Association was held in the Hespero Hall. An estimate of 175 members and visitors attended. Mr J D Phillips was elected to take the chair for this meeting. A new board was elected to take the place of the Provisional Board. Henry Benecke, Harry Bice, Charlie Skocdopole, Clyde Stauffer, Lloyd Wells, Ed Tollefson and Albert Hansen.

Nine meetings were held by the Provisional Board previous to March 6, 1948, when the first annual meeting was held. Most of these meetings started at 8 P M and did not finish until after midnight. Also, during this time the directors drove many a hundred miles between meetings signing up contracts and doing organizational work. They all gave their time and energy freely and received no money for their work and expenses until the February, 1951 annual meeting. They were then voted mileage and $4 per meeting.

At a directors meeting on February 28, 1949, Clyde Stauffer was appointed President of the Eckville Rural Electrification Association Board, a position he held until March 12, 1974. Albert and Hazel Hansen looked after the secretary duties for 17 years.

Through the summer of 1948 progress seemed slow, so at an October board meeting, C. Skocdopole, H. Bice and H. Benecke were instructed to go out and try and find a suitable digger for digging holes. A digger was purchased, rebuilt and reinforced at Skocdopole's shop and put to work and approximately 300 holes were dug with the machine, and 200 by hand. The machine was then sold.

Then on March 10, 1949 the first power was turned on serving the rural people in the Eckville district. A banquet to celebrate the occasion was held on June 2, 1949. The Eckville R.E.A. was incorporated January 21, 1949. The estimated cost of the project was $120,000; there were 175 members to start and it cost each farmer $645 for power at this time.

This covered a land area of approximately 230 square miles. There are now 330 subscribers using electricity in a land area of over 200 square miles. When the first hook up was made the cost of a power line was 12¢ a foot. It is now $1 a foot.

The average farmer now uses approximately 700 kilowatt hours per month, compared to 108 kilowatts when power was first introduced

On April 6, 1950 at a directors meeting the secretary, Mr Hansen, was instructed by the board to contact other R E.A 's in the province as to the feasability of organizing a central body The central body was formed and called the Alberta Union of Rural Electrification Associations. Clyde Stauffer was elected president and Albert Hansen was elected secretary of this Association. Positions they held for many

On April 18, 1975 a banquet and dance was held in the Elks Hall, Benalto to honor those members who were involved with the organization of the Eckville R E.A. Ltd

Members of the first board the late Harry Bice, the late Albert Hansen, Clyde Stauffer Charlie Skoodopole, Adolph Roke and Henry Benecke and their wives were among those honoured Also, Ray Niemela and Alex Strem - honoured for long service on the board of directors. A group from Caroline led by Mrs Berdette Bystrom provided musical entertain

COUNTRY LADIES AID

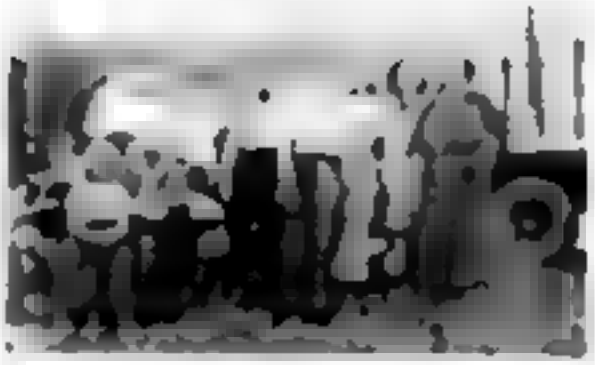
What started as an afternoon get-to-gether with neighborhood friends in 1939 was later organized into the Country Ladies Aid. Old records bring back memories of times and roads quite different from the present time. Members braved snow drifts, ankle-deep mud and bush trails, mostly on foot, to attend a much awaited afternoon with friends

At first, to occupy busy fingers, several autographed quilts were made. Hattie Bromling is the proud possessor of one of these original quilts. It carries the following names Effie Cates, Mabel Lewis. Mary Rogers Fannie Jones, Hattie Bromling, Bette Greenman, Iva Gustavson, Agnes Gustavson, Gladys Payne Mora McDonell and Gerda Gustavson. Two of these Mora and Iva are still members

Quilt making is still a popular pastime. A crib quilt is made yearly for the Eckville New Year's



Country Ladies' Aid. Frank Bice, Fannie Kasper. Agnes

Baby, and one quilt is always kept on hand in case fire strikes a district home The outstanding quilt was an appliqued Centennial quilt raffled during 1967

Early in our history Dr Coppock was attempting to establish a hospital where the Roy Saari family now lives. In order to buy linoleum and other hospital supplies the newly-formed club held dances at Liberty Hall now Onofryazyn property). Quilts were also made and raffled and even barn dances were a popular way of raising money

During the war years the Red Cross received help with cash donations as well as large quantities of sewing and knitting. Parcels were packed for overseas relief, as well as for individual gifts for local soldiers. To help swell the Club's coffers lunch was served at farm sales sometimes as often as four in a homes. Cards and happy times are remembered About this time a blind member was the recipient of $20 per month until a pension was secured for her Amateur shows, wedding receptions, bazaars, Hobo teas, travelling baskets and lunches at wedding dances were undertaken Yearly donations of $10 each were now sent to Cancer Society, Red Cross, T B. Fund, Easter seals, and Woods Christian Home With the exception of the latter these donations still continue with the Cancer Society receiving a portion of farm sales proceeds. The Arthritic Fund received a sizeable donation. A number of burned out families and several cases where tragedy has struck have been given $25 in goods

When the present hospital was built a room was furnished. The hospital has been the recipient of a number of things since then. Six overbed tables and patient name holders for each bed, as well as donations of cash towards a hi-low bed, wheel chair croup tent, and a heat therapy machine. A $300 cheque was given to help with the heart monitoring machine. Pyjamas, robes, and slippers have been made over the years. A lawn bench and two chairs were added for the comfort of patients able to be out of

Before the advent of Town water and modern plumbing a rest room was furnished and maintained where the coin wash is now located. Other undertakings were two $50 gifts toward the Manitoba Flood relief fund, the Institute for the Blind, Home and School Association, and monthly cheques to a crippled girl.

In more recent times the Arena Building Committee received two $100 cheques and the Senior Hockey Team $100 towards new uniforms. Minor hockey, figure skating, Eckville Fish and Game, Niemala's Dam, driver training and the Eckville Friendship Club each have received $50. Cheer leaders were given $25 to help pay for new uniforms. The Eckville Legion received 25 metal chairs and the Lions Club received 50

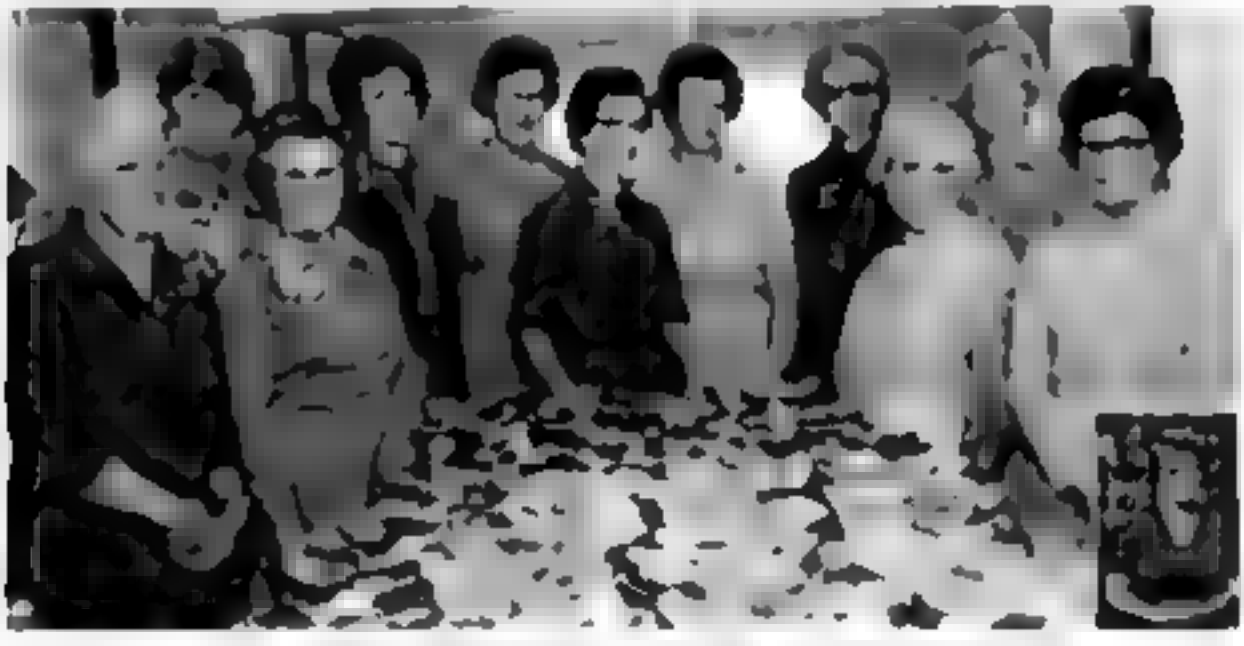
In 1966 a Centennial Rug, designed by Hilja Takkinen, was made and raffled. The resulting $210 had been set aside as a gift for the then promised senior citizens lodge. We are pleased to say that a considerable amount has been added and a colored T.V. has been provided for the new Eckville Manor.

During Centennial Year our project, a sign for the cemetery, was completed and installed. Over the years countless friends have received fruit baskets or flowers while confined to hospital. District families are remembered with a sympathy card at the passing of a loved one. Several sewing clinics have been sponsored by the Club.

Recently engraved coffee spoons were presented to 25-year members and to some of our senior members. On the list of 25-year members we find the following names: Mora McDonell, Hilja Takkinen, Iva Gustavson, Sylvia Thorkman, and Fannie Kasper. The list of Senior Members is made up of Clara Bromling, Bertha [illegible]. However, Hilja Takkinen passed away on February 11, 1974 and Clara Bromling passed away on May 25, 1976.

To make sure that our Senior citizens are not forgotten at Christmas time a yearly party is held especially for them. This is held in conjunction with the annual "Santa Claus Day" in Eckville. On Farmers' Day favors for patients trays are taken to the hospital.

Besides our monthly meetings a pot luck supper near Christmas time is enjoyed by members and friends.



[illegible]

At the present time there are fifteen members all of whom have been members for nine years or longer. The membership roll includes Hilda Bromling, Ruth Dobbs, Elsie Gustavson, Iva Gustavson, Hertha Hillman, Margaret Houston, Annie Jobs, Gladys Johnson, Fannie Kasper, Gertie McDonald, Hazel McDonell, Mora McDonell, Jean Opbus, Fern Skoedopole and Sylvia Thorkman.

ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION, ECKVILLE BRANCH NO. 156 — Information obtained from Early Records

The charter president of the Legion was Russell E. Eastman and secretary-treasurer was R. W. Needham. The first bank record is October 22, 1945. The next secretary was James B. Merriman to 1946, followed by Ed Stopsen from 1947 to 1950, during which period Harrold Tennant was president. Alex V. Brown was Secretary from 1951 to 1953.

About 1947 the Legion was given Lot 5, Block 3 by the Medicine Valley Livestock Association, from which in building they operated their business under the management of the late Thomas Smith. The Legion made some improvements to the building, and it was rented for over 20 years as a shoe-maker shop to Roy Saari and the late Wally Pukk. In 1947 the Legion paid for getting the masonry gates built to the south entrance of the Memorial Park, and also provided uniforms for the boys' hockey team and also equipment for several soft-ball teams.

Names of members gleaned from early records of what was then known as British Empire Service League No. 156 were: Russell E. Eastman, deceased June 16, 1974; R. W. Needham, James Brown, Alex Brown, Ralph Downs, Jack A. Furnell, Thomas Hanna, Mrs. Geneve Hanna, Ralph Kingsep, John R. Lemmala, A. Charles McMow, John A. MacLean, John MacNeil, James Merriman, Calvin F. Needham, Ralph Pihooja, Willard A. Philips, Thomas Hrdlika, Simon MacKenzie, Thomas Smith, Ed Stopsen, John Sulles, Jacob A. Tolonen, Harold Tennant, deceased, and Russell Aubrey.

By 1953 the membership had fallen to eight members so the Branch was declared inactive except for Comrades Jim Brown and Ed Stopsen looking after the building rental and expenses. Branch was re-organized as the Royal Canadian Legion No. 156 in 1963 with Comrade Jacob A. Tolonen as president. Ed Stopsen was treasurer.

The minutes from 1963 to 1968 seem to be misplaced. However, by April 1968 the present Legion Hall had been purchased from George Sestrap, who had used the building as a cafe. At this time there were 23 members in attendance with H. Bergh being president, W. Balch secretary, and George Johnson treasurer.

In about 1968 or 1969 the tin warehouse was sold. About this same time the sign was painted by Mr. Nygaard, a member from the United States. Tables, benches, and a piano were bought. A portrait of the Queen was donated by the Krlotilas, and the brass plate and inscription for the portrait was donated by Mr. Chesterman. Repairs were made to the chimney and supports for the floor.

Bingo equipment was bought, which was used as a weekly entertainment for some years, as well as a big yearly Bingo as a source of income for the Legion. This equipment was also lent to the Senior Citizens when they used the Legion Hall as their Drop-In Centre.

The Legion has sponsored the Burn's Night in conjunction with the Legion Auxiliary since 1969. The two groups have sponsored the Armistice Day Church Service and the evening gathering since 1968. The Poppy Fund has always been cared for by Mr. Jim Brown. The booth at the Benalto Fair was a joint project for a few years. For some years V. E. Day and Vimy Night were remembered. Fund-raising projects were the Friendship Calendar and raffles of sides of beef and pork. Donations were made to the Eckville Hospital Fund, Colonel Belcher Hospital Polio Fund and C. E. L. Christmas Hampers are given annually. Gifts are given to members in hospital and farewell gifts to members who have left. Members have been helped with plumbing expenses, funeral expenses, and victims of fires have been helped. A barbeque or social is held in June with the Ladies Auxiliary as guests. The Hall has been used for dancing lessons, play school, Cubs weekly meetings, bake sales, strawberry teas, rummage sales and general meetings and socials.

In 1970 chairs were bought, a new larger furnace was installed, and a donation of additional chairs from the Country Ladies Aid was much appreciated. The mortgage on the Legion Hall was burnt on October 16, 1971. The payment of the mortgage had been another joint project with the Ladies' Auxiliary. In June 1974 the Legion and Auxiliary entertained a bus load of Veterans from Calgary, as a friendly gesture.

Under the direction of Jim Merriman a new roof was put on the Legion Hall and the big windows were replaced with hardboard. In October 1975 the vacant lot which had been the home of the shoe shop was sold to Allen Post.

The gable ends of the Hall were covered with tin by Art Carritt and a sign erected, which Mrs. Neale painted after the outside of the Hall had been painted. The Hall was painted by Mr. Young.

Past President Pins have been received by J. A. Tolonen, H. Bergh, A. Guest, E. Fiss, J. B. Merriman, A. Vandeveide, A. Carritt, and W. E. Austin. T. Smith was president of the Legion in 1977 and L. French in 1978. Legion members attend District and Provincial Rallies, and care for the building with regards to insurance, power, heat, and janitor services.

HISTORY OF THE ECKVILLE LIONS CLUB, 1946-1975 — by W. J. (Lion Bill) Rothwell

The Lions Club of Eckville was sponsored by the Lions Club of Red Deer. Charter Presentation Night was May 20, 1946, with District Governor Marshal Murray presenting the Charter to the first President of the Eckville Club, Lion Ike Kalla. The Red Deer Club took a bus load of Lions and their ladies to Eckville for this occasion.

The following were the Charter Members of the Eckville Lions Club:

Charter President: Ike Kalla (now deceased)
1st Vice President: T. O. (Tom) Forhan
2nd Vice President: J. Alcock deceased
Secretary: J. Stafford
Lion Members: R. B. Gish

It appears that the minutes of the early years of the Club have been mislaid. The only information obtainable is that the Lions Club members joined the labor force with regard to the building of the park with baseball diamond in the 1940's.

Having joined the Eckville Lions Club in September 1956, I can recall many of the main projects up to 1973, which are as follows: The [illegible] before I became a member and assumed responsibility [illegible] and otherwise.

The Club paid rent into the hall fund for its own use of the hall, including meetings and projects etc.

For years assumed payment of hall rent for baby clinic and is still doing this.

Sponsored the Boy Scouts and among other things paid the hall rent for their use of same, which the club is still doing.

[illegible] jamborees, etc. and is still doing this.

[illegible] behalf of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The club has received letter of congratulations in the past for their showing in this project.

This project is still being carried on.

Sponsored a Little League baseball team. This was in the late 1950's. In the fall of 1960 a major project involved extensive alterations and remodelling to the hall. A new front was constructed and was two stories high, measuring 16 x 36 feet. The size of the Lions' Den upstairs was increased as were the kitchen and cloakroom downstairs. In addition ladies' and men's washrooms were installed. Entrance to the hall was moved from the front to the side of the hall with a wide sidewalk leading to the entrance door. These improvements cost over $5,000. This back in 1960 and very little labour costs as Lion members performed the work. This was a lengthy, hard-work project, and I must mention that not one Lion member reneged on his weekly turns to work. In the previous ten years, the Lions had spent another $4,000 on the hall and again labor costs were minimal since Lion members performed most of the work. We had two competent carpenters in our club who could direct the work program, namely Don Macrae and Dr. Gordon Gibson. We also had a membership approaching 50 in number at that time.

On October 8, 1960, the Lions Club sponsored a barbeque, carnival with games of skill such as bingo, etc. and a dance, in the hall with proceeds going towards the cost of the hall alterations which were already in progress. It was advertised as a "mammoth" community activity and it turned out to be just that with an overflow crowd attending.

St John s Ambulance first aid course spon sored with Lion Dr Gordon Gibson as instructor There was a large pre-course enrollment which began on January 17 1961

For several years the club sponsored sports days with baseball tournaments, men's and ladies games of skill, etc and a dance at night

Organized Santa Claus Day each year and still doing this

Easter Seal Campaign and still doing this

Sponsored New Year's Eve dances and con tinuing to do this

Participated in Lions International's World Wide Peace Essay Contest" in 1966 with $50,000 in prize money for students 14 years of age and under 22 years of age. The contest involved a local level, district level, multiple district level and on up to a World-wide contest, with first prize in the latter level being $25,000. On the local level Miss Lana Wingate, a Grade 12 student in the Eckville High School, was the winner and was presented with a Lions Club award and cheque Her essay was then forwarded for com petition in the Lions District Level

Participated in sale of cookbooks entitled "A Lion in the Kitchen" with over 900 recipes from Lions members throughout the world, in 1965. On July 29, 1966, the Eckville Lions Club sponsored a Car Bingo with many other prizes in addition to the car which was a 1966 Plymouth sedan and won by Ed Solverson of Eckville. The event was well attended and was one of the Club's most successful project ventures

The Club has sponsored a candidate in the Eckville Ice Carnival Queen Contest for some

Donated money to the Blind Golfer's Associa

Annually hosts a barbeque in the latter part of June. Farmers and other men in the community who are not Lion members are invited

Clean-up day in the Town of Eckville is organized annually by the Lions Club has provided wheel chairs for Jimmy

Has hosted and/or assisted Teen Club, etc., in providing dances for other forms of recreation in

Further work on the hall since 1972 has in cluded repairs to the Kitchen, electrical wiring installed fans, put carpeting in the den, built more tables, painted and installed new door hardware etc. In most years repairs have to be made to the roof and this often requires bringing in a trained man for the job

1974 and on, club has donated $100 or more per year to the Eckville public library

1975 sponsored a peddle pusher group

1976 - sponsored a defensive driving course donated $50 to a group of school students going to France and sponsored a carol festival which has since become an annual project

1976 and onward, club has helped raise money for the Agriculture Multi-purpose Building in Eckville and helped raise money for artificial ice in the arena. I understand that a monetary com mitment has been made by the club in connec tion with the former building

The Eckville Lions Club has, since it was Chartered, regularly held the following

Charter Night Held annually in November rather than the date of receiving its Charter in the spring

Ladies' Night The Lions of Eckville honour their ladies on this occasion annually Usually held in late April or early May

During the 1960's the Club held a Past Presidents' night annually to honour the Past Presidents of the club It was later discontinued

The club celebrated its 25th anniversary on November 6, 1971, with a capacity crowd in attendance. Guest speaker for the occasion was Past International Director Dr W T Bill Waite, of Saskatoon It was certainly a celebra tion that all Eckville Lions will remember and we hope all others who were in attendance will also

The Eckville Club sponsored the Rocky Moun tain House Lions Club, and the Charter Presenta tion Night was January 12, 1968. The Charter was presented by International Director Lion Virgil P Moshansky of Vegreville and accepted by Charter President Norman Swainger A large number of Eckville Lions Club members and their ladies attended this event

The Eckville Club members have been con scious of the goodwill generated through visitations to other Lions Clubs and as a result many of such visitations were made

The Eckville Lions Club has for many years sent their incoming officers to the Lions Training School prior to their assuming office The club for as long as I have been associated with it has sent delegates to District Conventions and Mid Winter Conferences. While I was a member of the Eckville Club, I attended two International Conventions. In addition to being there as a District Governor Elect on the first occasion and as an International Counsellor on the second oc casion. I was there on both occasions as a delegate of the Eckville Lions Club. Hester and I plan to attend another International Convention this coming June in Tokyo, Japan and wherever possible I shall act as a publicity man for the Eckville Lions Club

In the Lions fiscal year, 1960-61, every Lions Club member in Eckville attained 100% atten dance. It was an outstanding achievement and the club was rewarded with several awards for both attendance and also the highest percentage of membership increase for that year The club increased from under 40 members to about 53 members. The awards were. Lions International plaque in attendance contest District 37E pla que contest winner (involves attendance) District 37E award, a speaker's stand, involving highest membership increase that year who have had perfect attendance for as long as they have been members. Past President Ed Stopsen has had 27 years of membership with 100% attendance. Lion A f Molander has had 21 years of membership with perfect attendance. Lion Lloyd Purnell has had 18 years of membership with 100% attendance, Lion Rex Baker has had 16 years of membership with perfect attendance.

Following are the names of Presidents who have served the Eckville Club since it was Chartered —

1977-78 — Gerald Roy

Upon completion of his term as President, Lion Stan Maki was appointed Zone Chairman for the Zone which included Eckville for the following year 1966-67.

Upon completion of his term as President, Lion Adrian Vandevelde was appointed Zone Chairman for the Zone which included Eckville for the following year, 1975-76.

Upon completion of my term as President, I was appointed Zone Chairman for the Zone which included Eckville for the following year 1961-62. I was then appointed Deputy District Governor for 1962-63 of Region two in which Eckville was included. At the District Convention held in Calgary I was elected District Governor of District 'E' for the year 1963-64. Upon completion of that term of office I was appointed International Counsellor by Lions International. The latter appointment has now been discontinued and when a District Governor completes his term as such he is referred to as Past District Governor.

Lions are pledged to help through Lionism those less fortunate than themselves. Lionism is non-sectarian, yet it encourages religious observances and church loyalties. It is non-political, yet it inculcates a lively interest in government and civic affairs.

The purpose of a Lions Club is to determine community needs and develop means of meeting them, either through its own efforts or in co-operation with other agencies. At the same time Lions Clubs provide good fellowship and club social life for their members. A Lions Club also keeps friendships in good repair.

Lionism is an active and efficient medium for united community effort and enterprise. The prestige and importance of Lions work in all fields of endeavour is recognized throughout the entire world.

The motto of the Lions is — 'We Serve'.

THE ALBERTA WHEAT POOL — by O. M. Sargent

Alberta Wheat Pool's grain handling facilities at Eckville consist of three elevators. Eckville No. 1 was a 28,000 bushel elevator purchased from United Grain Growers in 1929. It was dismantled in 1963 and the salvage was used in constructing a new composite elevator. The new structure has a capacity of 157,000 bushels consisting of a 50,000-bushel elevator, a 67,000-bushel crib annex and a 43,000-bushel crib annex. The 43,000-bushel crib annex was built in 1948 while the other two parts of the facilities were built in 1963.

Alberta Wheat Pool acquired Eckville No. 2 and Eckville No. 3 from Federal Grain Company in 1972. The No. 2 facilities consists of a 26,000 bushel elevator built in 1929, a 30,000-bushel balloon annex built in 1950 and a 65,000-bushel crib annex built in 1959. The No. 3 facilities had a 23,000 bushel capacity. It was built in 1919 and was dismantled in January, 1974.

From 1932-1976 the Pool's elevators at Eckville have handled 11,834,948 bushels of grain. Nineteen seventy-three — seventy-four was the highest handling year at 674,017 bushels, the lowest grain handling was 49,052 bushels in 1934-1935.

Beginning on September 18, 1929 the wheat pool elevator managers have been W McDonald, R. R. Beattie, O. J. Myers, E. I. DeMann, A. Langer, J. E. Alcock, A. Langer (again), A. J. Kuntz, and L. A. Haglund, who took over as manager in 1971 and is still located in Eckville, in 1977.

From March, 1972, the date of Federal Grain Company purchase by Alberta Pool, Mr. H. W. Johnson was elevator manager at the pool's Eckville No. 2 and No. 3 facilities. On July 13, 1974 Mr. Johnson left this position. On this date Mr. L. A. Haglund became the manager of

Eckville No. 3 and No. 2 in addition to managing the No. 1 facilities

Pool members who have been elected as delegates to represent the members in the sub district which includes Benalto and Eckville are as follows. J. H. Suggett of Bentley N. S. Smith, of Olds, J. W. McLachlan of Hespero R. Pye of Penhold, J. W. Robson of Rimbey; Alfred B. Haarstad of Bentley Mike Bittner of Thorsby Alfred B. Haarstad (again) of Bentley J. D. Phillips of [redacted] Glen R. Nelson elected in 1974 and still serving in 1977

Delegates who have been elected to the pool's seven-man board of directors for the district in which Benalto and Eckville are located are as follows R. A. Macpherson of Delia N. D. Stewart of Chinook, R. A. Macpherson of Delia again) W. J. Blair of Naco, and G. W. Braithwaite of Red Deer was elected in 1969 and is still serving in 1977

N.B. During the 1976-77 Leonard Haglund reached the one million bushel mark in grain shipments

THE ECKVILLE HANDICRAFT GUILD — by Iva Gustavson

In the fall of 1968, adult classes in art and pottery were conducted by Velma Ebl and Gordon Thorsell. These classes were enthusiastically received. The following year 1969, a Handicraft Guild was formed. Volunteers agreed to share their knowledge of needlework, candle making and other crafts. Reg Baker offered to teach leather tooling. It was a small beginning, but has grown steadily through the years

In 1977 instruction was given in macrame, decoupage, soft leather, tooled leather needlework, crochet knitting art pottery basketry cake decorating, lapidary and chenille novelties. All of these are still conducted by volunteers

For other projects, where outside teachers are required, a small fee is charged. During the past few years upholstery furniture refinishing stretch and sew and jean making have been enjoyed by capacity classes

In order to make it possible for everyone to take advantage of a hobby the membership fee has remained at one dollar per season. Over 100 have joined each of the past two years

The highlight of the season has been the annual display and sale. It is held each year at the closing of the year's activities. It has proven to be very successful with over 500 attending and enjoying the fine displays. Proceeds from this function help buy the equipment and supplies necessary to keep operating.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB, ECKVILLE & DISTRICT

In 1972 a group of older people of Eckville began discussing the possibility of having some sort of organization for the purpose of providing social and recreational activities of the senior citizens of the area. The idea gained momentum with the result that on July 10, 1972 a meeting was held in the Eckville Legion Hall. A formal group, which became known as the Eckville and District Friendship Club, was organized, with the help of Paul Olsen, the Preventative Social Services representative from Lacombe. We were further assisted from time to time by Rick Sloan who attended a number of our meetings, and by Ed Brandt.

The Eckville Legion offered their assistance by providing a meeting place, free of charge, for the first year, and later renting us the Legion Hall for our weekly Thursday meetings until we moved into our own building in August of 1977. Local merchants also assisted from time to time by donations of oranges or other goodies for our special parties, and by offering a discount on articles purchase from them. Interested individuals and organizations have also been liberal with their cash donations.

Membership was open to interested adults, and the fee was set at $1 per year. Eighty-seven persons joined the Club the first year, and the membership has remained approximately the same throughout the years.

In addition to the weekly get-togethers a number of organized bus tours to points of interest in surrounding towns or area have been arranged.

For several years the Friendship Club sponsored a horseshoe tournament in the fall, under the capable leadership of our most enthusiastic horseshoe player Ralph Rolfsen, assisted by several others of our group. Various Eckville merchants made cash donations to provide the trophies which were awarded to the winners of the various events. A dinner, open to the public was held each year in conjunction with the tournament as a means of raising money for the Club.

Another yearly fund-raising event has been the "Fish-Mulligan" a picnic type supper featuring fish mulligan as the main dish, supplemented by casseroles, salads, and pies. Some years this was held at near-by camp grounds and other years was served in the Club hall. These meals were always much enjoyed and well supported by the general public.

A raffle of articles donated by club members was held one year and a fabric sale in 1976 added a tidy sum to our bank account.

A picture, purchased by the Friendship Club was presented to the residents of the Eckville Manor soon after its opening, and money was donated toward the purchase of a piano for the Manor. The Club also had benches built and placed on the downtown sidewalks for the benefit of anyone who wished to "sit fer a spell."

Members who, over the years, have given of their time and talents to serve as members of the club executive have been Presidents, Bert Curran, Helen Terry Mabel Kelm, Anna Jobs vice-presidents, Isabel Guest, Rudolph Dahl Roy Kendrew, Secretaries, Jim Brown, Helen

Terry, Treasurers, Ruth Dobbs, Nora Moos Bert Curran and Esther Mottus. With apologies to any whose names may have been omitted.) Recognition also should be given to Wally Mottus and Mrs. Mable Kelm for their leadership in carrying out the New Horizons Project of providing our own Club Centre

The year 1977 has been the most outstanding in the history of the Friendship Club. It was during this time that the Club secured its own property. Through the New Horizons project of the Federal Government a grant of money made possible the renovation of the former Canadian Imperial Bank building in Eckville to be used as the Friendship Club Centre. The building was made available to the Club by the Imperial Bank and the foundation construction and moving the building, along with the installation of gas water and sewer provided by the Town of Eckville Many hours of labor were donated by the men as well as by the ladies) of the Club during the summer months to make the necessary renovations

The first meeting in our own Club Centre was held on August 3, 1977 with the Grand Opening taking place on October 6, 1977 The ribbon was cut and the Centre declared officially open by Mr Jim Brown, our senior member and one whose interest in the Club has been shown in so many ways since its organization in 1972 Special guests at this memorable affair were Mr Donald Mayne, representing the New Horizons, the Honourable Gordon Towers, M.P , along with several local dignitaries. All of the speakers were lavish in their praise of what the Friendship Club had accomplished

The Club is now open two days a week, with one day being devoted to a whist party with prizes given. A pool table and shuffleboard keep the men busy and the horseshoe pits are a pop held once a month always prove popular As a service to the Eckville Manor residents the Friendship Club conducts a "bingo" one night each month, at the Manor Roy Kendrew is our genial bingo caller with Rudolph Dahl substituting at times when necessary

The Club Centre is nicely decorated by several oil paintings, as well as clocks, lamps and other decorations donated by some of the members. The families of Mrs. Clara Bromling made a cash donation to the Friendship Club in her memory A large oil painting, selected by Mrs. Helen Terry, was approved by the Club as a fitting memorial to one of our first, and most faithful Club members. A second oil painting selected by Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Jobs and Mrs Kelm was purchased by means of a donation made by his family as a memoral to the late Mr Joe Maki A third painting was presented to the Club by the residents of the Eckville Manor at the time of our Grand Opening, and later a picture of the Queen was presented by Mrs Spink, representing the Lacomb Council on Aging

Our refrigerator was donated by Mrs. Mabel Kelm and her children in memory of another of our early members, Mr Jack Kelm The Club piano was purchased by funds provided by a bequest from the estate of the late Mr Leonard

Many other interested individuals and organizations have made donations of cash or of equipment or supplies, and the Club members are very grateful for this help. We feel very fortunate to have such a Club Centre for our own use, and were very pleased to receive, at the time of our Grand Opening, such lavish praise for our accomplishments. We hope that all senior citizens of the area will feel free to come and join us in the enjoyment of these fine facilities for years to come

THE OIL INDUSTRY

Probably the most significant industry that has come or ever will come to this area is the Oil Industry

In October 1956 Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas drilled their discovery well in L.S.D.7 32-39-3 W5. This well was drilled by Richfield Oil Corporation under the terms of a Farmout Agreement with Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas. Hudson's Bay was the holder of a petroleum and natural gas lease issued to it by the Province of Alberta, covering the south half of section 32. Drilling of the well commenced on June 27 1956 and it was completed on September 6 of that year Oil production was encountered from the Basal Quartz and Mississippian formations The discovery was given an initial potential of 40 barrels per day of production. The surface rights for the well were acquired from V A Elson as owner of the SE 32-39-3-W5, and Mr Elson still resides on this property

The Medicine River field was classified as an area of 2,480 acres and Estimated Recoverable oil at 5,710,000 S. T barrels

For assistance in interpreting the map solid black dots represent oil wells, an open circle surrounded by little lines, gas wells and an open circle with a cross, a dry hole

The Medicine River field produces from rock of Jurassic age. The Jurassic age is a portion of the Mesozoic era generally known as the age of reptiles. The sedimentary rocks in the area of Jurassic age were laid down as sediments in a shallow tropical sea. Approximately 85 wells were controlled from this group office

The well discovered oil in the Lower Cretaceous Basal Quartz sandstone at 7,027 feet and in the Mississippian Pekisko limestone at 7,230 feet

As of August 1, 1976, statistics on the Medicine River field are listed in figure 2

In summary, total original recoverable oil in the field was 35.8 million barrels, 9.3 million barrels have been produced, and 26.5 million barrels remain to be produced

In addition to the oil, the original gas reserves in the field totalled 377 billion cubic feet of which 42 billion cubic feet have been produced, with remaining reserves of 333 billion cubic feet

These reserves and production statistics were taken from a publication entitled 'Canadian Oil and Natural Gas Developments", prepared by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce

MOTHER GOOSE PLAYHOUSE HISTORY — by Johanne Kasha

The Mother Goose Playhouse for four-year old children was formed in September of 1975 by a group of interested mothers. At this time the Jack & Jill Playschool had a heavy enrolment of five-year-old children, thus necessitating two classes for them. This left the four year-old group without a teacher or a classroom

The first executive consisted of President Gail Latilla (who later was replaced by Sharon Cooper), Vice President — Louise Moench Secretary — Emelia Thibeault, Treasurer — Johanne Kasha. Other board members were Terri Cunningham and Marie Posti. The teacher was Mrs. Debra OpdenDries

The Playhouse first operated in a room in the Eckville Arena on Monday Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 a.m. to 11 30 a.m. but soon had to move from the Arena because of various regulations. Then the class moved to the Lion's Hall and finally to the Legion Hall to finish the 1975-1976 session in June

The Mother Goose Playhouse was greatly assisted in its first difficult year of operation by the Town of Eckville, the Recreation Board, local businesses, the Arena Committee, the Lion's Club and the Legion

The 1976-1977 session was conducted in the Jack & Jill Playschool room in the north end of the High School building

Mrs. Patricia Green of Rocky Mountain House was the teacher for both the Mother Goose Playhouse and the Jack & Jill Playschool during this school year

REMINISCINGS OF AN ECKVILLE SCHOOL GIRL — by Alice Hawkins

All the exhibitions with their death defying rides will never produce the excitement, the "my stomach's falling out" feeling that I experienced sliding down Kasper's Hill. Whether on a toboggan or skis, without the benefit of poles, the inevitable pile up was an experience. Hurled face first into the ditch of white, soft, glistening snow was exhilarating

Smells produce fantastic memories. All the seasons were heralded by their smells. We predicted the weather by smells. It smells like rain, it smells like a chinook, (which is magic in itself), the smell of the soft warm wind that appeared from nowhere. It smells like snow. The cold air would rush up your nose on a crisp, clear winter night and it was a good clean smell. The delicate smell of spring, fresh green leaves and

The bakery had a smell that would tease your appetite. Hot bread must be the best smell in the world, and you could watch Mr. Jackson putting all those good smells on trays in the window not only one day, but every day of the week

The Co-op Store was full of good smells. The coffee brewing, hamburger being ground and sawdust on the floor. The dry goods with the smell of winter or summer clothes, depending on the season. The smell of vegetables, fruit, binder twine, leather. It was fascinating to experience all the different smells in one quick walk through the store

Garages smelled good, too. They had an earthy smell, combined with gas and grease that was sometimes sharp but always stimulating The train pulling into the station had a special smell, perhaps it was a smell of longing to move on as many of us did

Summer had a warm exciting smell — bicycle hikes to the gravel pit, a game of scrub in the va lot, jacks and marbles played in the dir Run Sheep Run and Red Light, Green Light played every night after supper Sandwiches, watermelon and homemade ice cream, summer great for smells Fall brought with it all the smells that made you feel safe and warm inside The farmers stooking, digging new potatoes, chopping wood, raking the leaves, airing the blankets, these smells gave you the assurance of a close, cosy winter

Not all the smells were good, one especially very frightening, the smell of smoke We had several bad fires. We watched Kennedy's house burn to the ground, partly out of a certain curiosity but mostly in genuine concern, to offer assistance. Every chimney fire was a potential danger Volunteers worked tirelessly to help put out the fires.

A sage piece of advice is to cross your bridges when you come to them, but this is not always as as it sounds. A particularly troublesome bridge to cross was the trestle over the Horseguard river I have always regretted the fact that I never had courage enough to walk across it. It was exciting to get to the trestle gaze at those tracks that seemed to stretch endlessly to the other side, and think "Today I'm going to do it."

It was easy to start out with bravado A certain gait would lead you from one railroad tie to the other and I could go for perhaps 60 feet without any problem. Each time I attempted the crossing, I vowed I would not look down. Two things contributed greatly to my fear First, there was nothing to hang on to, and second, it seemed a very long way down. Once I got almost half way across, and although I hadn't looked down, I was aware that there was water beneath me. Each step I took from tie to tie, increased my anxiety. I never made it Something compelled me to look down, and that finished it As on so many previous attempts, I would sit down and gingerly turn over on my hands and knees In this position I would start the long trek back, as my stomach produced all kinds of revolting things which I swallowed. I would end up back where I had started much to the disgust of myself and some of my companions I certainly admired those who could walk all the way across, and I was awed by the few who dared to while I was disappointed by my inability to conquer the trestle. I was able to find some consolation among many of my friends who, like myself, never crossed that bridge

Even though the venture of crossing the trestle ended in consistent failure there were rewards Sometimes the train would go by while we were there The engineer always waved and blew the whistle and we watched the steam come rolling through the cow catcher in big white clouds. One of our favorite games was to put pennies on the track and watch the train wheels whirr over them. Then we would pick them up and admire how flattened they were Beside the tracks, and along the river the orange tiger lilies and the tiny purple shooting stars were resplendent If the season was right, we would find wild strawberries or brilliant yellow buttercups

On our street we had an implement shed and because Mr Cowan owned it, we called it Cowan's Implement Shed." To me, it appeared huge. It was constructed of corrugated tin and I think it had sliding doors, although I very seldom saw the doors shut This was a storage shed for the farm machinery Mr Cowan sold

Every time we walked by it we would run our fingers along the outside wall, or grab a stick and run that along the side. It made a super rumbling sound. Sometimes we played inside the shed. If it was raining that was an added bonus. The rain drops on the tin roof sounded like machine guns It was an ideal place to play cowboys and Indians or Hide and Seek You could hide around the tractors or harrows and keep moving from one place to another as the "seeker" spent many frustrating minutes trying to find you

While the shed was an intriguing and mysterious place in which to play during the day as the shadows lengthened it took on a sinister air With the moonlight and the street light shining into the shed, the implements took on all sorts of menacing features. Each time I had to pass it on my way home, I was certain something would leap out and grab me. Most times I would run down the middle of the road until I was past it and then walk very quickly home

Occasionally I would elect to walk down the sidewalk The walk was elevated along Cowan's house and then it dipped two or three feet on the approach to the shed. There was a window in the Cowan house that faced out onto the walk and it was hard to walk by and NOT look in. Mr Cowan always sat in a chair next to that window and read. I could have touched him he was so close I would walk as far as to where he was sitting, and stop. He was very nice and many times I contemplated knocking on the door and asking him to take me home but I never did Instead I would take a deep breath, hold it, and run as fast as my legs would go, past the shed, past the houses and almost home finally to breathe again

Although I have outlived the Cowan shed its memory is still with me I think of the shed as I watch my own figure cast a shadow and I especially think of it when I have occasion to hold my breath!

It was inspiring to go to school in Eckville There were always so many things happening — decorating the school or making costumes for Valentines, St Patricks or Hallowe en. Labelling new equipment, unpacking new and exciting books, preparing for the exams, waiting for new teachers to arrive, going to another town for a sports event, there was always something to look forward to

Everybody went to school regardless of weather If it was 40 below you just wrapped another scarf around your head. Many mornings I tried unsuccessfully to smooth out the bumps" under my stockings caused by the underwear What a challenge to appear feminine without Stanfields wrinkles and lumps in evidence. But, unless you were extremely ill, you went to school

Sports were fun in those days, everyone got to play regardless of ability and school spirit was high on the ball field, the hockey rink and the track

My first school was held in the Presbyterian Church. Miss McKinnon was the teacher She was a fantastic woman blessed with patience and good humor I met her 30 years later and despite many years of teaching reluctant children both those good qualities were still much in evidence

A more serious incident at school was the scabies epidemic. Everywhere you looked kids were scratching. It was terrible. Dr Coppock prescribed a foul smelling sulphur ointment that we plastered all over our bodies. Eventually the outbreak was controlled but the itching seemed to last an eternity

As we progressed to the higher grades school became more sophisticated. We experienced a greater range of emotions. We all witnessed the school fire. The School was a gathering place of friends, the nucleus of all our activities we were happy there. As we watched the flames ravage the building, we felt a very personal loss

By the time you reached Grade 9 or 10 it was very much in vogue to address everyone by their last name or by a nickname. We had some good ones for the boys Smix Corky Two-Ton, Newt,

In order to ensure our attendance was regular we were given vitamin pills daily Kay MacDonald used to bring her dog, Ricky to school and we all fed him all our pills. He was probably the healthiest dog in the country

The teacher that created the biggest impression on me was Horace McCall. It was like an awakening when he arrived. It was as if he said "O.K., open your eyes, this is what it's all about. His classes were always interesting and stimulating. Perhaps it was a combination of age, teacher and the times

Although I have always been grateful to Mike Worsley for helping me pass my Physics, I can remember at least five mice that through his courtesy, ran through my desk The year I was in Grade 12 I had the fortune or misfortune, to be the only girl in the grade. It was only my sense of humour that sustained me through it I must have sat on 500 tacks that year

The "Coup" of my high school years had to be the "Great Window Caper." It must have occurred during Math class which required a good deal of board work on the teacher's part. Every time the teacher wrote on the blackboard one of us would jump out the window You had to move quickly, but silently out of your desk, sit on the window sill, pull your legs through and drop to the ground outside, which was a pretty fair drop The excitement was in not knowing at what moment the teacher would turn around. A more difficult task was maintaining a straight face and appearing interested in the lesson I think we all made it, and I remember standing on the ground under the window, doubled over in laughter It really WAS an accomplishment and it is one of my favorite memories

IN 1939 WE SAW THE KING AND QUEEN — by Mrs. Frank Coppock

We finally succumbed to the spirit which prevailed throughout Canada and we, too followed the thousands who flocked into Edmonton on Friday to see the King and Queen

When it was finally conceded that Frank would not be able to make the trip with us by car I decided to take Audrey and Donna upon the special train which ran through South Eckville, on the C.P.R., one mile from here. Miss Jolly made the trip with us and certainly made the day much easier for me by the assistance she rendered to the youngsters

Frank took us across to the station at eight thirty in the morning. There was quite a crowd there when we arrived, as the teachers were taking the rest of the school children who hadn't gone by car It must have been about nine o'clock when our Royal Train, as Miss Jolly called it, pulled out of the station We really didn't mind the long hours we were on the train The youngsters spent the first hour getting all the windows opened, and did remarkably well to lean out as far as they did without falling out About ten o'clock the cry of 'when do we eat?'" became quite general, Mr Scott, the Principal, was the first to feel the pangs of hunger We didn't eat just then, but it was not long before 12 when the first munchers started eating

New recruits came in all along the line, and there was a great deal of cheering at each town we passed through We had plenty of room in our coach and, as there were not any more added to it, I surmised that each town had a coach to themselves The bridges proved a great attraction to the children, and they got in some practice cheering each time we went over one of them

As we drew near the city, the teachers decided that they would march with the children from the station to their seats, a distance of about two miles out on Jasper Avenue Audrey and Donna had their seats reserved with the rest of the school children bu neither Miss Jolly nor I had seats arranged for Mr Scott advised us to take the bus out to where they were going and take a chance on getting in somewhere near them. However, as we came into the city we passed right by the Parliament buildings and we figured that would be an ideal spot from which to see everything, so, at the station Miss Jolly and I and the children left the rest

From inquiries at a small ticket booth at the station we found that all the seats up near the Parliament buildings were gone but since they were a dollar apiece we didn't weep over that' Not to be daunted, we boarded a street car and got off at the entrance to the Parliament buildings. That was about two-thirty and at that time there were very few spectators around at least compared to what came later Most were outside along the curb and sidewalks. Just a few were inside the gates, and that is where we parked, right on the curb, just inside the gates No one seemed to know whether we would be allowed to stay there or not, as there was a first aid station right behind us and the way to it had to be kept open However, we were lucky but had we known at the time we might even have been able to get quite close to the steps and seen the King and Queen alight from the car and enter the building The soldiers were lined up in a guard of honor right in front of us but they told us that the car would enter the other gate a few feet behind us. We were skeptical, but when we saw the Dragoons gallop by with their red tunics and silver plumed helmets and enter the other gate we realized our mistake Miss Jolly said, "Come on let's go." and I said "What about our things?" which were in a pile on the curb. But she took it all in her stride and with one swoop had all the coats, lunch, etc., in her arms and one of the youngsters under her guard for good measure We had just a few feet to go; Audrey and Miss Jolly got a good look at both the King and Queen that time. I don't know what Donna saw and I was so busy with my camera trying to get a picture that I missed out on that view I had the camera all set and aimed at the car which I thought carried the Royal Couple, but I always look before I aim so I realized that not any in that car were the ones I was after so I didn't even snap a picture

By that time the crowd was running up toward the steps and Donna and Miss Jolly had disappeared. Audrey and I went back to our first spot but I was pretty uneasy when I didn t see the other two. I left Audrey parked between two soldiers with orders not to dare move. I soon found Miss Jolly and Donna farther up the line and they came back with me, which was a better place. It was then four-thirty and we had one hour to wait before the King and Queen were to come out of the building This time we were sure they were coming right in front of us, so we stood packed right in line for the whole hour

The guard of honor along each side moved up close together with just room enough for the cars to pass in between I had Audrey and Donna between two soldiers and we were right behind them, so we all got a perfect view this time, although I was left with the feeling that it couldn't be possible that I had actually seen them

The crowd long before this had come down from their seats in the bleachers and were massed outside the gates. In our first two-hour wait we had seen the members and their wives and all those who were to be presented go by and enter the Legislative building. We had a good chance to see the fashions of the day, and had a good mind to chuck our shopping bags and lunch and take a chance on following them in Nevertheless, we didn't make the attempt and there was plenty of entertainment in the form of bands, bagpipes and marching to help pass the time quickly It was five-thirty when the procession left the Parliament buildings. We then wandered out of the gates and, upon inquiring found that traffic would be tied up for more than an hour

This portion of a letter written by Marjorie Coppock in the summer of 1939 was found by her daughters, Audrey and Donna after her death The Miss Jolly referred to in the letter was a Eckville Hospital nurse who later married a man named Ball. The Frank referred to is of course her husband, Frank Coppock

Family Biographies

ASH, W

I, William Allan Ash was born in 1892, at South Molton Devonshire. England I was the oldest of three boys. I also had two sisters, whom I never saw as they died of diptheria before I was born.

My early years were spent at South Molton where I went to school. Later we moved to Woodbury, south east of Exeter Devonshire because my parents died and we lived with relatives.

I came to Canada in 1907 My brothers came after I did. Harold Joe, the second youngest joined up with the Manitoba Dragoons in the first World War and was killed in action. Jack, my youngest brother now lives in Ameleusberg, Ontario.

On arriving in Canada I first went to Clanw Ham, North Minedosa, Manitoba I worked on a farm owned by Melville McKinny who was a South African Veteran for about three years. In 1910 Melville moved to a homestead about 65 miles north east of Brooks and I moved with him as well as another S.A veteran, Henry Monroe. I was not supposed to ride in the settlers box car as I was not a member of the family however, Henry Monroe told me to wait at the side of the track farther away from the station, and when the train pulled out of

I homesteaded the SW 32-26-10-W4 later called the Square Deal district. In November 1910, although I was not quite 18 years old they stretched a point for me so I could qualify Later I also acquired the SE 32 to make a half section farm.

I worked a short time on the Bassano Dam which was being built in 1912. Through the early years I worked out through the summers for Melville McKinny and Henry Monroe, staying on the homestead in the winter as I had built a house the first thing

I was called up for the first War but failed my

In 1915 I worked in Calgary dismantling old buildings to salvage the lumber In 1916 I worked in the Gleichen district on farms. I started farming in 1917 having bought some horses with a loan from Melville McKinny In 1918 my friend, Melville died and I was asked to and did, rent his land as it was a section with more land broken than on mine I rented mine out as it was too far from the McKinny section. In all the years I farmed the McKinny land I had only two good crops, in 1923 and again in 1925. With some of the 1925 crop money I bought a new Model T Ford. Wheat at that time was as near as I can remember at $2.50 a bushel

In the fall of 1926 I married Lily Susan Kearon, whose folks had farmed near me. In 1934 we decided to leave the desert for the rains of Lesserville A brother-in-law Robert (Bob Roberts, having already moved to the area was renting the SW 24-41-5. We brought two car loads of effects and livestock. For awhile we lived on the SE 24-41-6, then my wife took over a homestead from her father, the NE 7-41-5, in 1936 We skidded a house that I had built on section 24 with teams to the north east corner of quarter, where it accidently burned down 34 years later just after I sold the quarter to Ned Godlonton in 1970

In 1940 I bought the SE 7 41-5 for $200 and this I sold in 1960

At different times I worked out at local saw mills such as McDougall and Milton Dahmer where I looked after the steam engine. I remember one time when the belt broke on the flyball governor The saw got going at a fearful speed. The crew working at the mill disappeared like streaks of lightning It was a few moments before I was able to get the engine and all I could think of was the blade going through me It had a fearful scream at that high speed

Lilly and I had one child, a girl we named May Lillian. She was born on July 27 1927 May went to school at Washington Heights and helped us on the farm up to, and for awhile after her marriage to Elmer Howard Mason In the fall of 1948, they moved in to Rocky Mountain House They have three daughters, Margaret, twins Marilyn and Marie, and two boys Clayton and Brian. In the fall of 1971 Elmer passed away May still lives there with their two boys. She has worked at the Mount View and David Thompson Hotels for the passed 17 years. All of her daughters are married

I now reside in Eckville where I have lived for almost nine years

BAKER, MAUDE (McFAUL

Maudie Baker daughter of James and Ella McFaul came to Red Deer N.W.T with her parents in 1901 from Michigan U.S.A. She went to school in Red Deer for a short time Then worked for Bell Telephone until her parents moved to their homestead in 1902 Maudie went on this venture with them A few years later her mother's health began to fail, they decided to move to Vancouver and give up the homestead It was here she met her future husband. Ernie Baker who at that time was a barber They were married and decided to look for greener pastures. They moved to Coombes on Vancouver Island where they operated a General store for many years. They retired in Nanaimo where they were both very active in church work Maudie was organist at the Brechin United Church for many years Ernie, although failing in health, taught ceramics at a senior complex in Nanaimo until his death in 1974. Maudie and Ernie had three children. Harvey the only one living lives in Victoria He is also active in musical circles and church work. His family are very musical also, and wife, May, keeps busy as a registered nurse

THE REG BAKER FAMILY — by a daughter Winnifred Cameron

In the year 1910 my father Reg Baker with his wife, Nora, came from England to the west of Canada. With his wife and small daughter Betty he took up a homestead and pre-emption at a place called Metishon, Alberta. They brought with them just their personal things and a few household goods. Here they quickly built a sod house that provided a roof over their heads for a short time until their house was built. Their first furniture was made from packing boxes and barrels, and made homely with coverings. Then came two chickens, one cow and a pig. With this, plus a team of oxen and a plough they were all set to get going.

Here they lived and worked hard to make a home and farm for nine years. During this time I, Winnie, was born, also my sister, Cecilie, and my brother Rex.

By this time, the area was getting very dry and my father thought it was time to move. So, after some looking in British Columbia and Alberta, in August of 1920 we found ourselves landing in a place called Condor. We brought with us three train car loads of stock, machinery and household goods. My dad had bought a farm that had belonged to a Mr. Claude Saker who, later was killed in the First World War.

This farm was in the bush country about two miles north west of Condor as the crow flies, and this was about the way we used to travel as there were no roads to speak of at that time and very few fences. However, roads soon became necessary as land was taken up and fences were built. The men of the district would work off their taxes by doing road work with horse-drawn slips and graders – and hard work it was! Many of the roads were made over swamps. Here poles were put down crossways close together and then covered with dirt. In dry weather, if kept graded, this made a fair road, but when the rains came the wheels cut down to the poles and were very bumpy and hard on the horses.

The first night in Condor we spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prendergast who lived in Condor, and the second night with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patterson who were our neighbors to the south of our farm. By the next night we were settled in the one-room shack of Mr. Saker's. We would bring beds in at night from a shed and take them out in the morning to make room to get meals. So, of course the first thing to think of was a home. With the help of many good neighbors we were into this home before Christmas, less than four months from our arrival.

The reason my dad bought this farm was because it was just half a mile from a school, and with four small children schooling had to be thought of. My memories of Prairie Rose School is that of a steady stream of teachers. I don't know if we were extra bad kids, or if they saw greener pastures elsewhere. In the two years I attended Prairie Rose School I remember only some of the teachers. Miss Gertl Reighley was a local girl, and she stayed the longest time. She later married a Mr. Bob Shaw and the last I heard they were living in England. I often see two of her sisters, Mrs. Bertha McCallum and Mrs. Matile Martin, both living in Red Deer. The other teachers I remember were Miss Smith, Miss Thompson, Mrs. English, Miss Summerhaze, Mr. Metcalf and a Mr. Springbet. I am sure there were more. A number of them boarded at our home.

That first year, having come in the fall, my dad had to buy all his stock feed, and it was a long cold winter. By the time spring came there was a hay shortage in the area, and it was very expensive. Then a slump in livestock prices created a real disaster. However, like it was at that time there seemed to be many good neighbors on hand to help. I remember a Mr. Ludwig coming one day and saying "I have a large stack of hay that I won't be needing, so help yourself, Reg — we'll talk about payment later." Then came Mr. Frank Patterson with, "Help yourself to straw. I have more than I will need."

My dad, being a veterinarian, was very useful to all, in those days. I am sure he returned in full the many things done for him. He never turned down a request to go and attend a sick animal, and stayed with them for hours if necessary. I remember this well, as many of these trips seemed to come just at milking time!

The country in 1920 was not well settled and there were lots of open sections of land. This was a great delight to prairie-born kids. We would often lie quietly by a stream and watch the beavers building their dams, but just let us move or cough and "slap" would go the old beaver's tail and all would be out of sight for some time. This was on the river known as the Horseguard although at that time it was shown on maps as Last Hill Creek. The beavers had made many backwaters to float logs for dams and flood to the farmers, but they made up a series of little islands, and these were great fun for us to explore. The three younger of us kids would get Mom to pack a lunch and we would go exploring in what we called the Cannibal Islands, one-half a mile from home.

Both my mother and dad, who had left servant-run homes in England, must have found it a great change living in Canada, but they both loved nature and animals. They seemed always to have time for taking us for walks and explaining butterflies, giving each their proper names. Many times these trips were made useful too, as we would pick wild fruit, of which the country had a great quantity and a great variety. Both Mother and Dad worked hard on the farm but still seemed to have time for family and friends and community work.

Dad served on school boards, Chamber of Commerce, and was weed inspector on several occasions. He was also a great worker for the Chatauqua that came each year to our community, for a few days, bringing us a touch of the outside world with good music, plays, lectures and many other interesting things. Each sponsor, like my father would guarantee the sale of so many tickets, and I well remember going with my mother to sell these tickets, and the things we took in trade, as money was scarce in those days. By trading for grain, meat, chickens, or most anything it made it possible for a lot of people to take this in who otherwise could not have gone.

My mother, with six to feed plus a teacher to board, still had time for Red Cross, W.I. and for helping neighbors when sickness struck in their homes.

Going back to school days, after two years at Prairie Rose the powers that were saw fit to move the school to Condor and that left us in a different school district. From then on we went the three miles to school at Lesliеville.

Living as we did in the center of a triangle we were three miles by road from three different towns — Condor, Alhambra, and Lesliеville, and at different times they were each our mailing address. Over the years we knew many people in all three areas.

At this time I should mention another neighbor a Mr. Bob Graham, Mr. Bob' to us kids. In his early days he had been a mountain guide, and was full of great stories. He would often take us for walks, and taught us a great deal about nature and the way to avoid getting lost in the bush, as well as what berries were good to eat. In later years, as he became quite crippled, one of us would go the mile to his place every day to see if he was O.K. I remember him teaching my mother how to cook beaver meat: three long boilings in clean water, then cook as other meat.

In 1953 Dad and Mother moved to Eckville to help me take care of my daughter, Laurie, as I had just become a widow that year and knew I would have to go to work. We all settled in on an eight-acre place, with a large old home, on the edge of Eckville town. With a great deal of renovations the home was soon ready, and this was to be retirement for Dad and Mom. However, Dad brought along a team of horses, pigs, two cows and some chickens, so he was soon set up with his beloved chores to keep him busy.

Dad soon joined the Light Horse Association and would judge classes of horses at the local stampede. I also recall him teaching the young folks how to shoe horses, and giving many good hints to them regarding owning a horse.

Dad also took up leather carving and became so good at it that he soon was teaching it at the Handicraft Guild which had been organized in Eckville. Many school classes came down to his work shop and there they would see not only leather carving but also a number of interesting things in his artifact collection. Many of these things are now in the Edmonton museum.

For Mom this was the first time since she came to Canada that she was able to become active in the Anglican Church. She was an active member of the Auxiliary up to the time of her passing. She also enjoyed many a good bridge game. To everyone in Eckville, young and old, my parents soon became "Grannie" and Grandpa". In all, the Bakers, Reg and Nora, raised a happy, useful (I hope!) family.

Of the family, Betty married Emil Ulmer, and farmed and taught school for many years at Onoway, Alberta. For the last few years of her life she taught at Sylvan Lake. Betty and Emil had two children, Ken and Fern. Ken lost his life in a drowning accident, and left four small children. Fern married David Brooks and lives at Fort McMurray where she had gone to teach school. For the past several years she has been librarian there. They have one girl, Lamsin.

J. Winnie, married Fred Cameron, who was a C.N.R. agent and was well known in the area as he was agent at Lesueville for 17 years. He belonged to the Rocky Mountain House Masonic lodge and took his term as Master and was made official bard of the lodge. As a C.N.R. agent we moved many times, living in many Alberta towns and loving them all. Fred's last station was at Galahad, where he died in 1953.

Our son John is an official with the C.N.R. in Edmonton and our daughter Laurie, graduated from the University of Alberta as a social worker. She married Bill Johnson. They live in Edmonton and have two boys.

I had a jewellery store in Sylvan Lake for 20 years, but I retired in 1977.

Cecelia, daughter number three of Reg and Nora married Al Chandler and lived and taught school in Edmonton until the time of her passing. They had a son Frank, now Dr. Frank Chandler of Dartmouth University, Halifax.

Rex, the only son of Reg and Nora, married Pat Baker from Okanagan, B.C. They farmed at the old home farm and Rex's farm that used to belong to Mr. Bob until 1953. In that year Rex became afflicted with polio and was no longer able to farm. He became a jeweller and had a jewelery store in Eckville for 22 years, until his retirement in January, 1977.

Rex and Pat had four children. Peter is married and lives at Penhold. Debby lives in Eckville. Mike is married and lives near Eckville and Venora is still at home. The Baker family will carry on the name for at least two more generations, with Peter and Mike and their two sons, Darin and Ben.

This is my tribute to a great pioneer family.

LISA LUNDBERG BALDWIN

Charlie Gustavson went for the doctor in 1908, when Lisa was born on the homestead in the

There are very few memories of this first home because the child was only four years old when the family moved from there to Eckville However she does remember the peddler who called with his enclosed vehicle filled with many things to sell such as fabrics, buttons and thread kitchen utensils, tools and groceries, including oranges The child delighted in the color and taste of the new fruit, causing the delicious flavor to linger still in her mind

The family lived in Eckville from 1912 to 1918, during which time Lisa attended the old Eckville school a mile north of the village. While growing up she played and quarreled with the kids there Some of the children remembered are the Clausens, Ted Rogers, Evelyn Spurgeon, the Herring girls, the Garries and the Sestraps. Lisa remembers racial and nationality prejudices — the idea being that only those of British ancestry were good people

The Lundberg family moved to the farm in 1918, about three miles east

Some memorable incidents she remembers while growing, and later as an adult were

Falling through the ice on the Medicine River when returning from school, and her brother Okey pulling her out

Helping with farm and household chores Once, Lisa tripped and fell with two pails full of milk

The sad death of her mother in 1918 and she and Lester living with the Botten family south of Eckville for about two years

Her father's second marriage to Ida Pearson in 1920

Contracting TB when 13 years of age and having to stay out of school for a year

Completing schooling in Eckville and Red Deer and attending Normal in Calgary in 1925 1926 and there living with the Storeys, former Eckville residents

Teaching north of Eckville, in the Andrews school in Bentley, Okotoks, and in and around Calgary for 23 years, taking time out while her daughter, Beverly, was growing up

Travelling extensively, including four trips to Sweden to visit relatives and to other parts of Europe Russia Romania Czechoslovakia, Hawaii and the States

Her marriage to Everett Baldwin, principal of the Eckville High School in 1951

Being always and continuously interested in world affairs and politics, and running as a candidate for the provincial New Democratic Party

The unspeakable sadness caused by the deaths of members of her family — her mother in 1918, her father in 1950, and her two brothers Okey in 1970 and Lester in 1974

In later years, Lisa has come to the conclusion that the two periods in one's lifetime that are most enjoyable are childhood and retirement, because each entails freedom from tension and compulsory work, enabling one to pursue desired endeavors

BARDENHAGEN, JACK AND AGNES — by Agnes Bardenhagen

John Franklin (Jack Bardenhagen was born at Bentley, on March 25, 1928

Agnes Fern Sveinson was born at Markerville on October 6, 1925

Jack and Agnes were married in the Markerville Lutheran Church on October 6, 1950

Their attendants were Jack's cousin Robert Kraft and Agnes's cousin Thora Fisher and her younger sister Shirley Sveinson

Jack has lived all his life in the Eckville district first on the farm at Gilby and then in town where he attended school

Agnes took her preliminary education in Markerville and attended High School in Dickson and Innisfail. She entered Nurses' Training at the Holy Cross Hospital in Calgary in 1943 graduating in 1946

She nursed in Calgary and Wayne Alberta, before coming to the Eckville Hospital in February, 1948. She remembers that year well for the "big flood." Jack's cousin Floyd Kraft drowned in the Horseguard River that spring

Jack played baseball and hockey He started playing baseball with his father Ole and Uncle Fred He coached the Bashaw Men's Team when living at Dorenlee, Alberta

He played hockey in Calgary in 1945 with the Calgary Buffalo Junior Team. He was a member of the Eckville Highway 11 Champs in 1946-1947

Jack and Agnes' first two children were born in

Eckville William John Bill on July 1, 1952 and Beverly Agnes on November 21, 1953. A third child, Donald Blair was born on July 7 1955 at Lacombe

Jack bought livestock with his father for several years and then worked for Bill Marsh in the Eckville Hotel In 1953 he began buying grain for Searle Grain Company He bought grain at Dorenlee and Huxley, Alberta, and then returned to Eckville to work for Roy Berry at the hotel

In 1958 1959 Jack and Agnes rented the Lesliville Hotel from Archie and Mabel Richardson. This was a most enjoyable year and they enjoyed curling and the friendly communi

In the past few years Jack has worked on the Trans-Canada Pipeline and enjoyed traveling and meeting new people

Agnes resumed her Nursing career in 1959 and except for a short time she spent in Red Deer in 1969. has been on the Eckville Hospital Staff continuously since then

Bill lives at home and works on construction and trucking. He has played hockey with the Eckville Eagles but his favorite pastime is working with motors in his shop at home

Beverly lives at Yellowknife, N.W.T. where she is employed at the Bank of Montreal and has established a permanent residence there this year by purchasing a trailer She truly loves the North Country and participates in various sports. She particularly likes camping and fishing in the northern lakes

Donald married Beverly Ann Smith, on June 28, 1975 in Eckville and they have a son Alan Donald born February 24, 1977

BARDENHAGEN, OLE AND HELEN — by Agnes Bardenhagen

Ole Bardenhagen came with his parents to Canada in 1905 from the U.S.A., where he was born in Michigan in December, 1896. Helena Caroline Johnson was born in Hancock Michigan on February 11 1901. She later lived in Butte Montana and from there came to Canada with her mother and stepfather, Charles Angle in 1910.

Ole and Helen Bardenhagen were married in Red Deer on March 9, 1918 After their marriage they lived in Lacombe for a few years and then moved to their farm west of Gilby For the first year they lived with Ole's parents, Carson and Gunhild Bardenhagen, then moved to their farm which they had purchased from Tomingas, one mile south of the Gilby Cemetery The old log house and garage still remain, quite tumbled down, on the east side of the road and the red barn and corrals are on the west side

A daughter Dorothy Mary was born to Helen and Ole on October 19 1923, but lived only two days. A son, John Franklin (Jack was born on March 25, 1929 at the Bentley Hospital. He was the first baby born by Caesarian Section in Bentley Dr Henry was the attending doctor

Ole served as councillor for the M.D. of Lorne for several years and then travelled many miles

Eckville had a hospital. He also served as sheriff in the Eckville district which was not always an easy or pleasant task He was active in baseball and was the catcher for the Gilby Giants team Helen was an ardent fan and supporter

Ole was a fun-loving person and would go to great lengths to entertain people or make them laugh. Consequently their home was a popular meeting place for family and friends, and, of course, the good food supplied by Helen was also another attraction

Eric Bardenhagen farmed and lived with his brother Ole until he married Linda Matthews on April 20. 1935. Ole and Helen stayed on the farm until the fall of that year and then moved into Eckville where they lived in the house presently owned by J Onofryszyn at 4916 51st Avenue They continued to help Eric on the farm and Ole joined Leo Zaleski in livestock dealing. In 1936 they purchased the Matt Heikkila property on the east side of town where Jack and his family still reside

Helen raised chickens, milked cows, and raised a big garden. She kept boarders for many years When the Eckville Creamery was in operation the young men who came to work here were assured of good room and board at Helen Bardenhagens Their home in Eckville was a great gathering place for smear players as well as for fund-raising card parties during the Second World War Helen's mother Mary Angle, lived her last years with Helen and Ole from 1946 until her death in 1951.

As a result of many fractures and injuries of his leg, Ole had the leg amputated in 1953, as there seemed nothing else to do. This left him a semi invalid until his death in 1959. Helen remained in her own home until her death in October 1969.

Ole and Helen Bardenhagen will always be considerate members of the Eckville and surrounding area communities.

BARLUND FRANK

Frank Victor Barlund was born in Nakilla Finland September 5, 1872. Anne Marie Solen was born in Sukasissa, Finland October 5, 1878.

They were married in 1898 in Finland. He immigrated to the U.S. before the turn of the century, having heard of the booming times in the U.S. in letters he got from his wife's brother Henry Solin in Michigan, besides this persuasion, the clothing business he was in was very slow in Finland at the time.

He (Dad) worked in several places in the U.S. but his brother-in-law Charles Randall was homesteading in the Eckville area of Alberta Canada and hearing of the "free land boom" — 160 acres of land for $10 and a clear title if you break 30 acres and put up livable buildings — so he decided to try his luck at farming, arriving at Eckville about 1908, working the first few months on the Charles Randall farm to get ideas on farming. In 1909 he filed on the SE 35-40-4-W5 north of Leslieville. At this time the country was very new — no roads, just trails. A main trail was called the Hudson Bay Trail which crossed the Medicine River near the Charles Randall farm going west over the Lutz (Matchett's) farm, winding around and up over the Pattison farm (at that time Bantons and Hazletts) and over the Blueberry Hills following the high ground to Rocky Mountain House.

Never having farmed before, Frank was a bit green, but knew he needed timber for building and water so chose a homestead with timber on it, and a good spring.

Then he started preparations to send for his wife and two children Henry and Ina. When they arrived, they lived with the Charles Randall family south of Eckville and Henry and Ina went to Eckville school with their cousins Elno and Arne when the school first started.

As soon as Frank got his house built on the homestead, the family moved there and Henry and Ina were some of the first class held at Leafland School. By now they had two more children, Ernest and Carolyn.

Dad and Henry would cut the trees and brush and Mother and Ina would pile them to get a trail made to the homestead, as once you got off the Hudson Bay Trail, a new one had to be made. The homesteaders made their own trails at that time, costing the Government nothing. And they cleared the land the same way with grub-hoe and axe.

Once they filed on their homesteads they were on their own, no welfare or government assistance, yet they were very happy for they could see what they had accomplished with their own hands.

Frank broke land in the summer and also worked on bridge building crews for the Grand Trunk Railway and then for the C.N.R. These old bridges Frank and other old timers helped to build 60 years ago are still in use today. Frank Barlund and A. B. Koski hauled timber for some of the first horse bridges in the Eckville area. They had good horses. Dad always admired the Koski horses and the good care Mr. Koski gave them.

The homestead was polluted with big stones after Dad broke about 35 acres. He had great difficulty in keeping his plow sharp. So he decided to rent the Charles Randall farm since they were leaving for Rainier, Washington, farming there for awhile, before buying the SW 8-39-3-5 and the NE 6-39-3-5. Dad again started building from scratch. This was raw land with very good soil. From this farm us kids went to school at Bluebell. We never were hungry in the thirties or before. Men would stop at our place looking for work. Mother would always give them a meal. The Indians mother was sorry for, she would give them milk, eggs and homemade bread. They sure would remember and come back now and then.

Now I will talk of some vivid memories of mine.

In 1920 and 1930 Dad would go logging at McDougall's in the winter, and we kids would look after the stock.

In the coldest weather he would be out with horses, logging, and come with the horses all sweated up with icicles hanging from their noses and Dad would have icicles stuck to his whiskers. He would take feed and oats with him for the horses and bring back a load of lumber. Dad would leave the logging camp at daybreak with his load of lumber and get home very late at night, for the horses did not travel very fast with a heavily loaded sleigh. The dog would bark and us kids would run outside to listen in the crisp cold night. We would hear the jingle of the heel chains and the squeak and groan that the runners would make on the ice and snow because of the heavy load. When Dad came home before Christmas, Mother would say "Maybe it is Santa Claus coming" when we went out to listen. It was 35 to 45 below lots of times. The snow was drifted big piles. We would cut the snow in chunks and make igloos and pretend we were Eskimos. Dad surely worked hard to keep us well fed and warmly clothed. He said he liked it here for he could work and build on his own and not have a dictator tell him what to do and how to do it. Those were the happy times with Mother and Dad.

Mother and her midwife and nurse's aide training in the old country, which came in handy out here in the early days. A good neighbor Art Lawson, asked Mother if she would come and help them, for they were having their first child. Art had in the meantime sent word for a doctor. The weather and trails were bad and the doctors travelled with horses in those days, consequently the baby came before the doctor arrived, so Mother delivered little Clifford Lawson. When the doctor arrived, he looked things over. He said, "I made the trip for nothing, for I could not do any better than Mrs. Barlund has done." We all thought it was very good of the doctor to say so. We were all proud of our mother.

Dad died November 11, 1953. Mother died on June 10, 1967. They are buried in the Eckville Cemetery.

BARLUND, ERNEST submitted by E [illegible]

My sister Caroline and I were born before a permanent doctor came to Eckville, and Mrs. J. Olsen was the midwife. At my sister Caroline's birth, was her aunt, Mrs. Charles Randall, and at my sister Ellen's birth, Mrs. J. Kemilla.

The Randalls and Barlunds were in this area before the bridges, roads, hospitals, and schools were built. We had to ford the rivers when the water was high and it was dangerous to cross. My dad and A. B. Knott had a contract to haul the bridge material for this area because they had very good horses. In later years the rivers here have claimed several people such as W. MacDonald and Mr. Kraft.

When my dad bought the SW 8-38-3-W5 and the NE 8-38-3-W5, I went to the Bluebell school and later the Tech. in Calgary. I then went to work for my brother when he built the Alec Stewart barn. We built some of the finest houses in the country like the house of C. Martin, the Lobiaw house, barn and garage, at the present time the property of Jim Smith, and dozens of buildings [illegible].

During the war I worked for the army building barracks.

Then I decided to go farming so I bought the NE 6-38-3-W5 from my dad. In 1946 I bought the NW 10-40-4-W5, where I am living today. In 1948, the SW 18-37-3-W5, NW 7-37-3-W5 and NW 7-37-3-W5 was bought from Bergstrom, and in 1951 I bought the NW 9-40-4-W5 and SE 9-40-4-W5. Finally in 1965 I bought the SW 9-40-4-W5 and the SW 15-40-4-W5.

I married Thelma Hall and we have five children. See Thelma Hall History.

I remember when J. Plathan would bring his brass band to our farm for a practice. We would have a real picnic and Mother would put on a big spread and dress us up in our best clothes.

I remember Isaac Hakkala for his songs, a grandfather to Albert Rein. I will always remember John Molander for his comical jokes.

I remember this country when it was a boy's paradise. There were thousands of rabbits and prairie chickens, and partridge by the hundreds sat on a fair-sized knoll, doing their chicken dance. On a clear morning you could hear them for miles. It was also a pleasure to hear the meadowlark and the robins singing in the trees We had no radio or T V but we had na ure to made spending money selling rabbits to Mr D. Hamilton and would sell hides of rabbits weasels, and coyotes to Mr Leavesley The first cattle I raised were Herefords and Angus cross Then I bought a herd of registered Angus from Mr Bruns, through K. Sim

BARLUND, HENRY — by Ernie Barlund

Henry was the oldest child of Mr and Mrs Frank Barlund. Henry and Ina were the first students at the Leafland school with Frank and May Kangas and the Rolfsen children, Connie and Emil. The first teacher was Mr Ludwig but he was not allowed to teach when World War I started because he was German therefore his wife taught instead under the name of Mrs Lewis. The name of the hamlet of Leedale as changed from Wittenburg because it was a

Henry was a great help to mother when she was left alone on the farm to take care of the children and livestock in the winter Dad would be out building bridges for the C N R. Henry would take a long pole with a snare on the end of it and snare partridges. In those days the partridges would just sit in the trees and look at you It was a long way to town and we only got to town once a winter for supplies You would have to find your way around snow drifts because there were no snow plows then

In the summer Dad would break and with oxen and a walking plow He would guide the plow and Henry would drive the oxen. The oxen would feed on luscious green grass and when Henry would hit them with a switch to go through stumps, they would lift up their tails and let the fertilizer fly It was the only way the poor oxen could protest against the whip punishment and Henry would sure be a mess by the end of the day He then made up his mind there must be other ways of making a living besides driving ox

Dad could not keep his plow sharp because there were too many stones on the homestead, so he decided to leave it and rent the Charles Randall farm at Eckville Charles Randall wanted his sons to get a college education so they left for Washington, U S.A. Henry and Ina were again some of the first students at the Eckville school along with Ed and Ernie Kosk., O. Kasper, E Clausen John Maki and Elno and Arne Randall The Randall family stayed awhile with the Barlunds while Charles Randall was getting a home ready at Rainier, Washington

Henry played the corner in the John Flatban brass band when we moved to Eckville Henry got a job as a carpenter's helper when the new school was relocated to the C N R location. Then my dad's brother Oscar arrived from Finland Oscar was a master carpenter because he had completed his carpentry schooling in the old country and worked as a cabinet maker In the early '20's" he built many a fine house He took Henry to work with him and they built the house for Oswald Lmari which is still standing in Eckville today They also built a house for Pete Moro on his farm that all the people around really admired and came from miles around to see. They built two houses for Mike Sestrap and Mike said that as long as Oscar was around he was the only carpenter for him and it was also the same with Henry after Oscar returned to

Then Henry left for Calgary to work on the Hudson Bay store and the Eaton store When the prairie fire burnt out Wainwright, Henry helped build the new Wainwright Hotel and Drugstore Henry was working in Calgary when the Depression hit in 1929 Lots of people were going on relief at that time but Henry said he would not if he could possibly help it

He got a contract from Alex Stewart to build his barn which is still in excellent shape today This is when I went to work for Henry We built houses and barns for Charles Snider O. Nielson, Johnnie Razaline B. Dennett, Ted Lobtaw and many more all in central Alberta

When the war broke out Henry went to work for the city of Calgary as foreman. He worked for the city for 25 years until he got his city pension and old age pension. He died shortly after and was buried in Calgary His wife May, owns his house in Calgary and his farm at Eckville, the SW 8-39-3-5. She has three boys and one daughter

INA BARLUND — by Ina Barlund Garneau

I, Ina Maria Barlund was born September 30, 1909 in Finland. My mother, brother Henry and I emigrated from Finland in 1912 to join my father, who was already in Eckville. Later we homesteaded in the Lesliеville area.

I was approximately three years old then, but I recall the swarms of mosquitoes when we would go to the spring for water, which was about one-fourth of a mile away I too, tried to help and carried the water home in a five-pound Rogers syrup pail. One day I was out playing and a fierce-looking cougar was stalking me. I didn't lose any time running to the house and into bed covering my head with the blankets

In 1914 we came back to Eckville. My father and mother Frank and Aina Barlund, and five children Henry, Ina, Ernie, Mandy and Ellen Father was a tailor by trade and had worked in a shop in Marquette, Michigan, U.S.A. Then, during the big farming expansion in Alberta he came there as did many more old-timers from Michigan and Montana. We children received our education in the Bluebell and the Eckville schools

I remember the day the First World War was declared Father came home with a newspaper It was pink with black print even now, when I see ads printed on colored paper it brings back memories.

Soon after the beginning of the war we moved to Eckville on the Charlie Randall farm located about a mile southeast of Eckville, across from the Eckville cemetery. That land now has three oil wells. Later we moved to our own home farm about one and one-half miles west. As children we didn't realize how beautiful our old home place was. It too, has three oil wells on it now.

How we looked forward to the Benalto Fair. Mom would pack a picnic basket and nice cold lemonade in a crockery jar. Then we would sit on the fresh grass under young poplars for shade. A grass-hopper got inside the sleeves of my dress which created some panic. Mother would remove it carefully, so it wouldn't soil my Sunday-go-to-meeting dress of white embroidery, always with a pink sash around the waist.

June 24 "Johannus" St. John's Day was another great yearly event, with much to-do about spring cleaning. Everything had to be shining clean. We would bring wild flowers in doors to get the festive air, also poplar boughs over the gate to form an arbor. Poplar saplings lined each side of the doorway. The fresh blown leaves had such a fragrant scent. The house wasn't the only thing scrubbed. Mother would take the young children to the sauna and we were bathed and scrubbed. Well, I'd say almost parboiled. It was a a great feeling and we slept like logs. Then next day into our finery and to the community hall for the great picnic where we had all sorts of sports, races, horse shoe pitching, pie eating contest, and so forth.

I remember the first silent movie in Eckville with Charlie Chaplin. We didn't see much of the movie as the film kept breaking and then nothing appeared but darkness and flickering. Then the circus came to town. In my estimation that was the most awe-inspiring and enjoyable day of my whole life. To say nothing of the Chautauqua that was held in Lesliеville.

In 1918 there was a serious flu epidemic. I remember wearing a white cloth mask over my nose and mouth. There were many deaths in the outlying districts. However I recall only one. Mrs. Mike Sestrap, the mercantile store owner's wife, a kindly person.

Berry picking time could be called an event. There were many wild blueberries, raspberries, saskatoons and high and low bush cranberries. The small wild strawberries I'll never forget, with their special aroma and taste — never to be equaled. They grew alongside the railroad tracks and in the meadows.

Even though life was strenuous it seemed so simple and we were busy and happy. Sunday visiting was such a joy with many young folks coming over. Our closest neighbors were the August Kangas family. Maemi, the oldest daughter would come over often. We had such secrets as young girls do to share with each other. Our other friend, Lillian Kerkanen lived six miles away. We would visit back and forth as often as we could. Of course we had many other girl and boy friends. It would be nice to hear from some of them — still, so many have passed on.

In 1975 we had a get-together here in Seattle when Mae and Bill Scott and Lillian Kerkanen (Mrs. Olnonen), were visiting my husband and me. I called three other ex Eckville gals, Verna Lampi (Mrs. Larson), Alli Lampi (Mrs. Craig) and Ida Koski (Mrs Johnson). We had a marvelous day at the beach, and I couldn't help but note how well preserved everyone was in spite of our years.

In the earlier years in Eckville our main transportation was horses. I used to ride like the wind and often challenged my friends to race with me. Later came the cars, rumble seat and all, then the airplanes. The first plane I saw close at hand was an open cockpit monoplane at the Eckville Sports Day celebration. The pilot took a passenger aboard (a pretty young lady who worked in the post office) for a ride. Unfortunately, he flew too low, hit some telephone wires and crashed. The passenger was injured but later recovered. If I remember correctly, the pilot was unhurt.

Threshing time was quite an event. The old steam engine threshing outfit had 18 to 20 men working on the crew. I'll always remember the water man who hauled the tank of water for the engine. The big meals and morning and afternoon coffee carried to the fields kept the women folks busy.

Dancing was a popular form of entertainment in those days. Friday nights being the end of the week we could dance until three in the morning but there was no dancing after midnight on Saturdays. In the summer everyone went to swimming. Those were happy days!

One of the most interesting people I remember was Mr. J. Olson. He was a great gentleman. I never tired of his tales and his telling us about evolution. A most interesting man. There were many more interesting people, but cannot recall their names.

I attended the Bluebell and the Eckville schools. I was married to Harold Poirie in 1929 in Calgary. He passed away in 1950. In 1957 I married Captain Sidney Garness. Harold and I had two boys, Paul and Ronald. Paul died at the age of 28 years. He was in the service in Germany then taught school until his death. Ronald lives in California.

I have spent some time living in the United States, first in Montana and then I went to Seattle in 1941. I now live in Seattle with my husband, Sidney. We both enjoy our retirement.

LYDIA W. [illegible]STROM

In the spring of 1893 my parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Halverson, together with their family of two children, a boy, Nick, and a girl, Lydia, arrived in Halifax, Nova Scotia from Sweden.

Before we became settled here, however, we were encouraged by relatives living in Chicago Illinois, to come to the United States. This we did, and our relatives helped my dad find work.

We remained in the U.S. for two years, but, in 1895, we responded to the encouragement of friends to come to Canada and get a "free homestead." Our friends had settled in the Burnt Lake district, which at that time was a part of the Northwest Territories of Canada. We travelled by train as far as Red Deer, and from there our transportation was by lumber wagon, pulled by horses. There were no roads through the country — only trails which wound around, avoiding as much as possible the bogs and sloughs which were numerous. Mosquitoes were a constant pest, but the people we met seemed to be happy, which was an encouragement to us.

My father took up a homestead, the SE 16-38-1-W-5. This land was heavily timbered and stony, but it had two good springs for our water supply. So, with wood and water, he felt quite satisfied. He soon built a two-room log cabin with a shingled roof that didn't leak too much, and with a rough plank floor that wasn't quite level. The door did not completely open very easily, either. Still, it was the best home all around, and we were quite content and happy living in it. All the land clearing was done by hand, as this was long before anyone had ever heard of a tractor or a bull-dozer. We cut the timber and sawed it into piles of stove wood. We grubbed out the stumps and picked the rocks and hauled them off from about twenty-five acres of land which we had cleared.

My father had purchased a quarter of CPR land but cash money with which to make the payments was very hard to find. After reading an advertisement in a paper indicating that men were wanted to work in a sawmill at Ballard, Washington, U.S.A., Dad decided that this might be a solution to the lack of cash. "Good climate, good pay" were offered in the ad as inducements for people to respond. So we were off again for the United States! However, we found that the climate was wet, the pay was $1.75 for a ten-hour day, and the work was wheeling scrub boards to a burner. The pressing need for cash, though, persuaded us to make the best of it. My brother quite school and got a good job in a shingle mill. Together, they were able to accumulate a little bit of extra money and in 1904 we all returned to Canada, being very happy to be back on our homestead. Sister Hilda had been born in Ballard, now Seattle, Washington, while we were living there.

In 1918 my family had a visit from a photographer, John Hillberg, from Anaconda, Montana. He had got our address from relatives in Sweden, so he had decided to take a trip to Canada in July, and came to see us while on his trip. At this time we got our mail in Red Deer, and he found someone there to bring him out to our farm. In the course of our conversations I became much interested in the photography business, and, at his invitation, went to Anaconda in October of 1918 to work and to learn the photography trade. This trip required two days of travel, involving six train changes. When I reached Anaconda I was very ill and landed in the hospital with the flu, where I remained for three weeks. During the flu epidemic the hospital staff wore masks over their faces all of the time.

John and I were married in 1919. We remained in Anaconda for a short time, then spent five years in Twin Falls, Idaho, followed by four years in Bellingham, Washington, where John passed away in February, 1929.

In October of 1929 I returned to Canada. My family were still living in the Burnt Lake area, so I built a house in Sylvan Lake where I lived until I sold the house in the summer of 1934. During a part of this time I boarded a girl who worked as a clerk in the bank, and in this way I kept busy.

December 1934, brought a change in my life when I married John Bergstrom, who was a farmer in the Diamond Valley area south of Eckville. On the farm we raised grain, livestock, hogs, turkeys, and chickens. Prices were low in those days, but with hard work and keeping busy we continued on the farm until 1946. At this time we sold the farm and the machinery, and bought an acreage at Eckville to which we moved. Here we built a house and reserved space for a big garden, but rented out the rest of the land.

This was our retirement home until April of 1961, at which time John passed away, and was buried in the Arrest Cemetery in Red Deer. That summer I sold the acreage and bought a house in Eckville on 52nd Avenue, where I am living at the present time.

BROWLING, CLINTON AND CLARA AND FAMILY — Written by their Eldest Daughter Hattie

We moved from Mankato, Minnesota, U.S.A. in the year 1913 to Eckville, Alberta. Our first stop was with our grandparents, August and Julia Mitzner, in Eckville, as they owned and operated a hotel there at that time. We became very interested in watching the different teams of oxen that would come to town. Sometimes there would be six or eight teams tied to the hitching rail on Main Street.

We then moved to the August Mitzner farm (SE 25-39-3-W5), which was northeast of town. We lived here for two years. In 1914 our father hauled freight from Red Deer to Eckville with a team of horses. He would leave early in the morning and be in Red Deer by twelve o'clock. After loading his wagon he would rest his horses overnight and then start back to Eckville the next morning — a long and hard trip at the best. That winter he worked at a saw mill west of Rocky Mountain House. It was easy for him to get work, as he had owned and operated a mill while living in the United States, and he was a good sawyer. During this time Mom stayed home and looked after the family and did the chores. That same year our sister Leilah Alberta was born, making another addition to the family.

In 1915 we moved to John Bromling's farm south of Eckville, the farm now being owned by Cunninghams. We lived here until 1918. Our father made a trip back to the United States to sell his farm there. He was the first person to make a deposit in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which is now the Drop-In Centre for the Friendship Club. While living on the John Bromling farm Father and Bill Schunamen cut by hand and hauled 100 cords of wood to the creamery in Eckville one winter. Our sister Julia was born while we lived on this place.

Our father was interested in all sports, and spent several winters out West hunting. He was a personal friend of the late Clarence Sands, the big game hunter and guide at Nordegg.

Our next move was to the farm west of Eckville which is now owned by Tom Smith. SE 20-39-3-W5). We lived there until 1932, and Curtis and Cletis were born during this time.

In 1922 our father, with Calvin helping, hauled ice from the river for refrigeration for the creamery in town, and continued this for 25 years. Curtis helped with this job during the last ten years. Curtis also helped with digging several basements in town.

He and Calvin hauled gravel from the pit west of Eckville with two four-horse outfits and loaded it on flat cars in town. It was then shipped to Sylvan Lake to build the hotel there.

We were all fond of horses, and at one time had 20 work horses. All the farm work in those days was done with horses. Calvin broke horses for Armstrong Brothers, as they owned a big horse ranch. He also rode bucking horses at the rodeos around the country, and won first prize at Bonalto one year.

We had some music in the family — enough to amuse ourselves with. Calvin played a cornett in John Flatban's band at one time. John Bromling and our father organized an old-time orchestra one winter and played for old time dances around the country. They wouldn't have made the Grand Ole Opera, but they did have alot of fun. Members of the orchestra were John and Clint Bromling, Rudolph and Art Dahl, Ernie and Clarence Havens, Slim Meyers, Bernie Dennett, and August Harju.

In 1932 we moved to our present location south of Wood Lake. Mom moved to Eckville at the age of 62. She took and raised a foster daughter Carol, who lives in Texas now, where she married Donald York. They have two children. Curtis and I stayed with our dad on this place.

Bessie married Greg Nelson and they had five children. Emma married Bert Bagstad and they had five children. Leilah married Frank Watson, and they also had five children. Julia married Art Lutz and they had eight children.

Our father passed away in 1956. Curtis and I farmed here until 1962. He met and married Hilde Bouwsema, and they moved onto the Zaleski farm north of town. They have two children. Hilde had come to Canada from the Netherlands in the year 1956. Cletis served in the armed forces in World War II. He married Lovera Kye and now lives in Rocky Mountain House.

Our Mom was a member of the County Ladies Aid for several years. She was interested in card games and bingo. She passed away in 1976 at the age of 92 years.

CATES, MR. AND MRS. STANLEY

We were married in a small town, Wheatley Ontario in the year 1917. Shortly after the wedding we came west to Travers. Our three daughters were all born in the Travers district. Meryl in 1918, Madaline in 1921 and Rena in 1925. We lived through the heartache of sandstorms, cut worms, grasshoppers and drought for 16 years.

Through the glowing stories of a school teacher from Bentley, who boarded with us for a short time, we became interested in the Bentley Eckville district. We came looked it over and decided to stay. We bought a quarter section of C.P.R. land northwest of Eckville.

We moved in September, 1933. The winter of 1933 was a very cold one. We lived in a granary that winter, and nearly froze at times. Many times we were thankful to our many wonderful neighbors for the help they gave us. The next year we built a log house.

Our son Kenneth was born in 1936. The children went to three different schools. First was Shady Lane, where crossing the Horseguard River was sometimes impossible because of floods, and in winter because of the deep snow. Madaline and Rena went there, usually on horseback or in a home-made sled. Kenneth and Rena went to Wolfe school for a while, then to Eckville, where they finished their schooling. I belonged to the Country Ladies Aid for many [illegible].

We moved to Calgary in 1965, where our family had settled. Meryl married Maurice Dean, Madaline married Henry Gable and now lives in British Columbia. Rena married Orville Liddicoat and lives in Edmonton. Kenneth married Hazel Dipple and lives at De Winton.

Mr. Cates died in 1972, and I, Effie Cates, now live in a unit as Elbow Valley Lodge, a senior citizens' home in Calgary.

CLAUSEN DAN — 1908

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Clausen, Eckville, Alberta and Child — 1908

THE CHRISTIE FAMILY — by Iva Gustavson

The Christie family, consisting of brothers George and Jack and sister Mary, arrived in the Eckville area in 1919. They bought a quarter section of land, two miles west of Eckville, from Jay Walker, an uncle of Kit Armstrong. An additional quarter section was purchased from the CPR.

After emigrating from Fife, Scotland, they had spent a number of years in Calgary George was a World War I veteran. The brothers were excellent stonemasons and worked on the Banff Springs Hotel before and after coming to Eckville. Here they were in great demand as chimney builders. The Eckville Memorial Hall once boasted a fireplace built by the Christies

They enjoyed their extensive library classics, politics and religion — nothing frivolous The weekly Boston Symphony Concert on the radio, was thoroughly enjoyed George played the concertina when neighbors gathered for a sing-song George was a familiar figure on his bob-tailed sorrel horse, Rufus He was a regular visitor to the Mukl household for the weekly Saturday "sauna"

Mary was a marvelous cook and loved to entertain her visitors with cake and tea. In 1926, she returned to Scotland to care for their elderly parents. After they passed away she returned to her home at Eckville in 1930

George passed away in 1938. Shortly after his death Jack and Mary sold their farm to the Smith Brothers and held an auction sale

Jack and Mary moved to Victoria and later to Vancouver Mary cared for Jack for the many years he was confined to a wheelchair After his passing she lived with a friend finally going to a nursing home She lived to the age of 101 years

DR. FRANK HOUSTON COPPOCK

Frank Coppock was born in Winnipeg in 1896 the eldest son of Ernest and Mary Coppock. He moved with his family to North Battleford in about 1906. Following the completion of his high school work he attended the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon and graduated with a B.A. in 1917 He joined the Flying Corps and, following demobilization, took University work in medicine, graduating from the University of Manitoba with his M.D in 1925. He interned at the Winnipeg General Hospital, then worked briefly with Dr H E Alexander of Saskatoon before establishing his own practice in April

Miss Lulu Andrew and Chester Lodgson — 1918

926, having bought out the practice of Dr A B Stewart of Rosthern, Saskatchewan.

While in Rosthern Dr Coppock served on the Town Council and was campaign manager for his friend, Mr Walter Tucker. He was active in medical circles of the province, and was an active member of the local Masonic Lodge.

Following his marriage to Marjorie Frawley of Rosthern in 1928 he continued his medical practice there until September 1938. At this time he moved, with his wife and two daughters Audrey and Donna, to Eckville, Alberta. Dr Coppock maintained his active association with the Masonic Order and with the Alberta and the Canadian Medical Associations as well as finding time to contribute to the local endeavours of the growing village of Eckville.

The Coppock family first lived in the house now owned by Mr and Mrs. Allan Ralph but later bought the late Oswald Umari's house, now owned by Mrs. Florence Wansman. His first office was at the south end of Main Street on the west side. Later he moved his office into the house, now the home of the Pat Hovens, and he built the present Eckville Clinic.

At this time the old hospital had been closed due to lack of finances. It had been operated by Dr Palmer who had retired. Doctor Coppock at once took steps to reopen the hospital (the present home of Roy Saari). It was soon found that this building was too small to accommodate the patients seeking admission. As a result, Doctor Coppock started the procedures necessary to have the present hospital built and it was due to his untiring efforts that we now have what is known as the Eckville Municipal Hospital, which was opened in 1946.

In addition to his dedicated attention to the medical needs of the community, Doctor Coppock found time to serve on the local school board and on the Village Council, and was active in all community affairs until his death in December 1953. He was president of the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons at the time of his death.

Mrs. Coppock passed away in Calgary in 1973 and is buried beside her husband in the Red Deer Cemetery. Dr and Mrs. Coppock had two daughters, Donna and Audrey.

Donna Coppock (McCaider) was born in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, on September 30, 1932. Her early education was obtained in the schools of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, Eckville and Red Deer before she attended the University of Alberta in Edmonton, graduating with a B Ed degree. Donna has worked as a teacher in the Calgary schools for many years. She has two children.

Audrey Coppock (Sloan) was born in Saskatoon on May 30, 1929. She also attended school in Rosthern before coming to Alberta where her schooling was continued in the Eckville and Calgary schools before her attendance at the University of Alberta at Edmonton where she obtained a Master's degree in Social work. She was a social worker in Calgary for a number of years and is now in Regina. She worked as a director in a hospital there, for quite some time, but is now retired. She has two children.

LURAH AND JOSEPH COUTTS AND FAMILY — by Alberta Elliott

Lurah Coutts was born Lurah Elizabeth Shoemaker in Corning, Iowa, U.S.A. on January 15, 1890. She grew up and went to school near Corning and worked as a milliner in that area.

Joseph Coutts was born in Sunnyslope, Aberdeenshire, Scotland in 1878. In the late 1800's he emigrated from Scotland, working his passage across on a cattle boat. For several years he worked on farms in Iowa, showing cattle on several occasions at the fairs in Chicago. While working on a farm near the Shoemaker family he met Lurah. They were married February 8, 1913 and moved to a farm in the Camrose district in Saskatchewan. In 1918 they moved to Eckville where they bought the old Eckford place, one and one-half miles from the present town of Eckville. In 1944 they sold the farm and retired to Calgary. Joseph passed away in August 1951 and Lurah in August 1979. Lurah and Joseph had six children.

Evelyn (deceased in 1960) was married to Joe Morrisroe, of Bentley, Alberta in 1941. They had one daughter.

Josephine married Alphonse Stan in 1943 They reside in Rockyford

Donald married in 1960, and lives in Calgary He has two children

Alberta married Carl Ehret in 1948 and lives at Ardrossan. They have five children

Charles now resides in Youngstown

In the early days at Eckville the travelling Watkins and Raleigh salesmen wound their way through the countryside selling everything from lodine to vanilla, to thread and needles, plus a lot of salves, ointments and health remedies. My mother always kept a full can of strong menthol ointment on hand, which she would rub vigorously on the chests of any of her children who showed signs of developing the inevitable cold Thick flannel cloths were then wrapped around the necks and chests and the perspiring off spring were sent off to bed. It was very important that colds be watched carefully as pneumonia was a killer in those days, and there were no antibiotics to check its advance. The local doctor did not have an easy life then, and had to make house calls in all kinds of weather

I am told that when I decided to arrive, during a raging blizzard in March, a neighbor, Jimmy Merriman was also trying to make his presence known The doctor finally made it to both places in a car equipped with skis in the place of front wheels and cracks on the back wheels

We did not have such things as school buses when I went to school and we had a one and one-half mile trek to town In the winter, when the river was frozen over, we were able to cut that distance in half The Medicine River provided much of our recreation in those days — swimming during the summer and skating in the [illegible]

The Liberty Hall, about a mile and a half north of town and adjacent to our farm, was a great social gathering place for the Finnish community when I was growing up Although many of the plays and concerts held there were in the Finnish language, we all went and enjoyed watching whatever was offered. Dances were also held there, and the Liberty Hall had the distinction of having the best floor in the country

My mother and father enjoyed the whist and bridge games held weekly or monthly in the Eckville Hall in town. These social evenings were followed by dances. All the girls learned to dance when they were 10 or 12 years old by dancing with each other It was a big thrill when the [illegible]

COVLIN, MIKE

Mike Covlin was born in North Dakota and moved with his parents and family to the Stettler district. In 1906, they moved to a farm in the Loyalist, Alberta area, where he grew up and later, after the passing of his parents, he and his four brothers farmed until 1938 when Mike bought a garage-machine shop and moved into Consort

Eileen Covlin (nee Lloyd) as a child, moved from Calgary to the Lloyd Hill district in the spring of 1920. This district was named after Albert Lloyd who managed the Post Office from 1912-1928

In September, 1939, Mike and Eileen were married and lived in Consort until August 22 1946, when they sold the business and moved to Eckville. By this time, Helen Priscilla, aged five years, Richard William three years, and Margaret Elizabeth, three months, had been born into the Covlin family

Mike purchased the two lots on the corner of main street where the "body shop" now stands, and two acres down by the river from Mr Von Holtum who at that time, lived in Vancouver The dwelling was adjacent to the Moro Flour Mill, just north, close to the bank of the Medicine River

Mr and Mrs. Cyr, who lived across the track south of the old C.A.D.P., kindly let us store our garage equipment until the garage was built.

Coming from the dried-out area, rain was welcome, but our first week here it rained almost all the time

Mike sent to the States for a pattern to make the machine in which the cement block was made. The late Charlie Johnson and one other older man helped. In the fall of 1947 the building was ready and business began and the name, Eckvide Farm Equipment was soon erected

Mike was agent for J F Case Machinery and Imperial Oil and subagent for Hillman cars Dianne Marie was born May 30, 1949

In the spring of 1952, Albert Schofer bought the acreage by the river and Mike bought 53 acres from Mr Cowan south of the track. Soon he moved an old storage shed over and, again with the help of Charlie Johnson, it began to take shape and the family took up residence. The spring of 1960, an oil company drilled a well on the property and as a result workers flocked to town and thus the "Cavlin Trailer Court" came into being

All four children received their education at Eckville

Helen worked in the Imperial Bank of Commerce later in 1962 married Stan Makl. At this writing they live in Rocky [illegible] Stan is manager of the Credit Union. Their boys Cameron, 14, and Wendell, 12, are both hockey players

Richard joined the Canadian Air Force and later married Verna Saari. At present they live in Edmonton and to them was born Kristina, now seven years, and Terri-Jean, five years. After leaving the Air Force, Richard studied law at the U of A, becoming a lawyer Verna is a school teacher

Margaret took a course at SAIT and became a dental assistant and worked in Edmonton. At present she is married to Ronald Lysell and they have Robin Michael 10 years and twins Nicole and Kent six years. Ronald being in the Canadian Navy, they live for a time at the east coast or the west; at the present are in Victoria

Dianne Marie attended Junior College Red Deer and on to the U of A and graduated with her B.Ec. in Edmonton

Mike Cavlin passed away January 23, 1967 The garage was sold also the trailer court Eileen worked for several years in the cafeteria of the Co-op but in 1974 had to retire because of ill health. She continues to make her home in [illegible]

COWEN WILLIAM H

Mr and Mrs. William Cowen moved to Eckville in 1919 from Merritt, B.C. After his arrival in Eckville, Mr. Cowen established a hardware store Later that same year Mrs Cowen passed away. There were no children Mrs. Cowen had been the former Clemantine Beamish. She was born in Ontario and had been trained as a nurse Before moving to Eckville she had been the matron of the Merritt Hospital Mr Cowen took her remains to Ontario for burial.

In 1921 Mr Cowen married Agnes Elizabeth Edgar Miss Edgar had come to Eckville to visit a friend, Mrs. Fred Helmbecker, with whom she had gone to school In this way she became acquainted with Mr Cowen, and they were married in December 1921 In August 1923 twins were born to them The boy was named Robert (Bob), and the girl was named Selina

After some years in the hardware business Mr Cowen sold the store to Builders Hardware He then went into the implement business, along with bulk oil sales, and continued with this until his retirement

Mrs. Cowen passed away in February, 1949, and in 1950 Mr Cowen sold their home in Eckville and moved to Calgary to be with his daughter, who was working there at that time

Selina married Fred C Boarland, formerly of Matador, Texas, U.S.A. in 1953. After her marriage Mr Cowen moved to Devon, Alberta to be with his son Bob. In 1955 Bob married Marie LeRoy formerly of Fort Saskatchewan At the time of their marriage she was a nurse in the Devon Hospital

Mr Cowen later returned to Calgary where he remained until his death in July 1958, at the age of 85 years. He was a former member of the Odd Fellows Lodge. He donated the land where the Eckville Memorial Hall now stands

Mr and Mrs Cowen are buried in the [illegible]

THE CUNNINGHAM STORY — by Minnie Cun[illegible]

Mr and Mrs James Madison Cunningham and six children came from Conquest Saskatchewan in 1926 to make their home in the Eckville district, three and a half miles southwest of the village

James Madison, of "JM" as he was called, was born at Lakeport Ontario in 1876 and came west with his parents to homestead at Bounty Saskatchewan in 1906. Edith Mary Burcham was born in London, England in 1882. She came to Canada in 1898, then returned to England and again came to Canada in 1908 to marry "JM"

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Cunningham in 1908

A cyclone passed through the Conquest area on July 25, 1925, destroying a large barn, wind mill, pump and water tank, so a move to a new region seemed necessary. The relocation proved to be a wise one because a few years later a great depression spread across the prairies.

The farm consisted of a half section, S.E. 5-39-3-W3 and N.W. 4-39-3-W3 plus a quarter section of rented land, N.W. 5-39-3-W3, which "JM" purchased two years later.

The family included four sons and two daughters: Archie, Laura, Claude, Audrey, Tom and Wally. The younger four attended school at Bluebell. Claude, being one of the big boys, took the job of lighting the fire and sweeping the school. He would leave early in the morning to do this, going on horseback. He got six dollars per month.

When Archie was about twenty he acquired a Stainer violin for twenty dollars. He played for dances with Mrs. Bill MacDonald pianist. Clarence Fitch sometimes chorded on the piano substituting for Mrs. MacDonald. Roe Hancher performed on the saxaphone. The drums were played by whoever was available and willing. Claude helped out, and also John Vitalis. It is interesting to note that this orchestra initiated the twenty-five cent admission fee for dances at Liberty Hall where capacity crowds attended. Lunch was extra. This example was soon adopted by other communities. These were "the good old days!"

It was nothing to go to a dance in 30 or 40 below zero weather with a fast team and sleigh. No one noticed the cold when bundled up and tucked in with a heavy robe. The horses travelling at a good pace, the runners crackling over the snow, and the stars shining brightly in a cold dark sky. On one occasion they were out with a one-tier wagon box and sleigh heading home in the wee small hours. Archie was driving in company with Laura, Audrey and Helen, Mamie and Ralph Kangas. The horses were going at a fast trot down Lutz's hill half a mile south of Eckville. The road was icy and the sleigh started to slide sideways. Something hit the box and it overturned in the ditch, dumping everyone in the soft snow. Archie held onto the lines, stopping the horses. After a stunned minute or two, all recovered and gave a boost to right the box and put it back into position. The snow-covered passengers piled in and all arrived home safely a short while later.

Laura, Wally, Mrs. Cunningham, Tom, Mr. Cunningham, Claude, Audrey and Archie

Audrey was the first to be married. In 1935 she became the bride of Harry Olsen. They have farmed in the Bluebell district ever since. They have two daughters, Joanne and Faye. Joanne and Bill Budvardson and two sons, Jim and Perry, now living in Eckville. Faye and Melvin Molander live in Didsbury and have two children, Cheryl and Corey.

Laura married Charles McCune of Red Deer in 1936. They farmed at Shady Nook. In the fall of 1947 they moved to Kelowna where they bought a two-acre orchard. They had three daughters, Carol, Betty and Colleen. Carol works in Kelowna. Betty and Wimp Hughes live in Calgary. They have three children, Garth, Gavin and Lorrae. Colleen and Mick Logan live in the Eckville district and have two daughters, Holly and Kim. Charles McCune passed away in 1957.

Claude and Margaret Olsen were married in 1936. They live one mile east of the old home place. There are three children, Lloyd, Dale and Judy. Lloyd and Linda are living in Eckville and have a daughter and son, Dawn and Neal. Dale and Mary are living on the old Cunningham farm. They have a son, Ronnie. Judy is working in Calgary.

Tom married Phyllis Binks in 1940. That summer Tom enlisted in the 17th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery and was based in Calgary until January when he went overseas. Tom returned home in May, 1945 and farmed in the Eckville district for a few years. They are now living at Mirror. They had three sons, Bob and twins Barry and Brian (Brian passed away in 1967) and two daughters, Barbara and Brenda. Bob and Carol live in Calgary and have two boys, Tim and Kelly. Barry and Ena and two sons, Brent and Curtis, live in Red Deer. Barbara works in Red Deer and Brenda is in Calgary.

Archie and Minnie Binks were married in 1941. They farmed in the Eckville area for several years, and now reside in Red Deer. They had four children, Doreen, Derek, Glenn and Eileen. Doreen and Graeme Storck live in Calgary. They have a son, Aric Justin. Derek and Audrey also live in Calgary, and have a daughter, Pamela. Glen and Edythe are also in the same city. Eileen and Arthur Lawrence are living on the farm at Pine Lake and have three children, Leita, Tanya and Jarret.

Wally and Betty Maddox were married in 1951, and have always lived in the Eckville area. They have a family of four children, Lois, Gerry, Darryl and Susan. (An infant son, Greg, died in 1956). Lois and Peter Duncan live near Eckville. They have two children, Kelli and Shawn. Gerry and Terri Mottus have a son and a daughter, Jeremey and Melanie. Gerry was employed in the hardware department of the Eckville Co-op Store, but after taking special training at the Saskatoon Co-op College and apprenticing at the Red Deer Co-op Store, he is now hardware manager of the Co-op Service Center in Fort St. John, where they are now living. Darryl and Susan are still at home. Wally enlisted in the Canadian Infantry in 1943. After his discharge in 1945 and until he was married, he lived at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on January 1, 1958. For two days a blizzard had raged. The roads were impassable. Laura had arrived a few days earlier, which was fortunate. The only other family members able to come were Archie's family. However two days later when the plows had been through, all other family members were able to be present including "J.M's" only surviving brother, Fred, from Bounty, Saskat.

J. M. Cunningham passed away at Eckville in January, 1960. Mrs. Cunningham continued to live on the farm for a few years, then went to stay with Laura in Kelowna where she died in March, 1970. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham are buried at Red Deer.

A good job done and rest well won.

BENNETT, BERNIE — by Family Members

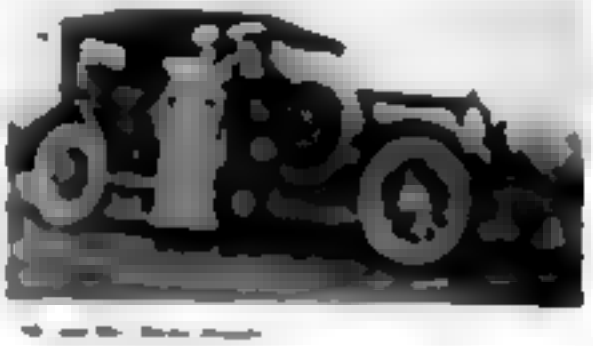
Bernie Bennett was born in England in 1894, and immigrated to Hespero, Alberta in 1909 with his aunt, Emma Closnier. He hired out to Jerry Macdonnell, clearing land with teams of oxen. When war broke out he joined the 89th Battalion in 1914, serving overseas until being wounded at Vimy Ridge in 1917. After spending several months in the hospital in England, he was given a medical discharge, and returned to Red Deer.

In Red Deer Bernie operated a pool hall, taxi business, and was a distributor for a brewery. In 1924 he married Ethel Harrigan, who was chief telephone operator in Red Deer. In 1926 he purchased the Eckville Hotel from Harry Lowe. This hotel burned down in 1928, in a fire that demolished a complete block of Main Street. The hotel was rebuilt the following year and operated until 1942. Many will remember Hank Bardenhagen as the bartender for many years. Bernie spent several months of each year in the Colonel Belcher hospital in Calgary. While in Eckville he served for a time as mayor, at that time there was no such thing as remuneration for public service. He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge, Masons, Elks, and the Legion, plus several community clubs.



After spending a few years on the farm in the Hespero district the Bennetts went back into the hotel business, first in Bowden and then in Innisfail, until ill health forced Bernie to retire in 1950, in Nanaimo, B.C. Being idle did not agree with him so a china shop was purchased and operated until 1960, when he once again was forced to retire due to ill health. A move to Vancouver was then made, where they resided until Bernie's passing in 1967. Mrs. Bennett remained in Vancouver until 1975, but is presently residing in Red Deer at the Pines Lodge.

Five children were born to Bernie and Ethel. A daughter, Dawna (Billy) died in 1941. Mrs. Alf Sloan (Muriel) lives in Stettler, Alberta. Mrs. Fred Radford (Patricia) lives in Blind Bay, B.C., Mrs. Arthur Snow (Marion) lives in Berwyn, Alberta, and Mr. Bud Bennett lives in Prince George, B.C.

ECKFORD, ARTHUR E. T. — by Eva Eckford

In the year 1920 Arthur E. T. Eckford left Dublin, Ireland, where he was born and educated, to immigrate to Canada. During the fall and winter of that year he worked on one of

Pat Burns ranches near Calgary For his labor he received twenty-five dollars per month plus his board and sleeping accommodation in the

After reaching his land-to-be in 1903, it was "first things first" This meant the construction of a log cabin with a sod roof The sod helped to keep heat in during the winter time This cabin was to be Arthur's home for the next several years. During the building period Arthur and his friend, Mr Roper, lived with the Carney family in a large tent all having travelled from Red Deer together As well as having a large tent the Carneys had a large family, but apparently this family did not remain long in this area

By this time more settlers were arriving Those best remembered were the families of Matchett Mitzner, Kinna, Koski. Kasper, Brown and Pisetl. It was not long before Arthur Eckford assumed a leading role in the development of the community When it became necessary to have a Post Office, in 1905, he put up a suitable building on his own land, and gave the post office the name of "Eckville" Under an agreement with J. H Killick, this was turned over to Mr Killick, who built a store on the land Subsequently this corner of Mr Eckford's land was surveyed into lots, and Arthur Eckford donated one lot for the building by C Snell, of a Stopping House' early in 1907 Arthur Eckford's position of Justice of the Peace was one of the first appointments in the west country He was also a notary public, a school trustee, and a road councillor

After making the required improvements on his land, Mr Eckford went back to Dublin and returned in 1908, bringing his mother Mrs M Eckford with him. Mrs. Eckford spent her first months in a very new part of Alberta in the log cabin until the farm house proper was built during the same year

When the CNR built its lines through the area in 1911 1912, a townsite was established about a mile south of the original town. The name Eckville was retained a fitting tribute to the man who had done so much for the district The new village expanded rapidly Business quickly built up and included a new post office, hotel boarding house, the Co-Op Store (whose first manager was Mr A. Litt Sestrap s Store, a drug store, butcher shop, livery stable blacksmith shop, and of course, a community hall. The new postmaster was Mr Forban The early arrival of Dr and Mrs. Evans also proved to be a great boom to the new area

The original townsite was referred to as "Old Eckville" Harry Woods was the last one to occupy a building on the old site, where his cheese making plant turned out an excellent product

So the years passed. In 1913 Mr Eckford felt the long winters were a hardship for his mother, and decided to take her back to Ireland. It was with real regret that the community heard this news! Eckville and adjoining districts got together and planned a surprise gathering in the hall. Mrs. Eckford was presented with a pretty silver candy basket as a token of the esteem in which the recipient was held. The address and the presentation was given by Miss Gladys Matchett and Agnes Hampton (a school teacher) However, the "call of the west evidently was strong, as Mrs. Eckford made an unexpected return to Canada, remarking that, during the years of absence from her old-country home her relatives and friends had changed In fact, life in the west had altered her own outlook

It was in the spring of 1914 that I, Eva McElveny, came into the picture. After the long journey from my home in Dublin, Arthur Eckford, his mother and I were met in Red Deer by Norman Turner (Mr and Mrs. Matchett s new son-in-law who drove us out to the Matchett home where we were guests for a few days. On that drive out to Eckville I saw prairie crocuses growing, the first flower to be picked for me in this new country

I really enjoyed the new life new surroundings, and all the kindnesses extended to a newcomer Sports Day held on the May 24 holiday (when weather permitted) with races and baseball games and a dance in the evening, was one of the year's highlights. Picnics in the different communities provided a great opportunity to meet friends and, of course, exchange news Often people went home to do their chores and then returned later in the evening for the dance

Life in a pioneer community provided some exciting experiences. Coming home one night from a dance in the Bluebell direction and starting down Lindquist Hill, our team ran off the trail. The wagon box (on runners) upset throwing all four occupants out into the snow, tangled up in cowhide robes! Arthur, although being dragged down the hill on his stomach, managed to hold onto the horses until he got them stopped On another occasion we went to a dance via a railway hand car Those were the days!

On September 9, 1914, Arthur and I went to Lacombe to be married by the Reverend Arthur Patstone, a family friend. After a brief honeymoon in Red Deer it was back to Eckville for us As a delegation of friends was waiting at Kootuk the train stopped and let us off before entering the station. However the well-wishers overtook us, and we were driven home in style in a democrat Our wedding was celebrated in true prairie fashion by a charivari that evening Of course we promised to give a dance later, in the hall, for all our friends

In the spring we moved onto the farm, which we called "Riverside Farm" In October of 1915 our oldest son, Tom, was born there Dr Evans was in attendance and Mrs. Ralph Brown took good care of me and the new baby Later that year Reverend Patstone, when travelling through the district, was a guest at our home and while with us, he christened our son. This was a happy event for us' In May, 1917 our second son Edward was born in Red Deer and later on he was christened there

The Canadian Bank of Commerce opened its first branch in the village in Arthur Eckford's little office next to the Co-Op Store. The banking business was conducted from this location while the bank building was under construction. The first manager was Mr McIntosh. He and his wife were very active in many village affairs, and were one of the popular couples of the village. The first Savings Account opened in the new bank was in the name of Thomas D Eckford. He was about one year old at the time.

The year 1916 found us into the second year of war. Many young men from the surrounding districts left to "join up", which created anxious times for all with relatives and friends participating overseas. No radio gave us any news in those days! (Twenty five years later during the next war, our concern was much deeper and more personal, with three sons and two daughters-in-law in active service in different branches of the Armed Forces overseas.

The ladies of the village formed a Red Cross group. The first gathering was held at Riverside Farm, but I believe that the first business meeting was held by Mrs. Rogers at her home in Eckville. During Sports Day in 1916 I sold Red Cross ribbons for the benefit of Red Cross work.

In the forenoon of November 11, 1918, the ringing of bells and the blowing of horns and whistles automatically announced the wonderful news — that the horrors of war at last were over. There was great rejoicing in Red Deer, but for some there was also sadness, knowing that their loved ones would not be returning home. Arthur's mother and I took the boys with us to take a small part in that afternoon's celebrations.

During 1918 we talked about moving to British Columbia, and finally the decision was made. After the farm and livestock were sold Mrs Eckford Sr., myself and the two little boys went to stay in Red Deer until Arthur finished his business in Eckville — that of buying grain and hogs for shipment to Calgary. However owing to the flu epidemic travel was banned, and it was some time before we were permitted to start our journey to Vancouver, our destination. In 1920 our third son, Arthur Dermot was born in Vancouver. North Vancouver was our home until 1947 when Arthur and I moved to Grantham's Landing, a spot right by the sea and loved by all of us.

It was at Grantham that Mr Bliss of the Eckville High School, corresponded with my husband, with the result that we donated a trophy to the high school to be awarded to the outstanding pupil of the year. Very nice letters of thanks were received from Mr Bliss and the president of the Student Council. This expression of their appreciation was most gratifying. Now there are Eckford great-grandchildren attending schools here in British Columbia. Perhaps, in the future, they may be honour students, and be worthy of receiving such a trophy

Of our eight grandsons and granddaughters there are seven surviving. Our oldest grandson passed away suddenly in 1971. Of course his death brought great sorrow to us all. Five of our family still live here in British Columbia. Our granddaughter and her husband and little girl live in Oshawa, Ontario, while one grandson and his wife live in Portland, Oregon, U.S.A. The five great-grandchildren, four boys and one girl, all live adjacent to Vancouver. The oldest of those children was 11 years old in 1977 and the youngest was six years old.

In 1961, after a long illness, Arthur E. T. Eckford passed away in Shaughnessay Military Hospital in Vancouver. He was a Boer War Veteran. So ended the life of one who had always been active in the affairs of every community in which he lived.

MCKEE, PAUL AND MARION AND FAMILY

Before I met Paul, I had become a widow seven years previous, when my husband, Arnold Anderson, died, leaving me with three children, Sven Richard, four years, Kathryn Lynn, three years, and Marion Susan, two years old. (See Swan Anderson history.)

We lived on the Swan Anderson farm for two years following his death. Then we moved to my son's inherited land, across from the Eckville

I had the old log house moved closer to the road and started to repair it. Kids from town had used it as a playhouse, and cattle that had pastured there had got inside the house and demolished it somewhat as well. With the help of John Robertson of Benalto doing the carpenter work for me, and Mr. Sterling of Benalto (Revelstoke) allowing me to buy the material needed on a monthly basis, I was able to make a home for the children and myself.

There was no well for water, so I hauled it in my cream cans. We used gas lamps for a few months until the power was installed. Our coal and wood stove provided us with heat and cooking facilities and our gas heater worked—sometimes.

I baby-sat for Mrs. Marg Palm for two years, taking Susan with me, as she was not yet in school. Then I got a job at Elgenes' Restaurant owned by Ella and Gene Salsauler, and that is how I met Paul, who is originally from central Saskatchewan. He was working for McGregor Telephone and Power. They say that a way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and Paul always came in for meals and flapper pie. At least that's what he claims he married me for.

On December 31, 1964 we were married in Benalto. That winter we had a cold spell with a wind chill of 90° below F. The wind chill whistled through the house and froze everything that was upstairs. In the spring we demolished the house and bought a trailer putting it on the same location. What a treat to have running water and an inside toilet!

Paul continued to work for McGregor Telephone and Power until spring, but decided he didn't like being away from home all the time, so he changed jobs and worked for Co-op for three years and then for Bud and Dave Lightbown for three and one half years driving truck. During that time we tried our hand at raising calves, pigs, and chickens, and milked some

Three children were born to us. Terrance Paul on January 18, 1966, Rodney David on September 5, 1967 and Lezlie Ann on December 18, 1969. I drove school bus for Eckville, and then got a job at the Eckville hospital as a certified nursing aid, where I am still working.

Everyone has some major tragedy in his lifetime, and ours was when we lost Terrance at the age of five years in a drowning accident. The people of Eckville and surrounding districts were just tremendous during our loss, helping with trying to find his body, providing food, donations, words of kindness and understanding.

Our small trailer, 12 by 52 feet, was getting a little cramped, so we bought a double wide trailer and moved into town. Paul had gone into the business of erecting steel bins. Today his business has expanded to all over central Alberta and the North Country. We lived in town for two years and then bought an acreage where the Young Peoples Hall used to be. We built a new home and at present are still living there. Rod and Lez are taking their schooling at Eckville and are involved in hockey and figure skating.

Rick, Kath, and Sue took their schooling in Eckville until grade 10 and then took 11 and 12 in Red Deer at the Comprehensive High School, commuting by car with other Eckville students going there. After their schooling Rick continued on at the Olds College, taking farm mechanics. It was here that he met his wife, Angele Doucet, from Fahler, where she was taking Fashion Merchandizing. When they graduated they were married on June 29, 1973. They then took a trip over to England, Scotland, France and down to Italy. While looking for jobs in Italy, Angele had an accident with her Moped bike and landed in the hospital for a week. As they were running out of money, they decided to return home after one month. They now live on their land in a mobile home across from the Eckville cemetery. Rick worked for Grand Equipment in Red Deer, tried his hand at steel building with his dad, farming and oil rigs. But his main interest is in farming. Angele worked for the Eckville Bank of Commerce until they started a family. They now have two children — Christine Marie, two years old, and Sven Daniel, nine months.

Kath worked at the Eckville Hospital as a ward aid for two years after completing school, then went into training at the U of A for an R.N. degree, graduating in January of 1976. She then got married on March 6, 1976, to Bill Zaleski, a childhood sweetheart. She is employed at the Lacombe hospital. Bill is a licensed mechanic and worked for Kipp Scott's in Red Deer for three years, leased Eckville Motors garage for eight months, and now has a job in Ponoka as mechanic foreman and shop manager. They are now living seven miles north of Eckville on their land in a mobile home.

Sue worked at the Eckville hospital for one year as a ward aid. She then also took her training at the U. of A. for an R.N. Susan graduated in August 1976, and then married November 6, 1976. She met her husband, Blair Penner, at the University. Blair's home is in Calgary, but the Eckville district was known to him before as his grandmother's sister is married to a Mr. Bob Findley who was manager of the Bank of Commerce some 20 years ago. His family used to come and visit the Findleys. At present Blair and Sue are residing in Edmonton. Sue is working at the Edmonton General Hospital and Blair is in his last year of the instrumentation course. They will be moving to their land in the Benalto area this year.

It is nice to have all the family close together.

ELSON, ANDREW — by Alva Elson

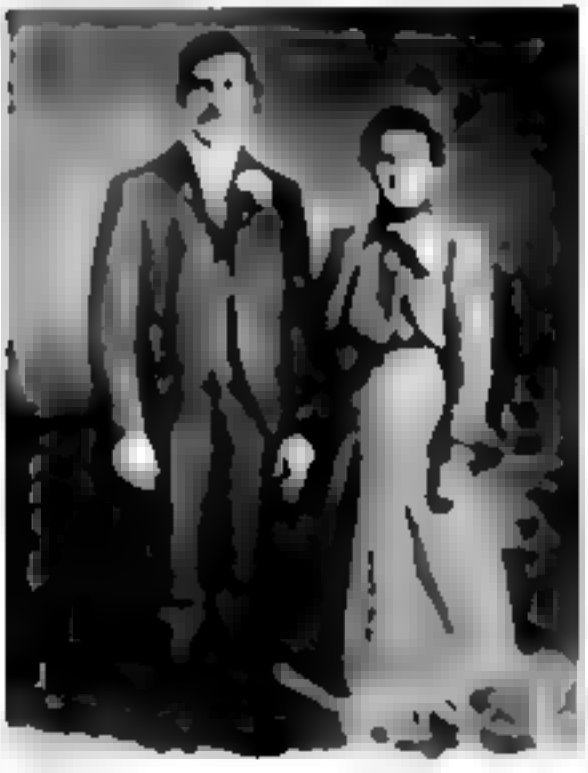
Andrew Elson was born in Teura, Finland June 15, 1878. He immigrated in 1898 to Butte Montana where he worked in the steel mills for a few years. In 1902, he married Alexsandra Hakala. She also immigrated from Finland in 1898 to Butte, Montana. After their marriage they came to Canada, and took up a homestead one mile west and two miles north of Eckville.



In 1906, they started clearing land with oxen to improve their homestead. To begin with, they built a small log house which they lived in for a few years. Also, they built a barn in 1907 which is still on the farm. In 1910 they built a new house and used the old one for a chicken house. Their closest town was Red Deer, where they had to get their supplies with an ox team. They did not have any children for many years. In 1912 the Lampis passed away within three months of each other leaving four children. Muriel Lampi was two months old when Mr. and Mrs. Elson adopted her. In 1919 they were blessed with their first son Olva. In 1921 the stork came knocking on the door again with another son, Verner. Also lost two in infancy.

In 1928 they had a sale, sold all the cattle all the horses but two, machinery and all the household items. They rented the land out to his brother-in-law Matt Rein. The Elsons then moved to a warmer climate, Burnaby B.C., and purchased a chicken ranch. Well, this chicken ranch in those depression years wasn't a very good paying thing: the feed cost a lot of money. The chicken eggs sold at 10 cents a dozen. The bounty in Alberta on magpie eggs was 12 cents a dozen, and you didn't have to feed them.

To make ends meet, Andrew Elson came out to the prairies in the fall to help harvest. As this venture in the chicken ranch was a failure, they sold it and returned to their homestead in Eckville in 1931, and resumed farming. He purchased four purebred Percheron mares in foal from John Hyvonen of Benalto, raised two stallions, sold one. Four years later he took first prize in Red Deer and Benalto Fairs with his stallion. He was proud of his big Percheron horses. They weighed from 1600 lbs. to 2,000 lbs. each. He also raised purebred Red Poll cattle. He took great pride in his livestock. They were always rolling in fat. He also raised hogs. In the 30's he took in some 220 pound hogs they brought him $3. a head. Just enough to get some [illegible].

Saturdays they use to warm up the sauna bath, and some of the neighbors would come over for the evening for a sauna bath and play cards and have cake and coffee. The lighting wasn't very good, only coal oil lamps and wood burning [illegible].

Sundays Mr. Elson would be the barber and cut hair. It seemed that there wasn't a Sunday that someone didn't come for a haircut. The price was right — free.

In 1939 they purchased a Massey Harris tractor called the Wallis, also got some heavier equipment to be able to control the quack grass, and from then on began to get better crops. They lived on the homestead until 1949 when they retired to a house they purchased from Everett Tarvas in the town of Eckville. Their youngest son Verner took over the farm. One of the first oil wells in the Eckville area was drilled on the old homestead in around 1950. It is still in production. Verner also remodeled the old house and got Calgary Power. Their oldest son, Oiva, moved to Eckville and started a trucking business. Their daughter, Anne, married Floyd Bartesko. They had a daughter Myrna, and moved to Red Deer. The oldest daughter, Muriel married Everett McNeil and moved to Alert Bay, B.C. They had four children — Gordon, Bertha Clarence deceased), Jackie Muriel McNeil passed away at the age of 48 years in 1960. After living in Eckville for seven years, Mrs. Alexsandra Elson passed away January 14, 1956 at the age of 74 years. Mr. Andrew Elson passed away February 4, 1962, at the age of 84 years. They were both laid to rest in the Eckville cemetery.

Andrew, Sandra, and oldest granddaughter Myrna, went visiting riding the tractor. Coming home they had to come down Kasper's Hill. Brakes went on the tractor so Sandra and Myrna jumped off and started walking down, sure enough, Andrew had made it and was waiting for them. While cutting grain with horses and binder Andrew had a runaway he fell off, horses going on their own, even made the corners pretty good. Andrew found his rubber boot in a bundle.

ELSON OIVA - by Oiva Elson

Oiva Elson was born at Eckville on August 9, 1919, attended Eckville Elementary School while living on the farm with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Elson. He continued farming until the fall of 1945. On June 12, 1942, he married Freda Oastrom of Hespero. They continued living on the farm until the fall of 1945. Then, moved to the town of Eckville where they purchased some property, built a house and garage and went into the trucking business. General trucking and gravel hauling for seventeen years. He was also grain buyer for eight years for Searle Grain Co. at Eckville and Hespero. Oiva coached hockey teams from juniors to juveniles which he enjoyed very much. He was an active member of the Lions Club for several years and was very interested in town progress. He was on the town council for several years as councilor and deputy mayor for one year. He was on the Presbyterian Church Board for three years.

Oiva and Freda raised a family of three. Daryl, the oldest born in 1946, a daughter Dianne in 1951 and number two son, Kevin, in 1957.

Daryl was quite talented in his younger days. He enjoyed singing and won many first prizes at all the talent shows. He sang on TV on the Red Deer station for a season. When he moved to Calgary where he was in the Civic Choir for a few years. Daryl finished his schooling in Eckville graduating in 1964. He came to Calgary to look for employment, got on as clerk with the City of Calgary. In August 1970 he took Linda Johnson of Red Deer to be his loving wife. They both went to work for four years, saved up their money and purchased a house. Linda a banker and Daryl as dispatcher for the emergency fire police and ambulance for the City. On June 11, 1974, they were blessed with twins, Chad and Crystal who are three and a half and are real darlings.

Daughter Dianne received most of her schooling in Eckville. In April 1967 she married Jack Lamberigts. They lived at Sylvan Lake and had two children. Angelene and Roger. Angelene is 10 years old and Roger is eight years old. In May, 1970, Jack Lamberigts was killed in a car accident. In 1970 Dianne and the children moved to Calgary and started a new life. Dianne took more schooling and is now working in the Calgary Court House. She remarried and has a son Eddy Compstone who is five years old.

Number two son Kevin took part of his schooling in Eckville until 1967 and continued schooling in Calgary. He has been employed on construction work in and around the city. After moving to Calgary, Oiva worked with the city for six months. Then in February 12, 1968, went to work for Western Canadian Seed Processors of Lethbridge as a field representative covering an area from Crossfield to the Montana border. He worked as a field representative for eight years. The company changed their name to Canbra Foods Ltd. two years ago and gave me a promotion as field co-ordinator. Now I travel the whole province and into Prince Albert Saskatchewan. My job is looking after 47 gathering points for the company. This is January 1978. I hope this job see's me into retirement with this company. Also, wish the next generation will

ELSON, VERNER

Verner Andrew Elson was born May 31, 1926. He took all his schooling in Eckville. He walked the three miles to school until he got a horse. Some mornings he would get out of going to school by scaring his horse off with rocks and then telling his parents he couldn't catch his horse for some strange reason. Also played hooky once in awhile with a friend. Verner Elson was in air cadets while he was attending school. He enjoyed such sports as hockey and softball. He is still on his father's homestead SE 32-39-3 W5 and also farms another quarter which he purchased in 1947. He spent all his years on the farm except for 1943 when he lived at Alert Bay B.C. and worked at a logging camp at Beaver Cove.

In 1948, he married Jennie Syren (of Condor). Jennie took her schooling at a country school called Northup which was built in 1921. She was the janitor for some time and had to keep the old pot belly stove fired up with wood. She helped her ondor so many years that some people started calling it Jennie's place. Also worked at Hespero store which included a post office. She missed the train one morning and the boss had to drive and finally caught the train at Sylvan Lake to get he mail on it. In 1947 she came to work at Eckville Co-op Store and remained there until her marriage to Verner Elson on April 16, 1949.

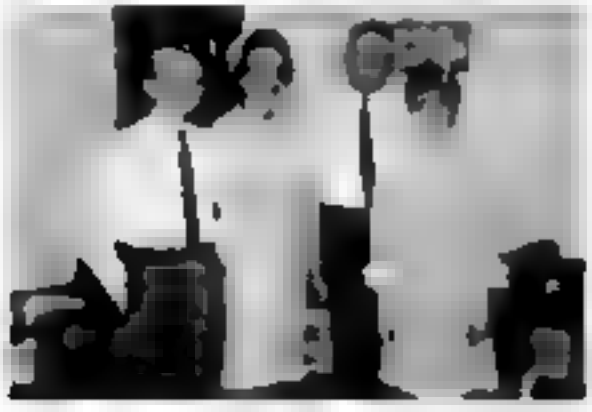
Verner and Jennie began farming together after their marriage. They used to raise pigs and also used to milk quite a number of cows, by hand, and shipped cream until the Eckville Creamery closed its doors. Their farming now includes grain, hay and beef cattle. You could usually find Verner and Jennie working together but this one day Jennie thought she would finish shingling a granary roof alone while Verner worked in the field. After Jennie got to the peak on the granary she was scared to come down and had to wait until Verner came so he could guide her down to the ladder. Even though Jennie herself was a farm girl, Verner found he had to teach her a thing or two about rolling barbed wire after he saw her trying it one day. Her sister was standing on one end of the wire while Jennie had the other end and was running around in circles.



Over the years they made many improvements to the land and buildings. Some of which included getting the power, putting plumbing in the house which saved them some mighty chilly trips to the shack out back. Shortly after they converted the familiar old sauna into a chicken house. They also upgraded their machinery from some horse drawn equipment to all tractor operated type.

They have also changed the appearance of the yard by moving old buildings such as the old wood shed. Now as you drive by the yard will catch your eye with its painted fences and buildings and well kept lawn. It means several hours of work a week but the new riding lawn mower helps lighten the load.

Jennie used to raise many chickens. She even raised turkeys to pay the hospital bill when their first child, a son, Dwayne, was born December 5, 1949. Their second child was a daughter Loree born October 5, 1953. After Dwayne finished his schooling he was draftsman for Calgary Power in Calgary for five years. He married Shelley (Olsen of Calgary) September 3, 1971. After living in the city they moved to Caroline and have been operating Spruceview Transport since the beginning of 1977. They have two girls, Leane and Dayna.

Loree graduated from Eckville High School in 1971. She worked in a cafe and also in the drugstore in Eckville. She was fond of the farm and shortly after her marriage to Gene Sears September 22, 1973, they bought a quarter from Reg Whillier west of Gilby, where they are presently living. As well as farming, Gene also owns and operates his own welding business. They have two girls, Katrina and Juli.

Verner and Jennie were quite active in curling in the 1960's.

ELIUK, WILLIAM AND IRIS

William Eliuk was born at Kaleland, Alberta in 1928, and in 1946 he moved with his parents to a farm in the Pinehill district. In 1951 he married Iris Thorlakson from New Centerville, and they moved to his farm west of Markerville.

In 1952 Bill was employed by Chester Kaster but in January, 1957 we took over the U F A Co-op agency and John Deere dealership, known as Bill's Corner Service and moved to Eckville. We purchased the old Co-op Lumberyard property and in 1965 erected a building, known as Eliuk's Farm Supplies Ltd., to house the John Deere dealership, as the U F A. Co-op building was too small for both businesses. Both businesses were expanding and proved to be too much work for us, so we resigned as U F A. Co-op agents.

We sold our farm at Markerville in 1966, and purchased the farm north of Eckville, where we now reside. In 1973, we relinquished the John Deere dealership.

We have four sons and one daughter. Richard (Rick) was born in 1952. In 1972, he married Shirley Laye from the Leedale district, and they have two boys, Ryan and Colin. They reside in Olds, where Rick is parts manager for Greenline Equipment.

Randy was born in 1954. He is employed with Dowell Chemical and lives in Blackfalds.

Marvin was born in 1957 and works in the oilfield business. Kevin was born in 1961 and is employed by Revelstoke Lumber in Red Deer. He lives at home. Marcia was born in 1964 and is attending school in Eckville.

ENGEN, GLEN FAMILY

Glen was born in Bentley in May, 1934, the only son of Cassius and Mabel Engen. He worked with heavy equipment, starting at the age of 14 years.

In December, 1954 Glen married Myrtle Hansen. They have four children: Kenneth, JoAnne, Terry and Colleen.

JoAnne married Neal Knopp of Condor in June, 1975. They reside on a farm south of Condor. In 1967 Glen purchased his first Cat and still remains in the construction business, residing in Eckville.

ESKI, JOHN — by Nina Sjoblom

John Eski came from his native Finland when a very young man. He came first to the United States, where he worked in various places before deciding to come to Canada to homestead. He filed on a quarter section of land on Blueberry Hill, next to his friend, E. Saarela. This was NE 18-40-4-W5. He filed on this place about 1910.

John lived on this place for a number of years and worked out as well. He was a hard-working man, and read a lot, taking a real interest in world affairs.

In the 1930's John sold his homestead and had a small house just south of Eckville which he called home. However being a bachelor, he continued working out. When living in his small place here he did always raise a good garden, all kinds of vegetables, but gave most of them away to his friends and neighbors.

He suffered from arthritis and passed away around 1956 or 1957.

FERGUSON, ALEC — by Loretta Ferguson

Tiny (Alec), son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, has always been very active in hockey. Finishing school in 1955, he worked at the Co-op in Eckville and played hockey as a goalie with the Red Deer Monarchs, getting a trophy for the most valuable player.

He was married to Loretta Anderson in June, 1959. Following their marriage, they moved around to several places while Tiny was working on the oil rigs. He was away from hockey for about six years, then, when they settled down in Red Deer, he started playing as a goalie, and continued until 1973. He now coaches the Eckville Eagles Hockey Team.

The family took over the old Sestrap grocery store in April of 1971, calling it "Ferguson Mayfair Foods". They have continued to operate the store since that time.

Tiny and Loretta have four daughters. Cheryl was born in April, 1960, Sandra in June, 1961, Laureen in March, 1964 and Dawna-Lynn in December, 1968.

Tiny is involved in the affairs of the community being a member of the Lions Club and doing many valuable things for the arena committee. He was a director of the committee for several years. He is quite an avid fisherman and hunter. The biggest fish always gets away!

FORHAN, OSWALD MICHAEL

Mr. O. M. Forhan was born in Owen Sound, Ontario on January 16, 1877. His father, Michael Forhan, was a watchmaker. Some of the watches he made are still in the family.

Oswald M. Forhan graduated from the Ontario School of Pharmacy (Toronto) in 1901. He came west with his brother P. H. Harold Forhan in 1903. They settled in the Evarts area where they both took out a homestead. While in Evarts he bought and operated a general store for a number of years. He later sold this business to a Mr. Jack Robinson. He and his brother broke virgin sod with the help of one ox, one horse, and an axe. While in Evarts he met his future wife, Annie McGregor, who came west as a young girl and was the second school teacher in the Evarts School. Her friend Miss Ada Belle Brown was the first school teacher in the Evarts School. They came west together from Nova Scotia in 1901. In Calgary in 1907, Mr. Forhan was united to marriage to Miss Annie McGregor.

At this time Harold Forhan left the homestead and took a job with Galts wholesale grocery firm in Calgary. He later moved to Camrose where he managed a branch wholesale house for Galts. It was here through a friend, Mr. Jack Donleavy, that he met his future wife Estelle McCaul, whose father J. McCaul was a Dominion Government Railway Commissioner. Mr. Donleavy was later the CNR station agent at Sylvan Lake.

Harold and Estelle later returned to Ottawa where he established a brick factory which he worked at until his death. His wife Estelle is still living and resides in Ottawa. She was an ardent curler in her younger and not so young years.

Mrs. Forhan, nee McGregor, came west at the age of 21 years from her home in New Glasgow, Pictou County, Nova Scotia in the year 1901. Her grandfather established the Presbyterian Church in Canada and there is a cairn in Nova Scotia to perpetuate his memory.

When Annie McGregor first came west she taught at the Bennett School east of Olds. In 1904 she taught at the Evarts Schools, and later moved to the Melita School on Highway 11. She boarded with a Mrs. Warwick later the Lloyd Wells' residence west of Benalto. She rode horseback to school and in the winter had to get to school early as she had to light the fires so the school would be warm for the children when they arrived

Annie McGregor born in Nova Scotia in 1866 was married to Oswald M. Forhan in 1907. She died in the Eckville Municipal Hospital January 19, 1964, at the age of 83. She was laid to rest in the Eckville Cemetery next to her husband who predeceased her in 1951

Mr O. M. Forhan after selling his store in Evarts, left his homestead and moved to Old Eckville which was situated on what is now the Jarvis Onondryzyn farm just north of present Eckville and just north of the Medicine River. He operated a store here for a couple of years. When the railroad came through he moved to what is now the present site of Eckville and opened a general store in partnership with Mr. Dan Clausen. After dissolving this partnership, he opened a drug store on the site of the present Co op Hardware Store. This store also housed the post office. He sold the Drug Store to a Mr Crosby and moved to Red Deer in 1915 and opened up a drug store there. He sold this business and moved to Vancouver in 1920. After the stock market crash of 1929, he returned to Eckville where he operated the old drug store un

In 1946, Mr Forhan and his son Thomas built what is now the present drug store in the town of Eckville. Mr Forhan was active in the drug business until his passing in 1951 at the age of 74 years. Mr Forhan was active in community affairs and was instrumental in starting the first hospital in Eckville in the building which is now owned by Mr Roy Saari. In the early days, as well as running the drug store, Mr Forhan operated a farm northwest of Eckville where he raised hogs and also a mink ranch. At the peak of his operations he had as many as 500 mink. It was the second largest mink ranch in Alberta. Mr Forhan was affectionately known as ' doc ' in the early days as he looked after the ills of both man and beast as we had no veterinarians at those days and at times the closest doctor was in Red Deer

There were four sons from his marriage to Miss Annie McGregor. Norman McGregor, Harold Fitzpatrick Thomas Oswald and Allan Francis.

FORHAN, THOMAS OSWALD

Thomas Oswald was born in Eckville in 1913. He moved to Red Deer with his parents at the age of four. At the age of seven his parents again moved, this time to Vancouver. It was here that Thomas took most of his elementary schooling, graduating from Lord Byng High School. Thomas was active in athletics and in his senior year was selected to the Vancouver High School All Star Team in English Rugby. At the age of 17 he won the Western Canadian Junior Tennis Championship. After graduating from high school, he worked in Vancouver for two years. He returned to Eckville in 1932 and apprenticed with his father, Oswald, in the drug store. After apprenticing for three years, he attended the U. of A. graduating in Pharmacy in 1939. While attending university he played with the University of Alberta Golden Bears and also represented the University on the tennis team. After graduating from the U. of A. he worked in Edmonton for one year. He then returned to Eckville and entered the drug business with his father Dr F. H. Coppock was the local doctor at that time.

Thomas Forhan who is known as the Pill Doctor by many of his friends is an ardent sportsman and quite active in community affairs. He also enjoyed hunting, fishing and curling.

In 1956, he represented Eckville for Zone 18 in the Northern British Consols Curling Playdowns which was held in Edmonton. Playing with him was Robert Kraft Don McDonald and Red McAndrew.

While working with his father he held the position of secretary for the village. He later was elected to council where he served for 12 years. Six of these as the mayor. He was also the first secretary of the Eckville and District Savings and Credit Union and later served as the chairman of the Credit Committee serving this institution for 15 years. During these years he kept busy in athletics, namely baseball, hockey and tennis and as an honorary member of the Eckville Canadian Legion he served as Athletic Coordinator for that organization for four years. He was a charter member and past president of the Eckville Lions Club having retired from the club after 25 years of service. He is a past president of the Eckville Curling Club as well as being the first president of the Eckville Minor Hockey Association. He was also active as a hockey player in his younger years and was a catcher for the Eckville Senior Men's Baseball Team which won many laurels around Central Alberta. While catching for Eckville, he played with the Central Alberta All Stars who played many touring U.S. baseball teams. The most notable being the colored house of door 5. Most of these games were played at Sylvan Lake. When the new arena was built he coached many minor hockey teams as well as a one year stint with the senior hockey

After retiring from hockey and baseball as an active player he refereed for all classes of hockey and was well known around Central Alberta as a baseball umpire. When baseball died out, he coached and umpired both for the men's as well as the ladies' fastball teams. He is still active in these pastimes. At present he still operates the drug store in Eckville and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Eckville Municipal Hospital

Mr. Thomas Oswald Forhan was married to Helen Dorothy Toivanen on August 12, 1946 and they have one daughter and two sons, Brenda Anne, Randolph Thomas and James Peter. Brenda Anne was born in Eckville on January 1, 1950. She went to school in Eckville, Red Deer and Vancouver. She was united in marriage to Gerry Gaienzoski on September 1, 1974. Gerry is employed in the Identification division of the RCMP and is stationed in Red Deer. They have two children Michelle Leigh aged three years and Christopher Jon aged one.

Randolph Thomas Forhan was born in Eckville on November 16, 1951, and attended school in Eckville from Grade 1 to 10. He finished Grade 11 and 12 at Lindsay Thurber High School in Red Deer. He played football for the Red Deer Raiders. After graduating from high school, he played football with the Red Deer Junior Packers and enrolled at the Red Deer College. While playing a football game against Edmonton, he suffered torn ligaments to his right knee which necessitated surgery. This injury ended his football career and also college for that year. Randy is an avid sportsman and enjoys hunting and fishing and plays some fastball although he is hampered somewhat by his knee injury. He is presently living in Eckville and is employed by Cactus Drilling Co. In November, 1977 he was elected to the council of the Town of Eckville.

James Peter Forhan was born in Eckville on October 22, 1960. He played for the Lacombe Bantam Baseball Team when they hosted the Western Canadian Bantam Championships. He pitched and played third base. They won the Bronze medal in the playoffs. He also played goal for the Eckville Midget Hockey Team in 1977. They were second in the Provincial Finals losing out to Sherwood Park. He enjoys playing tennis and badminton and pitches for the Eckville Senior Men's Fastball Team. James is presently living at home is taking Grade 12 at the Eckville Senior High School.

FORHAN, HAROLD FITZPATRICK

Harold Fitzpatrick Forhan was born in Eckville in 1911. I took my schooling in Eckville, Red Deer and Vancouver. After graduating from high school, I went into the real estate business in Vancouver.

In 1932, I returned to Eckville where I worked for my father on the farm. I also opened the first egg grading station in Eckville. In those days our main market for eggs was Nordegg which was a thriving coal mining town.

In 1940, I returned to Vancouver and my first love which was building and real estate

In 1950, I was united in marriage to Theresa McDaniel. We have three children Michael, Norman, and Maureen, all residing in Van

FORHAN, NORMAN McGREGOR

Norman McGregor Forhan was born in Evarts Alberta, in 1908. My first schooling was in Eckville. At that time the school was on the Turner farm north of the present site of Eckville We had to walk to school which was about a mile from the village When I was a little older, my father sent me to the convent in Red Deer for further schooling When my father moved to Red Deer in 1916, I attended public school there until we moved to Vancouver in 1920 where I finished my schooling

After leaving school, my first job was in the Stock Brokers Exchange After the stock market crash of 1929 I returned to Eckville with my father and have resided here ever since with the exception of a couple of years when I took a job with Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. in the N W T After returning from the north, my father and I started a mink ranch. At one time, we had as many as 500 minks which was the second largest ranch in Alberta. When the market dropped out of the fur business, we sold out as it was no longer a viable operation

In the 1930's, I assisted my father in the drug store These years were known as the dirty 30's because of the hard times. In those days we had to be jack of all trades. We made many calls to assist the farmers with their veterinary problems. The most notable being injections for milk fever and inoculating for black leg We also fumigated many farm homes for bed bugs as they were a common pest in the days of the harvest crews who moved around the country in the fall of the year

Another pastime I had was going out on calls with Dr Claxton On other occasions he would call me to assist him to set broken bones

In 1946, I was united in marriage to Alfeen Langer We opened a ladies' and men's ready to wear store. Our first location was in the old drugstore building. We later built our own store next to the drug store This business was known as Forhan's Ready to Wear which we operated for over 30 years. We retired in 1973 and sold the business to Mr Cliff Pitkanen

In December of 1976, my wife, Alfeen passed away and was laid to rest in the Eckville cemetery

FULTON, VIVIAN AND EILEEN

Vivian and Eileen Fulton were raised in the Minburn area of Alberta They came to Eckville in 1943 — Vivian in the spring, to work in the bank and Eileen in the fall to go to school. Eileen graduated from Grade 12 in 1945 and then went to Sylvan Lake to work in the bank She was transferred to Banff, and later to Calgary where she is still employed She married Gus Beauchamp, and they have one son, who is married and also lives in Calgary

Vivian worked in the Eckville Bank until the fall of 1945, and then was transferred to Sylvan Lake and later to Calgary While in Calgary she studied to be a school teacher and went to teach in the Vermilion area There she met and married Frank Farkash. They live on a farm and have raised seven children

WHAT ECKVILLE MEANS TO DR. AND MRS. GIBSON AND FAMILY

Eckville held a lot of firsts for us It was our first home — we were married on June 20, 1953, and moved into the old Mottus house on July 7

Eckville was Gordon's first practice and after the untimely passing of Dr Coppock he found it to be a very grave responsibility Dr Coppock was a hard man to follow and it took a few years to establish the trust and confidence necessary to be a good doctor

After a year in the Mottus house we built our own home, bought our first car, and had our first garden. Gordon even had his first taste of politics there when he became mayor It was during this time that the water tower was built and it was a real thrill to have had a part in this vital step in the community

Our three lovely children got their start in life in Eckville. David had two years of schooling there and all three have many happy memories of their childhood there

All in all, Eckville, has had a very special place in our lives and we will always value the experience and the many lovely friends we gained in the 12 years we were living there

THE R. B. (BOB) GISH FAMILY

Bob Gish, with wife, Lillian, was transferred to Eckville from Delburne in the spring of 1930 as the new manager of the Atlas Lumber Company. They had two daughters, Dorothy, seven and Sylvia, three years of age. Their first son, Robert, was born at home, in Eckville, in August of that year, and son Norman in October 1935.

Bob became very active in the community and served as secretary-treasurer of town council for some years and was chairman of the first hospital board. He was very interested in the sports activities of the town and served as a member of the annual sports day committee as special promotor on local baseball and tennis tournaments. Bob was also an active member on the committee to build the first covered curling rink which housed two sheets of ice. Both he and Lillian were active curlers and participated in the ladies', men's and mixed curling teams and bonspiels.

The whole family was involved in the church life of the town, with services being held in the little old schoolhouse. Bob was superintendent of the Sunday School for many years and was inducted as an Elder in the Presbyterian church. Lillian was an active member in the Women's Missionary Group and served as president of the ladies' aid. Dorothy taught Sunday School and later was pianist for the evening church services. Bob and Dorothy were instrumental in forming a small choir, that would perform on special occasions at the services in Eckville and in Hespero. Sylvia soon was of an age to become a member of the choir and to teach Sunday School. Both Dorothy and Sylvia were members of C.G.I.T. groups and then became leaders.

Dorothy worked in the Imperial Bank in Sylvan Lake and Eckville after high school, and then moved to Calgary, where she was married in April, 1947. Sylvia worked in the office of the Atlas Lumber Company and was married in Eckville in August, 1947.

ng up, going to school and taking part in the usual hockey and baseball activities.

Bob was moved to Red Deer in the fall of 1947 to manage the John's Hardware Store which had been purchased by his company and was then called Builders Hardware Store.

Lillian and Bob Gish are now retired and live in Kelowna, B.C. Dorothy and husband, Douglas Hawkes, live in Calgary. They have a family of five sons, three daughters-in-law and two grandchildren. Doug is a real estate agent. Sylvia and husband, Ray Lawson, live in Red Deer. Ray took his high school in Eckville and is now hospital administrator at Michener Centre. The Lawsons have two sons, a daughter, two daughters-in-law and a grandchild. Robert a school teacher, and Norman, chairman of the B.C. Energy Commission, live in Vancouver. They are both married and Robert has one son and Norman has two sons and one daughter.

GOARD, BLANCHE (McFAUL)

Blanche Goard, daughter of James and Ella McFaul, came to Red Deer N.W.T. from Michigan, U.S.A. in 1901. She worked in the post office in Red Deer before her marriage to W. J. Goard.

Mr. Goard and his brother owned and operated a Jewellery store, which they later sold out to H. H. Humbe)

After W.J. and Blanche were married they also went homesteading west of the present town of Eckville on the SW 20-39-4W5. They soon found out that this was not the life for them.

They gave up the homestead in favour of Paul Pykett, who was married to Dorcas Brown. Her parents had come from the United States with the McFauls and Matchetts, the three families were very close friends.

Blanche and Will moved to Vancouver where he went into business again. Their three children, Stanley, Ronald and Alberta were born there. Will passed away several years ago. Blanche lives in Nanaimo with her sister.

GRANT, REVEREND ED. A.

Reverend Ed. A. Grant was the Presbyterian minister in the area west of Sylvan Lake in 1910 and 1911. Previously, he had served with his wife as a missionary in Hyderbad City, South India. Rev. Grant held services at Diamond Valley twice monthly at 11 a.m., twice monthly at Pinerox at 3 p.m., twice monthly at Eckville at 11:30 a.m., and at Marianne every Sunday at 7:30 p.m. In late 1911 Rev. Grant moved on to Caribou Creek, near Calgary.

THE GUSTAVSON FAMILY

Charlie Gustavson arrived in Quebec from Sweden on July 20, 1903. He was born September 17, 1881 near Göteborg, Sweden. His father was a sailor and his mother raised the family on a small farm. Opportunities for schooling were very limited, and at the tender age of eight years he worked very hard for the local minister.

After spending a compulsary two-year stint in the Swedish navy he decided to do as so many others — to come and find his fortune in America. For a time he worked in a sawmill at Chabaygan, Michigan, in the U.S.A. It was while he was here that he met John Lundberg, who was to become his life-long friend. Together they later went to saw mills near Portland, Oregon. While here they saw an advertisement for homestead land in Alberta, which sounded like the answer to a dream. Free land. Fare was one cent per mile, or $12 to Wetaskawin. They decided to come and "own your own piece of land."

Charlie and John arrived in Alberta in March of 1905. It did indeed look promising with some farmers already in the fields. However, in 1906 winter arrived on October first and lasted until May 1907. Many of the homesteaders al his time were not prepared for such severe weather and many cattle starved to death even though old straw roofs were dismantled for feed. Charlie and John had no livestock to feed, but even they found the weather a test for their courage.

After looking over homestead land near Camrose they decided that the open prairie land with few trees, was not to their liking. They returned to Lacombe, and after Charlie homesteaded near Gull Lake and John near Lockhart. Years of brush cutting, building a log house, walking over bush trails to Lacombe for supplies, even working on the railroad to earn a little cash, passed slowly. Potatoes were planted where brush piles had been burned. A fair crop resulted. Fish and wild life provided the main part of their livelihood. Later, after acquiring horses and oxen, they contracted land breaking with a team of horses in the lead, followed by a team of oxen, and a breaking plow. In this way many acres had their first furrow turned.

After proving up their homesteads they decided to sell their land and move to the fledgling town of Eckville. The railroad had just recently been built and a new town was in the making. John Lundberg took over the local hotel and in 1913 Charlie built a large livery stable. It occupied the lot between the present Co-op store and Eckville Motors. He operated a dray business, hauling from the C.P.R. as well as the C.N.R. It proved to be hard work, especially when he would tuck a hundred pound sack of flour under each arm, and carry them to an upstairs storage room.

As well as the dray business, he operated a livery. He was justly proud of his matched team of sorrels. Fanny, a small Indian Pony, and Maudie, her daughter, made a very fast team and had the endurance only the little wild ponies possessed. Travellers were taken in the high top buggy to Red Deer, Lesserville, Markerville, or "wherever". On occasion he drove the R.C.M.P. constable to carry out his duties. Several times when the assignment proved difficult, Charlie would be deputized. It was always his fear that he might be called on to use force — something quite foreign to his gentle nature. He kept this special team of horses until they passed on when he very carefully buried his old friends.

Times were changing. In 1914 Charlie bought one of the first Model T cars. Now his passengers could ride in luxury. The roads meandered from one hilltop to the next, trying to avoid the treacherous muskeg. If the car mired down it meant getting out and hoisting the back end over to firmer ground. Occasionally this would prove impossible so a team was hired from a near-by farmer to pull the car out. It was even rumored that some of these fellows worked very hard hauling water to keep the hole impassable. The Model T proved temperamental, too. If the gas tank was below half-full and a steep hill was encountered it meant backing up the hill because the gas was gravity fed so didn't reach the motor otherwise.

On April 7, 1916, Charlie married a long-time girl friend, Gerda Anderson. Gerda was born near Stromsted, Sweden on July 26, 1893. She made the long trip to America alone, wondering what this new life, new language, new country would be like. A shy, retiring person, very fond of handwork, and gardening, she made a good home for her family. Shortly after she arrived they made the hazardous trip to Banff in the Model T. It proved to be quite a trip, but an enjoyable one.

On September 13, 1917 a son, Gilbert, was born and five years later, on May 1, 1922, a daughter, Agnes, was born.

During the war years, farming looked much better with the increase in grain and livestock prices. In 1918 the livery stable was sold to John Kemila, who converted it into a garage. During the following years this building changed hands several times — to Fred Isaacson, the Co-op Association and finally to Skerba Brothers, who lost it by fire.

For a time Charlie and family lived on the half section north of Eckville, then known as the Shenton place, later as Lenny Kingseps, and now as Bill Elcik's. This same land boasted a flying field, too. Meantime, Charlie was slowly clearing trees from his own quarter section of school land, SW 29-39-3-W5, as well as farming his rented land.

He built a log house and moved to their new home in 1927. These were hard years with the depression soon upon them. Prices fell with wheat at 24 cents a bushel, barley brought six to eight cents a bushel and oats brought five cents. A good cow sold for $20 and a 200-pound hog for $1.50. After carefully dressing a large number of turkeys they took them to town to a buyer, who sorted them into two piles. For one pile he offered two cents a pound and for the other pile the offer was three cents. Charlie looked at him and said "You'll give me nothing", and promptly took his turkeys back home. That winter canned turkey was often on the menu.

In spite of the depression, this area didn't suffer from the drought plaguing the prairies. Crops and garden stuff was plentiful. Wheat was taken to a local flour mill and returned as flour, pickets, bran, etc. In the fall several boxcar loads of vegetables were shipped out to the less fortunate people on the prairies.

Socials, card games and visiting helped to pass the time away, and wood-sawing bees or building bees — even grain-hauling bees — got neighbors together to help each other and at the same time do some visiting. It was during the depression years that so many new folks moved to this area, starved or blown out of their prairie homes. Many of these newcomers were recipients of food from Charlie and Gerda's meager larder.

Charlie was a Wheat Pool and Co-op shareholder. He spent many years on the local school board, with its attending headaches, trying to finance it with little to go on.

Following a lingering illness, Gerda passed away in April, 1942. Agnes stayed with her dad until her marriage to Fred Sundberg of Seattle on May 27, 1945. After several lonely years Charlie married Albertina Bodin from Provost in 1947. She passed away in 1964.

In 1955, being in failing health, Charlie moved to a small house in Gilbert's yard where he spent his remaining years. He owned a small Prefect which allowed him to inspect crops and to go visiting in the neighborhood. He spent many hours in carving sailing ships as he remembered them from his long-ago sailing days. They were exquisite works, complete with delicate rigging, movable steering, and other details. Many of his friends are proud owners of these lovely mementos.

A very quiet soft-spoken person, Charlie read widely and took an immense interest in local and public affairs. He passed away on December 11, 1964, leaving behind a host of friends, one of whom, Mr. J. M. McDonald, wrote of him, "He was a great man who never entertained a small thought."

GILBERT GUSTAVSON FAMILY

Gilbert Gustavson attended school in Eckville. Walking, horseback, and bicycle provided his means of getting to school. On October 26, 1938 he married Iva Lewis. Iva was born and raised at Laverna, Saskatchewan. She completed her schooling there and worked for a number of years in the Post Office. She arrived here in 1935 to join her family who had previously come to Alberta.

Gilbert and Iva have two children, Gerald (Gerry), born June 10, 1940 and Marilyn, born March 30, 1943. As with all others growing up during these years, they have known hard work and learned to get along with what was available. A herd of cattle, pigs, and a flock of laying hens kept everyone busy. Eggs for hatching were sold for a number of years. As times improved the cattle and chickens gave way to modern hog barns.

After finishing a course at Olds Agricultural College Gerry and his father formed a partnership. Between them they farm six quarters of land and grain farming is the mainstay of the operation.

Gilbert spent nine years on the Credit Union Board of Directors and also was a member of the Eckville Livestock Board for quite some time. He is a member of the Wheat Pool, the Co-op, and the Fish and Game Association. He is an avid fisherman and hunter, and loves the west mountain country.

Iva is a charter member of the Country Ladies Aid. She is also active in the Handicraft Guild, where she has held an executive and teaching position. She enjoys gardening, needlepoint, pottery and lapidary. She has been district convener for the Cancer Canvas for [illegible].

GERALD GUSTAVSON

On October 28, 1967 Gerald and Elsie Kirk were married. Elsie was born in Nigeria where her parents were missionaries. She obtained her schooling in Nigeria and in Canada. She is a registered nurse, having graduated from Calgary General Hospital. They have three sons. Joel was born on December 11, 1970; Wesley on December 23, 1972, and Andrew on March 22, 1974.

Gerry has been on the Co-op Board of Directors and is presently serving as president. He is an active outdoors man, enjoying fishing and hunting. He also enjoys working in his shop, especially with his metal lathe.

Elsie works hard with Hospital Auxiliary, Country Ladies Aid, and her Church work and activities in the Handicraft Guild keep her quite [illegible].

THE HAAPALA FAMILY — by Vivian Bench

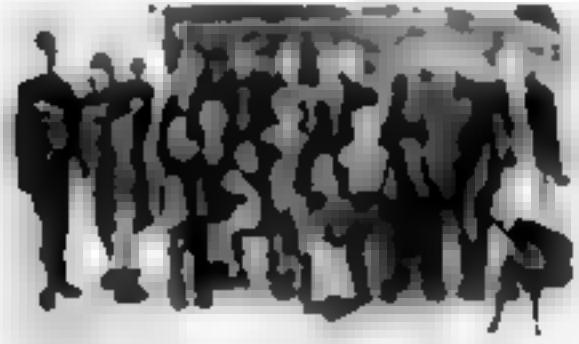
My father, Matti Haapala, was not one of the early pioneers of the Eckville District. It was not until 1941 that he moved from Manyberries, Alberta, bringing with him a large family. After many dry years on the prairie he decided to follow his former Finnish neighbors to the Eckville area which indeed, was greener pastures to us. He was able to rent land from Mr. McDonald and Mr. Marshall, of Eckville, which was situated west of Eckville just next to Alfred Molander's.

Moving, itself, was a major undertaking for us. My mother had passed away in 1935 and the two older girls, Esther and Miriam, were married. My oldest brother, Reino, remained in Manyberries to farm for that summer, and

George was working in Saskatchewan, so that left a family of nine to move. My brothers, Arnie and Albert, came by train along with the cattle and machinery. Dad drove the 400 miles in a Model T Ford truck with the chickens in a box in the back! The late Mr. Jack Macky was good enough to offer to come and get the rest of us. We made quite a car full with Dora, Pearl, Grace, Vivian, Dorothy, Wilfred and Vernon and a friend, Vivian Kakkonen, as well as the driver. Needless to say, it must have been a very trying trip for him, and to this day I feel much gratitude toward him and his wife, Hulda, who is now a resident of the Manor House in Eckville, for all the help they gave us.

To us kids our new home was splendid. The outside walls of the house were brown weathered siding that had never seen paint, but we were used to that. The interior was bright and cozy. Of course there was no electricity, phone or plumbing. How we loved the trees, after living on the bald prairie! The Horseguard River ran back of the land, and we'd walk through the huge spruce trees to have picnics by the river and to skate in the wintertime.



Our crop was good that year and I can recall my dad saying that he made more from his share of the crop that year than he had made in the past 10 years on the prairie. He was very happy in this new area, going fishing in the nearby lakes, picking blueberries with us, and visiting friends. Our home was such a hospitable place, everyone was welcome, and we have many wonderful memories of our dad and the good life we had.

Starting at a new school that fall was another hurdle for us kids. To top it off, dad had sold the Model T to a stranger who offered to give us a ride to school in it before he took it home. We agreed to go if he'd let us off up town and we'd walk to the school. When we arrived in town he laughingly drove right up main street and up to the school, where we all jumped out with red faces, much to the amusement of all watching! Two years later the school burned and we then had classes in the hall. Mr. Bill Davidson was our teacher then.

Among other new experiences we had were the sight of Indians travelling and camping just one mile away from our buildings. They would often come and ask for vegetables or other things, and we soon lost our fear of them. As far as I can remember, they never caused any trouble for us.

My dad had married again in 1943. His bride was Miss Emily Hill of Eckville. He bought a farm at Withrow and Reino, and later Albert and Vernon, went to help him there. Arnie rented the McKee farm at Benalto and we moved with him as we couldn't get to school from Withrow due to poor roads. This ended the chapter of our life near Eckville.

George was in the Army and didn't get home until the end of 1945. He was followed by his war bride the following summer. The family is scattered around now, with only a few of us remaining in this area. My father passed away in March, 1960, and is buried in the Eckville cemetery. My step-mother, Emily, still lives with her sister, Mrs. Glen Hare, in Duncan, B.C. Arnie lives at Lucky Lake, Saskatchewan. Wilfred at Dunblane, Dorothy at Hawarden, Pearl near Rocanville, all in Saskatchewan. Grace lives at Surrey, B.C., George in Menahga, Minnesota, U.S.A., Vivian near Lesliеville, Alberta, and Dora, Reino and Albert and Vernon living near Eckville.

THE LEONARD HAGLUND FAMILY — by Hadie Haglund

Our family arrived in Eckville during the spring of 1971 to operate the Alberta Wheat Pool elevator. We came from a small town named Hythe, located in the Peace River country about 400 miles from Eckville.

Len was born in Brandview, Saskatchewan, the son of John and Helen Haglund. In his early childhood he moved with his family to a farm in the Beaverlodge area of Alberta. Here he received his education. After working at odd jobs for a period of time Len went to Grande Prairie and enlisted in the Regina Rifle Regiment in 1943. He took his basic training in Camrose and Calgary, then was sent overseas that same year. He saw action in Holland, France and Germany before being discharged in June, 1946.

After his discharge from the Army, Len started working for the Alberta Wheat Pool. During his time of employment with the Pool he has been located at Saxsmith, Wembley and Hythe before to Eckville in 1971. Leonard was one of the 16 Wheat Pool managers in Alberta who handled a million bushels of grain during the 1976-1977 crop year. It is the first time Len had hit the million bushel mark and this achievement sets a record for any wheat pool elevator in Eckville. Entry into the million-bushel club coincides with a quarter century of Wheat Pool employment for Len. In January of 1977 Len was presented with a gold watch in recognition of his 25 years of service with the Alberta Wheat Pool and will be further honored by the Wheat Pool later in 1977

In the communities where we have lived Les has worked with a number of youth groups, including the Gilby 4-H Club. He is a member of the United Church, Masonic Lodge, Order of the Eastern Star the Royal Canadian Legion and the Fish and Game Association. He enjoys golfing, curling, fishing and hunting

I, Sadie Haglund, was born in Hythe, the daughter of Walter and Thora Tanchuk. I was raised in this area, and received my education in the local schools and in the McTavish Business College in Edmonton. For several years I worked as a school supervisor, in the Grande Prairie School Division Office, the Hythe Post Office, Sambrooke Insurance Agency in Eckville and at the Eckville Junior-Senior High School as a teachers' aid I have helped with the United Church Sunday School with girls' groups, Order of the Eastern Star, the Ladies Auxiliary at Hythe and the Handi-craft Guild

On July 20, 1951 I was united in marriage to Leonard A. Haglund. After our marriage we lived for a time on the family farm south of Beaverlodge, before moving to Hythe

Maureen, our only child, was born at Hythe on August 26 1955. Here she was raised and received her education, except for one year of high school at Beaverlodge and two years at the Eckville High School, from which she graduated in 1973. While in high school she enjoyed and participated in school sports, and was a member of the Eckville Yearbook Staff. Since furnishing high school Maureen has been employed in Red Deer

HALL, THELMA

I Thelma Hall (Barlund was born at Loverna, Saskatchewan in 1918. I lived there for 13 years and went to school at Antelope. In 1931 my parents two sisters and I moved to the Eckville district. I attended school there till we moved to Evarts in 1933 where I finished my Grade 9. I went to work for the Stewarts in the store and post office and was there till 1940

In 1941 I came to work at the old hospital in Eckville for Dr Coppock Miss Coates and Miss Snow were the nurses here. It was interesting work but sometimes really hectic when there would be more patients than beds and we wouldn t know where to put them Then there was the time the bathroom upstairs flooded and water ran all over the floor Miss Coates and I mopped for an hour getting it dried up

One Christmas we were invited to the doctor's house for supper The doctor always liked his Christmas cheer and he had plenty that day but was supposed to carve the turkey However the knife somehow slipped and so did the turkey right on the floor but the doctor just scooped it up and went on carving

We had lots of good times there and sad times too, when someone would pass away We got to know everyone so well, it was just like family

I married Ernie Barlund in 1944 and we have lived around the area except for three years in Red Deer We came to our present home in 1951 and have lived here ever since

We have four boys and one girl They went to school at Leslieville and David Thompson High through Grade 12. Bruce went to Red Deer College one year then joined city police in Calgary. He was there for nine years. He has resigned now and has gone farming at Spirit River He is married to Carol Middlestead of Grande Prairie and they have two girls

Robert went to U of A and took Agriculture He has been working for five years for Energy and Natural Resources in the Peace River country He married Arlene Elhorn of Wanham and they have one son and one daughter

Douglas went to U of A and took Agriculture He was with Farm Credit Corporation for four years at Fairview Grande Prairie and St Paul Now he is in Regina, Saskatchewan with the Bank of Commerce, a farm loan officer He married Dana Fleming of Holden and they have

Dale went to Olds College for two years and now is land assessor with Municipal Affairs at Hanna

Sharon went to U of A and took Agriculture She is now credit advisor with Farm Credit Corporation in Lethbridge

HALLGREN, AL AND JOYCE

Al and Joyce Hallgren and family moved to Eckville in February, 1963 Al was then self employed as a tank trucker, hauling crude oil and water for drilling and servicing oil and gas wells in the Eckville area. Eckville was a beehive of activity in the oilfield at that time having roughly 35 big rigs drilling at one time

Al and Joyce had previously lived in Red Deer and Sylvan Lake where Al owned and operated a gravel truck Before this, Al was employed in a doodlebugging or in plainer words, seismograph exploration, from 1951 to 1955. In 1961, he rigged up his first tank truck and went to work at Whitecourt, Alberta He soon returned to work out of Sylvan Lake, where they lived at the time. They lived in various areas while hauling water for a big rig before moving to Eckville

When they first moved to Eckville, they lived in a mobile home in Covlin's trailer court for three years. They then bought the Gust Nygaard house in Eckville where they lived until July of 1973. They moved to the new house they built on the ski-doo hill one and a half miles northwest of town. This hill, so we have been told, was called the Last Hill by the Indians who roamed this country many years ago Some Indian artifacts have been found on this hill as proof the Indians used to camp here. The "hill" is located on N ½ 21 39-3-W5, which Hallgrens purchased from Rudolph Saari in April, 1973

Joyce helps run the business by answering the phone and dispatching trucks. Al and Joyce have been in the tank truck business continually since arriving in Eckville 15 years ago. They still operate their tank truck business which has grown over the years and done very well. Al and his sons own and operate an oil reclamation centre just out of Eckville. The "oil rec. centre handles oil spill clean-ups and re-claims crude oil. This helps prevent pollution from these materials laying around. Son Darrell is running this operation, besides driving trucks for his dad.

Al's grandfather, John Peter Hallgren, coming from near Stockholm, Sweden, was one of the first white settlers in the Red Deer area. He homesteaded just three miles east of Red Deer at that time. The old Hallgren homestead is now occupied by a Chinese market gardener.

Al's father, Andrew Edgar Hallgren, was born on the old homestead. He moved to Delburne and later to a farm two and one-half miles south of Sylvan Lake in 1931.

Al's mother, Mary Louise Augustine Leroy was born in Nice, Normandy (France). She came to Canada in 1914 and married Ed Hallgren in March 1916.

Al was born at Delburne, Alberta and took his schooling at Marianne, Sylvan Lake and Red Deer. He had five brothers and four sisters. From 1942 to 1945, Al helped his dad run a riding academy in Red Deer and Sylvan Lake.

Joyce Hallgren, nee Joyce Doreen Harden, was born and raised about 25 miles west of Wetaskiwin. She attended school at Bonnie Glen and Canyon Creek.

Joyce's father, LeRoy Harden, now farms in the Bonnie Glen district. He spent much time in the Eckville area in his younger years. He was well-known for his skill at cutting the necks off beer bottles with a whip or driving line.

Al and Joyce had six children. Dale Alexander and Donna Joy, twins, were born at Wetaskiwin in 1951. Donna is now Mrs. Harry Thomas of Eckville. Dale passed away in a car accident in August 1973. Dale and Donna attended school at Sylvan Lake. Audrie and Deborah Dorothy Louise, born in Red Deer in 1956, took her schooling at Eckville. She is now Mrs. Jack French of Eckville.

Darrell Lee, born in Red Deer in 1958, went to school in Eckville. He is at present living at home and helping with the business.

Kelvin Alexis, born in Red Deer in 1960, is living at home and working out.

Allen Edgar, born in Eckville in 1964, is living at home and attending school in Eckville.

HEBNER, EDITH

I, Edith Hebner, was born September 1, 1898 at Birkenhead, Cheshire, England. I came to Canada May 1, to Toronto, Ontario. William Hebner and I were married in October 1921 and left for the West on December 10, 1921.

We arrived at the homestead in Turtle Valley, B.C., and there had several surprises. My first surprise was to know I had only one white neighbor who lived five miles away. The rest of the folks were Indians. There was no water supply on the homestead so we had to carry it about one half mile. I learned lots of things from the Indians. They became real good friends, and, although I am now 79 years old, I keep in touch with some of them. They kept me in deer meat and salmon for years after my husband died.

I had never seen a wood stove before, and believe me, I had quite a time before I got used to it. I also had quite a problem with coal oil lamps. Our log cabin was really very small, but we managed to raise our three children there.

Our children were Harry, born October 5, 1922; Pauline, born December 21, 1926, and Kathleen, born October 31, 1929. In 1929 my husband took over the Rawleigh business and stayed with it for ten years.

Later we bought another homestead in the same valley. It was a beautiful place to live. My husband died in 1951 and I stayed there until 1957 when I moved to Eckville in June of that year. I bought a very small house, which I was told was the first bank building that Eckville ever had, and it later became a pool hall. Finally I made it livable and spent quite a few happy years there. In 1976 I moved into the Eckville Manor, where I feel quite content and happy to be.

S. F. HERBERT FAMILY -- by Mr. Herbert

I was born on November 30, 1904, on a ranch just south and east of where the hamlet of Lousana, Alberta now stands. In the spring of 1905, my parents moved to their homestead five miles south and west of Lousana. My childhood was much the same as that of any children of the early settlers -- trapping rats in the fall, shooting gophers in the spring, rounding up cattle and generally helping with the farm work. I received my education at Collins School, about two miles from where we lived. I have one sister and two brothers.

At the age of 15 years I went to work in the Lousana Branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada. I worked in quite a number of different branches such as Rocky Mountain House, Wetaskiwin, Rosthern, Saskatchewan, Regina and Broadview. In 1925, I left the bank and went to work for the Northern Electric Company in Winnipeg. It was about this time that many of the large city exchanges were being changed to automatic. This job consisted of installing automatic equipment. After about a year I moved back to my father's farm at Lousana.

In the spring of 1929, I started farming on my own. What with 20¢ wheat and eight and 10¢ a pound butterfat, it was a pretty rough deal. In the spring of 1934, I moved the family to Eckville, and travelled for the W. T. Rawleigh Company for the next seven years.

With no gravel roads and very little snow plowing in the winter and not much money in the country, this business just made me a living. My district was from Markerville in the south to Bluffton in the north, and from Lesliеville to six miles west of Bentley. I traded quite a few Rawleigh products for horsehair and beef hides, and also quite a number of beer bottles. Most of the articles I took in trade were sold to Louis Robinson of Leedale.

In the fall of 1941 I joined the army and went overseas in August, 1942. We landed in England the day of the Dieppe Raid. I was stationed at the Headquarters of the Ordinance Corp, where I worked in an office. Outside of a few air raids, a plane crash very close to the camp and a few buzz bombs, my stay in England was uneventful. I returned to Canada in October 1945, and was discharged from the army in May 1946.

I worked for several farmers in the Elnora District and in the fall of 1948 took over the post office in Lousana. I had a small oil and insurance business along with the post office. In the fall of 1954 the post office in Alix was open for competition. I applied, wrote a civil service examination, and was successful in winning the competition. I took over the post office in Alix and was postmaster there for almost 15 years. Having reached the age of 65 in 1969, the government turned me out to pasture. I must say with a civil service pension and the other pensions they have these days the grass in the pasture remained quite green.

I have a good house in Alix and am quite active in community affairs. I also do quite a bit of travelling. I have been from Mexico to Alaska, both the east and the west coasts of Canada and have made two trips to England and Holland. I still enjoy good health.

My family consisted of three boys and three girls.

Edwin is head of the parts department for Costello Equipment in Calgary. He does quite a bit of travelling between Calgary, Edmonton and Grande Prairie. His wife Joyce works for Woodwards in Calgary. They have a son.

Donald is maintenance man for Molson's Brewery in Edmonton. He spends his summer holidays building a retirement home on the Shuswap Lakes in British Columbia. His wife, Barbara, is a housekeeper for an auxiliary hospital in Edmonton. They have two girls.

Allan works for Continental Packers in Red Deer. His wife, Mary, works at the Michener Centre in Red Deer. They have three boys.

Evelyn, Mrs. R. W. Green, and her husband run the Eastgate Shell service in Calgary. Evelyn is also a housewife. They have a boy and a girl.

Florence is now Mrs. H. J. Dean. Her husband is retired from the American Air Force, and works for Continental Oil. Flo runs her own beauty parlor. They have four girls. They live in Moore, Oklahoma, U.S.A.

Doris, now Mrs. Adolph Mevey, lives on a farm in the Lousana district. She works part time in the Elnora Hospital. They have two daughters and a son.

JACK HITTALA — by Martha Leeti

Jack Hutala was born in Raahe, Finland on December 5, 1879. He came to the United States in 1902 and worked in various areas before going to Butte, Montana where he worked in the copper mines. While in Butte he married Elizabeth Kyhonen, who also was born in Finland.

In 1906 Mr. Hutala came to Alberta to look for land, and was able to buy the S.W. 32-39-3-W5. This land was located four miles north-west of Eckville. He brought his wife and first child to the farm in late 1907. He was naturalized in Alberta on September 2, 1910. They had three girls and one boy. Martha was born in Butte, Montana on July 10, 1907; Hilja was born at Eckville in June, 1908; Fanny was born in 1910. Vaino was born in 1912. In 1913 Mrs. Hiltala returned to Butte, Montana for medical treatment, but she died there in November, 1913. She is buried in Butte.

Jack later married Hilda Torsti and had four more children. Elsie was born in 1916, Ivy in 1917, Otto in 1920, and Violet in 1926.

They lived on the farm until 1950 when they bought a home in Sylvan Lake and moved there for their retirement. Jack died in December, 1952 and is buried in the Eckville cemetery.

Martha married Elmer Leeti of Sylvan Lake. Their four children were Aileen, born in 1928, Helen, born in 1936, Irven, born in 1938, and Gordon, born in 1942.

Aileen married Don Lyons of Red Deer and they had six children. The oldest boy, George, is married and has two children. He and his family live in Surrey, B.C.

Helen Leeti married Jack Anderson of Bentley and they have three girls and one boy. They live on a farm west of Bentley.

Irven is not married and lives on the home

Gordon married Johanna Lauter of Kindersley, Saskatchewan. They have two children — a girl and a boy. They live in Sherwood Park, Alta.

Hilja married Toivo in Port Moody, B.C., and they still live in B.C.

Fanny died in 1924 and is buried in Kuusamo cemetery.

Vaino stayed on the home farm and worked until the second World War. Then he went into the army and was overseas about two years. He married Astred Rowan and they lived at Onoway until his death in January, 1969. He is buried here.

Elsie married Bill Johnson of Eckville and they had six sons and two daughters. Ronald is married and lives at Stony Plain. He has three sons. Jack is married and has two girls. He lives in Rocky Mountain House. Marvin is married has three children, and lives at Beaumont, Alberta. Elaine married George Piller and has one girl. They live at Sylvan Lake. Dennis is married and has a boy and a girl. They live at Lesserville. Larry is married and lives at Rimbey. He has one boy. Leslie is married and lives at Rocky Mountain House. Deloyce is married and lives at Sylvan Lake.

Bill and Elsie lived on a farm five miles west and one mile north of Eckville until they sold their farm and moved to Sylvan Lake in 1968. Elsie died in September of 1968 and is buried in the Kuusamo cemetery.

Ivy married Bill Wright. They have a girl and boy.

Donna is married and has three girls and a boy. They live on a farm east of Rocky Mountain House.

Otto Matala married Lillie Rogers of Eckville. They have five boys. They live on a farm at High Level, Alberta. The son Brian is married and lives at Rocky Mountain House. The other boys were Arnie, Craig, Dean, and Eric.

Violet married Eli Saarela of Lesserville and they have three girls and one boy. Eileen married Terry Fedderson. They have two girls and live on a farm west of Gilby. Beverly married Brian Adams and they have three girls and one boy. They live at Midnapore, Alberta. Judy married Harley Peterson. They have one girl and live at Condor. Wesley is married and has three girls and lives on the farm. Wesley and his dad farm together north of Lesserville.

THE JACOB (JACK) HILL FAMILY — by Mrs [illegible]

Born in Kauhajoki, Finland, Mr. Jacob Hill immigrated to the U.S.A. at the age of 19, where other older members of his family had moved earlier. Working in the mines and on farms in Michigan and the Dakotas for one dollar a day for long hours was not to his liking, so he moved to the coal-mining towns in the Crow's Nest Pass. Here he met Ida Maki, who had left her birthplace, Kuortane, Finland, a few years earlier, coming to Nanaimo, B.C. and later moving to the Crow's Nest area.

The couple were married on April 7, 1907 and settled on a homestead in the Eckville district, on which Mr. Hill had filed two or three years earlier. During the next few winters they moved back to the Crow's Nest area where Mr. Hill again worked in the mines, until a mine explosion occurred in Bellevue, which killed a great number of men, many of them close friends. Mr. Hill, who was working on a different shift, was saved, but this tragedy cast such a pall on the community that many people left and never returned, among them the Hills.

It was about this time, the winter of 1909 and 1910, that the Jack Woory family, who had moved up from Wyoming, occupied the Hill home during the absence of the Hill family and for several months after their return, while their own home, about four miles north, was being completed. The two families became great friends and remained very close until the last member, Mrs. Woory, died, Mr. Woory and daughters, Sylvia (Isaacson) and Mae, having predeceased her.

In common with most pioneers, the Hill family had their share of misfortunes, hardships and tragedies. The nearest shipping point was Lacombe or Red Deer, and roads being mere trails, it would often take two days for the round trip. Mrs. Hill relates that when she would try to listen for the rumble of the home-coming wagon in the late evening, the croaking of the myriads of frogs would drown out all other sounds.

Mrs. Hill also recalls how terrified she was of the countless, but harmless, garter snakes, and was always thankful to have some of the neighboring lads come over to dispose of some of them. Brush fires were a menace in dry weather as were sudden winter blizzards, especially when the children were in school.

To augment the family income, Mr. Hill [illegible] right-of-way. They also sold eggs and butter to the store and milk to the cheese factory built on the old Eckville site, and later sold cream to the creamery. At times, Mrs. Hill boarded men who were working on the railway.

A team of stubborn, breachy mules was replaced by a team of horses, one of which, the mare, died while having a foal. This misfortune was a severe set-back, especially as they still owed for the team, and a good, well-broken horse was possibly one of the most expensive farm items. Somehow, more horses were eventually bought and raised, and by dint of back-breaking labor, the farm began to provide a fair living for hese hardy pioneers Improvements were gradually made to buildings, and more farm machinery was procured, as well as a few labor saving appliances for the home One of these was a brand new "Magnet" cream separator, which eliminated the work of cooling the milk in the well and then skimming it by hand. Later cellhouses or pits became a familiar feature in most farm yards

Life was not all work, however as there were many diversions, and visiting was a pleasant pastime, especially on Saturday, or "sauna night, when neighbors without this traditional Finnish facility would come to enjoy a bath, followed by a coffee party There were a few community halls where plays, followed by a dance, were presented. The whole family would attend and the small children would be placed under tables where they slept, undisturbed by the noise.

The major event, especially for the children was the yearly picnic at Palm Beach and the Benalto Fair and Stampede Sometimes, as a special treat, the family attended the Red Deer Fair and the sights and sounds there were awesome, indeed. The Hill children, however, were permitted to ride only in the tubs or small boats on the merry-go-round, the horses being considered too dangerous

The children born to Mrs. Hill, as to most of the pioneer women, were born at home, with usually only a mid-wife, or perhaps just a neighbor lady in attendance. One of these wonderful women to whom our own family was much indebted was Mrs (Granny) Ignatius, who would leave her own family for days, not only to assist with the birth, but to take over the care of the children and the housework On one of the rare occasions when a doctor was urgently needed by a neighbor lady in labor Mr Hill rode to Lacombe to summon a doctor Fortunately, the mother's life was saved, although the baby died

Both Mr and Mrs. Hill were active in the early community enterprises. Mr Hill was on the Eckville Co-op board of directors for a number of years and worked for and supported the Mutual Telephone Company

Mr and Mrs. Hill sold their farm to their daughter and son-in-law, Aubrey and Lymie Shultz in 1950 and retired to the town of Eckville where Mr Hill died in August of 1964, the morning after the wedding of his granddaughter Lynae Shultz to Ray Carson. Mrs. Hill moved to the Sylvan Lake Lodge in 1967 where she still resides in 1977 in fairly good health at the age of 94 years.

Of their four children, the eldest Helvi, died in infancy in 1908, and the youngest Hazel, died in the Red Deer hospital in July, 1932, at the age of seven years, following a tonsilectomy. The death of this child of their middle years was the greatest tragedy in the lives of the parents, creating an aching void for many, many years

Lymie and Aubrey Shultz sold the family farm in 1974, to retire to Red Deer

Lempie married Frank Quist in 1936, and, with their daughter, Diane, moved to the west coast in 1940. They have lived in Vancouver for about 36 years, making yearly visits to Alberta to see her relatives here

I must not end this chronicle without mentioning Uncle John Makl, Mrs. Hill's brother who made his home with the Hills whenever he was not away working elsewhere. He was a companion for the Hill children, making them many toys and games for their enjoyment and his help was especially appreciated during the many months when Mr Hill was hospitalized and taking treatments for a growth on his jaw and throat This was at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester Minnesota, about 1923 or 1924

Uncle John took an active part in many of the Finnish organizations and sports and was an excellent cross-country skier He loved to hunt, and supplied meat in the form of wild fowl and rabbits, as well as venison, for the family table. He later bought an acreage on the west shore of Sylvan Lake, now occupied by Miss Jean Yuill He finally moved to Karelia U.S.S.R. in the early 1930's, where he died a few years later

HILL, LYMIE SHULTZ AND HILL, LEMPI [illegible]

Lymie and Lempi are the surviving daughter of Mr and Mrs. Jacob (Jack) Hill. the eldest Helvi, having died in infancy before I (Lymie) was born, and the youngest one died in 1932

We had a normal, happy childhood, and the family fortunes did not affect us greatly, as we were always well fed and clothed, and cleanliness was a passion with our mother It is true, we did not have many "boughten" toys, but we did have a family of homemade dolls, some with china heads and by way of paper dolls, we cut out figures from the colored pages in the catalogues and dressed them in clothing from the same source Lempi did long for a beautiful doll and in fact there was a lovely doll with real hair and eyes that opened and closed, in our home but it had been a gift to our eldest deceased sister, and we were not allowed to play with it until we were older Our Uncle John, who made his home with us from time to time, made us such toys as a sled, a checker game and card games, and bought us some toys when he could afford it

We had few playmates in our earliest years, but we did not really miss them. However, we were intimate with the Jack Wuori family who lived about four miles north of us, and Lempi and I would stay at their home for a few days, and the girls would visit us in turn. We always accompanied our parents to various community gatherings and to visit friends of theirs, and we were always happy when we found children of our own age at these homes. Of course the annual mid-summer picnics, especially the ones held at Palm Beach, were a special treat when we were allowed to enter the water with a number of other children, or to go for a ride in Mr Netsel's motor boat On one of these occasions, the engine stalled and we were very late getting back Another time my brand-new hat blew into the water, and, sad to say, was never the same afterwards. The annual Benalto Fair and Stampede was almost never missed, and one or two trips to Red Deer to attend the fair there were never-to-be forgotten experiences, especially our first ride on the merry-go-round and our first taste of a banana ice cream sundae

I started school at the old Eckville School and then attended Saima School for a while. While the Harper family lived one-half mile east of us. I usually rode "double with Della Harper, but after Lempi started, we usually walked the two and one half miles, in summer at least On one occasion we were looking down into an old well on the Harper place and dropped our lunch bucket into the well, hearing our cries, Ray Harper got a ladder and climbed down, but was not able to retieve the nd which we considered a major catastrophe We went home and out of the field where our mother was digging potatoes, sobbing wildly all the time. She was so relieved o discover the reason for our grief that she did not even scold us, although we had been warned not to go near that well

When we were a little older, we attended the new school in Eckville about four miles distant By this time, the John Lundberg family had moved to the old John Heikkinen place and a deal was made whereby we drove to school with the Lundberg children, using our horse and buggy or cutter, and theirs by turn, with the boys driving and caring for the horse. This arrangement worked very well, and we children established a warm and lasting relationship. I can hardly remember having any teacher but Mr Henry Ludwig, as I had him for seven years. He was a strict disciplinarian, and how we wished he would have a sick day occasionally But he never did However he was a good teacher and I am sure his pupils will never forget the terms of the "Magna Carta" or the 'Quebec Act" or the rules of grammar which he so assiduously instilled into our young minds. Friday afternoons were always a treat when the primary teacher, Miss Thompson, would come and teach us art

At home, we were expected to do some household chores especially during the holidays. Lempi was diligent and industrious, while I was always rather indolent. I was an avid reader and would follow her through the house, reading out loud while she did the work However, I was usually expected to ride up into the bush to bring in the cows, and I learned to milk at an early age

Lempi had the usual childhood diseases most of which I escaped While our father was taking treatments at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, I did become quite ill and had to stay away from school for several weeks This illness was never diagnosed, as I did not see a doctor, but a daily dose of 'Rawleigh's Liniment", which I heartily detested and avoided taking whenever possible, was my only medication and eventually the illness left as suddenly as it had come

When we became teen-agers we attended various functions at the community halls, at first accompanied by our indulgent father and later we joined other young people of our own age. By this time our youngest sister, Hazel, had been born, whom we all adored during her short life time She passed away following a tonsillectomy at the Red Deer Hospital in 1932 at the age of seven years, which cast a deep shadow on our lives, and I doubt if our parents ever fully recovered from the tragedy

I took my Grade 12 in Calgary, and Lempi and I both attended Camrose Normal School. I taught in various schools, but she was unable to get a school, this being in the depth of the depression

Aubrey Shultz and I were married in Calgary on July 5, 1934 and farmed in the Byemore area until 1950, when we took over the old family farm at Eckville selling out in 1974 and moving to Red Deer We have two children, Jim is a helicopter pilot with the C A F He is married, has three sons, and lives in Fort Saskatchewan since 1971 Lynne (Mrs Ray Carson), lives with her husband and three children in Red Deer

Reminiscing on her school days, Lempi recalls in particular, her most memorable Christmas concert held at Saima school under the tutorship of the teacher, Miss Grimson, whose home was in the Burnt Lake district She had just started school in the fall, and as the youngest pupil, she was selected to deliver the opening recitation, which performance was, she thinks, the proudest moment in her life Her favorite teacher, unfortunately died the following spring, a victim of the flu epidemic which swept over the world following the First World War

Mr Ludwig was Lempi's teacher at the old Eckville School, then after a few years in Miss da Thompson's room in town, she again had the former as her teacher until she graduated in 929, at which time Mr Ludwig also left Eckville. Hence, at his farewell party she made him a presentation, having been his pupil in the primary grades and again upon her graduation

This was also the year of the market crash and the beginning of the depression, when jobs became very scarce, and teaching positions, for which Lempi was trained, were well-nigh unobtainable, especially for those without previous experience However, there was plenty of work on the farm, and being a good seamstress, she made all her own clothes, and did a great deal of sewing for other people She took an active part in young people's activities, such as dances, plays and singing groups. Thus, for her the early years of the depression were busy ones

In early 1936 she and Frank Quist were married, eventually moving to the west coast They settled in Vancouver, where they built their home, in which they have lived for close to 40 years They have one daughter, Mrs. Diane White, and one grandson, both living in Van

Each year brings Lempi and Frank, and as recently their grandson, back 'home' to visit relatives and friends in Alberta, and particularly the Eckville and Sylvan Lake areas

To bring this history up to date, our mother moved to the West Park Nursing Home in Red Deer from the Sylvan Lake Lodge, where she had lived for over 10 years, on December 5, 1977 This was her own decision, as she felt the burden of her old age and increasing feebleness necessitated the move. Always having been very adaptable, it is to be hoped that she will adjust to this change in her circumstances

JOHN FRANKLIN HOPKINS — by Mora [illegible]

John Hopkins was born in Kentucky, U.S.A in 1866. Sadie McGhee was born in Oklahoma, U.S.A. in 1869 They were married in 1899 in Oklahoma. Both were school teachers at the time of their marriage, but they later took up farming

John and Sadie Hopkins immigrated to Canada in the fall of 1912 to Bassano, Alberta During the winter John filed on a homestead in the Hutton district and in the spring of 1913 the family moved to their homestead John borrowed a team and wagon and drove 40 miles to Bassano to get lumber Before a small house was built the family lived under a big tarp and cooked on an open fire. What a glorious day it was when the cook stove arrived from Eatons and the family moved into the new house

The Hopkins family lived on the homestead until 1921 and then moved to Gem Colony, near Bassano. Here John rented an irrigated farm from the C.P.R. In November of 1925 they moved to the Gilby district and rented land there which they farmed for six years. Then in 1931 the family moved to the Eckville area, John having bought the former Henry Smith farm. Mr Hopkins had a team of mules with which he farmed, along with horses. His were the only mules in the area at that time

Mr and Mrs. Hopkins had one daughter, Mora born in Oklahoma in 1904 After moving to Alberta Mora was married to Douglas McDonell Mrs Hopkins died at the age of 70 years in July, 1939. Mr Hopkins lived on the farm alone for quite a few years then moved into the Twilight Lodge in Red Deer in 1956. He passed away in 1957 at the age of 91 years. Both Mr and Mrs Hopkins were laid to rest in the Eckville

THE HUBL HISTORY

Louis Hubl was born in Prague Czechoslovakia in 1886. He lived a short time there before immigrating to Canada in the early 1900s. Since he came across on a boat and landed in Newfoundland the only direction he could take was to head west He then started to work his way west, stopping for a time in Manitoba to work on the railroad. As it was, though, he wanted to see greener pastures, so he headed south and west ending up in North Dakota, and later in Montana. While there he was hired on as a cowboy, was given a horse and a revolver and told to ride the range, checking stock and fixing fences. One day while out riding he saw a little animal, and, not being able to catch it, he shot it instead, soon finding out it was scented. He then realized that the cowboy life wasn't for him

He then moved to Frank, Alberta and tried his hand at mining. One night, in 1903, he borrowed a horse to go girling in a nearby town. This was also the night of the Turtle Mountain slide. But the slide did not discourage him. he continued to work in the mines in that area

In 1906 two girls arrived from Czechoslovakia on the boat "August Victoria" They caught a train from Ontario to points west. One of its many stops was at Frank, and Louis was there, holding his horse because it was scared of the noise the train was making The ladies stepped down from the train and that is how Louis met his future wife, Julie Antonia Kec

Louis and Julie were married in Frank on August 13, 1906. Louis Mark (Sr.), Joe Edl and Charlie Mottl played for their wedding dance After they were married the happy couple continued to live in Frank, and their first son Edward, was born there

In 1908 the stories started in the mines, and since they had heard shortly before that the government was giving away free homestead land by Bowell, (near Medicine Hat,) they decided to move there. Once they had been there for awhile they found out that farming wasn't easy as, drought prairie fires, rattlesnakes and fear of Indians were always present. During one of the winters at Bowell a bad blizzard hit and antelope were found frozen standing up in railway sheds. People came from miles around to get meat from the dead animals to can for use later.

As money was dwindling, Louis decided to get some extra jobs. Being a harness maker by trade, he was able to get a job with the Wheatland Co. making harnesses for mules and horses. He was supplied with a Franklin car and later a McLaughlin Buick to drive to camps in Cypress Hills, Estevan, Saskatchewan and back to Medicine Hat fixing and making harness. Since harness making was slow in the winter he also got a job at a glass factory in Redcliff just for the winter months.

After 17 years of facing hardships on the prairie they decided to leave, so by train they brought their family (now seven children) to the Eckville district. In 1924 they purchased a half section from Phil Laybourne, this being the N½ 1-38-4-W5. They then had their machinery shipped to Hespero by train. The machinery that they had, though, was not very adaptable to this part of the province as the Avery three-wheeled tractor was built with two wheels in the front and one large wheel in the back and was always getting stuck. Also they had brought along a 12 bottom plough that worked fine on the prairie but proved to be useless in this type of soil. The tractor was replaced by a Rumely oil-pull which was later replaced by a 20-35 Allis Chalmers. The new tractor was then used for all the farm work plus doing custom threshing for the neighbors.

A harness shop was started on the farm, then moved to Eckville into Isaacson's garage. The garage burnt down in 1928, so Louis had a new shop built by Art Bellika. In 1940 the shop and the tools were traded to Jake Busslinger, (later sold to Chester Kasha) for a pull type combine. Later a shop was started on the farm again and harness was made by the gross, (144 pieces of each) from there they were shipped to wholesale outfits all over the province. Some interesting stories were told in the shop by Jesse Craig, Fred Isaacson, the Armstrong brothers and Charlie Thorkman. A very amusing story told by Charlie was "How to Rid Your Horse of Lice." It starts out: "You put your horse in the barn for three weeks and feed it nothing but salt – no water. Then you take him to the creek for a drink of water; the lice will be thirsty and jump into the creek for a drink. You quickly lead your horse away and your lousy horse won't be lousy anymore."

In 1947 a fruit farm was bought in Creston, B.C. and on this land Louis built a small shop where he fixed bridles and saddles for people of the community while also selling clothing and other merchandise. Being very active, he accepted an invitation to join the Creston Valley Fruit Packers Board and was a director for quite a few years.

Louis Hubl passed away on February 8, 1963.

His wife, Julie, lived in their home until 1974 when she moved into the Swan Valley Lodge in Creston where she still resides. She keeps busy by reading, crocheting and watching television. It gives her much enjoyment to have visitors from Alberta.

The Hubl family consists of:

Edward married to Lenora Senkyr, their children are Ken and Shirley.

Emma married Charlie Taskila, their children are Fay, Pat and Irene.

Rose married Gillie Bjornson, their children are Gail, Margaret, Gail and Norman.

Clara married Oscar Rafnson, their children — Robert (deceased) and Judy.

Louis married Lucy Nagraft, their children are Tom and Linda.

Robert married Eleanor Taskila, their children are Alma, Sheila, Stanley and Marvin.

Mary married John Faynor, their children are Bill, James, Susie and Ricky.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubl celebrated their Golden Wedding August 13, 1956.

Jonas and Emma Huesa were born in Oulu Lan, Finland. Emma was a sister of Mrs. August E. Koski. The family emigrated from Finland to the U.S.A.

In the spring of 1902 Jonas moved from Bonner, Montana to the Eckville district. Here he filed on a homestead of S.W. 34-39-3-W5. On this quarter he built a small log house and a shelter for a cow and a team of oxen. He then moved his wife and family to live on the farm. They had two girls, Annie and Elsa, and two boys, Andrew and Hans.

Because of the condition of Emma's health they found the hardships of pioneering too great. She could not stand the privation they had to suffer. so, in 1910 Mr Hussa sold their quarter of land to Mr Tigersted. With the proceeds from the farm he was able to take his family back to Finland

Mr Hussa returned to Eckville after he settled his family in Finland. He was employed by the Canadian National Railway in building the railroad from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House Later he moved on from Eckville and we lost track of him

Now all the family have passed away

HERBERT JOBS' FAMILY — by Anna Jobs

Herbert Jobs was born in 1906 at Brightview Alberta His father died when Herb was only 14. making it necessary for him to share in the

and one sister

In 1929. Herb purchased a quarter of land in the Happy Hill District. Here he led a busy life clearing land, and taking care of his few range cattle With the help of Joe Hinman he built a log house. On June 16, 1937 he married Anna Schmidek, a daughter of his close neighbors, Mr and Mrs. Dan Schmidek The young couple received five milk cows from the Jobs' family and a sow with little pigs, a milk cow and two calves from the Schmidecks, to help them get started with mixed farming Herb and Anna had two sons, George and Arthur, and one daughter Irene.

In the early 1940's, Herb bought a water well drilling outfit as a means of earning extra money Many people wanted drilled water wells and Herb drilled more than 30 water wells during his time. Meanwhile, he bought a quarter of land five miles away from his home quarter as it was the only land available to purchase. With two growing sons who were becoming interested in farming, Herb was looking for still more land Mr Peter Carlyle had three quarters of land near Eckville for sale, and it had a river to fish in too The family all enjoyed fishing and often went fishing along with the Pete Carlyle family Finally, Herb decided to sell his own quarter of land to help buy the land from Mr Carlyle. with the result that in 1955 the Jobs' family moved to NE 10-39-3 W5 in the Eckville District

That the soil was good was evident — waist high quack grass was growing in abundance. It was necessary to work the land repeatedly until the quack grass was under control. By this time, George had finished Grade 8 in school and he stayed home to help with the farming. Soon the small house was cleaned and painted. Old buildings were ripped down and new ones slowly erected. The crops were good, and the family enjoyed the new district. Their old home place at Happy Hill was sold when the family decided to stay in the Eckville District

The family often milked up to 14 cows by hand but finally invested in a milking machine. The cream was sold to the Eckville Creamery and the cheque fed and clothed the family For a number of years extra income was also derived from the sale of around 500 turkeys which were sold during the Christmas season each year

The family enjoyed friends and relatives coming to visit them, and often hosted card parties with the neighbors. Mrs. Kasper soon had persuaded Anna to join in the Country Ladies'

In 1960, Irene graduated from the Eckville

High School and then went out to work. In 1964, she married Albert Nagy of Evansburg, Alberta and now they live in Sherwood Park, Alberta. They have two daughters, Danielle and Kristine.

A large new house was built on the farm in 1963. In February of 1964, Herb had a stroke and has since been unable to work.

George married Audrey Sestrap of Eckville in 1968. They purchased a trailer in which they lived on the home farm. Their children are Wanda and Bradley. Audrey decided that Anna should learn to drive a car so bought her some driving lessons in Rimbey. Anna learned to drive and was soon sporting a new green Datsun.

Meanwhile, Art finished his schooling in Eckville and went out working during the winter time. In 1971, he married Carol Sunde of Alhambra. The basement in the large house on the home farm was finished for Art and Carol to live downstairs. They have a daughter, Deanna and twin boys, Dean and Devon.

In 1972, George purchased three quarters from Mr. A. Stopsen. They then sold their trailer and moved from the home farm. George and Art decided that mom and dad should move from the farm, and bought a lot in Eckville in 1974. On this lot they built a house to which Herb and Anna moved in 1975.

In 1977, Herb and Anna were entertained at the home farm on the occasion of their 40th wed[illegible]

Herb and Anna are still active members of the Craig Lutheran Church. Their enjoyment from fishing has not diminished so they still drive out to Prairie Creek to catch some trout. Anna was president of the Eckville Friendship Club in 1977, and she and Herb both enjoy attending the Club's functions. They especially enjoy having friends and relatives come for a visit or a card game.

JOBS, ARTHUR AND CAROL

Carol Louise is the youngest child of Knut and Anna Sunde. Schooling was taken in Alhambra, Rocky Mountain House and David Thompson High School.

Her interests included riding horses during the holidays and the 4-H Beef Club. Travelling was also enjoyed. In 1965, she was one of the Centennial Exchange Students from the David Thompson High that travelled to Ontario and she hosted one of the return students to this area. The Centennial year 1967 meant a trip to Expo and a fast tour of Europe with her sister Audrey and friends, Lois and Miriam Farrington, and Maureen Killick. Carol's education continued at the Red Deer College and at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, where she graduated receiving her B.Sc. with a major in Home [illegible]

In the spring of 1971, Carol was united in marriage to Arthur Leonard Jobs of Eckville. Life began on his mixed farm near Eckville. Their children, Deanna Dawn born December 16, 1973, and the twins, Dean Maxwell and Devon Tyson born September 20, 1975, bring them much joy and life is very rewarding.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN JOHNSON — by Josephine Hanich

John and Mina Johnson (a well-known couple among the Eckville Finlanders) first homesteaded on a quarter in the Leslieville (Risula) area. Then, during the first World War they bought the Tigerstedt farm two miles north of Eckville. Mr. Johnson farmed here for a short time before selling the farm to Mr. Harrison very stable and garage man in Eckville. Mr. Harrison rented the farm first to Matt Heikkila and wife, and then to the Yakovliz family.

After this, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson built and ran one of the first restaurants on the main street of Eckville. It was a common sight to see boys in khaki uniforms who had returned from the war enjoying the fresh cooked meals. When the work got too heavy for the Johnsons, they sold their restaurant to Mr. Archibald Litt.

While living in the Eckville district the Johnsons took an active part in organizing and building the Liberty Hall that stood where old Eckville had been located. This hall was later sold to Matt Johnson. With the lumber he built himself a home in Eckville.

John and Mina's next residence was on the west end of Sylvan Lake. Thus they traded for a home in British Columbia. At the west coast where they moved to Ramey, they bought an acreage and made it their home. Soon after moving, Mr. Johnson passed away. Their son Elmer and his family of Seattle, Washington, came to live with his widowed mother. Mrs. Johnson passed away a few years later.

Elmer, the Johnson's only son, passed away in 1961. He was married to Ida Koski. They have two sons and one daughter, all living in Seattle, Washington, U.S.A.

JOHNSON, MATTI FAMILY

Matti Nikodemus Harju (in Canada known as Johnson) was born on February 25, 1881 at Alavaden, Finland. Hulda Elizabeth Talson was born in Almy, Wyoming, U.S.A.

The Johnsons had the first steam outfit and John Deere tractor in the area. They also did custom breaking, clearing land of J. McDonald Land, and surrounding areas.

Matt Johnson's farm was a very busy place with 14 youngsters of their own and the A. B. Koski's across the road and the Jack Hietala and Andrew (Antti) Elson families nearby. The four families would often get together for an afternoon of ball playing, horseshoeing and swimming in the Medicine River below A. B. Koski's home. After the day's activities there was fresh home-made ice cream to eat at the Johnson's.

Helvie Elizabeth was born May 28, 1908. She lost her eyesight when she was 21 years old, so spent the biggest part of her life in C.N.I.B. in Calgary. It was there she met and married Walter Young. They had some very happy years together before she died in 1957.

JOKINEN, HENRY

Henry Jokinen was born in Tampere, Finland on February 12, 1885. He was the oldest son of a tailor. All clothes were then made by hand. He [illegible] college in Tampere, majoring in physical education and drama.

In 1909 he decided to emigrate to America, where it was rumored that the streets were paved with gold and fortunes would be easy to make. He worked at various jobs, such as clerk in a grocery store, in lumber camps, and in mines. However, his real interests lay in gymnastics, and he participated in establishing ski groups in the Y.M.C.A., using rings, parallel bars, tumbling and pyramids. He also organized theatre groups and directed many plays. Most of the communities where he lived had a majority of Finnish people, such as Eckville, and the scripts were in the Finnish language.

Maria Helena Skarp was born in Oulu, Finland on April 18, 1895. Her father was a sea captain who sank with his ship in the North Atlantic Ocean when she was seven years old. At the age of 18 years when she came to Duluth, Minnesota, she went to work for an uncle who owned a restaurant. It was there that she met her husband and they were married September 20, 1915. The next year a daughter, Helen Katherine, was born in Iron River, Michigan. They later moved to Butte, Montana, where Henry worked in the mines.

Maria contacted polio during the epidemic, and was partially paralyzed on her right side. Gradually, with physiotherapy administered by her husband, she overcame it, but was unable to have any more children. During their stay in Butte they were again very active in amateur theatre, both directing and acting.

In 1927 they decided to homestead in Canada. Henry arrived by train at Sylvan Lake in January. The temperature was 40 degrees below zero, one of the most severe winters in years—and he was then very skeptical about his decision to move to Canada. The following year the beauty of the country unfolded and the newness and the challenge of the pioneer living excited him, so he sent for his wife and daughter who was then 11 years old. They bought an acreage beside the Medicine River and began to build their house.

Henry worked as a carpenter in Eckville, Benalto and Sylvan Lake and the surrounding areas. He made many of the early buildings of logs, using an adze to square the corners. In the wintertime he liked to read, and had a large collection of books in English and Finnish. He made skis and poles out of poplar and birch wood. Candle wax was used to smooth the bottom of the skis. Races were held every winter. His love of dramatics prompted him to organize the building of a community hall, and he formed a little theatre group. The first play, "Seven Brothers", was a great success, and the admission was only 35 cents. The hall was also a warm dry place to hold physical exercise classes. The "Sisu Club" was made up of those interested in organized exercising.

Maria had a bit of trouble adjusting to pioneer life. Once she singed all her eyebrows off trying to light the wood-burning stove. The first summer here she mistook a skunk for a black and white kitty. Luckily for her, the skunk was the faster runner! She loved gardening, and took much pride in her vegetables and the many varieties of flowers, as well as her indoor plants. She baked her own bread, made jams and canned wild berries.

For bathing a steam bath was used, as most of the families had a steam bath house.

Helen Jokinen finished her schooling in Eckville. She was very active in community affairs, and had a lovely singing voice. She went into training at the Holy Cross Hospital in Calgary. In 1936 she graduated as a registered nurse, then returned home to work in the old Eckville Hospital for one year. She was offered a position at St. Paul's Hospital in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, and there met and married Charles John Harris. A daughter, Mavis Elaine, was born to them on November 20, 1944. In July 1945 Helen moved back to Eckville with the baby while Mr. Harris moved to British Columbia to establish a home for the family. Helen went back to work at the local hospital, but on December 20, 1945 she died of a brain hemorrhage while working the night shift.

The grandparents received custody of Mavis and she grew up and took all of her schooling here, graduating from Grade 12 in the Eckville school in 1962. Mavis married Fred Oczko in February, 1966. They have two boys. Andy James was born February 25, 1967 and Brent Allan was born March 14, 1969. Mavis graduated as a registered nurse in 1974 and at this time she is employed in Lethbridge, Alberta.

Henry died October 15, 1970. Maria lived in Eckville until 1974, when she went to Lethbridge to live with her granddaughter until her death on November 18, 1975. Both Henry and Maria are buried in the family plot in Eckville cemetery along with their only child, Helen.

JONES, MR. AND MRS. ALBERT — by their daughter, Mrs. Alvin Greenman

My parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones, moved to Eckville in 1943. During the first winter they lived on the Tom Smith place, but later bought a lot in Eckville and built a house on it. Mrs. McCann now owns the house they built.

Mother remarried on August 19, 1953 to Jesse Benge of Benkelman, Nebraska, U.S.A. and moved there.

She and Jesse returned here for visits several times. She passed away on September 4, 1970 at the age of 87 years. She was buried in Benkelman, Nebraska.

KANGAS, AUGUST AND SELINA

August and Selina Kangas and their two children, Frank Selden and Maemi came to Alberta from Butte, Montana in 1911. They travelled by horse and wagon from Red Deer to Leafland, six miles north of Lesliemille, to their homestead. Two of their friends, John Leinonen and John Kuju had arrived earlier and had built a one-room cabin on Leinonen's place where August and Selina stayed until they built a cabin on August's homestead. August and Selina immigrated to the U.S.A. to Michigan in 1903 where they met and married. Their first child Frank Selden was born there. From there they moved to Butte where their second child, Maemi was born.

They lived on the homestead for five years. The area was all virgin land. The neighbors were newcomers, most of them Finns from Butte or the northern states. They were the people who opened the surrounding country, built the schools and made the roads. Mr. Henry Ludwig was the teacher when Leafland School opened its doors for the first time. Later on he taught high school in Eckville so he was Maemi's and Selden's first and last teacher.

The life on the homestead had hardships and happy times too. Wild berries and game were plentiful. Selina with her two children picked berries and August hunted birds or game and never came back empty-handed. Selden and Maemi set snares for rabbits which were in abundance, just thousands of them. Selina fixed them, made stews or chopped up for delicious meat balls or hamburgers as they are called now. Later on the rabbits developed a sickness and haven't been as numerous since.

In the summer there were the picnics and in the winter socials and dances. The dances were held in anyone's place who was fortunate enough to have a house or barn loft big enough to hold a crowd. They were really family affairs, they all bundled in bobsleds and away they would go to dance until the wee hours in the morning. August and Selina were very fond of dancing. Bill Austin was the chief caller for quadrilles and square dances. The summer picnics were fun too. There was always lots of lemonade and ice cream sometimes if someone still had ice in their dugouts. The children had games and races and then there were sing-songs and speeches on politics or current affairs. Victor Mattson was the speaker mostly. They all came dressed in their best finery — no blue jeans or t-shirts. In some respects life was good but money was scarce. Some winters August would go back to Butte to the mines to earn money to provide clothing for the family, three children now. Helen was born in 1912 and was to be the only Canadian born in their family of four. Then there was the need for implements and stock to buy. Selina stayed on the homestead and would get someone in to help with the chores and for company. The winters were cold and lonely. One winter Mildred Schey Olson from Eckville stayed. One day Mildred rescued Maemi when a mad pig attacked her. She beat the pig with a broom until he released a very frightened little girl but not badly hurt, only minor teeth marks and scratches. Another winter Selden developed a kidney problem. August rode horseback to the nearest doctor in Eckville for medication. Selden got well and there were no more health problems.

In 1916 they tired of homestead life. Prospects of making a better life were promising in Butte as copper was in great demand. World War I was raging in Europe. The first year was fine but later on in the second year the miners went on strike which lasted nine months. The strike ended, August worked again for a while and before long they decided to come back to Alberta with their four children. Ralph was born in Butte.

In June 1918 they arrived in Eckville at the Kootuk railway depot. Ole Olson was there to meet them. They stayed with Olsons until they bought a farm one-half mile west, which is now the late Simon Wansanen's farm. There was a frame house on the place but no barns. So again August was starting from scratch. It was hard going as during the war the cost of living had Little by little August got going, getting more implements and stock as the time went on. Selden, Maerni and Helen attended Blue Bell School about two miles south. Life was about the same as on the homesteads with its ups and downs. There were drought years with poor crops, so again August went in the winters back to the mines to earn more money, sometimes to Butte or to the coal mines in Nordegg. As Selden and Maerni grew older they helped out with doing the janitor work in the Blue Bell School. Selina at times worked for town people.

August and Selina took part in all social activities. They did their share in getting funds to build the Liberty Hall north of Eckville. One time Selina made all the costumes for a Finnish play conducted by Jokinen and held in the Eckville Hall. Both August and Selina were always willing to help a neighbor. When babies were born, Selina was often the mid-wife. August even delivered a neighbor's baby safe and sound. He went to help a neighbor with the haying. When he got there and was waiting in the house while the neighbor went for his horses from the pasture, the wife went into labor and there was no time to get outside help. This baby is still living somewhere in Alberta.

In 1920 August rented the Charlie Randall's farm and moved his family to live there. Maerni and Helen attended Eckville School when the pupils moved from the old school north of town to the new two-room school in town. Later on after the family moved back to their own place Maerni attended Eckville School again for the high school grades which Mr. Ludwig taught. Helen did the same. Selden dropped out of school early and went to work for the C.P.R. section crew. During harvest he worked around Trochu and Barons. Finally he moved to Butte to the miners, and then to California where he died in 1954.

August and Ralph were the last to leave the farm in 1938. The only surviving members of the Kangas family are Ralph in Ladysmith, B.C. and Maerni in Calgary. Helen moved to Montana and then Seattle where she married and went to Alaska. She died there in 1941.

CHESTER KASHA — by Helen Kasha

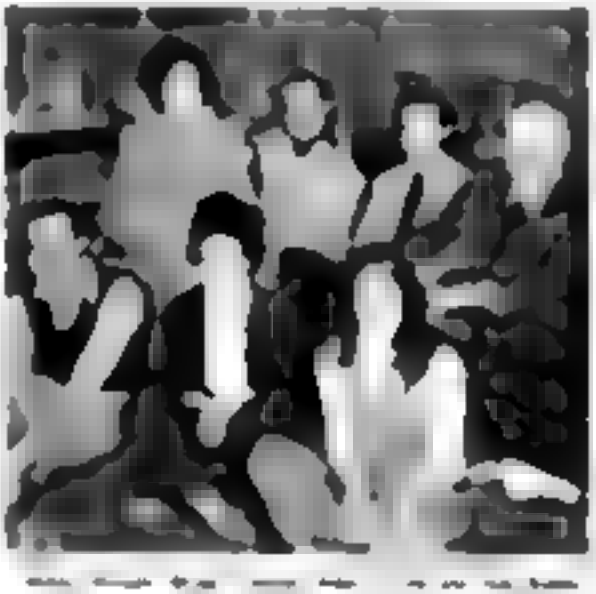
Chester Kasha was born in Lacombe in 1911 and I (the former Helen Susut) was born in southern Alberta in the Retlaw area in 1911. My family (the Susuts) moved to the Clive and Lacombe area in 1927.

Chester and I were married in Red Deer in 1935. We farmed in the Iowaita district near Lacombe for eleven years. Then we bought a farm five and one-half miles northwest of Rimbey. In 1946 we left the Iowaita district and moved to Rimbey where we farmed for three

In 1949 we sold the farm and bought the Massey-Harris business from Jake Busslinger's estate in Eckville. This business was located where the present A. H. Moench Hardware and the Credit Union are now. We also bought the Busslinger home, where I still live. In 1963 Chester bought the Axel Hansen farm south of Eckville, near Highway 11. A new building was built and in 1964 we moved the business out there. This is where the Massey Ferguson dealership still operates.

Our four children, Verna, Don, Ed and Bryan were born in Lacombe, and the fifth child, Ann was born in Eckville in 1955. They all completed their schooling and graduated in Eckville.

Ann is enrolled in the Faculty of Commerce at the University of Alberta in Edmonton. Verna married Paul Haljan of Edmonton and they are living in Edmonton. They have three boys.



David, Gregory and Paulie. The histories of the other children appear separately in this book.

Chester was elected to the Town Council in March 1953, served as deputy Mayor and Mayor until 1956, at which time he resigned as Mayor and still stayed on Council until October of 1962. He was a member of the Eckville Lion's Club and was president during the 1959-1960 term. Through the years we attended many Lion's conventions. He was also a member of the Red Deer Elks Club, the Eckville Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade and the Curling Club.

I am a member of the Eckville Catholic Women's League and the Benalto Roya. Purple. In earlier years I was a member of the Hospital Auxiliary, the Women's Institute, the Evening Group and the Curling Club in Eckville.

In 1974 we celebrated 25 years of Massey Ferguson business in Eckville. The business is called Kasha Farm Supplies Ltd.

Chester passed away on April 3, 1975. His sons operate the business at present, and I hope it will stay in the family for many years.

CHESTER DONALD KASHA AND FAMILY — by Mrs. Kasha

Don Kasha was born in Lacombe on July 17 1940, the son of Chester and Helen Kasha. At the age of five the family moved to Rimbey where he went to school for three years. In the year 1949 his family moved to Eckville and Don finished his schooling here. Shortly after Don was out of school he tried his hand at driving a truck hauling pulp wood to the mill at Hinton. Finding that there was no future in it, he came to work selling farm machinery for his father.

As a young boy Don was very interested in hockey and once he was out of school he began playing for the Eckville Eagles Senior Hockey Team.

In the early sixties Don was the fire-chief of the Eckville Volunteer Fire Department living and working very close to the fire hall was quite an asset in this activity.

On August 25, 1962 Don married Elaine May Johnson. Elaine was born on March 8, 1943 in New Westminster, B.C. and she received her schooling in Surrey, B.C.

Don and Ela ne made their home in a suite that was owned by Don's father, Chester Kasha. The Massey-Ferguson Implement dealership, also owned by Don's father was downstairs in the same building.

In 1965 Don built a home on an acreage two and a half miles south of Eckville.

There are two children in the Don Kasha family. The oldest child is a boy, Brett Joseph, born on February 15, 1963 and a girl, Jayme May, born on July 31, 1966.

KASHA, BRYAN CHARLES — by Mrs. Bryan [illegible]

Bryan Charles was born September 15, 1945 in Lacombe, the third son of Chester Frank and Helen Marie (Susut) Kasha. He lived with his parents, sister Verna and brothers Donald and Edward on a farm in the Iowaita District near Lacombe. In 1946 they moved to a farm five miles west of Rimbey, and in 1949 the family moved to Eckville when Chester purchased the Massey-Harris dealership.

Bryan attended the elementary, junior and senior high schools in Eckville. His first teacher was Mrs. Morrisey. One year the Grade 5 class was taught in the Lion's Hall by Mrs. Marjorie Lazzer because there was not enough classroom space available in the school building. Some high school shop classes were held in a building that was on the present site of the Co-op Hardware.

During his school years Bryan participated in track and field, curling and the Eckville community band, in which he played the French horn and the snare drum.

Bryan played hockey with the Eckville Eagles for many years as a goalie, left wing and defence. He was also active in the Eckville Pony Chariot and Chuckwagon Club when it first was formed for several years afterwards.

Upon graduation from high school in 1964 Bryan enrolled in automotive mechanics at the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary. While there he played hockey with the S.A.I.T. Trojans. After completion of this course

[illegible] Bryan, Jan, Shawn, Kasha

In 1966 Bryan continued working in his father's business in Eckville. He later completed the Heavy Duty Diesel Mechanics course at S.A.I.T.

On July 23, 1966 Bryan married Johanne Iris Evenishen in Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan. She taught Grades 4 to 6 in the Eckville Elementary School until 1973 and is now doing substitute teaching whenever needed.

Bryan and Johanne resided in the Carl Fisher apartments for several years and then rented the J. Tulloch farm south and west of Eckville. In 1969 they purchased a trailer and lived near Kasha Farm Supplies Ltd. at S.W. 3-38-3-W5. A house was erected there in 1975. A daughter, Melesia, was born May 4, 1971 and a son, Kes was born June 11, 1973. Both children were born in Eckville.

KASHA, EDWARD AND LEAH — by Leah Kasha

Eddie, the second son of Helen and the late Chester Kasha, was born in Lacombe in 1942. In 1949 the Kasha's moved to Eckville where Eddie received his education. After leaving school, he went to work as an apprenticing mechanic for his father, who owned the Massey Ferguson dealership. In 1961 he started going to technical school in Calgary, and later continued on in Edmonton until receiving his automotive and heavy duty mechanics license.

Over the years Eddie has been involved in many local organizations. As a boy he belonged to Cubs, Scouts, and Army Cadets. Later he was a scout leader. Also, he was interested in hockey, playing with the Eckville Eagles, and coaching a midget team.

Eddie married a local girl, Leah Lutz, the daughter of Julia and the late Arthur Lutz. Leah was born in Eckville and received her education there. She is an active member of the curling club and the O.O.R.P. of Benalto. Since 1965 she has worked part-time at the local Post office.

Eddie and Leah have two children, Lonnie and Julie. They both attend school in Eckville. They reside on an acreage close to the family business south of Eckville.

THE CHARLES KASPER FAMILY — by Mrs. August Kasper

Charles Kasper was born in the district of Wasa, Finland, on January 26, 1873. He emigrated to the United States at an early age where he lived for a time in Nebraska and also in Minnesota. During that time he served for a period in the U.S. army. Later he worked in the mines in Butte, Montana. It was here that he married Nanni Kultala on December 3, 1903. She had been born in Raahi, Finland, and emigrated to the United States to Butte with her brother Henry Kultala.

In 1905, along with other settlers including the Frank Heltalas and the Frank Palms, the Kaspers came to Alberta and took up a homestead on SW 26-38-3-W5. They came in January and the winter was bitterly cold. Little is known of their hardships during those early homesteading days. Mr. Kasper did go back to the mines at Butte during the winters. Later they milked cows and the milk was taken to the local cheese factory one and one-half miles away.

Charles Kasper contributed much to the community in which he lived. Being a very active man, he gave a lot of his time to public affairs. The Eckville School District probably received more of his time than any other organization as he was a school board member for a period of more than 30 years, and was the chairman of the board at the time of his death. He was also councillor for the district of Lorne for a number of years. He took a leading part in establishing a Pool creamery for the district and served as a director for several years. Being an enterprising farmer and dairyman, he was some of the first ones in the district to own a manure spreader. He helped to organize the Eckville Mutual Telephone system and was one of the first to install a delco light system on his farm. He served the Presbyterian Church as chairman of the board for a few years and was largely responsible for moving the old school building into town to be used as the first church in Eckville.

Mr. Kasper died suddenly on December 7, 1929. He was on his usual morning run delivering milk to the village of Eckville when he had a stroke from which he never recovered. Mrs. Kasper, with the help of her family, kept the farm and the dairying operations going until her death in October 1960.

At the Eckville Home & School Association meeting on March 17, 1966, Mr. Julian Sambrooke, Divisional Trustee, presented a set of books to the school from the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company to be known as "The Charles Kasper Encyclopedia."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kasper had nine children, eight of whom were born at Eckville. Annie was born in Butte, Montana. She married Guy Heath of Olmont, Montana. They had one son, George, who married Doreen Soerd. George and Doreen had two children – a daughter Valerie, and a son, Leonard, both living in Calgary. Alline and Guy lived in Eckville for about 28 years after which they moved to Penticton, B.C. Guy died in Eckville in 1971 and Alline makes her home in Penticton.

Ottie married Ivey Kujala and they had two sons, Gale and Keith, and a daughter Jean. They later moved to Vancouver to make their home. Ottie passed away in 1970.

Eino died in 1961 at the age of 52 years.

Lempi was born in 1910, and died in 1917. Benny was born in 1912 and died in 1916.

August was born in 1914 and is still active on his farm near Eckville.

Nanny was born in 1916 and married Frank Zaleski. They had four sons – Jimmy, Darwin, Dallas, and Bill. Jimmy and Dallas are since deceased. Darwin and his family live in Calgary. Bill married Katherine Anderson and they live in Blackfalds, Alberta.

Charlie was born in 1921. He and his wife Carrol, make their home in Summerland, B.C.

Ray died in Calgary in 1974 at the age of 51 years.

THE AUGUST KASPER FAMILY — by Mrs. August Kasper

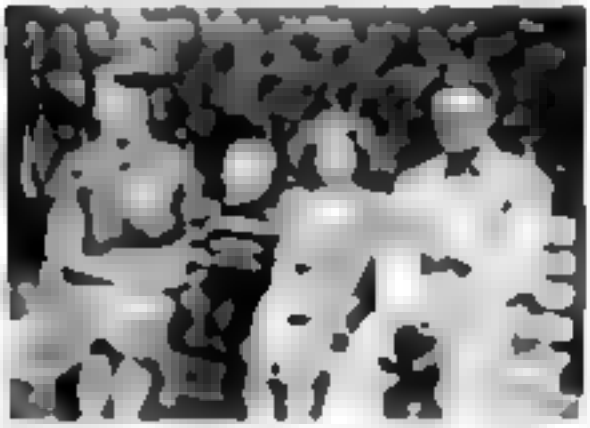
August Kasper was born in Eckville in 1914, the son of Charles and Nanna Kasper. He left school at the age of 14 to help with the farm work after his father's death in 1928. In 1938 he married Fannie Tulsky of Manyberries, Alberta, and they had two children. Judy has been a teacher with the Calgary Public School System for eight years, after having received her B.Ed. Degree "With Distinction" from the University of Alberta in Edmonton. Bryon, of Edmonton, is a professional engineer and is presently studying for his Master's Degree at the University of Alberta on a two-year scholarship awarded by the National Research Council of Ottawa.

During the Second World War, in the spring of 1941, August and Fannie left for Edmonton where August took a course in sheet metal at a Youth Training Center. Later he was employed by Air Craft Repair, working on planes. Fannie worked at the New Method Laundry for the four years of their stay in Edmonton. Early in 1943 August enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy and was discharged in 1945 at the end of the war having spent two years in the Service in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia.



Following his return, August and Fannie came back to Eckville to the farm. They bought a half section (S.15-38-3-W5) from his mother with the help of the V.L.A. They spent all of their earnings of the past four years on clearing the land to start farming. Later they were able to build a barn and started milking cows. Following this enterprise they went quite extensively into the raising of hogs. At present their main interest is the raising of Simmental cattle.

About 1960 August was in the "Save the Soil" campaign sponsored by the Eckville Board of Trade. He worked closely with the District Agriculturist of Lacombe to improve his farming methods and to keep his farm productive.

At present August is a director for the Diamond Valley Gas Co-op, and is the secretary of the Eckville Credit Union. Fannie is the librarian at the Eckville Public Library during the winter months and also is a long-time member of the Country Ladies Aid.

KAUPPI — written by Sylvia Thorkmann

Mr. Kauppi, one of the very first residents in the Eckville area, squatted on the S.W. 22-38-2W5 in the 1900's.

Very little is known about this brave man. He lived in a tent the first years, later building himself a log cabin by the Medicine River.

His only companion was his cat Mara.

One day a neighbor had stopped in for a visit, and while they were visiting, a very wet Mara walked in.

Mr. Kauppi looked at the cat and said 'Mara has tried to do a little fishing.'

When homesteads were available, he filed on this property and received his title for the land.

A few years later his health began to deteriorate and he was cared for by the Charlie Kasper family until his passing.

He had no known relatives.

THE HISTORY OF THE KEMILA FAMILY

Mathew and Madgelena Kemila were originally from Oulu, Finland. In the late 1800's they left Oulu and immigrated to the Dakota's in the United States of America.

With their seven children, Mary, John, Charlie, Mathew, Elmer, Gus and Jenny, Mathew and Madgelena began a new life in Rock Lake, North Dakota. Tragedy struck several years later when Mathew was critically injured in an accident. Several horses bolted and ran, throwing Mathew under the wheel of the grain wagon. Mathew passed away three days later.

In 1906, Madgelena and her family left North Dakota and moved to Sylvan Lake, Alberta. For a short period of time they all stayed at Alix Kinnunen's until they settled in the Gilby district. In later years all the children would homestead in this area also.

Mathew and Madgelenas' first child, Mary, moved to Saskatchewan where she met and married Edward Niska. One of their children is Mrs. Hazel Johnson who married the late Charlie Johnson. Hazel resides in Sylvan Lake.

Gus Kemila also moved to Saskatchewan. Here he farmed until his passing. Elmer moved to Saskatchewan where he farmed before returning to the United States.

In 1912, Jenny married Gus Sestrap. They operated a general store in the Gilby district. In later years Matt Mathew Kemila married and left the Gilby district to farm in the Saskatchewan area. He later returned to the United States.

Charlie also spent some time in Saskatchewan but later returned to the Sylvan Lake district where he married Wilhelmena Kinnunen. Charlie lived on a small acreage west of Sylvan Lake where they made their living selling garden supplies and dairy products to stores and summer campers. Here they resided until their passing. They had no family.

John Kemila married Mary Elizabeth Koski and farmed in the Gilby District for a short time until they settled in Eckville, Alberta. John was a mail carrier out of Eckville from 1912 to 1932. He delivered mail for the Alberta Government during the First World War, carrying mail from the Eckville, Gilby, and Leedale districts. This was a distance of 30 miles. Many funny incidents occurred during this time. One time one of the horses balked and lay down when John hooked them up. It took him a good half hour to get the horse up. Incidentally, this horse turned out to be the best one of the bunch because he never stopped once he got going.

In 1924, John Kemila built his first truck which was just a frame to which he added a box. This replaced the horses which he had used to haul freight to the Gilby, Lockhart and Leedale districts. John Kemila was known to be a jovial character. He was also the sheriff in Eckville for

In 1932, John started a livery stable and a garage where it doubled as a supply house for coffins and funeral supplies. While John had the garage, he and a neighbor, Charlie Gustavson built what was known then as a snowmobile car. Actually what it was, was a car mounted on a type of ski runners and powered by an engine with a prop in front of it. This machine was used as transportation for Dr. Sommerville for traveling across the fields to take care of his patients. It is understood that this machine is in the museum at Wetaskiwin. John Kemila passed away on December 4, 1959.

John and Elizabeth Kemila had five children,

Senia, Selma, John, Elmer and Emil. Senia was the first child born on July 20, 1908. Senia was married to the late George Mattson. George was a mechanic in Sylvan Lake in 1941 until moving to Condor where he farmed. Later he purchased another farm in Sylvan Lake. George Mattson died in 1963. Senia and George had two children, Walter and Viola. Senia lived in Sylvan Lake until she died in March of 1975.

Walter Mattson now resides in Red Deer, Alberta with his wife Jeanette. Walter and Jeanette had four children, Garth, Brian, Susan and Janice. Garth died in 1957 at the age of seven. Brian married Donna Horsley), and they have a son Shane born to them in 1976.

Viola married Frank Reese, and they have one son Micheal. They reside in Costa Mesa, California.

Selma was the second child born, September 30, 1909. Selma was married to the late Ed Koski. They had three children, Ethel, Helen, and Edward. Selma now resides in Edmonton.

Their third child was John, he was born on May 11, 1911. He was known in the district for a good many years as a trucker and a welder. Little John was considered a humorous fellow. Little John was the first man to have a truck equipped with a P.T.O. for loading grain.

John married Lily Lindequist) and they had two children, Irene and Jean. Irene is now living in Port Arthur Ontario and Jean is in Vancouver B.C. Little John passed away on April 21 1896.

Elmer was the fourth child of John and Elizabeth Kemble. Elmer was born on November 15, 1912, and died on January 7, 1925, at the early age of 12. Cause of death is not known.

Their fifth child, Emil, has also passed away leaving his wife, Ella and five children, Elmer Sylvia, Clara, Clifford and Beverly. There were also five grandchildren. Emil passed away on May 9, 1968.

ROY AND LIZ — (as told by Roy)

My parents emigrated from England to the Eastern United States in 1906. 10 years later arriving in Red Deer Alberta. I was born in a small red house on Michener Hill in Red Deer. A few years later we moved to Edwell, east of Red Deer where I put in my first year of school. from here we were transferred to Willowdale, an adjoining school district where I finished my Grade 9.

After school I spent several years on the home farm, then took off on my own, working on several local farms and later in construction. I worked for Charlie Ross who was foreman for the Mutual Telephone Company at the time, and for numerous other construction companies.

In 1937 I married Elizabeth Holland of the Tom Holland family, she was born in England in 1918. They came from England to Canada in 1924 and to the Lesueville district in 1930.

I continued farming, doing construction jobs whenever possible. we put in a year in the Sylvan Lake area and then back to Red Deer.

In 1941 our son Keith was born while we were renting a farm in the Shady Nook area a few miles west of Red Deer.

In 1943, our daughter Sheila was born. We were on the Bob Cruickshank farm while Bob was serving overseas in the Second World War.

In 1944, we purchased the Springvale Manse and acreage where we resided for a couple of years, working on local farms and in construction.

In 1946, we purchased a farm in the Markerville district — SE 27 37 2-W5. where we farmed till the winter of 1959 and 60. We then sold out and moved to Eckville. Here my wife worked at the Eckville Hospital for over 18 years. I put in three years as "butter maker" at the Eckville Creamery — two years as "nightman" at the Eckville Hotel — then worked at the Eckville Hospital from 1965 till 1975. After leaving the hospital we retired and are living at home in Eckville.

Our son Keith was married to Maureen Carroll and had two children Shauna and Ryan. Keith and Maureen were divorced and went their [illegible]

Keith is now married to Lillian Barbus and they reside in Rimbey. Their family consists of two boys. Colin and Jason.

Our daughter Sheila is married to Lyal Johnston of Rimbey. they have three children Norma, Angela and Wesley.

Added notes by hospital patients:

1 "During the 10 years Roy and Lizzie worked at the Eckville Hospital I'm sure most patients will remember the visits they made to patients. My, how it brightened their stay in hospital. Roy always had a joke for everyone which made their stay seem shorter. Lizzie did many things to cheer up patients, but never wanted to take credit for such as doing many a janitor job, nurse maid or what have you. Many of us who spent time in hospital, especially long periods of time will be forever grateful to Roy and Lizzie."

2 "After many stays in hospital, some of my pleasant memories were Roy's cheery night whistle and infectious laughter in passing our rooms, and his genuinely interested friendly visits. When I was on special diet I remember Liz smiling at my door "What would you like to eat to-day"? It made you feel like nothing was too much trouble — and that's a good feeling when [illegible]

KENNEDY, BOB AND OLIVAR (MAC

Bob and I were married in Hanna and moved to Eckville in 1936. Robert was then two years old and Barry was born in 1937. Bob passed away in October 1946. I was working in the Co-op Store

Our house burned down in 1941 and we then lived over Ferris' store before buying the house next to Emma Lutz.

Robert spent five years in the Air Force, then married Margaret in the East. He has lived in Montreal for 15 or 16 years. They have three children — Robbie, 16 years, Joanne, 12 years and Gail, 9 years. He works in a rug business where he has been for the past six years.

Barry and Roseann live in Prince George, B.C. Barry works for the Northwest Paving where he has been employed for many years. They have three children, Wendal is 14, Jan 13, and Debbie is 10 years old.

We left Rockyford where I worked for the Alberta Government Telephones from 1950 to 1955 and then lived in Prince George, where I worked for the Co-op for one year. After this I married Charles Thompson and we moved to the Okanagan in 1957. We have lived in Kelowna for four and one-half years.

Mom and Dad lived on the old Weeks place and later moved into town at the railroad. Dad passed away in Eckville in 1946 and Mom passed away in Kelowna in 1966.

KENNEDY, MRS. J. (nee Barlund

I, Mandy Caroline Barlund born on April 15 1916 in Eckville, Alberta, Canada. I went to Bluebell School, Eckville High School and Garbutt Business College in Calgary. I then went to work in North Vancouver, British Columbia. In 1940 I moved to Seattle, Washington where I now reside. On May 8, 1943 I married Jesse G. Kennedy Jr. We have four children, Carolyn Lilacy, Sandra Marie, Kathryn Barlund and Jesse G. Kennedy III.

Here are a few incidents which I recall. When my mother went into labor with my younger sister Ellen, my brother ran about one and one half miles to a neighbor and told her that mother was about to have the baby and would she come to take care of mother as had been arranged beforehand. The neighbor lady said, "No, I'm sorry I can't come because Pa is going hunting with Oswald O. Forhan and I have to patch his pants." Henry ran back home and then he and my sister Ina ran to Eckville to see if they could get any help. They stopped at the John Kennedys. Mrs. Kennedy had company but she left them and rushed with Henry and Ina to come and be a midwife for mother and just in time. What a traumatic experience that must have been for two young children.

I was five years old when I went on our first camping trip with my mother and dad, Ernest and Ellen. We went to the northwest shore of Sylvan Lake in a wagon. We got there in the afternoon and Dad went fishing and caught several pike. He put the fish and some potatoes to cook in the coals of the campfire. We were sure that Dad would ruin all that beautiful fish in the coals. Mother prepared the rest of the meal. What a dinner! I have never since had such delicious fish. For the night we all bedded down in the wagon box. The next morning we woke up to one of those truly beautiful Alberta sunny days. Ina arrived on horseback. She had had to stay at home to do the chores, milk cows, feed and water cattle. Dad went fishing again and when he had his catch we all played out in the water then Dad swam out a long ways and yelled "goodbye" then disappeared under the water. We children drew in our breaths because we thought he had drowned when up he popped several yards from where he had disappeared. He did this several times. It was the first time I had seen anyone swim under water. In the afternoon we went blueberry picking. Nothing can compare in flavor to the Alberta low bush blueberry. When we started dinner a huge black cloud appeared in the sky. We had barely finished when the sky seemed to rip open with lightning and the thunder was deafening. It started to rain so we rushed to a nearby in for the night. I suppose I remember this picnic so well because everyone in the family had such a happy time!

The Indians always fascinated me. My dad hired some of them to help him clear some land. Mother gave them milk and eggs and bread. After that, every summer long wagonloads of Indians came to our place for a handout. They had found out that mother was an "easy touch". I remember seeing the Indians camped by the Horseguard river. I hated to see their hobbled horses. I felt so sorry for the horses. After the Indians left we'd go to their campsite and we'd see the framework of their steam baths. One Sunday many young Indian men came to our place to show us how far they could shoot their arrows. The height and distance was incredible. I always wondered where they spent their winters because they had so few possessions and the winters were so harsh.

Although money was so scarce in the 1920's we created our own entertainment: softball, baseball, swimming, skiing, skating and dances. We had a lot of fun and there are many happy

KERCH, JOE, ERNIE AND DOLLY

Sometime during the first World War, Joe and Ernie Kerch arrived in the Eckville area. They lived on several farms, finally settling on the E½ 8-39-3-W5. A sister Dolly and her husband Jack Bromling arrived a little later and established themselves on the now Cunningham farm. About 1918 another brother Levi drove a four mule team and wagon loaded with machinery from Minnesota, to join his brothers. A home and other buildings were readied for the arrival of their parents, John and Ann Kerch and a fourth brother Ervin.

Working as a family they were soon farming several quarters, had a good herd of Hereford cattle, some excellent hogs, a well-drilling outfit, a steam engine and threshing machine. They did their own carpentry and mechanical work. Detailed information was kept on each of the 1000 wells drilled, such as depth, quantity and quality of water obtained.

Jack Bromling was Searle elevator man for years in Eckville. The elder Kerch's passed on in the 1930's.

The brothers continued to farm till 1943, when a farm sale was held. Fred Moos bought the well drilling outfit and Alfred Molander still has the 1916 threshing machine, which is still in very good condition.

After their sale the brothers and Dolly and Jack Bromling moved to Corning, California, U.S.A. Ernie and Joe, though up in years, still reside there, the others having passed on.

KERKKANEN LEMPI AND SIMON

Lempi and Simon Kerkkanen were married in Butte, Montana in 1907 after having come from Finland some years before. In 1911, with their daughter Lillian, they moved to homestead in the Withrow district. For a few years Simon worked in the copper mines in Butte to supplement the income needed on the homestead. In 1912 they moved to their quarter section three miles northeast of Eckville, living in a small one roomed home which they later converted into a chicken house. They moved the house from the homestead to their farm and added on to it in 1927-28. At this time their daughter was married and they took Agnes and William, a niece and nephew of Mrs. Kerkkanen, into their home. William, however, died in 1934 at the age of 21. Mr. Kerkkanen died on June 2, 1936, being caused by injuries received in an auto collision.

Lempi remarried in 1939 to Verner Junnila and together they continued to farm until 1956. At this time they retired to Eckville, but in 1958 Verner passed away after a lengthy illness.

In 1961 Lempi was married again and moved to Rainier, Washington. After her third husband Tony Kalla, passed away in 1965, she moved to Ladysmith, B.C., where she passed away in February of 1966. Lempi was buried in the Eckville Cemetery in the family plot there.

THE IKE KALLA FAMILY — by Shirley McPhee, a Daughter

Ike and Irene Kalla moved to Eckville in 1927 and lived in a house belonging to Mrs. Langer's father. Ike was a clerk in the Co-op Store, which was located where the J & K Foods store is now. They bought Umari's old house, and their first daughter Alice, was born here in September, 1929, delivered by Dr. Sommerville. Their second daughter, Shirley, was born in the Bentley hospital in June, 1934, delivered by Dr. Henry. In 1939 Ike and Irene bought the old Odd Fellows Hall and renovated it and lived there. When the new Co-op was built, Ike worked there, replacing Oswald Umari as manager, when Oswald retired in 1940. A few years later they moved into their new house, which was built next to the ball park.

Movies were shown once a week in the Eckville Hall by Mr. Watkiss from Sylvan Lake. Ike purchased this business and in 1947 opened the Ecko Theatre, in a building owned by Ernest Jackson. It is still in its present location. About the same time, Ike purchased the local Chinese Cafe from "Happy", renovated it, and it became a popular eating spot.

Under Ike's management, the Co-op grew from a small general store to one that had large individual departments, including groceries, meats and cold storage, drygoods, hardware, lumber, service station, gas and oils, machinery and a lunch-counter.

Ike was very active in community affairs. He was a charter member and president of the Lions Club, a member of the Recreation Association, was instrumental in the formation of the Credit Union, managed the local baseball team in the late 1940's (when Eckville's team was recognized throughout Alberta), was chairman of the schoolboard that got the high school back to Eckville, and managed the hockey team at various times, usually with Uno Krinilla as his right-hand man. Both Ike and Irene were ardent Ike, Irene and Shirley moved to Red Deer in 1950. In 1956 Ike and Irene moved to Edmonton where, in 1960 Ike suffered a stroke. He continued in poor health until he passed away on July 22, 1976, but he always managed to maintain his zest for living. Irene still lives in Edmonton and enjoys good health.

Alice married W. G. (Bill) Hawkins, who ran the U.G.G. elevator in Kootuk in 1949. Their older son, James, was born in Eckville in 1950, delivered by Dr. Coppock. Alice, being a talented pianist, played for many dances, social events and funerals in Eckville and the surrounding area. Alice and Bill left Eckville in 1951 when Bill joined the R.C.A.F. They now live in Richmond, B.C. They have four children. James, who received his Ph.D. in Chemical Engineering, is married and lives in Calgary. He is employed by Imperial Oil. Bradley lives in Ottawa where he is employed by a consulting engineer. Katherine is employed in Richmond, and Kimberly is still in school.

Shirley received her certification as an X-ray technician while working at Parson's Clinic in Red Deer, and received her B.S. Degree in medical technology from the University of Alberta. She married Donald James McPhee from Red Deer, and they now reside out of St. Albert. They have two sons, Gregory, who is attending U. of A. in the faculty of mechanical engineering, and Gary, who has just completed high school.

KILLICK, J. H. AND FAMILY

Mr. J. H. Killick came to Canada from England in 1899 and in 1900 took up land in the Pine Lake district. Not liking the cold winter, he returned to England (the fare from Red Deer to London was $65 at that time), but was back in Canada by the fall of 1902.

At that time Evarts was a busy place serving the whole area, and especially the immense district west to the Saskatchewan River. Mr. Killick chose Evarts as the place to start a store in 1903.

He married Miss Ada Belle Brown in 1906. She had come from Nova Scotia in 1906 and was teaching in Evarts. In 1905 she was the first teacher in the Bluebell School, built in 1905, west of Evarts. In 1905 Mr. Killick established a store on the Medicine River, two miles north of the present town of Eckville. He successfully applied for a post office for the area, and it must be given a name. Because he was leasing land from a Mr. Eckford, he called the post office "Eckville" — which is how Eckville got its name.

In 1907 he sold his Eckville store to a Be[illegible] Mr. Brownscrade, and moved back to Evarts where he bought the hotel from Mr. Bob [illegible] store and the post office, but Alf. Maward bought the hotel in 1911.

In 1908 Harold, the eldest son, was born in Red Deer with Dr. Richard Parsons in attendance. Bernard, the second son, was born in January 1910, and Gordon was born in 1912.

In the spring of 1912 Mr. Killick disposed of all his holdings in Evarts and went west across the Saskatchewan River to a homestead about two [illegible] being built, and he obtained a contract to supply [illegible]

The construction of the bridge over the Saskatchewan River was a tremendous undertaking because the dirt for the large grades was put there by teams of horses or mules using [illegible]

Business was very brisk at that time. In addition to the railroad business many settlers were moving in, and Indians were bringing their furs from as far west as the Kootenay Plains. They came down the Saskatchewan River in canoes

Vera, their first daughter, was born at this trading post In 1913 they moved across the river to the new townsite of Rocky Mountain House which had just been established on the homestead of J H Bertrand Here Marjorie, the youngest daughter, was bor

Affectionately known as "Jack", Mr Killick became a sort of legend in Rocky Mountain House Many needing it asked for, and received help from him both in advice and in credit so they could get a start. The business grew and prospered until five stores were in operation. In 1959 the Hudson's Bay Company bought the store and Mr and Mrs. Killick retired

On October 28, 1969 Mrs. Killick passed away and on May 26, 1973 Mr Killick passed on He and of course Mrs. Killick, will always be remembered in Evarts, Eckville and Rocky Mountain House They helped build this country His good counsel and sound advice was eagerly sought by newcomers. It was through his generosity and sympathy that many settlers in this area remained and eventually prospered

Harold Killick was born in 1908 in Red Deer on April 29, 1905. He started school in Rocky Mountain House where Mrs. Sadie Durnford was the teacher He was married in 1938 to Rakel Edin of Asker They had two boys, Jack and Ronald Jack is presently president of Dilex Industries while Ron is manager of Turbo Resources for Saskatchewan and Manitoba Harold later became a druggist and operated successful drug stores in Rocky Mountain House, Olds, Three Hills and Stettler He is now retired and living on his farm 10 miles southwest of Rocky Mountain House, having sold his Stettler drug store in 197

Bernard Killick was born in Evarts on April 29, 1910. He started school with Harold He took a business education course and was a bookkeeper He married the matron of the hospital in Rocky Mountain House Miss Irene McRae Their two children are Jim and Maureen. Jim is in charge of a M.S. institution in Saanich B.C Maureen is No 1 for Time Air in Calgary

Gordon Killick was born in 1912 while his parents were living in Evarts. He started school in Rocky Mountain House and went on to the U of A graduating in Geology. He worked with oil drilling companies until his retirement in Calgary He married Elsie Bradshaw, and they had a son, John. John is now a very influential man with Brascan in Calgary Elsie and Gordon have adopted three children — Margaret, Bruce and Doreen — a great credit to them

Vera Killick Ada and Jack's eldest daughter was born on Tom Gray's homestead. She married Dan Elliott now deceased Dan was ticket agent for the CPR in Edmonton, Calgary Ottawa and Banff

Marjorie Killick stayed single, and after years of successfully managing our ladies dry goods department, bought her own store in Jasper She eventually sold this store after years of successfully operating it, and retired to Gabriola Island near Nanaimo B.C

THE FAMILY PIANO - by Mrs. N. Watson

In the year 1907 Mr and Mrs. J H. Killick purchased a Gourley piano from Brumpton's Store in Red Deer the salesman being Joseph Wright The piano was moved from Red Deer to Eckville by wagon and team where Mr Killick had just opened the first post office

The next move for the piano was to Evarts where Mr Killick had just bought a hotel, paying for it with horses The business and post office in Eckville was sold to a relative of Charles Snell of Red Deer

The piano remained in Evarts for four years 1908 to 1912, when it was moved to the Tom Gray place west of the Saskatchewan River at Rocky Mountain House where Mr Killick had a few months previously opened a new store The next move was to Rocky Mountain House when Mr Killick moved his store from west of the river to [redacted] of Rocky Mountain House in [redacted] ed until 1921, although it was moved into three different residences in the [redacted]

Mr Killick sold his business in Rocky Mountain House to Mr Seth Wilson and moved his family to Victoria in the summer of 1921, again moving the piano with them

Although in 1923 Mr Killick again went into business in Rocky Mountain House, Mrs Killick and the children took up residence in Edmonton so that the children could finish school and this time the piano was moved to Edmonton, where it remained until 1934, then being brought back to Rocky Mountain House

Once again, in 1971 it has been moved to Kelowna to the home of Mrs. Vera Elliott the second eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Killick

The piano was originally bought for approximately $60 to $120, and, for all its travels it still looks and sounds like new. Not a scratch on its polished mahogony surface!

KINGSEP LEONARD — METALA FAMILY
by Violet E. Bimmelreich (Kingsep)

My father's life began in Warroo, Estonia, on the Baltic Sea on the second of May 1892 The family decided to emigrate to Canada, so my grandfather, Christian Kingsep came and took out a homestead near Sylvan Lake. Four years later the family came to Red Deer where my grandfather was doing construction work, helping to build the Alberta Hotel in Red Deer My dad, Leonard Kingsep, came out with his uncle a year ahead of the rest of the family They came by boat to Montreal and landed on Canadian soil on September 15, 1898. They came by train from Montreal to Red Deer To get out to [redacted] homestead they had a slow journey by [redacted] and a team of oxen. My dad had two younger brothers, Eustace and Kenneth, and two older sisters, Helma and Lillian. The only available schooling was at the nearby Norma School, which was opened when enough settlers had come into the area. They attended school whenever there was time from farm duties. Dad says that they got more education from experience than they ever got from attending

My grandfather Christian, was a sailor and a wanderer, so, after moving his family to Canada he left to seek his fortune elsewhere, and Grandmother Tina was left to raise her brood the best way that she could. She lived on the homestead all the rest of her life, and lived to be well past eighty years of age.

Times in the beginning were very hard with not much to eat and no money available for necessary machinery and livestock. Land had to be cleared and cultivated before there could be a crop or even a garden. Although homestead land was cheap and even free in some cases, it had to be improved, cleared and fenced before you could own it, according to government regulations. Dad told me that they even made their own crude shoes from cowhide. They farmed with oxen instead of horses.

By the time Dad was 21 the first world War was brewing. His two brothers served in the army. Eustace went to France and Kenneth went into the American army and was stationed in Panama. Dad was exempted from service because he was needed on the farm. It was at this stage of his life that my mother entered the pic

My mother was born, Euphemia Hietala, in Butte, Montana on September 16, 1895. Mom's folks had come from Finland just after their marriage (leaving all of the relatives behind). They settled in Butte where my grandfather Frank Hietala, went to work in the copper mines. Copper dust proved to be very injurious to the lungs and my grandfather knew that he was developing the dreaded miner's consumption which afflicted almost anyone who worked in the mines for any length of time.

Grandfather decided that it would be a healthier life to move to Canada so he emigrated to the area west of Sylvan Lake. Quite a few Finnish families moved into the same area, a number of them also coming from Butte, Montana. There developed such a solid little community of Finns that my grandmother, Emma, never found it necessary to learn to speak English although she lived to be well past eighty years of age.

Grandfather Frank did not live very long after getting his family established on the farm so his wife and children had to make the best of building a new life in a new land. My mother and Uncle Henry were the eldest children. There were two other sisters — Emma (Cunningham) and Vie (Pilkanen) and a younger brother Alex who died when he was 21. In the beginning the family lived in a two-story frame house and farmed with oxen.

My mother had never lived in the country before. She had never seen grass anywhere except in a city park, with signs saying "Keep off the grass." She thought that the milk they obtained in the city came from a special pump that the milk man had. It was a real revelation to discover that cows gave milk. She remembers being ecstatic to think that they could raise their own turnips.

All the children went to a little country school to learn their ABC's. My mother already had had a few years of schooling in Butte before she came to Canada. The late Mr. J. M. McDonald of Eckville was one of their teachers. He was a young handsome fellow just arrived from eastern Canada at that time. Although times were hard and money was scarce there still were enjoyable, memorable times, and they were blessed with wonderful, helpful neighbors.

Their 24th of May picnic was a great annual event with picnic lunches, races, contests, and games and with a dance in the community hall in the evening. There were always enough musicians in the area for a pick-up orchestra. Everyone attended, from the wee babies to grandma. All the young ladies turned out in their best home-made dresses with bows in their hair and wearing high button boots.

It was on one of these occasions that my mother and dad met which led to their marriage on December 6, 1917. The war was still on in Europe and times were becoming a little better for people on the homesteads. My dad and mother rented a farm south-east of Eckville and set up housekeeping. In those days no one had very much when they began their married life but that was of very little consequence. My brother Ralph was the first addition to their family, followed by Ivan, and I was number three.

When I was a baby the price of wheat went up to three dollars a bushel and my father was able to buy his first car. We lived in a big two-story log house and my faint recollections of those days are mostly happy ones. The setting for that log house was a pretty place with lots of natural trees on the banks of the Medicine River. For years Mother had to carry water up the steep

I remember Mother doing her washing on the river bank on the nice days of summer in order to save some of the hard work of carrying water. She would build a fire under her boiler and heat water and wash her clothes by hand in a wash tub with a wash board and home-made soap. Then they were hung to dry on twine lines tied from tree to tree on the river bank. My brothers and I would play about in the trees while she did her washing. My brother Ivan fell into the river one day and Mom had to jump in and rescue him in water that was almost up to her neck. One of my early fears was of the bats that used to fly in and out of our attic as it began to get dark in the evenings

Mother always had a lot of flowers planted around the house and she raised a big garden We always went picking wild berries in the summertime and there was always a contest to see who would be first to get his pail filled with the wild raspberries, strawberries, saskatoons or blueberries Some years we even found wild hazel nuts in the woods

In the spring Dad alway put a net in the river as soon as the ice was gone and he caught a lot of suckers and pike. Mom made the best fish mulligan I have ever tasted out of fish, milk, potatoes, and onions. We lived almost entirely off the land so had little need for stores. Our clothes were all home made from whatever material or yarn we could afford. Times may have been hard but life to me seemed good and the summers long and sunny Families and friends visited a lot and it was always exciting to have

On Saturday nights we alway went to Grandmother Hietala's place for a Sauna (steam bath and there was always coffee and cake afterward, along with lots of visiting The sauna was a wonderful invention which was found at every Finn homestead Grandmother's bath house was built of logs. There was a dressing room and a steam room In the steam and wash room there was a stove built out of a large drum. An enclosure around the drum held lots of fairly large rocks to absorb the heat when the fire was on. My Uncle Henry would build the fire in the morning and keep it stoked up all day to heat the rocks We would have pans of water and soap to wash with and then we poured water on the rocks to create steam. Grandmother made willow switches which you could beat yourself with to improve your circulation. After sitting in the hot steam for as long as you thought you could stand it, the next thing to do would be to splash cold water all over yourself to cool off enough to get dry After getting dressed and stepping out into the cool night, I remember it made me feel like a million dollars

We had another little brother added to our family while we lived in the big house by the river but he was so tiny that he lived for only a few days. He was born at home and of course there were no incubators to be had in those days Even though I was very young I still remember those sad days very vividly

The year before I started to school we moved to the farm just north of Eckville. For me school days were the best days of my life. Although my brothers did not especially like school, I loved it and could hardly wait until vacation was over so I could go back and start another term in a new grade My teacher for grades one, two and three was Miss Gladys Jones, then I had Miss Byers and Miss Craig through grades four five, and six. For junior high I was in Mr Baldwin's room after having had lady teachers it was a bit scary to have a man teacher In high school I had Mr Scott and Mr Lewis and my best teacher and a real gem), was Mrs Westergard. One of my favorite memories is of our great basketball team and our outdoor basketball court as we had no gymnasium. Softball games and track meets were fun too

Every fall at our school fair we could exhibit our vegetables that we had grown during the summer On one occasion I dug up a whole row of carrots just to get six that were exactly alike We made pressed weed and wildflower collections and caught and mounted butterflies and insects Our best artwork, maps and penmanship were handed in for competition. We led calves and colts in front of the judges and brought pens of chickens and ducks and rabbits and pigs. There were classes for cooking and canning and sewing For me all this was a serious business because money was given as the prizes, and sometimes this was the only spending money I could count on having in a whole year

Among the pleasant and indelible memories of my childhood were the days of harvest in the fall The threshing crews were huge when they had steam threshers. There was always a feeling of excitement when the bundle haulers and the big machine moved into our field and started to work. Mother always had extra women neighbors or sisters, over to help feed the men The place was like a huge bakery to me with all the pies, buns and bread baking There were large pots of potatoes and vegetables, roasts and gravy, and homemade pickles

A long table was set with a white oilcloth cover and homemade benches were used to seat all those hungry men. We always had tin basins and large cream cans of warm water placed outside the door for the men to wash before each meal. There was always lots of practical joking and laughter along with all the work, and everyone seemed to enjoy it all, in spite of the hard work for both men and women. Everyone was up before daybreak Huge breakfasts were prepared by the women while the men fed watered and harnessed their horses I was allowed to go out to the threshing machine when the ladies took coffee and hot rolls out to the men for a mid-morning and a mid-afternoon lunch

Christmas was special in those days, even though it was usually a simple and homey occasion with relatives usually being invited for dinner Christmas concerts were very important with Santa arriving to give out treats after the stage program All the children took part in the concert of singing recitations, drills and stage plays

My mother was the heart and soul of our family Through the years she kept in contact with all the relatives, near and far by writing lots and lots of letters and by sewing, knitting, or crocheting little gifts for them

We enjoyed swimming in the river when the days were warm in summer and skated for miles up and down the river in winter when the ice was good. Every winter my dad and some of his friends went fishing to Buck Lake right after the New Year. They fished with nets through the ice. The fish they brought home were very good eating. Mother canned or smoked many of them. Although there were no deep freezes in those days we froze the fish into a big snow bank by digging out a big hole then putting the fish in it and pouring water over them. We chopped them out in chunks with an axe as we needed them to.

Another necessary project on farms was putting up a supply of wood before winter set in. This involved falling the trees and hauling them in. Then they had to be sawed into blocks for the heater and some of the blocks split into smaller pieces to be used in the kitchen stove. This needed to be done early in the season because the wood did not burn well unless it had some time to dry out before being used. It was the duty of my brothers and me to pile the wood into a long row against a fence after it was split and then during the winter it was our regular chore to keep the woodbox in the back shed filled with wood.

Mother and Dad lived on their farm near Eckville until 1968. In the spring of that year they sold the farm and retired to Summerland, B.C. Mother's health had failed by this time but they enjoyed the milder winters and especially enjoyed having fruit trees, roses and chrysanthemums in their back yard.

Ralph has spent most of his adult life in B.C. near the coast, felling trees for the lumber industry. His eldest son, Ellis, lives in Los Angeles while Lenny, Mark, and daughter Laura live in Port Coquitlam.

Ivan first went north when the Alaska Highway was being built. His work was to haul fuel for the outfits working on the project. He lived most of the time at Fort St. John until his death in June, 1971. His son, Leslie and family live at Fort St. John, but his two daughters, Diane and Shelley, now live in Alberta.

After finishing high school I took teacher training in Edmonton and have spent 14 years as a classroom teacher, mostly at the grade one level. During the war I worked in the Colonel Belcher Hospital in Calgary as a typist and office clerk in the Outpatient Clinic. I married Robert Himmelreich in 1946 and we have two children. Our daughter, Sherrill, is married and lives in Lethbridge. Her daughter, Danielle is our first grandchild. Our son, Keith, lives in Calgary.

Mother passed away in Summerland on the 12th of July, 1969, in her 74th year. Dad returned to Eckville in April, 1976 and passed away on the 10th of November, 1976, at the age of 84.

KINGSLEY, LOUISE TIPMAN (MOTTUS) — by Louise Kingsley

Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Tipman and family of four sailed from Russia in 1902 to begin a new life in Canada. The trip took two weeks on an old ship, which included three days in very dense fog. After landing in Eastern Canada we took a train to Red Deer and then by horses and wagon to Sylvan Lake, where several Estonian families had already settled. For two years we lived with an aunt and uncle and dad worked in a lumber mill in Red Deer at the going wage of one dollar and fifty cents a day.

In September of 1904 we moved to our homestead in the Stettler area where Dad had built a large one-room cabin with a dirt floor and dirt roof. All of our belongings were loaded into a covered wagon which was pulled by two oxen — named Eric and Billy. We had a cow and bull tied to the wagon and a dozen chickens in a crate. Our trip was quite uneventful until we had to cross a creek. The wagon was too heavily loaded to use the bridge, so we forded the creek. Halfway across Eric decided to lay down and cool off, as it was a very warm day. However the spot he picked was quite unsuitable as his head couldn't be kept out of the water. So eight-year-old John went to the rescue by crawling out on the tongue of the wagon and, taking hold of the reins, could pull Eric's head up. No amount of coaxing or swearing could get that ox up until he was quite ready to do so himself. During all this excitement Billy quietly stood by and chewed his cud.

We arrived at our destination after three days of travel and settled into our cabin. It was furnished with a home-made stove made of rock and clay with a cast iron top. Beds were made with rails and straw-filled mattresses. The fireplace was used to bake bread, which was wrapped in cabbage leaves until we acquired bread pans to bake it in. As we had no outbuildings at this time, the chickens were kept in the cabin, fenced in under the bed. They kept us in eggs all winter and there was no sleeping in as the rooster crowed regularly at day break.

After Dad had made sure we were settled in for the winter he returned to his work at the lumber mill in Red Deer. Mother and brothers, John and Mike, and myself, Louise, put up the hay which was cut by hand, loaded onto a home made willow stoneboat and pulled over to the cabin by the bull who was harness broke. In the spring Dad cultivated five acres of land with the aid of the oxen and seeded it to a mixture of barley, oats and rye. We also had a small plot for a garden. In the fall this crop was cut and threshed by hand. The straw was salvaged and used to make a straw roof for the cabin.

To bring in a supply of groceries for the winter was quite an ordeal, as the trip had to be made to Red Deer and took a week to complete. The bobsled was loaded with hay to feed the oxen and enough food to last. Dad had to be packed. As more settlers had moved into the area, each one was called on and a list of supplies taken from each and delivered on his return. The years passed and improvements were made in living and working conditions. The family grew to five sons and three daughters — John, Mike, Ado, Ferdie, Edward, Mary, Sophie and myself. There was no school in the area until 1910 and until then Dad and Mom helped us with our reading. Dad taught us some German as well. Being a school teacher was the only occupation to strive for at the time, and two brothers and two sisters took this step.

In 1913 Dad passed away at the early age of 48 years, due to a threshing accident. The family continued farming, and eight years later, also at the age of 49 years, Mother died after a lengthy illness. Ado, Edward, Mary and Sophie became teachers, and John, Mike, and Ferdie carried on the farming.

In 1914 I met and married Hugo Mottus and we moved to the Gilby district where we raised a family of four sons and three daughters. We had many hard times during the depression, as did everyone with a family to feed and educate. Hugo was very much involved with the Medicine Valley Calf Club, being one of the organizers. However, after 13 years he resigned, due to ill health. He raised purebred Hereford cattle. He was one of the first members of the Eckville Co-op and served as board member. In addition to being one of the organizers of the Credit Union.

With his brothers Alex and Oscar Mottus owning a threshing outfit, they travelled the district doing threshing for neighbors as well as for themselves. With a crew of twenty at times, it was a very busy season for us housewives — doing chores while the men were away and doing the cooking while they were at our place. Everyone pitched in and did their bit so it was quite an exciting week.

With a lot of hard work and a lot of belt tightening we were able to give our family the education they desired. All seven of the children received their public schooling at the Medicine Valley School, which was three miles from our home. Our oldest son, Edward, became a school teacher and taught school for a year before going to the Air Force during World War II. Upon his discharge he furthered his education to receive his Ph. D. in organic chemistry. He did research for Monsanto in the U.S.A. for several years and presently is Senior Research Specialist. He married the former Ruby Land and they reside in Missouri, U.S.A. They have a family of two sons and a daughter.

Edna received her Grade 12 and worked in the creamery office for several years, before marrying George LeBehan. They presently reside in Edmonton where George works as steam engineer. They have one son and one daughter.

Arthur finished his grade nine, but farming was in his blood so he remained on the farm. He married the former Betty Walls and they have two sons and two daughters.

After Art's marriage Hugo and I retired to our Wood Lake quarter. We bought a log house and had it moved to a site overlooking the lake. Many good times were had there as it was an ideal place for weiner roasts, skating parties, and family reunions. The house is still used as a [illegible].

Roy finished high school in Eckville and then worked for McMillan and Blodel in Edmonton. He married Shirley Walker and they have two sons and four daughters. They live in South Burnaby, B.C., and presently Roy is part owner in a wholesale lumber company.

Sylvia finished high school in Lacombe and supervised Sunset School for six months. She married Alex Brown, who is Utilities Officer for I.D. No. 10. They live in Rocky Mountain House and have four sons.

Amy also finished high school in Lacombe and then did office work until marrying Ed Zack who is presently District Engineer for the [illegible].

Our youngest son, Dick, finished school and worked for International Harvester as assistant service supervisor for many years. He married the former Shirley Ceasor and they have two sons. They presently reside in Innisfail and Dick teaches hydraulics at the Olds Agricultural School.

Hugo passed away in November 1956 after several years of ill health. I remained at Wood Lake for a year and then bought a little house in Eckville. After working and travelling for 15 years I married Leonard Kingsep in 1970 at Sylvan Lake. We moved to Summerland, B.C. and lived there until the spring of 1976 when Lennie was forced to sell his beautiful property due to ill health. We returned to Eckville, as Lennie wanted to be near old friends and his daughter Violet who lives near Carstairs. Lennie was always ready to help his neighbors when any help was needed. In November of the same year he passed away.

Presently I am living in Eckville, and with my family, 26 grandchildren, and 14 great-grandchildren life is full of unexpected [illegible].

KORHONEN, Erkki and Annie — by Medra Moon and Maija Korhonen

Erkki Korhonen and Annie Maata were both born in Sotkamo, Oulan, Finland in 1906, Annie on January 4, and Erkki on December 14. They sailed to Canada in March of 1928, traveling by train from Halifax to Toronto, stopping at Erkki's sister's place. From there they boarded a train for Rocky Mountain House. Their first residence in Canada was at another of Erkki's sisters, Mrs. Ida Heikkinen's farm in the Bingley area. That spring he assisted his brother-in-law on the farm and Annie moved to Nordegg where she'd found work at a boarding house.

In the months to come, Erkki worked in a lumber camp and at various other jobs. In 1929 Erkki purchased a quarter section in the Taimi district from Mr. John Jackson for $550. Only 45 acres of this was broken. For the next year he was hard at work clearing more of his land and also continuing his work at the lumber camps

Although Annie and Erkki were each following their own endeavors, they were keeping in touch. They were married in Sylvan Lake on July 10, 1930. They settled on their quarter to farm. The next year with the spring came their first born, a son, Mauno, on June 10, 1931. The days passed by quickly as there was lots of hard work to farming. But, also, they enjoyed good times for the community people would get together to present plays in the local hall and, an occasional social evening for dancing. Their second child, a girl, Maila, was born on September 11, 1934, during one of the worst and earliest blizzards they can remember

In March of the next year the Korhonens sold their farm and packed up the children, bag and baggage and headed for Russia. They settled in a place called Petrozavodsk where Erkki was employed as a catskinner. Two years later, July 10, 1937, a third child was born, a daughter, Maira. Times were very hard in Russia at this time so in the spring of the following year they were travelling again. They returned to their birth place, Sotkamo, where Erkki was employed at lumber camps

Two years later in 1940, Erkki was drafted into the Finnish Army. His enlistment lasted two years and he then returned home to farm. Two years passed and he was again called to the army but this time to fight. A son Eric was born June 29, 1944 several weeks after Erkki had left. He did not see his newest son until November of that year when he came home. The war was

The years slipped by with the good and the bad. Their last child was born on March 12, 1947 a daughter Maija. The family had grown to a good size since that farm in Canada and the Korhonens had, thus far travelled many many miles in several countries. Nevertheless their itchy feet had not quite given up. In May of 1951 Mom, Dad and family left Finland again. We travelled by train, ship and car and arrived in Lesueville in June. Dad rented a quarter section north of Leslieville for approximately two years. In the spring of 1953, the family moved into the village of Eckville

The following several years brought a few changes with the older children leaving home. A gala event was the double wedding of the two oldest daughters on July 15, 1955. Also Dad tried his hand at farming for several years in the Eckville district. In the spring of 1959, Dad and Mom purchased a lot in the Town of Eckville. About a year later they bought the old St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, moved it to this lot and remodelled it into what is still their home.

During the years that Anne and Erkki have resided in Eckville and district, they have enjoyed the many friends they have made and the friendliness of the community. Both Anne and Erkki were employed at the Eckville Elementary School as janitors for many years. Erkki also worked as a carpenter for various residents and businesses in the district. The Korhonens are enjoying their retirement in fairly good health. They take great pride in their garden which is their summer pass time. Annie enjoys her handwork and Erkki his fishing. Both are active members of the Friendship Club.

The children are all now residing in various parts of the country. Mauno married Jeanine LeClerg from Geraldton, Ontario. They have three children, two sons and one daughter. Mauno is employed by Kimberley Clark in the pulp and paper industry.

Maila married Raymond Anderson, youngest son of Charles and Lillian Anderson from Sylvan Lake. The live in Oliver, B.C. and have six children, four daughters, and two sons.

Maira married Clarence Moos, eldest son of Hans and Nora Moos of Eckville. They are farming northeast of town and are the parents of one son and one daughter.

Eric married Teresa Bellew of Coutts, Alberta. They are residing in Coutts where Eric is self employed as a contract painter. They have six children, three sons and three daughters. They lost one son at the age of five months.

Maija is residing in Edmonton where she is self-employed as a book-keeper.

THE AUGUST B. KOSKI FAMILY – written by [illegible]

August B. Koski was born in Kauas, Finland on August 27, 1876. At the age of 17 years he came to the United States, where he moved from place to place, working in lumber camps, mines, and in a furniture factory

Anna Maria Hyvari was born on October 8, 1878 and emigrated from Finland to the U.S.A. where she was united in marriage to August Koski at Hamilton, Montana, on November 16, 1900. Through the years eleven children — four sons and seven daughters — were born to them. Two daughters, Mary and Annie have passed away as well as one son, Eddie, who died in March, 1977. Ida Johnson lives in Seattle, Washington, U.S.A.; Josephine Halstein at Sylvan Lake; Kuusamo , Emma Lutz at Eckville; Arthur at Eckville; Lempi Christensen [illegible] liam at Prince George, B.C. Elsie McDonald at Cloverdale, B.C., and Ernest at Eckville.

In 1904 Mr. Koski was a lean, broad shouldered man in his late twenties, with black curly hair and a handle-bar moustache. He decided about this time to change his environment, and went to Red Deer, N.W.T., and then made his way thirty miles to the west. After walking about in the wilderness of the Medicine River valley, he found a pleasing site and filed on a homestead on S.E. 28-39-3W5, which is cornerwise with Old Eckville. He liked the winding river, having left behind similar scenery in his childhood home. Not only was it picturesque, but it was ideal cattle raising country with flat low land, rich in grass for pasture or hay with plenty of water within reach.

On this land he chose a spot of higher ground for buildings with the river on both sides forming a horseshoe flat on the far end of the house yard. This river that flooded its banks many times played a big part in the lives of the Koski family. The river was a benefit as a watering place for the livestock and it also helped to feed the family. Mr. Koski made his own net and boat, and the family enjoyed many meals of Kala Mojaka made with sucker, pike, or even an occasional whitefish. Problems, too, were sometimes created by the river, especially when it flooded. The first such occurrence was in the middle of the summer. The rain fell night and day until the water reached dangerously close to the level of the buildings, stopping however, before any serious damage was done. The next big flood was in the spring of 1920. At this time the whole Koski quarter, except a small area around the buildings, was under water and well over a half mile of road was cut off. During this time when Dr. McDonald needed to make a house call to the north of Eckville. He started off with a horse and buggy but after reaching the flooded area he would tie his horse to a tree and one of the Koski boys would row him across this long stretch of treacherous water. Here he was usually met by a member of the patient's family and taken to the home. Later he would return to Eckville by the same means. Fortunately there already were telephones in the country. No lives were lost in either of these two floods, but some years later there were some drownings on the other side of Eckville when the waters rose high again.

After living on his homestead in 1904 Mr. Koski started building a one-room log house with the help of his brother-in-law, Mr. Hussa, who had already settled his family on a homestead site one mile to the north. Mr. Hussa owned a team of oxen that were useful for hauling the poplar logs from the river bank to the place of construction. The work was heavy, but it sometimes had its funny side, too. On one occasion when the oxen refused to pull the load, Mr. Hussa calmly stepped behind them, got down on his hands and knees and barked like a dog. This persuaded the oxen to continue moving the load. After the house was finished Mr. Koski made some furniture, making good use of his earlier experience in the furniture factory.

In December of 1904 Mrs. Koski, with their three small children, came to Eckville. Since the Koski house was not yet ready to live in they spent the first winter in the home of her sister, Mrs. Hussa. Mrs. Koski was a small, plump person, timid by nature and very shy of strangers. She often talked about how frightened she was when she travelled alone with three little ones into a strange land. New friendships soon sprang up with neighboring families, but the center of Mrs. Koski's interest always remained with her growing family.

Pioneer life was usually hard for the women and children. Much of Mr. Koski's work was away from home, and this left the responsibility of caring for the children and the livestock to the wife. The cows, milked by hand, provided the cream which was churned into butter to be exchanged for groceries. Later the milk was sold to a near-by cheese factory. Everyone had to help with the haying, one of the older children staying in the house to take care of the baby. At first the Koskis had only two horses, one of which soon had her first colt. One day this precious new animal slipped into the river when Mrs. Koski was at home alone with the children. She heard the mare neighing and rushed to help. Not knowing how to swim, she grasped hold of a near-by willow branch, lowered herself into the water and pulled the colt to safety. The occastional loss of an animal by drowning was not so serious after the herd got bigger.

Although Mr. Koski was able to build up a large herd of cattle from a very small start, his greatest pride was in the horses that he raised and improved. Some of these heavy work horses of Percheron strain won him prizes through the years at the Benalto Fair. Hogs also were included in the mixed farming operations.

As the years passed more land was broken. The main crop was oats, which were used mainly for livestock feed. Enough wheat for home use was ground into flour. The grain was of a poor quality because the growth was heavy and slow at ripening and the frost came early. Later more wheat and then barley was sown and the grain was hauled to an elevator. Rye was grown for hog pasture. The well-known Langer Brothers threshing outfit circulated around the country doing the threshing for many of the farmers. A blast of the steam engine whistle announced their arrival at a farm and bustle and excitement reigned until the outfit was taken on to the next.

During those first years there was very little money to spend on recreation, nor on unnecessary clothing. If a child wore shoes to school in the summertime everyone guessed that he must come from a well-to-do family. The youngsters enjoyed bathing and swimming in the river even though most of them had never heard of it as a part of making a living. Even tramping a load of hay was fun if the weather wasn't too hot. The boys made their own skis and stilts and if they were lucky enough to get skates they skated.

Sunday was always a big day at the Koski home. Whenever there were no church services at the schoolhouse the neighbors from miles around visited one another. When the boys grew bigger a Mr. Flathan organized a boys' brass band. Practices were held on Sunday afternoons — which meant a gathering of young people often at the Koski home. Mrs. Koski always set coffee for all who were present. She always remained her light-hearted self, and even after a hard day's work often took part in the children's games, or sat by and enjoyed watching them.

Mr. Koski was more stern by nature, and took life seriously. When he entered the house his word was law. Although he was a man with a great determination to better himself, he never turned down a neighbor in distress. When death struck at a neighbor's and they could not afford an undertaker, (even if one had been available) they came to Mr. Koski for help. He painstakingly built the coffin and then prepared the body for burial. If someone needed help with a sick animal he took his veterinary book along and set out to give whatever assistance he could to save the animal.

His interest in the improvement of the community led Mr. Koski to help with the organization of the local Cooperative Association, of which he was an active member until his death and of which he was a director for several years. He also served as a school trustee and was an active member of several farm organizations.

A. B., (as he was known around Eckville) was the first mail carrier and served the community in this way for five and half years. His first contract, dated December 1, 1905, called for one trip a week to carry the mail from Evarts to the new post office in Eckville. He received one dollar and seventy cents for each round trip, this amount later being increased to two dollars and fifty cents when, after a years and a half mail service was inaugurated to Leslieville, a distance of 13 miles. Later Pitcox (now Hespero) was added to the route and three dollars was now paid for the round trip. This amount was later increased to three dollars and fifty cents.

In relating some of the difficulties of his job Mr. Koski emphasized the fact that it seemed that rain fell continuously during the summer and since there were no roads or bridges this made transportation difficult. The horse-drawn vehicle used for the conveyance of the mail during the first years was the front gear of a wagon. The tongue had been taken off and shafts fitted in. A home-made box on the top completed the carriage.

The Koskis had a hard life, but a life with a wealth of experience. There were many illnesses in the family but fortunately there was always a complete recovery. In the years when no doctor could be reached a three-year-old girl was left paralyzed from the hip down on one side as the result of an illness. With daily massage by her devoted family she eventually regained the use of the her limb. Later when the oldest daughter became ill with double pneumonia Dr. McDonald was called. He immediately called a trained nurse, Mrs. Herring, and, thanks to their competent treatment and care, the girl recovered.

The original house that Mr. Koski had built is still in use, with rooms having been added on through the years as the family increased in numbers. An ornamental cupboard built by Mr. Koski still hangs on the wall in the place where he placed it after having made it. Ernest is still living on the original Koski homestead.

Mr. Koski died on August 29, 1949, and his wife passed away on November 16, 1951. Both are laid to rest in the Eckville cemetery.

A very unforseen incident happened one day when Mr. Bruynseraede's cow got loose. Mr. Bruynseraede, who was running the general store in Old Eckville at the time, owned a milk cow. He had built a small barn for this animal but she refused to stand in her stall long enough to be tied. To discourage her in his bad habit, he set up a pitchfork behind her in such a way that when she tried to back up the prongs of the fork poked her and reminded her to stay put. However this time when he went to tie her she bolted back with such force that the fork stuck to her hind quarters and away she went, fork and all. She ended up at the Koski farm. When Ed and Ernest, still quite young, saw what had happened they chased the animal, with fork still attached to her, back to her owner.

Mr. Bruynseraede was so pleased to see his cow again that he rewarded the boys with an extra big bag of candy.

As of June, 1977, several of the Koski family have passed away. Ida's husband, Elmer Johnson, was the first to go, in the summer of 1962 when they were living in New Westminster, B.C. He died suddenly while working on the lawn. Ida moved to Seattle, Washington, after Elmer passed away and worked in a hospital for some time. They have two sons, Edwin and Arthur, and one daughter, Alice, all living in Seattle.

The next to go was Stewart Leavesly, 71, husband of Mary. Stewart passed away in 1967 at the wheel of his car in Coquitlam, B.C. Mary steered the car to a curb and went for help but he was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. He had suffered a heart attack while driving his car. Mary Leavesley followed her husband in death in 1972 while living in New Westminster. She died of a heart attack in a near-by hospital, at the age of 71.

Kenneth Coutts, of Sylvan Lake, husband of Annie, passed away in the Eckville Hospital on September 24, 1973, after a lengthy illness. He was 59 years of age. Annie Coutts passed away on June 11, 1974 at the age of 60 years, just nine months after the death of her husband. She died very suddenly on her way to Fort Saskatchewan with her son Jim. Annie and Kenneth are survived by two sons: Kenneth of Geraldton, Ontario, and Jim of Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta.

Edward Koski passed away in the Eckville Hospital on March 22, 1977 at the age of 74 years. Eddie had spent his last years with his brother Ernest in the old home a mile north of Eckville. Eddie suffered from severe arthritis for the last few years of his life. However he was never confined to a wheel chair. He is survived by two daughters, Ethel and Helen, of Edmonton. A son, Eddie, predeceased him.

Ernest Koski still lives in the farm home north of Eckville left by his parents but is planning to move into the town of Eckville before the end of 1977. He had several serious operations in 1974, but is enjoying good health now.

Josephine Hasselin lives with her husband Iver on their farm west of Sylvan Lake. They have two daughters. Esther Dube, living west of Sylvan Lake, and Dorothy Wisotzki, living in Richmond, B.C.

Emma Lutz and her husband George live in the town of Eckville. They have a family of four. Norman lives in Calgary, Elizabeth (Betty) Spiers lives in Red Deer. Darlene Taylor lives in Red Deer, and Brian lives in Rocky Mountain House.

Arthur Koski has retired, due to poor health, and lives in the Eckville Manor House.

Lempi Christensen and her husband Kai live in the town of Eckville. Lempi works at the hospital part-time.

William Koski has made his home in Prince George, B.C. where he has worked through the years as a carpenter, and at various other jobs from time to time.

Elsie McDonald lives with her husband Donald in Burnaby, B.C. They have one son, Kenneth.

A most tragic occurrence took place in 1933 in the Koski and Maki families when Nell Maki became ill with spinal meningitis and passed away at the age of 25 years, leaving behind a young widow, Emma, and two small children, Norman, age three years and Betty, age one year.

Gene and Darlene Taylor have four children, Cindy, Tammy, Cameron, and Tara.

Brian Lutz married Charlene Murray and they have two children, Gregory and Kirsty Dawn.

Betty and Cecil Spiers have two sons, Dale and Neal.

THE ALLEN J. HUNTE FAMILY — by the

Allen was from Heister, Alberta, and Bert was from Grand Falls, New Brunswick. Both of them served in the Canadian [illegible] years and then were [illegible] January 1947.

Al began employment with the Alberta Wheat Pool in May 1946 and now has 31 years with the company. The first year he was at the Elspeth Elevator, then the next 23 years were spent at the Eckville Elevator and since 197[illegible] has been at the Pool Elevator No. 1 at Red Deer

Bert began employment at the Eckville Hospital in November 1966, where she worked in the office for the next five years, before moving to Red Deer

Bert and Allen have three children. Dianne was born in 1947 and was married to Steve Cherniak in 1970. They have two boys Darren and Dean. They live in Lacombe

Judy was born in 1952 and was married to Dwayne Waisman in 1972. They live in Black Diamond

Ron was born in 1957. He lives and works in Red Deer

LAURILA, ERO MATT by Ken Laurila

Ero Matt Laurila was born in Manaville Minnesota, U.S.A. on October 14, 1906. He moved back to Finland with his parents early in 1908. In 1928 Eero boarded the ship "Stockholm" in Helsinki, Finland and after eight days, landed in Halifax, having reached Canada on June 24. He had forty-five dollars in his pocket. He had had fifty dollars, but lent five dollars to a friend so that the friend had the required twenty-five dollars in order to enter Canada

From Halifax Eero travelled via C.P.R. to Sudbury, Ontario. There he found a job at a saw mill at Blind River. He worked there for about a [illegible] for thirty five cents an hour. In 1932 broke and out of a job, he grabbed a freight in Kirkland Lake, Ontario and headed west, looking for harvest work. After six days without eating, he jumped off in Lethbridge. Finding no work there he jumped on another freight headed for Blackie Alberta. Upon arrival in Blackie, he immediately got a ten-day job stooking for one dollar and fifty cents a day and board. After finishing that he got a twelve-day job threshing for two dollars a day and meals

The winter of 1932-1933 was spent on a soup [illegible] north to Wetaskawin. There he found work in the Brightview district, brushing, for fifteen dollars a [illegible]

Eero came to the Eckville area in the spring of 1934. Soon after his arrival he met Eva Sylvia Lahteri and married her on December 12, 1934. They started married life with thirty dollars cash, seven milk cows, and a few chickens. Having no means of transportation they carried cream in three-gallon cans three miles to the creamery in Eckville

In the spring of 1935 they borrowed four horses and and a disc to work some land. They hired a neighbor to seed wheat. After harvest they sold the wheat for thirty-five cents a bushel delivered at the elevator in Benalto. That fall after selling the crop, and the calves for five dollars a head they bought a buggy and a horse by the name of Charlie. The total price for the buggy and Charlie was forty-five dollars. The purchase was made at a horse sale in Benalto

Charlie was retired part-time with the coming of a Model A Ford car. Old Lizzy would usually start in the coldest weather if you put hot ashes under the oil pan, two changes of hot water in the radiator, and cranked like hell. Horses, however, were the most reliable means of transportation up until the mid 1950's, as the roads were not graded and often overflowing seismograph holes turned the roads into a muddy trail during the summer months. During the winter they were drifted solid. Eero drove the kids to school regardless of the weather

Eero and Sylvia had three children. The oldest, Walter Edward, was born October 8, 1935 at the hospital in Bentley. He attended school in Eckville until his passing on December 24, 1965.

Raymond William, the second eldest, was born May 21, 1938, also at the hospital in Bentley. He too, attended school at Eckville. The building that he started school in is presently the welding shop in Eckville. He moved to Edmonton around 1955. There he attended a trade school and later went to work as a machinist. On November 5 1960 he was married to Hazel Diane Hazelwood of Edmonton. They have four children. Angela was born in June, 1961. Trevor and twin sister Heather were born in November 1963 and Sharon was born in March 1966. They are presently residing in Edmonton

Kenneth Cameron, the youngest of the Laurila children was born in the new hospital in Eckville on April 2, 1945. He attended school in Eckville. After finishing school he drove school bus for a short time then worked as a motor grader operator with the country of Lacombe. From there he went to work for Northern Geophysical and was trained as a vibrator operator. He worked in northern Alberta, the foothills of Alberta, northern British Columbia and in the Arctic.

Ken took over the home farm about 1964 and still resides there. He met Gail Annette Hennel during the summer of 1969, while she was employed at the Deerhome in Red Deer. They were married in Stettler (Gail's home town) on June 20, 1970. Their two children are Rachelle born in March, 1972 in Eckville, and Daryl, born on his grandfather Laitila's birthday in October 1973 at the hospital in Red Deer.

Eva Sylvia Laitila passed away on December 23, 1961 after a long illness. She was very kind and considerate at all times and was a wonderful cook. When company came and there was no cake, it took her only a few minutes to whip one up. When she made coffee there was always something extra good about it. Sylvia was a hard worker who never put off until tomorrow what could be done today.

Eero, after Sylvia's passing, married Senia Mattson of Sylvan Lake. They resided at Sylvan Lake until Senia's passing in March of 1978. He then moved back to the farm at Eckville. After residing there for a short time he moved into the Eckville Manor House, where he is presently residing. He was a hard worker and was always willing to give anyone a helping hand. He served on the Young People's Hall Board and on the Eckville Cemetery Board for a number of years.

Through hard work and by sometimes doing without things they needed, Eero and Sylvia increased their holdings and raised their family.

THE GENE LAZZER FAMILY — by Mrs. [illegible]

The Gene Lazzer family, consisting then of Gene, Marge, and Brian, who was just three years old, arrived in Eckville in late August, 1952 from the Barrhead area. Gene's job was to operate the first fleet of school buses to serve Eckville and Marge had come to teach school starting with a combined grade six and seven in one room of the old two-room school in the north west corner of the school yard.

The Lazzers lived in Eckville for fifteen years before moving to Red Deer in August, 1967. During that time they saw many changes in the town and district. The school bus fleet had started out with only three buses but as new areas were served it increased to a fleet of nine. Changes in road conditions over those years were unbelievable. At first some of them were hardly more than trails with many mud-holes and ruts. After heavy rains many roads became almost impassable. But within a few years all became high-graded, widened and gravelled.

Gene had a bus barn in one corner of the school yard which later doubled as a small tire shop business. From this beginning eventually a service station, tire shop and welding business developed on the site of the present tire shop at the south-east corner of town.

In the early 1960's, after selling his school buses to the County of Lacombe, Gene also had a fleet of four gravel trucks that were kept busy in various parts of Alberta during the extensive road-building projects run by the government.

After selling the trucks and the tire shop Gene started his own real estate business in Eckville. This is still his field as he is working for Block Bros. in Red Deer.

Modernizing the town started soon after Lazzers moved there and they were involved in part of it. Street building, new sidewalks and town sewer all came in about the time Lazzers and Dr. Gibson built the first more modern homes in the summer of 1954.

Community activities were important to the Lazzers, also. Square dancing was the rage the first few years and they were active club members. Gene was active in the Lion's Club all the years he lived in Eckville. The community drama group was of special interest for a number of years. Home and School activities, hockey for the boys, coaching school teams and being active in the Anglican church were also very much a part of their family life.

The Lazzer family grew considerably over the years. To keep Brian company, there arrived, in due course, Don, Barry, Allen and Brenda. With the exception of Brian, who is working in Lubya, some 800 miles out in the desert from Tripoli, for an Arab oil company, the family is all near. Don is employed in the oil industry in Red Deer and Allen is a part-time postal clerk and full-time student about to enter Southern Alberta Institute of Technology. Barry is the only one married. He married Viola McGhan from Penhold and they live in Edmonton where Barry is attending the University of Alberta. He is entering the faculty of engineering to obtain a degree in electrical engineering after having just received a B.Sc. in Physics. Brenda, being still a little girl, is in elementary school. Marge continued her teaching career after moving to Red Deer and is employed by the Red Deer School District.

CHARLIE AND MABEL LEWIS

Charlie and Mabel Lewis moved to the new prairie town of Laverna, Saskatchewan after their marriage in October, 1913. Both were born and raised in Ontario. Charlie was a blacksmith and carried on a good business until the drought hit. Being unable to collect anything for his hard work, they decided to take what they could carry and try for greener pastures.

They arrived in Eckville in October, 1933. He bought the NW 19-39-3-W5, which was then C.P.R. land. The following years were very difficult, with hard work, no money, and plenty of worries. This resulted in a perforated ulcer for Charlie and he passed away in June, 1936.

Mabel continued to live in her house on the farm. She enjoyed gardening and caring for her few head of livestock. For a year she was in charge of a dormitory for high school students situated in the present Lion's Hall in Eckville. In 1914 she and her two youngest daughters went to Steveston, B.C. where she worked as cook on the P.G.E. railway until her retirement. She passed away in April of 1962, at the age of 70 years.

Charley and Mabel had five daughters: — Iva, now Mrs. Gilbert Gustavson, Anne, (Mrs. Bill McIntyre) who had three children, Sylvia, Phyllis, and Gregg of Vancouver. Anne passed away in July of 1983. Myrel, now Mrs. Ray Sestrap of Clearbrook, B.C., who has two daughters — Sandy, of Beverly Hills, California and Debbie, of Clearbrook. Hazel, now Mrs. Charles Boyd, of Bremerton, Washington, who has two sons, Chucky and Jim. Elda, who is now Mrs. George McBeth of Eagle Bay, B.C. She has one daughter, Gina.

Shortly after his arrival in Eckville, Charlie met a neighbor, Matt Makl. He very cordially invited Charlie over for a bath on Saturday evening. Being unaware of the custom of visiting and enjoying a sauna, Charlie was a bit concerned. He asked Mabel when he arrived home if he smelled that bad that a neighbor had to offer him a bath. However, he soon learned the real meaning of the invitation, and was to enjoy the hospitality immensely.

LIGHTBOWN, DAVID — by Pat Lightbown

David Lightbown was born in Red Deer and grew up in the Diamond Valley district. He is the youngest son of Max and Margaret Lightbown. He started school at Gaetz and then moved to Red Deer for a few months. When Edd, his oldest brother, was called into the army, his folks moved back to the farm and Dave finished his grade one at Bluebell school. He went to school there until grade four, when Diamond Valley School opened again. His folks sold their farm when Dave was in Grade Five. They moved to Matsqui, B.C. where he finished his elementary schooling. He graduated from Abbotsford High School and then headed back for Alberta.

He worked for George Armeneau that summer and worked at Kitimat, B.C. the next winter. He worked at Lake Louise the summer of 1957 hauling asphalt on the Banff-Jasper highway. He worked for his brother, Robert for a few years before they went into partnership in the trucking business.

David married Patricia Forsell in November of 1962 and they have lived at Eckville since then. He trucked with his brother for about ten years and then bought out the business himself. He continued in this business until February of 1976 when he sold his business to Gerry Forsell. Dave then went to work for Texaco Canada Ltd. at the Gilby Gas Plant. Dave and Pat have four children, Kerry, Keith, Julie and Heather. The three older children now attend the Eckville schools, and Heather will soon attend play school.

ROBERT LIGHTBOWN FAMILY—by Janet Lightbown

Robert Lightbown (Bud), second son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lightbown of the Diamond Valley district, married Janet Brown, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown of the Gaetz district in Eckville in 1952. Bud owned and operated a general trucking business in the Eckville district for many years, until 1974. Being an ardent rodeo fan, Bud was instrumental in starting the Eckville Indoor Rodeo and also the Eckville Pony Club.

Robert and Janet's family consists of two daughters and three sons. Karen married Jim Tubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tubbs of Condor. They operate the J & K Foods and the Echo Theatre. They have two sons, Jamie and Micheal, and a daughter, Janelle.

Myrna married Peter McLellan of Rocky Mountain House and they farm in that area. Their two sons are Cody and Layne.

Garry is attending NAIT in Edmonton in 1977, and Murray and Dean attend school in Eckville.

We live on an acreage just north of Eckville, located on the SW 22-38-3-W5.

J.O. LINDBERG FAMILY HISTORY

Joseph and Patricia Lindberg, with their four children, came to Eckville in 1970. They lived in the teacherage across the street from the school until they built their own home on the west side of Eckville in 1973. Joe was principal of the Eckville High School from 1970 until 1975.

Joe grew up in Saskatchewan and took his B.A. degree there in 1947. Later he received his B.Ed. degree from the University of Alberta. He taught school in Saskatchewan for several years before coming to Alberta.

Pat, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Avery, was born in their farmhouse in the Condor district, with Dr. Greenaway attending. She attended school in Northup and Condor and later completed high school in Qualicum Beach, B.C. She was employed with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in British Columbia and also in Red Deer.

Joe and Pat met in Condor in 1956 when Pat returned to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crouch. They were married at the Condor Mission Church in June 1957. Their first three children—Ian, Ingrid and Sonja—were born in Rocky Mountain House. Wanda was born in Viking, Alberta, in 1967.

Joe's teaching career has taken the family to many interesting places, including Mayo, Yukon, Edmonton, Condor, Holden, Bashaw and Meeting Creek, Alberta. Of particular interest was the launching of the new David Thompson High School in 1967.

Since coming to Eckville the family's main area of service has been in St. Paul's

Presbyterian Church. Joe also held several of fices in the Lions Club

LINDQUIST A W VICTOR — by E. A. Bchey

A. W. Victor Lindquist came as an immigrant from Sweden and worked on many construction obs including the Field Tunnel west of Banff. In 1904 he settled in the Eckville district on land now owned by Claude Cunningham, some two miles south of Eckville.

He was a very inventive fellow and at one time completely built from scratch his own threshing machine with which he harvested his own crop. He also built a sawmill on his place and sawed lumber for many of his neighbors at neighborly prices.

At one time he envisaged a power dam and turbine which was to be located on the river on the old John Armstrong place across the road. Needless to say this never materialized.

A very helpful and friendly fellow, one of his first loves was playing cards or horseshoes and he sometimes spent several nights a week at these pastimes. I well remember him trudging down the hill with his lantern on dark nights to our place to pick up milk for his several cats and to spend the evening. He was quite musical and played both the harmonica and single row accordion for parties in the neighborhood.

A unique character, he was one of the true pioneers of the Eckville district. In or about 1944 he sold his land at Eckville and moved to Pigeon Lake where he died in 1947.

LINGREN FRANK RICHARD — by Marie Meyers

In 1898 my father, Frank Richard Lingren, emigrated with his parents from Finland to Red Lodge, Montana, U.S.A. In 1906 they moved to Canada, where his folks filed on a homestead near Gabriel Lake. That year father worked in Red Deer, driving a dray team. He also hauled rock for the first United Church in Red Deer.

In the winter of 1907 my father worked with his father west of Edmonton in the bush as a timber cruiser. Coming home in the spring they built a raft and floated down the Pembina River as close as possible to Edmonton, walking the rest of the wa[illegible]

My mother, Emma Hilma Olson, was born at Frontier, Wyoming, U.S.A. In 1903, at the age of nine years, she immigrated to Canada with her parents, where they filed on a homestead south of Eckville, N.E. 32-39-3 W5.

Mother and Father were married in 1913. They moved to Butte, Montana for three years where Father worked in the copper mines. In 1917 they moved back to Alberta and to the homestead north of Eckville.

There were seven girls in the family. Ivy, the oldest, was born in Butte, Montana, and the rest were all born at Eckville. Ivy, Jennie and Helen have passed away. Ivy and Jennie were never married. Helen was married to Final Evenson. They had seven children — five girls and two boys. They were Joan, Joyce, Janice, Carol, Stanley, Sherry and Dean. Marjorie was married to Henry Postl. Their three boys are Alan, Howard and Jim. Marie married Ed Meyers and their children are Richard and Patricia. Bernice married Alex Prusak. Their two girls are Bonnie Lynn and Linda Jane. Shirley Anne passed away as a baby.

My father passed away in December of 1955 and mother passed away in 1970. Both are buried in the Eckville cemetery.

ARCHIE LITT AND FAMILY — by Archie Litt

Archibald Litt — born at South Camp, Aldershot, England, March 27, 1887.

Margaret Litt — born at Heysham, Lancaster, England, December 13, 1884, died August, 1949, at Vancouver, British Columbia.

Two children, Freda A., born at Eckville, Alberta, August 8, 1914. Robert A., born at Eckville, Alberta, November 20, 1920.

In the year 1977 the family consists of the two children above mentioned, seven grandchildren [illegible]

Archie Litt arrived in Eckville in the year 1912. The purpose of his coming was to organize a co-operative association. Having had experience in co-operatives in England and being a graudate from the English Co-operative Union in general management, he was recommended by the Canadian Co-operative Union.

The Eckville and Gilby Co-operative Association was then organized and commenced business with very small cash working capital, the founders having little or nothing to spare from the needs of their farming activities and living. Contributions were made to the capital by labor on the store building construction. Imbued by the spirit of the Rochdale pioneers, who started the co-operative movement in Rochdale, Lancashire, England, with a capital of 28 pounds which later developed into big business until it embraced about one-third of the population of Great Britain, the business commenced in Eckville with a paid-up capital of less than $1 500, including the contributions through labor on the building. The store was stocked with groceries, hardware, drygoods and footwear and other items, depending upon trade terms and turnover. It was a bold venture and a nerve racking experience for the manager.

In April of 1916 A. Litt left the co-operative and enlisted with the armed forces in Calgary in the 8th Canadian Field Ambulance, and proceeded overseas as a private. He returned in October 1919, having attained the rank of Staff Sergeant.

After returning to Eckville Archie was employed by Mike Sestrap's store until April 1921. Then he was appointed to the position of manager of the Bentley Co-operative Association where he remained until the year 1926. He then moved on to British Columbia to enjoy the warmer climate.

The hard work at Eckville was lightened and brightened by a good social life. Association, neighborliness, visiting, barn dances, dances in the town hall and at school houses bring back pleasant memories. Box socials were also common, and a good-looking school ma'am often contributed to the revenue by drawing high bidding. All the young men wanted her box. At the dances in the outlying school houses and halls the babies were taken along and laid out in a row at the side of the building on tables strung along, the babies being laid side by side. The music was supplied by a fiddler and accompaniment of an organ of the foot pedal type. On many occasions A. Litt did the fiddling. Refreshments were supplied by the ladies bringing sandwiches and cakes.

We had a small orchestra in which I enjoyed being a member and playing with my violin. It was conducted by Arthur Kinna, who was a good musician, producing good tone on his violin. Fritz Kinna played the cello, John Vernick the flute, Norman Turner on the piano and John Plaitian the cornet if I remember correctly. One of the Koots boys also played the violin.

These were the days of the pioneers, when roads were constructed with poplar poles on the muskeg over which the stage drove through driven by a Mr. Foster, who was a very interesting character. The stage carried the mail and passengers from Red Deer.

Life is a succession of lessons which must be lived to be understood. We have grown with the times, and benefited by experience. Life has been worthwhile, and we are thankful for the opportunity of making our contribution to the progress as pioneers.

LUDWIG, HENRY

Henry Ludwig was born at Rolfield, Germany where members of his family are still living in the family house. He was at school in Heidelberg and Astralfenberg. He did private tutoring in France and spent a considerable time at Edinburgh University. He was on the staff of a boys' residential school and day school for some time. He had a London degree.

He came to Canada in 1908, went to normal school and taught in Evarts for a short time and then taught at Haultain School in Calgary. He left Calgary at the beginning of the first war and moved to the country, isolated at that time. In 1920, Mr. Ludwig came to Eckville but he left in 1929, the pupils at that time were finishing Grade 11. He was 14 years on the staff of the High School at Medicine Hat. He moved to Victoria in 1943. He died there in 1952 after a long illness.

ISAAC AND ELIZABETH LUMBY FAMILY

Isaac Lumby was born in Finland about 1873 His family consisted of his wife, Elizabeth, born in Vasa Finland on October 30, 1877 and four step-daughters, Mary, born in Eureka, Utah, February 2, 1900 Emily, born in Butte, Montana on May 13, 1902 Verna born in Virginia City, Montana on June 1, 1904 Allie, born in Butte. Montana on August 15, 1906

Isaac Lumby came from Finland to Butte Montana in the early 1890's where he worked in the mines. After his brother, John, was killed in the mines in 1908, Isaac married Elizabeth John's wife, and acquired his brother's family of four daughters

Elizabeth Lumby born in Vasa, Finland October 30 1877 came to Butte, Montana when she was 18 years old. She married John Lumby and they have five children. Their only son, Evart, died when he was two years old. It is not known whether he died of hemophilia, but it later was established that Elizabeth was a carrier One of her five grandsons and a great-grandson were to have hemophilia in later years. When her husband, John, was killed in a mining accident in Butte in 1908, Elizabeth was left with four daughters to raise She later married her

Isaac, ill from working the mines, needed a change. The family moved to the fresh air of Gilby in 1909. Their 165-acre homestead was seven miles west of Gilby between the Eckford and Koskinen farms

Home was a small log cabin about 24 by 20' — one room with a sleeping loft. Before a well house was made, food was kept cool in a large box on the north side of the house After a bear raided all of the food, a well house was built and ice, made during the winter, lasted all summer to keep food cold

After living on the homestead at Gilby for about eight years, the Lumbys sold the homestead and bought a farm a mile north of Eckville. The neighbors to the south were the August Koskis, across the road were the Matt Johnson's, and C.P.R. land lay to the north

During the winter Isaac worked in the mines at Nordegg to supplement the family income Food was always on the table, but there were no frills. All clothing was home-made from materials brought during the summer from Butte by Elizabeth's sister, Susan Rinda. The eldest daughter, Mary lived with Mrs. Rinda in Butte and visited the family during the summer when school was out

One by one, the daughters moved to Vancouver British Columbia and then to Seattle, Washington, U.S.A. In 1928 Isaac passed away and Elizabeth, with her youngest daughter, Allie, moved south to be with the rest of their

JOHN LUNDBERG

Born near Goteborg, Sweden, John attended elementary and secondary schools, graduating from the Folk School at the age of 14 at the head of his class. He apprenticed and worked as a baker in Goteborg from 1898 until 1903, and took part in a controversial strike, helping organize a baker's union

At age 20, in 1903, he journeyed to New York and thence to Chaboygan, Michigan, where he met another immigrant who was to become a life-long friend, Charlie Gustavson. The two then travelled to Portland Oregon, where they worked in the lumber yards and sawmills

John never became a U.S. citizen, although he signed a declaration of intention for citizenship He and Charlie became interested in the free homestead land available near Wetaskiwin Northwest Territories. They came up from Portland, Oregon on a homesteaders excursion in 1905

In Canada the two friends first worked on the Wetaskiwin Camrose railroad. They then travelled westward from Lacombe with a man and outfit hired for this purpose After days of travel over bad roads, they decided they would never find land as long as the man was being paid on a daily basis, so they set off on foot They walked from Lacombe to west of Bentley to the Lockhart district. John noticed that the stream through the promised land yielded fish and that potatoes could be grown on the hillsides. The land was registered in the Dominion Lands Office in Red Deer

A log house, with a sod roof was the first Canadian home. Charlie took out land on the northeast corner of Gull Lake

Hilda Johansen came out from the old home in Sweden and she and John were married on her arrival at Lacombe in 1906. Two boys, Okey and Bert were born here, and a daughter, Lisa

In 1912, when John heard of the village of Eckville 14 miles southwest, he loaded up potatoes and took them there to sell. Having dinner in the restaurant John learned that the owner planned to sell Mr Lundberg bought the property. He wanted to be near a school for his children. It was planned that Charlie would build a livery stable thus enabling the two to cater to all the travellers' needs

John later became a dealer in John Deere Implements and De Laval cream separators

While in Eckville and district from 1912 to 1950 this ingenious man became involved in many activities. He helped organize and operate the Co-operative store of which he was secretary for many years; the Wheat Pool also received his dedicated support. He was a member of the school board, the Rural Electrification Association, the Save the Soil campaign, the Lion's Club, the Modern Woodman and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federa

From 1914 until his death in 1950, he was a reporter for the Red Deer Advocate, using his weekly columns for local news and as a tool for the building of a good community

John Lundberg, along with Mike Sestrap built the telephone lines from Gilby to Eckville and into the Leedale and Kuusamo districts

none so much as when the two men stripped an waded into water to put in poles and weight their bases down with stones. Some insulators were na ed to trees

The switchboard was located in the hotel and consisted of a wall-type te ephone with a switchbox at the bottom containing five lines Clara Botten, working in the hotel, also operated it In 1918 the switchboard was moved to Dan Clausen's house and operated by Teressa, Clara's sister In the mid-thirties John Lundberg installed the new switch panel covering a large wall area in the new telephone building Starting in 1914, he was the telephone and lines trouble shooter for the district for many

The 'Mountain View' hotel was sold to Harry Low on November 1, 1918 because the entire community was anxious for a beer parlour but No way " said Mr Lundberg, would I raise my family under these conditions

He moved the family to the farm which he had purchased from John Heikkinen, three miles from Eckville. May 18, 1918. While here, the youngest child Lester was born in Red Deer On May 21, 192 he also purchased one quarter section across the road, west, belonging to John L. Harper for four thousand, four hundred dollars This was previously C P R land

Just before Christmas, 1918, Mrs. Lundberg Hilda passed away from peritonitis caused by a ruptured appendix. Roads were blocked with and the nearest doctor Dr DeLong was located in Red Deer Due to the great delay in the doctor's arrival at the farm, and the long trip with Hilda into the Red Deer hospital, the four children lost their mother She lived for 11 days and was buried in the Red Deer cemet cold winter's day

January 1, 1920. John married Ida Pearson of Cove, Washington, who became his helpmate un il his dea h

The cold in winter seemed more severe then than now because of the inadequate home heating facilities. This consisted of a wood-burning heater in the living room and the kitchen stove with the wood box beside it. Warm water came from the tank at the side of the kitchen stove This tank was called a reservoir

There were severe and damaging hail storms some summers, at a time when there was no in surance available, causing great hardship to those affected

The Lundberg children, except Lester attended the old Eckville school one mile north of Eckville This school was later moved into the village and used as a school there. Mrs. Bert Lundberg being the first teacher Later this old school became a church After this the children attended school in the village and Salma school east of the farm

John and Charlie purchased the first car a 1914 Model T Ford, in Red Deer The car had car bide lights. Driving home, west of Red Deer they were unable to put the car into high gear When they returned to Bottenheimer's garage where the car had been purchased, it was found that the emergency lever had not been let down to allow it to move into high, causing the engine to boil. While driving through the low grassy areas, in the early evenings, great interest was caused by the fireflies shooting off in all directions The children have memories of what seemed a long trip, into Red Deer and back to Eckville in those days. Many times they fell asleep during those trips. Overhauling and upkeep of the car was done by John himself as there were no local garages

The annual picnic was held on May 24 and was looked forward to by adults and children alike When it rained that day there were many sad ple people met and visited, children ran races for prizes. Ice cream was the cherished treat for all, and the day's celebrations wound up with a ball game at which the well-known local players were wildly cheered. A dance followed in the village ha

Annual Christmas concerts were attended by everyone for miles around The school children provided the program and each child present received a bag of treats and a present The centre of attraction in each school was the gaily decorated and huge Christmas tree, which was lit with many burning candles. Small children and babies were brought along and as the evening wore on they slept in various places at the sides of the stage, on benches or in any available was prepared by local women and served at the close of the concert A dance usually rounded out the evening's entertainment

The Lundberg children remember well the discussions engendered by the first World War as their father was an avid anti-war advocate He had many a heated debate with all and sundry as most people had accepted the propaganda prevalent then — that the war was for a good cause — without reference to the cost, in material and lives, of this holocaust. Lisa, the daughter remembers one such argument with a disagreement he spat forcefully and often on the ground, but one of these sputums landed in Lisa s hair. The child's mother was especially put out at this evident indication of bad manners.

The mode of transportation was with horse or horses and buggy in summer and bob sled or cutter and horses in winter. Straw and blankets were put in the sled for warmth and failing that family members got out and ran behind in order to stir up the circulation.

In winter and summer families visited one another by this manner and sometimes the adults played whist till morning and stayed for breakfast. The children played in the bedroom till exhausted.

The nearest hospital was at Red Deer although Eckville had a resident doctor, one of the first being Dr. Evans. Dentists pulled teeth without benefit of anaesthesia. During the 1918-1919 flu epidemic everyone wore masks over their nose and mouth to avoid the spread of viruses, but, even so, many people became seriously ill or died from this epidemic.

Farm power, on the homestead, was supplied by oxen, followed by the walking plow and the riding plow pulled by horses, and later the tractor. The children usually took forenoon and afternoon lunch to the father in the field, which they all partook of while he and the horses rested a bit.

The official language of the Eckville district was English but most of the settlers spoke Finnish. There was a sprinkling of Estonian and Swedish settlers.

The Lundberg children along with the Hill girls, Lymie and Lempi, took turns with the buggy or cutter and horse to school — about three miles. The horse, Roanie, had been a race horse earlier and would run fast if there was a child on horseback teasing him.

The drumming of the male partridge in the spring, in a thicket near the farm house, is well remembered, as are the lovely cowslips in a marsh close by. Also remembered is the rush and roar of the creek that flowed through the land across the road and the large violets which grew beside this same creek in the summer. There was also the fun the kids had sleigh riding down what seemed a steep hill by the house in winter. Seeing the hill since, it seems to have lost a lot of its steepness. We skated on the slough across the road and played in the hayloft.

In 1948 John Lundberg gave up active farming to devote himself to his other interests. He was a great lover of people and of nature and was always helping one or the other. He planted more than three thousand trees on his own place, and delighted in his garden.

He was a giver — not a receiver. He was profoundly convinced that the co-operative philosophy was the only sound way of living and devoted more than half a century to practicing and preaching that idea.

In 1927 arrangements were made through Herbert Greenfield, Premier of Alberta, and the C.N.R. for John to go to Sweden as an immigration officer. He held many meetings, where he spoke to groups of people explaining the opportunities in Canada. The trip was made in January by rail and the steamship "Drotningham".

After a visit with his family and completing his immigration duties, four young men returned to Alberta with him. They have made their homes here and have become good citizens of the country.

His life story was skilfully dramatized by Elsie Park in the CBC radio "Summerfallow" series.

The good works John Lundberg accomplished will keep his memory green for years to come.

LUNDBERG, Okey

Okey was born in May 1907 on the family homestead at Lockhart which is about 15 miles north and east of Eckville. His father was originally from Sweden and had settled on a rough hilly quarter section. He was of farm stock but found the life there very primitive and hard. He persuaded his sweetheart to join him and they were married and started their family.

Okey was the first born, but he remembered very little of the early life on the farm. The family bought the hotel at Eckville at the time the railroad was being laid through that area, so Mr. and Mrs. Lundberg were very busy people feeding the working crews.

Okey remembers feeling very lost when they moved to the tiny village. Not being able to speak English must have been the hardest part of the move for him. He soon learned however, and attended school first at the old school site north of the village and later in the village itself. He often spoke of Mr. Ludvig, his last teacher. He was a very stern disciplinarian and didn't hesitate to give his pupils a crack on the knuckles or a sharp rap on the head. He later told Okey's wife that he had been a very bad boy and was really surprised that he grew up to be such a

Okey, being the oldest of the family of four, was often expected to assist both his mother and dad.

Later they purchased a farm just a few miles out of Eckville and went back to farming. Mr. Lundberg was a man of very high principles and when it seemed necessary to run a beer parlor in conjunction with a hotel, he would have none of it, hence the move back to the farm.

On the farm Okey was his right hand man. His dad was always at the head of any progressive movement and was soon busy organizing the telephone lines in the area. He and Okey spent days putting up lines, climbing the poles, and all the chores necessary for the job. Around this time Mrs. Lundberg passed away leaving an infant boy to be raised. The family tried to manage as best they could until Mr. Lundberg married a lady from his homeland, Ida Sundberg who was willing to help him out.

Okey was attending school, but he also played in a band, help with the threshing crews at harvest time, and always with the milking at home. When he was only sixteen he went with a chum to the mountains to nail boxcar doors – a rough life in camp for a couple of youngsters. Even so Okey managed to get his first year in high school, but during the next year he spent so much time with the threshing crews that he couldn't pick up the grade ten work and so dropped out of school. In a year or two he attended short courses at the University and became a government cream inspector. He worked in Calgary and surrounding district. The creamery at Eckville had burnt, but when it was rebuilt, Okey became buttermaker under Mr. Bill Morris.

In 1928 he married a teacher in the district, Ruth Garries, from Bentley, and they built a small house on the outskirts of Eckville. It was an acre of land and they planted two rows of trees around it. These trees have made a lovely green spot on the edge of town and there are many houses built in their shade.

Okey was transferred to Lacombe where he became manager of the creamery there. His two children were born there, Oliver David in 1933 and Leslie Jean in 1936. While the children were still very small, Okey purchased the creamery in Rimbey and the family moved there. Okey built a freezer plant in conjunction with the creamery. His two children spent their early years in school in Rimbey. Those years in Rimbey were during the second world war and it was very hard to obtain good help. His business grew by leaps and bounds. Ruth helped all she could. She learned to grade eggs and to do the office work.

Meanwhile the Central Alberta Dairy Pool wanted Okey in their business, so shortly after the end of the war Okey sold his creamery and became manager of the home factory of the Dairy Pool at Alix.

At Alix, Okey managed a very large creamery, which made butter and printed it into pounds. They had huge freezers that received butter from other smaller Dairy Pool creameries and from creameries in ter for the Safeway stores in Western Canada.

Here Okey became involved in town affairs and for thirteen years was the mayor of Alix. While he was there, they installed both water and sewer and opened up an entire new area for the town's house building projects. He was also president of Central Alberta Hockey teams and president of the Central Alberta Boards of Trade and it was during his time in office that the Board of Trade organized the Cavalcade, first to Biggar, Saskatchewan and then to Saskatchewan crossing on the Banff-Jasper highway. This road was a mere trail in the mountains. They forded rivers and cut trees. It is now a broad, beautiful road, which cuts off many miles for central Alberta tourists.

Ruth was busy raising her family but for three years she taught a 4-H club of girls with great success. The first year two of the girls won a competition in Alberta, which permitted them to go to Toronto Winter Fair where they again won top spot for all of Canada for their sewing class. The second year two more girls won the chance to go again to the Winter Fair and again won honors for their cooking class.

In 1961, the Dairy Pool moved Okey to Calgary to take over their plant there. Here here was also a dairy which delivered milk all over the city and made ice cream which was sold all over Central Alberta.

In 1969, Okey suffered a severe heart seizure, followed by more heart trouble so that he was forced to retire.

In the meantime his son and daughter had married and had families. David married Betty Deen of Alix and they live in Drayton Valley, David working in the office for an oil company and Betty working most of her married life as a trained nurse in the Drayton Valley Hospital.

Leslie Jean married Clayton Lofstrand of Erskine and she and her husband lived at Whitecourt where they had three children. They are now divorced and Leslie and her baby daughter now live with her mother in Red Deer.

The families are as follows: David and Betty–Debra, Jacqueline and Sheryl. Leslie and Clayton–Leonard, Kim and Erin.

After Okey and Ruth sold their house in Calgary they moved to Vernon, B.C. where they built a house overlooking the beautiful Lake Kalamalka, but they were not to enjoy it for very long. Okey passed away quietly sitting in his chair on April 26, 1970.

His wife sold the house and is now living in a trailer in the "Pines" area in Red Deer.

LUNDBERG, BERTIL IVER

Bertil was born in the Lockhart district November 29, 1909 and at the age of three moved with the family to Eckville where his father and mother took over the restaurant and hotel. The first day in Eckville he got lost. There were three houses in Eckville besides the hotel, Forhan's, Dan Clausens, and Dr. Evans' and Bertil was used to there being only one.

During the time between 1912 and 1914, when the railway was being built, he remembers the large crews of workers that stopped for meals and overnight lodging. After the telephone was installed, quite often a call would advise him of 100 workers coming for dinner that day. His mother worked very hard — beautiful white tablecloths on long tables, laden with food prepared on a wood-burning stove; and what huge piles of wood were put up each winter to heat the rooms as well as for the cooking. One year's supply of wood required a great amount. John L., being a baker by trade, was able to do much of the baking for the restaurant.

Other memories of daily occurrences such as drunks falling asleep on the platform of the hotel. His father, being a strong man, would load them into a wheelbarrow and wheel them to the tracks where he would load them into an empty box car. Sometimes fights took place in the hotel, along with one gunfight, when the children hid under the table.

The children have a pleasant memory of going to sleep listening to strains of music coming from the room above, played by John Plathan on a violin or one of many other instruments. Or the C.N.R. foreman by the name of "Pinkie" standing on the corner on a cold winter night, singing his heart out.

One very fond memory was of going with Charlie Gustavson (who was like a big uncle) with his team and top buggy on various taxi errands throughout the country. One trip took a policeman to Gilby to try to subdue a boiler man who had gone berserk and was shooting from a little log shack just south of the Gilby bridge. Incidentally, he escaped through a back door into the brush and was never captured.

A regular guest of the hotel was "Foster", who hauled "His Majesty's Mail", and would put a bullet through the hat of anyone who would not give him the right-of-way. Another thought that comes to mind is of Benson, the "Rawleigh Man" in his carriage-type buggy and horses who carried his head with severe tilt to the right.

The horses belonging to the guests of the hotel were put up in Charlie Gustavsen's livery stable which proved that the thinking of John and Charlie worked out as planned.

Berthil attended school for three years in the old Eckville School a mile north of town. When they started to school Lisa, Okey and he could speak no English. Some of the teachers were Lillian Benedictson, Mrs. Quigley and Mrs. Kin

The highligh. of the early years was the annual trip to Banff. Starting from Eckville in the early morning hours, over ruts, corduroy roads, and the muskeg flats to Red Deer and south to Calgary over the winding prairie wagon trails, and after a stop for ice-cream in Calgary, west towards Banff proved to be quite a trip. He remembers a great mud hole between Calgary and Cochrane, where one was sure to get stuck, as there was no way around it. The neighboring farmer was always willing to pull you through for two dollars. His horse was always standing ready. It was later said that the farmer hauled barrels of water by night to maintain the mud hole for his own benefit.

Further west when you hit the mountains you must "sound claxton" on every curve, as the road was one car width and one vehicle would have to wait or back up to a wider spot in order to meet any oncoming car and have room to pass. Eventually you arrived at the park gate and later at the Homestead Hotel in Banff at about three in the morning. The year that registration of cars entering the park began, John Lundberg's car was the first car entered in the

In 1918 the hotel was sold to Harry and Anna E. Lowe and the Lundberg family moved to the farm, one mile north and two miles east of the town of Eckville. The children attended Salma school for two years. The John Earle Harper property across the road was purchased by J. L. Having, and in the Eckville school district entitled the children to go to the Eckville school. As this was their market place, it was more convenient that they go there.

In 1920 the new Eckville school was built. Henry Ludwig was the principal and Ida Thompson was the teacher. Okey, Lisa, Berthil Lundberg, and several others were the pupils.

After finishing school Bert helped on the farm until 1929. His father thought it best that he learn a trade, so he began working at Rocky Mountain House in the creamery making butter, under John Plathan, an old friend of the family. From there he moved to Rimbey to work for Central Creameries until 1935. Then he went to Innisfail where he worked for the Independent Creameries until 1941. The next move was to Red Deer for a few months in the Hepworth Creamery. At that time the Central Alberta Dairy Pool was going to open a new creamery and offered him the position of manager. Because of the co-operative teaching of his father, he accepted. During this time the plant where he worked won many prizes at the agricultural fairs for the excellent butter submitted. Shortly afterward the egg and live poultry departments were opened, followed by the eviscerating department, and finally the canners of Farmgold poultry. This covered a period of twenty years of research and expan

In 1962 Bert was transferred from these departments to the department of packaged goods, which entailed considerable travelling for the Central Alberta Dairy Pool (Alpha Milk) over the prairie provinces, British Columbia and Northwest Territories. His last assignment was the opening of new territory in Washington and Oregon U.S.A. to sell Alpha honey. On April 15, 1968, the morning of the last meeting to be held in Seattle before shipping was to begin, Bert suffered a stroke and was forced into retirement.

After a partial recovery from the paralysis he rebuilt and winterized his cottage in the summer village of Norglenwold, on Sylvan Lake. At present (1977) Bert is restoring a Model A Ford car, as well as enjoying his yard and flowers.

Each summer the family consisting of Beryl (California), Georgie (Ontario), Earle (Edmonton) and their children spend holidays with their parents, Bert and his wife (Gladys Jones) who was the first primary room teacher in the Eckville school.

Bert, like his sister, sadly thinks about all the members of the family who have passed on — mother in 1918, Father in 1936, Stepmother in 1962, Okey in 1970 and Lester in 1973

LUNDBERG, LESTER — 1918-1973

Lester, the youngest member of the Lundberg family was born on March 9, 1918, when the family was living on their farm. When he was nine months old his mother passed away, making it necessary for his father to get someone to care for the baby. Along with having a housekeeper part of the time, Lester stayed at Nielsons in the Evarts area, and for a longer period of time with the Bolton family in Diamond Valley. He was brought home when his father remarried in 1920.

Lester went to school in Eckville, on a bicycle in summer and horseback in winter. Like a farm children, he helped with the chores and drove horses and farm equipment. Whenever they could arrange it, he and Gilbert Gustavson could be seen packing their guns to hunt gophers or, in season, game birds. As he grew older the farm duties took more and more of his time.

One of the pleasant memories the family has is Lester's humorous side. He saw the funny side of most things in life,and and wherever there was a group of people he had them splitting their sides with laughter.

Lester married Mary Toonen, a local girl, on November 22, 1937 and they took over the farming operations. His father and mother moved west, across the road to the Harper quarter where Mr. Lundberg had built a modern new home.

Two sons were born to Lester and Mary. Jack on December 23, 1938 and Stanley on November 21, 1944. Mary and he worked very hard on the farm. They milked several cows and began building up a herd of Holstein cattle. In 1946 Lester decided he would like to learn a trade. They sold the farm to Mary's brother Jake and his Scottish war bride, Agnes. The equipment and livestock were sold at an auction sale. That was a sad day for a certain neighbor child — it meant no more delicious home-made ice cream.

Lester and his family stayed with his sister in Calgary while he attended technical school, studying mechanics. On completion of the course he managed to serve two years on the Fort Saskatchewan Town Council.

For recreation Lester and the boys were ardent curlers, and won many trophies at various bonspiels. Lester also loved horse racing. Mary and he went to Calgary and Edmonton and to Phoenix every year to attend the races. Incidentally he did very well at the races. Another sport he enjoyed was fishing. Many weekends they went north with their camper and boat. Long-standing friends, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Yeo (an Eckville barber of the early days), were often companions on their excursions.

Lester suffered from diabetes for many years and at the early age of 55 years he passed away on September 16, 1973 from heart failure.

Mary is now living in an apartment in Fort Saskatchewan and spends her time travelling, or with various activities with her many friends and grandchildren.

John (Jack) married Lynne Hietland on December 24, 1969. They have two children. Lori was born August 12, 1970, and Dean was born March 25, 1972.

Stan married Donna Luckyfassel on April 9, 1966. Their three children are Jeff, born March 2, 1969, Jody, born February 26, 1971, and Sheryl born August 24, 1973.

LEVI MARSHALL LUTZ FAMILY by Jean [illegible]

Born in Westmorlin County, New Brunswick of Pennsylvania Dutch ancestry, on March 25 1874, Levi Marshall Lutz worked during his youth in construction work in lumber camps in Maine U.S.A.

At the age of 13 years he picked up the habit of chewing tobacco — a habit which was to remain with him all of his years. At one time in his later life, one of his sons, Albert, and a grandson Donald Hansen, calculated that through the years he had chewed his way through enough plugs of tobacco that, if placed end to end, they would measure 13 miles!

On February 6, 1907 he married Grace Alma Brown, born October 9, 1888 in Petitcodiac, New Brunswick. A son, Lee, was born on October 1 1907 in New Brunswick. In 1908 the family moved to Fernie, B.C., where Levi worked as a carpenter, and while there he helped rebuild the town, which had been levelled by fire. Here another son, Arthur, was born on January 1 1909, followed by a daughter, Hazel, on September 10, 1910.

In 1912 the family moved to Irvine, Alberta where Levi filed on a homestead. There the rest of the family were born. Ethel on January 21, 1913, George on September 8, 1914, Clarence on May 28, 1916, Myrtle on June 15, 1918, Albert on November 24, 1919, Wilfred on January 22, 1922 and Jean on December 21, 1924.

During this time many hardships assailed the family, such as drought and sickness. As a result, Lee passed away in 1918 at the age of 11 years, and Myrtle in January, 1919, at the age of six months

In 1925, with the help of a government agent and was located in the Benalto and Eckville areas for many drought-stricken farmers on the prairies. Two box cars were allotted each family with which to move to these new locations. In these all possessions were loaded. Any animals or machinery for which there was no room were left behind beside the railroad tracks. Upon returning later Levi found the horses that had been left behind, but they were now wearing someone else's brand, so possession was never regained.

Thus, on a cold rainy October evening the family arrived by C.P.R. in Eckville. Horses were harnessed and the wagons were reloaded. The family, with the exception of Ethel, who had gone to live with an aunt in Winnipeg, proceeded to a two-room house on the Medicine River two miles south of Eckville. This was located on land owned by John Armstrong. Upon arrival at the house it was found that no one had remembered to bring matches with which to light a fire, but Mrs. Armstrong (fondly known as "Kit") arrived on the scene, riding her fine horse "Headlight", and soon had the family warm, fed and settled for the night.

In the spring of 1926 the house on the NE 10-39-3-W5 was vacated, and the family settled in on the land, also owned by John Armstrong, for which they were originally destined. Besides this quarter of land Levi rented and farmed the quarter east and another quarter southeast of the quarter on which the buildings were located. This property is now owned by the Herbert John family.

As was the custom on the prairies, the family planted a huge garden in the spring of 1926, never realizing that the yield would be many times over what had previously grown on the prairie. This feat brought many chuckles from neighbors, but, at the same time, filled many tables both at home for the family and for friends and neighbors.

During these years Levi not only farmed, but did carpenter work for other people. Much time was spent in clearing land, from which he cut, sawed, split and sold wood. Huge wood piles, wherever he lived, kept many families besides his own warm and comfortable. Working at building and maintaining roads also helped pay taxes and supplement the family income.

In 1929 Levi bought the SE 16-39-3-W5 from E. M. Matchett, this land being immediately south of the town of Eckville. He did not take possession until the fall of 1930. This quarter at this time was occupied by the Hans Broderson family, who then moved each of the town of Sylvan Lake. During this year the family recalls picking pails of saskatoons on this newly-purchased land. Every afternoon any family member who was assigned other chores took two milk pails to fill to the top with berries and return home in time for the evening milking.

After moving to this new location Levi farmed portions of NE 16-39-3-W5, owned by W. H. Cowan, and also farmed the NW 16-39-3-W5, belonging to Mrs. Sharron, daughter of E. M. Matchett. This quarter, which is divided by the C.N.R. is now almost completely included, on the north of the railroad, in the town of Eckville. The remainder is owned by Ewart McDonald.

On the road beside the buildings on the home place was a steep hill, referred to as "Matchett's Hill" which was famous for its excellence as a place to go sleigh riding in winter. This sport was enjoyed by everyone.

During these many years Grace Lutz was an active member of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, and during the depression years every transient who knocked on their door was fed. Anyone traveling with horses, without a place to sleep, always found shelter and food for himself and his animals.

As tractors began replacing horse power on the farms in the early 1940's, Levi purchased a tractor and later a grain separator and threshed grain for farmers for many miles around. For several years, during the war, Levi farmed the Merriman land directly east of Eckville. After the war he reduced the amount of land he farmed, but continued to help two of his sons, Clarence and George, who had returned from the army and had started farming. In 1956 he sold the home quarter to his son-in-law, Ivar Ophus, but continued to reside there until his passing in August, 1958, at the age of 85 years. Grace passed away in February, 1959, at the age of 71 years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lutz are laid to rest in the Eckville Cemetery.

ARTHUR LUTZ FAMILY — by Jean Ogilvie

Arthur Lutz was born in Fernie, B.C. on January 1 1908. He moved with his parents to the Irvine, Alberta area, and then to Eckville in October of 1923. He attended school at Irvine and for a short time in Eckville.

For several years he worked for the Moro Brothers in their flour mill in Eckville. During the war he worked in the North, hauling freight on the Alaska Highway. After the war he bought gravel on many roads being built in Central Alberta. Winters were spent hauling logs and lumber in the west country. When rural electrification came to Alberta he hauled poles for powerline construction in many parts of Alberta.

Arthur married Julia Bromling and they had eight children. They are Lesh, now married to Eddy Kasha (twins), Monty and Ha.., Hal is married to Linda Lipka), Clara, married to Donald Lockwood. Shelly married to Edwin Engen. Darcy, married to Donna Renaud. Deanna and Kerry still at home.

In 1963 Art decided to try his hand at farming. For a time he rented land, and then purchased the SW 35-39-3-W5. He then moved from the town of Eckville to this land where he continued farming his own land and several rented quarters until his death in December 1975.

At the time of his passing, Art still had a crew power lines and fencing right-of ways.

Arthur was an ardent hunter and fisherman. He was of a quiet disposition, but his ready smile and quick laugh as well as his love of playing cards (a pastime at which he spent many many hours) will long be remembered by his many friends.

LUTZ, ALBERT AND IRMA — by Jean Ogilvie

Albert Lutz was born at Irvine, Alberta on November 23, 1919 and came to the Eckville area with his family in October, 1925. His school years were all spent in Eckville and after leaving school he went to the West coast where he worked at various jobs until enlisting in the Royal Canadian Engineers in 1939. After completing his basic training he went overseas and saw active combat duty in Belgium and France.

After returning from the army in 1946 Albert spent several years doing carpenter work in and around Eckville. Winter employment was found in the lumber camps west of Rocky Mountain House.

In August, 1946 he married Irma Turner whose home was in Burnaby, B.C. After living in Eckville for several years they moved to Red Deer and Albert went to work as a maintenance man at the R.C.A.F. base at Penhold, a position he still held at the time of his death in December, 1971, at the age of 52 years.

During his years after the war Albert was an active member of the Elks Lodge and made many friends throughout central Alberta through his association with the Lodge.

LUTZ, WILFRED HERBERT

Wilfred Herbert Lutz was born at Irvine, Alberta, on January 21, 1922. In 1925 he came to the Eckville district with his parents, brothers and sisters.

He attended school at Eckville, completing Grade 10. During his years on the farm Bill enjoyed riding horses and even now living in the city, he often rides just for relaxation. After leaving school he worked for a time in the co-op butcher shop, drove trucks for Bill MacDonald, Ed Needham and Harry Brooks, hauling freight, machinery, grain, cattle, or anything there was to be hauled. He also worked for a short time in a lumber camp. He worked for Watson Construction during the building of the Trans-Canada Highway at Golden, B.C. and in the construction of irrigation ditches in southern Alberta. He worked for Lambs in Saskatchewan and various parts of Alberta.

In July 1957 he married Harriet Benson, who was matron of the Eckville Municipal Hospital. They later moved to Calgary after a short time in Sundre, and they still reside there.

For several years Bill owned his own gravel truck, but he is now employed by C. G. Brown Construction Ltd.

Bill and Harriet have two children, Karen and Grant. Both children are still at home and are attending school.

MacDONALD, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM (BILL) — by Dr. Kay MacDonald

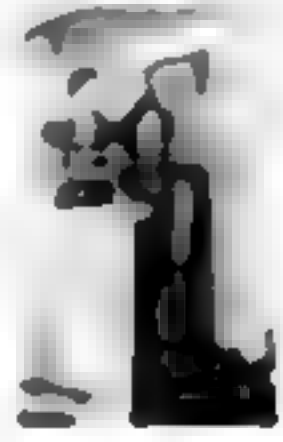
Mr. and Mrs. William (Bill) MacDonald arrived in Eckville in 1926. Their daughter, Kay (Kathleen), was born in 1928.

Mother had the first orchestra, with Mrs. Findlay, Later Joe Shilley, Walter Hogtune, and Mr. Clausen played for many wedding dances. Mother taught music to many of the children of the community, and also taught school.

Dad had a trucking company and carried the mail for years on the rural routes numbers one and three. He also had a small farm near



Hespero, and one west and north of Gilby. He loved horses and Aberdeen cattle, which he had at the time of his sudden death

A snowmobile was used for transporting the mail on his mail routes and also for frequently taking Dr Coppock on his winter calls

Both mother and dad loved hunting and I can still remember Sunday mornings, going out to hunt birds north of Eckville

Dad was drowned in the Horseguard River in [redacted] flood waters. He was only 48 years old at the time of his passing

Mother passed away on April 7, 1948, also at the age of 48 years. Both are buried in the Eckville cemetery

Our home, which dad built in Eckville, is still standing, and belongs to the Presbyterian [redacted]

THE MATTHEW MAKI FAMILY by [redacted]

Matt Maki arrived in Central Alberta in 1911 coming from the United States. At the age of 12 years he had come to the United States with his uncle He worked and remained in the United States for 17 years, returning to Finland in 1905 and a while later married and settled down to farming there. A few years later he returned to the United States and found his old buddies getting ready to come to Canada, so he joined them

They all came to Rocky Mountain House and Matt took up a homestead there A year later he had a chance to buy two parcels of land, left from the young men who had gone to the Boer War in Africa and had not returned. This was called Script land, and was available only to a homesteader, who could buy it for $1.00 per acre if he had proved up on his own homestead. All this land was low and muskeg, which had to be ditched

Dad ditched his homestead and broke one hundred acres the first two years with his four oxen and walking plow. He seeded all this land into timothy hay and it grew for years to come He had built a one-room log house, a log barn, dug a well and was quite established when, in 1913, he decided to send for his family from Finland, which consisted of mother and we three children, John, Saimi and myself Hilja). We learned later that mother didn't take kindly to the new home, but she tried and worked hard to make a home there. They added another room to the house and got cows and small animals, pigs, chickens, and so forth. By now Dad had a team of horses and got more later

Two children were born in Rocky Mountain House—Rannar and Helvie. In 1917 the family moved to the Eckville area, two miles west of town. Dad wanted higher land where he could raise grain, and everyone was happy with the move. Dad's first crop in Eckville was 30 acres of wheat and 10 acres of oats. He cut all the sloughs for hay and, with the oats, had plenty for their five cows and horses The creek banks were cut with a scythe. Before leaving his farm at Rocky Mountain House dad had cut big pine logs for a house and barn on the new place. He hauled them home, one wall at a time, the following winter Both buildings are still standing, and in good shape. 60 years later

Eckville was starting to grow, it had several business places, store creamery and a school for us children. The first winters it was hard for the smaller ones to get to school as it was so bitterly cold. The school was moved to the village and a new two-room school was built which we all enjoyed. The first year in Eckville, John then 10 years old had a nasty accident. A horse kicked him in the face. There was no doctor near so Dad rushed to town The druggist, Mr O Forhan advised John's going to Red Deer for a doctor's care He phoned Fritz Kinna, who had the only car around, and away they went Mr Forhan attended to John the best he could, as he was bleeding badly Dad went along, and also Mr Clausen the postmaster, in case they had to push the car through the mud holes

Eventually there were eight children in our family Uy was born in August of 1917 Reino on October 1, 1919, and Ray on July 12 1922. By now we older ones were good farm hands and we all had to work hard. The girls worked in the fields as well as milking cows

Our mother was a quiet woman, and a home loving type. She had to work hard and in the winter evenings she would knit mittens and socks until far into the night. She sewed everything we wore when we were young, but always had time to feed anyone who came around at mealtime She was a strong woman, as most women had to be, in order to take all the hardships of pioneer life Leaving everything behind back home in Finland and starting from scratch, almost and weathering depression times, she still managed a smile and said, "Things will be better " She enjoyed going to the odd picnic, the neighbors gathered at Wood Lake at least every June 24, and the U F A and U F W A usually had an outing at some farm which everybody in the community attended These were fun times, as were also the Christmas concerts The Finnish Christmas concert and dance was held at the home of one of our neighbors—Jack Hiltala—because the upstairs in their house was one big room, a hall, you might say Later, when the Liberty Hall was built, the picnics and dances were held there This was about 1924 We used to go there in the wintertime with a team and bob sleigh, all bundled up, and later on cars became popular so that made traveling nicer

As the years passed we children went away to work and later on to other places and provinces Saimi went to Vancouver B.C in 1933. I followed her in 1934 and John and Helvie came in 1936 John worked in the Britannia Beach mines. By then Saimi had married August Veinman and I had married William Sjoblom

In 1939 Dad had taken ill and passed away in July of that year We all came home and John stayed home to help with the farming,as the farm had grown much larger because dad had been able to acquire more land from time to time In October of 1939 tragedy struck again when Saimi and August Veinman lost their two and-a-half year old son

War had broken out and the young men were getting nervous. Reino got his call for the armed forces in 1940, and he was overseas for five years. John was in the army for four years, with some harvest leaves to help Rannar and Ray, who were doing the farming

In the spring of 1940 Hilja and Bill Sjoblom moved from Vancouver to a farm in the Eckville district, with their two small girls, Helen, four years old and Katherine, one year old. Their son Allan was born in 1941 Helen, now Mrs Bergeson has six children. David, Wesley, Randy, Verlynn, Karen and Gary She and her husband keep busy on their farm near Bentley Their son David is married to Pat St Jean and they have a daughter Teja, born in 1977 This gives the Bill Sjoblums a great-granddaughter Katherine, now Mrs. Kubbernus, lives in Calgary, where her husband, Leon. is foreman of a tin-smith shop. Both Kay and Leon are regularly participate in these sports at Banff and other areas. They are members of the Alpine Mountain Climbers organization. Bill and Hilja lived on their farm north of Eckville for 36 years before their retirement In 1976 they bought a home in Eckville where they, along with their son Allan now live

In addition to the son which they lost, Saimi and August Veinman had one daughter Lorraine. They left Vancouver and moved to Seattle. Washington, U.S.A. after the war Lorraine became a registered nurse and later married Fred Ewing She now has seven children The Fred Ewing family now resides in Edmonds, Washington

Helvie married Ted Hagkull in 1939 Their four sons are Ronald, of St. Paul, Robert of Chilliwack, Ramon of Chilliwack and Roger of Hope, B.C. Helvie and Ted are living in Chilliwack B.C.

Ily married Arnold Matthews in 1945. They farmed in the Gilby district until their retirement to Eckville in 1974. Arnold passed away in 1975, and Ily continues to live in her home in Eckville

Reino married Margaret Koskela after returning from overseas. They with their son, Rick reside in Vancouver

Ray married Jennie Sutherland in 1944 and they have three girls. Trudy married Ivan Houston and they have three children, Krister Tyler, and Pamela. They live on a farm near Eckville. Barbara married Kenneth Ryan of New Westminster B.C. Joan married Kenneth Bly of Edmonton. They have one son, Shane

Rannar married Geneva Dockes and they have two sons. Kenneth, now of Calgary is married, but has no children Donald, also living in Calgary, is married and has two children Rannar and Geneva now live in Drayton Valley Alberta

In 1951 Mother had a pleasant surprise when her sister came to visit her from Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A. They had not seen each other for 35 years. In May, 1952 mother took ill and passed away in June

MAKI, RAY

Ray Maki, the youngest of the Matt Maki family was born on July 12, 1921 He was raised on the farm just west of Eckville. As one of a family of eight, he developed a good sense of humor and a willingness to help anyone in need

On March 29, 1944, he married Jennie Sutherland of Rocky Mountain House. who had been working in the Eckville Hospital since 1939 They farmed a half section, the SW 19-39-3-W5 and the NE 24-39-4-W5, neighboring the Maki home place.

Ray and his brother John had an additional quarter SE 18-39-3-W5, which they jointly owned for pasture

Ray and Jennie built up the farmsite, starting with the house in 1945 and the barn in 1947 They raised three daughters, Trudy, Barbara and Joan

On December 25, 1966. Ray passed away at the age of 46 years

Trudy married Ivan Houston in 1967 They farm in the Gimlet district north of Eckville Trudy and Ivan have three children. Krister Tyler and Pamela

Joan married Ken Bly in 1974. They have one son, Shayne, and live in Edmonton

Barbara Mrs. Ken Ryan, of Vancouver was married in 1975. They have one daughter born December 27, 1977 Jennifer Rae is named for both her maternal grandparents

Jennie was remarried. to Elwood Averill in 1970. They farm in the Happy Hill district south of Eckville

MANN, HAROLD, MAE, AND FAMILY

Harold S. Mann was born in Exmouth Devon England. His father was in the Salvation Army at the time they came to Alberta in the spring of 1905. They were living in Edmonton when Alberta became a province

The family moved around often, as Harold's father was a minister They really had no "home town" Harold took his last two years of high school at Alberta College, which is now St Stevens, in Edmonton He later completed two years correspondence work from Queen's University He taught school west of Bowden on a permit for a semester before being accepted as a bank employee when an opening occurred

In 1925 Harold was transferred to the bank in Sylvan Lake, and in that year he and Mae decided to get married

In 1927 the bank decided to open a sub-branch in Eckville, so Harold was assigned to come to Eckville two or three times a week to handle the business. When he didn't come, Mr Fred Appleton, the Sylvan Lake bank manager came, theoretically, to check up on business They had a little wire teller's cage, a desk and a counter in a small office north of the lumber yard (which is now Carrick Hardware.) Mr Colpitts, a lawyer, also shared this office, which later became a doctor's office They used to go across the street to the hotel for lunch, which always had the same menu. However at that time the CNR train went west on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and the train crew always ate at the hotel, too. There was always a fresh roast for

There was a tiny safe in the bank but nothing was left there overnight When Harold and the junior clerk went for lunch, one carried bills and the other the silver and of course one of them had a gun

Mr and Mrs. Mann moved into the bank living quarters — four tiny rooms — with three children and another one on the way, when a full time bank was opened in Eckville in 1930 Mr Mann was made manager, at this time being only 32 years of age

Mr Mann was transferred to Winnipeg in 1948 and we were there for four years. However, Harold missed his farmer customers and we all missed Alberta so Harold asked for a transfer back to Alberta. We moved to Athabasca in 1951 and to Medicine Hat in 1957 We thought we had reached our "Happy Hunting Grounds" for sure and intended to retire in Medicine Hat Well, the best laid plans go awry (as Robbie Burns wrote and ours certainly did Harold died on November 18, 1964, after having worked for 42 years without sick leave and at the age of three or four years my family moved to the United States, where we lived for a few years. In 1912 we moved to Alberta My high school education was obtained in Didsbury but after I began teaching I was there only during the summer holidays. Later my father moved to the west coast, so I had no place I could call home. I love Nova Scotia, and have been back to visit there several times

I guess Eckville can be called my background, as we were there for 17 years, and our three youngest children were born there Two older boys finished school there Some of those years were pretty rugged. Wouldn't it be awful to go back to keeping house without running water and electricity! Our big entertainment was to go to Red Deer and spend 50 or 60 cents for dinner at the Club Cafe and 40 cents each for a show ticket. When I didn't have a girl to help in the house I had to hire a baby-sitter for 35 cents. (Big deal!) Sometimes we'd splurge after the show for a milk shake 15 cents each. We were supposed to be well-to-do bankers

One thing that I felt was a sacrifice, but one which we were willing to make, was burning so much wood, in the bank and at home because we felt that we should buy the wood from the farmers. It would have been easier to burn coal but none of the bank customers was a miner

Our oldest son, Avard, is a meteorologist and has been supervisor of weather services for Alberta, Yukon Territory and part of the North West Territories since 1958. He resides in Ed

Lance, the second son, is also with the weather service and is a radio sound technician on the weather ship, "Vancouver" He likes being at sea He is out for seven weeks and on shore for five weeks. He and his family live in Victoria

Mary lives in Penawa, Manitoba, which is the town for atomic research establishment She works in the hospital admitting office. Her name is now Peterson, and she has two boys and one girl

Fleur, the youngest daughter has recently moved to Prince George from Toronto. Her husband is the manager of McLeods store. They have three daughters. Her name is now Beliske

WILLIAM HENRY AND ELIZABETH JANE PRICE) MANNIX

William (Billie) and Elizabeth Mannix came to homestead the NW 14-40-6-W5, in the Bingley district on October 22, 1906 from Okotoks, Alta With them came William Joseph, born Feb. 26 1903 and Mabel Jane, born May 8, 1905. Norris Alberta was born Sept 26, 1908

Billie worked for Martin and McDougall Sawmill the winter of 1906-07 The mill was situated on the west side of the NE 3-40-6 W5. For many years he supplemented his farm income by sawing wood around the country with a buzz saw covering the area from Lesliеville to Sylvan Lake

They later bought and moved to a C.P.R. quarter SE 23-39-4-W5. three miles west of Eckville, and lived there until 1920 when they sold to Frank Bolton

The children, Joe and Mabel, started school in 1911 by walking five miles to the Beaver Flats school. In 1912 the farmers laid corduroy across the swamp and built a bridge across the Last Hill Creek, Horseguard River which could be used only on foot or saddle horse. That made it two miles closer to school for children travelling that

From the C P R quarter they moved south of Withrow where they lived until 1923, when they moved to Salmon Arm, B.C

William Joseph, Norris Alberta, and Mabel Jane Mason about 1909

William Joseph married Vera Merle Pendergast June 2, 1934. They have five children and reside at Sylvan Lake

Mabel Jane married Chester Mason in 1918. They had eight children. Mabel died in 1960. Chester in 1970.

Norris Alberta married Helen Jacobson in 1941. They have two girls and reside in Calgary.

William Henry died Feb. 8, 1935 and is buried at Lesueville.

Elizabeth Jane died Jan. 4, 1960 and is buried at Rocky Mountain House.

MR. AND MRS. BILL MARKS

Bill Marks arrived in Eckville on October 9, 1927, just past his 19th birthday, to take over the barbershop and poolroom. This was located in the hotel and had recently been vacated by Irvine Palmer, who had moved to Bentley. In February of 1928, Bill was married to Georgina Robertson, of Red Deer, who was then working in the hotel dining room. They moved into a suite over the post office, on Main Street. Sometime between then and June, they moved to a small house opposite the old Co-op Store, now owned by the Pat Hovens. This was a rather fortunate move, because on the last Sunday night of June 1928, fire destroyed one block on the east side of Main Street. Mr. Morris had arrived in Eckville that day, to take over the management of the creamery, and was staying at the hotel. He mentioned quite often that he sure got a warm reception at Eckville.

The barber chair was saved, and Bill set up shop on the stage of the community hall, which "Happy", the Chinese man, purchased and converted into a restaurant, having lost his in the fire. Mike Sestrap put up a building to the south of this, and it housed the barbershop and poolroom on the south side and the post office on the north side. Dan Clausen put up a new building back on the east side, and Bill and [illegible] opened up the Jiffy Lunch in the part vacated by Dan.

Bill Jr. was born in January of 1930 in the house just east of their house, which was operated as a nursing home by a Mrs. Porter (Mrs. Joe Marshall's mother). There was no hospital in Eckville at that time. The doctor was Dr. Sommerville.

Lighting for the barbershop and poolroom was first by gasoline lamps, then gasoline burners (mantles) with a gasoline pressure tank outside and piped into the burners. The next improvement was a 32-volt lighting plant, followed by electricity from August Moro's plant at fifty cents a K.W., and finally by Calgary Power.

Recreation was mainly baseball, badminton and dancing. Curling was added, as soon as the curling rink was built. Eckville had one of the best baseball teams in the district, helped, no doubt, by second baseman Freddie Bardenhagen, who used to "doctor" the baseballs for pitchers Carl and Art Raabis.

Bill and Georgie sold the barbershop in 1940 and the Jiffy Lunch in 1942, when Bill joined the R.C.A.F. At this time Georgie and Bill Jr. moved to Sylvan Lake. After Bill's discharge from the service they operated an electrical shop at Sylvan Lake for approximately 29 years. They have now retired, but are still living in Sylvan Lake

MARSHALL, JOSEPH T. — by Mrs. Laura Marshall

Joseph T Marshall was born October 1886 He emigrated from Armagh, North Ireland to Toronto in 1909. Having had training as a druggist he was able to secure a job there working for Timothy Eaton in the drug department of the store for three years. In 1912 he and a cousin the late Charles Rolston, also a druggist, decided to heed the slogan "Go West, young man, go west and grow up with the country." From Toronto they worked their way westward, stopping off at many places, until they reached Sylvan Lake The C.N.R. had just been built through this area in the fall of 1911

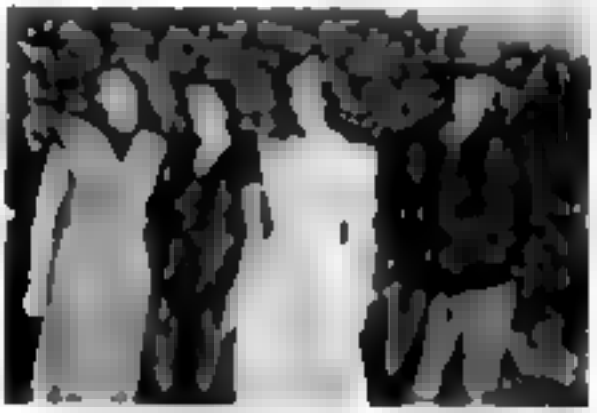
In Sylvan Lake they built and operated a drug store, later branching out into groceries and dry goods. In the fall of 1919 they sold out this business, Joe taking off for the "Ould Sod for a holiday (Charles Rolston returned to Toronto with his wife, but they were soon back to Alberta where they opened a store in Rimbey

Joe returned to Canada in May 1920, this time ending up at Eckville. I might add here, that the snow was on the ground when he left Red Deer in October, 1919, and was still on the ground upon his return in May, 1920 Many will remember the hard, long winter of '19 and '20. At about this time Bill Cowan's first wife had died and Bill had taken the body east for burial. Joe was engaged to manage the Cowan's Hardware Store while Bill was away

In the fall of 1920 Joe built his own store and operated it as "Marshall's Hardware and Dry Goods" Ably assisted by his wife, he continued in this business in the same location until his retirement in 1964, when he sold the business to Art Moench. A period of 44 years in the same business at the same place testifies to Joe's success in the venture

In 1928 he married Miss Laura Porter of Condor They had a family of three daughters — Mavis, (who passed away in 1975), Maureen, and Josephine. Mavis and Josephine received their R N. from Holy Cross in Calgary and Maureen became a secretary and bookkeeper

Joe served the town of Eckville in many capacities. When the village was incorporated in 1921 Joe, along with Bill McHattie and Clare Crosbie, made up the first village council, and Joe is now the only surviving member of this council. Off and on through the years he served many terms as a council member He also served on the local school board for several terms and was for one term on the Eckville Mutual Telephone Board. For nineteen consecutive years he was a member of the local hospital board



In 1971 Joe was honored by the town and was presented by Miss Helen Hunley (M.L.A with a plaque for dedicated service to the town of Eckville He is still alert, and is interested in local activities as well as provincial and federal politics. He reached his 90th birthday in the fall of 1976. He and his wife, Laura, are enjoying their retirement in their home in Eckville

THE E. M. MATCHETT FAMILY — by Gladys Matchett Turner

My father and mother Mr and Mrs. E. M Matchett, along with my two brothers, Ralph and Edward, and myself, moved from St Thomas, Ontario to Red Deer about the year 1902 or 1903, where we lived for about a year and a half My father and two brothers took homesteads and my sister, who lived in the East bought a C.P.R. quarter on the banks of the Horseguard creek. My uncle, Mr Ralph Brown and family settled on a homestead about two miles west and a Mr James McFaul and family a little farther on. Later my brother Ed sold his quarter to the C P R. for the town-site of [illegible].

Mr and Mrs. J Carney and family lived to the east on the Medicine River They moved to Dutton, Montana – I don't remember the date. Dorcas Brown married Paul Pyklet. She is now living in Kansas, U.S.A Theresa Brown married Lewis Fitch and lived at Rocky Mountain House She passed away in 1976

I believe the first teacher when the school was north of the town was Miss Fenerty, from the Maritimes. She boarded with a cousin, Mrs Killick, at old Eckville Amy Richardson, another teacher, stayed with the Eckfords. Agnes Hampton and Miss McMann stopped with mother

I believe Dr Evans was the first doctor He later moved to Didsbury In the winter we had dances at different homes, sometimes driving as [illegible] McFaul and Albert Armstrong played the violin Later, when the hall was built, the dances were held there My husband played the piano and helped out We had skating parties on a slough on my dad's farm and on the Medicine River at the Carney's. In the winter my brother hauled fence posts from a tamarack swamp west and a little south of the town. In early days there were quite a few prairie fires, which were frightening, as well as hail storms

MATTHEWS, FELIX AND ETHEL — by Ethel Matthews

Felix Maynard Matthews was born November 24, 1909 on the homestead SW 28-40-3 W5 now owned by Walter Andrew He was the fourth child of Adam and Anna Matteus. He attended Andrews school until his parents bought NW 17-40-3-W5; then he attended Estonian school. When his brother was teaching Gaetz school he went to school there for a year

Felix and his brother farmed in the Bow Island, Alberta district for several years, returning to Eckville in 1930. He was married to Ethel Lutz on December 23, 1931

Ethel was born in Irvine, Alberta on January 1913 and went to school in Irvine, and Winnipeg, Manitoba She arrived in Eckville in April of 1928. She worked in Red Deer Edmonton and Eckville prior to her marriage. Clifford Arthur was born in Eckville on January 8, 1933

The family moved to Rimbey in March of 1933. Grace Iona was born there on October 16 1935. They returned to the Gilby district in 1937 to the SE 17-40-3-W5, which they had purchased before moving to Rimbey As there were only 15 acres broke, they set to work with grub hoes and axes to clear the rest of the land. To earn a little cash Felix played drums in an orchestra with Mrs William MacDonald and Archie Cun ningham for a dollar a night Felix was also a mechanic and helped the neighbors to keep their cars and tractors running

Jean Arlene was born in Eckville on October 16, 1944, and Beverly Elaine on March 11 1946

In 1944-1945 Felix operated a Caterpillar for Murry Construction, loading gravel for the roads in the M.D of Red Deer, M D of Lacombe, and the Local Improvement District In 1946 Felix bought a TD9 International tractor and worked at gravelling roads He also had a backhoe with which he dug basements and put in sewer lines in Eckville and farm sewer systems He also worked for Calgary Power with a pole-hole digger digging holes for power lines in several districts in Alberta In 1950 Felix, Ethel and family moved to the town of Eckville, renting the farm to Arnold Matthews, who later bought the land. Felix sold out in 1966 and spent a year in Vancouver

Clifford is married to Dorothy Engen and they have two children, Nolan and Gwen. Iona is married to Herbert Ojs and they have four children Ian Lorne, Laureen and John. Arlene was married to Robert Wise and had two girls, Roberta and Rhonda. She is now married to Gerald Heft and they have two children, Brian and Tracey Beverly is married to Vincent Bowker and their two children are Wanita and Vincent

Felix passed away October 13, 1971 and is buried in the Gilby cemetery. Ethel is now living in Granisle B.C

MATTHEWS, ROBERT (BOB) AND EILEEN — by Eileen Matthews

Robert Eugene, youngest son of Adam and Anna Matthews, was married to Eileen Ferguson in May 1944 Bob worked on road construction with the municipality for two years, then went to work for his older brother Felix, hauling gravel

In 1960 Bob went to work for the Massey Harris agent, the late Chester Kasha. This is when Bob decided to become a mechanic and each winter for three years he attended a short term at Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary to obtain a journey-man's certificate.

Bob, being of musical nature, played the piano with several different orchestras. They played for country dances once, and sometimes twice, a week, which really helped the family budget.

Bob and Eileen have three children — Larry born May, 1945, Wayne born in September 1946 and Janice born in May, 1951.

Larry is married to Rhonda Jarvis and they now live in Eckville. Larry and Rhonda spent eight years in the Yukon where Larry worked for the Department of Transport, as a radio operator. Their three sons are Steven, Daryl and Blaine.

Wayne is married to Keltie Hughes and workes for an oil company as an off-shore drilling superintendent. Their two children are Shane and Melanie.

Janice is married to Dr. Greg Edwards and they live in Ponoka, where Greg has a dentistry practice.

Eileen has been employed at the Eckville Co-op since 1960.

In 1966 Bob became the U.F.A. bulk fuel agent in Eckville and also operated a garage in connection with the business. However, in 1975 the garage was burned and was not re-built. Bob and son Larry now operate the bulk fuel delivery and a small service station.

THE W. G. McANDREWS FAMILY — by Maxine McAndrews

William, best known by everybody as "Red" and Maxine McAndrews and children, Murray and Margaret Anne, moved to Eckville from Calgary in March, 1948. Red was hired as Dry Goods and Grocery Manager for the Eckville Co-op Store, and in 1950 became General Manager. He held that position until July 1967, then moved to Calgary as Retail Adviser for Federated Co-operative.

During our 18 years in Eckville we had three more children — Jerry, Philip and Stewart. All but Stewart attended school in Eckville. Margaret Anne took a C.N.A. course in Edmonton in 1967 and in 1969 she married Don Sheets. They have two children — Kelly, six, and Glenda, three, and presently live in Stonehaven, Scotland. Don is a tool pusher on an oil rig in the North Sea.

Jerry married Sandra MacDonald from Calgary in 1972. They are still in Edmonton. Jerry attends the University of Alberta in the faculty of Dentistry and will graduate in May 1978. Sandy works as a Dental Hygenist, but will soon retire to care for our third grandchild.

Murray married Donna Henning of Beaverlodge in 1974. They live in Calgary where Murray works for Calgary Co-Op and Donna at Primco Home Supplies.

Philip is manager and Karate Master at Simons Karate Studio in Edmonton. He was married in November, 1975 to Jackie Mah, and she is his receptionist. Philip has had diabetes since 1972, but seems to live a good active life.

Stewart is just sixteen and ready for his driver's license. He is in grade ten at Westwood Collegiate, plays hockey, football and basketball, as well as working part-time at Red River Co-op.

All the boys have been very active in sports, especially hockey and football.

While in Eckville Red was mayor from March 1954 to 1960. In 1953-1954 the town sewer system was installed, a new fire truck purchased and a fire hall built. He was back on council from 1963 to 1967 and was mayor from 1964 to 1966, when the water system was installed.

He was secretary of the Arena Building Committee. The Arena was officially opened on January 25, 1964, with an ice carnival. Mr. J. M. McDonald cut the ribbon at the opening. The original building, seats and waiting room cost $54,600. Of this amount $28,000 was raised by donations from farmers and business men. The government grant provided $5,200, winter works [illegible] village $3,500, the Lion's Club $5,000 and two ice carnivals and two rodeos together raised $5,000. A fine tribute to a hard-working community! For the opening day we made one hundred thirty pounds of hamburger into patties in our kitchen.

Red played first base or third base for the Eckville baseball team from 1949 until 1955. He was also an avid curler and took in all the local bonspiels. He was on a rink with Tom Forhan, Don McDonald, and Bob Kraft for the Council Play-offs in Edmonton.

I was kept busy looking after an active, growing family, but spent some time with the Ladies Aid, Ladies Curling Club, Home and School, and Boy Scout Parents Group. We fondly remember the good times at the Lion's "do's", the firemen's masquerades, the New Year's dances and sing songs, the high school graduations and the Eckville Sportsday parades.

We lived in Calgary from 1967 to 1969 then moved to Red Deer, where Red was general manager of the Co-op there until 1974. He then came to Winnipeg as Region Manager of Manitoba, but is now back in retail business as General Manager of Red River Co-op of Winnipeg.

We hope to move back to Alberta upon retirement to enjoy visiting our family and old-time friends.

MRS. J. M. McDONALD (NEE MARGARET McNEIL) — by Mrs. Margaret McDonald

Quebec was the birthplace of both my parents, Hugh and Martha McNeil. I was born at Pointe aue Chene, Quebec, in 1892 and was the eldest of eight children. For 12 years we lived in Quebec, halfway between Montreal and Ottawa on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River.

In 1904 the family of eight children moved to Riverside (later named Elbow), Saskatchewan, and filed on a homestead. By 1912 there were seven children and papa wished for more land we set out west to purchase a farm where was more readily available. We resided in combe for a few months before papa was able to buy a suitable location and in January, 1913 we settled on the N-W 22-38-3 W5.

I will try to give you some idea of the village as it was during the years 1913 to 1920. There were two railway lines only one mile apart. Eckville was situated on the C.N. Railway and Kootuk on the C.P. Railway. There was one building at Kootuk a box car, which was the station. John Lundberg managed the hotel in Eckville which was more like a boarding and rooming house. When John Lundberg sold his business, it was bought by Harry Low. During the time Harry was the proprietor he married Miss Thompson, teacher of the Eckville Elementary School. There was one elevator (Parish and Heimbecker). Heimbecker had his living quarters where the Carritt Hardware is now located. He had an office in the front. There were two grocery stores, a garage, livery barn, lumberyard and a small bank, where the Bank of Commerce is at present. I believe there were eight or 10 dwellings.

Some villagers kept a few livestock. We had a barn on a back lot now owned by Margaret Schofer, where we housed a cow, a dozen chickens, two horses and the occasional pigs or rabbits. In 1936 my husband bought 14 acres of and one mile west of Eckville and the barn was moved to what is now the Ewart McDonald farm.

In the early days we provided our own amusements. There were social evenings every Saturday night at which we played whist and had community singing and some games. Then bridge became a more popular card game, and we had to be more settled and serious to play bridge. When there were no parties in the hall some couple would have two or three tables of cards in their home and we would play until one or two o'clock in the morning.

My husband, J. M. McDonald, was born at Valleyfield, Prince Edward Island in 1891. During most of his childhood he suffered from bovine tuberculosis. When he was 16 years old, doctors found it necessary to amputate his leg, which was certainly a major operation at that time. Between illness and trying to educate himself he became despondent and, as a last resort, decided to emigrate west. He travelled to Regina and stayed with a cousin, who was a Mountie there. The prairies did not appeal to him, and, in 1910 he took the train to Red Deer. Upon inquiring about land, G. W. Brown, the Presbyterian minister, suggested that he might get a homestead in the Lesliеville area. Without delay he filed on the SW 3-40-5 W5. While working at brushing and such rigors of homesteading, although severely handicapped, he gained a measure of health.

He had taught school on Prince Edward Island, taking his training at Prince of Wales College, so he took on teaching duties at the newly built Campbell School. Although his parents were poverty ridden, education was given priority and some of the family had a college education. My husband continued teaching in the Lesliеville area until 1914, when he went to Calgary Normal School, as school regulations required it. Financing a year at Normal School was a real problem. Along with buying books, paying for board, he needed new clothes, as the ones he had were threadbare. He bought a blue serge suit for $12 and even that meant a "large hole in his pocket." He finished Normal School in June, went to teach at Melita, near Benalto, and was there for four years. During the flu epidemic of 1918 he volunteered to drive the nurse throughout the district. As no medicine was prescribed by doctors, they experimented and found that alcohol worked miracles, particularly on abstainers. They were fortunate in not losing a patient.

I met my husband at Melita when he bought my box at a box social. We were married in Red Deer, September 28, 1920, by a Presbyterian minister, W. G. Brown, to whom I referred earlier. The West had been so good to him that we were able to afford a very enjoyable two months honeymoon in Prince Edward Island. On December 1, 1920 we moved into the house, in Eckville which he had previously built for an office, in 1918. The original is still standing although enlarged and renovated many times.

He went back to teaching and taught for two years at Benalta. Mack had a faithful pony, Frankie, and a cutter or buggy, which he drove the 14 miles every weekend. He was then Principal at Estoma for two years. The other teacher was Miss Benedicson, a wonderful per

For health reasons he finally found it necessary to discontinue teaching and, instead, dealt in insurance. He was appointed auditor and justice of the peace in 1913. He retained the position of auditor until schools were consolidated and was J.P. for Alberta, a record number of years, which was at least 50! He was also game warden, and dealt in hay, too, so was busy with a number of jobs.

Real Estate business was of great interest to him. Besides selling land for others he often bought land himself. According to a map, dated 1923, he owned the E34-39-3 W5. I remember how concerned I was, and wished that he would quit dealing, when he had bought the NW 23-39-5 W5. Henry Mitzner, when visiting one day, inquired of dad why he would buy a quarter that was nothing but willow brush and swamp. The land was brushed and water was drained into a creek at the south end of the quarter. Now, this is considered a piece of choice land. Later, he bought the SW16-38-3 W5, which was owned by the C.P. Railway. This was another deal that was shunned by many and was considered a poor investment, as the soil was very rocky. Up to the present time huge amounts of valuable gravel have been taken from this quarter.

In 1925 he bought his first car, a Gray Dort and we went to Waterton Lakes. We had a very pleasant holiday there with McGregors, who had previously lived in Eckville. While here, Ken McGregor was employed as a salesman, selling parts for machinery — such machines as there were in those days.

On July 24, 1928, there was a terrible hailstorm that played havoc with grain crops in the area. During the same storm lightning struck a large stack of hay that we had just piled on the NW 23-38-3 W5. This fire meant a considerable loss to us, as, for various reasons, we were at a financial bind at the time.

August 3, 1928, proved to be a disastrous day for the village of Eckville, as a fire began where the drugstore is now located and completely swept down the east side of the street. Mr. Von Holtum had a gas and oil station located there and it was thought that lightning struck the building. Richard Clausen, the first to notice the fire, sounded the alarm, about two a.m. By the way, a number of you likely recall the antiquated fire alarm that was in the form of a large pole with a metal disc at the top, which gong when struck by a huge metal spike that was attached to a rope, made a loud noise that carried considerable distance. Residents soon arose, but a "bucket brigade" was ineffective in controlling the blaze. A Chinese, "Happy" had just started a restaurant on the east side of the street. Volunteers helped him move his equipment to safety. I clearly recall "Happy's" excited, frenzied state, and that he was completely incapable of assisting in the moving of the dishes, cooking utensils, counters. Dad had built a garage on the side of our barn and the restaurant equipment was stored there temporarily. My husband bought the hall that is presently the jewellery store in Eckville and in a short time carpenters had made alterations to the building so that it was ready to be used as a cafe. Happ[illegible] certainly pleased with his new location, and operated the cafe there for a number of years.

Twelve o'clock noon was a time for activity and excitement and was looked forward to by many, as this was the time when the train stopped in the village on its way to and from Nordegg. The crew and passengers got their meals at the hotel, but, as it had also been destroyed by the fire, the crew boarded at our place. At the same time there were hall adjustors in the area who got board and room with us. Although this meant a lot of work, it was enjoyable cooking for the trainmen and hall adjustors, as they were jolly and had fun joking [illegible].

'Tis said "Life is for living". We must have been in agreement with this adage as during the early 30s we had a cottage at Sylvan Lake. We spent considerable time vacationing there with family and friends.

Soon came the depression, which affected a good deal of the world, particularly the prairies. We didn't suffer, in this part of Alberta, as we got enough moisture to have fair crops. In the year 1936, the district donated a carload of vegetables to Saskatchewan, as there was a terrible drought in that province. That was the first year we attempted farming, and we had an acre garden west of town that produced well, thus we had an abundance of vegetables to give away to those less fortunate.

In 1937 Mack was appointed administrator for the Debt Adjustment Act by the federal government. The act was a scheme introduced whereby farmers had their debts reduced. As this project covered a large area, Mack required a secretary. One of these was Myla (nee Hoglund) and the other was Ada Doupe of Red Deer. She married Morley Obee, who was then employed by the creamery. They now reside in Cranbrook, B.C.

We managed to convince our two eldest sons that farming was a good life to pursue. By helping them with management and finances, Mack got them to continue his love of animals and the land. He also showed his interest in agriculture by assisting with school fairs, calf clubs, and

Save the Soil Program at which time he worked with Peter Yacooshin

One of the highlights of his life was the honor of cutting the ribbon for the opening of the arena in Eckville in January, 1966, as he was very sports-minded

We had five children — Phyllis (Andrew), Donald and Ewart of Eckville Margaret Ferguson of Red Deer, and our youngest son, Neil, and his wife, Darlene, and children Dean and Danni, live in Lethbridge. Neil works for the Federal Department of Agriculture, as a horticulturist

Looking over my husband's diary for 1962 I read the following. "I had many worries during my long life and my present most pressing one is which I am unable to get my friends to share is 'Inflation'." What would he say of today

For many years I enjoyed being a member of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid The year 1971 was a memorable one for me, as I was honored by the town for having been a continuous resident for 50 years. I was also given a plaque by the Eckville Presbyterian Church, indicating that I had been a member for half a century

Our years spent in Eckville were very enjoyable and satisfying ones, no doubt because we met so many interesting congenial folks. I am presently living in Eckville's lovely Manor House, a home for Senior Citizens

DONALD A. McDONALD AND FAMILY — by Don McDonald

Donald McDonald was born in Eckville on April 29, 1923, the eldest son of Mr and Mrs. J M. McDonald He attended Eckville School for the years then was at Olds Agricultural College for two years. He graduated from there in 1942 Following this, he farmed with his father and brother Ewart until 1954. In 1951 he bought the NE 23 from John Lundberg and was already farming the NW 23, as his father owned this land

Donald moved into the John Lundberg house in the spring of 1935 and he "batched" on the farm for a few years

He is very interested in sports, and was a keen competitor He enjoyed hockey and played for the Olds Elks from 1948 to 1952. He spent the winter of 1952-1953 in Scotland, playing for the Falkirk Lions. He returned to Canada and played for Olds again from 1953-1954. His last year in the Central Alberta Hockey League he played for the Red Deer Shamrocks. He was awarded the MacKenzie Trophy for being the highest scorer in the League in 1951-1952. Age and his health have forced him to hang up his blades, but he has been a coach in the Eckville Minor Hockey League, and also with the Rocky Rams in Rocky Mountain House

During the summers of 1947 to 1955, although busy with the farm, Donald managed to play quite a lot of baseball for Eckville

Donald has also been a member of the Eckville Curling Club for many years. In 1956 a rink comprised of Tom Forhan, Red McAndrew Don McDonald and Robert Kraft represented their zone in the Briar Playdowns in Edmonton

He now enjoys playing bridge, and is a member of the Red Deer Bridge Club

In 1958 Donald met and married Hilary Voes an R N from the United Kingdom. They have two children. Mary was born in 1959 and Neil John was born in 1966. In 1966 they bought the NE quarter from Mrs. McColman. They have a mixed farm, with hogs, beef cattle and grain

Hilary Frances McDonald was born on May 29, 1934 in Chandlers Ford, England She received all her education in that country before immigrating to Canada in 1957, coming first to Toronto then moving on west to Eckville. She has worked as an R N before and since her marriage

A small slight person who had never lived on a farm, she soon built up her muscles helping with the farm work. Her main interests in her spare time are her singing and her church work She was a C G I T leader in the Eckville Presbyterian Church from 1968 to 1974 She is a member of the church choir and also of a choir in Red Deer, called the Waska-Sues. Born with a vivid imagination and a sense of fun she has played produced and helped with many humorous skits and plays

Mary Lois McDonald was born on August 15 1959 in Eckville. She has attended Eckville School graduating with her high school diploma in 1977 She has been active in church and community groups, including the Ruby 4-H Club, C G.I.T and as a Sunday School teacher As a student, she studied the piano, obtaining her Grade VI and Theory 1 diplomas

Neil John McDonald was born on May 19 1966. He is an active boy and is attending the Eckville Elementary School. He is also a 4-H member, minor hockey player, attends Sunday School and is learning to play the piano

One story that should not go unrecorded is the story of the blizzard on January 1, 1959 A family dinner was planned at the Roy Andrew farm a

[redacted] everyone settled down to play cards or visit The Andrew residence is a large well-constructed home sheltered by trees From time to time, someone would glance out a window and remark that it seemed to be blowing a bit, but no one was really interested in the weather — it was nice and warm inside

Following a lunch early in the evening families started gathering up their respective youngsters to depart for home The Laurence Fergusons with four small children under seven years of age were the first ones ready to leave The blizzard was at its height, and there were some bad drifts in the driveway The car was stuck before they went very far but they were confident that with a bit of help they would be fine once they got onto the road. Roy Andrew who had a fine line of machinery under cover started up the tractor and pulled the car to the highway. They were then on their way, and the men returned to the house to get warm. Someone remarked in a casual way that it seemed to be drifting quite a bit.

The other members of the party made ready to leave. Mr. J. M. McDonald was in his wheelchair and would have to be carried out to the car. This took a little time, and some were beginning to wonder if they should start out at all. But then, the Fergusons had left, so the road must be all right. Since Mr. McDonald Sr. was in the car by this time, it was agreed all should leave together in case they ran into some trouble.

Roy was just getting ready to pull the car down the driveway and Phyllis, his wife, was busy bringing blankets in case they were needed on the trip, when a figure appeared, staggering up the road. It was Laurence, who looked like he had had a brush with death. He had got only about half a mile down the road and the car was hopelessly stuck. He had had to retrace his steps into the storm. Being a city slicker, he didn't have his long johns along, and almost perished in the walk back to the house.

This changed the situation drastically. Quickly the tractor and all available men left the farm and went to the stranded vehicle. Fortunately, all was well with those left in the car, and the car was towed back to the farm. Everyone then prepared to stay the night and wait for the weather to moderate. What could well have been a tragic and senseless incident in the McDonald history turned out to become the longest and best remembered New Year's dinner of a lifetime.

EWART McDONALD FAMILY — by Vivian McDonald

Third child, second son of John and Margaret McDonald, born July 18, 1925, in the family home in Eckville. He attended school in Eckville seeing before completing his Grade 12 — the farm chores beckoned more loudly than the school bell.

His earliest recollections of Eckville were going to school with a lot of "Finnish" children, some had to learn English at school. Their [illegible] only a few words.

Winter carnivals were a big event for young people. The Finnish ethnic group dominated the skiing events. Ewart remembers the fancy toques they wore and the skiing equipment. Some of the contestants couldn't speak English so the cheering and shouts of encouragement were like a touch of the Olympics.

The Finnish were community-minded people having their own drama club and athletic group that practised in the hall adjacent to our home. He remembers Mr. Jokinen as barking the commands as they were doing tumbling acts and building pyramids to the ceiling. Their saunas were a popular thing on Saturday nights and their first luxury. Most of the Finnish people were successful farmers and influential people in the community.

Where did he get his "kicks"? Trying to tease the local Chinaman in the restaurant, skating on the rivers, playing marbles, walking to Shorty Westphal's to gamble on his punchboard and riding his saddlehorse to Grandpa and Grandma McNeils' on the week-ends — and be important for a couple of days. In winter he enjoyed tobogganing down Forhan's hill and in summer swimming in the Horseguard and Medicine Rivers. They would go upstream in the Spring, build a raft and float it down when the ice was going out.

How was he punished for getting into trouble? Barred from seeing the show that was shown in the hall every two weeks. Occasionally in the winter, on a Saturday, he was made to go to the Medicine and bring home a sack of fish. Sometimes this did not take too long, he now wonders where the fish have gone. He thinks he can remember the last Pow Wow held in this area by the Indians, which is now part of our land. He and two other boys (Goldfinch's) walked west from town on the track and watched the proceedings one afternoon and when spotted by the Indians they immediately ran all the way back to Eckville. This certainly made an impression and probably broke a speed record for their age.

Later in life, (his father had bought and sold land for Hudson Bay), his father purchased a quarter and put deposits on two others. His idea to get something to get his sons out of the "Metropolis".

This 114 acres west of town (N 17-39-3-W5) became the home place, being a ten minute run from town. This is where we are now living with other adjoining land being acquired.

We have been in mixed farming, 20 years selling hatching eggs, registered grain growing dairying (supplied milk for Eckville for 14 years. Our next venture was the most exciting raising Maine Anjou cattle. However, we are aking it much easier now keeping a few cattle and raising grain.

Recalling the changes, he is sure the oil and gas discoveries were the most impressive. Very few have mineral rights and the area hasn't been recognized as much as other areas. There are four gas plants in the area and none have been named with "Eckville" in their locations.

In 1950, Ewart found time to "run-off" and get married to Gertrude Hagerman of Sylvan Lake, who had taught at Shady Lane School where he met her. Raising three children and part-time Home Economics teaching for 10 years has kept Gertie's life busy.

Bernadette was born in 1951. She is now married to Frank Wyzykoski and lives south of town with their three children.

Adair born in 1953 is apprenticing as a plumber in Red Deer. He married Susan Parker from Prince Edward Island.

Vivian, 20 years old, is hoping to complete her fourth year at University of Alberta, Bachelor of Education program with Home Economics Ma ,or.

McDONELL, DOUGLAS AND MORA — by Mora McDonell

Douglas McDonell was born in Medicine Hat Alberta in 1896, the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDonell of Okotoks, Alberta. He married Mora Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins, in Brooks in July, 1924. They lived on a farm near Gem, Alberta before moving to the Gilby district in November 1925, along with Mora's parents.

The livestock, machinery, and other possessions of the two families were loaded into four box cars and were shipped to Eckvile. I Mora), my mother and my daughter. Mari spent some time at Didsbury visiting Mother's sister. We planned to give the men time to get to the farm with the possessions which had been shipped by rail. However, the box cars were side tracked, for some reason, and there were other delays, with the result that they got to Eckville only one day before Mother, Marie and I arrived. Only the livestock had been taken to the farm. After our arrival, Father, Doug, and I each drove a team and wagon, hauling other things to the farm. The roads were very icy, and after reaching the place where Onofryszyns now live, I became frightened at the road conditions and refused to drive my team any further. The team was then tied behind the grain tank which Doug's four-horse team was pulling, and I rode on the grain tank which Doug's four-horse team was pulling, and I rode on the grain tank with him. After a time we reached a steep, icy hill with a narrow bridge across a stream at the bottom. The road was so icy that the wagons would sway from side to side, and one of the wheel horses fell on the ice. The other three horses continued on down the hill the best they could, and we got across the narrow bridge (which I thought we'd never be able to do!).

Mother, Dad and Marie were on the other wagon, and they made the trip with no mishaps. Such was our introduction to Eckville!

We had started out from Eckville right after dinner, and didn't get to the farm until eight o clock at night. The first job was to set up the heating stove, by the light of a smoky coal oil lantern. I made a pot of coffee on the heating stove — the best cup of coffee I'd ever drank! I thought maybe if I could make such good coffee with this water) in this country, it might be worthwhile coming up here — but I've never made another cup of coffee that tasted so good!

Doug, Marie and I lived on the farm at Gilby until April, 1927 when we moved to the NW 20-38 3 W5, which we had secured near Eckville. We lived on this farm for 30 years.

Doug and I had two children, both of whom received their education in the Eckville schools. Marie was born in March, 1925 at Bassano, Alberta. After being employed in Calgary for some time, she joined the Armed Forces there in 1947 and was sent to Vancouver, where she served some time in the army before returning to Calgary. She met and married Marc Ferland and they moved to Montreal to live until 1957 then moved to California. Their three children were Phyllis, Fyrn (deceased) and Ray. Marie was later married to O. D. Smith, and they live in California. Phyllis lives in Texas and has two children. Ray is in California, and is attending University in San Diego.

Our son Bill was born at Gilby in 1927. He is married to Hazel Wulff. They live on a farm near Eckville, and they have four children. Lawrence is married and lives at Rocky Mountain House. He has one daughter. Brian is married and lives in Calgary. Clarence and Marilyn are at home. Marilyn is attending the Eckville High School and Clarence is attending the Agricultural College at Olds.

In 1926 Ruth Dyrland (now Ruth Dobbe) and I started berry-picking together, and have continued this practise up to the present time — a period of more than 51 years! We have enjoyed many fishing trips together.

Weather always makes a good topic for conversation, but 1951 was the year of the BIG STORM. This occured in March. For a while, the only way one could get to town, or any other place, was to walk on top of the big drifts. It was weeks before we could get out with a vehicle.

This March day had been a beautiful day and the storm came up suddenly as we were coming home from town. By suppertime snow was coming down very hard, and continued falling steadily for two or three days. We had ordered baby chicks, but the phone lines were out so we could not phone to have the order delayed. We did get to town with Curtis Bromling and phoned from there to ask that the chickens not be sent. The horses were white with lather by the time we got to Eckville. They broke through the snow from time to time, and floundered around trying to get out of the drifts and keep going. The weather was not extremely cold, but there was lots of wind which piled the snow up high enough so that and touch the telephone lines just east of our house. Finally snow plows came from the west so we could get to town by first going west. However the holes got so bad that everybody was getting stuck. Neighbors got together, using tillers, shovels, picks and axes, and opened up the road so that we could reach Eckville by going east. The men had to cut through a huge drift that was still blocking the road in April.

In 1957 Doug and I moved to the SW 21-39-3 W5, near Eckville. Doug passed away in May 1979. I continue to live in my home on this place.

McDONELL, BILL AND HAZEL

I, Bill (William Douglas) McDonell was born in January, 1927, the only son of Doug and Mora McDonell. I attended the Eckville school.

At the age of 13 years, Fred Molander (also 13 years old) and I hauled bundles at threshing time. We worked as one man, but ate like two men. In 1944 I took a brief holiday from school to help Jim Smith haul gravel for the cement work on the local hospital, then being built. This was hauled with a team and wagon, loading with a scoop shovel. Heavy work! John Maki and Curtis Bromling were also hauling gravel.

After finishing school I worked during 1945 to 1948 as a cabinet maker for Bill McIntyre. I bought the SE 30-39-3-W5 from Armstrong in 1948 and started farming, using dad's machinery. Winters were spent working in bush camps west of Rocky Mountain House.

I married Hazel Doreen Wuth of Alhambra in 1954. Hazel was employed in the Eckville Hospital. As I had no house at that time, we rented one from Cletis Bromling for $15 per month. Three months later we moved to the Forhan place, which my father and I rented. Later we lived on the John Maki farm until our house was ready. We were blessed with three sons and one daughter.

Lawrence (1955) married Colleen Pellar in 1976. They have one daughter, Angelina. Clarence (1957) is attending Olds Agricultural College and farms with his dad. Brian (1959) married Debra McDonald in 1977. He has one daughter, Sandra Lynn. He is apprenticing as a painter in Calgary. Marilyn (1961) is taking her Grade 11 in Eckville in 1977-1978.

Hazel and I have been deeply involved with the 4-H Beef Club, of which I am presently Assistant Leader. Hazel joined [redacted] Aid in 1956 and has been an active [redacted] that time. She is also an active member of the Eckville Handicraft Guild.

Since buying our first quarter of land we have added three more quarters. In 1959 we purchased the NE 25-39-4-W5 from Al Greenman. In 1969 we purchased the NW 20-39-3-W5 and the SW 21-39-3-W5 from my dad. The 6M Ranch is the name we have chosen for our farm.

McFAUL, JAMES

Mr. and Mrs. James McFaul came from Michigan, U.S.A. to Red Deer, N.W.T. in 1901 with their three children Blanche the eldest, Russell and Maudie.

James worked as brick layer and carpenter. One of the houses he helped to build still stands. It is the home of Mrs. Dr. Parsons, Sr. and was formerly owned by the Goard family, Blanche's future in-laws. Blanche was working in the post office. Russell and Maudie went to school for a short time, he worked part-time for the C.P.R. as a car checker until he took a homestead west of Red Deer in 1902. Maudie worked for Bell Telephone. It was also 1902 when James and Ella McFaul moved to their homestead which was located near the Horseguard River on the NE 18-39-4W5 just west of the present town of Eckville Maudie went on this venture with her parents Blanche stayed in Red Deer and was married at a later date. She and her husband took the SW 20-39-4W5 (separate story) to be near her parents However, Mrs. McFaul's health began to fail. she was advised to move to a warmer climate so a move was made to Vancouver, Maudie going along. While in Vancouver another son was born to James and Ella, they named him Howard

In the early 1920's, Mr. and Mrs McFaul came back to visit their son They lived for awhile at Prairie Ranch (Russell's homestead While here, Howard started school at Shady Lane. In the meantime, Russell and his father James were building a home and blacksmith shop in Condor where James would live and operate the shop. They only lived there a few years, Howard had been going to Prairie Rose school, this was a long walk to the original location south of Lealievtile

Once again the urge came to move They sold out to Guy Mills and went back to Vancouver and later to the Inland where they passed away in the late 1930's. They are buried at Coombes, B.C

Their son Howard and wife Kay live at West [redacted]

McFAUL, RUSSELL

Russell McFaul came to Red Deer, N W T with his parents and two sisters in 1901 from Michigan, U S.A. He went to school in Red Deer [redacted] a car checker

In 1902, Russell took a homestead located one mile south of what is now known as Withrow He named it Prairie Ranch. He had to go to Red Deer every two weeks for the mail and groceries [redacted] spoke of having to open 17 gates each way on about 40 miles of trail

One of the great pleasures Russell spoke of, was to have Mrs. Eli Anderson make bread for him as she did for several other bachelors in the area. It was the best in the west, he always said

In 1905, Macdonnell Brothers opened a store They named it Pitcox; for many years he got his mail and supplies there. He said you could purchase anything from a horse collar and harness to a pin in this store. When the railway came through, the Macdonnell store was relocated and the post office was named [redacted]

Russell worked for nearby homesteaders and for Pat Burns in British Columbia While there he was visiting at a ranch where he met his future wife Rosie Jones. She had come from Doncaster, England, to work for friends of her Welsh parents. They thought the climate would be beneficial to her health, as she had suffered with asthma since childhood. It was love at first sight and several months later they were married in Milner British Columbia and left shortly after for "Prairie Ranch" This proved to be quite a change for Rosie, as she was used to having nearby ranchers' wives and children for company Neighbors were few near 'Prairie Ranch" However, she loved to ride horses and was able to get around. She made friends easily their home, not much to look at outside, was very cozy inside and was the gathering place for the bachelors

Rosie loved to cook and her specialty was cream pie, enjoyed by many, including her [redacted]

When Fred and Keitha Bott settled on the quarter west Rosie was delighted, as she had someone to have a cup of tea with, and often spoke of the fresh bread and home made butter they had with their tea

Rosie was the first president of the W.I in Condor, which was organized April 21, 1921 She wrote a paper on Canadianization and National events. This had high praise from other institutes in Alberta and in Eastern Canada. Three children were born to Russell and Rosie while living on the homestead, Hazel, Gwen and [redacted]

Hazel and Gwen went to school at Shady Lane. Walking was the only way to get there rain or shine There wasn't even a horse to ride

The McFauls had a lot of hard luck while living on the homestead, crop failures and always losing a good milk cow or other animals. Russell finally had enough of working hard and in the end having nothing to show for his efforts. Fred and Keitha Bott bought the place, it is now the home of their youngest son Max. We understand they still call the place "Prairie Ranch

The McFaul family moved to their Hudson Bay quarter which joined the Jack Albert place on the east. The girls went to school at Prairie Rose, which had been relocated in Condor from a former sight south of Leslieville

Bad luck seemed to follow the family. Russell decided he would go to Red Deer and find work. There was a considerable amount of building going on, and he got a job as a carpenter. He continued in this line of work until he retired.

In 1928, the McFauls had a sale in Hespero for odds and ends that were sold on the farm. Most of the cattle was bought by a new-comer to the district. This did not seem to be a problem, now to move the personal belongings to Red Deer where Russell had the good luck of buying a four bedroom house for $250. This house was put up for sale by the city of Red Deer for taxes. The cobles seemed to turn from that point. The girls started to school. Russell's work was plentiful. Rosie was a police matron for the city, handling female cases. She held this position until her death in 1951. Many of the prisoners in the early days were cared for in her own home. They came from all walks of life, colour and creed. She cared for many abandoned children, some of which she found homes for in the district.

Several prisoners wrote to her while serving their sentences, some even visited her after their release. A few had changed their ways and had become useful citizens. Rosie used to recall how sad it made her when she had to accompany mental patients to institutions. Some of these girls and women she had known all their lives. She was always accompanied by a male police officer on these trips, either by train or car. The McFaul home was always open to those who needed a bed or a meal.

After Rosie's death, Russell's oldest sister Blanche kept house for him for two years. When Russell decided to retire, he sold his home in Red Deer and bought a home at Parksville, Vancouver Island. Once again Blanche kept house for him until his death in 1974. He was a life member of the Red Deer Old Timers Association. Both Rosie and Russell are buried in the Red Deer cemetery.

The eldest daughter, Hazel May married Matt Kalaputas, formerly of the Benalto district. They have two children — John Richard living in Red Deer and Sheila Dawn married to Harvey Wylie formerly of the Benalto district. They have two girls, Becky Dawn and Stacy Lynn.

Gwen (Olive Gwendolyn) served in the C.W.A.C. during the second world war as a sergeant, stationed in England. After the war she married Dale Brimble. They have one daughter, Beverley, R.N. Gwen passed away in Wenatchee, Washington, 1976, after a lengthy illness. She is buried in the veterans' section of Nelson Memorial Park, Nelson, B.C., where Dale and she had lived for many years.

Ronald Mervin served in the Navy during World War II. He married Phylis Just. They have three girls. Merle married Gordon Gauthier of Calgary, Gloria married Lawrence Murphy of Diamond Valley. Chyrl at home in Edmonton.

W. J. Blakely McNeil was born May 29, 1879 at Bristol Mines, Quebec. He was one of 16 c[redacted] He came west in 1897 and worked in mines in British Columbia and the Yukon. He was also employed for some time on the railroad being put in from Skagway, Alaska to Whitehorse.

In 1908, after working on the Cochrane Ranch in southern Alberta, he headed out to find a homestead, which he did, in the Esther Alberta area. He built and lived in a small sod shack. Blake, being the first settler there, remembers sighting a wagon appearing across the prairies. He ran a mile to wave them in so he could have someone to talk to. He obtained some horses and then continued raising horses. He broke and sold some of these horses, as well as using them to break his land.

Blake built a house and in 1917 married Mrs. Christina Micheal Gagne. Christina was born November 14, 1885 at Bancroft, Ontario. She came from Kindersley, Saskatchewan to Loverna, Saskatchewan after the death of her first husband and daughter. She arrived in Loverna in 1915 and worked in the general store. There were five children born to Blake and Christina. One daughter died at birth and one son, Franklin, died of diphtheria in 1925 at the age of three years. They raised a son Alfred (Bud) and two daughters, Dora and Erma.

Mr. McNeil was an Alberta Wheat Pool member and had the privilege of hauling the first grain to the elevator in Esther, Alberta. He was also a school trustee for many years. Grain returns were very good, and with the sale of horses, he prospered until the drought hit the prairies.

In 1932 Blake and his brother-in-law, Charlie Lewis, a blacksmith, at Loverna, Saskatche wan, went in search of land. They located a quarter NW 19-39-3-W5, of timbered land west of Eckville. In the spring of 1933 soon after the crop was seeded, a caravan of eight wagons loaded with lumber (from granaries which they tore down), household goods, tools, spare wagon and harness parts, as well as supplies were loaded. They headed for the new home. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, their two small daughters, Hazel and Elda, an elder daughter Ann and friend, Wilma English acted as cooks. They also did the laundry for all the men. Henry Benecke, who had arrived from Germany in 1927 and made his home with the McNeils, was in charge of the caravan. Many hardships were endured as roads were terrible and in places 10 horses had to be used to pull each of the eight wagons through wet, boggy stretches. Many repairs to wagons and harnesses had to be made. Extra horses were taken along, as well as a cow for milk. When they finally arrived at the selected quarter a building site was cleared, and corrals built for the animals. A house was built by rebuilding the granaries, back to back, and building them higher for bedrooms upstairs. There were sheds built of poles with straw roofs to accommodate the animals that were to come later by rail. A well also was dug.

Mr. McNeil took his crop off at Esther. Henry had returned to accompany the remaining loads to Eckville. There were eight boxcars loaded with machinery, Mr. Lewis' equipment, the remaining household goods, cattle, pigs, chickens and horses. Henry had to feed and water the animals on the train trip.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil, their three children and niece, Myrel Lewis, left the farm in an old Ford car complete with canvas snap-on curtains and mica type windows. They carried their own food and spare parts for the car. Bundled up in their blankets, they finally arrived in Eckville on October 31, 1933. Henry had arrived with the train loads. Everything had been transferred to the farm, including the McNeil children's Pinto pony, which they were delighted to see again.

Life started anew for everyone. The Lewis family and Joe Brando, who had driven a wagon on the caravan, lived in one-half of the house and the McNeils and Henry lived in the other half. Money was very scarce, of course, Joe and Henry had hauled bundles around Eckville that fall and had taken vegetables of all kinds, hay, straw and grain as the largest part of their wages. This, along with money received from the sale of wood which was cut, sawed and hauled to Eckville, sustained the two families.

It was still a happy time, evenings were spent with group singing, which Henry accompanied on his accordion. People dropped in for card games and house parties for the young and old alike. The McNeil children and Hazel Lewis went three and a half miles to school in Eckville. Ann and Myrel Lewis acquired work in Eckville. Iva, the eldest Lewis girl, had remained in Loverna to work in the post office. She visited in Eckville the following year for Christmas, and came to stay in July 1935.

That winter Mr. McNeil heard of a farm for sale in the Evergreen district. This was the NW 22-37-4-W4, owned by Mr. Ropus. It had a house and buildings and some land broken. There was also another quarter of land that could be used for hay and pasture. Blake had a lot of horses and a herd of cattle. This land was purchased with help from Phil Laybourne. Mr. McNeil, Henry and Joe put the crop in that spring. The machinery and the animals except six milk cows were moved. This was an 18-mile trip. As soon as school was out Mrs. McNeil, the children, the remaining household items and the milk cows were moved. That fall the three children started to Gaetz school with Miss Dorothy Collier as teacher. They rode three and a half miles on horseback to school.

The Lewis family remained at Eckville.

Blake cleared more land in the spring and summer, along with his farming, and worked in the lumber mills in the winter. Bud joined in farming as soon as he finished his schooling. By this time Henry and Joe had acquired land of their own. Henry still lived with the McNeils [illegible] he built a house on his own land. He married Annie Lipka and they moved into their own house.

Mrs. McNeil and the girls did chores in the winter. Many cows, sometimes as many as 14 [illegible] 98 cents to $1.25 for a five-gallon can. This, along with selling eggs and turkeys, supplied the family with all the necessary things. One summer the house was struck by lightning and set on fire, but it was soon put out by a bucket brigade. The farm was finally cleared and paid for, but by this time Blake's health had started to fail.

Dora married Jim Carlyle in December 1942 and Bud married Laurine Vanhorne in November 1944. Ferna married Ed Palkot in November 1947.

Bud and Laurine took over the farm in 1946 and Mr. and Mrs. McNeil took employment as cook and caretaker at lumber mills in the Rocky Mountain House-Horburg area. They purchased a quarter of land in the Evergreen district in 1949 and built a home there. They also worked as cook and caretaker on the David Thompson Highway when it was first started. They then retired to their new home. Bud farmed their land until he sold out and went as a heavy duty mechanic with the army in Whitehorse, Yukon. Their son-in-law, Ed, farmed it for several years after that. They sold this place in 1955 and moved to a smaller house in Ferna's yard at Innisfail. Ed and Ferna had sold their farm at Stauffer and bought another farm west of Innisfail. The McNeils made several trips to Whitehorse to visit their families there. Jim and Dora had moved to Whitehorse in 1953 where Jim worked as a heavy duty mechanic and later in the army.

warehouse stores. Mr. and Mrs. McNeil enjoyed these trips and visited Alaska many times, as well as seeing Dawson City and Atlin, British Columbia, two of the early gold rush cities.

Mrs. McNeil passed away July 26, 1961, after an illness covering a long period of time. From then on Blake made his home among his three children. While in Whitehorse he had the pleasure of a trip from there to Skagway and back on the narrow gauge railway. This is the railroad he had worked on when it was first started. He was active in the Whitehorse dart league and had trophies as the oldest player, most sportsmanlike team and best team in the league, one year. His hobby was building replicas of all the first buildings in Whitehorse. He made these of willow, which he peeled and cut to size. He shingled some with vegetable crates, which the storekeepers saved for him, and others with tin. They were made identical to the originals, including all stairs, windows and doors. His daughter Dora has them now and they are to go to Larry, his eldest grandson.

Mr. McNeil entered the Senior Citizens Home at Sylvan Lake in 1968 and had remained there except for trips to visit his families in the north. He passed away on February 8, 1970.

Bud and Laurine now live in Surrey, B.C. They have three children — Diana, Kenny and Dale. Diana is married to Rem Gaucher and they have a son, Blaise.

Dora and Jim reside at Markerville, Alberta. Their son Larry works as a geologist at Keno Hill Mines at Elsa, Yukon. He is married and has two children, Cathrina and Darren. Their daughter Lavilla, is married to Fred Johannson and they farm at Markerville. They have two children, Heath and Bette Ann. Jim now works for the Alberta Forestry.

[illegible]d and Fern[illegible] farm at Innisfail. Their daughter Linda is married to Ray Smith and has two children, Kelly and Carmen. They live and work on the home farm. Their other daughter, Marilyn, is married to Bill Howard and they farm at Wimborne.

PETER AND MARION McNEIL

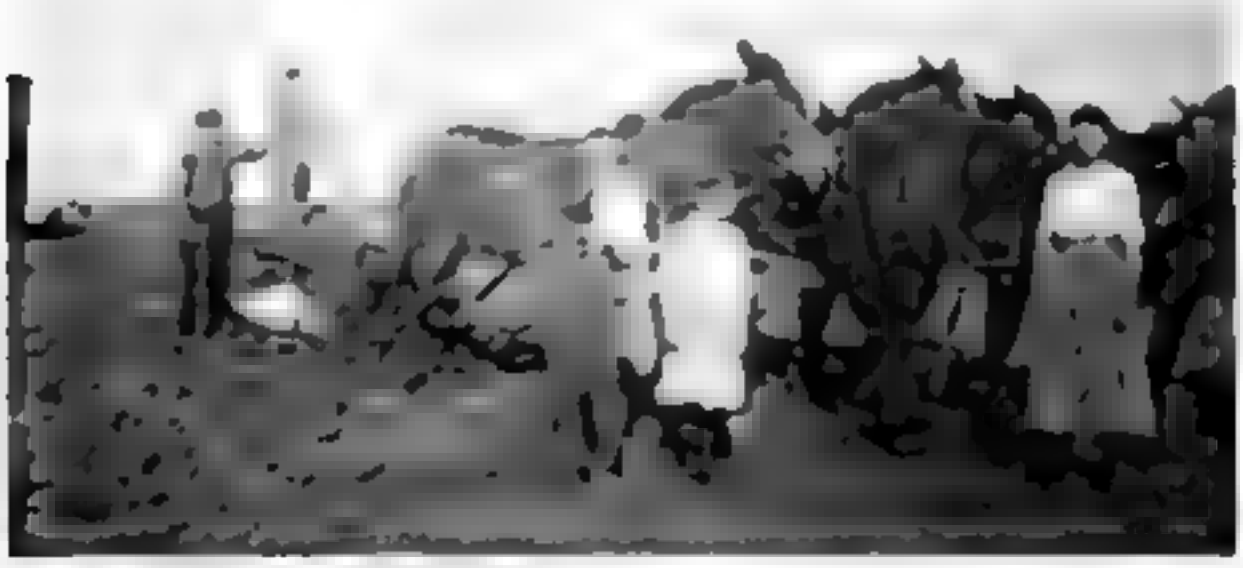
Peter McNeil was born in Ontario. His wife, Marion, was born in Scotland but immigrated with her parents to Ontario as a child.

In 1898 the adventuresome Peter went, like thousands of others, to Alaska to join the raging Gold Rush. But love overwhelmed the lust for gold and he returned to Ontario after a two-year absence to sail the sea of matrimony. The hardships of the North did not daunt the spirits of Peter and he and Marion ventured West in 1907 to the Gadsby District. Three years later Mr. McNeil filed on a homestead near Coronation, farming there until 1937. At this time, Eckville, somehow, seemed to beckon to them, and they moved here, taking up residence on the east edge of town. In 1946 Peter passed away at the age of seventy. Marion resided at Eckville until 1960 when she moved to British Columbia. She passed away in 1966 at the age of eighty-three.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil had four children. Olvah, born in 1900 in Ontario, Addie, born at Gadsby in 1908. Clifford, born at Coronation in 1913 and Peter Gordon, also born at Coronation, in 1914.

Olvah Thompson, formerly Mrs. Robert Kennedy, resided in Eckville from 1936 until 1953. She was a telephone operator at Rockyford. Then moved to Prince George, B.C. and is now retired at Kelowna with her husband, Charles. Olvah had two sons by her former marriage. Robert lives in Montreal and Barry resides in Prince George.

Addie married Mel Cummings, a bank manager. Their two daughters live in B.C. and Addie and Mel also retired in Kelowna.



Clifford, who came to live in Eckville in 1937, married Elsie Johnson. They moved to West bridge B.C. in 1950, where their five children were born. Clifford passed away in 1973. Elsie and the family reside at Midway B.C.

Gordon came to Eckville in 1936. From 1940 to 1945 he served his country in World War II, travelling extensively throughout Europe and the British Isles.

Upon returning from overseas he married Empi Maki of Hespero. They have one daughter who is now Mrs. Bryan Foord. She and her husband reside at Penhold. Gordon is still the postmaster at the Eckville Post Office, having assumed that position in 1950.

"THE MERRIMAN" — by J. B. Merriman

To the best of my knowledge the name Merriman originated from "Moorman" who were supposed to have been nomads who used to roam the moors of Orkney Scotland.

Magness Merriman, my great-grandfather was recruited into the service of the Hudson's Bay Co. in the 1800's as a fur trader in the North West as it was called in those days. He spent most of his time in the Hudson Bay area based out of Fort Garry which is now Winnipeg. He served out his time and went back to Orkney where he married and raised a family.

My grandfather, James Merriman was his oldest son. My grandfather never left Orkney or ever was in Canada.

My father, James Merriman his oldest son was born in 1888 and sat at his grandfather's knee listening to stories of the North West.

Dad, at the age of 13, went to the ship building yards at Greenock, Scotland to learn his trade as a ship's carpenter.

The stories of the North West he had heard from his grandfather must have kept calling him because at the age of 17, he in company with one of his uncles immigrated to Canada in 1905 to High River Alberta where he had two uncles who had been in Canada since around 1880.

There being no ships to build on the prairies dad turned to bridge building. Tiring of that he went to Vancouver and signed on a ship and worked his way to Australia. He stopped here and there but worked his way to New Zealand and many other Islands in the Pacific.

In due course he returned to Canada and decided he would take a trip back to Orkney for the winter and during this visit he met the girl who would one day be my mother, Jean Harry.

Dad came back to Canada and the girl who was to be my mother together with her sister immigrated to Spokane, Washington where she had an uncle and took her nurse's training at St. Luke's hospital in Spokane.

Dad worked here and there at the carpenter trade. When the town of Nordegg was being built he worked there until he enlisted in the 10 Field Engineers in Calgary in 1915. He was decorated for bravery later in the war, receiving the M.M.

In 1919 after the war dad came back to High River to his uncle's and stayed for sometime.

He then decided to make a trip to Nordegg to look for work. On the way he decided to stop in Eckville to see a piece of land he had seen from the train going to Nordegg years before. He put up at the hotel and enquired as to who owned this piece of land with a log house and a log barn just east of Eckville. He found that a section man by the name of Kelly owned it and I guess a deal was made that night, because it is our home today.

Dad went to Nordegg and worked the winter. In April of 1920 he went to Spokane and married my mother and they moved on to our farm.

In March of 1921 I came along. Three years later in May, 1924 my sister Isabel Margaret was born.

[illegible]

Things were pretty tough for dad and mom those days. They were dealt a very hard blow by the big hail storm in 1924 which left them nothing. However, they held on by milking cows and feeding a few pigs and chickens.

Dad was quite active in the community serving on the school board. He had a hand in building the new school in 1930 and I believe in moving the school from north of town on the Medicine River into Eckville, which was done with horses.

Threshing was done with the steam engines those days and quite a bit of stack threshing was done.

We never owned a car but got around with horse power; even going to Evarts to the Burn's festivities in the sleigh with lots of straw and hot bricks to keep us kids warm.

In October, 1926 a great catastrophe hit our family dad and mom were just getting on their feet when dad; working on a threshing rig pitching bundles got a barley beard in his abdomen under his belt The blood poisoning which followed took his life in three or four days, at the age of 40 years

Mom sold all the stock and machinery and went to Orkney where she thought she could live but found she could not, so we came back to the farm in 1929 The farm had been rented to Henry Mitzner a very fine man who mom married in 1932. Henry Mitzner was a big farmer for those days; farming six quarter sections mostly with horses, but he had a tractor and a threshing machine also. Unfortunately, he was not destined to live very long and died in December 1934 at the age of 43

Again mom sold the machinery and most of the horses and cattle. Mom, Isabel and I carried on raising pigs and cattle

As soon as I got out of school I started farming and did so until I joined the R.C.A.F in the 2nd World War I was an air gunner and flew with 192 Squadron of the Royal Air Force which was a special duty squadron. Following my release from the R.C.A.F in 1945, I returned to farming and am still at it

In 1943 my sister Isabel started training to be a nurse at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton, graduating in 1947 Following graduation she took post graduate training specializing in operating room nursing in Toronto. She returned to Edmonton and worked in the operating room until she married Dr Vernon Krause in August, 1950. Vern had a practise in Mayerthorpe for some years, then specialized in pathology and is today one of the top men in his field. They now live in Dartmouth N.S. where Isabel still has a few horses which she always liked Isabel and Vern have a family of two boys and two girls

On August 12, 1960 I married Marlene Guenther

August 30, 1960 our mother passed away

In due course Marlene and I were blessed with three healthy children Loree Marlene James William and Mary Jean. We enjoy the outdoors, and the girls especially like their horses. I think this has been the best part of my life

Mr and Mrs. Merriman Sr and Henry Mitzner are buried in the Eckville Cemetery

MEYERS, MATTHEW AND LILLIE — by Lillie Meyers

Matthew and Lillie Meyers first came to Eckville with the John Meyers family in May 1925. Because of eczema they returned to Medicine Hat to Dr Smythe. When we returned later in 1925 Mrs Anna Dahl and Rudolph Dahl, Lillie's mother and brother also came to Eckville. Mrs. Anna Dahl was the janitor of the school at Eckville for 17 and one half years and also did laundry In 1939 she married Oscar Mottus, of the Wolfe School district. They resided in Eckville until her passing in July 1965. In 1927 the Matthew Meyers' returned to Manyberries and farmed there for eight years In October, 1935 the Conrad Meyers' and Matthew Meyers' families came to Withrow

Slim and Lil acquired a house on a farmstead of Bill Dirsten s, northwest of Withrow and lived there, along with the Conrad Meyers family. The children of these families had to walk three and one half miles to Blueberry Valley School which was a hard way to get an education. The next year they had to walk the same distance to Wolfe School where two of the teachers remembered are Miss Munroe and Miss Blanche Arndt They were always tired when they got home from school — one had to feel sorry for the little tykes Our entertainment was the annual Christmas concert and the dance afterwards The kids got a candy bag at the concert of Christmas candy orange and peanuts Slim and Rudolph or Art often, or mostly, supplied the music for the dance by playing the violin and guita

At Withrow the post office was operated by Lil Meyers for 12 and one half years and had 30 customers who came and picked up their mail The going salary was $8.33 per month and for the mail carrying which meant going and picking up the mail from the train, they received $13.33

Jack Scofield got Slim to go buying grain at Alhambra. Wally Meyers took over the oil business at Withrow and in 1946 he took over the post office when he married Vera Blomgren of Donalda who was working at the Lumber yard at Rocky Mountain House and Vera became postmistress for a few years

Rationing books during the war had to be picked up at Eckville and were given out at the store when the supplies were purchased

Matthew (Slim) Meyers and wife Lillian on their 50th wedding

However we could buy only so much, and when the coupons were gone for that month we went without. We often traded coupons amongst ourselves to get the things we needed. The store was not supposed to take loose coupons so we took each other's books in order that we could all manage as some needed some things more than others. For example, we did not need butter coupons and traded them for sugar coupons.

Our only medical care was with Dr. Coppock of Eckville.

Most weddings were very simple, however when Faye and Walter were married they had a reception in a cafe in Red Deer in 1941. Most of our clothes were made from boughten materials. However back in the early thirties we made most of our clothes and underwear from flour sacks.

In 1936 bread cost 10 cents a loaf. Lil often read tea cups to tell the future often for a good .

Matthew Meyers died in January 1974 and was laid to rest in the Eckville Cemetery. Lillie Meyers lives in Red Deer. Their son Wallace and Vera reside in Torrington and have four children, Sharon, Shirley, Janet and Alvin.

Their daughter Dorothy (Mrs. E. Glenn Good) resides at Red Deer and have three children, Trudy, Brian and Stanley.

Their daughter Marlene was born some 24 years after her sister Dorothy in November, 1950, delivered by Dr. Coppock in Eckville hospital. Marlene married Stanley Krawiec Jr. and they have one son Stanley Krawiec the 3rd.

MITZNER, AUGUST AND JULIA

August Mitzner was born at Pasen, Germany and left for the United States at the age of 11. In 1890, in Minnesota, he married Julia Zeigo.

Following the stream of people seeking land, he came to Alberta in 1904. In 1905, he brought the rest of the family to Alberta with the exception of Clara, Mrs. C. Bromling. She and her husband and four children came in 1913.

They took up a homestead north of Sylvan Lake, the SE 6-40-2-W5. They later bought and improved the farm north of Eckville. This remained their home until their passing.

They owned and operated a hotel and livery barn in Eckville, for a while, then moved back to the farm.

Their home was a stopping place for immigrants as they were travelling through or looking for homesteads.

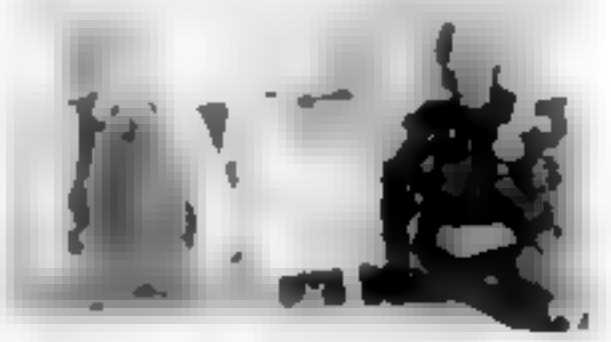
When the railroad was being built, the construction crews with their mule teams, sometimes as many as 40, made this their head quarters. Cooking for this gang of men and caring for the animals was a big undertaking.

They had their share of hardships and grief as did all the early settlers who helped build this wonderful country to make it what it is now.

August took an active interest in community affairs. He served on the old Local Improvement council, on school boards and was a charter member of the local Co-op Store.

The family scattered, some going back to the United States. Charlie served in the Canadian armed forces and Frank in the U.S. armed forces.

On December 21, 1940, Mr. and Mrs. Mitzner celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.



August and Julia Mitzner - Diamond Wedding

August passed away March 21, 1943 at 80 years of age. Julia died on May 29, 1955 in her 90's. Both are buried in the Eckville cemetery.

Edward Mitzner lived in Billings, Montana with his wife and one son, Lloyd. He returned to the family farm in Eckville. His wife passed away and his son and family remained in Billings. He passed away in 1971.

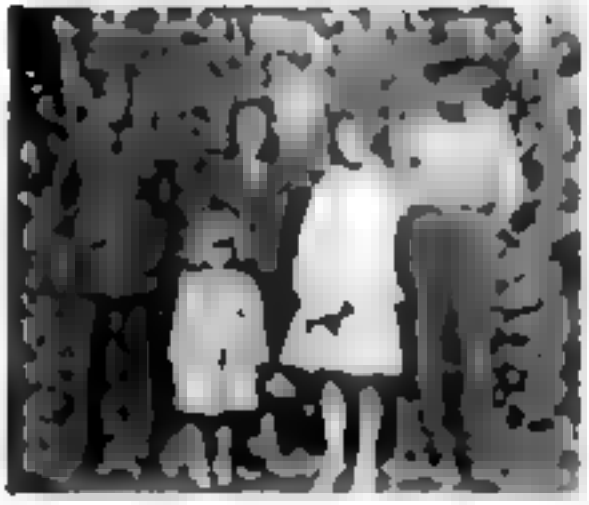
Hattie, Mrs. Stevens, lived in Billings, Montana. She had one son, Gordon.

Emma, Mrs. Brown, is still making her home in Billings, Montana, operating a Ladies' Wear shop. She had no children.

Frank Mitzner died in a sanatorium in Walla Walla, Washington.

Charlie Mitzner had no children.

Henry passed away in 1934.



Louis married Burt Brown. They make their home at Fort St. John, B.C. They had three children, Donald died at an early age leaving his wife and eight children. He is buried at Vig Lutheran cemetery Bentley

Beth now Mrs. Bruder and Lillian Mrs. Pete Neal, both live at Prince George

Clara Bromling's history appears elsewhere in the book

THE ART MOENCH FAMILY — by A. H Moench

Art Moench and his wife, Martha came to Eckville in August 1956 from Calgary We had a son Douglas, age seven, born in Medicine Hat Alberta and a daughter Carol, age one, born in Calgary, Alberta. In 1964 we were blessed with another daughter, Shawna, born in Eckville

Upon my arrival from Calgary I became the Department Manager for the Eckville Co-Op Hardware in the old building where the new Co Op Hardware is now in operation

In March, 1958 the Co-op Grocery and Dry goods Store on the corner of Railway Street was ruined by fire. By August, 1958 the store was rebuilt on a larger scale, with the hardware department in the basement of the new store While I worked in the basement my wife was also employed in the same department. She also managed the toy department during the Christmas season, first in the old hardware then later in the old Revelstoke Store, which was then owned by the Co-op. (This store was later sold to Art Langer and he in turn sold it to Carrell and Sons, who own and operate it at the present time.

While employed at the Co-op we worked under W G. McAndrew General Manager at the time until May of 1964 In June, 1964, we bought out the former Joe Marshall Hardware located next to the Legion Hall. We operated in that store until May, 1974 when we purchased the Chester F Kasha building and moved our stock from the other store to our new location

Due to health reasons, I was forced to seek retirement and at present we still own the store and with the help of our family, we are still operating it

The years we've spent in Eckville have been very challenging and rewarding. We have met many people and made many friends. We are proud to say that Eckvile is truly a wonderful place to live with the most beautiful area surrounding it The changes from 1956 to 1977 have been terrific, and many more are in sight, as you can see. The town is still growing, business-wise as well as in the residential section

Our children have attended school in Eckville moved on after graduation and then returned to Eckville again a few years later

Our son Douglas is married to Louise Mottus and they have two daughters — Kandice and Krystal. Douglas is an electrician, has his own business and also helps us with the hardware

Our daughter Carol married Dennis Murray Carol is a C N A. and works at the Eckville Hospital and helps out in the hardware. Her husband, Dennis, is employed by us in the [illegible]

Our youngest daughter Shawna, is attending Eckville Junior High. She will likely go on to other areas after graduation but will probably land back in Eckville to help with the family business

The 21 years in Eckvile have passed so fast that I don't actually feel as an old timer, but maybe the next book will be written by our children, so they can carry on from where we left off

For now I'll sit back and visit with the many customers and friends that we've made over the years. We've always been too busy to do this before. So I hope to see you all in the future It's been a pleasure meeting you and serving you all

HENRY HOLANDER FAMILY — by Vera Holander

Henry Holander and Anna Charlotta Erickson were united in marriage in Revelstoke B.C in 1906. Henry worked there in the sawmills In the spring of 1907 they came east across the mountains to Alberta to settle in Red Deer at the Conquist House While there Henry worked in the brickyards, and Anna sold milk to the neighbors to earn a little money Alfred their first son, was born in 1907

In 1908 Henry and Anna moved to a farm the SW 36-39-4 W5. Their nearest neighbors were Ed Medin, John Randall, the McLeans, the Mattilas and the Tomingas family In 1911 Albert was born, then in 1913 Harold was born, followed by Lenna in 1916 and Elsie in 1918

In the spring of 1918 Henry and Anna moved to the Billy Mannis farm, which now belongs to George Duncan, Sr They lived there one year before moving to Forhan's farm, where they stayed for five years

Helen was born in 1921, weighing only two pounds and four ounces at birth. That same year the school first opened and Alfred started to school. He walked to school in the spring and summer and in the wintertime he drove a horse with a stoneboat behind. The first Eckville school was moved across the river and made into a church. Alfred went to school only one year. The two-room school, built in Eckville in 1921, is now a blacksmith shop on Railroad Avenue.

When living in Red Deer they had bought a cow in the spring so they would have their own milk. The cow gave more milk than needed for the family so they sold milk to neighbors and others in the town. When living southwest of ville, Henry and Anna milked up to 20 cows a oks were too poor to pay for the milk, but, pay or not, they still got their milk. Henry and Anna sold milk right up until the late 40's just before leaving the farm to retire in Eckville in 1952. They lived in a house just north of the hospital in Eckville. Anna died in August of 1955 and Henry in 1962. These people were very kind-hearted and would give you the shirt off their back if you needed it.

When living on Forhan's farm, the boys went out picking saskatoons. There were so many and so big (the size of grapes) that they filled every container they could find. Anna didn't know what to do with them all as she didn't have enough jars for them and had no way to freeze them.

When Albert and Alfred went to school they hauled the milk on the stoneboat and delivered it in town before nine o'clock. The teacher they had would look out the window and see them, then set the clock ahead and start class, so they'd be late.

Miss Kunna was Alfred's first teacher. Other teacher's names were: Mr. Ludwig, Miss Moller, Miss Thompson (married Harry Low), Miss Hope and Miss Benidictson. They can remember in the winter all huddling around the stove and walking around the room, trying to keep warm. The ink was frozen in the ink wells and it was noon before everything thawed.

Some of the doctors well remembered in Eckville were Dr. Evans, Dr. Backus, Dr. Somerville, Dr. Schreiber and Dr. Claxton. Later came Dr. Palmer, Dr. Coppock and Dr. Gibson. Home remedies for colds were goose grease and flannel cloths, warmed up on the cook stove. A wee drop of coal oil and sugar helped sore throats. For diarrhea a tiny drop of the very powerful "Hoffman Drops" helped. A mixture of sulphur and molasses worked as a spring tonic. Sweet oil was often used for earaches and cloves for toothaches. Brown paper soaked in vinegar with pepper sprinkled on it worked before a doctor pulled a tooth.

When Elsie was very small she had pneumonia. Dr. Claxton was afraid that she would not live, but with goose grease, mustard plasters, turpentine and steam, he managed to save her, although she has always had weak lungs.

In the 30's, when it was so dry, the price of machinery, livestock and grain was very low. The highest price remembered for machinery was $1,445 for a tractor and $200. for a plow. One thing they remembered about the price of cattle was their bull, weighing 1900 pounds and selling for $19. Pigs were three dollars each. Barley went as low as eight cents a bushel and wheat 30¢ a bushel. People would sell their animals and many times they were buied for the freight. Oxen were used for farming before horses became commonly used. They had buggies and democrats pulled by the horses. In 1923 Henry and Anna bought their first car, a 1918 Model T Ford.

From 1924 to 1930 Henry worked on the railroad, travelling throughout the province. In January of 1927 Fred, the youngest, was born. Alfred went out in the bitter cold to get the mid wife for his mother.

The roads were only cow trails. There were no fences, and people travelled on the high parts of the land. Roads were built later often by men who worked on them as a way to pay their taxes. This was much easier than paying cash, when money was hard to get. When it rained the trails were so bad they couldn't get through with the Model T. No one went anywhere without haywire, the most used article to keep your car together and running. A rope was also carried so a horse could pull you out when you got stuck — that is, if the horse didn't shy away from the noise of the car.

In 1911 the Canadian National Railroad was built to Nordegg from Red Deer. Then in 1911 the Canadian Pacific Railway was built as far as Rocky Mountain House. Farmers went to help build the railroads after the crops were seeded. Picks, horses, shovels and slips were used. Hay was hauled to Withrow to be sold to the C P R to feed the horses.

One day when Alfred was out cutting hay on Kingseps an airplane came over very low. His horse just crumbled to the ground with fright. The plane had come about two feet above the shed he was behind. The noise of the plane was enough to put a scare into anyone. Planes would land on level ground near the school on Lenny Kingsep's land. School children would rush to look at them, as they were something quite new to them at this time.

Anna had a horse (Dolly) and a buggy of her own to use for going to town. The horse had to be led to get it going, then she would jump in and the horse wouldn't stop until it reached Eckville. One day Alfred put the harness on Dolly for his mother to go to town. Anna and the baby got in. Alfred put in a crate of eggs, and got the horse going. Just as he let go, he remembered he had forgotten to put the bridle on the horse. There was no stopping or slowing Dolly without it.

Anna took Harold, the baby, by the collar and dropped him off the buggy, just missing a big tree. Then she herself jumped out. After running back to get the baby, who was fine, she realized that she had lost a $20. cheque in all the excitement. She walked back and forth over the track until she finally found it.

MOLANDER, ALFRED AND BERTHA — by Vera Molander

Alfred Molander and Bertha Molander were united in marriage on December 21, 1933. Alfred took his bride to his home on the SW 16-39-3-W5 where they are still living at the present time.

Vernon was born in 1934. He farms with his dad.

Melvin was born May 30, 1938. He married Faye Olson in 1960. They have two children Cheryl and Corey. Melvin is now driving truck in Calgary.

May was born March 2, 1942. She married Albert Cook in 1961. They have two children Lorna and Alvin. They are living at Grimshaw Alberta, on a farm.

MOLANDER, HAROLD AND VERA — by Vera Molander

Harold Molander and Vera Thyssen were married on December 22, 1944 at the Dyrland home. They had 10 children, six boys and four girls. Their first baby, a boy was stillborn. Then in December, 1956 their second youngest boy Richard, died at the age of five years of a brain tumor. They now have four boys and four girls Barbara, Teresa, Edward, Eric, Dale, Betty Charlotte and Neal.

Barbara was born April 2, 1947. She has been working with the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce since 1968, having worked in Eckville, Grande Cache, Yellowknife and Grande Prairie, and is now working in Edmonton.

Teresa was born February 14, 1949, and is married to Wayne Hewett, a gas plant operator now working in Mulhurst, Alberta. Teresa is a psychiatric nurse and is working in Red Deer.

Edward, who was born on March 17, 1950, works as a second foreman at Fleetwood in Red Deer. He married Lois Golem, and they have a son, Daryl.

Eric, the second oldest boy, was born on May 6, 1954. He is presently at home, helping on the farm. He helps his uncle put in his crops and helps put up the hay for his father.

Dale, born April 29, 1955, is in Vernon, B.C. working with a construction company.

Betty, born December 14, 1956, was married to Kevin Larlo, of Red Deer, on October 8, 1977. They are living at Fort McMurray, where Kevin works in the insulation and aluminum siding business.

Charlotte Ellen, born April 18, 1958 is married to Lyle Rennie. They live in Red Deer, where Lyle is employed as a welder at Sorenson Distributors. They have one son, Alan.

Neal, the youngest child, was born March 19, 1964. He goes to the Eckville Junior High School and is active in Boy Scouts. He is in Grade 8 in 1977, and hopes to go through Grade 12.

Barbara, Teresa, Edward and Betty all have their high school diplomas.

Harold Molander has been working for the town of Eckville since June 20, 1964.

THE FRED MOLANDER FAMILY — by Frances Molander

Fred is the youngest son of the late Henry and Anna Molander. He was born January 2, 1927 on the home place — S.E. 17-39-3-W5. On October 30, 1948 he was united in marriage to Frances Taylor, daughter of "Curley" and Louise Taylor of the Stauffer district. From this union there are four daughters — Harriet, born July 18, 1949. Coral, born December 29, 1954. Penny, born July 3, 1956, and Rhonda, born July 6, 1958. Their children, in turn, have given them four grandchildren. Michelle and Clinton are daughter and son of Harriet and Maurice Clark of Eckville. Corin is the son of Coral and Wes Lewis of Red Deer, and Tasha is the daughter of Penny and Raymond Muller of Rocky Mountain House.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Molander, Rhonda, Penny, Harriet and

Fred is well known in the area as a "darn good" mechanic. He has been at this type of work since he was 16 years old. Also, in his younger years he helped his brother Albert in the trucking business. Grain augers were not too plentiful in those days, so scoop shovels were used for loading grain.

In 1949 Henry turned the farm over to his son Fred, who moved to the farm in 1952 and has resided there ever since. He has his own shop on the farm and still does mechanical work on every type of machinery.

Fred and Frances are also known in the community as Jehovah's Witnesses. Perhaps you have had a visit from them in the Bible Educational work. Apart from what has been said here, Fred and his family lead a calm and quiet life.

UNCLE JOHN MOLANDER (1881-1974) — by Vera Molander

Uncle John was born in Sweden, and grew up there. When he was in his early 20's he sailed for Canada, arriving in Kenora, Ontario in the spring of 1903. It took his ship 30 days to cross the Atlantic, due to stormy weather.

He found a job digging trenches by hand. After staying in Kenora for a few years he took the train west to British Columbia to work as a scaler in the logging camps. He was also a foreman in a lumber camp in Washington U.S.A. for a period of time.

When Uncle John retired from the woods in 1939, he bought a farm near Forshee, southeast of Rimbey. He never built a house or barn on the land, but instead stayed with his neighbors 'Rigby's when he was there, or batched in an old granary. During the 1940's and 1950's he rented out his land, then later sold it to Leo Palm.

He lived in a house in Eckville with Henry and Anna Molander which was sold later to Bruce and Joan Bardenhagen. He then moved to the Rocky Mountain House Lodge and lived there for a number of years. He often came to the home farm where Fred and Frances Molander now live, on the SE 17 39-3 W5.

Uncle John visited with his many friends and relatives in the Eckville area. Everyone who knew him called him "Uncle John", he was loved by all.

Uncle John lived to the age of 93 years. He died in a Rimbey hospital in October of 1974 and was buried in Red Deer beside his brother Henry and Henry's wife, Anna.

THE AUGUST MORO FAMILY — by Mr. and Mrs. August Moro

Karl Moro and his brother John emigrated from Estonia to Canada in 1904. They were drawn to the Eckville area where an Estonian community was developing. Included in this community were the Kingseps and the Kannas with whom the Moros had been acquainted in Estonia. With him, Karl brought his wife, Mary, and his sons August, George, and Oscar. August had been born in 1901.

Both Karl and John acquired homesteads about three miles north of the present site of Eckville, their land being separated by the Medicine River. The farming work was done at this time with oxen supplying the power. In 1919 Karl left his original homestead, having bought land 7½ miles north of Eckville. (This land was later sold to his cousins Pete and Ed Moro, and is still known as the Pete Moro place.) The family was moved to the new location, but Mrs. Moro suffered a stroke in 1921, and passed away in 1924. She was buried in the Gilby cemetery.

Karl built a flour mill in 1923 located where the Coppens' house now stands. However his sons, Oscar and August, formed a partnership and bought the flour mill from their father in 1925. In 1928 Karl, along with his sons, George and Otto, had moved to the Peace River area. Karl took up market gardening, and the boys worked in a sawmill. (In 1959 Karl passed away and is buried at Peace River.)

This country appealed to Oscar as well, so he dissolved his partnership with August in the flour mill at Eckville in 1929, so that he could join his father and brothers at Peace River. Here he, along with his cousin, Ed Moro, built and operated a flour mill, which business they continued for about three years. Oscar is now operating a farm machine shop as well as farming at Peace River. Ed is retired, and spends his summers in Summerland, B.C., and his winters in Desert Springs, California.

August continued operating the flour mill at Eckville until 1947 except for a period of two years, 1935-1937, during which he rented the mill to his brother Oscar. During this period August was occupied with a saw mill business in the Prairie Creek area. The mill, in addition to grinding grain into flour, generated electricity and in 1939 the town of Eckville was first supplied with electric lighting. Anyone with power outage trouble came directly to August for a solution to their problems. August was once refunded the amount of a monthly power bill after the electricity service was taken over by Calgary Power. This was because he had been the longest user of electric power in Eckville.

In 1947 August sold the flour mill to the Eckville Co-op and it was then operated as a feed mill and seed cleaning plant until it burned down in 1957. The sale of his house along with the mill necessitated the acquisition of another house, so, in 1947 August built a house in Eckville on his present lot. This house was replaced, in 1962, by a larger house which August built assisted by two carpenters. This house was built from 4" by 4" squared logs, and the total cost was only $3,500.

After selling the flour mill August again became interested in working with the timber. He built and operated his own sawmill and planer. This business was carried on in various locations in the Rocky Mountain House area until 1972, at which time he decided to quit working and enjoy his retirement years with his wife, Lily, at their home in Eckville.

August was married in 1927 to Lilly Waisanen, in Calgary. Their honeymoon was their trip by car, from Calgary to Eckville. Their car was a Ford "bug", which resembled a race car. Prior to their marriage Lilly had been working in Calgary in the Ontario Steam Laundry and August spent that summer working in Cochrane in a garage.

Their family consisted of three children. Clarence was born at home, with Dr. Somerville officiating, in 1928. He is now employed in construction work in Edmonton. He and his wife Martha (Letendre) have three girls — Wendy, Cindy and Candy.

Norman was born in the Bentley hospital in 1932, with Dr. Henry in attendance. He now lives in Calgary and is associated with the F. J. Toole and Cote Real Estate, Ltd. He married Lorraine Dancer, from Winnipeg. Their family consists of two girls, Carolyn and Pamela, and one boy, Gary.

Alice was born in 1942 in the Eckville hospital with Dr. Coppock in charge. She is married to Calvin Kenzie and now lives in Calgary. They have two daughters, Susan and Alexis, both still

MURRAY CHIC AND MARGARET

Charles (Chic) and Margaret Murray arrived in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan on February 1, 1948, after leaving their home in Perth, Scotland and flying out from Prestwick. They were accompanied by their eldest daughter, Gatie who was then 11 months old and Margaret's mother, Elsie Adams.

Chic had just finished five years in the Army having served with the Fife, Forfar Yeo. They were attached to the Canadian Forces and landed with them on "D" day.

They made their home in Birch Hills Saskatchewan where son Frank and daughter Moria Charlene were born.

In the fall of 1971 they moved to Eckville accompanied by Charlene, where Chic took up employment with Kaska Farm Supplies as partsman.

On July 12, 1974, Moria Charlene married Brian George Lutz in the Eckville Presbyterian Church. They have a son Gregory Brian and a daughter, Kirsty Dawn and are living in Rocky Mountain House.

THE FRED NEEDHAM FAMILY (MARGARET SCHOFER) — by Margaret Schofer

In April of 1910 my Dad, Fred Needham and his brother-in-law Leo Franke, went to Stettler Alberta from Erie, North Dakota. They were met by Dad's brother Walter, who took them to the Lloyd George district where he had picked his own land. Dad filed on homestead rights on the NE 24-32-19 W5 and pre-emption rights on the SE ¼ of the same section. Fred, Dad and Uncle Leo then went back to North Dakota to finish their affairs and bring their families and belongings to their new home-land. They left Uncle Walter to take care of their interests and break the required amount of land to hold homestead rights.

Dad and Uncle Leo came out again in October, 1910, shipping their settlers' effects and livestock to Stettler. They loaded the furniture and other things that would be needed right away for the homestead on wagons and left the balance on freight cars to be re-routed to Morrin, as the railroad was being built south. This freight did not arrive until in March, 1911. Lumber bought in Stettler, meant a return trip. The first loads were taken to Uncle Walter's, a two-day trip, and left in his yard. By this time the women folk and families had been advised to come.

My mother, Bertha Needham, was a very young woman with two children, Edward, one and a half years old and four-month-old Pearl, who is now Mrs. Archie McAlister of Big Valley. Uncle Leo's wife, Pearl, was the mother of two year-old Frances. Another Needham brother Uncle Wesley, came to help the ladies with the children. He also took up a homestead in Alberta.

On the trip out from Erie, more immigrant cars were added to the train. Passengers were mostly women and children going to join their menfolk on homesteads in the new land. On the train, and before leaving North Dakota the ladies had heard some wild stories about cowboys and Indians in Alberta.

Upon arriving in Stettler in early November they had to stay overnight. They got rooms in a hotel operated by "Daddy" Vart and his wife who was a mother to all who came with children. Their rooms were on the main floor of the hotel near the office. As usual, there was a lot of noise around, and when the women looked out of their rooms to see what was going on, they saw men wearing cowboy clothes and guns. They were not long in closing their door. The men folk came from the homestead in the early hours of the morning and collected their families, and the next day started on the long trail, travelling over frozen ground for a full day's trip.

Homes had to be built before winter set in. A work bee was arranged and wonderful neighbors, Jack and Laurie Smith, Albert Chase and Mr. Reinhold, all new settlers themselves, were there to lend a helping hand. As the saying goes, "Many hands make the load light", and soon homestead shacks were built, although many hardships were yet facing the women and men alike. Many years later proper homes were built.

On one of the first nights in their new homes, the women and children were left alone, as again the menfolk had to go to Stettler for supplies. There were no locks on the doors and the women were still not very brave in this new land. To protect themselves against any possible intruders, all the big knives that could be found were put in the door. When the menfolk did return, it took some time before they could get into the house, with all the knives to be taken out.

Needless to say the locks were put on the door the next day — but very seldom used after the folks got used to the country

As the years went by more children were added to the Fred Needham family There was James, who is with the Alberta Wheat Pool at Breton and who will be retiring from this position in 1977 Calvin, who is now at Claresholm, Ina Mrs. John Moore) living at Langley, B.C. Irene Mrs. George DeWild) at Airdrie, Alberta Margaret Mrs. Schofer) at Eckville: Ralph, living in Calgary Frances Mrs Carmen Baird at Rancho Mirage California, Clarence at Alhambra, Gordon in Calgary, Roy at Big Valley Lloyd at Hemet California, Edward in Calg and Pearl Mrs. Archie McAlister) at Big Valley

Dad passed away on February 12, 1962 in Stettler, after many years of illness Our baby sister Eleanor, passed away on October 7, 1972, in a plane crash. Eleanor her husband, Tony Giesebrecht, and their youngest son, Freddy age 16 years, owned their own light aircraft They resided at Nanaimo, B.C , along with two older boys. However, it was Eleanor Tony and Freddy who were flying from Nanaimo to Lethbridge airport for the Thanksgiving weekend — Tony's folks lived at MacLeod and they were going to visit them Ten minutes after their aircraft left the Kelowna Airport the plane crashed, and all three were killed They were found in the early hours on the next day Their two oldest boys, Dwayne and Donald, are still at Nanaimo

In July, 1972 Garry Needham, Edward's eldest son was killed in a motorcycle accident in Calgary

It was in 1933 that the family moved to the Benalto-Evarts district — to the SE 26-38-3 W5, known to us as the Black farm, and which is now the home of Mr and Mrs. Leo Soerd. We went to school at Evarts, in the winter with the sleigh and in the summer on horseback, with a wagon,

Our closest neighbors were the Dewey Nielsens, Mr and Mrs Dave Hamilton, and the Robert Medins These homes were our second home — we spent many happy hours with these wonderful neighbors. In 1935 we moved to the town of Eckville, and from there the family broke up and moved to many different places Mother is still with us, spending most of the winter in California with Frances and Lloyd. In the summer of 1976 she was not able to go back to her home in Big Valley and happy to say she has been with me since coming back from California. She was 85 years young on November 15 1976.

Through the early years in the Lloyd George area our home was 10 miles east of Rowley Alberta — the Needham families helped the community in every way possible. They helped to build the Lloyd George School (in the early years it was called Mickield boarded many of the teachers, and served on the school boards. Dad was one of the district's musicians, playing violin, piano or banjo, along with his friend and neighbor, Jesse Miller, on the drums. They played for many school and good old barn dances and in homes. They were always active in community affairs and the Needham doors were never closed to any one in need

After a few years in this new land the folks did not worry about locking their doors - they soon found they did not need the knives in the door In those very early days everyone had to depend on their neighbor for help, and it was always there In our family this willingness to help carried on throughout the years as long as it was humanly possible for mom and dad to do it As I sit and write these memories with the help of my sister Pearl and mother (most of it came from them) along with my brother-in-law Archie McAlister a lot of very pleasants thoughts go through my mind Most of the memories are of the good times we had at home. Although there were many of us, and times were tough in the 1930's we did have a happy home life and are very thankful for every minute that we had together The bad times seemed to bring us closer together We always enjoyed our neighbors wherever we lived and Sundays were a big day when we lived at Rowley — there were always neighbors coming over or we were at the neighbors' homes for that friendly ball game or horse-shoe game, and usually, at the end of the day a big picnic lunch with lots of homemade ice cream Those were the good old days

I, Margaret started to work in the Eckville Town office on April 4, 1949 and am still on the job in 1977 I worked in the post office for a number of years with Dan Clausen, also for a short time after Gordon McNeil became postmaster My brother Jim had the rural mail route number three and I helped out on this at that time and later became involved with it again When we first started on this route I remember Jim going out with a team and sleigh, leaving at seven o'clock in the morning and getting home around seven at night His pay (?) was about three or four dollars a day He would change teams about half way around the route. At the present time the same mail route covers the Evarts area and very seldom does it take more than three hours to do it even in the winter time with roads being kept open and no need to use horses and sleighs anymore. Well, times change and we must keep up with the times

THE NEUFELDS

Alice and Jim Neufeld came to Eckville in March of 1963 to operate the local veterinary clinic. The business was called Parkland Veterinary Clinic. At that time it was the only veterinary service west of Red Deer It serviced an area as far flung as Winfield to Caroline and Bentley to Markerville. The business employed three veterinarians and three non-professional people during his busy years. In December 1968 the practice was terminated in order that Jim could begin a new career in Veterinary

During the years in Eckville they built a house in the west-end subdivision of the town.

Son Jamie arrived in Eckville in the summer of 1968.

Jim was involved with the Lesserville Elks, Eckville Legion and was probably best known for his addiction to curling, spending a great deal of time in local curling clubs and attending local bonspiels. Jim also participated in activities of the 4-H beef clubs and presented a trophy each year to the best group of five calves in competition at the annual Achievement Day.

Alice was very active in the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid and was a founder and first teacher of the Eckville Figure Skating Club. (In the winter of 1968-69 we think.)

In September of 1970 the Neufelds moved away from Eckville to Ottawa.

OLDFORD, WILLIAM AND RHODA

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oldford lived just south of Eckville for a number of years before moving away to British Columbia. Rhoda is a daughter of a very early pioneer of the Blueberry Valley.

Her father P. A. Smith wrote in a letter to a friend in 1955: "I do know that we had quite a time in April, 1912 when we drove from Red Deer to Lesserville with oxen. It seems to me that it took almost a week to make the journey. We slept one night by the old Finn hall. The roads were so bad that we were getting bogged down pretty often, but there was one thing in our favour — we had plenty to eat. We had lots of fruit that we had preserved in Ontario, and a couple of good hams and plenty of bread, and of course we had a cow with us. We had a tough time, and I always figure that the ten years that we put in up on "them thar hills" were wasted."

Here Phil Smith seems to be referring to the homesteads he and his wife's people filed on in the Blueberry Hills north of Withrow — he later settled on a farm further west where his family grew up and he was quite successful, and a respected neighbor. His son Neal has lived there all his life, and raised his family of seven there.

Rhoda was a happy, carefree girl, always pleasant to be with. She had a great fondness for horses and riding.

She and Bill now live at Penticton, B.C.

EDWIN OLSEN FAMILY — by Edwin and Barbara Olsen

Edwin Richard Olsen was born on April 12, 1941 at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. His father, Kaare Olsen, was born on January 20, 1909 at Mosvik in Nord Frondelag, Norway and came to Canada in April 1929. His mother, Anna Friesen, was born on January 25, 1910 in Armawir, Kuban Province, Russia and came to Canada in October 1924.

Barbara Jean Hawkins was born on April 25, 1946 at Bentley, Alberta. Her father, Elton Hohn Hawkings, was born on October 5, 1921 at Bentley, Alberta and her mother, Helen Margaret Terry, was born on October 15, 1924 at Cookstown, Ontario. Both Ed and Barb spent most of their growing-up years northwest of Bentley.

Ed went to Lockhart school for Grades 1 to 6 and finished his schooling in Bentley. He went to the University of Alberta for four years following his graduation from high school, and received his B.Ed. During the summers he worked on the Louis Gyori farm as a hired hand for three years and then marked correspondence lessons in Edmonton. He also marked Grade XII Mathematics Departmental Exams in Edmonton for two summers. Ed came to Eckville to intern teach in May and June, 1963 and began teaching full time in Eckville in September 1963. During this time he lived with his parents and commuted.

Barb went to Bentley school for Grades 1 to 4, to Poplar Ridge for Grade 5 and part of Grade 6 and finished Grade 6 at Riverglen School in Red Deer. Grades 7 through 12 were taken in Bentley. In April 1964 she began work in the Bank of Montreal in Bentley.

On December 26, 1964 Ed and Barb were married in the Anglican Church of Epiphany in Rumbey, Alberta. They moved into Eckville on January 1, 1965.

Ed became vice-principal of the Eckville Junior-Senior High School in 1966. Following summer school attendance and evening credit courses, Ed, Barb and the children moved to Edmonton in August 1971 where Ed completed his Masters Degree on a Sabbatical Leave. They moved back to Eckville in June 1972, at which time they bought their home and Ed began teaching again. In 1975 he became principal.

Ed and Barb's two children were born in Eckville. Richard John on October 25, 1965 and Rhonda Lynne on January 10, 1968, with Dr. Bob Swain attending both births.

Ed has been active in the community of Eckville and with other organizations. When the Anglican Church was in Eckville he was secretary of the board. He was treasurer for the Mathematics Council, Alberta Teachers Association for three years, was on the Eckville Recreation Board as secretary and as chairman of the Lacombe Regional Recreation Board, and also served part of a term as Town Councillor of Eckville. At present he is secretary of the Lions Club, after having held several other offices, including that of president. He received his ten year perfect attendance pin this year. He is also

Lacombe Local ATA and is the Lacombe Representative on Council of School Administra

Ed's hobbies are key collecting and mechanics. At the present time he is taking a mechanics course through International Correspondence Schools.

Barb has also been active. When the Anglican Church was in Eckville she was in the Women's Auxiliary as secretary and she also taught Sunday School and had a Youth Group for boys and girls. She has also taught Sunday School and has been a leader for CGIT's and Explorers in the Presbyterian Church. She taught the Jack and Jill Playschool for three years and subbed for [illegible] year. She was secretary of the Board of Directors when the Playschool became affiliated with Preventive Social Services. In the fall of 1975 she approached the Town Council for permission to form a voluntary Welcome Mat for the town of Eckville and a five-mile radius. With the help of Dorothy Carritt the Eckville Welcome Mat was formed and Barb has been hostess for it. Since October 1975 76 new families have been welcomed to the community. At present time she is secretary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Evening Group, is beginning her sixth year as a CGIT leader is in the Presbyterian Church Choir and is on the Parent Group Committee for the Eckville Scouting Organization. Barb's hobbies collecting souvenir spoons and stamps.

Rick was in Eckville Cubs and is now in Scouts. He belongs to the Presbyterian Teeners Youth Group. Rhonda belongs to Explorers after graduating from CGC. She is also taking figure piano lessons.

In June of 1977 Ed, Barb and the children transferred their membership from the Anglican Church to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

THE JAMES OLSON FAMILY — by B. A. Schey

James Olson and his wife Minnie arrived at Eckville in March, 1903 from Cumberland, Wyoming, U.S.A. They immigrated to the United States from Finland in about 1890, and were married in Ishpeming, Michigan on July 2, 1896. They had seven daughters and one son. One daughter and the only son died in infancy. The surviving daughters were Mrs. Ole Schey (Mildred) Mrs. Frank Lingren (Emma) Mrs. Henry Lingren (Ida), Mrs. Ed Aho Annie of Eckville, Mrs. Joe Connole (Jean), of Butte, Montana, and Mrs. Albert Saari (Mary) of Kaslo B.C.

Mrs. Olson died at Eckville in December of 1936 and Mr. Olson in August of 1944. They homesteaded two miles south of Eckville, on what is now Joe Rasmussen's place. SW 10-39 3 W5.

Mr. Olson was one of the first settlers in the area and had for his mode of transport a horse and oxen hitched to a wagon, with which he hauled supplies from Red Deer (a two or three day trip). He followed the trail which passed through the Burnt Lake country. Mr. Olson cleared a lot of land for himself and other neighbors, doing it the hard way — with grub hoe and axe. He also built many log buildings in the area, some of which still stand today. Some have been covered with siding so that they are no longer recognizable as log buildings. One example is the old Gustavson house, some two or three miles northwest of Eckville. He made most of his tools out of old scrap iron from which he fashioned, among other things, skis and poles of birch and willow. Mr. Olson skied a great deal during his lifetime.

He handmade fish nets and boats, with which he reaped a harvest of different fish from the Medicine River which bisects the homestead. He had his own smoke house and produced many delicious meals of smoked fish. Many of the saunas around the district were of his craftsmanship, and many people of the district enjoyed his saunas on a Saturday night.

MICHAEL ONOFRYSZYN FAMILY

Mike Onofryszyn emigrated from Poland to southern Alberta in 1928. He worked for farmers for a short time, then took a job as section man with the CNR. In 1935 his wife, Maria, and only son, Jarvis, came from Poland to join him.

The family's first home was Scotfield, Alberta and a year later they moved to Youngstown. The family had been farmers in Poland so when

Mike transferred to the CN section at Eckville it was only natural they would return to the land They purchased the old John Johnson homestead two and one-half miles north of town. In 1948 they moved to the old Eckford place one mile north of town. They moved to the town of Eckville in 1953

Mike retired from the CNR in 1962 and passed away in October, 1968. His wife, Maria passed away in September of 1969

ORR, MR AND MRS JAMES AND FAMILY—by Sylvia Thackeray

Mr and Mrs. James Orr came originally from Ontario to the Eckville district about 1916 community-spirited people, belonging to various organizations Mrs. Orr was a member of the local U F W A during the years

They had five children: Jessie, Andy, Nellie, John and Walter Jessie was employed in the Eckville Hotel for a number of years

The annual Sports Day and Picnic was held on Victoria Day (May 24) and was always a very gala affair and was well attended. Some years plane rides were available for a fee. Jessie was one who went up for a ride, and coming in for a landing the plane hit the telegraph line and crashed. The plane was a wreck, and the passenger, Jessie, received a broken arm

When last known, Jessie had married and was living in Courtney B.C. John and Walter attended Eckville School. In 1923 the Orrs held an auction sale and returned to Ontario

PORTER, MRS. MARGARET N — 1881-1971 — by Laura Marshall

My mother, Mrs. Porter, emigrated to Canada in 1926, from Middlesbrough, Yorks, England

She married Harry W Porter in 1905. From this union were born seven children Laura (Marshall), James, Malcolm, Walter, Cecil and Margaret (Sleenson My father was called up at the outbreak of World War I as he was in what was known as the territorials, and was automatically called at the outbreak of the war He was seriously wounded in 1915 and died from the wounds. I'd like to point out here that my mother had to pay for the blanket he was buried in, out of the pittance the Imperial Government was paying war widows. Sure, he was awarded several medals, but does that feed and clothe a widow and seven children?

At the close of the first war my mother decided to come to Canada, as she had two brothers in Alberta. First she came to Chinook and, as she had had a great deal of experience in first aid and maternity work, she was in demand when news got around that she was proficient in these fields.

In 1925 she came to Condor and was busy mainly in maternity work. Many a baby she delivered without the aid of a doctor. At first she went out to the homes. Here she took care of mother and babe, cooked, did the laundry and took care of other members of the family. All this was done without the aid of modern conveniences such as we know today.

In 1926 the late Dr. A. Somerville persuaded her to move to Eckville, and in January of 1929 she opened and operated a nursing home. The house, located across the street from the bakery now occupied by the Wally Hanford family, became the first nursing home. Many of the children born there are now grandparents. My first two children were born there, Mavis being born without the aid of a doctor. At that time Dr. Somerville went to Leslieville every Tuesday and held office hours. It was on a Tuesday that Mavis decided to enter the world. The doctor had to go and isolate a number of infectious diseases that day and so the baby was born before he returned to Eckville.

After two years the government started to interfere, and wanted a lot of information in regard to patient care, etc. As a result, mother decided to move back to the farm at Condor. In the meantime Dr. Somerville had left Eckville and Dr. Claxton took over. My mother regarded both birth and death as of a serious nature, and she felt that Dr. Claxton was too indifferent in either case. Many of her former patients still wanted her in attendance at the birth of their babies, and they also passed the word around that patients could expect good care. Consequently, Mother reserved one bedroom in her home to be used as a maternity room.

In 1944 she moved to Calgary where she joined the Red Cross. About this time the war wounded were returning so she again took up her duties of serving coffee, doughnuts, etc. to the returning soldiers. In about 1949 Mother moved to Red Deer to make her home with brother, Walter.

With the influx of war wives, many with babies and little ones, Mother was in her element again. Cots were set up and babies bathed and fed, giving the mothers a chance to rest after the long journey from England. After all this excitement was over mother took a breather, except for her church work at the Cathedral Church of the Redeemer.

Mother still made her home with Walter until her failing health required that she enter the Father Lacombe Home at Midnapore. She was a patient there for three years. She fell and broke her hip and didn't recover from the operation of setting it.

Of Mrs. Porter all can say "Well done good and faithful servant."

PURNELL, LLOYD AND VERNA — by Verna Purnell

Lloyd and Verna were both born at Ponoka, Alberta, and were married there on August 31, 1947.

In the fall of 1949 they moved to Eckville, Alberta. Lloyd and his brother-in-law, Denny Sheppard, bought the International Harvester business from Rus Eastman. Mr. Verne Starr (whom many will remember) was zone manager in this area for the International Harvester Company at that time. They operated the business in the building which is now the Legion Hall until the spring of 1959. Lloyd then worked in Red Deer for Nance Company until September 1959, at which time he started working for the County of Lacombe as school bus foreman for Eckville. He is still working for the County in that position.

Denny and Hazel Sheppard and family moved to Red Deer in 1959.

Lloyd and Verna have two sons and one daughter. Brian Lloyd was born January 6, 1950 and was married to Margaret Derk in Edmonton on August 17, 1974. They now reside in Edson, Alberta, where Brian works at the Hudson Bay Gas Plant.

Kenneth Edward was born March 10, 1954 and was married to Ronny Hughes in June, 1976. They reside at Eckville. Ken works for McGregor Telephone and Power, erecting steel towers for the Calgary Power lines.

Patricia Leanne was born February 8, 1956 and was married to Duane Engman on February 12, 1977. They live on Duane's farm in the New Hill district south of Eckville. Pat works for the Hudson Bay Gas Plant south of Eckville.

QUANTZ, HAROLD FAMILY

There is something about small town friendliness that one appreciates. This was the feeling of Harold (formerly from Alliance, Alberta) and Dorothy (Vliet from Rimbey, Alberta) as they moved from Calgary to Eckville in August 1958. Since Harold had a brother here and the town is close to Rimbey, and we were able to rent a house, we arrived in time for our oldest child, Carol, to start Grade 1 in Eckville. Harold did carpenter work and was employed on the building of the south addition to the school.

Because Harold was feeling a call to enter the Christian ministry, we moved to Redcliff in December 1959; but came back to Eckville in August 1962 as the minister in the local Church of the Nazarene. With the help of many people giving of their labor and their finances the present church building was erected between 1963 and 1964.

Our youngest child, Maribee, started school here, and although we were away for seven years (two in High Prairie and five in Calgary east) she was in the graduating class with those with whom she had started to school.

Our son, Jerry, married Cindy Taylor from Calgary and they have two children, Chris and Angela. Jerry enjoys playing hockey with former classmates and friends. Our children lived here during their junior years, so consider Eckville their home town. When we were travelling between Rimbey and Calgary we often stopped to greet friends.

Make new friends but keep the old
One is silver, the other is gold

We probably hold a record, as we have lived in Eckville during three different periods of time for a total of 10 years at the time of writing, in a 21 year span. We appreciate the friendship and kindnesses which have been shown to us over

QUANTZ, HERBERT

Minister in the Church of the Nazarene in Eckville 1954-1961.

Herbert and Jean Quantz, with three children (Douglas, Karen and Donnie), came to Eckville in 1954 to be pastor in the local Church of the Nazarene. Herbert had taken a three year course at Canadian Nazarene College in Red Deer after having been discharged from the Air Force.

In Red Deer and later in Victoria, B.C. Herb worked for T. Eaton Company, but feeling that God's will was for him to be in the ministry, he subsequently accepted the pastorate here in Eckville. He clerked in Jenkin's grocery store as well as doing pastoral preaching and visiting.

Leaving here in 1961 he moved to Calgary and attended the University of Calgary, where he gained a Degree in Education. For a number of years he was both teacher and pastor, but is currently teaching in Drumheller, is active in the local church, and supplies as minister when needed.

RALPH, ALLAN AND IRENE

On January 24, 1874, John Alexander Ralph was born, the first son of Joseph and Elizabeth Ralph at Port Perry, Ontario. On December 16, 1885, Susan Albertha Morgan was born, the 11th child of Thomas and Catherine Morgan at Sandhill, Ontario. In March of 1886 the Morgan family moved to Treherne, Manitoba.

As a young man, Jack Ralph moved to the Treherne area where he met and later married Susan Morgan on December 26, 1906. In January 1907 they moved to what later became the Nut Mountain district of Saskatchewan. It was not until April, 1908 that the young Mrs. Ralph saw another white woman, when new settlers finally arrived.

In 1931, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph welcomed into their home their chosen son, Allan, who was born in Winnipeg, Manitoba on November 19, 1926.

In 1914, the Nut Grove School District No. 2924 came into being. It was in this school that Allan received his first 10 years of education. He later graduated in Saskatoon in 1945, being the first student of the Nut Grove School to graduate from high school. He entered the teaching profession in September 1945 and taught for three years. In 1952 he graduated from Two Rivers Bible Institute at Carlea, Saskatchewan.

In July, 1953, Susan Ralph passed away at Kelvington, Saskatchewan at the age of 68 years. Her husband, Jack Ralph, passed away six months later, on January 4, 1954, also at Kelvington, at the age of 79 years.

George Brown Hill was born in Preston, England on October 13, 1887. He immigrated to Canada after the first World War, having served in His Majesty's armed forces. In 1928 he married Mary (May) Black of Belfast, Northern Ireland. Their daughter Irene was born on October 23, 1930 and their son Gordon on October 21, 1933. Mr. Hill had one daughter, Frances, by a previous marriage. May Hill passed away on November 25, 1953 at the age of 46 years. George Hill passed away on March 25, 1968 at the age of 71 years.

In 1936 Allan Ralph moved to Vancouver, B.C. where he was employed by the B.C. Telephone Company for more than 10 years. He met and later married Irene Hill on July 26, 1957. In 1966 he returned to teach at Leader, Saskatchewan for four years. In 1970 he accepted the position of French teacher in the Eckville Junior Senior High School, where he is still employed in 1978. Irene Ralph began working at the newly-employed Treasury Branches of Alberta office in December, 1970 at Rimbey, Alberta, where she continues to work.

RANDALL, FAMILY — by Ernest Rachuk

Charlie, Erick, and Elmer Randall were born in Finland. Their father E. E. Randall filed on his homestead the NE 30-38-3-W5 about the turn of the century.

CHARLES RANDALL filed on his homestead NW 10-38-3-W5 later than his dad, about 1905. He came to the district from Butte Montana with the Hietala family (Henry Hietala still lives on his father's homestead one and one half miles east of Randall's farm)

Charles wanted a homestead with timber to build with and water for livestock so he built on the west side of the Medicine River

The Hudson Bay trail crossed the river by the Randall farm. All the first homesteaders like Erick Randall and my dad, Frank Barlund travelled the Hudson Bay trail to their homesteads north of Leslieville

When on the homestead they had hardships with cattle dying of blackleg and other diseases as there was no vaccination in those days

One time when coming home from Red Deer with clothing for himself and family and groceries and other supplies he had a near catastrophe. The river had become higher due to spring run-off. While crossing, the brand new wagon box came loose from the wagon and upset spilling contents in the river All the supplies and the box were lost The horses and wagon barely made it to shore, and Charles nearly lost his life He said if it had not been for his son Eino on shore, telling him Come on dad: you can make it, try again" he would have given up for he was just about played out in the cold and murky water

Charlie wanted his sons to get a college education or better, but they did not have a chance on the farm Eino and Arne were the first students at the old Eckville school

Charlie farmed until about 1915, then he had a sale and left for Reiner, Washington to make a home on an acreage. He took a job as carpenter with the Libby Co

Eino finished college and started in insurance business in Seattle

Arne finished his education and became a teacher, then a principal at Mossyback Washington and later as inspector of schools in Alaska, and other American points

Reino became a professor of Arts at Ellensburg Washington

My aunt and Uncle Charles, died a few years ago. Arne died after a lengthy illness on August 1 1977 at Polson Montana ERICK RANDALL homesteaded on the SW 25-40-4-W5 (the T Heikkinen land He was a trustee for the Leaf and school and a councilor for the Leslieville area. Erick had a university education in Stockholm so he was well qualified

He farmed until about 1931, when his wife died. Then he sold the farm to Heikkinens and left for Toronto. The log barn that Erick built still stands on the hill in Thelma Heikkinen's yard

Ericks's wife was a Finn-Swede who was very fluent in the Swedish, Finnish and English languages. She too, served on the Leafland school board for many years They did not have

After his wife died and before he left for Toronto, Erick remarried, the lady was Matt Heikkinen's sister

ELMER RANDALL homesteaded the SE 26 40-5-W5. He had two sons, Roy and Irvine, who live in British Columbia where they have been logging Elmer left the homestead and died many years ago

MATTHEW (MATT AND ALMA (PAANANEN RAUHALA

Matthew and Alma Rauhala were married on July 3, 1916. They lived in the Usona area for four years before they moved to the Red district, northwest of Ponoka, in 1920, where they lived for 50 years In June, 1970, they retired and moved to Eckville

Mr and Mrs. Rauhala have two sons, who both live in Red Deer Emil and his wife, Ann have two sons and one daughter Henry and his wife, Barbara, have one boy and one girl

Of the Rauhala a four daughters, the oldest Dagmar who married Roy Rook lives in Alberta Beach and has five sons. Martha and her husband, Frank Jones, have recently bought a farm near Eckville. They have one son and one daughter Dorothy and her husband, Derrick, Lawton, live in Eckville and they have three daughters. Elma and her husband, Ray Kelm, live in Rimbey Mr and Mrs. Rauhala also have a number of great-grandchildren

In 1963 Matt and Alma flew to Finland where they had a pleasant time visiting with relatives On July 3, 1965 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, with open house for family and friends Matt passed away on December 23, 1971

Alma greatly enjoys doing handicrafts and makes most of the gifts she gives away She often lends a helping hand to others. She belongs to a whist club, and takes part in the activities of the Eckvine and District Friendship Club. She continues to live in her own home in Eckville

RHODES, WALTER AND ELLA

Walter Douglas was born in Douglas, North Dakota U S.A. in February 1909. He came to Beverly Saskatchewan as a small child with his parents Mr and Mrs. Mark M Rhodes They farmed for many years and his father was elevator agent there They returned to the U S.A to Alhambra, California, for a few years and in 1928 moved back to Canada Walter went to school in Beverly and Alhambra

I Ella I Bassett was born in Crocker Missouri, U S.A. in September 1910 and came to the homestead at Cowan, Manitoba with my parents, Mr and Mrs. Jay D Bassett. In the spring 1913. We moved to Travers, Alberta to my Uncle Guy S. Bassett's farm in the spring of 1915 We were lucky to escape the 1918-1919 flu. We walked the three miles home from school many times through the dust storms that gradually covered the Russian thistles in the fence lines Travers was a lovely little town on the wide open prairie but by 1923 we were "broke" and gave up and went to Woonsocket, South Dakota where we farmed with grandfather that year. In the spring of 1924, we came back to Canada to Taber, Alberta and to irrigation farming. I went to Ingelview and sold Coin schools in Travers and Milwaukee and Woonsocket schools in South Dakota. In Taber I attended Central school then took a complete dressmaking and designing course.

The depression years were hard on the prairie. We worked at anything we could, regardless of conditions, hours or pay. I hoed sugar beets at $12.50 per acre, my limit was five acres. Thinning, hoeing, topping and piling — took all summer. One winter we sorted pea seed for the Broder Canning Company in a cold old mill for 25 cents an hour. We wore our Dad's underwear, overalls, and heavy wool socks with overshoes. Our crew of eight girls were on night shift and we had fun. My better employment was a cook on the cook-car at harvest time for $5.00 a day, starting with breakfast about daylight and finishing at 11 p.m.

Walter and I met in Taber at my folks home in 1928 and were married in the Taber United Church Manse on January 9, 1933. We went to Milo for six months and then returned to Taber and lived in a 12' by 12' shack on 10 acres of irrigated land. This shack had been a brooder house for baby chicks. We cleaned it well and put in a new floor and covered the walls with gray building paper with lath on each side of the two by fours to hold it there.

Walter (Dusty) came to Red Deer with a brush-cutting outfit in the spring of 1936. He cut brush in the Red Deer area and for a number of farmers in the Eckville district. In late September he brought Douglas and me here from Athabaska where we were visiting his folks. That first winter we lived on Myles Scowan's farm north of Eckville, where Balch now lives. That winter was very nice until the day before Christmas when it snowed and turned very cold. We were new to the country and had cut any wood so we were busy sawing and splitting it all winter. Our good neighbour Hans Moos, loaned us a team to haul the logs home. We moved to Fred Moos' farm in the spring of 1938. When not busy on the farm Walter worked for Alfred Kinna in his welding shop — this shop later belonged to Luther Finley. We needed this extra work because we were not to be paid until after harvest. We farmed for Fred until winter of 1941 when we moved into [illegible] Bardenhagen's little house in Eckville as Douglas had started school. That winter Walter worked in Calgary returning in the spring to work for the Lacombe Municipal District on road construction. The winter of 1942 he was mail carrier for R.R. 3. He became foreman of the road construction in the spring of 1943 and was there until late fall of 1947, construction work in summer and snow plowing in winter. He then went south where he did construction work for many years. In 1954 he went to British Columbia where he presently resides. Some of his crew here were Bob Matthews, Herb Matthews, Louis Mitzner, Herb Riley, Alfred Kinna, Clarence Haarstad, Stan Leavsley and Frank Wine as cook.

Walter played the Hawaiian guitar and sang at many parties, concerts and played for dances in an orchestra with John Viitala, Robert Kinna, Bob Matthews and others. Alfred Kinna had an amplifier which not many orchestras had at that time. The dances were held in barns, schools and halls. I especially remember one wedding dance at Gilby. It was one of our long rainy spells, the roads were in poor condition and the one north from town was under construction with the road crew camped near town. We went to the dance by this road, driving in the ditches to pass the road construction and we decided to return by the west road. At the hall we parked in front of the door and we discovered later that someone had stolen our gas when we ran out at Felix Matthew's farm. We obtained gas from Waldo Raabi's farm, had coffee with the Matthews and started out again. It was raining so hard and we were sliding around and stuck so many times that we ran out of gas again. By this time we were tired, hungry and muddy. It was getting night again and we were worried about our children. I wanted to walk but couldn't in spike heels. The Maki boys came along and took me home, brought back gas for the car and followed Walter home. We were lucky to have Mrs. Clara Bromling baby-sitting. She was still there and wondering what we were up to. The next day we heard that the police were stuck in the new grade all night and one of the road crew had started the "cat" and pulled them out when he came from the dance.

We were happy to stay in Eckville where we had met so many nice people. Some couldn't speak much English but someone was always there to translate for us. The "Bath House" was a new experience for us and we liked it. We enjoyed the visiting and lovely lunches afterwards. We used to go out west fishing, berry picking, camping or just driving with Lilly and August Moro, Mary and Fred Moos and their families and had wonderful times, lots of berries and fish.

I did dressmaking for many years in Eckville. I was the first Librarian when the Parkland Regional Library opened in the school in 1956. I enjoyed the Library, students, teachers and people who came for books. I also went to the Home and School convention for Eckville that year. In November 1957, I left the Library to work in Dr. Gibson's office and stayed on with Dr. Swain until I retired in 1967 due to ill health. I still live in Eckville on part of the acre we bought outside of [illegible]

We have three children, Douglas, LeRoy and Jacquelyn.

Douglas was born in my folks home in Taber in September 1935 and came to Eckville in 1938. His history is elsewhere in this book.

LeRoy was born in the old hospital (Saari's house) in August 1942. He went to Eckville School, was a cadet under Mr. Bliss when he was 10 years old and never was old enough to go to cadet camp while we had cadets here. He worked at the Co-op Store, Eckville, the Hudson Bay store, Rocky Mountain House, then worked with an oil crew, later moving to Brooks. He had a Taxi business there and drove ambulance at the same time. He did painting for awhile then was employed by an oil company, his present job. He married June Rath of Brooks. They have a son Bradley, and daughter Trena, and a son Brent (deceased). They reside in Brooks.

Jacquelyn was born at the Eckville Hospital in March 1947. She went to the Eckville School and worked at odd jobs, babysitting, ironing and at the Elgene restaurant for Gene and Ella Salsaulier. She married Earl Dyrland of Leedale. They have a trucking business and haul for Great West Feeds in Red Deer and reside in Red Deer. They had two children, Shelley (deceased February 1977) and Bartley who attends River Glen school.

THE DOUG RHODES FAMILY — by Mrs. Rhodes

Doug Rhodes came to Eckville as a small child with his parents, and took his schooling here. After completing his education he worked on a seismic crew and in a lumber camp at Nordegg. Following this, he worked for Chester Kasha for a summer. In 1956 he started working for Art Langer where he worked for 13 years learning the trade of television and radio technician. He attended Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary where he furthered his [illegible]

Doug married the former Georgina Reitmeier of Benalto, and they have three daughters, Holly (Mrs. Glenn Cornell of Red Deer, Trudi and Tammi. They also have two grandchildren, Ryan and Christa.

In 1967 Doug and Georgina started their own business in a small room in the back of Art Langer's shop, and in 1972 they moved their business to the former Kinna building on Main Street, which they later purchased. In 1977 they renovated the building and built an addition onto the back of it.

As well as operating his own business, Doug has worked at many different jobs. He worked part time as trouble-shooter for Eckville Mutual Telephones, Northwestern Utilities, and Calgary Power, as well as being projectionist at the local theatre and operating a school bus for Gene Lazzer. Doug has been a member of the local volunteer fire department for 22 years, the last seven of these as chief. He is now the past mayor of the Town of Eckville.

Doug was a member of the cadets for several years and attended camps at Vernon, B.C. and Dundurn, Saskatchewan. He also played hockey with the Eckville Eagles, and baseball with the Eckville Club. He is a former president of the Eckville Fish and Game Association. He enjoys fishing, camping and canoeing in his spare time, and also does a bit of cross-country skiing.

Georgina worked for a short time at the local hospital, the Co-op store, and then for seven years at the telephone office. She started the C.G.I.T. group in 1958, along with Donna Wilson, whose husband, Harvey, was local manager of Revelstoke Lumber, and continued as leader of this group for three years. She was also an active member of St. Paul's choir for several years. At the time of writing, Georgina has been a member of the Order of Royal Purple No. 233, Benalto Lodge for the last 12 years, and works full time at the store.

Holly took her education in Eckville, where she was on the cheerleading team. She was a member of Explorers, C.G.I.T. and Junior Choir. She taught Sunday School at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church for three years. She is now kept busy with her young family.

Trudi was a member of C.O.C.'s and Explorers, and is still attending C.G.I.T. She also taught Sunday school, is an ardent artist and enjoys sewing, cooking and babysitting. She would like to become an interior designer upon completion of High School.

Tammi also was a member of C.O.C.'s and Explorers, and of St. Paul's Sunday School. She enjoys Highland Dancing, which she hopes to teach. She also enjoys her pet dog, "Bashful". She enjoys sports, music, camping, travelling and babysitting.

Last summer the family enjoyed a three-week trip to the Yukon and Alaska along with Doug's mother, Ella Rhodes, and Georgina's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reitmeier of Red Deer. They also took Georgina's niece and nephew, Robbie and Leah Reitmeier of Calgary. They had a very good trip and would like to return to the beautiful Yukon again in a few years.

Although the family is kept busy with their business and their many and varied activities they enjoy living and working in the growing community of Eckville.

Red (Harley) Rice was the youngest of 12 children born to Charlie and Annie Rice on May 21, 1936 at Viking, Alberta. They farmed at Viking until Red was in junior high, then retired and moved to Lacombe.

Red and Mary Ann Rice- September 1, 1956

Mary Ann, youngest of six children was born to Joe and Ingeborg Hansen on February 2, 1938 at High Prairie, Alberta. One year later the Hansens moved to Battle Lake, Alberta where they lived for seven years. After a few moves, they returned to Westerose country where they lived until Joe retired and moved to Wetaskiwin.

When Mary Ann left school she took a job at Lacombe hospital and soon met up with Red Rice. They were married on September 1, 1956 at Westerose Church. They lived a few months at Lacombe, then moved to Sundre where they resided for 10 years. Red worked for Hudson's Bay and Canadian Superior.

Red and Mary Ann have three daughters — Debbie Ann, born July 17, 1957 at Lacombe, Donna Marie, born April 21, 1959 at Olds, and Diana Charlene, born June 9, 1963 at Olds.

In 1966 the Rices moved to Eckville. Red went to work as a battery operator for Brinkerhoff who sold out later that year to Sun Oil Co. Red is still with Sun Oil. Mary Ann worked a few years at a local grocery, first called Sestrap and Co., then Ferguson Foods. She is now employed as casual help at the Post Office.

On July 26, 1975 Debbie married Les Johnson, youngest son of Bill Johnson and the late Elsie Johnson (nee Heitlena) formerly of Eckville, now retired at Sylvan Lake. Deb and Les live at Rocky Mountain House where Les is employed by Delta Controls. On August 26, 1977 they became the happy parents of a daughter Marsie Ann.

Donna is currently working at the Red Deer Golf and Country Club and sharing an apartment in Red Deer with Linda Armeneau.

Diana is still at home and a Grade 9 student at Eckville Junior High.

JOHN AND VIRGINIA SAFRONOVICH — by [redacted]

John Safronovich of Buck Creek, Alberta and Virginia Pshka were married in Red Deer, Alberta, on July 23, 1958. Virginia graduated from Eckville High School and was a bookkeeper in the Eckville Co-op before her marriage. John was employed in the oil fields as a derrick man.

After their four-day wedding celebration at the Pshka farm, (which is tradional of Ukranian-Czechoslovakian families) the young couple went to live in a rented apartment in Olds. In August — a great surprise! John won a trip for two to Hawaii. Since they had not had a honeymoon, this was it.

They purchased a house trailer and traveled to several places, following the rigs in Central, Southern and Northern Alberta. Randy was born in Olds in 1960 and Deborah was born in Eckville in 1961. By this time John was a driller and every now and then the pink trailer would be parked in the Pshka yard, as the rig moved in and out of the area. In 1962, John was involved in a serious car accident near Gilby on his way home from work. This accident kept him off the job for three months

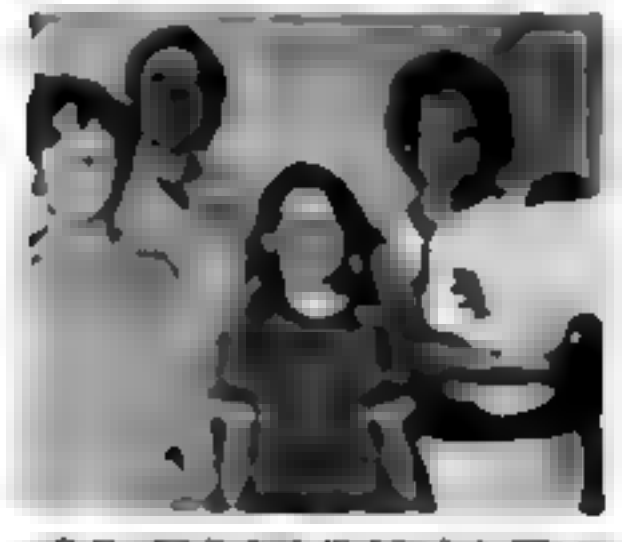
By this time the couple were tired of all the moving and were eager to farm. After several tries to borrow money from government agencies, they found it was "no go". Finally, on November 12, 1963, they purchased the Chucas farm, which was one quarter of land. This took all their savings and a loan from the Eckville Credit Union. In the spring of 1965, the quarter was sold, making a few more dollars. Through savings and another loan from the Eckville Credit Union the Clarence Lutz property, W 26 39-3 W5, was purchased. The home quarter was originally owned by Mrs. Junnila and the other by Mr. Gunnar Forseli. This was a big change for the whole family, as they had been used to living in an 8 by 35-foot trailer for seven years. At that time the house seemed very large

John continued working for Cactus Drilling as a tool push. By 1968, he started his own trucking company — Whatley Trucking Ltd. He bought a full line of farm machinery. Working on the rig and farming proved to be quite a challenge. Virginia started driving the tractor. Neighbours knew when she did it all right there was the top of one hill that was never done. One year at combining time, John was sent to the United States border for two weeks. Everyone was wondering how ripe we wanted the crop to get before harvesting it. Well, we get the crop in the bin that year, also some fast bote in Coutts, Alberta

One day Willis McGonigal, who was elevator agent in Eckville, phoned to tell John that his grain had been accepted for malt, and could he please hurry and haul three carloads right away. Well, John, always being in a hurry, was in the midst of building a truck box. The end gate was to be finished. He sawed the top of the end gate for the hole, instead of the bottom. There were some fancy words, when he went to put it on the box. There was quite some laughing going on by the time he had finished hauling the three carloads of barley, with the hole in the top of the end gate in the truck box.



They farmed for five years, and then John sold his machinery and rented the land to Ralph Tatlock, who is still farming it today. In the spring of 1973, the big hip-roofed barn, which was a Junnila landmark, was torn down and burned, being replaced by a large steel quonset.

Gary was born on August 29, 1973 — a real joy to the whole family.

John became interested in flying. He obtained his private pilot's license in January 1974 and in February, with his instructor, flew a single engine plane to the Bahamas across the 600-mile Gulf of Mexico to Mexico and then home again. He became so involved with flying that he started Central a Business Services Ltd. of Lacombe, in which he buys and sells aircraft. John is a member of the Lacombe Flying Club and also a member of the Benalto Elks.

In July 1974, John promoted his first oil well. He formed, and was president of, Panther Oil Limited, of which friends and relatives held shares. Land was bought at Red Water, and in September our first well was spudded. There were anxious moments towards the end of the hole. Dry well. The land has since been sold, but there are a few of us around that had the thrill of drilling their first and last "oil well".

In the summer of 1976 we took on the project of building an 1800-square-foot addition to our home. The last of the Junnila house went up in flames in June, 1976, when the Eckville Fire Department came and burned it. With the old house out of the way, we proceeded to build on to the bungalow that Clarence and Irene Lutz had built in 1962. This house now became a one-and one-half-storey building, we are getting it completed in 1977.

Virginia keeps busy with bookkeeping for their companies. She also enjoys gardening, boating, swimming, "back seat" flying, and also belongs to the Catholic Women's League.

Randy, a student at Eckville High School, enjoys snow and water skiing, riding horses, basketball, volleyball, swimming, hunting and fishing. He is also learning to be a pilot.

Debbie, who was in Grade 9 in 1977, enjoys both water and snow skiing, flying with dad, riding horses, curling, volleyball, basketball and swimming.

Through the years the family has been involved in Boy Scouts, hockey, figure skating, music lessons, swimming, 4-H clubs and Catholic youth groups.

There are two old landmarks of the Junnila property, which are an old ice house and a sauna.

ELLA ROSELEA MOTTUS SALSAULEW

Ella Roselea Mottus married Arthur Dahl in 1936 at Sylvan Lake. They farmed north of Withrow until 1946, when Arthur's poor health forced him to give up the hard work on the farm. They then moved to Eckville, where Ella was employed at the Co-op lunch counter and Arthur worked as a part-time ice-maker at the arena. Arthur passed away in 1955.

In 1963 Ella married Eugene Salsauler and operated a restaurant in Eckville until 1967 when they moved to Lacombe. In 1974 they bought an orchard in Abbotsford, B.C., but soon moved back to Eckville, where they now reside in the new home which they built for themselves. There were no children from either of these unions.

SAMBROOKE, ARNOLD E. AND HAZEL — by Hazel Sambrooke

Mother nature taught Arnold a lot before his formal education started at the age of seven at the Estonian School. His love for the tall timber was ever been present for he learned to fish and track wildlife very early in his life. Depending upon the weather, Arnold walked, rode horseback or skied to school, joined by the families of Mike Dvornik and Gust Mottus.

Learning to use a trowel in his early teens, he helped his father (Arnold Sr., better known as Dick) build chimneys and was put to plastering small closets. Little did he realize then, that he would live with his own work later in life when he plastered the Mike Sestrap farm home, our home today. SE 14-3-39 W5.

On November 24, 1941 Arnold married Hazel A. Jamieson, daughter of Harvey and Margaret Jamieson of Sylvan Lake, and we made Eckville our first home. Arnold operated a mobile seed cleaner.

I came to Eckville in the spring of 1939 first to help Irene and Lance Rowat, owners of the Barber Shop and Pool Hall, to operate "Jiffy Lunch." Later I joined the staff of the Alex Ferris General Store, and worked here until our marriage. I was employed afterward by the Eckville Bakery, which was owned and operated by E. Jackson, until Arnold joined the Armoured section of the R.C.A.F. (1942-1945) during which time we lived at Ladner and Coal Harbour. Upon discharge from the R.C.A.F. at Abbotsford, B.C. we returned to Sylvan Lake and picked up the trowel again. Many of the homes in Central Alberta were plastered or stuccoed by the Sambrookes. Harlan Sambrooke, a cousin had learned the trade and joined Arnold and Dick.

In 1953 we purchased the old home quarter from Arnold's father SW 26-40-3-W5. Arnold worked part-time for the County of Lacombe repair crew. While in the Gilby area we were active members of the Gilby Sunday School and Hall Board. Ten years later we sold our holdings in the area to Walter Kalev and purchased land two miles east of the town of Eckville from Mr. Scotty Glover. The farm is better known as the Mike Sestrap farm.

We had four children. Nora May, was born in 1944. She started her schooling at the Estonian School and was later bused to Eckville. She was crowned Queen of Hearts at the Eckville High School in 1962, and was the valedictorian of her graduating class. She later went on to study for her B.A. degree and in 1967 she married Floyd Schamber, a son of Ben and Urma Schamber of Sylvan Lake. They have made their home in Rocky Mountain House. Nora is teaching school and Floyd is with the Alberta Forestry Service.

Gerald Arnold, was born in 1948. He completed his schooling in Eckville and then went on to NAIT, training to become a forest ranger. He has been working in the Crowsnest Forest and Grande Prairie Forest Reserves. In 1975 he married Lorraine Warkentin, a daughter of John and Anne Warkentin of Debolt, Alberta.

Lorne Bruce, born in 1953, completed high school in Eckville and then became a grain buyer. In 1972 he married Donna Irwin, a daughter of Ed and Clara Irwin of Rimbey. They now have a daughter, Tracy Lee, and are living at Lougheed, Alberta.

Evelyn Patricia was born in 1960. She started her education in the Eckville Schools and completed school at Lacombe Composite High School. She is very active in the community in C.G.I.T., 4-H Club work and junior leadership activities.

Arnold was the custodian of the Eckville Elementary School for several years after he stopped driving the Express Bus run to Lacombe. At present he is semi-retired and is living on the farm.

OLE SCHEY FAMILY — by R. A. Schey

Ole Schey came from Steinkjoer, Norway in 1912 on the liner Olympic, a sister ship of the Titanic. He arrived in North Dakota, U.S.A. and worked his way west over a period of years, finally arriving in Butte, Montana. It was there that he met Mildred Olson, of Eckville and they were married in 1918.

They arrived in Eckville on September 12, 1919. Mr. Schey bought a quarter of land two miles south of Eckville (it is now the east quarter of the late Simon Waisanen farm - the SE-9-39-3 W5. He farmed this and also Mr. James Olson's land until 1946 when the land was sold to Simon Waisanen and Joe Rasmussen. They then moved to Calgary where Mr. Schey went back to his original occupation of painting and decorating, which he continued to do almost to the time of his death in 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. Schey had six children. Pearl, Ray, Gloria, Gordon, Joyce and Terry. All live in Calgary with the exception of Gloria, who lives at Forestburg.

Mrs. Ole Schey still resides at 508-9th Street, South West Calgary.

SCHOFER, ALBERT AND MARIA

Albert Schofer left Estonia, Saskatchewan during the latter part of the depression to seek employment in the Eckville district in 1937.

For six years he worked for different farmers in the area. In 1943 he married the former Maria Razzolini of the Bluebell School district.

In 1944 he was employed by the Eckville Co-op and worked there until 1950. In 1951 he started his own business and continued in business as Abe's Super Service for 22 years.

In the years he lived in Eckville he served on the town council as well as mayor, director of the Eckville Co-op, one of the founding members of the Eckville and District Savings and Credit Union, also as supervisor in the Credit Union Board and many recreation boards.

Three children were born to them. Gayford married Sylvia Greenwood of the Evergreen district. They have two children, Chelsey and Ryan. They reside in the Eckville district.

Tim married Fay Wilson of the Clive district and they live in Ponoka.

Tina Marie has gone into psychiatric training in Edmonton.

Albert and Maria are now retired and live in Creston, B.C.

SELVAIS, JULES

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Selvais came to Canada [illegible] stopped at Morrinville, then arrived at Kootus late in the spring. Mr. Selvais was able to secure employment with the C.P.R. for that summer and the next one. They returned to Belgium in November of 1921.

However, Mr. and Mrs. Selvais and their daughter, Marie Louise, came back to Canada in April, 1926. This time they located at Elspeth where Mr. Selvais purchased some land, and again worked for the C.P.R. He was a blacksmith by trade so, when he learned that Mr. McHattie in Eckville had his blacksmith shop for sale, Mr. Selvais sold his land at Elspeth and bought the shop. He operated the blacksmith shop in Eckville for 12 years. In 1940 he sold his business in Eckville and bought another shop in Lacombe. The Selvais, with their children, Marie Louise and Roger, then moved to [illegible].

Mr. Selvais passed away in 1966 and the shop was then taken over by his son, Roger, who continues to operate it at the present time. Roger had taken a course at a vocational school in Calgary, which helped him in carrying on the business. He and his wife, Doreen, have three children.

Marie Louise joined the armed forces and was overseas from 1942 until 1944. Following her return she married Frank Morissette, and they have made their home in Vancouver since then. They have a family of seven children.

Mrs. Selvais continues to live in Lacombe.

SESTRAP, MIKE — by Audrey John

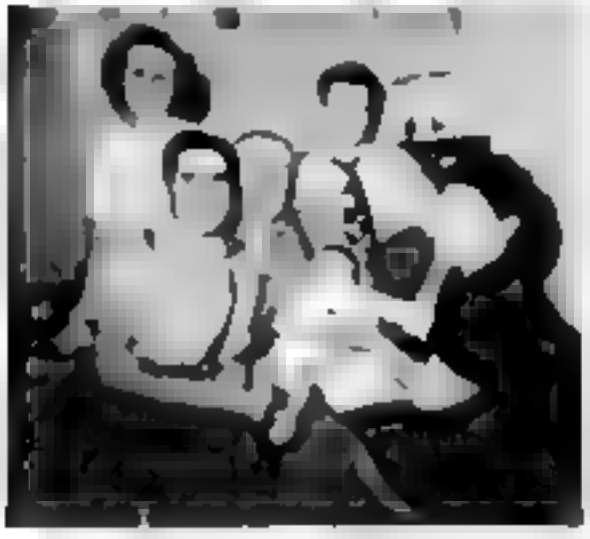
Mike Sestrap arrived in Canada from Rakvere, Estonia, along with his two brothers, Mart and Gust, on January 21, 1905. He worked on the Calgary-Banff railroad for a while to gain enough capital, and then started a homestead at [illegible].

In Estonia, Mike rejected the idea of becoming a priest and turned his attention to tailoring. He became a master tailor at a very early age. He brought his sewing machine and iron with him to Canada, but they have since been lost.



Marie Louise Morrissette (Selvais), husband Frank, first baby [illegible]

Peggy and Mike Sestrap [illegible]

Mike and Gust started building the Gilby e in 1907, using timber they cut and had made into lumber at Maasep's Mill (Marsep's which incidentally was powered by a water wheel. By 1908 the store was in operation. During this time supplies were obtained from Lacombe, a two or three day trip by oxen. Mike bought out Gust's share in the store after a few years, then ran the business himself. Gust and his wife, Jenny, then moved to Moorcroft Wyoming where they resided until his passing in 1975. Jenny had passed on in 1951 or 1952.

Fanny Krinsila nee Kangas (1889-1919) was a widow with one son, Uno, (1910-1972) at the time she came from Massachusetts, U.S.A. to visit her sister Mrs. John Heikkinen. She went to keep house for Mike at Gilby and later married him in 1912. Fanny and Mike had four children besides Uno, these being Elvie, Arvo, George and Ray. In 1918 Mike sold the Gilby Store and Post Office to Shorrocks, and moved to Eckville, buying a store from Mr. Eckhart. During this time Mike had also helped to build the telephone lines between Eckville and Gilby.

In the spring of 1919 Fanny died, a victim of the flu epidemic, leaving Mike with five young children. For a period of time the children were "farmed out" until Mike could get a housekeeper in to look after them. The first housekeeper was a Mrs. Herring, followed by Mrs. Banton, an elderly lady. Mrs. Fred Pattison also looked after the family during a two-month leave of absence taken by Mrs. Banton to tend a sick relative in Winnipeg. Mrs. Pattison relates that Mike was a very quiet man — very seldom offering any conversation. Anything required from the store was promptly sent home, with one exception. She wanted to make the children some gingerbeer and ordered the ginger and lemons several times but it never arrived. Mike was strictly opposed to liquor and thought gingerbeer must be some kind of Beer — thus the necessary requirements for the beverage never arrived. Mrs. Pattison also recounted a time when Uno, whose chore it was to haul water into the house was being very sloppy not knowing his step father was following him into the house. Mike reprimanded him, and Uno tore off upstairs and umped out of a second storey window. Miraculously he wasn't seriously hurt.

In 1923 Mike caught wind of an eligible young woman coming out from Tartu, Estonia, to marry a friend of his. He couldn't pass up the opportunity so he discreetly enquired when the young lady was to arrive in Red Deer and made sure he arrived there first. Mike and Alma were married in 1922. Alma was a very astute woman and Mike many times gave her credit for a good business head. They had their share of hardships, as did most families of that era.

In 1923, one Saturday afternoon, there was a big "do" at the local hall, when the towns-people discovered a fire on main street. The Atlas Lumber Company, Hembecker residence, and the Sestrap Store were all in flames. Mike ran into the store and grabbed the first thing handy to save — the cash register — and ran into the street with it. The fire was a hard blow, but with the insurance money and all the salvage clothing and goods which Alma cleaned and sold, they raised enough to start another store in the empty Charlie Kasper building, farther up the street. In 1928 another bad fire wiped out the East street of

During this time Mike also helped to finance and build the Memorial Hall (now the Lion's Hall. Mr. H. Jokinen (now deceased) was the head carpenter, and Dr. Asbury Somerville (now deceased) wired it. Electricity was supplied by residents. The Sestrap Delco Plant supplied the house and store with power. He also had one of the first cars in the district — a Model T Ford followed by a Grey Dort.

in the district. He was known as a good businessman. Many times, at Christmas, the customers would find a bag of candy included in their purchases. In 1939 Mike sold the store to Abousaffy and Ferris, and bought a store in Bowden, which Uno and Ray managed with occasional visits by Mike. By 1944 Mike was back in town again, once more in the store until he sold the business to Mr. Jenkins in 1949. Back in harness after a couple of years, Mike had Uno run the grocery store and the dry goods section was leased to Mr. McIvor.

Alma passed away in 1956 and Mike followed her in 1958. Uno and his son Ken then bought the Sestrap and Company Store and operated it until

The following poem (incomplete) was composed by Mr. J. T. Marshall about three pioneers of Eckville — Mike Sestrap, J. M. McDonald and Mr. MacIntosh.

There is a place called Eckville which is a great town
Because of three gentlemen,
  Of established renown
They were Mike, Mac and McIntosh
  A trio hard to bea
And these three gentlemen are noted
  For holding down the street

Now if you chance to Eckville come
You'll surely meet this clan,
With a smile upon their countenance
That would jar a healthy man
They would gladly take you by the hand
And waltz you all around,
And tell you all the secrets
About our little town
And if at night you chance to wake
To noise upon the street,
You'll know it's these famous gentlemen
That's holding down the street
Used with permission

THE FAMILY OF MIKE SESTRAP — by Audrey John

Mike and Fanny's son, Uno Kristian was born in Pittsburg, Penn. in 1910, coming north with his mother as a toddler. He helped Mike in the store from the age of eight and was in the store business for the rest of his life. He operated a store at Rycroft, Benalto, Bowden and Eckville. Maude and Uno were married in 1933 and had one son, Ken, who is married and at present working as manager of a store in Gibsons, B.C. Uno was very enthusiastic about sports, especially hockey, and will be long remembered for his participation with the youth. He died in 1972. Maude is retired at Gibsons, B.C.

Elvie (born in 1913) took all her schooling in Eckville from Mr. Ludwig and Miss Thompson, then furthered her education in the U. of A., Edmonton, for a B.A. in Languages. She married Clifford Vertine in 1947 and is presently retired in Victoria, B.C.

Arvo, (born in 1914) took his schooling in Eckville. He is now in Terrace, B.C. with his wife, Marjorie, whom he married in 1939. Their two children are Sharon and Jan. Arvo now has a charter operation 40 miles down channel from [illegible].

George, born in 1916, also took schooling in Eckville. He helped in the store until 1940, then married Lydia Kraft in 1941 and they lived on the family farm three miles east of Eckville until 1945. Then he went to work for Geoprosco. Due to ill health he quit oil work in 1960 and then, in 1962, he and Lydia started Sestrap's Cafe, which they operated until 1974. From 1971 to 1974 they also operated the pool hall. In 1974 they sold their businesses and retired to Penhold. Their three children are: Ronald, Audrey and Cindy.

Ray (born in 1918) was also in the store with Mike, Uno and George. He helped Uno in Benalto and Bowden, as well. In 1940 he married Myrel Lewis and they have two daughters, Sandra and Deborah. He bought the farm by the creamery in 1947 and worked for Larry Knudson in the garage until he sold the farm to Mrs. John Armstrong in 1951. He is now retired and living in Clearbrook, B.C.

SETTERS, JAMES AND PAT - by J. Pat Setters

Jim was born and raised at Mirror, Alberta. He came to Eckville in 1945 at the end of World War Two. He had served overseas for four years in the army (R.C.E.M.E.). He met Russ Eastman while overseas and came to visit him, deciding to stay and work for him. Russ was the International Harvester dealer then. Jim also worked for Jake Bussinger. In the fall of 1946, he bought a welding shop from Dick Tooley.

We were married in 1947. I am the second daughter of Jim and Helen Brown who farmed in the Diamond Valley district. We attended Gaetz School.

We sold the welding shop in the winter of 1947 to Russ Aubrey. In the spring of 1948, Jim bought his first gravel truck, hauling gravel in the summer and cattle, grain and lumber in the winter. He hauled lumber from many camps in the Rocky Mountain House area.

In 1957 we moved to Red Deer, still in the trucking business.

We formed a Limited Company in 1973 operating under the name of J. T. Setters and Sons Construction Limited. We also moved to an acreage on Highway 2A, north toward [illegible].

We have three children. Janice was born at Eckville. She married Dick Gehrke, the son of Orville and Ruth Gehrke of the Burnt Lake district. They went to Davenport, Iowa, U.S.A. where Dick attended the Palmer School of Chiropractic. Upon their return to Red Deer, Dick practiced with Dr. Whitney. He soon set up his own clinic in Rocky Mountain House (Dr. R. J. Gehrke D.C.). They moved to Rocky in 1973. They have two children, Tania Jill and Tyson John.

Byron was born at Eckville. He married Melinda Staples, daughter of Dr. J. C. and Mrs. Staples, formerly of Red Deer and now of Richmond, B.C. Byron is part owner and helps manage our company.

Wilson was born at Red Deer and is still at home. He operates one of the machines in our [illegible].

SHANKS, JOHN

Mr. John Thomson Shanks were born Dec. 17, 1887 in Scotland, one of a very large family raised on a farm, worked in a store for five years but wished to be a farmer some day. He left Scotland in the fall of 1912 with a ticket bought for Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, to settle on a homestead, free land, as was advertised at that time. He spent the first winter in Edmonton hauling coal with sleigh and team of horses. He met a gentleman who had his family living in the Mayerthorpe area where there was land still to be homesteaded, so thus he lived in the Mayerthorpe district. Next winter was spent at a logging camp near Athabaska. The following winter was spent on the homestead in a log cabin with sod roof which he had built Groceries were hauled for 20 miles

The spring of 1914, he went to the prairies Vulcan area and worked for a farmer for five years. Then back to the homestead to clear land by hand and build a two roomed cabin

In the fall of 1920, he went to Scotland where he married Isabella Murray. She was born in Scotland February 13, 1892. She was a housekeeper They were married on January 26, 1921, and spent their honeymoon in Scotland visiting relatives and friends and arrived in Mayerthorpe April 1, 1921. after travelling by ship for seven days across the Atlantic to Halifax then three days and three nights by train to Saskatchewan They spent a week visiting, then went on to Edmonton and Sangudo as far as the train went The last 20 miles by horses and buggy with their belongings in three trunks. The mailman and his wife brought them to Mayerthorpe

My father milked cows, shipped cream and cleared land by hand to start farming. May 1923 supplies were brought by train since the railway had been built My father farmed in the Mayerthorpe district until 1954 when he sold his and and retired to Eckville

Mr and Mrs Shanks bought a house and lot from Mr Bill Thomas father of Clare Thomas Mr Shanks died September 12, 1960 and is buried in Eckville Cemetery Mrs. Shanks died May 9, 1967 and is also buried in Eckville Cemetery

My father read a lot and was interested in community affairs. He was a member of the Alberta Wheat Pool, and the church board, as well as a member of the school board for a few years. My mother was a member of the church ladies aid

HENRY AND MYRTLE SMITH AND FAMILY
by Edith Smith Russell

Henry W Smith was raised on an Iowa corn farm. He married Lela Myrtle Howard in 1903 then, in 1908, he took his Iowa-bred wife and three-year-old daughter Edith to a homestead section in Dandhills near Whitman, Nebraska Here Howard was born in 191. and Alice in 1913

While harvesting in the Dakotas Father caught the "Canada Fever" with the result that the homestead was sold early in 1914. In June he landed in Red Deer with an immigrant car loaded with our household effects, a cow two dogs, two saddle horses and three mares with foals. (Most of the horses later died from swamp fever The family followed by rail via St Paul, a weary journey for a mother with three small children. Father rented a house and then started looking for land. He finally decided to rent for a year however

In August the family moved to the Jack Kulp place north of Pitcox, now Hespero. The trip from Red Deer took three days with the household goods loaded on a hayrack The cow and some of the horses were strung out behind with me Edith herding them on horseback. The first night was spent at Bill Prevo's, east of Sylvan Lake, the second at Wright's, near the Eckville corner What I remember most was mosquitoes, thirst, and bubbles rising on the muskeg as we jolted over the corduroy

Our first home was a two-room moss-chinked log shack with a ladder to an attic. There was a cribbed open well with a bucket and a pulley this was used as a fridge for cream cans until freeze-up. There was a privy without any seat and a garden patch which my father manured and fenced with slabs. Everything but the potatoes froze the first year it was planted There was some land in crop and I remember a threshing rig, pulled by oxen, coming that fall Mr Molander was one of the crew The grain was bound, stooked, and stacked before

I recall also the welcome visit of a bachelor Mr Knorr, and his gift of a half-gallon sealer of wild strawberry jam. Another frequent visitor was an illiterate young mother of three, to whom I read the funny papers sent by my grandmother A Mrs. Taylor taught me to knit, and to love sunsets and northern lights

I rode to Shady Lane School (which was later moved to Condor and used for a store room Mrs. Sam Edgar was the teacher, followed by a cultured Englishwoman, Mrs Brown, whose homesteader husband looked after their four year-old son during the week while she boarded at Hicks' She taught me to waltz, sight-read music and to love watercolour painting which has become a hobby of mine since my retirement Other early teachers at the Old Eckville School were Miss Goodmundson, Miss Klaus Mr Ludwig, Miss Thompson, Miss Benedickson and Miss Paul in the town school. Alice and Hope also attended the Convent in Red Deer We were all in High School in Red Deer at different times Howard attended Olds School of Agriculture prior to joining the U.S. Navy. Alice and I attended Camrose Normal School. Alice took degrees in music at Toronto Conservatory and in Peoria, Illinois, U.S.A. Belatedly, I received a degree in education from the iversi y of Alberta. So much for education

Back to 1914. The nearest store was run by the Macdonnell Brothers at Pitcox. For some reason, though Eckville was our post office and many a trip I made on horseback after school for mail and a few groceries. Usually it was dark and the coyotes were howling before I got home. There was no surveyed road, just a rail through successive uncleared farms. Struggling to open and close gates caused torn clothes and even tears. The gates with a loop and stick to lean against were O.K. but those that looped wire over the post were really tough.

Five of us lived in that log house over two winters. We were joined during part of the second winter by Russell and Rosie McFaul, since Rosie's first baby was expected and their homestead was quite isolated.

Rabbits were abundant during the winter of 1914-1915. Hundreds of them frolicked in the moonlight right near our house. In Nebraska a jackrabbit was fresh meat, but Alberta neighbors warned us not to eat the "snowshoes". However we never lacked for meat. In addition to being a good butcher, my father was a good shot, prairie chickens were plentiful, and we went moose-hunting every year.

We often went to the Christmas concert in the old Eckville hall, driving down the Horseguard in a grainbox on a bobsled. Though padded underneath with straw and covered with quilts and horse blankets, it was still a drowsy cold trip, but the sleighbells kept us awake.

During this time the Smiths attended many auction sales, as discouraged oldtimers unloaded and went back "home". In this way we were able to acquire implements, livestock and even boxes of books. These books were a share when I was left to baby-sit Howard and Alice and sometimes loaf and bake the bread in the old Majestic woodburning range. Once, deep in "Uncle Tom's Cabin", I let the fire go out.

In 1916 a C.P.R. quarter adjoining Eckville was bought, a big granary built and lifted with bunks, and we lived in that while the new house was built by the Kopsala family. Paul Pykett, son-in-law of the Browns lived on the next quarter west, before the Bromlings and the Weeks broke most of the quarter with a gang plow and our horses. The land required no clearing — low birch shrubs were plowed under. He had to work around a couple of sloughs which, however, are now long since gone and are growing grain.

The new house, a two-story seven-room frame building finished inside with lathe and plaster, Iowa-style, was completed none too soon. We moved into it just before the cold weather set in. A finely-mounted moose head and a new piano were much admired by visitors, but the old "His Master's Voice" gramophone and pile of scratchy records were also an attraction. Being located conveniently near Eckville, having a barn with vacant stalls, and my mother's good cooking, kept the extra leaves in the table at all times.

Hope was born in this house — a bit prematurely and without a doctor — on January 18, 1918. Subsequently Mother was in poor health and finally was hospitalized in Red Deer. This was one of the reasons for the auction sale which my father held in June. This was a black day for me, for I had to part with Foxy, the sorrel pony some people may remember as being the winner of many pony and free-for-all races at sports days in Eckville, Benalto, and Sylvan Lake.

My parents and Grandmother Smith took an extended holiday to British Columbia, going down the coast by ship to Los Angeles. There, our first car, the old Overland, was bought and then driven to Iowa where a Mrs. Dirsten had, in the meantime, taken the young Smiths to their maternal grandmother's.

During the flu year, I attended four different Iowa schools, celebrated one false and then the real Armistice, and had the flu, along with my father, Hope and Alice. Howard and Mother escaped it completely.

In the spring of 1919 the family moved to Wyoming where my father worked on the construction of the Lincoln Highway and I became an "easterner" in Rawlins High School.

News that the house, occupied by the Weeks family, had burned triggered our return to Eckville. It was a memorable trip from Rawlins via Yellowstone Park in August. We travelled in the Overland car, tenting at night, with an extended stopover at Ladner, waiting for car parts. Through it all Mom, with a frying pan and dutchoven, fed us well. Service stations, roads and camp facilities have changed a lot since 1920.

We lived briefly above the garage in Eckville where my father was for a time in business with Fred Isaacson. We later moved back to the farm into a small converted building. Father worked at the creamery (and made some of the prize winning butter), put up ice for the stores and for our own use with a team and flat bed, butchered beef for the stores, delivered gravel from the pit on leased C.P.R. pasture land, raised purebred hogs and luscious strawberries. He gardened by the moon.

My mother's specialties were pansy beds, houseplants, and canaries. She also raised belligerent turkey toms, flocks of geese, and guinea fowl. The latter were a D.E.W. against coyotes.

Eventually the home place was sold to M. Hopkins. Father continued farming for a time on the Talson place and on rented land near Gilby with the family living again in a log house. A new venture here was a flock of sheep, but in the 1930's the price of lamb and wool was very low. By then married, each of the Smith children received not a wool quilt, but a mattress filled with approximately 40 pounds of carded wool, the joint work of our parents.

Farming was abandoned later on and the family lived in Red Deer while my father worked on C.P.R. bridge crews. After this we moved to Seattle where during the War, he worked in the shipyards, and mother on the Bremerton Ferry. Hope and Alice (with the music degrees) worked for Boeing. After a ten-year lapse I resumed teaching, temporarily and continued until 1969.

The last Smith home was in Rumsey where Alice's husband had a general store. I was teaching in Stettler nearby. After a lengthy illness my father died of leukemia in the Stettler Hospital, in May, 1955.

Mother lived in various places thereafter. She spent some time with Howard in Honolulu. He was a retired Lieut.-Commander, employed by an American Red Cross Unit attached to U.S. troops abroad and in California until his retirement last year. She also lived with Hope (Mrs. F. E. McElroy) in Maryland and Seattle and with Alice (Mrs. Harold Ruskin, who recently retired from teaching, along with her husband. While visiting the latter in Fullbrook, California, Mother fell and broke her hip in 1961. She accompanied my husband, Douglas Russell, and I back to Edmonton in 1962. She underwent surgery there but was in a wheelchair for the rest of her life. She spent several years at Rimoka Lodge in Ponoka. I was teaching at Ponoka Composite High School until we moved to Victoria in 1971. In May of 1972 Mother suffered a stroke which left her speechless and partially paralyzed. She died in the Red Deer Nursing Home in January, 1973 at the age of 99 years.

SMITH, THOMAS SR. AND ELIZABETH

Thomas Smith and Elizabeth Mary Johnston were married in Scotland in 1908 and came to the Medicine Hat area of Alberta to homestead nine miles north of Irvine in 1910. Mrs. Smith's brother James Johnston came and took the adjoining homestead, but was killed in action in France during World War I.

Life on the prairie was a succession of hardships, with crop failures from drought or grasshoppers taking 11 out of 14 crops. The first winter was spent in a single-board frame shack which was improved on slightly over the following years. The barn was made of sods. Wood had to be hauled from the Cypress Hills, so the main fuel in summer was dried cow chips gathered by the children. Mrs. Kemp, a neighbour, was the midwife at the birth of the six children — George, John, James, Thomas, William and Robert — all born on the homestead. The four oldest children all attended the Long Valley

In December 1924 the family came to the Alex Stauffinger farm, SW 22-38-2-W5, southeast of Benalto, which they rented for three years. The Peter Anderson and Arthur Caton families came from Irvine to Benalto at the same time. The rain bringing them and their possessions arrived at Benalto carrying seven carloads of settlers' effects and 15 children. One unusual occurrence on the trip up here was the time the box car was opened for inspection at Calgary and their dog got out. Imagine their surprise, while sitting in the C.P.R. station at Red Deer waiting for the train to Benalto, to have their dog walk in. It must have hung on some place under or on the coupling of the box car. The conductor said, "I am going to make an exception, your dog can ride with you to Benalto." About 50 of the Smith's horses were driven up from the prairie the following summer by Fred Cowan. Nine of the horses drowned in the swamp on the Staudinger farm as soon as they were turned out and quite a few more didn't survive the first winter. During these three years the children went to the Evarts school.

Thomas Smith's mother, Margaret, lived with the family from 1925 until her death in 194 at the age of 91 years. She was buried in the Medicine Hat Cemetery.

The next move was in 1927 to the former Gust Kalaputus farm, NW 28-38-2-W5, two miles east of Benalto, which they bought from Charlie Jenkins. They also bought Pt SE 33-38-2-W5 from Julius Selvais, who moved to Eckville. Much of this land was covered by poplar trees which was cleared and broken the hard way — with grub hoe, axe and horses. The children went to school at Kiousamo, which then had two rooms, until 1934, when the senior room was closed and then Bill and Robert went to Eckville High School.

Thomas Smith managed the Medicine Valley Livestock Association for a number of years. It had buyers at Sylvan Lake, Benalto, Eckville, Hespero and Rocky Mountain House and handled cattle, sheep and hogs. He was campaign manager for Mr. Gaetz, U.F.A. in one election campaign and for A. J. Hooke in two elections. Both Elizabeth and Tom were active in church and community affairs: she being a member of the Ladies' Aid and a director of the Benalto Agricultural Society. Tom was a Presbyterian Church Elder and for six years he was president of the Agricultural Society. Dur ing the war years they were busy with Victory Bond drives and with Red Cross work

When Mr and Mrs Smith left to reside in the Eckville district in 1950 they sold their land to their eldest son, George and his wife, Edna. Edna was born and raised in the Carbon district southeast of Three Hills. She has lived nearly 34 years on Grandpa and Grandma's home place two and one half miles east of Bena to, and was their first daughter-in-law. George and Edna raised two children, Patricia and David, and both attended public school at Benalto. In the fall of 1977 their daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Richard Meyers and baby son came to live on the 60-acre parcel of land at Elspeth, Pt. SE 33-38-3-W5. She has worked for many years at the Imperial Bank of Commerce in Eckville, and he does carpenter work, and is a sub-contractor. In 1967 the Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Company Ltd. bought from the Smith a small parcel of land off Pt SE 33-38-3-W5, along the C.N.R. right-of-way. It is called the Elspeth Propane Terminal.

Four of the Senior Smith sons farm in the Eckville area.

James and wife Elsie have four sons and one daughter — Fred, Stephen, Ralph, Gordon and Linda.

Thomas Jr. and wife Janet have two sons and two daughters — Ronald, Murray, Isabel and Edith.

William and wife Jean have four daughters — Beth, Sharon, Mary, and Beverly.

Robert and wife Kay have four sons and a daughter — Gary, Dale, Philip, Jim and Kathy.

John and his wife Marlene live on Salt Spring Island, B.C. They have three sons and a daughter — Kenneth, John, Bradley and Becky.

In the spring of 1947 Thomas Sr. and Elizabeth left their farm east of Benalto to live with their son Robert on the Sproski farm in the Eckville district, later moving to their town home on 54th Street. (later sold to Lionel Ramstead, who presently occupies this property.

Mrs. Smith died on November 3, 1955 at the age of 69 years. Mr. Smith continued to live in his own home in Eckville for a few years, then sold his home and lived with various members of the family until eventually going into the West Park Nursing Home in Red Deer. He passed away on November 3, 1976 at the age of 94 years. Both Tom and Elizabeth are buried in the Eckville Cemetery.

SMITH, JOHN J. AND MARLENE

[illegible]with boys all started out on our own in 1967 when the quarter section just across the road from Elson's farm was bought. In 1968 George Christie's place was bought and this

In 1946 in October the Smith Bros. partnership was dissolved. Each one went his own way, but I got George Christie's old place as my share. I lived there until I sold it to August Lilvam in the fall of 1959. I continued living there until my auction sale in April, 1960, at which time I moved to Eckville.

In Eckville I had a share in building the first Kingdom Hall, which was completed in 1961. In 1962 I married Marlene Bayhurst and we have four children, three boys and a girl. We built a house in Eckville next to the Kingdom Hall in 1968. In August of 1973 we sold our home in Eckville to Jim Bass and we moved to Salt Spring Island and bought a home on a one and three quarters acre plot, on which we now live.

I became one of Jehovah's Witnesses in 1952 and the presiding overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses in Eckville prior to moving from Eckville for 17 years.

SMITH, ROBERT AND FAMILY

Robert is the youngest of six sons born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith in a homesteader's shack in the Irvine district about 20 miles east of Medicine Hat. The house is still standing, and it is hard to imagine the hardships our parents must have endured, living in a house like that with a family of six. They endured 13 years on the homestead before moving north to the Benalto district in 1924. They rented a farm from Staudingers for three years and then bought a farm two miles east of Benalto. This was where I was brought up.

Since I was only one and one-half years old when leaving Irvine, my first memories are of our home at Benalto. I went to school at Kuusamo through Grade 8 and then to Eckville High School. During all of my growing up years the depression was in full force. It was not an common to see men riding the freight trains at Elspeth. A few came to our home for a meal, which they always got. We didn't have any money but we never went hungry, and my memories of childhood are happy ones. Before I finished school my older brothers had bought land north of Eckville belonging to Tony Andrelus. Jim and I still farm this place: 1977 being the 41st crop harvested there. In 1939 we formed a partnership (George, John, James, Tom, Bill and Robert) and from then on we did business under the name Smith Brothers. The same year we bought the Christie place west of Eckville where I lived until March 15, 1947. I had bought the Frank Sproski place in the summer of 1946 and then worked in the mine at Nordegg during the winter of 1946-1947. Made big money too — $1.01 per hour less board, and union dues. I came home in March and moved to my own farm, NW 32-39-3-W5, which is now known as "Standalane Farm", with very little furniture, nine head of cattle and lots of debt. Father and Mother had sold the home place to George and Edna, so they came and lived with me until January 1950. I was married to Kay Hebner of Turtle Valley B.C. on January 14, 1950. Kay was born in Chase, B.C. in 1929. She had a brother and sister. Her brother Harry lives in Salmon Arm, B.C. and her sister Pauline Anderson, lives in Rocky Mountain House. Kay took her schooling in Turtle Valley then worked at various jobs until we were married. Kay's father died in 1951 and her mother moved to the Eckville district in 1957. When we were first married we lived in the old log house built by the Moros, the original owners of this farm. We lived in it for 11 years during which time Garry, Dale, Philip, Kathy, and James were born. We built and moved into our present home in 1961. Everet Tarvis was our carpenter and Robert Ranger did the inside finishing work.

Earlier years Family — Garry, Dale, Jim, Robert, Philip, Kay and Kathy

In 1956 we bought the SW 32-39-3-W5 from Otto Hiltala. Later we bought the Wayne Hiltala place and still own the SE 6-40-3-W5, and 80 acres of the SW 5-40-3-W5. Later we bought the NE 32-39-3-W5 from Mrs. Frank Lingren and Garry now owns this quarter. In 1972 we bought the NW 3-41 3-W5, which we still own. Garry, our oldest son, was born October 26, 1950. He took his schooling in Eckville and two years at Olds School of Agriculture. He was always interested in farming, and is now in the process of taking over the farm.

Dale was born February 28, 1953. He also took his schooling in Eckville but wasn't interested in farming. He took employment with Hunt Construction of Eckville, where he is presently employed. Dale was married to Val Jerden of Red Deer June 30, 1973. They have two sons Jason and Robert.

Four generations of the Smith family — Standing: Parents Dale [illegible] Kay; Seated: Mrs. [illegible] and Jason

Philip, our third son, was born July 18, 1957 took his schooling in Eckville and went on to Olds Agricultural School for two years. He then decided to take an apprenticeship course to become an electrician. He is presently working in Calgary.

Kathy, our daughter was born September 27 1958. She is presently in Grade 12 at the Eckville High School and plans to go to university to become a home economics teacher. Kathy is in C.G.I.T., and was president of the organization in 1976.

Jim, our youngest son, was born September 26, 1960. He is in Grade 12 at Eckville and intends to go to Olds Agricultural School for two years. If Jim comes back to the farm maybe "The Gaffer" an English term for "The Boss") will be able to get a little more time for fishing travelling and other activities.

Our four boys have all been in Cubs and Scouts and have enjoyed the camps and outings very much. Garry earned a trip to England in 1965. Jim earned a trip to Sooke, B.C. in 1974 and to Norway in 1975. Garry has been a Scout leader in Eckville for seven years.

The years have gone quickly with their share of rewards and setbacks. One of the most difficult things to accept is the frequent hailstorms. Nineteen seventy-seven was the 31st crop on our home place and in ten of those years we had hail some very severe storms which took nearly all our grain crops and even our hay was badly damaged. We have always kept a good-sized herd of cattle and in recent years we have been buying feeder cattle and fattening them for market. In the bad hail years it is the cattle that pay the bills.

One more thing I would like to mention is that we are part of a family that have worked and visited together all through the years. We have always got along well [illegible] family reunion in July, 1977, with 63 of the family attending. I hope our family enjoy the same good fortune in the years ahead.

SMITH, THOMAS AND JANET

Tom was born on a farm at Irvine, Alberta on June 1, 1917, the fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith Sr. and started school at Long Valley, a small school on the prairie. The house Tom was born in still stands and is occupied mostly by pigeons. The old school is used as a grain bin for wheat.

In 1924, the family moved to a farm rented from Alex Staudinger in the Benalto district. From there he went to school at Evarts by horse and cutter in the winter and saddle horse in the summer (without the saddle). Three years later father bought a farm two miles east of Benalto from Charlie Jenkins and from here he went to school at Kinusamo. It was on No. 11 Highway one mile east of the cemetery but is no longer there. Ena Wolma taught grades one to six in the one room and the other room was seven to 10. He gave up on school when he got to be 17 and went farming with his brothers at Benalto and Eckville. He worked out one spring for a neighbor and got $22 a month driving horses to put in the crop.

He joined the army in November, 1941, and went to trade school at Hamilton for nine months and took mechanics. He graduated from trade school to get top wages of $1.75 per day, then went overseas with R.C.A.S.C. in March 1943 and served in England, Sicily, Italy, France, Holland, and Germany and came home in [illegible].

The farm he now lives on was bought in partnership with his brother, Bill, while both were in the army. It is the S 20-39-3-W5 and was formerly owned by Luther Finlay. We farmed with tractor and horses until we both were married, after that no more batching.

On December 18, 1947, he married Janet Shanks, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shanks, from Mayerthorpe, Alberta. Janet was born May 19, 1923 in a small two room homestead house two miles from Mayerthorpe. She went to a one-roomed school at Deer Lodge with one teacher, teaching Grades one to nine. Janet either walked or rode a horse to school two and a half miles every day. Then three years of high school in Mayerthorpe with one teacher teaching the three grades. She then went to Edmonton for nurses' training and graduated from U. of A.H. as an R.N. in 1947. She worked for one year at U. of A.H., then sometime in the Eckville Hospital in 1948.

Janet was a member of C.G.I.T. for three years and joined the United Church at Padstow as a teenager.

In the spring of 1948, we had a very heavy snow storm and Tom took Janet into work at the Eckville Hospital with a team and sleigh in early May. We started on the land on May 19 and seeded wheat May 24. That was the only good grade of wheat ever grown on this farm. In 1949, we were hailed out 100% and had no hail in [illegible].

Tom and Janet have two sons and two daughters. Ronald married Sharyl Stuart of Red Deer. They have one daughter Karen. Ronald is a heavy duty mechanic and works for R. Angus & Co., and they live in Red Deer. Ronald went over to Derbyshire, England with a Scout Group to a Jamboree in 1965. Isabel has B. of Ed. taught one year at Linden, Alta., then married A. Wymann who works for Hilton Hotels. They live in Berlin now, but have lived in Singapore and Manila. They have one daughter Christina, who has flown around the world before she was two years old. Murray has a dairy farm on the former Ranner Maki farm, NE 30-39-3-W5. He married Pat Staniforth, daughter of Bill Staniforth of Evarts on September 3, 1977. Murray also farms with his father. Edith is at home and attends high school in Eckville. She works part time at the Eckville Manor House.

Tom has been an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Eckville since 1956. He spent 30 years on the Church Board and was chairman of the building committee when the church was built. He served three years on the arena committee and is a member of the Eckville Legion. Janet has been a member of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid for over 25 years, two years president of the club and Scout Parent Group and taught Sunday School for 13 years and also helped with Explorers for six years.

SOMERVILLE, DR. ASBURY — by Mrs. Edythe Somerville

Asbury Somerville was born in Hartney, Manitoba on September 6, 1896. He was the son of Reverend William and Fanny (Ruskin) Somer ville. He received his secondary education at St. John's High School in Winnipeg, Manitoba graduating from the matriculation course. He later attended the University of Manitoba receiving his B.A. in 1917 and his M.D. in 1924.

He was married to Edythe Lavina E. Wales of Portage la Prairie, Manitoba on January 1, 1928. Their children are Mrs. E. E. Newhall and Mrs. D. F. Leslie.

Following his graduation from the University of Manitoba Dr. Somerville came to Eckville where he engaged in private practice from 1924 until 1931. He then attended the University of Toronto from which he received his degree in Public Health in 1932. He then returned to Red Deer but, since there were no immediate openings in the field of public health, he carried on in private practice in Ponoka from 1932 until 1936.

During the years from 1936 to 1942 he served as director of the Foothills Health Unit at High River, Alberta. From 1942 until 1952 he was Assistant Deputy Minister of Health in Alberta and Deputy Minister from 1952 until 1961. He also was chairman of Glenrose Hospital Board in Edmonton for a time.

Dr. Somerville earned considerable recognition in the field of public health. He was president of the Alberta Public Health Association in 1949, and president of the Canadian Public Health Association from 1954 to 1955. He was chosen to direct an Alberta Health Survey conducted from 1948 to 1950. He was made a Senior Member of the Canadian Medical Association.

In 1953 Dr. Somerville was awarded, along with his good friend, Morley Young, the Coronation Medal. He was given this honor for having given the most to his profession during his years of service in the field of medicine.

During the First World War Dr. Somerville joined the Canadian Army and served with the First Machine Gun Battalion in France from 1916 to 1919. Along with his practice of medicine at Eckville he also found time to serve as a trustee for the local schools for three years, and served in a similar capacity for three years while in High River. During his stay at High River he was president of the Rotary Club and of the Knights of Pythias, each for one term. He was a member of the United Church, and was a non-active member of the Masonic Lodge. Photography was one of his recreational interests. He also served at one time as president of the Skyline Hikers of the Canadian Rockies.

Dr. and Mrs. Somerville made their home in Edmonton for several years. Dr. Somerville passed away there on August 17, 1967 and his body was cremated. Mrs. Somerville still maintains her home in Edmonton, although she enjoys travelling a great deal, and makes frequent trips to Toronto to visit her daughter living there, or to Vancouver to visit her other daughter. She goes on various tours as well, to enjoy other areas of the country.

CECIL SPEIRS FAMILY

Dr. Cecil Speirs came to Eckville in June 1951 after graduating from the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, Ontario. He set up Eckville's first veterinary clinic and practise. In September 1952 he married the former Betty Mackie, of Eckville, who taught at Calkins Valley, Benjamin and Bentley schools. They purchased the August Moro property as their first office and residence. This house was later moved three blocks into town, where Cecil set up the first trailer court, in the summer of 1955.

Two sons were born to them, Dale in November 1955 and Neil in August, 1957. The Speirs moved to Red Deer in July, 1963. Cecil is now operating a veterinary clinic there.

Dale and Neil are both attending the University of Alberta, Edmonton. Dale is studying horticulture and Neil is studying agricultural engineering.

SPITTAL, PHYLLIS URSULA AND BOYS

Having been asked for something about ourselves to put in the history book we shall put in a few words.

Mother, my two boys Robert and Lloyd, and I came to Eckville August 4, 1962. Why did we come? Because we had been told Eckville had a good General Hospital and a good school, and having been assured that Bertha and Arvid Anderson would take us to our church (Full Gospel at Diamond Valley) — the one reason being as important as the other.

People say, 'My family are the most important to me' — same here, but seeing they are and I being the supporter, my job is and has been of uppermost importance. Therefore often things at home have to suffer in order for me to have sufficient rest to be able to work. We have had our good days and our bad, like everyone else. Being a midwife besides an R.N. and volunteering to be more or less on 24 hour call to help the Stork make a good arrival has been a joy — but there are drawbacks to that: a cake in the oven — bread rising — ask my good neighbour Lorraine Keegstra to pop over and take the cake out at such and such a time. The bread? Punch it down and hope for the best.

One time I had peas soaked and ready to plant, someone's dog or what came and took off with the peas and the can! While we were building our garage - Lloyd's Small Engine Repair Shop (Mr. Harold Quantz was carpenter) in putting on the shingles I was called off the roof three times. Nevertheless each delivery has its own joy.

Mother returned to Ontario when Lloyd was 10 years old and Robert about 12. Since then she has paid her sisters a visit in England and several times she has been able to travel to British Columbia and stopped here for a year once. Mother will be 89 in March — and has just flown to Pender Island, B.C. to be with my sister

I have enjoyed my life here at Eckville, but now I find I am slowing down. Therefore it is time to step out, allowing room for the younger person who has a lively step and more modern knowledge of nursing today. I look forward to a partial retirement and having a three day work week, to retire August 7, 1979.

Robert is in Calgary working for Stephens Medical and Surgical Company and has been there six years. Lloyd is home and has his repair shop, we hope business will pick up.

I have enjoyed my over 40 years of nursing and cannot imagine life without it, however I do have plans to keep myself active in retirement. Added by a hospital patient.

Much more could have been said about our Nurse Spittal, but it wouldn't be said by her so we'll add a bit in appreciation. We remember the special care — the things no one else seemed to think of — the going beyond the regular line of duty to provide some creature comfort — the truly sympathetic help. Then we remember her dry sense of humour and her ability in dramatics when the occasion arose at hospital parties or at entertainments. She really knew how to make us all laugh, remembering that "a merry [illegible] doeth good like a medicine". Thank you Ursula.

AGNES GUSTAVSON SUNDBERG

Following her marriage to Fred Sundberg they made their home in Seattle. They have three children — Allen, Gordon (who is now married), and Darlene. Fred passed away suddenly in March of 1961. Agnes still lives in Seattle with her daughter.

TAKKINEN, JOHN — written by Fred Takkinen

John Takkinen was born in Rovaniemi, Finland, in 1881. He immigrated to the United States in the early 1900's. There he worked as a miner and a fisherman. He met Linnea Ylinen in Butte, Montana. They were married in 1910 and were blessed with a son, Fred, on March 13, 1911.

In 1912 John moved his family to Alberta to homestead on the SW 19-40-6-W5 in the Taimi school district. Their daughter Nora was born on October 3, 1912 on the homestead. Another son, Harold, was born in 1918. He passed away in 1923 and was buried in the Rocky Mountain House cemetery at the age of six years. Nora and I walked a mile to the Taimi school where we took all of our schooling.

For years John worked hauling telephone poles and railway ties into Rocky Mountain House with a team of horses. He was very interested in Percheron horses and had a stud horse which he took with him all around the areas for many years.

In 1928 the family moved to the Eckville district where they bought the NE 13-39-4-W5 from the C.P.R. I farmed there with my dad until 1935 when he passed away. I married Hilja Tolonen on August 5, 1935 and we were blessed with three children, Alice, Lawrence, and Karen.

We had mostly good luck farming, although the crops of 1943, 1949 and 1951 were hailed out. During the summer of 1951 the old house on the farm was sold and moved into the town of Eckville, where it is still being lived in. We then built a new modern home on the farm where we lived until I sold the farm in 1969. We then retired to Eckville, to a new home which we had built there. My wife, Hilja, passed away on February 21, 1974 after 38 years of happily married life.

Our children are all married now. Alice went to university to become a teacher and after graduating moved to Acme to teach. There she married Jim Bates and they now live on a farm near Acme with their four children, Sherry, Joanne, Doug and Tana.

Lawrence went to work for the C.P.R. in Calgary. He married Jean Vipond and they have two sons, Michael and Garth. Lawrence was transferred to Revelstoke, B.C. where they lived for many years. From there he went to Nelson for a short stay before moving back to Revelstoke. He now lives in Cranbrook, B.C. where he is still working for the C.P.R.

Karen graduated from high school in Eckville in 1975 and then took a secretarial course in Red Deer. She married Dale Harrison and they are now both working and living in Red Deer.

My sister Nora is married to Hans Moos of Eckville. They lived on a farm for most of their lives, but are now retired and living in the town of Eckville.

Our mother, Linnea Maki, is living in the Eckville Manor after living for many years at Sylvan Lake. She moved into the Manor House right after its opening, so that she could be close to her children and many grandchildren.

I am now enjoying my retirement by spending my time fishing and hunting in the west country and playing crib with my friends.

TERRY, THE LOWELL AND HELEN FAMILY—by Helen Terry

Lowell Floyd Terry, eldest son of Floyd I. Terry and Lula Boice, Terry, was born near Virgelle, Montana, U.S.A. on December 19, 1914. Helen Margaret Terry, the only daughter of Guy Collins and Lois Seright Collins, was born on August 16, 1914 at the farm home of her parents near Montague, Montana.

Both Lowell and Helen received their elementary education in rural schools of Montana. Lowell attended high school in Big Sandy, Montana, and Helen received her high school education at Geraldine, Montana. Based upon her standing as Salutatorian of her high school graduating class, Helen was awarded a one-year scholarship from the Greater University of Montana. In addition, she was the recipient of a four year scholarship awarded by the Montana Federation of Women's Clubs. After four years spent at Montana State College, located in Bozeman, Helen was graduated with a B.Sc. degree in Secretarial Studies and a Secondary School Teaching Certificate, in June of 1936. She then spent three years teaching business education in high schools in Montana.

In the meantime Lowell had completed his schooling and had joined the Civilian Conservation Corp, a government-sponsored work project designed to provide employment for young men during the depression years. Following this experience he was employed as a construction worker on the Fort Peck Dam being built on the Missouri River near Glasgow Montana.

After their marriage on March 3, 1938 in Great Falls, Montana, Lowell and Helen lived and farmed in various areas of north-central Montana, and through the years they were blessed with five daughters and three sons.

Their children received their education in various rural schools until the family settled in Big Sandy in 1951. Lucille, Joyce, Frances and Floyd all graduated from the Big Sandy High School, having the distinction of each one being made a member of the National Honor Society (a precedent set for them by their mother during her high school days). Lucille and Joyce both became teachers in Montana—Lucille receiving her University training at Montana State College and Northern Montana College and Joyce receiving hers from the Montana State Normal College at Dillon and the University of Montana at Missoula.

Lucille was married in 1963 to Loyd Kuehne of Wolf Point, Montana. Loyd had graduated from Montana State College with a B.Sc. degree in Animal Industry in 1961. Lucille continued her teaching career until they moved to Great Falls, where Loyd was employed by the 7 Up Bottling Company. They have a daughter, Rachel, born in 1965.

In 1965 Joyce was married to Maynard Brant, of Libby Montana. Soon after their marriage they moved to Seattle, Washington, where Maynard was employed by Boeing Aircraft and Joyce continued her work as a teacher in the Kent and Renton schools near Seattle. They later returned to Montana where Joyce has continued her teaching career and Maynard is employed as an accountant by the Cal Gas Company in Kalispell. Their two children are Michael, born in 1967 and Michelle born in 1969.

After their children all reached school age Helen returned to the teaching profession, this time teaching on the elementary level. She attended summer courses at Northern Montana College at Havre, and on August 9, 1957 she was awarded a B.Sc. degree in Elementary Teacher Education, and received the Elementary School Advanced Teaching Certificate.

The family was now beginning to think of a new location and a land-seeking trip in August of 1958 and another in 1959 resulted in their purchase of the NW 6-4-5-W5, in the Bingley area northwest of Lesliieville. A short time later they were able to purchase three more adjoining ...

Lowell had arrived in Alberta in February of 1960 but Helen and the children were obliged to remain in Montana until Helen finished her year of teaching and the children had completed their school year. So it was that on June 1, 1960 the final ties were cut in Montana for all but Lucille and Joyce, and Alberta became their new home. They brought with them many happy memories as well as the memory of two tragic events in their early family life—the death of Joyce's twin sister Janet, at the age of six and a half years, in a public swimming pool in Lewistown, Montana and the loss of their home and entire contents by fire on their farm north of Forest Grove, Montana, in 1951.

In 1958 Frances had been married to Paul Bogner of Fort Benton, Montana, and they immigrated to Alberta at the same time and to the same area as the rest of the family. In 1960 the Bogner family moved to Nordegg, where Paul was employed as a guard at the Correctional Institute there later being transferred to the Provincial Institute at Peace River. He is presently employed as a Corrections Officer II at Peace River. Frances has been employed for a time as an attendant at the Autumn Lodge (Senior Citizen's Home) in Berwyn and since '74 has been a nursing attendant at the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Whitelaw, Alberta. They purchased a farm near Berwyn in August of 1972 where they make their home and carry on the farming operations "in their spare time". They have seven children, the oldest of whom will graduate from a Peace River High School in the spring of 1978. His plans are then to enter the Military Academy in Kingston, Ontario.

After Floyd's graduation from high school in Big Sandy he was awarded a scholarship by the local Lutheran Church which enabled him to attend Concordia College in Moorehead ... employed by the Canadian Imperial Bank at Camrose and at Claresholm. However he decided that the indoor, sedentary nature of workers in a bank was not to his liking so he resigned to work at more outdoor active jobs, including farming service station work and electrical work, before going to Montana to work in the lumbering industry and then on a livestock ranch at Big Sandy. He is presently employed in a lumber yard in Big Sandy, Montana and does a good deal of trucking in connection with this operation. In 1965 he married Marlene Ames, daughter of Austin and Edna Ames of Rocky Mountain House. Their two children, Victoria and Frederick, are both attending school in Big Sandy.

Of Lowell and Helen's other children, Ruth Ann and Kenneth graduated from the Rocky Mountain House High School and Robert graduated from the Camrose Composite High School. Ruth Ann and Robert both attended the Alberta Bible Institute in Camrose, from which Ruth Ann graduated in 1966 with a Ministerial Diploma, and Robert graduated in 1973 with a Bachelor of Theology degree.

Kenneth took training in Auto Mechanics at SAIT in Calgary and was employed by Edwards Garage in Rocky Mountain House for some time before being lured to the oil industry. He worked his way up through the ranks, and has held the position of driller for the past several years. During his employment on the oil rigs he has won many safety awards. He owns a farm northwest of Leslieville and on his days off carries on his farming and livestock operations. [redacted] wife, the former Waltareena Thompson of Leslieville. Their two children, James and Marie, both attend the Leslieville school.

Robert accepted a pastorate at Biggar, Saskatchewan in August 1973, and served as pastor of the Biggar Church of God for four years before resigning to further his education at the Anderson School of Theology, at Anderson, Indiana, U.S.A. He expects to receive his Master of Theology degree in 1981. Robert was married on May 2, 1971, to the former Bonnie Mastrae of Drayton Valley. Bonnie received her R.N. degree from Archer Memorial Hospital at Lamont, Alberta, on August 3, 1972, being a member of the last class of nurses to graduate from this hospital. Bonnie and Robert have a son, Shawn, born October 4, 1973 and a daughter Jody, born August 1, 1975.

Following her graduation from Alberta Bible Institute Ruth Ann worked as a medical receptionist and secretary in Red Deer and later in Calgary before going to Ontario where she worked as a bookkeeper. On August 26, 1972 she was married to Ronald Paul of Napanee, Ontario, and has since made her home in Ontario. After graduating from the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph with a B.Sc. degree in Agriculture, Ronald has taught school, has been a Genetics Technologist at Queen's University at Kingston, Ontario, and since 1974 has been employed as a Quality Control Manager at Metcalfe Foods of Deseronto, Ontario. He and Ruth Ann own a farm near Enterprise, where they live but lease out the farm land. They have two daughters, Caralee, born November 16, 1973 and Ronda Joleen, born November 19, 1977. Their [redacted] William, was born March 22, 1976. In addition to being a mother and housewife Ruth Ann finds time to be a very successful Tupperware demonstrator and saleslady.

Lowell was a man of quiet disposition and one who had considerable ability in a number of fields. Because his father had raised and used horses on his farm as a young boy Lowell developed an interest in livestock, particularly in horses. The favorite recreation of him and his chums always involved horses in one way or another—usually roping a horse off the range and then trying their luck at riding him. For several years before his marriage Lowell participated in many of the amateur rodeos of his [redacted] winning his share of the awards given.

Big game hunting was another of Lowell's interests. In Montana he made a yearly major hunting trip each season, and after coming to Alberta he obtained his official Guide's license and took hunting parties into the big game surrounding Fox Creek, Whitecourt and Valleyview.

While farming Lowell always did his own mechanical and other necessary repair work on his equipment. After coming to Alberta he took the required provincial examinations and was granted an Alberta Mechanics license. After leaving the farm he was employed by Schnell and Barrie, an International Harvester farm machinery dealership in Camrose, and later by Petterson's in Daysland. His ability as a carpenter enabled him to build or remodel several of the homes in which the family lived. His knowledge of electrical work and plumbing made it possible for each of these homes to be modernized.

In 1966 Lowell suffered a heart attack, and because of this the farm was rented and later sold to Loyd and Lucille Kuehne. In August of 1967 Lowell and Helen rented out their home in Daysland and bought a home in Eckville, where Helen had accepted a position as business education teacher in the Eckville high school. Lowell's interest always remained with the farm and he helped out there during the busy season until his failing health forced him into complete retirement. He then enjoyed playing cards with his friends.

Easter time proved to be an ideal time for a short holiday, so Lowell and Helen made a number of plane trips to Las Vegas to "try their luck" and to visit Helen's father and his wife who lived there. Prior to one of these trips they had been fortunate enough to be awarded an all expense-paid trip for two to Las Vegas! This was quite a happy surprise. Each summer also [redacted] of the family or friends in Montana, Washington, British Columbia or Saskatchewan. In 1975 they made a trip by truck and camper to Ontario to visit their daughter and family as well as points of interest along the way

In March of 1964 the children honored their parents with a 25th Wedding Anniversary reception held in the Bingley Hall. In 1974 the parents were again honored—and delightfully surprised—by a special family dinner and party held at the Elks Club in Red Deer, this being the occasion of their 35th Wedding Anniversary

The Terrys were a close-knit family and every Christmas all of the children with their families planned to spend the holidays with Lowell and Helen if it were at all possible. The Christmas of 1975 was to be extra special, for all seven children, with their families, planned to be present at the family gathering in Eckville. Lowell and Helen were enroute to the Calgary airport to meet Ruth Ann and her family when Lowell became critically ill and had to be rushed by ambulance to the Red Deer General Hospital where he passed away on December 19, 1975—on the 61st anniversary of his birthday. He was buried in the Eckville cemetery

Helen has continued her teaching in the Eckville High School and in addition, taught adult classes in typewriting and accounting during the spring of 1978. She has taken an active part in the Eckville and District Historical Society and in the local Friendship Club. She has held the office of president of the Friendship Club and for the past two years has been secretary of the club. Travel continues to be a part of her activities, with frequent visits to the homes of her children. A visit with friends and relatives in Montana occupies a part of each summer. In the summer of 1977 she accompanied her daughter Joyce and her family on an extended sight seeing trip through parts of Montana, Arizona, Idaho, Nevada and Washington.

Lowell had often made the comment that "My only regret is that we didn't come to make our home in Alberta 20 years before we did." Helen is in complete agreement with this feeling and plans to continue living in her home in Eckville. Her hobbies are gardening and various handicrafts—when she can find time to pursue them.

THOMPSON, FRANK L.

Having sold a farm and all machinery in the [illegible] became apparent we were going to miss not having any land. Six months later in July we bought from Ezra and Homer Isaacson of Eckville the NW 27-38-3-W5, the west half of 34-38-3-W5 and NE 34-38-3-W5. We bought a full line of machinery again and took great pleasure making the yard into a show place by planting trees and lawn. We got two knobbies (burls), painted them red and set them close to the highway along with a sign – "Bonny View Farm"

The family consisted of myself, wife Marie, son Gary born March 5, 1948 and Mary Gayle born May 3, 1956. Both children were in school and Marie looked after them and took care of our 11 suite Bonny View Apartments in Red Deer. Because of this I had to batch most of the time.

I liked the large spruce trees that had been planted years ago by the Isaacsons that surrounded the house and the wrens that sang and built their nests in the bird houses I had built for them. The neighbors were friendly and helpful. I was proud to be part of the community. Ten happy years were spent growing rape and barley, some was sold as seed to the neighbors or put through the elevator at Eckville.

The crops were mostly very good. I owe a great deal to those who helped with the farm work — Bob Dickie (the mail man) — Ralph Lougheed – Ralph Dowler — Chris Anderson — Ken Ackerman — Lorne Hamilton and later my son Gary. Many more gave me their help and moral support. Thank you all.

During September 1972, three quarters were sold to the Gefle Brothers of Eckville. The river quarter was sold to Dr. Marriott of Red Deer.

Gary is married to Donna Richie of Lucknow, Ontario. Mary Gayle married Ron Taylor of Red Deer and they have a little daughter, June Autumn. They reside in Red Deer. Marie and I live in a small but cozy house at 5135 45 Avenue in Red Deer.

Would we do it all over again? — sure would.

THORKMAN, JACOB RICHARD

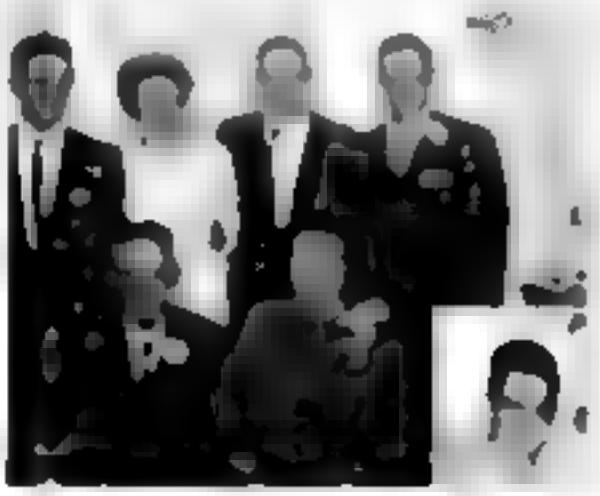
Jacob Richard Thorkman, the eldest son of Thomas and Mary Thorkman was born February 7, 1901, at Rock Springs, Wyoming U.S.A.

In the spring of 1903, Richard came with his parents and brothers to the Eckville district.

Richard married Mary Holland, eldest daughter of Thomas and Mary Holland of Condor. Mary was born in England, coming to Canada with her parents as a young girl.



Dick Thorkman family: Jim, Faye, Wilf, Robert, Richard and Mary, and Richard Jr. (inset).

Richard and Mary farmed the SW 35-30-3-W5 This is where their five children were born Richard Jr., Wilfred, Jimmy Robert and daughter Faye Shirley

The children took their schooling at Eatonia and Eckville schools

Richard and Rose lived at Pincher Creek and they have two sons Kim and Wayne

Wilfred and Pat living at Leduc, have two daughters, Sandra and Terry

Jim, living at Warburg, has two children Steven and Susan

Robert, living at Warburg, has one son

Faye (Mrs. Neil Ricalton) of Red Deer has two children Tony and Jason

Richard and Mary lived on the farm until retiring to the town of Rimbey in 1966

In May 1968, Richard passed away in the Rimbey Auxiliary Hospital at the age of 77 years He is buried in the Mount Auburn Cemetery

Mary is remarried, to Joe Bunch of Rimbey and they presently reside in Drayton Valley

TIIHONEN, EDDIE AND LOUISE

Eddie Frederick Tiihonen was born in the Oras district near Rocky Mountain House on the farm of his maternal grandparents, Andrew and Matilda Rahko. At one month of age he returned with his mother and father Ed and Ina Tiihonen to their farm southeast of Sylvan Lake. His father, Ate (known as Ed) was born in Mikkeli Finland and came to Canada at the age of seven years. Eddie spoke only Finnish until he started school, where, however, he learned English quickly He took his schooling at the Maraunne School and the Composite High School, Red Deer

He completed his mechanic's apprenticeship at Lakeview Garage in Sylvan Lake which was owned by Joe Untinen Sr

Eddie was married to Mary Louise Warner of Red Deer in 1956. After living in Sylvan Lake for the first four and a half years of their marriage, they moved to Eckville in October, 1960 First living in the house owned by George Johnson but after two years they built their own home on the crescent, west of the hospital, the first house to be built there. During these two years, Eddie carried on an automotive repair garage at Bill's Corner Service owned by Bill Elliuk

Being a born entrepreneur, however, he purchased a piece of land formerly owned by Searle Grain Company and he and Louise set up their own business under the name of Eddie's Automotive and Tractor Ltd. As their business grew, staff was hired and after about three years they became a dealer for New Holland farm machinery Eventually an extension to the garage had to be built. The business has grown steadily

Eddie and Louise have two children, a son Mark Aaron, born in 1962 and a daughter, Jill born in 1965, both attending school in Eckville

The whole family enjoys outdoor life and when time permits do some hiking, camping and fishing in the mountains

MIKE TOIVANEN AND PETE TOIVANEN FAMILY — by Ray Toivanen

At the turn of the century (1901), Mike Toivanen arrived in Eckville from Sebeka, Minnesota, U.S.A. to establish a homestead on SE 14-38-3-W5. After building a home located two and a half miles east of Eckville he sent for his

(rain station now an historical reminder) has been well maintained and is still in current use The Toivanen family was reunited in a heavy downpour, which later caused their horse and wagon to become firmly bogged down in mud between Red Deer and Sylvan Lake Such was their first glimpse of "Sunny Alberta

Seven years later, in 1909, Mike Toivanen passed away, leaving his only son, Pete, to continue with the farming operation assisted by his new bride, the former Katherine Lempi Maki He continued farming until 1926 when he sold his farm to Mike Sestrap, and moved into the village of Eckville

Some of Dad's occupations in the early days consisted of hauling groceries from Red Deer by horse and wagon for Mr Kittick, operator of the store situated at the original site of Eckville, one mile north of the present town. He was a Director for the Co-op Store, and bought hogs at Kootuk for Fred Patterson and later for the Medicine Valley Co-op Association from the early 1930's to the mid-1930's.

After business comes pleasure. Pete was one of the instigators of the building of the Young Peoples' Hall, a gathering place for picnics, dances, fairs, and church on Sundays. Frequently dad played the violin accompanied by mother on the organ, for dances held there.

The Tolvanen farm was a gathering place for Sunday afternoon ballgames. Another favorite pastime in the early days was picking wild berries. Saskatoons, raspberries, chokecherries, blueberries, gooseberries and strawberries were in plentiful supply. In fact, an afternoon of picking, by the whole family, yielded sufficient berries to preserve a winter's supply.

The north end of Sylvan Lake, called "the Eckville Beach", was a favorite spot for picnics and sports days. On those occasions, instead of a picnic lunch, the housewives brought the ingredients, which consisted of fresh milk and vegetables, to cook a Finnish "Fish Mulligan". The fishermen were always successful in catching enough fish to make a good pot of Mulligan.

Dad was the mailman for Rural Route No. 3 covering the area east of Eckville. Many interesting stories to his family arose from this occupation. The slogan "Neither wind nor snow, nor sleet or hail will stop the delivery of this mail" must have evolved here. After a heavy snowfall and strong winds had built up the snow drifts, dad would take a good run at them with his car in order to plough his way through. Snowploughs were unheard of then! Later, when the rural residents came to town, they told of the big flurry of snow heralding dad's arrival. They would also relate how they'd waited to see if dad made it through the drifts, and, if successful, they would then venture a trip into town.

However, on the north end of the run, near the farm of Charlie Anderson, the drifts were often very difficult to maneuver. Consequently, Charlie would have his horses harnessed and ready to pull dad through this stretch. This is a fine example of the pioneer spirit, always willing to lend a helping hand wherever and whenever it was needed. Only when the snow became too deep for the automobile did dad resort to his horse and sleigh. This was a hardship in itself, as a cold winter day with sub-zero temperatures and blizzard conditions became a very long and difficult 12 to 14 hours to endure.

A common practice which adds a little "spice" to the early settlers image was the chewing of snuff by the men. For example, dad chewed snuff at the rate of three to four boxes per week, beginning at the age of 17 years and continuing until age 86 years. Thus, a rough calculation indicates that he went through approximately 12,750 boxes in his lifetime — enough to make a stockpile approximately 1100 feet high. Snuff chewing caused problems of its own. Dad's first car, a Grey Dort, purchased in the early 1920's, was an open touring model. When those of us who had the misfortune to ride in the back seat sensed that dad was getting ready to unload some of the snooze, there was a mad scramble in the back to hit the floor, or duck under any available cover in order to miss the "spray".

Mrs. Pete Tolvanen, nee Katherine Lempi Maki, came to Eckville in 1903 with her parents from Butte, Montana, U.S.A. Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Maki homesteaded about four and one half miles northeast of Eckville. Pete and Lempi were married in 1907 and lived to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1957.

Mother was active in the rural area. She was a member of the Church, the Women's Institute and the Young Peoples' Hall Board. The farmers' wives had their work cut out for them during harvest season. In later years they looked back with fond memories to when the steam engine pulling the separator and bunk car pulled into the yard. Again the pioneer and community spirit prevailed, as all the neighbor ladies arrived to lend a helping hand to feed the threshing crew.

Mother was very fortunate in being able to survive the flu epidemic in 1919. When very ill, Chinese nurse arrived at the farm, helping to nurse her back to good health.

The family consisted of six children. Ada, the eldest, born in 1909, married Jim Sloan and they raised two sons, David and Robert. Ada passed away in Calgary in 1974.

The second daughter, Elsie, born in 1911, became Mrs. Joe Hyde. She passed away in Calgary in 1961. She did not have any children.

Ernest, born in 1914, married Shirley Steven son of Lesliville. He enlisted with the army in 1939, going overseas the same year. He served in England, Sicily, Italy, Holland, France, and Germany before returning home in 1945. Shirley passed away several years ago in Calgary where their only child, a daughter, Terry, resides with her husband, Ron Ager, and four children. Ernie is presently living in Vancouver.

Bill, born in 1916, married to Dorothy Bergstrom of Eckville, has two sons, Bob and Terry, and four grandchildren. He served in the army overseas from 1942 until 1945. They are now Lethbridge residents.

Ray married Irene Erickson of Stettler in 1950. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as a pilot in 1942. Upon his release in 1945 Ray began employment with the Central Alberta Dairy Pool, and is still employed with that company. Ray and Irene have two children, Scott and Janie, and one grandchild. They now live in Red Deer.

Dorothy, Mrs. Tom Forhan, resides in Eckville. The Forhans have three children — Brenda, Randy and Jim and two grandchildren.

TOIVANEN, HELEN DOROTHY

Helen Dorothy Toivanen is the youngest child of Mr and Mrs Peter Toivanen She was born on the homestead on August 12, 1923 Dorothy took all her schooling in Eckville except for the last year of high school which she took at the Lethbridge Collegiate

Miss Gladys Jones was her first teacher for two years who then married Bert Lundberg. Margaret McKinnon for two years, then Ruth Craig, Mr Baldwin, Ado Tipman, Mr John Henley-Lewis and Mrs. Westergard. Mr Scott taught us music

Dorothy was flower girl for the Lisa Lundberg-Everett Baldwin wedding

After graduation, Dorothy came back to Eckville She worked at Aboussaffy and Farris General Store, at the telephone office with Esther Johnson and Mrs. Louise Tink. Then went to work at Forhan's Pharmacy In 1946 she married Thomas Forhan

Dorothy recalls the skating rink on the river below Kult's house (where we lived) Barry and Bill Armstrong, Pickles (Arvo) and George Sestrap, Teddy Barnett George Johnson Brother Bill, Bill and Reg Morris and many more playing hockey there

Marg McKinnon was our C.G.I.T leader There were 10 or more. Dorothy and Sylvia sh, Selina Cowen, Violet Kingsep, Alberta Coutts, Marie Louise Servais, Phyllis MacDonald, Marie McDonnell, Isabel Merriman and myself. We walked to the different farms for meetings. Also went to Kasota Beach for two summers. Most of us keep in touch at Christmas

We also had a hockey team with almost all the same girls plus Ailine Langer in goal. We played Rimbey. Rocky Mountain House, Sylvan Lake and one game with Red Deer who were above us They let us have one boy to play and Bob Umari played. We won

We also played soft ball with most of the same crew and against the same towns

Mr Maclean, a Presbyterian minister was a lean tall man. I remember the first time Mrs Von Hottum saw him stand up in church she

She was a lovely tiny lady He was our basketball teacher and coach. We won most of our games and played Rimbey, Rocky Mountain House Sylvan Lake and Bentley

Once when coming back from Rimbey, we stopped at Bentley to see Mr Bernie Dennett At the time the doctor had maggots on his knee (a war injury) and he told us he'd lost two of the maggots Back in Mr Maclean's open air car, he started scratching and shifting around. Naturally, we asked what was wrong and he said "I guess I've got Mr Dennett's maggots." We were horrified at first and then laughed

I have been president of the curling club Started curling when 15 or 16. First bonspiel was at Leslieville with Mrs. Bergstrom and Kit Armstrong, don't recall who the 4th was. We won a cake plate. Leslieville rink was baled straw for

I have beens secretary and president of the Catholic Women's League, vice-president of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary

OSWALD UMARI - ELLEN KALLA

Oswald Umari was born in Butte, Montana, and Ellen Kalla was born in Belt, Montana. As young people, they made their way to Alberta, and were married in Red Deer, in 1917 They lived at Sylvan Lake for a time after their marriage, then moved to Eckville about 1921

Oswald was one of the managers of the Co-op store in Sylvan Lake and Eckville They both took an active part in the affairs of the community, and enjoyed curling, tennis, badminton, and other sports

The Umaris left Alberta in 1945 and located at Enderly, B.C. Here they operated a grocery business with Bob and Wilbur until the business was sold in 1972

Oswald and Ellen celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1967 Oswald passed away February 11 1973 and Ellen passed away on July 26, 1975

Their children, Bob, Wilbur, and Mildred all live in British Columbia

VANSCO, VINCE

I was born in Hungary, and came out from there at the time of the Revolution in November 1956, to Austria where I spent two months in the camp. From Austria I went to Holland where I spent another month and a half From there we started to Canada on the Holland Ship. It took 15 days to get to Halifax because of an accident on the sea on the fourth day out when an Italian ship hauling wheat from Italy to Norway ran into us We had to go to the nearest port, which took three days and we ended up in Brest France It took a day to move things from the Holland Ship to another one and seven days from there to Halifax where we landed on March 25, 1957 Another two days of travelling from Halifax to Merlin Ontario and I found my aunt and uncle and other relatives It was three days later when I started to work for Dr McKibbon in the Veterinary Clinic in Whitley, Ontario. I worked there for three years and then went to Calgary for a month's holiday in the spring of 1960 to visit friends who had come from the Old Country with me I never returned East except to visit my relatives. I got work with Dr Cecil Speirs on April 1, 1960, at the Eckville Veterinary Clinic and have worked for him about 10 years I found a place to live with Mr and Mrs. Slim Heath and this was my home for five years

In April 1965, I married Sylvia Edwards from Rocky Mountain House who had lost her husband in an accident a few years before. We bought the Slim Heath home and this has been our home ever since The Heaths moved to Penticton B.C Sylvia had three children — Pat, Dick and Greg

Pat married Garry Poliit of Leslieville, Dick married Brenda Wasson of Pine Point, N W T. and Greg married Janice Matthews of Eckville

On November 10, 1966, our daughter Sheryl was born and is getting her education in Eckville. In 1976, Sylvia, Sheryl and myself made a trip back to my homeland to visit my parents, two sisters, one brother and other relatives. It was good to go home to see the folks but it was great to get back to our home here a wonderful community to live in

VITALA, ERNEST

Ernest Vitala was born on his parents' farm four and one half miles north of Eckville He remained on the farm, working with his father From 1956 to 1962 he worked on the Eckville Mutual Telephone lines, and found this was quite interesting, meeting most of the people in the district. In 1965 he worked with Kingsep Water Well Drilling, and also continued farming until 1973 At this time he sold the farm and moved into

Ernest secured a position with the County of Lacombe, driving the school bus from Eckville to Lacombe and working in the Lacombe bus garage during the day

On July 20, 1974 Ernest married Juanita I Lee. Juanita is the daughter of Mr and Mrs George Lee of Evarts She was born in Eckville, raised in the Evarts District and worked in the Eckville Hospital from 1952 to 1956, before taking a Certified Nursing Aide Course. She then worked in Olds, Ponoka Mental Hospital and for nine years at Deerhome in Red Deer, before returning to the Eckville Hospital in 1973

In 1975 Juanita left active nursing to devote more time to her home life

VON HOLTUM CONSTANTINE HERBER

Constantine Herber von Holtum was born January 22, 1882 in Solingen Wald, Rhineland, Germany His father Wilhelm von Holtum was a lawyer and subsequently served as a judge in Aix-Ca-Chapelle, where Von recieved his education with a view for a career in banking as a foreign correspondent In order to acquire fluency in French and Dutch he spent part of his school years abroad He had a marked aptitude for languages and, apart from the academic languages Latin and Greek, he became proficient in seven tongues of the modern world However, work in the bank did not appeal to Von and in his early twenties he quit his post and went on a visit to an uncle in Minnesota, U.S.A

After a short time spent there Von came to Canada in 1904 and took up a homestead near Leslieville, Alberta. While proving up on it he worked as a store clerk in Trochu, Red Deer and

When the First World War broke out although by this time he had become a Canadian citizen, the Tories treated him as an alien Wrongfully accused of being a spy he was imprisoned and brought to trial. Fortunately the Liberals, of which party he was a member effected his release after two weeks imprisonment (He lost ten pounds in that fortnight) Although he was acquitted, he lost, through this persecution, his homestead and other property except for a quarter section of land to which Mr Joe Huerlmann held the title, and which he was farming on shares. Following his release from jail Von remained in Calgary and became a partner with a Mr Cohen in a secondhand store

Eventually Von needed an operation on his lungs, part of which was removed. In order to recuperate he went to Eckville where he started a filling station for the Imperial Oil Company Along with this he commenced to build an automotive parts business After some years he had a promising business going and this encouraged him to take a wife and start a family He was married to Anne Bajohr on January 20

The Wall Street crash came in the fall of 1929 and the following depression wiped out Von's business in a very short time. But somehow, people survived those interminable, dismal years. In 1938 Von succeeded in getting three thousand dollars for the above mentioned quarter section of land which was nominally farmed on shares

Hoping to find some employment opportunities in Vancouver, and lured by the milder climate of B.C we settled in Burnaby However the chances for employment were not any better than in Alberta, and Von had to eke out a meagre living by growing a garden and tending people's grounds for pittance

The Second World War was well advanced before there was a job with the Vancouver Engineering Works, where he was employed for things were for Von the same as before his fortunes never changed till the end. The pension for which he became eligible at age 70 was very small

In 1964, when he was past 82 years of age, his leg had to be amputated above the knee due to circulation blockage I visited him every second day while he was at Taylor Manor, a nursing home run by the city of Vancouver The day before his 86th birthday he suffered a light stroke and consequently he became slightly confused

After he was placed in a private hospital I visited him every day Von was an undemonstrative man, but it was obvious that he came to look forward to my daily visits. One day the nurse told me "Your husband was very worried over the delay He kept asking when you'd be turning up." After a few months in the hospital it became evident that a circulation blockage was occurring in the other leg. In times of sickness Von was a very patient and uncomplaining man but I couldn't help feeling very sad over his lot When I went to visit him on April 28, 1968, he was unconscious I was allowed to stay past the visiting time, and he passed away at four o'clock, without regaining consciousness

von HOLTUM, Anne Katherine (nee Bajohr)

I, Anne Katherine von Holtum, nee Bajohr was born December 27, 1892 in Riga, Russia. I was introduced to the three R's at home, starting my formal education at age eight in a private girls school, which I attended for 11 years graduating with a teacher's diploma in 1914, the year the first world war broke out. My deceased father had emigrated from Germany and retained his original citizenship. According to the old-country law I, too was a German citizen. After the out break of the war, I was temporarily interned in Central Russia, but was permitted to leave for Germany via neutral Rumania. I arrived in Berlin in the summer of 1916, received by the Red Cross, which also helped me to get employment with the postal services.

Due to the hunger blockade there was great scarcity of food. The Russians were sending parcels to their prisoners of war. I was occupied with the translation of the addresses of those parcels. After awhile I got a post with the Department of Foreign Affairs, thanks to my knowledge of the Russian language and the geography of the country. The work was most interesting and prestigous. On a Russian typewriter I had to make out forms searching for German prisoners of war, translating messages and making petitions for release of prisoners on the grounds of sickness. These forms were sent to the U.S.A. Embassies in London and Paris, prior to the entry of the United States into the war.

The effect of the hunger blockade was steadily increasing and especially hard on the sick and infirm. I had a younger sister, afflicted with a congenital heart condition, languishing in a hospital in Berlin. To supplement her nutrition I left Berlin for employment in the country at a prisoner-of-war camp as censorship examiner and interpreter. I often went after work to neighboring farms and persuasively presenting the situation, a person here or there was moved to sell a couple of eggs, a bit of butter or home made fruit to make a modest parcel for my sick sister. However she did not survive the war.

I was at a camp in the Rhine Palatinate when the collapse came in November 1918. It was a great upheaval, with soldiers disorganizing on the move and milling around and the rampant flu adding to the misery. Somehow reaching Berlin in an overcrowded train, I landed again in the Foreign Office, where I handled newspaper clippings in the Press Department. This occupation was, however, of short duration, the great inflation which struck Germany, necessitated a drastic cut of the staff. For awhile I eked out a living as a seamstress. The members of my family were scattered, their whereabouts and fate unknown to me. It took years before contact with members of my family in Russia was re established. A sister who was married to a Mennonite teacher in the Ukraine, wrote me that they were about to immigrate to Canada because of religious persecutions. She proposed that I join the transport at the point of embarkation, our birthplace Riga, at that time, the capital of Latvia. The formalities were handled by the C.P.R. Only farmers and domestics were allowed to enter Canada. My relatives passed the screening, but I was stuck in Riga. There followed three weeks of uncertainty and anxious waiting before the "go" sign came from London. I crossed the Atlantic from Southampton to Quebec on the "Empress of Scotland" of the C.P.R. arriving June 10, 1926. During the following summer I stooked and worked as a hired girl on a farm near Winnipeg. In the fall I found in Winnipeg engagement as a maid. I did not mind the work, but I heartily detested the black uniform with white cap and apron I had to wear signifying my servant status. I needed a long time to adjust to a changed social status and I found the prairie winters very cold. When spring arrived I took seasonal job as a dishwasher in a resort hotel at the C.P.R. at Lake Louise, returning in the fall to the city working once more as a domestic. During the holiday season of 1928 I was at Chalean Lake Louise in the laundry. I was enchanted with the Rockies. I had always been keen on hiking. While some of my co-workers at the end of our daily stint in the laundry would nurse their feet with hot water baths and ointments, I would be off to explore the mountains, climbing as far as Lake Agnes. These excursions have remained a vivid and happy memory. There I came to feel the "lure of the west" and so I came to Calgary. In preference to domestic work I found employment as a seamstress with the Simmons Co. I boarded with some German people who happened to be long standing friends of Von. Von and I got married in January 1929, and so it happened that I came to Eckville. Von was 47 and I was 36 years old.

The move to British Columbia in 1938 did not improve our economic circumstances. Von kept quite busy in the garden and liked this work, but he had no knack with tools to keep a home in repair nor the inclination to do so. We had hardly settled in our quarters, when things started to go wrong with the house. With the intent to earn some money for repairs, I started to go out to do cleaning by the hour. Our life style remained the same as during the depression. Von and I did not see eye to eye about the disposition of the available money, so I decided to go it alone — buy a lot and build a house of my own. I had happened to look at a picture in the daily paper a middle-aged woman applying shingles for the roof of a building of which only the frame had been put up by hired labor. I said to myself "this woman can undertake to build a house — can I". I did not stop to think how many more hours I would need with my cleaning paraphanalia to get to the same point as this other woman employing building tools In the spring of 1944 there seemed to turn up a chance easier on my physique; I was a successful candidate in a cross-Canada competitive examination for German-English I expected this office to be in Vancouver When the call came from Ottawa in September I weighed the pros and cons the war was obviously drawing to a close. in Ottawa accomodations were hard to get and very expensive, while the offered wages did not come up to my expectations, so I concluded that it would not pay to move

By 1948 I decided I had enough funds for the foundation and the shell of a small house to be put next door to Von's place All the time, while persuing my goal, I was up against much sickness, due to the menopause and glandular disturbances, there were acute arthritis attacks, several surgeries, a nervous breakdown. Alone I felt I was racing against time. But I was determined to overcome obstacles and to accomplish what I had set out to do. Naturally, it was necessary to find just a small outfit to whom to give the contract This contract which I gave in 1948, came to nought because of a lumber strike The following spring having engaged another outfit I got struck again due to lumber scarcity caused by the Fraser River flood. Finally I found in North Vancouver some people who were building log houses

When it came to the finishing of the inside of my house. I went for advice to a newspaper man who was writing for the Sun, a Saturday feature on "livable homes" Mr Keith Wiles, who hailed from Didsbury, Alberta was intrigued when he heard that a log house had been built in Burnaby He was much taken with the authentic structure on which the tools had been axe, adze and derrick The "Sun" brought a nice picture with a lengthy write-up. In it Mr Wiles expresses regret that log houses were disappearing from the Canadian scene for lack of incentive Describing this project under discussion, he paid tribute to the pioneering spirit of the little lady for whom this place had been built He stated that people with lots of money would be very proud of this house but that actually it was the achievement of a woman whose earnings came from char work This tribute to my efforts gave me truly a great lift. Everybody who came to the log house in later years, when it happened to be properly heated, said that it had a charming atmosphere

But, to tell the truth, I had very little chance to enjoy the place and be comfortable in it Because, while there still was a balance to be paid to the builders, also all the inside to be done, the equipment to be bought, etc. I fell and cracked three spinal vertebrae. My earnings came to a sudden stop This accident was a great blow The ten working years had been very hard on the body but there had been a buoyancy of spirit in the hope of better days ahead. Now it seemed that I had exhausted myself in pursuit of a mirage It was ironic to squeeze out of a pitiful monthly small social assistance the money for payments on a heater, while living in a cold house because it was impossible to buy the utilities as well

From the beginning of my venture Von maintained that nothing good would come of it. He had become a defeated and pessimistic, man forever hearkening back to the wrong done to him by the Tories, who years ago had stripped him of his property Without remunerative occupation of which there was none for a man past 60 he lived in great poverty He refused to get social assistance as a single person

Von did not move into the log house but living next door he tended my rustic grounds and he stayed with me when either of us was sick I must say that as a patient he was easy to look after because he was so undemanding and uncomplaining Generally, however, each of us

Before graduation from high school our son Herbert Junior, broke his neck in the gym. In vain Von tried to get help for expenditures in orthopedic surgery and treatments. He did not get anywhere with Herbert's part-time employer the C P R., nor with the schoolboard which might have been liable because of the physical education teacher's incompetence Home had a stressful atmosphere. and the boy left home and high school in the middle of grade 12 to take unskilled work and pay off the debt

Faye, too, left home as soon as her education was complete, to teach out of town

The decade before my pension cheque was due at age 70. was a very lonely time and more desolate than the thirties. It was a great day when my first pension cheque arrived. Though the size in the sixties was not auspicious it had a liberating wholesome effect on the spirit because it eliminated the periodic visits by officious people checking up on you and your movements to make sure you adhered to the rigid regulations and restrictions dictated by the book By and by the Federal government started to accord the aged greater consideration giving us regular increases in keeping with the rising cost of living. Another significant change in my life occured when the church where I worshipped was touched by the charismatic movement Learning to worship with adoration praise and thanksgiving does away with discontent worry and stress. giving instead peace of mind and putting joy in the heart It is true what the scriptures say Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you. (Luke 12 31) So to the spiritual blessings there have come my way the tangible gifts of comfortable and carefree living conditions Everyday I thank the Lord that he has paved the way for me into this bright, warm and completely satisfying apartment, which the municipality built and opened in 1972. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places: ye, I have a goodly heritage (Ps. 16 6) I will bless the Lord at all times His praise shall be continuously in my mouth (Ps 34 1)

WAISANEN SIMON AND TYYNE — by Their [illegible]

Simon Waisanen was born in Suoumisalmi Finland, November 5, 1904, the second youngest of seven children. During his childhood he spent his time with his brothers. In the summer fishing, or in the winter in lumber camps School, other than a few months of religious instruction was not required

At the age of 21, with the encouragement of his cousin Eli, Simon decided to seek the fortunes of the new land. Saying goodbye to his fami with his fare in his pocket, he set off for Canada They travelled by boat and finally reached Eckville, Alberta, in June, 1927 The day they arrived heavy rains had caused muddy roads. As Eli and Simon walked from the train to the home of their relatives their boots gathered more and more mud, making walking very difficult Simon's first words to his relatives were, "Why we're bringing the whole world with us." They had discovered good old Alberta clay, something unknown in Finland

His first summer was spent working for relatives and neighbors on the neighbourhood threshing crews. In the winter he spent his time at a lumber camp near Rocky Mountain House making railway ties with a broadaxe, at a few cents a tie. In 1928 Simon got a job working for the CPR and his home became the CPR bunkhouse This was a small building which became very hot in the summer time. The biggest joke was to see when the meat would "begin to walk away", seeing as it was not kept very cold as the freezing facilities of the time were very poor

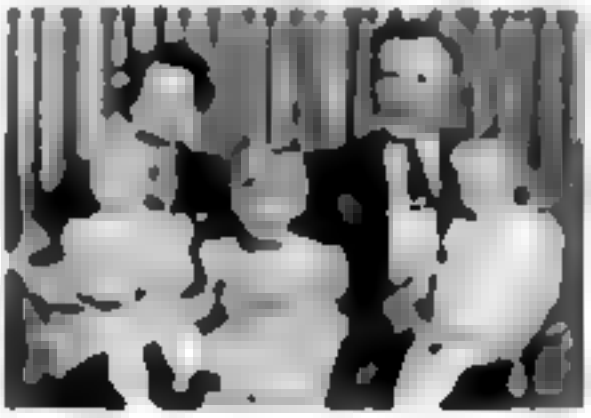
In the winter of 1931 Simon and some friends decided to try their luck at ice fishing They left for Buck Lake in 30° below weather with a team of horses, a sled and their gear The fish were plentiful and this tradition of going fishing was to be kept up until 197

In 1933 Simon bought a farm close to Hespero, but after a few years he decided it was not close enough to the Kootnk station, where he still worked on the CPR He sold this farm and bought another one the very same day from August Kangas, located one-half mile from the CPR station. Simon got up early every morning, did his chores, then walked to work at the railroad station. After working his regular hours he then came home to do his farming. The work was hard, the hours long but there was always time for a cup of coffee a free haircut for a neighbour or friend, and always lots of fun. During the 1940's and 1950's Simon had many cooks and hired men who worked for him. Finally Simon quit the railway and began travelling the country from coast to coast He went back to Finland for a visit in 1946 and returned to find his crops all hailed out. However, as Simon always said "there's always next year!

Finally, a friend, Mr Saarela, who had just come back from the Helsinki Olympics suggested to Simon that he should get married As a matter of fact, stated Mr Saarela, while he had been in Finland he had found just the right woman for Simon. With some help and encouragement from a few friends Simon began a correspondence with this lady and soon the future Mrs. Waisanen was lured to Canada

Tyyne Nykkanen was born April 22, 1922 in Finland. After her correspondence with Simon began she was very impressed with his letters, and finally agreed to come to Canada on the condition that if she didn't like it then she could return to Finland. She arrived in the early part of 1953, not really knowing what to expect She had never previously met Simon she only had a picture of him. However, their first meeting was successful and they were married in Red Deer in May of that same year. There was one condition, however — before she would get married there had to be a steam bath. This problem was quickly solved by the building of a steam bath

Tyyne began adjusting to Canadian life by learning the language in night school. However this progress was stopped when their eldest daughter Mary Ann, was born on May 3, 1954, followed by twins, Helen and John born on May 30, 1956, which kept her very busy However she found time to take an active part in the Presbyterian Church choir and she sang, in Finnish, at many funerals and at the Christmas concerts. She also helped with many functions organized by the Finnish community and was part of the Finnish delegation in the Red Deer folk festival for several years



Many visitors from Finland as well as many from around the community were entertained at the Waisanen home. One could always find a steam bath, a card game, and a cup of coffee with these friendly folks

Simon and Tyyne returned to Finland in 1966 for a six-week visit and enjoyed seeing many relatives again. Simon continued to buy land and build buildings by using the lumber from the and he cleared. The land was good to him and he always said, "Canada is the land of opportunity for those who wish to use it

In 1967 Tyyne became ill and on April 16, 1968 she passed away at the age of 48 years. Simon continued to farm with the help of his son, until he passed away in 1977. Both Simon and Tyyne are buried in the Eckville cemetery

Mary Ann married Stephen J Smith of Eckville on August 9, 1975. They now live on NW 6-39-3-W5. Helen is employed by Simpsons-Sears in Calgary. John farms at the home place, SW 9 34-3-W5. All of the children were educated in the Eckville schools. Mary Ann also attended the University of Alberta and received her teaching certificate. She is presently teaching at the Lesneville school

WEEKS, FLOYD AND BLANCHE

Floyd was born in Pleasanton, Kansas, U.S.A in 1901. With his parents and brother Harlan, he immigrated to Canada in the spring of 1917 arriving at the Earl Fitch home (cousins of the Weeks) in the Centreville district. Earl Fitch moved the Weeks family to their farm at Eckville, which was later owned by a Mr Brown, then by Tom Smith. Three years later they moved to the Henry Smith farm. Harlan and Floyd Weeks rented the Frank Jenkin's section a few miles east of Eckville

Floyd Weeks met and married the former Blanch Harden of Raven, in June of 1936. When they were first married they lived in Freewater Oregon, U.S.A., where Floyd was a car salesman. Returning to Eckville, later, they went farming on a C.P.R. quarter that Floyd's parents had bought for seven dollars per acre

Floyd and Blanch were in the restaurant business in Okotoks, Alberta, during the oil boom in that area in 1937, and later managed the restaurant in Eckville. After selling their acreage at Eckville they moved to an apartment in Calgary. To be closer to relatives however, they soon purchased a lovely home in Lacombe

Floyd took some of his early schooling in the old Eckville School on the northern outskirts of

Floyd and Blanch celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in June of 1976 in Lacombe, with many friends and relatives present. Since their retirement they have enjoyed a bus tour to California, and they also enjoy gardening and their other hobbies

WEEKS, HARLAN

Harlan, the elder son of Louis and Emma Weeks, was born in Pleasanton, Kansas, U.S.A. in 1899. In about 1921-1922 Harlan took teachers' training in Kansas. In his early years he taught at Red Raven, Alberta. After giving up teaching, he and Cal Fletcher bought a section of land near Withrow, Alberta.

Harlan married the former Grace Rathwell of the Rimbey area. To this union two daughters Jean and Eileen, were born. Harlan passed away in February, 1974 of a heart attack, in Sidney Nebraska, U.S.A.

WEEKS, LOUIS AND EMMA

In 1917 Louis and Emma Weeks and two young sons, Harlan and Floyd, left their home in Pleasanton, Kansas, U.S.A., accompanied by another young man by the name of Cal Fletcher. They came to Sylvan Lake by train in the spring of 1917. Travelling in those days was a challenge with the sloughs full of water, corduroy roads, many wire gates and a strange land with which to become acquainted. The Weeks family stayed with their cousins, the Earl Fitch family, until locating on a farm near Eckville. Their farm was known as the Brown farm and later became the Tom Smith farm. Louis and Emma Weeks lived on that farm until the farm house burned down. They lost everything they owned, including the pork barrel, which, in today's language, would mean the deep freeze and all its contents. After the fire Mr. and Mrs. Weeks moved in with their sons, Harlan and Floyd, who were then farming the Frank Jenkin's farm

Cattle driving was a big event in the early days, and the Weeks family had their share of this. Hauling cattle by truck was unheard of, but two or three men on horseback and a wagon leading the way loaded with feed, would head off the procession headed for market, which would generally be Red Deer. They would get as far as the Half-way House, on the west side of Sylvan Lake, where there was a rest stop and the cattle were fed and watered. By this time a rest was in order for both man and beast in preparation for the final lap of the journey to Red Deer the next day

In 1925 Mr. and Mrs. Weeks and Floyd returned to Pleasanton, Kansas. Later, Floyd returned to Alberta. Mr. and Mrs. Weeks Sr. made many trips back to Alberta in their Dodge touring car to visit their sons and wives. They both passed away in Pleasanton, Kansas

MR. AND MRS. ED WICKSTROM

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wickstrom lived in Eckville in 1919-1920. Ed managed a garage business. They have one son, Lawrence. The Wickstroms moved to Snohomish, Washington, U.S.A., where Ed was in the building business.

Ed passed away at Snohomish. Mrs Wickstrom, who was 96 years of age in 1977 is still living in Washington. Their son Lawrence is married and lives near his mother

THE JACK WILLIAMS FAMILY — by May Williams

Jack Williams, with his wife, May, and nine year-old daughter, Edith, arrived in the Eckville area on August 24, 1952. They spent some months on the John Smith and later on the John Mak farms west of town.

In July 1954 they moved to town when May went to work at the Eckville Bakery, then rented by Norm Forban. Later she worked in Forban's Dry Goods Store for ten years.

Jack unloaded coal for the Arlas Lumber Company and later for the Searle Elevator Company. He also did general draying and odd jobs around town, as well as beaver trapping in the spring and fall. Incidentally, at the age of 82 years, Jack is still trapping, although on a lesser [illegible].

May has worked part-time in the public library in Eckville for the past ten years. This along with the sewing which she does for many of the ladies in and around Eckville, keeps her pretty busy.

Edith attended school at Eckville through Grade 11. She then went to work at a branch of [illegible] holidays. When school reopened in the fall she decided to continue with her job. In April, 1963 she married Dick Cieski, formerly of Sexsmith, Alberta. After her marriage she worked in the Royal Bank in Didsbury. They have two sons — Ricky, born in August, 1964 and Michael, born in December, 1965. They are presently living in Calgary after having been in Toronto, Stettler, Calgary and Edmonton.

Jack was born at Moosomin, Saskatchewan but moved to the LeRoy area at the age of 15 years. Some years later he moved into the town of LeRoy where he had many occupations, including operating a meat market, fur buyer, undertaker, veterinary work and buying livestock. During his last five years at LeRoy he ran the U.G.G. elevator and sold Case farm machinery in addition to handling the B.A. bulk oil sales.

May was born at LaVerl, Saskatchewan, and went to LeRoy in the late 1920's. May and Jack were married in June, 1940 and lived in LeRoy until moving to the farm at White Fox in July 1942. Edith was born in the Nipawin hospital in December 1942.

In the fall of 1946 we sold the farm and moved to the town of Nipawin where we lived until coming to Eckville in 1952.

YEO, STAN AND ESTHER - by Esther Yeo

Stan and Esther Yeo came to Eckville in the fall of 1944, from Sylvan Lake where he had a barber shop in the poolroom. His Eckville shop was also in a poolroom run by Mr. Thompson at that time. Stan just couldn't quite decide which he'd rather do — play pool or barber. But, of course, he had to make a living for his family of three: one girl, Nona and two boys, Wesley and Terry.

We built the house where Mrs. Kelm now lives and also a small house at the back of the lot for my mother, Mrs. Strid, which now serves as a garage. Incidentally, our garage was built for next to nothing. Stan had hired Eric and Jack Bardenhagen, also a couple of others to put in the foundation. After paying them for the job, Eric suggested some pool. Less than one hour later Stan had recovered their wages. Eric said that was the last time he was working for Stan.

We spent seven years in Eckville before moving to Fort Saskatchewan where we purchased another barbershop. We are retired now but Stan still haunts the poolroom, only now it is in the Pioneer Home. We thoroughly enjoyed our years in Eckville and it's wonderful community spirit.

Going back to the Fort Saskatchewan district was like going back home to us as Stan was born at Gibbons, Alberta only a few miles away from the Fort. July 22, 1910 and I was born at Camrose, September 17, 1915. We were married at Gibbons, October 30, 1933 and farmed for his dad until the fall of 1939, when we left and Stan took up barbering. His first shop was at Sexsmith, Alberta where we stayed two and a half years before coming to Sylvan Lake.

Our daughter is married with a family of five and resides in Edmonton. Wesley is married with four children and works at Dow Chemical training supervisors. Terry is single and works at the F.M.C. Plant at Squamish, British Columbia.

ZALESKI, FRANK AND NANNIE

Frank Zaleski and Nannie Kasper were married in 1938. For a number of years they lived two and a half miles northwest of Eckville on NE 29-38-3 W5.

This is where their children were born. James in June, 1939, passed away October 1952.

Twins Darwin and Dallas were born October 1, 1940.

Darwin married Irene Mover of Nanton in 1962. They have three sons Randy, Rodney and Ricky. Darwin, Irene and family live in Calgary where Darwin works for Firestone.

Dallas married Lorraine Scott of Innisfail. They have a son Danny. Dallas passed away in [illegible].

William was born June 27, 1954. Bill married Kathryn Anderson in March, 1978. They reside in the Salma district on the SW 32-39-2-W5.

Frank and Nannie now live on SE 4-39-3 W5, two and a half miles south of Eckville.

ZALESKI, LEO AND SALOMA

Leo Zaleski was born in Poland in 1884. He immigrated to Canada in 1903, working in Nova Scotia before coming west to work in mines in British Columbia and Alberta. In 1909 he married Saloma Murym at Michel.

Saloma was born in 1885 in Lithuania.

Their first child Felix was born at Michel in 1910.

The family moved to a homestead in the Leaf Mountain district in 1911. This is where their second son Frank was born in 1918. Leo decided to sell out and move the family to the Gaby district

Leo and Salome Zaleski's wedding picture

NE 34-3-40W3 in 1920. This is where their daughter Leitha was born. Leo was a cattle and hog buyer in the area for many years. In 1933 the Zaleski's moved to a farm two and a half miles northwest of Eckville. Later moving to the former Charlie Schuneman place on Number 11 highway.

Felix married Emma Maki in 1934 and passed away in July 1939.

Frank married Nannie Kasper in 1938. They had four boys.

Leitha married Ralph Kingsep in 1945. They have a son Ellis born in May of 1947. Leitha and Ellis reside in Los Angeles, California.

Leo passed away in 1947 and Salome in 1959. They are buried in the Eckville cemetery.

THE SAGA OF THE T. EATON MAIL ORDER CATALOGUE

With our shopping malls and super highways, speedy transportation spelled the end of the T. Eaton mail order catalogue.

Little did we think, back in the early 1900's, and 1920's and even the 1930's, that there would ever be an end to the brown paper rolled Eaton Catalogue. Excitement among the young ladies reigned much higher over the arrival of the Spring and Fall Eaton's Catalogue than any sojourn to a modern shopping plaza.

No book in any household was more carefully scrutinized, criticized, adored and planned with than the T. Eaton Catalogue. Many a child cut pictures to identify Dick and Jane and learned the names of household articles, furniture and machinery from Eaton's Catalogue.

It furnished the window through which the fashion-conscious could study styles created in the large, far-away cities of New York, Montreal and Paris.

When the catalogue was finally read until the covers were off and a new one had arrived, the time came for more practical use by relegating it for the purpose of a hot pan stand, door stop and even to the little house out back, where it was given a final reading.

But, in 1975 the catalogue met its demise, and no longer is the excitement of the Fall and Winter and the Spring and Summer Catalogue creating its usual pleasure in homes across the country.

REMEMBER WHEN"

Remember when"

the water pail was always empty and the slop" pail full.

the house was full of the acrid smell of kindling toasting in the oven.

washing the lamp chimneys, trimming wicks and filling the lamps with coal oil was a daily chore.

the happy hum of the portable wood saw turned poles into symmetrical blocks.

you matched wits with the old turkey hen cunningly hiding her nest.

the largest "green" block of wood that the air-tight could consume, still didn't keep the water pail from freezing on a cold winter's night.

the cream was always too fresh or too old, too thick or too thin, too warm or too cold, so hours of cranking or dashing were necessary to persuade the butter to form.

the smoky, oily smell of a lantern being lit meant it was evening milking time.

the tar build-up in the chimney and stove pipes resulted in the terrifying roar of a chimney fire.

the frost painted dainty pictures on the window pane, followed, as the cold deepened, by a heavy slab of ice with a small peek-hole made by the impression of a warm thumb.

the three hours boiling in the copper wash boiler so meat, chicken and vegetables could proudly take their place beside the rows of fruit, jams and jellies on the cellar shelf.

the endless task of keeping the wood box full and the ash pan empty.

the fear of falling down the well, as ice built up when the bucket sloshed, as you pulled and pulled with ice-caked mittens to satisfy thirsty cows.

you thought nothing of walking several miles to visit a neighbor you clustered the "sad irons" under the cast iron frying pan on the hot wood stove, while you tackled that mountainous pile of ironing.

the word "baby-sitter" hadn't been coined

the skinned knuckles, aching back and sprained wrists meant you had spent hours over the wash board scrubbing those heavy work clothes you made a "sponge" by crumbling a yeast cake into the warm potato water and added flour — tomorrow was bread-baking day you stuck your hand into the crock and the cold goo, called water glass, to collect an egg for baking.

a carelessly open trap door situated in the kitchen floor and leading to the cellar proved a hazard to the unwary the low-lying blanket of smoke from the smudge brought relief from the clouds of mosquitoes to man and animal alike the cozy feel of the crackling wood fire and the sound of the kettle softly singing brought contentment on a blustery night the togetherness of a family grouped around the kitchen table, sharing the same lamp, yet each doing his own thing the favorite rocking chair was preempted by the family cat

you pried the clothes pins loose and carried the bed sheets like plywood into the warmth of the kitchen to thaw handicraft meant knitting mittens and socks or ripping up a still usable garment to make junior a new outfit half grown chickens paraded around in decently feathered the result of years of poor breeding stock the only sight more welcome than the threshing rig arriving was seeing it leaving you tried desperately to trap that little grey mouse before his children and children's children overran the house it wasn't unusual to see a team of oxen pulling a wagon.

the nearest barber was a friend down the road or worse still, you let your wife hack at it the hot bricks were carefully transferred from the glowing coals to the drawers of the "foot warmer" which tucked under the buffalo robe, kept toes cozy on the long cutter ride the meat deep freeze was a bin of oats

you listened with apprehension to the clicks and assorted sound of radios, clocks and children there goes my private talk on the party line watching the calves reach out long necks to touch the wire, then recoil with a snort — the electric fence was working you were about to light the gas lamp but found a small pile of white ash Who broke the mantle this time?

tinkering and fixing the crystal set and finally hearing a distant voice the very warm spot in bed in that cold upstairs room, where the oven-heated rock had rested the breath-taking smell of lye and rancid fat meant soap-making a sturdy cardboard box tied with binder twine did duty as a suitcase

the long binder whip served the dual purpose as an ideal fishing pole as well as a horse persuader the bobsleigh piled high with blue-green blocks of ice from the lake and hauled and packed in sawdust for next summer's refrigeration.

the tattered gunny sack attached to old Dobbin's bridle provided a bit of relief from nose flies a young visitor from the city, returning from the "two-holer" out back, excitedly announced, Daddy, they have double plumbing"

Alhambra

THE EARLY HISTORY OF ALHAMBRA

The Alhambra District, taking in 39-W5, was not completely surveyed until 1906 and it was not until years after this that the district was named. It was generally allowed at that time that the country alongside and west of Horseguard Creek was a no good tamarack swamp and muskeg that never would be any good for farming.

However people were flocking into the west all classes of them and the district got its fair quota of kinds and varieties. The majority of them spoke English — with variations, of course.

John Jones of Ontario, his brother Griff of Ohio and Tom Butler of Ontario came in 1905 and built a log cabin on Tom's quarter. All three had filed on the same section 20-39, just north of the future site of Alhambra, but they had to return the next year to file on it legally when it was open for homesteading and they did return. In March 1906 came the Byram family from England and homesteaded just south of Alhambra. That same year the Helge Lund family and Ole Lund came and took up land in township 38 now known as Horseguard. The following year the Iver Lund family arrived and homesteaded there too. Also the J. P. Hicks family and the Barretts came about the same time. In 1907, Dan Sutherland, Alex McQueen and Donald Tolmie took homesteads on section 6-39 and Jack Davies filed on his homestead that same year. In 1908 when John Kerr homesteaded his land these settlers were here: Jim Scott, Wm. Cooper, Harry Weller, Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. McClure, and E. Roberts. Early in 1909 Mr. Patterson and his son, Frank, took up land. The Wismar brothers, Gust and Austin, had land along the bank of the Horseguard and were among the first to settle there.

J. Kerr's first winter as a homesteader, in 1908, was spent in company with D. Sutherland and D. Tolmie. They all stayed in Sutherland's shack. Towards spring tobacco and some other necessities ran short, so Tolmie and Kerr decided to walk to Leslieville. They had heard that there was such a place about seven miles northeast of them. So they plotted the course by the sections on a map and made a beeline for that place. Somehow or other their calculations were out. They ate their lunch on top of the butte where later Campbell School was built. After seriously considering the situation, they decided they must have passed Leslieville. So they veered southeast a little bit and their conclusions proved correct for there was Leslieville down on the east bank of Lobstick Creek. It was a good sized frame building. The storekeeper's name was Bureau at that time.

Bill and Charlie Farquharson, Andy Lennan, the Pollitt family, father and two sons, Jack and Tom, took up land in the summer of 1909 and by 1910, Gust Nylander, Wm. Cruickshank came about that time and shortly after came the Maxwell, Rutherford and Miller families, the E. G. Larson and Cochrane families. The Bogues, the Askerbergs and the Braithwaites, the Pells and Joe Barbie and W. J. Little came that year also the Luyckfassels, though by that time (1911) most of the free land had been taken up.

For some years before our first settlers came the Alberta Central Railway Co. had a charter to build a railway west of Red Deer but nothing had been done about it, but since the charter had been renewed rumours of a railway and where it could go through were the common topics of conversation at that time. One thing they were all agreed on and that was that the railway would have to be built along the ridges — so thought the homesteaders, but the engineers when building the road thought quite differently and in lots of places it is built across deep muskeg.

There was great excitement among the settlers when it became known that a survey party was working west from Red Deer and when a straight line of surveyers' stakes was run across Kerr's homestead in 1909 the railway was practically assured them. The Railway Co. paid the huge sum of $10 an acre for the right of way but so delighted were the settlers at the prospect of the railway that they could have had it for nothing at the time.

Prospects of the railway brought other settlers into the west country surrounding Kerr's. L. Cooper came in 1909, also the Walsh brothers, Bob and George and about the same time came the MacDonald family. A. I. MacDonald, well known among the Scottish peo ple as the "Chief" The von Hollen families Fred. Herman, Carl and shortly afterwards Henry came from across the border and settled south of Alhambra a few miles and so did F E Lessing Very few of the settlers who came into the district had money enough to fit themselves out with farm stock and implements. In the first few years horses that were brought into the district did not do well, the disease known as swamp fever was very prevalent then and there seemed to be no cure for it. A good yoke of oxen was considered the best bet and a lot of the land was broken with oxen he first few years

In the "proving up" process of a homestead the aspiring landowner usually arrived with a grubstake sufficient to last several months at a time but despite his best efforts to make supplies eke out there were always some necessities such as tobacco, matches, beans or syrup running out In this event a trip to Evarts had to be undertaken. It was courteous and proper to inform the neighbors that such a trip was contemplated so that the outgoing letters and a list of their requirements from the store could be collected Thus was built up a very friendly intercourse between the settlers for many miles around Many and varied were the experiences that could be told about the long bad roads and mud holes that had to be encountered on the way to the nearest store, or on the trip to the town of Red Deer This part of the country was wet in those early times and there was not much difficulty in getting a plentiful supply of water There was a lot of freighting in consequence of the railway being under construction at that time and with the prolonged wet weather and the heavy traffic the roads were completely cut to pieces and on many of the worst places a detour around hills and through bush and willows had to be made Hay wire, an axe and a logging chain were standard equipment in the wagon box when on the rail

Mr Robert Smith and the family came to the district in 1912 He had been used to rain and wet weather, having farmed for many years in Scotland The two older boys had come to this country the year before to make some preparations for the arrival of the rest of the family Mr and Mrs. John Leslie came to the country with the Smiths in 1912 Mr and Mrs. R Reid arrived from Scotland in 1911. Mrs Reid had three brothers with homesteads in this neighborhood. Fred Mushka came in 1913

Work was commenced on building the Alberta Central Railway in the summer of 1909 A grand ceremony was staged, at Red Deer when the then Prime Minister Sir Wilfred Laurier drove the first spike

Camps were established at different points along the route between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House, and the settlers sold their cows to the camp for beef and went to work on the building of the grade, with their teams or without. The whole district west began to prosper Different townsites were plotted and established along the route including Alhambra

There was lots of work company and excitement when the railway was under construction The right of way to the Saskatchewan River was cleared There was a big camp at the Horseguard Creek and another at the Saskatchewan River where the company had an office and cache at the old townsite

Teams hauled in baled hay and supplies of all kinds, including cement for the piers of the bridge across the river The muskegs west were corduroyed with tree trunks with spruce bush on top, so it was a hive of industry until the road was completed The most popular and most sought after man of the Alberta Central Railway was Mr Ed Hogg of Red Deer who was paymaster

The building of the Alberta Central Railway was spread over four years and it was August 22 1914 when the first passenger train came from Red Deer The hamlet of "Alhambra" began to grow. There is good reason to believe that Alhambra was named by the president of the Alberta Central Railway Mr John T Moore Perhaps Mr Moore connecting his own family name with the ancient Moores and their palace of splendor in Spain "the Alhambra" suggested the name. Thus there is Alhambra in Alberta about 16 miles east of Rocky Mountain House and 45 miles west of Red Deer After the railway was completed in 1914 many of the settlers made their living by shipping out posts, props, lumber and firewood. A big business was carried on from this point for a number of years

Mr Adams moved a building from his farm and opened a store and a post office He was the first post master Horseguard was the post office name until 1916. Mr Perry built a two story log stopping house. It was fashioned of dry wind fall logs with moss stuffed in between and was roofed with poles, moss and tar paper The first storekeeper did not stay in business very long

Main Street, Alhambra, 1920

Messrs. Bisset and Snarie had the store and stopping house for a time. A community hall and store underneath was built in 1920 and Mr. Chas. Raine rented the store part of the building from 1920 to 1924. That was the most prosperous period in the history of the hamlet. Mr. Emmerson took over the post office and opened a store. He and Mr. Raine bought post, props and firewood from the settlers and enormous quantities were shipped from here! The hamlet was growing! There were two general stores, a dry goods store, a drug store, a butcher shop, a dry hotel, a harness shop, a pool room and a barber shop and a blacksmith shop. A disastrous fire in 1924 cleaned out a lot of these places. Mr. Raine's business practically collapsed after the fire. The common reason, he gave too much credit and got too little cash.

World War I was already taking its toll from every district in Canada and Alhambra district was no exception. Recorded here are the names of those brave fellows who left this district and served overseas at the call of King and Country. Some returned not much the worse for their terrible experience, some returned wounded and in poor health, and some found soldiers' graves in Flanders Fields. The names of the men given below were not all from this neighborhood.

By 1919 the soldiers were returning from overseas. The Soldiers Settlement Board was buying land for the returned men and land values increased. The Peace celebration after the war was held at the Byram farm on July 26, 1919. The celebration took on the form of a picnic and sports day and was a huge success with a large attendance from the surrounding districts.

Many well known family names around here can date their association with Alhambra to the period after the war and in fact, in the early "twenties". The Bradshaws (who had already homesteaded near Pincox, the Scotts, the Dicksons, the Farringtons, the Chevalliers, the

Catlings, Mrs Mushka and daughter and many others all had a part in the development of our

The flu epidemic in 1918 took its heavy toll from this neighborhood too and there was an out break of smallpox which was alarming but not so fatal

The Alhambra School District was established March 25, 1913. Mr W Bogue was Senior Trustee Authorization was given November 11 1914 to borrow the sum of $1200 for the purpose of purchasing a school site, building and equipping a school house. The Treasurer was Mr J R Kerr Approval was given July 5 1915 for a school site selected by the Board of Trustees of the Alhambra School District situated 375 yards north from the southeast corner of the NE-8-39-5-W5 In 1914 a school was opened in a temporary log house a mile south of the hamlet. Mrs. Ralph Patterson was the first teacher Messrs. Bogue, Larson, Byram and Kerr formed the school board. It was not until 916 that the new school was opened. Mrs. H Brown was the first teacher The school house was now the center of the social and community life Parties, dances and religious services were all held in the school. The first Dominion Day picnic was held at the school grounds in 1916. The school trustees were in charge of the event at first Besides a real community picnic there was a big variety of events for young and old, including horse racing, a harness race, and even a Best Baby" show with the two bachelor farmers acting as judges. A big dance and some fireworks at night completed the day

The prosperity lasted until about 1921 when prices started to level off The winter of 1919-1920 was long and the snow was deep and it was about the middle of May before the snow finally went Feed was very scarce Tough wheat bundles off railway cars sold at Alhambra for 25c each. All the old straw stacks and straw roofs were used for feed In the spring cattle were a good price yet but by the following fall the bottom had fallen out of the market The hide of an animal in the spring was worth as much as the whole carcas in the fall. By 1928 the Depression was here and the "hungry 30's" which followed will be well remembered by all but the younger generation and just for their information here are some of the prices for farm produce at that time Hogs live weight four cents a pound: cattle proportionately low cream, 11 cents a pound butterfat wheat down to 25 cents a bushel, oats, four cents, eggs, four cents a dozen wool, four cents a pound. The Depression was attributed to over production

Some of the missionaries of the different religious denominations who visited the district were Mr Heaven, an Anglican clergyman, Mr Gorie, a young Presbyterian student who came in 1914, after the war there was the Rev Alexander Mr Joe Stone, a student. Rev W G Brown, Rev Hjortaas of the Lutheran congregation and the Rev McKechnie the blind minister who was very well known over a large track of country west of Red Deer

There was a goodly number of Scottish people associated with this district from the earliest years. The Scottish folk and many of their friends made merry and "Chief" MacDonald's place on New Year's Day It was an annual event of importance for years. The Scottish people organized a Burns' Club in 1921 and held their first Burns' supper at Mr Alex Rutherford's house This was an annual event but the uncertainty and severity of the weather was a deterring factor On an especially cold twenty-fifth the haggis froze solid in the Alhambra hall

Prosperity did not come easy to this district, the land was too hard to clear, but there was satisfaction in taming the wilderness. A piece of new breaking was always of the utmost interest not only to the owner, but also to his neighbors Despite the discouragements of hail storms frost and unfavorable weather the district had developed generally and there were some wonderful crops of hay, oats, wheat, barley and potatoes grown here In 1936, Mr F G Patterson gained honor for himself and renown for the district when he won second prize for Garnet wheat at Toronto Royal. The following year John and Leonard Sande, in the Beaver Flat district won first and second for oats at Toronto. This from the country out west, which was considered by many to be a no good kind of place where it froze every night of the year

Mr Kerr says in closing that no doubt some who well deserve to be mentioned were forgotten but they were not left out intentionally

Special acknowledgement is made to Edith Kerr) Peel for her kind permission to use excerpts from the publication. "Other Days and Other Ways" — Being the Early History of Alhambra — written by her father the late John R Kerr

ALHAMBRA SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 2000

The Alhambra School District was established March 25, 1913 comprising of the following lands. Section 3-10 and 15-18 in 39-5 W5 Mr W Bogue of Pitcox, Alberta was Senior

Authorization was given November 11, 1914 to borrow the sum of $1200 for the purpose of purchasing a school site building and equipping a school house The Treasurer was Mr J Kerr of Pitcox Alberta

Approval was given July 5, 1915 for a school site selected by the Board of Trustees of the Alhambra School District, situated 375 yards north from the southeast corner of the NE-8-39-5

The sum of $500 was borrowed June 28, 1926 for the purpose of building a 10 foot extension to the present school. The Treasurer was Mr J R Kerr of Alhambra

Although the Alhambra School District was organized in 1912 and established in 1913 It was not until 1914 that a school was opened in a temporary log house on the Davidson place a mile south of the hamlet Mrs Ralph Patterson was the first teacher She boarded with the Kerrs and Mrs. Kerr looked after young Lea, aged 10 months On weekends they went back to their own home, three miles away Schoolroom howlers were common then too. One young boy had a seat near the window and was perhaps more interested in things outside the school than in it he informed the teacher "Here comes another kid" — the teacher corrected him — You mustn't say 'kid' you must say 'child'", so profiting by this lesson he announced the next arrival thus "Please teacher here's two childs

It was not until 1916 that the new school was opened. Mrs. H. Brown was the first teacher Other teachers were: Mrs. Kate Ludwig Miss Isobel Thackery Miss R. Foss, Mrs. E. A Patterson, Miss T Crawford, Miss M W Clark. Mr J. A Moir Miss M E. Thorpe. Miss White, Mr J W Hicks, Miss M Hango, Alma Sande unde. Miss W Stagg Miss A. Kennedy Mrs A Stollings. Margaret Stelfox Scott, Mrs. F Fleming, Miss Doris Hall Miss F Hauser M Murdock, M Martz. Mrs McCann Mr MacFarlane. Mr Curlo, Mr and Mrs. H. Smith Mr J Gregorash

In 1945 a new two room school was built During the four previous years a vacant L-shaped house in the hamlet had been used as a classroom as the school population had increased Then a third classroom became necessary so another school was moved in and also a teacherage was built. This school and teacherage were later sold. The two room school was closed in 1964 and the children were bused to Leslieville School and David Thompson High. The Alhambra Community bought the school from the Rocky Mountain School Division No. 15. The Community has recently sold the school house.

ALHAMBRA

This book deals with Alhambra
From its very earliest day;
From trek with stubborn oxen
To V-8 and Chevrolet

The month the Great War started
Brought to us our first train,
And with it men departed
Midst many tears and pain

A log shack served the purpose
Of a temporary abode,
Until they built the schoolhouse
At the corner of the road.

The hamlet near the station
With a stopping house began.
It was built by Mr. Perry
On a very simple plan.

Soon a store was added
And filled with all things nice
Where you could take your surplus eggs
And trade for prunes and rice.

Many days have passed since then
Twenty years or more
And now you buy your groceries
At H. von Hollen's Store

If you should want some medicine
Or lotion for your face
Then you must walk across the street
To Mrs. Lessing's place

If your disk or plow needs fixing
To C. Frasier you must go
He'll fix it cheaply while you wait
He's neither rough nor slow

Miss Scott is our postmistress
And her patience does not fail.
Though you may be a little late
In going for your mail.

And if you want to sell some grain
Then go to C. H. Gui,
He'll grade it fairly, give you cheques
That will your bankbook fill.

Fred Mushka is the section boss
Has been here many years,
If in his charge you leave your cream
Then you need have no fears

Wm. Farquharson is the shipper
Of your long bacon hog,
On Wednesdays he's always there
In rain or snow or fog

The hall in this community
Is near the softball ground,
And though a little out of town
Is very easily found.

Miss Sande is our teacher
And she takes every care,
And urges all to do their best

ALHAMBRA IN 1967 — by Bertha Granlund

When we were married two stores were situated here, one operated by Mrs. Lessing who also was a Notary Public and the other store operated by Henry von Hollen whose daughter Violet Wulff now operates the store. Margaret Scott was the postmistress. The garage was operated by Charles Frasier. Sunday School was held at the Frasier home. The elevator agent was Charlie Gill. There was a hog buying station and stockyards. The hog buyer was William (Bill) Farquharson. The trainmen picked up cream cans and delivered them to Red Deer. There was a community hall. Both high school and public school were taught which kept the young ones on a learning schedule.

These have all changed. The schools are centralized. One store, the post office and the hall are still here, the elevator, stockyards, station house, section house, tool sheds, garage, and the non-denominational church "gone with the good old days."

ALHAMBRA TODAY — (By Bert Smith)

Alhambra at one time was mostly pensioners, the Farquharsons, Mrs. Lessing, Mrs. Sninger, The Pollitts, the Mushkas, H. Mollenhan, Henry Lund, Mrs. Jones, The Fitches, Mrs. Chevallier, the Chapmans, and others. Now many young families have moved in, several trailers can be seen in the hamlet. The younger generation has taken over the duties in the community and have done a wonderful job. The community hall has been renovated and given a new name — "Alhambra Community Centre." It has a full sized basement large enough to cater to large crowds with its modern facilities — electricity, natural gas and running water. It has been a place for many large gatherings and will continue to be used. The young people should be congratulated for the long hours of work many of them have put in and will continue to do.

The little church that was part of Alhambra has been sold and moved to Condor.

The two room school that was built in 1945 was closed in 1964. Alhambra Community bought the school from the Rocky Mountain School Division Number 15. The children are now bused to Lesheville School and David Thompson High School.

BAUER, JIM FAMILY HISTORY — by Alta Bauer

Jim and I were raised in the Dog Pound and Bothel areas west of Crossfield. We were married in July 1956, at which time Jim was working for the County of Mountain View. My maiden name was Williamson.

In the fall of 1956 we moved to Three Hills where Jim went to work for General Petroleum drilling. We had a trailer, so moving wasn't much of a job. Jim worked on the rig until 1959, moving all over the province from Valleyview to the Crows Nest Pass.

A daughter, Kathleen Marie, was born to us on May 14, 1957 in the Didsbury hospital. In our travels we came to the Condor area and liked what we saw. We learned that Joe Cesoms wanted to sell his farm located north of Condor so we purchased it in 1959. No one had lived there for eight years, so the house was in bad repair. The garden patch had trees and weeds head high. Clark and Martha Sloan wanted to rent their farm out, and since it was only about a mile from our place we rented it and moved into the house there.

We had another daughter, Carol Lynn, on July 24, 1960, and a son, Keith William, on January 15, 1962. The last few days before Keith was born Jim spent his time going from the barn to check on a sow and then coming back to check on me. The sow had 18 pigs, and since she couldn't nurse them all at once, Jim got up every two hours to switch the pigs, putting nine in and taking nine out. Unfortunately she saved only two of the pigs.

We moved to our own farm in the fall of 1962. We had been working on the house while living on Sloan's place. We applied for the power, but didn't get it until February 1963. We had an air tight heater and a gas lamp we borrowed from my dad. The first night we spent there Jim and I were sitting by the heater reading and I commented on how cosy it was. Just then the lid on the heater started jumping up and down and the gas lamp sputtered a few times and went out. We lived without power for four months, so lived a little like the pioneers did. However I went to Fay Jennings' to wash clothes—my pioneer instinct wasn't strong enough to bring out the wash tubs.

We lived on the farm four years, of which we were hailed out completely once and partially two other years. The storm that hailed our crops out completely came after a rainy spell. The sun came out for about two hours and then down came the hail. They were the size of golf balls and would hit the ground and bounce up again. It's a helpless feeling to see your whole years' gone in a few minutes!

Jim worked out most winters to help make ends meet until we sold our farm to Larry and Sharon David in April, 1967 and moved to Lesheville. He worked for McBrides at Benalto and then for Kidd Construction. We lived in Lesliville for two and a half years, until the fall of 1969, when we purchased the Parker place, approximately ten miles south of Lesliville. Jim continued to work for Kidd Construction, and was made foreman. However he felt that his job was taking him away from home too much, and seemed to be consuming all of his time, so he got a job with the department of highways in 1974, where he is presently employed as a grader operator. We had rented the farm land out to Bill Von Hollen and Merle Cote.

We had two more daughters—Patricia Anne born on July 1, 1963 and Barbara Jean, born March 20, 1968. Our children attend school at Condor and David Thompson. Kathy graduated in June, 1975 and married Jack Holkestad from Rocky Mountain House in August, 1975. They reside in Rocky Mountain House, and Jack is employed at Aquitane gas plant. Kathy is a secretary at I.G.A.

We attend Gaetz Catholic Church where I have taught catechism for the past eight years.

THE GARRY BERT FAMILY

Garry Bert first became familiar with the Alhambra area in 1970, when he became employed at Killick's Esso owned by Bernard Killick. He drove to work each morning from his parent's farm (Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bert) in the Provercourt area.

In December of 1971, he married Vicki Crawford daughter of Bryan and June Crawford of Lesliville and together they set up housekeeping in a small rented house across from the service station. This lasted for three months then they moved into the house adjoining the service station. In July of 1976, they purchased the Esso Station from Bernard Killick and changed the name to Bert's Sales and Service.

THE BLUETSKI FAMILY

Walter and Helen Bluetski moved to the Alhambra district on May 1st 1971 along with their four children, Connie — 15, Anna — 14, Timothy — 3, and Martin — 1 year.

Coming from Red Deer, they settled on the Walter's farm (NW 7-39-5-5. Walter worked for R. Angus Caterpillar and farmed part time.

The oldest daughter, Connie, married Stanley Hubi on September 4, 1976. They are now living on the Hubi farm in the Eckville district. Anna finished high school at David Thompson and is now at Red Deer College.

The farm is pretty much the same except for a few of the old buildings and corrals being torn down. The appearance of the house and barn haven't changed.

In the spring of 1975 Walter and Helen separated, Walter moving to Fernie, British Columbia and Helen still living on the farm with the young boys.

ELTON DOWNES FAMILY

Elton was born January 17, 1902, at Stanley Bridge, Prince Edward Island. He came to Alberta with his parents and two brothers, Willie and Cecil, in 1907 residing first at Morningside Alberta. His dad decided to go homesteading so they went by covered wagon eastward to Naco but spent that first winter in Castor. In the spring they moved back to the homestead staying there two years, then moved to Veteran and stayed here for about two years. Then they moved back west to Lacombe for a couple of years and then moved back to Morningside. From there they moved south and west to the Eagle Hill district west of Olds where they bought a ¼ section of land in 1920 and farmed until Elton married the former Mildred Ware on August 1, 1935. Mildred came from Llanhilleth, South Wales to Canada. She was born May 31, 1915, and came to Canada with her parents and eleven children. The family came to Canada under the Soldiers Settlement scheme in 1927 to farm in the Eagle Hill district where the families were neighbors.

Elton and Mildred had four children. John born September 9, 1936, and Etta born February 15, 1940, while they lived at Eagle Hill. With their two children they moved to the James River Bridge district and lived with his brother Willie who had taken a homestead there in 1937. Our son James was born while we lived there November 26, 1942, and in the fall of 1944 we purchased three quarters of land from the Waterloo Municipality N.W. ¼, N.E. ¼ and S.E. ¼ Sec. 27 Twp. 39-R. 5-W. 5. In 1945 on November 27 our son Donald was born.

In October 31, 1956, our house and contents were completely destroyed by fire. In August 1957 John married a girl from Tangent Theresa Portalance. They have four children Gerald, Donna, Betty Ann and Dennis. They are residing in Red Deer.

Etta married a boy from Nipawin Saskatchewan in September of 1957 and they have two boys, Robert and Kelly. They reside in Carstairs.

In 1962 we sold our land at James River now realizing land was so hard to find and looked for a year before finding the land we now live on S.E. ¼-Sec. 17-Twp. 39-R. 5-W. 5. We bought this from an elderly man by the name of Dan Page and we moved here May 1, 1963, with our two boys. Jim and Don. Donald stayed one year and went working out at Westerdale where he met the former Sharon Bronson whom he married in December of 1966. They have two girls, Connie and Lori. In 1967 James left and married the former Mrs. May Cowan in July, 1968. James passed away October 12, 1974.

Now we are back to being just the two of us milking a few cows and keeping a few chickens and more or less taking life a little easy surrounded by good friends and neighbors.

— by Vivian Bunce

Over the past 31 years we have lived on four different farms in the area covered by this book

As we were not pioneer settlers nor even permanent residents, I shall write very briefly on each location.

After we were married in Benalto in 1946 we rented our first quarter of land from Gust Moltus. Here we lived in a small tarpaper shack on the land situated between Withrow and Globy. We were hailed out that year so were forced to obtain employment elsewhere.

Walter obtained a steady job with Imperial Oil in the Leduc oil field and it wasn't until 1951 that we were able to purchase a quarter of land from Kalle Kivinen. This was right next to the land we had previously rented. We were only weekend farmers for several years and thoroughly enjoyed coming to the farm. In the last part of 1954 Walter was transfered to a battery job at Lesliеville so we were finally able to move and to live on our farm. Then, due to the poor roads, we were unable to get the children to school, and decided to move to Lesliеville. We lived in town for two years, during which time we were able to purchase another quarter of land, SE 10-40-4-W5, and also bought the Wolfe School House and moved it to the farm. We remodelled it and installed power, sewer and water and by this time the road was high graded and gravelled so we were able to move back in the summer of

Walter had now been transferred to the Red Deer field. Joffre so we moved to the city at the close of 1959 and lived there for ten months and were once again back on the farm. This time it was to be for four years during which time we raised sheep. Finally it proved too much for our health and we sold the farm to Vic Owen in 1964.

We lived in Red Deer for some months while building a large home on one acre in Valleyview Subdivision. We lived there for five years when we again had the farming fever and wanted to our young boys out into the country. After we ur property sold we were able to purchase a farm at Alhambra from Ray and Blanche Harris. Here we raised cattle and thoroughly enjoyed being out in the country again. We were o live here for five years when we decided to move north of Lesliеville onto this farm. SW 31 40-4-W5, which we had purchased from Senia and Charlie Valley. Our son, Gerald, remained on the Alhambra farm with his wife, the former Laurie Urbinsky. During this past summer of 1977 this farm at Alhambra was sold to our neighbors, Clarence and Terry Needham. We purchased a half section from Molly Phelan, the former Lebihan farm which is located adjacent to the land we now live on. Gerald and Laurie with their baby daughter live on this new land and do most of the farming for us.

Our children have attended school at Eckville, Lesliеville and David Thompson High School. Cheryl is married to Robert Green and has three children and are at present living at Innisfail. Joyce is married to Gary Mah, has three children and lives in Rocky Mountain House. Vern is married to Gwen Needham, has three children and lives near Withrow. Janice is married to Gary Dietrich, has one little girl and lives north of Lesliеville. Judy married Ron Marcinek, has two boys and lives near Condor. Wanda married Arnold Gray, has one little girl and they live north-west of Lesliеville on the Gray farm. Sandra is single and works in Red Deer. Dwayne is also single and works around Central Alberta. Donald is in Red Deer, working in a welding shop.

The years we have lived on farms in this area have been our happiest years. It has been a good place to raise a large family and the beauty of this country compares with the best anywhere. For a family on the move, it is a real joy to have a farm to settle on.

BUTLER, TOM - (By Ken Martin)

Tom Butler came to Alberta from Ontario in 1906 and homesteaded the N E ¼ 20-39-5 W5, this land being two miles north of the present village of Alhambra. Later on he purchased the N W ¼ 20-39-5 (W5) from Bob McGuire. He farmed this half section until the fall of 1947 when due to ill health he was forced to retire. He never married. His mother and sister Jean, joined him a short time after he came out and his sister, Sally came out a few years later. His mother lived with him until her death in 1940 and his sister Jean lived with him and helped him with his farming until her marriage to Austin Raynor in the middle thirties. Jean was a very good teamster and did her share of the field work which was all done with horses. She also had a fine flock of sheep, approximately one-hundred head. She had a name for each one of them and though they all looked alike she could pick out any one of them at any time and tell you its name. She could also do the same thing with a quite a large herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle which Tom had. She also had a name for each one of the cattle. Sally Butler had been a nurse before coming to this area and at the time she came out here she had tuberculosis quite badly. The doctor in Ontario told her she only had a short time to live. She built herself a small building which was open on the whole south side. She covered the open side with cheesecloth and slept in it and the good western fresh air cured her of this disease and she lived a good healthy life until well over eighty years of age. Sally never married and kept house for her brother Tom all the time they lived here. She looked after her mother who was in ill health for a number of years before she died. Sally was a wonderful cook. All the time they lived here they kept all the furniture which they had brought with them from the east. The only cook stove she had was a small wood stove which could be classed as a real homesteader's stove but could she ever put up good meals with it. She was famous for her steam puddings which she had quite regularly for dessert. They lived in a log house all their years here and she had scrubbed the board floor until it was worn down until the knots in the boards were higher than the rest of the floor. She was one of the kindest women that I have ever known. Tom was also a kind and gentle man who never got excited and always took lots of time and did things very thoroughly.

He built up a very fine herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle in which took great pride and was a great lover of horses. His one enjoyment in life was smoking his pipe, he always used the old style plug pipe tobacco which he whittled with his knife and, like all pipe smokers, he used a great deal of matches. He used to sit in an arm chair which had a hardwood seat about one and one half inches thick. he struck matches on the bottom of the seat of this chair always in the same place with the same stroke of his arm until he had a groove worn in it so that it was almost worn through the seat of the chair. At the time he had his auction sale I had my mind made up I would buy that chair regardless of what it cost me but to my disappointment they did not sell any of their household effects.

Tom was a very interesting story teller and I could go on for a long time relating the stories he has told me of the early homesteading days and stories of eastern Canada. In my days as a teenager I used to stook for him for several years and the wonderful meals Sally cooked, especially those steam puddings. I will always remember. Upon retiring in 1947 he sold his farm to Austin Raynor. In 1951 Austin Raynor traded this farm to Joe McGhee for his farm in the Lamoral area which is approximately 40 miles west of Rocky Mountain House. In the fall of 1952 Joe McGhee sold it to Bud and Ken Martin who still farm it at the present time. Tom and Sally Butler moved to Parksville, British Columbia on Vancouver Island. I am not sure but I think Tom passed away two or three years later and Sally passed away sometime in the 1960's, but what year I am not sure. It was a privilege knowing such fine people and I am proud to be living on Tom Butler's homestead at this time.

COCHRANE, HATTIE AND FAMILY

Mrs. Hattie Cochrane and her three sons came from Tioga, North Dakota and filed on homesteads in the Horseguard district in August 1910. Mrs. Cochrane filed on NE 36-38-6 W5, and her sons, John Whitney on NE 33-38-5 W5, William Hector on NE 31-38-5 W5, and James Edward on NW 36-38-6 W5.

In March, 1911 Mrs. Cochrane at 55 years of age moved her family of three sons, John age 31, William 24, James 18 and four daughters, Eva 21, Gladys 20, Hattie 16, Bernice 14 and John's son, Don, eight years, to her homestead. They lived in a log house for three years until the new house was built in 1914. The house was just a shell when the girls decided they were tired of living in the log house so forced their hand by moving all of their furniture out of the log house. The new house was still without shingles, windows and doors but the girls told their brothers that if they wanted any supper they had to move the cook stove into the new house. So the brothers moved the stove and the piano into the new house. This same piano is in the Alhambra Community Centre today where it has been used for many years and is still used. Mrs. Hattie Cochrane brought it with her from Buffalo, Minnesota, when she moved to homestead in Tioga in 1910.

John's son, Don, died of the flu in 1919 at the age of 15 years in Hanna, Alberta. John was very active in the district. He served 18 years on the council of the Raven Municipal District, six years on the School Board of the Rocky Mountain School Division No. 15 and he was a director for the Central Alberta Dairy Pool. He took the census of the district for many years, and in the early days he rode horseback to do the job. J. W. Cochrane M.M. and D.C.M. served in World War I with the 10th Battalion and he received a medal for services rendered beyond the call of duty for which he received a pension from the King's Purse for the rest of his life. John died in June 1968.

William Hector served in World War I from 1915 to 1918. He returned to Alhambra in July 1919 and farmed with his brothers. He married Margaret von Hollen in October, 1931. They moved to the SE 18-39-5-W5 where they farmed. William rejoined the army in World War II and returned home in 1946. William and Margaret have one daughter, Lorraine, and two sons, Malcolm and J. Angus. William died in February, 1954.

Lorraine married George McCallum and they live in Victoria, B.C. They have five daughters and three sons.

Malcolm lives on his grandmother Hattie Cochrane's homestead. He married Anna Andresen from Ponoka, on June 28, 1969.

Angus lives on his dad's farm. He married Gloria Nothof from Hespero on April 23, 1960. They have two sons, William and James, both at home.

Eva moved to California and married Earl Leason.

Gladys married Tom Hall in 1915. He served in the Canadian Navy and was stricken with the flu on his way home and died in Red Deer. Gladys was remarried in 1921 to Joe Sullivan who was a barber and ran the pool hall in Alhambra. They had two sons, Dave and George. Dave died at the age of five. George lives in the United States. Gladys and Joe moved to Castle Rock, Washington. Gladys later moved back to Alhambra and lived with her brothers. John and Jim now resides at the Hardisty Nursing Home in Edmonton.

James Edward (Jim) farmed in the district and lived with his mother. He raised sheep for 30 years. He bought his first car, a Model T Ford, in 1921. He now resides at the Westview Lodge in Rocky Mountain House.

Hattie worked for Sam Emmerson for two years and then she moved to Hanna and from there to California. She had three sons, William, Terrance, and Donald

Bernice married Arthur Pederson in June 1917 and they lived on his homestead the SE 32 38-5-W5 for two years They had two children. Gloria and Arthur

Mrs. Hattie Cochrane had two married daughters, Edna and Grace, who also came to he Alhambra district. Edna had married G Emil Larson in 1905 in Tioga They also had filed on a homestead, the SW-5-39-5-W5, in August 1910 and moved on it in March, 1911. Their children are Lars who married Ann Steed and they have two sons, Lorne and Adrich, Grace, married William Mofford and they moved to the United States Dave and Ruth, both deceased, Robert born at Alhambra, had rheumatic fever and spent a year on his back then went to his aun. Bernice Pederson in Washington. he is married and they live at Castle Rock, Washington, John William, born at Alhambra, married Marge Birch and they have two children and live in Ed monton. Edna Mae married Chris Moeller, they have three children and they live in the Rocky Mountain House area G. Emil Larson died in 1967 Mrs. G. Emil Larson lives in Rocky Moun ain House with her son, Lars, and grandson, Lorne Mrs. Larson is 92 years of age and is st

Grace married Burr Floyd Randall (Doc Randall and they came to the district about 1930 and lived on the NE-27-38-6-W5. They had two children, Joe married Marie A Fleury, and they have one son and four daughters Grace (Gaye) married Jim Philips. They live in the Arbutus district and they have one son and three

The Cochrane home was known as a stopping house to all homesteaders trekking between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House

In 1924 the Cochrane Brothers had a contract to clear and burn the right of way for the road from Alhambra to Rocky Mountain House, now known as Highway 11 The old winding road was from one half mile to one mile south of the pre sent highway

DAVID THOMPSON HIGH SCHOOL

The David Thompson High School is situated on the southwest corner of the SE-1-39-5-W5 along Highway 11 leading west to the David Thompson Highway

"This school is the brain child, not of one, but of several men from the Department of Educa tion from the Divisional School Board architects, contractors and carpenters Moreover, the David Thompson grew out of a pressing need for high school classrooms — classrooms to accommodate students from the north east, south and west students brought to its doors by buses from Lesliеville, Condor and

The school opened September, 1957, under pioneering difficulties, certainly at the begin ning of the term — minus several windows, doors and a gym floor and a long list of other things The school was not completed until half of the school term was over The official opening was on February 11, 1958, when a crowd of more than 750 people gathered in this magnificent new school The evening started at 7:30 with a tour of the school and at 8:00 the Opening Ceremony commenced with Mr D Hall as chairman Dr T C. Bryne, Chief Superintendent of Schools for Alberta, cut the ribbon and declared the new building open The invocation was delivered by

Over the years additional rooms have been built to this High School and as well the gymnasium has been enlarged. This has helped ensure that the rural school children would be offered all the facilities and thus obtain an education of the same quality as urban school children. It was for this reason that the School Division was organized

DICKSON, SAMUEL AND ALMA

Samuel Dickson was born in Glasgow Scotland in 1877. In 1898 he came with his parents to the area west of Innisfail, now known as Dickson. Sam went to Toronto to learn watchmaking. He worked at this trade in Innisfail and Red Deer. In 1912 he moved to Fort Frances, Ontario, where he married Alma Wilkes. They operated the Royal Theatre there from 1912-1920. They then returned to Innisfail with their son, John. Sam and Alma, with their children John and Donna moved to the Alhambra district in 1921 where they purchased a farm. Sam and Alma had three more sons, Robert James (Jim), Kenneth, and Gordon. Sam will long be remembered for his musical ability. He played his violin at many parties, dances, and

Mrs. Angus Martin, and Frank Scott. Sam Dickson died in 1952 and is buried in the Lesliieville Cemetery. Alma married Eugene Bayer and they live in Fort Frances, Ontario.

John went to the Prairie Rose School south of Leslieville and later to the Alhambra School. He joined the Canadian Army in 1940 and served overseas for five years. After the War he worked for 27 years in the post office in Fort Frances. He is now retired. In 1950 he married Marjorie and they have five children, Linda, Beverly, John (Jackie), Daniel, and Debra. Beverly is married to Roger Wilson and they have two children. Beverly and Roger live in Stratford, Ontario, where they are registered Linda, Jack and Danny work in Fort Frances and Debbie is in school.

Donna went to school at Alhambra. She later worked at the Telephone Exchange in Sylvan Lake. In 1937 she married John Mac* Pollitt of Alhambra. They have four sons, Robert, James Gary and Donald. Robert (Bob) married Sharon Raymond in 1959. Bob operates "R. Pollitt Oilfield Construction" and Sharon is the receptionist at the Eckville Hospital. They live north of Leslieville and have four children, Wendy, who has graduated from high school, Darren, Melanie and Merrilee are in school. Jimmy married Faye Medin in 1963. They have three children, Dallas and Sandra in school and Shane at home. Jim and Faye live north of Withrow. Jim is employed as battery operator for Tipco Oil Company. Gary married Patricia Edwards in 1966. They have two children, Michelle and Mark, both in school. Gary and Pat live north of Beaver Flat. Gary works for Alberta Gas Trunk Line and Pat at the Treasury Branch in Rocky Mountain House. Donny married Rena Walker on July 6, 1974. He died in an oilfield accident September 16, 1974. Rena lives in Red Deer and works for Peavey Industries. Mac and Donna now live in Leslieville. They work for Speight Construction.

Robert James (Jim) took all his schooling at Alhambra. He joined the Armed Forces in 1944 and was stationed at Camrose and Suffield Alberta. Jim then worked in various points in northwestern Ontario until he returned home in 1947. In 1949 he married Alberta (Bobbie) Hall of Red Deer. In 1951 they bought a half section of land south of Leslieville where they still reside. Jim and Bobbie have eight children, Sharyn, Bruce, Brenda, Kerrilee, Laurel Dean, Susan, Brian and David. Sharyn married Wayne the former Ray Bunch farm. Sharyn and Wayne have four children, James, Brady, Donald and Chantel. Bruce, after graduating from high school, joined his father on the farm. In 1975 Bruce married Judy Roberts of the Washington Heights area north of Leslieville. They have two sons, Robert and Derek. Brenda received her degree in education. She married Dick Feser in 1975 and they have one daughter, Jennifer. Brenda and Dick live in Red Deer where Brenda teaches at West Park Junior High and Dick is Recreational Manager of the Roland Michener Centre. Kerrilee attended the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology and took Computer Technology. She is employed as a Programmer Analyst at Alberta Government Telephones in Edmonton. Laurel Dean married Glen Winchester in 1975. They have one daughter, Janet. Laurel Dean is postmistress at the Leslieville Post Office and Glen has a truck working in Oilfield Maintenance. Susan has graduated from high school and Brian and David are attending school.

Kenneth graduated from Red Deer High School and moved to Fort Frances in 1946 where he became a jeweler. He married Rose DeBenedet in 1949. They moved to Dryden, Ontario where they own and operate a jewellery store. Ken and Rose have three children, Robert, Sandra and Douglas. Robert is studying accounting in Thunder Bay, Ontario. Janet and Gordy live in Thunder Bay where Gordy attends school. Gordon was remarried to Shirley Bianco in 1974. They live in Sanford, Manitoba where Gordon is a carpenter and Shirley is a nurse.

EMMERSON, SAM — submitted by Evelyn MacDonald

Sam Emmerson was a time-keeper on the C.P.R. when it was going through to Rocky Mountain House in 1912. The first store and post office in Alhambra was run by Mr. Bissel. When it burned down Sam Emmerson built the store and ran the post office, later the long distance telephone and rural exchange. He was a well educated man and always returned kindness with kindness but would not be pushed. He always had two girls working for him, one for the post office and the other a clerk, and a heavy man. The first one was Ira Schilling and later Bert Spearing; he, Margaret Scott and I were there when Sam Emmerson died of a heart attack in 1931.

A FARRINGTON FAMILY — by Ted Farrington

The Farrington family immigrated to Canada in 1906 and lived in Calgary until March of 1920 when we moved to Alhambra.

There was my father, mother, my brother George and my sister Lucy, and myself. George who had served overseas in the first World War had bought a farm through the Soldier Settlement Board and my dad later homesteaded a ¼ section half a mile south of the place George had bought.

When we left Calgary on the 12 of March the snow was all gone but when we got to Alhambra the snow was still knee deep.

We arrived with four work horses, my saddle horse and two milk cows.

The place George had bought was known as the Big Bogg place. Our nearest neighbors were the Mowat family, who lived on the place later bought by Frank Scott who moved on in 1921 or 22. Jack Pollitt lived on his homestead just to the west of us. In the early days the people seemed to have more time for fun. In the winter there were always surprise parties and card parties. Just before Christmas we used to go to all the Christmas concerts at the schools around the district. A favorite one was Beaver Flat where they always had a good concert.

In the summer the mail came three times a week and the people seemed to have time to go to town. Most evenings we would play ball and then down to the old swimming hole on Scott's or up the creek at Bradshaws. The Bradshaws had moved from Hespero the same year we got to Alhambra and settled north of Alhambra. There were no roads in the district when we first came. We had to follow trails through the Hudson Bay section. The first year we worked on the road west of Alhambra cutting and laying corduroy and then hauled dirt with dump wagons and fresnos. The roads were made then by clearing the brush out by hand and then you plowed the furrows and then with a team and slip put the dirt in the middle of the road to make a grade.

In 1936 Germaine Chevallier and I were married and we rented the farm from my brother and dad. Mother and Dad moved to Calgary for their retirement. In 1942 they celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

In 1938 Germaine and I bought one of John Cochrane's quarters where we live now.

There was not much broke on it and it was slow work clearing by hand. The first year we cleared 10 acres and Fernie Chevalier broke it with eight horses. The following year, Howard Long who was in charge of Skoodopole's brush clearing cat, was in the district looking for work and we had some land cleared with it. It was the first brush cutting done in this area. Now we have three quarters of land. We have recently bought a house in Rocky Mountain House for our

THE ROSS GOODWIN FAMILY

Ross was born in Winnipeg, Manitoba during the Depression. He was adopted by James and Norma Goodwin and raised in the Oak Lake area. At the early age of 15 he left home.

His first job was freighting in northern Manitoba. He had a variety of jobs and saw a lot of the country and eventually worked on oil rigs. He moved with the Alberta rig, Commonwealth Drilling to Fox Harbour, Nova Scotia in 1963. He met Beverly Benjamin and later married her in 1964.

We, Ross and Bev, left Nova Scotia the end of May in 1964 and travelled by car through several States, then back to Calgary, Alberta. We checked with Commonwealth Drilling and were sent with a rig that moved north of Lesueville. We rented a home there and worked on rigs in that area. In 1965 Ross quit working for oil rigs and bought a backhoe. In 1966 we moved to Alhambra and rented a house from P. Cummerford, which formerly had been owned by Mac Pollitt. Later, we bought the quarter, the NE-9 39-5-W5, that we are now on.

We cleared about 30 acres and drained the low land. At present it is all under cultivation — except for eight acres. We used to pick roots and have a wiener roast. We still live in the house built by Jack Kerr who was helped by Mr. Fitch. Mr. Kerr homesteaded this quarter and built this

We have a family of four. Bobby born November 18, 1964, Jimmy born January 10, 1967, Carla born November 28, 1968, and Donna born April 3, 1970. The children are bused to school at Lesilleville, and enjoy it here. There are many forms of recreation nearby, curling, hockey, bowling, swimming, fishing and camping.

We have noticed over the past few years more things in this area for the children, the annual picnic, the Christmas concert, ball teams, and classes held at the Community Centre.

The community hall has really changed in appearance and name. Alhambra Community Centre. It has brought the community closer together. Also in the last few years we now have a mail route, natural gas, and dial telephones.

GRANLUND, EINO AND BERTHA

Eino Granlund emigrated from Finland in 1927. He arrived in the Alhambra district and tried to find a job. He worked at odd jobs, harvesting, helped on threshing crews, cleared land, worked in the winter months in lumber camps cutting railroad ties and worked on the Nordegg highway for awhile. He got a job working on the C.P.R. track for the summer months at 25 cents an hour, while in the winter he cleared land and worked in lumber camps. He applied for Cook's farm and had it for a time. Fred Mushka bought it later.

Bertha came from Geyser, Montana with her family - Mother and seven children. Father had come earlier to look for a place to settle. They came by train to the Brosseau district and stayed for a year. Father located a homestead in the Evergreen district where he built a log cabin with the help of his brother, Charlie. They lived in a rented house at a neighbor's farm until the log cabin was finished. Bertha attended school for one year at Kuusamo and she had to walk three miles, then at Knowledge and at Evergreen for Grade 8 which she was not successful in passing because her help was needed at home as Mother was not too well.

Bertha and Eino were married on August 21, 1937, at the Baptist Church in Red Deer. They lived in the section house at Alhambra with the twins, Neil and Helen, who were a little over a year old. They were interested in land owned by the Hudson's Bay Company which happened to be available so they made a contract with Hudson's Bay to pay for it. They got enough land cleared for a building and had a granary moved on the clearing. They got Eino Lund to build an addition to serve as a living room and kitchen. The granary was made into a couple of bedrooms. Before the house was ready to live in the weather turned cold and they were freezing in the section house so Bertha sewed slippers from old felt liners for the twins' feet to keep them warm on the floor. One week before Christmas they moved into the new house and as the family increased more additions were built. They lived in this house until 1972. The other children are Joyce born 1940, John born 1943 died four days later, Kenneth born 1945 and Rosebud born 1946.

This land was mostly heavy timber and muskeg and needed clearing before breaking could be done in preparation for seeding a crop or even a garden. They got a double bed and a cow from Bertha's parents as a wedding present. They had a few acres cleared by 1939, about 16 acres and Harry Manning did the breaking, Bertha's brother, Charlie, broke another 10 acres in 1940 which they had seeded for feed. Their horse machinery was bought from Bertha's brother-in-law who was planning to go to Red Deer for a job.

They pastured a neighbors' horses and in return were allowed to use them. When the time came to bind the grain, one horse didn't like the job so he lay down in front of the binder. They had to do something! All afternoon Bertha walked beside the binder to keep the horse moving with a whip as a reminder! They only had Labour Day free for cutting the grain as the railroad work was their source of income. After a fashion they did get it done; stooking was the next job. Chores were done late that evening in the dark. After walking all afternoon in the hot sun, Bertha was very tired. The grain was threshed for the livestock. Elno got an engine and a grinder to grind the grain he bought from his brother-in-law. He also got a circular saw for sawing wood.

In the fall of 1941 Elno was debating if he should apply for active service in the army or buy a pair of work pants. He decided to join up and try his luck. He was accepted. Bertha was left with three little children, the twins five and one-half years old and Joyce one and a half years old. Elno was discharged after the war in 1946. He went back on the job for the C.P.R. on different sections as he wanted to be foreman. The children and Bertha kept the farm in operation as well as they could. Bertha's brother, Charlie, came to help haul feed and grind the grain as there were pigs and cows to feed. The hogs helped to pay for the land even though they only got $20 each for a 220 pound hog. There were so many kind people who came to help through sickness and baby-sitting when needed.

In the late 40's they bought two quarter sections, NE-4-39-6-W5 and SE-28-39-6-W5, adjoining each other for growing hay. They sold this land in the early seventies to the Wolters of Leslieville and then built a modern home on the home place.

Nell married Phyllis Willet and they have four daughters, Joanne, Dianne, Mary Ann and Rae Ann. They reside at Innisfail.

Helen married Ralph Whaley and they have three daughters and one son, Linda, Christine, William and Sandra. Helen and Ralph reside at Medicine Hat. Linda married David Parsons and they have one son, Shaye. They reside in Alhambra.

Joyce married Roger Villadeen and they have two children, Dana and Shelley. They reside at Devon.

Kenneth married Donna Wray and they are awaiting the arrival of their first child. They reside at Edmonton.

Rosebud lives at St. Albert.

HARRIS RAY AND FAMILY — by Blanche Harris

Ray Arnold Harris and I. Blanche Ida were married May 9, 1928, in my parents' home. Our parents homesteaded, when Saskatchewan was still part of the North West Territories, south of Carlwale, Saskatchewan.

We were all born in the south-east corner of Saskatchewan, where we farmed for the first 21 years of our married life. Then Ray worked at bridge building until he joined the army. He was stationed at the Royal Canadian Engineer Army Camp, Chilliwack, B.C., where he served his country to the end of the war.

We moved south-east of Rocky Mountain House from Vedder Crossing, B.C. until we located a farm. We met Mr. Pollitt at a railway crossing and in the conversation, he informed us he had a farm for sale. That is how we located in the Alhambra district where we farmed for a

We, with our three youngest children, Joan, Doreen, June, Gwendolene and Larry Vincent moved onto the former Jack and Jessie Pollitt farm in April, 1947, which we purchased through the Veterans' Land Act. Ray was a veteran of the Second World War. Our eldest son, Alton Duane, joined us later.

In May 1954 Ray became postmaster and myself his assistant, we also purchased the building the post office was in. I drove into Alhambra from the farm to care for the post office until September when we moved into Alhambra, with Ray continuing to farm from the hamlet until we sold it in July, 1970 to Walter and Vivian Bunch of Red Deer.

In September, 1969 the first mail route out of Alhambra was formed, Ray contracted to operate it which he has done ever since.

I was news reporter for the local newspaper for several years, quitting early 1977 since, I have acted as an assistant.

Duane joined the Navy early in 1946, he served his enlistment period in an air carrier in many parts of the world. While he was stationed at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia he married Evelyn Francis McKay, October 17, 1952. Their union was blessed with two sons and a daughter.

Joan became a weather observer training in Edmonton, she was stationed in Rocky Mountain, November 1953. Later she became officer in charge until she resigned in 1974. She married Christopher Stanley Pulay of Rocky Mountain House, June 30, 1973. Her hobby is raising purebred Arabian horses.

June worked in a bank and business office in Edmonton where she married James Albert Wiltshire, March 15, 1958. Their union was blessed with a son and a daughter.

Larry worked as a weather observer at Cambridge Bay, N.W.T. and various points in Alberta. He then took a two year tour of the world, then he attended university in Edmonton and has taught school at the Olds College, various points in the North West Territories and Alberta. He married Betty Lou Plumm of Wetaskiwin in Edmonton April 7, 1965. Their union was blessed with three sons. We are retiring December 31, 1977 to travel, quilt and collect rocks and Ray will indulge in following sports and play pool.

HARTLEY WM. (BILL) AND ELIZABETH (LIL) — by Ruby (Hartley) Anderson

Bill Hartley was born October 4, 1896 in Sub District of Chertsey in the County of Surrey, London, England. He enlisted in World War I in 1915 and served in France until demobilization was declared and he was discharged from the service. He was 22 years old. A few years after recovering from the War he worked for the C.P.R. in the yards. Later he met Lil Hink. She was born October 20, 1894 in Euclid, North Dakota, U.S.A. They got married and lived in

Calgary for a few years where Richard and I Ruby were born

In the early 30's Dad (R. ) and Mom (L.) bought a farm, the NE½-12-38-5-W5 at A hambra where they broke land and farmed with horses but Dad continued working his way up on the C P R and became a fireman In the meantime Mom continued with the farm chores She always grew a large garden enough for all winter canned meat by the quarts and did all the baking We always had our own milk, cream butter and eggs Our yard was a picture of beauty because Mom enjoyed growing flowers She sewed most of our clothes from rags and hand me-down clothes Tilley was born in 1935

Richard and I started school in Ahambra We rode horseback as we were two and one half miles from school Dad had now become an engineer and operated the C P R. engine Number 441 from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House Three times a week the train went west Sometimes Richard and I would go to the railway station after school was out and wait for the train. While the mail and other supplies were being unloaded we would board the engine with Dad for a ride home where he would stop the old engine and set us off Mom and Tilley would be in the barnyard waiting for the two little coal black kids to help with the chores after they had some lunch

Our first car was a 1934 Chevrolet that Dad bought a few years before we left the farm. In 1944 Dad and Mom sold the farm and moved to Red Deer where they bought a house in West Park Mom really enjoyed her home here as she had Calgary Power and lots of room compared with the little farm house She was free of all house farm chores, so she had more time for her garden and flowers which she loved to care for Dad was still an engineer on the C.P R. running different lines out of Red Deer In 953 they sold his home and built their new home on 43 Street in West Park

Dad was a well-known railway figure In 1932 he was one of a small group responsible for the formation of the Canadian Pacific Railwaymen's Social Club. an organization that has become very active in railway social affairs Dad was chairman of the club for several years. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and Waskasoo Lodge No. 16 of the I.O.O.F Another field that Dad was very active in was the Red Deer Pioneers' and Oldtimers Association where he served one term as the president

After 37 years of service as an engineer he retired In the fall of 1954 Dad and Mom were honored at a banquet in Red Deer which was attended by top C P R officials in Alberta and

On September 5. 1955 Dad passed away in the Red Deer General Hospital.

(Stanley) Newman holding daughter, Karen, Red Deer 1952

In the fall of 1962 Mom sold her home and built another new home on the next lot Landscaping this new yard included planting rose bushes, trees flowers and a garden and the result she created a beautiful surrounding for her new home.

When Mom travelled she would go by train to visit her relatives and friends who lived far away

Mom was very active until her passing on February 24, 197

RUBY (HARTLEY) AND CLARENCE ANDERSON FAMILY — (By Ruby (Hartley) Anderson)

I was born in Calgary June 16, 1931 and moved with my parents, Bill and Li Hartley and my brother Richard to be farm in Alhambra in the early 30's. In 1938 I started school in Alhambra. I rode horseback most of the time to go the 2 and one half miles to school. Highlights of those years were the Christmas concerts in the Alhambra Hall that were enjoyed by all. Santa's arrival added that extra happiness. Some of my teachers at this school were Anna (Sande) Sunde, Miss Stagg and Mrs. Stollings.

One experience I still remember while living on the farm happened when Richard and I were picking raspberries. In the distance we saw something black coming up the road but we kept on picking and finally our pails were full so we hurried home. After a few minutes our neighbor, August Savory, came and asked Mom if she had seen a bear. She hadn't seen a bear. But we guessed right then that the black object we had seen on the road was a bear coming. We were scared then all right, and didn't go picking berries for a long time.

In July 28, 1944, Dad and Mom sold the farm and moved to Red Deer so I continued my schooling in the city. After finishing my schooling I worked at the Dry Cleaners and then at Scott's 5c to $1 Store. Then I left for Vermilion where I worked for Sandy and Ann Wright's Dry Cleaners. Later when I was back in Red Deer I met Roy (Chub) Newman, formerly from Condor. We were married in Calgary August 30, 1952. He owned his own truck and we moved to Retoks where he hauled grave. Then we moved to Rocky Mountain House where he worked in the bush. Here our son, Roger, was born in the Rocky Mountain House Hospital.

Ruby and Roy (Chub) Newman with son Roger and Karen (inset)

We were looking for a farm and finally settled on a farm seven miles south-west of Rimbey. Roy got a chuckwagon outfit and he was also an outrider for several chuckwagon outfits. We had many happy exciting days and we really enjoyed it. In January, 1956, Karen was born. We continued to farm and run our chuckwagon until 1958, Roy took ill and passed away in September 1958, in the University Hospital, Edmonton as a young man. We stayed on the farm and the children attended school in Rimbey.

In 1960 I married Clarence Anderson, from Bentley, Alberta. We purchased two more quarters of land west of our farm on the Leedale road. I work at the Rimbey Auction Mart, and have worked there for 15 years. I love outdoor life. Clarence is a foreman for Alpine Blasting from Edmonton. In 1962 our daughter Della was born. She attends school in Rimbey now in Grade 10. She has taken swimming lessons and figure skating lessons since she was eight years old. She loves swimming, skating and riding horseback and all outdoor life.

My son Roger married Edith Kemmis in [redacted]. They have two daughters, Wendy Ann five, and Joanne two. Roger is partsman for Roper's Ltd. He also helps me on the farm and he loves animals and farm life, riding horseback, fishing and hunting. They reside on the quarter west of Karen.

My daughter Karen married Randy Cross. They have one daughter, Tanya two. Randy works for Flint at the Rimbey Gas Plant. Karen loves outdoor life, riding horseback, fishing, working in the garden and with flowers. She also likes to cook. They reside on the quarter west of

was born in Calgary, October 30, 1932. I moved from Calgary with my parents, Bill and Lil Hartley to Alhambra in the early 30s. In 1939 I started school in Alhambra and one of my teachers was Alma (Sande) Sunde. Our farm was two and one half miles from school so I rode horseback. In 1944, I moved with my family to Red Deer where I finished school.

I married Ruby Elizabeth Duncan in 1955. Ruby was born in Pakingham Township in the Ottawa Valley, Ontario. For two years we lived in Red Deer where two of our sons, Richard Jr. and [illegible] were born.

In 1958 we bought an acreage about one mile west of Red Deer and moved into a little trailer which was the bedroom and a granary served as a kitchen. It had a wood and coal stove, a table and chairs and an apple box made into a washstand. We had no power nor running water.

In 1959 we bought a mobile catering service better known as "Richard's Chuckwagon" loading up twice a day with coffee, hot dogs, pop, bars and pastry, etc. we served various business establishments in Red Deer, and built up our business as the city expanded which necessitated our buying two new trucks.

Mrs. W. Hartley and son Richard with the Chuckwagon Catering Service. Mrs. Hartley and Mrs. Richard Hartley

I have been an auctioneer since 1966. Also in 1966 I started my gravel trucking business called 'Canary Trucking". At one time I was in the New and Used Furniture Business.

Our third son, Roy, was born in 1961. The same year we built a new modern home for which we both had worked hard driving our mobile catering trucks.

My sons and I have always been animal lovers. We have ridden in the Red Deer Parades, and in gymkhanas and we have received many trophies and honorable mention several times. Our sons are also very interested in cars and again they have won trophies. Ruby likes to cook, garden and grow flowers.

RISKE, COURTNEY AND TILLEY — (By Tilley Riske)

I Tilley Hartley was born on my parents farm west of Alhambra and I am the third child of Bill and Lil Hartley. I started school at Alhambra. When I was nine years old my parents sold the farm and we moved to Red Deer where we lived in a large eight-room house in West Park. I attended Central Elementary, Central Junior High, and Composite High schools.

Tilley Hartley and Richard Hartley going to Alhambra School, 1944.

When I finished school in 1951, I worked for seven years as cashier in the Royal Cafe. Then I moved to Calgary and I worked as an N.C.R. bookkeeping machine operator and cashier in the Parisian.

In 1959 I married Courtney Riske. We bought a home in 1960 in Calgary where we lived until 1977. Then we bought an acreage in Symon's Valley, Calgary and we live there now. Our little girl, Lynde, is three years old. Courtney is employed with Dominion Bridge.

HICKS, JAMES P. AND ANN

The James P. Hicks family came to the Little Horseguard district where they took up a homestead about 1907. Mrs. Hicks, the former Ann M. Bond was born in Haverhill, Massachusetts, December 25, 1853 and married James P. Hicks December 23, 1875. There were two children of this marriage, Hiram P. and Minnie Estelle. Minnie was born at Bradford, Massachusetts, October 7, 1879. James P. Hicks was a shoemaker by trade before coming to Alberta.

They lived in a log house with a sod roof. The Hicks' were noted gardeners and their beautiful flowers were artistically arranged on either side of the walks, made from poles laid crosswise leading to the workshed, well and garden. Mr. Hicks picked fresh flowers, arranged them in a tin can, and gave them to the children passing by his homestead to give to their teacher. They had a phonograph with the cylindrical records which they enjoyed, as did their neighbors who came to visit. Mr Hicks threshed his first crops by beating the heads of grain on a spiked log

Later, the Hicks' left their homestead to make their home on an acreage in Alhambra, now the K Sunde residence Here they also had a beautiful flower garden so beautiful that it merited being photographed and put on the front cover of a McKenzie Seed Catalogue

Mrs Hicks was very fond of children and when she no longer was able to look after the flower garden, they picked bouquets of wild flowers for her and in return she gave them candy

Mr Hicks died at Alhambra on January 15 1929 and Mrs. Hicks died on August 11, 1936. They are buried in the Leslieville Cemetery

HICKS, HIRAM P AND JENNY

Hiram P Hicks homesteaded in the Little Horseguard district about the same time as his father James P Hicks. Hiram married Jenny Redmond and they had four children. Charlotte, Harry, William and Marjorie

Hiram Hicks was the first school teacher at the Little Horseguard School when it opened in [illegible]

He was a veteran of the Boer War He enlisted in World War 1 and he was killed in action

LESSING, FERDINAND ERNST AND MINNIE ESTELLE

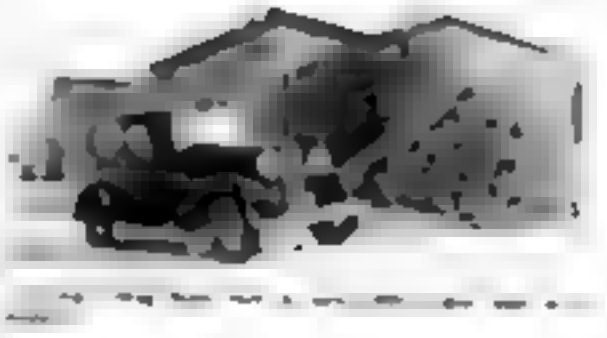
Mr Ferdinand Ernst Lessing was a pharmacist who worked for a hospital in Chicago. He was born March 23, 1872 in Germany. He was very interested in going homesteading after realizing how well his friends, Fred and Herman von Hollen were faring after they homesteaded in North Dakota. When the von Hollens left North Dakota to go homesteading in Alberta in the Little Horseguard area in 1909, Mr Lessing came to visit them but stayed and homesteaded land north of Fred's, now the Fritz von Hollen farm For a time Mr Lessing operated a general store at Stauffer where he also stocked medicines. He drove with team and buggy from his homestead to manage the store

On August 21 1909, he married Miss Minnie Estelle Hicks. In 1911 the Lessings took little Stanley Barrett, at two years of age, to live with them as his mother had died. Stanley now lives at Horsefly and at Summerland, B.C

Mr Lessing built and operated a drug store in Alhambra, driving with team and buggy from his homestead to manage the store. In 1931 the Lessings built a home on an acreage in Alhambra and left the homestead When they purchased the Sam Emmerson Store from his nephew Mr Gould, who was looking after the estate, the Lessings stocked this store with medicinal products as they had sold the drug store. Mr Lessing was praised by doctors for his wonderful ability as a pharmacist and for his devotion to his profession. At one time Mr Lessing had a room available in the drug store every Friday for Dr Greenaway to see people in the district who needed medical help. "Mr Lessing with his knowledge of medicine rendered invaluable service to the community and many a one can remember with gratitude his help in time of trouble"



Mr Lessing died on March 20, 1935. His wife continued operating the Lessing Store until she decided to retire in 1947 and she sold the business to John and Evelyn MacDonald

As a young woman she was a secretary to Sir Wilfred Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada from 1896 to 1911 She was secretary-treasurer of the Alhambra School District No 2930 from 1927 to 1940. Her excellent short-hand was put to good use during all these years, whether in business or in the home

On her 70th birthday she held a birthday party and many friends called to enjoy this day with her She was a gracious hostess. This party became an annual event, a highlight of the year for her many friends

Mrs. Lessing was very interested in outdoor activities and on her 80th birthday she still enjoyed riding her wooden wheeled bicycle with the children in the area. She skated on the open rink at the Community Hall and taught young children how to skate Children enjoyed visiting Mrs. Lessing She let them play with her dolls and toy dishes and gave them real tea parties' She enjoyed her garden with its colorful flowers and a variety of vegetables

In the fall of 1968 she moved to the Sylvan Lake Senior Citizens Home. She died November 26, 1968 at the age of 99 years in the Eckville Municipal Hospital after a brief illness. She was buried in the Leslieville Cemetery in the family plot beside her husband

JOHNSTON, WATER (WATT) — by Ron Hor[illegible]

Watt Johnston came to the Alhambra area in 1936 At that time he was working for John Honas who had purchased the E ½ 19-39-5 5

They came from the Innisfail area and he had worked for Mr Honan for several years at Innisfail. Watt was a story teller of distinction and renown and he could entertain you for hours at a time. After leaving Honans he worked for Angus Martin in his sawmill and then worked for a time in the Bentley area. After that he returned to Alhambra and made his home with Bill Farquharson when he was not working somewhere else. He worked for Frank Scott on his farm and in the winter months helped Frank Scott with his butchering and meat curing business for two years. He also worked a few crop seasons for Bert Smith on his farm and in the winter months worked for various lumber camps in the Rocky Mountain House and Horburg areas always returning to Bill Farquharson. Watt was a man who could do almost any job. He was a good cook and good with livestock. He was a very handy man to have around if you had a bunch of young boar hogs or bull calves as he was an expert with a knife. Little is known of his early life or where he originated from. He passed away very suddenly in 1956.

JONES, JOHN AND GRIFF

In 1905 John Humphrey Jones of Brockville Ontario and his brother Griff, of Cleveland Ohio, decided to answer all the advertisements telling of land for the taking in the Canadian West, and to homestead in Alberta.

John a landlady as she told him goodbye said fearfully "Don't let the Indians get you, Johnny!"

On the train on their way west, they met Tom Butler from Ontario and Tom Peel from England. They decided to travel west together. In Red Deer they bought a team, a wagon, and supplies and headed west. They settled on Section 20-39-5-W5 about five miles west of Lesliеville. On Tom Butler's quarter they built a small log cabin in which they batched. They cut fence posts and did some clearing until winter drove them out to work where they could until they could return in the spring when this land was thrown open for homesteading and they could file on it legally.

John, a moulder by trade, had spent the winter in Victoria, British Columbia, where he worked at his trade but Griff had gone home to Cleveland to prepare to move his family to Alberta. They had begun to build a log house before his departure and the others worked on it in his absence.

On September 3, 1906, the Griff Jones family arrived in Red Deer. After having always lived in a big city they found the contrast overwhelming, especially, as Mrs. Jones never went anywhere to meet other women and so did not see another woman for the first year there.

It was some time before their furniture arrived so it was indeed hard and at last they were fairly comfortable but, alas, come spring the sod roof proved to be too thin to turn the rains and all the furniture was ruined. Oh some of it was usable, but it never looked the same again.

Tom Peel decided he preferred land farther south. Eventually Griff's stepson, George homesteaded the other quarter.

The children were Helen 16, Theresa 14, George seven, all McGuires, children of Mrs. Jones' former marriage. Grace three, and twin sons Harold and Howard, nine months.

They had some good times and some bad ones but the high light was the birth of another daughter in June, 1909. They named her Myrtle.

In April 1911 Helen McGuire and John Jones drove into Red Deer and were married in the Baptist Church. They had a double grain box on the sleigh and besides a load of seed grain for themselves, they had a load for Mr. Malcolm. On the way home a chinook wind blew up and to save the horses they both walked most of the way home. Both being red headed and fair skinned they were both sun and wind burned and their feet were blistered. Helen was sitting with her feet in a basin of water when a commotion arose outside. All the neighbors, mostly young bachelors, had gathered to charivari the newlyweds — very embarrassing at the time but something to laugh about in later years.

In November they moved to Calgary and in February a baby girl was born to them, named Eunice. In the spring they returned home but next year they again went back to Calgary where a son, Richard, was born in August, 1913. At Christmas time they returned to the farm. In the winter of 1915 they moved into Lesliеville and soon John and Fred Forman left for Toronto where John got work in a foundry. In August Helen and the children joined him. In May 1917 twins were born. Norman and Edythe, and in September 1918 a son, Howard, was born. In November of that year the whole family came near to death in the great flu epidemic but eventually they all recovered. They moved to Guelph in 1919 and later they moved to Preston and then in 1921 they moved back to the homestead.

It was too difficult for Eunice and Richard to get to school at Beaver Flat so they moved into Alhambra where they lived for about a year. John worked on the track and Helen ran a cafe. They moved to Calgary in the fall of 1922 where they made their home for the next 11 years, coming to the farm for summer holidays.

In 1922 the Griff Jones family left the farm for good, moving to Rocky Mountain House where the older folks lived for the rest of their lives with the exception of a couple of years spent in British Columbia. They are both buried in the Pine Grove Cemetery. As the rest of the family grew

The John Jones family moved back to the farm to stay in 1933. Times were hard but we had some very good times with friends and neighbors dropping in. We seldom had a Sunday without a houseful of guests enjoying the music we had, the singing not to mention Mom's good cooking, the laughter and the teasing and the jokes.

In October 1936 Edythe and Norman Peterson were married in Red Deer. Norman was the son of another pioneer family and an excellent musician who played his banjo for years all over this part of the country. In August, 1937 they had a son, David, who is also a musician playing the accordian in several dance bands. In March, 1939 a daughter, Coral, was born. In 1940 Norman enlisted and in 1941 he was sent overseas serving there until he was invalided home in 1944. In 1945 a son, Philip, (Skip) was born.

In 1938 Eunice married Fred Manning, a neighboring farmer's son. They lived at the Manning farm for a few months then moved to Calgary where Fred enlisted in the navy and was sent to Comox where Eunice joined him. He served later at Esquimalt and received a medical discharge. They came back to Alberta for a short time, then returned to British Columbia. Fred worked for a few years in the shipyards in Victoria and eventually for B.C. Hydro. He retired to Victoria and then to Qualicum Beach. Eunice passed away in June, 1975. Fred has since remarried and lives in Victoria.

Richard became a baker and worked in Calgary, Rocky Mountain House and Sylvan Lake before enlisting in the navy in 1940. He was sent to the east coast where he saw a great deal of action in convoy duty, was wounded, and served until the end of the war. He moved to Victoria upon receiving his discharge in 1945 and has made his home there ever since. He married Lucille Turcotte in 1947. A daughter, Helen, was born in 1948, and in 1951 a daughter, Judith, was born. Helen is Mrs. Dale Finlan and lives in Vancouver. Judy is Mrs. Larry Gault and lives in Norman Jones also enlisted but for health reasons was soon discharged. He lived in Calgary and in Edmonton for some years but eventually moved to Vancouver and now lives with his wife, Edith, in Port Alberni. They have two daughters and a son. Both daughters are married as is Norman's daughter Judy by his first marriage. They have four grandchildren.

Howard Jones enlisted in the army and was sent to the east coast on his way overseas but he fell ill in Halifax. After several months in hospital there he was sent back to Alberta where he served in the Provost Corps for the duration. In 1945, he married Millie Latimer in Calgary. They have two children, Bob, born in 1946 and Gwen, born in 1947. Howard drove his truck and worked on road construction. He also bought the homestead from his dad hoping to make his home there eventually but they moved to Calgary and in April, 1958 he was killed in an accident. The two children are now grown up and married and Millie has remarried. They all make their homes in Calgary.

In October, 1955 John Jones died of a heart attack in the Alhambra store, minutes after having said he never felt better in his life. Helen Jones died in the Red Deer General Hospital after a few months' illness in April, 1976. They are buried in the Pine Grove Cemetery.

Norman Peterson became postmaster at Alhambra in 1948. In 1951 the family moved to Vancouver where they lived until 1959 when they returned to Alhambra. Norman passed away in May, 1968. Edythe lives in Alhambra where she is the postmistress.

In March, 1961 David and Joyce Paulson were married in Alhambra. In January, 1962 their daughter, Carol was born. Their daughter Michel was the Eckville New Year's baby in 1973. They live in the Arbutus district.

Coral and Laverne Ahlstrom were married in June 1961. They have three children, Pauline 14 John 11 and Nelson nine. They farm in the Ar

Philip and Terry Cartwright were married on April 5, 1975. They make their home in Alhambra with Terry's three children, Hallie 12, Don 10 and Kim six. Skip is very well known as a

KERR, JOHN ROBSON

John Robson Kerr came to Canada in 1907 from New Abbey, Scotland at the age of 22 years. He spent the first winter in Montreal and then in the spring of 1908 he came west to Alberta where he worked on a farm at Airdrie and in the Coronation district. In the fall of 1908 he filed on a homestead in the Alhambra district on the NE 9 39-5-W5 where he lived until his retirement to Red Deer in 1951. He lived there until his death in 1973. (Mrs. Kerr passed away in 1974)

When he lived in the Alhambra district he was active in bringing about the first school and served on the school board for many years. In his later years he wrote a short history of the Alhambra district and was very interested in the keeping of history of different districts.

He was married in 1912 to Nina Thompson also of Scotland. They had two children, Nina born in 1921 who died of pneumonia in 1928, and ...dith, born in 1923, now living in Edmonton. She married T W Bill Peel in 1947 and they have five children Bill is also the son of an old pioneer of the Northup district near Condor Tom Peel was an early thresherman of the district having one of the first steam outfits and moving on to more modern equipment in the 1920's. In 1918 he was married to Violet Perry of Condor They had two sons and a daughter, Thomas W (Bill George of Sherwood Park, and Doris Mrs. M C Knight of Calgary Mr. Peel died in 1956 and Mrs Peel remarried in 1961 to Dominic Silver They now live in Calgary

The Bill Peel family of Edmonton consists of Brian, 23, assistant manager of Clearview Restaurant in Red Deer Barbara, 22, who is now Mrs. Keith Gheseger of Brooks, Douglas, 19, working for Canadian Propane, Edmonton. Kathy 16, Grade 11 student and partime worker at University Hospital. Jeannie, 10, school girl and a Brownie

KILLICK, BERNARD AND RENE

Bernard and Rene Killick purchased the Sloan's Service Station" on Highway 11 at the Alhambra Corner in September 1962, where they operated under the name of "Killick's Esso Service" for the next 14 years. In the spring of 1963 they acquired the quarter section of land that the Station is located on, also from Havelock Sloan, and they built their home east of the Sta

The Quarter SW-4-38-5-W5, has an interesting history It was homesteaded in March 1906 by Bryan Brothers, Percy and John Thomas who were "Glass Bottle Blowers" by trade, from Yorkshire, England, and who knew absolutely nothing about farming, let alone how to clear land and prove up a homestead However they were good workers and eventually cleared enough land to put in a crop. The story goes that when asked what their first crop would be their answer was "Rolled Oats" and so the 'Quarter" was named and to the old timers of the district it is still referred to as the "Rolled Oat Quarter

The Killicks enlarged and modernized the Service Station and for 14 years enjoyed an ever increasing volume of business as the traffic increased on Highway 11 During that time it might be of interest to note some of the employees at the Station. They include Ralph Whaley Warren Randall, Garth Ahlstrom, Milt Zirk, Alec McRae, Doug Hope, Ed Mushka Joe Frith Garry Bert, Havelock Sloan and then of course there was "Bacchus" who came to the station as a pup The big Black Dog" as known to 100's, efficiently guarded the station for 15 years until his death in October 1977

The Killicks sold to Garry Bert in July, 1976

Their son, Jim, was married in 1973 to Miss Linda Johnson of Edmonton. They are living in Brentwood Bay B.C., and have a son, Timothy two years old

Their daughter, Maureen lives in Calgary where she is employed by an airline company

KIRBY THOMAS M. AND MARY — By Jessie Kirby Harris

Thomas Miles Kirby was born April 21, 1858 not far from Salt Lick Tennessee He was the eldest of five During the Civil War his mother walked for miles to get cornmeal for her family only to have the rebels take it from her Great Grandpa, Lon Kirby was at war fighting with the Northern soldiers, and the Kirbys lived in the

In 1878, he and Mary Biles eloped in the night and were married. They had eight children Timothy Susan, Jesse, Lucy, Sam, Elter Huston and Zora They lived in Tennessee until 1900 where they were sharecroppers. Then they drove a covered wagon to Illinois with four horses loaded with all their possessions. There in Illinois Grandpa rented land and the boys and girls that were old enough worked out

In 1914, they sold all they had except dishes, bedding, and clothing which was all packed in a large wooden box and shipped to Canada. About November 25, 1914 Grandpa homesteaded the SW 13-38-6-W5. He was a good woodsman The logs in their house were hewed by hand with a broad axe It was a small house, two beds in one end, a table in the centre while the other end served as a kitchen. He dug a well six feet in diameter and 22 feet deep and cribbed it with field stones. It was there for twenty some years. Grandma baked baking powder biscuits for Grandpa three times a day, which almost everybody enjoyed when they were there for meals. She sometimes had to take care of people who came along sick with colds or flu in winter times Their place was mid-way between Caroline and Alhambra on Rocky Mountain House. After Tim Kirby moved away there were no close neighbours

In the early days he cut tamarack posts all winter and managed to buy a team of horses and a cow. A quarter section of land for $10 was the only way they could own land. They always had people coming in but mostly in the summer as the lake was on one corner of his homestead. There always was a boat on the lake and it was a good place for a picnic.

Each Saturday he could be seen driving his grey mare to town, she was in good shape, but was driven quite fast to town and back again.

The work on the farm proved to be too much so the farm was traded to Gus Sininger for his blacksmith shop and a small three-room house in Alhambra. Here the Kirbys lived until Grandma passed away in April 1935. Grandpa then went to the Lacombe Home at Midnapore for a short time. He came back looking pale, and said, "If I'd stayed there I would soon died." After that he lived in Rocky Mountain House a short time. He then built a small two-room shack in Alhambra where he lived by himself until he passed away in December 1946. He would have been 89 in April. While he lived the last few years in Alhambra he would walk the four and one half miles to his granddaughter Jessie Harris's house, the old J. C. Adam's place now the Jay Harris farm. When he was ready to go home, he would walk the four and one half miles back. He did not want a car ride, unless it was when he wanted to go. He stood very straight he never stooped from old age.

KIRBY, TIM, TIMOTHY SR. AND LIZZIE FAMILY — By Ellen Scott

Tim Kirby was born in Tennessee in 1880. When he was 20 years old his whole family moved to Illinois. He was the eldest of eight children. His mother's father was a blacksmith from Ireland, so he learned from him. In 1904 he married Lizzie Miller who was born in Illinois in 1889. Tim was just a farm hand and did rent some farms but he could never hope to be able to buy a farm of his own in that good farming country so looked elsewhere. There was lot of country opening up in the north and west. After looking over all the information, he decided on western Canada and once he saw Alberta that was it. He even took a whiskey bottle of Bow River water all the way back to Illinois for them to see clear.

We moved up in the fall of 1913 and had a C.P.R. quarter for 1½ years, then homesteaded the present George Cermak farm, NE 12-38-6-W5 in March, 1915. Things weren't too bad but never too good. There seemed to be always children: Jessie, Annie, Maggie, Ellen, Leona, died in 1928, Tim the first boy, Winnie, Norma, the twins William and Willard, Alfred, Fay and David. Nearly all the girls were the oldest and the boys came along after. Poor Tim — raised with seven girls. We girls had to work outside and help in the shop and do the farm work, then the boys were born and raised in town. Phooey!

When the T. S. Kirby family arrived on the homestead in the Horseguard dist[illegible] Jessie was seven, Annie was fiv[illegible] three, and Ellen a year old. Leona, Tim, and Winnie were all born on the homestead. Annie was eight when they started to school at Arbutus where they walked as Tim needed the horses for farm work. Otherwise they went by horse and buggy to the school for four months of every year. Their lunches consisted of biscuits, moose steak and a quart of vegetables and a whole pie. Ellen was quite astounded at the dainty sandwiches and cake the other children had for lunch and asked one child, "Is that all your belly can hold?" Mrs. Hockett was the first teacher they had, followed by Tom O'Connor for two years. The six oldest children contacted small pox in 1917 and Lizzie nursed them through it with only an old doctor book to help her. It advised to drink cream of tartar water to thin the blood. They came through it with no scars and no loss of life. Their nearest neighbor was four miles away and no one came near them.

The older children had the job of threshing grain with clubs, then fanning it through the hand fanning mill. Up until that time there had been no seed grain grown west of Benalto. Annie had a lesson in cash and credit when quite young. Tim had sent her to Alhambra for groceries with the horse and buggy. He gave her strict instructions to pay for the groceries. When she got the groceries, Charlie Raine asked her if that would be cash or credit. She didn't know what he was talking about and was too shy to ask so she said "red," and took off like a scared rabbit. When she got home and Tim found out that she had charged the groceries he gave her quite a lecture on which was which. A few weeks later Henry Lund came by to have a look at the seed oats the children had threshed, and made the comment that he sure had to give the children credit for [illegible] piped up and [illegible] didn't want the credit — she'd take the [illegible]. Tim was quite embarrassed but found out she'd learned her lesson on cash and credit.

Lizzie and Annie were skinning rabbits by lantern light one evening outside with Annie chattering nervously as there were many bears and cougars around. When Annie saw a shadow pass between two buildings, she screamed, Bob cat and ran for the house When she came back with the gun it was to find Lizzie beating Tim on the ground and he laughing as hard as he could It took them an hour to find the knives by lantern light

When we came from the States we had five horses, one of these was a pacer a lovely horse – some relation of Don Patch. We never knew how Pop got him but he came home late one night in Illinois and had this lovely horse He never stole him because no one ever hung him for it He was a pacer and if you tightened the reins nothing ever passed him, not even J C Adams 1919 Model-T car Of course our roads weren't speed ways. That corduroy by the Horseguard Creek on Number 11 was like a rough roller coaster Mr Lessing bought the horse and he ran in Bill Farquharson's pasture till he was over 30 years old

We had two cows when we came to Alhambra but had to let them go for groceries and we were without a cow for nearly two years. In 1916 it was cold and wet and the gardens were poor Pop went out to the prairies to harvest He was gone a long time. Our homestead house had no upstairs till about 1917 then that was better We had more room but the stove pipe went just through the floor above. One morning someone left clothes by the pipe and the upstairs caught on fire Grandpa had just come over to see us about something and ran upstairs with the water pail and threw that on then threw the "thunder mug" on it and Pop came running in from the barn with two big pails of milk and that went on it too. We got it out! Mother lost her three beautiful hats and some clothes and the pane was out of the window but we didn't have to move out We were sure lucky

No one lived closer than three miles and we had muskegs to cross to get out We had moose and deer to eat quite often and also ducks and prairie chicken. Pop hunted enough lynx, muskrats and coyotes to get a start in the blacksmith shop in Alhambra. We were too far from school and the roads were terrible so had to carry an axe and a saw to cut the trees out of the road if the wind blew The trees were sure thick and tall. By the time we got established the war was well on and they wouldn't take Pop – he had too many kids – but a lot of homesteaders had gone to war or left the country for easier places

Dave Howard lived between the big and small muskeg lakes and he made bricks. Our well was cribbed with the coal. Grandpa's well was cribbed with stone. We both had well houses and they were dark and cool to keep things in. When we went to town it was an all day ordeal because to Alhambra there were about six gates and to Rocky Mountain House there were 17 but by 1918 the roads were getting a little organized, before that we just went from farmyard to farmyard I don't think Pop did much road work for his taxes but after 1920 a lot of people did. I'm not too sure how much the taxes were, but men and horses scratched away with old skinny horses and old wagons trying to battle the muskegs There were a lot of people who came here to get freedom and didn't have any idea how to hitch or drive a horse, use an axe or shovel and couldn't sharpen an axe Their fence rails looked like a beaver had cut them off Our Grandpa was a real woodsman his axes were razor sharp and it took so much less time and effort A lot of people drove their horses one-half a horse ahead of the other The traces were not the same length, but they were hooked to the last link, one would be tight, the other nearly dragging on the ground. In the late winter and spring of 1919 there was a shortage of hay People came for miles to our place for hay Dad sold it for $10 per wagon box load. They would cover it with blankets so people would not see what they were hauling

On the homestead we learned to tan hides and to make our own lye. We had a hopper like you put poplar wood ashes into and poured rain water over that what came out the bottom was lye that bleached our clothes

We moved to Alhambra in April, 1921, and just got there and had measles, so couldn't get to school for another six weeks by the time it got through all of us Jessie and Annie had had only about four months of schooling by then as the Arbutus school only stayed open for a little while in the summer So when we got to school in Alhambra there was a school for about 28 children and when they all came, which wasn't very often there were 45, three in a double seat I was only eight and all that mass of kids sure astounded me. I will never know how the teachers got things across with all those kids and eight grades and three or four years difference in the ages in each grade. Some kids started when they were five and others not till they were eight or nine My teachers at Alhambra were Miss Foss, Mrs Patterson Miss Crawford Miss Clark, Mr Moir Miss Thorpe and Mr Hicks

Pop was the blacksmith not far from the school and real strict with us. If we did anything wrong someone would tell him, then look out! In 917 Mr Bill Bisset had a store then that burned down. We got smallpox from him in February 918. That was bad! Then Charlie Raine built a big store with a dance hall above with a stage and a grand piano. He got a Delco plant in 1921. Sam Emmerson built a store about 1919, and Mr Lessing a drug store about 1922. There was a pool room on the side of Charlie Raines store till 1923 then Joe Sullivan built a bungalow up where the Post Office is now. Mrs. Bill Wallace was a dress-maker and had some dry goods in a small building just south of Charlie Raine's store then Addy's had the hotel with seven rooms upstairs. A restaurant was just over by the new pool room. There was a butcher shop just north of Charlie Raine's store that hadn't been open very long. A chop house where you got your grain ground was just behind Charlie Raine's and there was a racetrack in the shed behind Wallaces. Mr Wallace was a conductor for the C.P.R. They had a farm just northeast. Well, on the night of April 29, 1924 Jessie had to have a drink of water and she heard a noise and looked out of the window and that hall above Raine's store was in flames. We all tore down there and the Wallaces had only gotten out in their night clothes. There were five children. The store, the floor in the pool hall, the flour shed, Wallace's store, the butcher shop, the chop house and the tractor all went. We didn't have much town left. The wind was from the southeast, otherwise most of the town would have gone. It seemed the 29th of April was a disaster for that place. A couple of times since there have been fires on that day. Then on the 29th of May, the little Lavchfassel two-year old granddaughter got lost and she was found the next day about noon.

The train came by Monday, Wednesday and Friday, anytime between five and 10 o'clock and went back next morning at five. We had pretty good mail service. Every Friday night people would come to town and wait for the mail to get sorted. It was in the corner of Sam Emmerson's store. That store would be packed with people waiting and sometimes they would eat peanuts till the shells covered the floor. In the early twenties, a sugar shortage occurred. One time we had company for supper and ran out of sugar so Maggie and I had to run and get some. She was too shy to ask for it so I had to. Pop said to tell Sam, "I'll be down and pay after supper." He had refused to give anyone sugar without the cash. He looked over his glasses and the counter at me and I said, "Popple wants some sugar" and he said, "Have you got the cash?" I didn't know what cash was and being me never said, "No" in my life hardly. I said, "Yes", so he put the sugar on the counter. I grabbed it and said, "Popple'll pay you after supper" and was out the door before he could say anything. The folks didn't know about it for about three months but those farmers, I guess, learned how to get sugar.

Before the Raine hall burned, we had our Christmas concerts and gatherings in there and had the two Mrs. Callings to play that grand piano, which was wonderful. Then the Christmas after that, 1924, we had to have it in a hall Roy Addy had built about ¼ block east of the school. The weekend before Christmas it started to snow and it snowed till Monday. The snow was nearly waist deep on us kids. We went to school because it was just past the shop. We got the fire started and the teacher and we were the only ones there till Thursday and Friday night was the concert. No one came to town till Wednesday and the train came out on Thursday behind the snowplow. That concert was the poorest we ever had, about one third of the kids didn't come and those who did hadn't practiced for a week. I think that was the year we all got calendar thermometers for Christmas and late in January this lady came in and said, "Sam, have you another calendar? Mine froze and broke." He said, "You shouldn't have put it outside." She said, "I didn't. It was in our house. It was only 10 below."

In the early 20s there was a post yard in Alhambra where Emmerson and Raine bought wood props and posts and stored them just east of town. There was a cattle loading chute and corral. That yard would be full by spring sometimes right up by the station. You would drive up to the store and the man would come out, mark the end of every stick with a colored chalk and give you credit on your grocery bill.

Tim Kirby's first shop in Alhambra was about where Mushka's house is. It was an old black building with a big black poplar in front of the door. Pop would come out and stand under it and we would say, "Under the spreading chestnut tree ..." He was there till 1928. We got a 1917 Overland car in 1923. There were quite a few cars in the district. Everyone went along 'cause you all had to push through all the mud holes. There again you had to carry an axe.

The Kirbys moved to the Ahlstrom farm from 1928 to 1934, then they went to Rocky Mountain House and he was the blacksmith there the rest of his life. Mrs. Kirby learned the trade. She worked in the shop all through the 1939 to 1945 war and said that using the acetylene torch wasn't half as hard as using a broom or mop under the bed.

The five oldest boys are blacksmiths and mechanics and the youngest is a cook in the Late in 1924, Harvey Anderson, a grain buyer came to Alhambra and built an elevator. It took a long time to build, but was an asset. Fred Mushka was the section man and sure a wonderful person. If we could all be like him this world would be a wonderful place.

In about 1922, Mr. Tomsick from Arbutus came to our school with his trained dog, and put on a show for us. He also had a few shows in the Raine hall. We would all march down two by two to the hall. He took the dog on a tour all through the States and later sold him in California.

Temple Crawford started us playing basket ball in the summer of 1924. We had a pretty good basketball team. All the girls had to bring 10 or 15 cents to buy the ball and the bladder to go inside

HARRIS, THE JAY L. AND JESSIE FAMILY — By Jessie Harris

Jay Louis Harris was born at Silver Creek Nebraska, U.S.A. in a little sod house on October 21 1899. His mother passed away in April, 1900 so his grandparents took him and raised him as their own. In 1903, they came to Ponoka, Alberta where they took a homestead about 12 miles north of Rimbey near Spring Dale. While Jay lived with them, Grandpa Woods did land breaking for customers with oxen. In 1912, Grandpa Woods passed away. Jay then went to Ponoka where he lived with an aunt and went to school for a short time. Then he worked in and around Ponoka he hauled coal to the asylum for a while.

Following that he went on horseback to Lougheed where he worked as a farm hand for farmers in that area for a few years. While in the district, he met Jessie Kirby and they were married in 1926. Jay and Jessie have three children, Irvin born in 1928, farms north of Rocky Mountain House. Wilma Mrs. DeCoteau, lives on an acreage on the home place and Leslie is a mechanic and drives a "cat". In the fall they moved to Alhambra where Jay worked for Tim Kirby for a year. The following winter he hauled saw logs and worked for Pete Peterson at his saw mill.

In the spring of 1930, he rented the Bob Speedie farm, N½ 25-38-6-W5 and farmed there for seven years. The crops were good but some wheat sold as low as 17c a bushel and 200-pound pigs sold for $4 a head! In the fall of 1931, after threshing a little cyclone blew over the house blowing down the radio pole; also it blew the roof off a granary, carried it about 60 feet and deposited it on the straw stack. Jay's father lived with them for seven years.

In 1939, he bought the old J. C. Adams homestead SW 1-39-6-W5 that was where the old Horseguard store and post office had been from 1909 to 1915. Clearing this land meant a lot of hard work with horses and grub hoe. Then later clearing was done with a caterpillar tractor when money permitted.

Now, Jay and Jessie live in Rocky Mountain House, where Jay works part-time running the car-wash for Pidherney.

ADDY THE BOY AND ANNIE FAMILY

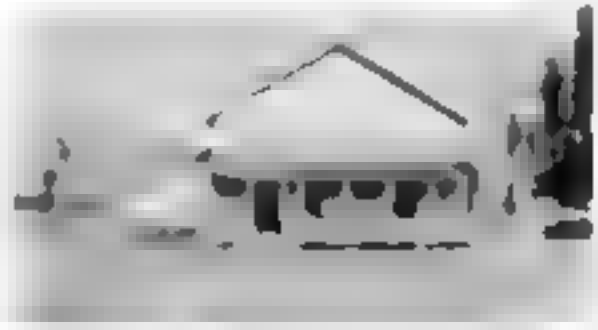
Roy left Ontario in 1903 and worked his way west arriving in Alberta in 1905 where he homesteaded north of Condor. One Christmas Eve he and a neighbor bachelor Joe Nelson decided to steal a chicken from a neighbor family. While Joe stole the chicken, Roy went to the house and kept the family busy, but when he went into the house he "chickened" out and told the family that he thought someone was stealing a chicken. The family of course, caught Joe and invited the two of them to have Christmas dinner with them. Waldos bought his homestead in the 1930's.

Warren (Reilly) Addy homesteaded in the Horseguard area a few years after that, and Roy bought his farm when Warren decided to leave the country and go to Arizona, where he died a few years later. Roy and his mother lived on that farm and later sold it to Laughlin MacDonald and it is now owned by Tom Lund.

Roy built a hotel in Alhambra in 1919-20. The store was built in 1926, but was first used as a dance hall. He married Annie Kirby in January 1923. They lived in the hotel and had four children. Louisa was born in Mrs. Porter's nursing home in Eckville in December 1929. Jean was born at home in July, 1931 as was Evan in July 1933 and Arran in May 1935.



Louisa began school in 1936 with Miss Sande teaching her for all of her school years in Alhambra except for 1941 when Miss Kennedy taught. Jean began in 1937 with Miss Sande teaching her for all of her school years in Alhambra with the exception of 1941 when she had Miss Stagg from Nordegg. Evan began school in 1940 with Miss Sande the first year followed by Mrs. Fleming of Rocky Mountain House, and Mrs. Stollings of Alhambra until 1945-46 when he had Mrs. Sunde nee Sande again. Arran began school in 1941 with Mrs. Peggy Scott followed by Mrs. Stollings until 1947. Annie took Louisa and Jean to Red Deer in 1945 to finish their education.

Roy died on June 25, 1947 at the age of 62 years. Two years later Annie and the children bought the Telephone Office in Rocky Mountain House. In 1952 Annie sold the Telephone Office and after several years of office work, opened her first Fabric Shop in the Old Pewonka building now Link Furniture. When expansion was necessary she moved from there to the Old Town Police Office. At the same time she organized and managed the Frosty Peak Drive In and Restaurant. The last expansion of the Fabric Shop took her to the W. J. Hall. When it became necessary to expand again, she sold to Winnie Chevalier and began Ann's Flea Market which she still operates.

Louisa began working at the Imperial Bank when Annie bought the Telephone Office and worked there until she married Vernon Bergnolli in 1952 and moved to his farm in the Dovercourt area. They have four children Deborah born in 1953, Barbara born in 1957, Roy born in 1958, and Robert born in 1966

Jean worked at the weather office for three years and at the Treasury Branch for another three years before marrying Donald Bertagnoli and moving to his farm in the Dovercourt area They have five children. Rebecca, born in 1956 and married in 1977 to Dale Soppit of Rocky Mountain House — they live in Malta. Joe was born in 1957 and married Joanne Bergos of Bowden. They reside in Edmonton where they are continuing their education. Clark, born in 1959, is in college in Red Deer Karen born in 1961, and Mark born in 1963. They are both at home and attending school in Rocky Mountain House

Evan went to school for two years in Rocky Mountain House and was involved in the army cadets and later the Reserve Army He went to Wainwright with the reserve army and worked on the switchboard there for a year in 1951-52 From there he went to the Red Deer telephone office as central office man. He married Marian Penner of Red Deer in 1956. They have three children, Diane was born in 1959 and is now training for a nurse in Edmonton, where Evan was transferred in 1968. Heather was born in 1962 and is in high school in Edmonton and their chosen son Christopher is six years old. Evan has been employed by A. G. T for 25 years and is now staff supervisor

Arran finished his school in Rocky Mountain House, where he was involved with the army cadets and later with the reserve army He worked with A. G. T in Red Deer from 1956 58. He began the first Frosty Peak Drive-In in Rocky Mountain House in 1958 which he sold in 1966 to Leon LeCerf From there he went to Can Aviation Electronics where he was employed as a radar technitchian, on the construction of the DEW line. Then with A. G. T and Calgary Power in Calgary which he left in 1975 and began his own Tele-Communications business in Calgary under the name of Del-Tronics which he is still associated with. In 1975 he married Betty Persaude of Guyana, South America In 1976 he bought a motel in Florida and spends most of his time there

KUBIK, KEN AND SUSAN FAMILY

The Ken Kubik family came to the Ashambra community in 1966. They lived on a small spot on the farm of Brian Sloan for six years. They then purchased an acre of land from George Loomer and in 1974 they purchased the rest of the acreage. At this time Ken, Susan and three children, Cynthia, Donna and Jody are residing on the small acreage in the hamlet of Ashambra

LITTLE HORSEGUARD SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Little Horseguard School District was established February 24, 1911 comprising of the following lands Sections 8, 9, 10, 15, 16, 17 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, and 34, the E½ 19-38-5 W5 Section 36, E½ 25-38-6 W5. Mr J B. Olson of Pitcox, Alberta was Senior Trustee

Approval was given April 20, 1911 for a school site selected by the Board of Trustees of the Little Horseguard School District, situated one quarter of a mile west of SE 29-38-5-W5

The sum of $1000 was borrowed April 24, 1911 upon the security of the Little Horseguard School District, for the purpose of building and equipping a school house The treasurer was Mr H. P Hicks of Evarts Authorization was given to alter the name of the Little Horseguard School District No. 2377 to Horseguard School District No. 2377, on July 13 1950.

The downstairs of the George Walsh log house was used as a temporary school for a few months. The teacher was Chester Plank from Nova Scotia and when he went back there for Christmas he died of a heart attack. When the Little Horseguard School was opened in 1912 the first teacher was Hiram P Hicks Other teachers were: Mr Chadsey, Mrs. Davis, Mr E Quantz, Mr Leving, Mr C. Springbett, Miss Anderson, Miss Jackson, Miss Carson, Miss A Cook, Miss V Jenson, Miss Mae Blair Miss A Clark, Miss L. Spencer Mr H. McCullough, Mr Jardine Mr Hayhoe, Mrs. R Betker, Mrs F G Patterson Irene Martin—supervised correspondence lessons Mrs. Bligh

The sale of the site and building was approved July 26, 1962 located on the SE-29-38-5-W5

THE LOOMER FAMILY — C. A. (Ted) and Mena (Dutch), Grant and George

In November 1934 we moved from the Bindiang area to the Washington Heights School district. We bought a ¼ section in that area. It was very dry on the prairie with lots of wind and dust storms, so we were glad to move to a district where we would get more moisture. And of course, we did get lots of rain! We went through all the hardships of a pioneer family: not enough acres under cultivation for grain and of course early frosts.

We had good gardens but just the basic vegetables. It was too cool at nights for the fussy vegetables: we never grew tomatoes or cucumbers as they always froze.

Most everyone in the area had just moved into the district and we were very pressed for cash but we all worked hard.

Ted did a lot of road work for contractors and worked in the woods during the winter. The pay was not very good in those days but every dollar was a help. He finally got on a job with the government crushing gravel.

We had a boy born to us when we were on the farm. Grant was a darling baby. We enjoyed him.

In the spring of 1941 we had a sale and moved into Rocky Mountain House and bought a house so made our home there.

In February of 1942 George was born, another lovely boy. During the summer of 1942 we went out with Ted. We bought a small trailer house and we lived in camp. It was very crowded but we were all together, although camp life wasn't very good in which to bring up a family.

The crusher was moved to the northern part of the province and I cooked for the crew. We had lots of moves, only had the same camp for three to four months, and we lived in tents the year round. We quit the government job in early 1951 and moved back to Rocky Mountain House. Then Ted bought the farm of Robert Reid at Alhambra and we have lived here ever since.

The boys finished their schooling at Alhambra, Rocky Mountain House and David Thompson. We have enjoyed the district. I was on the community hall committee for several years. It has been a good district. The boys both played ball and were very active at hockey.

Grant married Lorain Bardenhagen from Eckville in June, 1961. They had two sons, Bradley and Kelly, born in 1962 and 1964.

After George quit school he worked for an oil company as battery operator for a few years. In July 1964 he married Heather Smith and they bought the Stollings property in Alhambra and lived there for several years. They have three sons, Derek, Roger, and Trevor, also very interested in sports. When Heather's dad retired George and Heather bought some of his land on which they built a house and are now farming. They sold their property in Alhambra to Ken Kubik.

We retired from the farm in 1971 and bought a house in Alhambra where we now live.

Grant, our oldest son, has taken over the farm. Both boys have been active members of the community, serving on the hall board, etc.

LUND, HELGE AND ISABELLE AND OLE LUND — by John Thomas (Tommy) Lund

In 1906 Helge Lund and Ole Lund came from Coal Harbor, North Dakota, to this district in search of land. Helge homesteaded on the NE 30 38-5-W5 and Ole homesteaded the SE¼ of the same section.

In the spring of 1907 they moved here from the USA. Ole was unmarried, but Helge had a wife, Isabelle, and seven children. They were: Hilda 12, Charlot and Herbert (twins) nine, Sophie seven, Olga five, Alfred three, and Marie one. The family lived in Red Deer for about six weeks while the men built a log house (which still stands) on the bank of the Little Horseguard Creek on the homestead. In 1908 another son, Otto, was born being the first white child born in this district. Later on twin girls, Nina and Christine, and finally another son, Tommy, were added to the family.

In 1909 the eldest girl, Hilda, returned to South Dakota as there was no school here at that time. She still lives there, now 82 years of age. Helge passed away in 1916 and Ole returned to the U.S. where he died in 1920. Helge's family took over Ole's land. In 1921 the mother Isabelle died. The second girl, Charlot, had died in the Flu epidemic in 1918. Her twin brother Herbert lived here on the farm until he died in [illegible].

Sophie became a stenographer working in Calgary where she married Herbert Bonham. They stayed in Calgary a number of years, then moved to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan and later to Winnipeg. He died several years ago and Sophie still lives there.

Olga also was a stenographer working in Calgary. She and Sophie also took the younger children there to look after them after their mother's death. In 1926 Olga married the Lutheran minister who was serving this district at that time. They lived in Alhambra until 1928 when he was transferred to Spirit River. Later they moved to Mellowdale where Olga died in 1945.

Alfred spent most of his life in this district farming and sawmilling. He served overseas in the war and after coming back bought a farm 3½ miles northwest of Alhambra where his son, Leo, still farms. Alfred died in 1971.

Marie became a school teacher and taught in various places in Alberta. In 1936 she married Charlie Wilson and moved to West Summerland, B.C. Later she moved to Murrayville, B.C. and died there in 1970.

Otto lived in the U.S.A. from 1925 to 1938. He served overseas during the war and worked as a sawyer in some lumber camps west of Rocky Mountain House and on the farm after returning. He died in 1969

After finishing school Nina took a job with the Bank of Montreal in Calgary. After several years she transferred to Vancouver, British Columbia and remained with the bank until she retired in 1966. She now lives in Victoria.

Christine went in for nursing. During the war she became a nursing sister and served overseas. After returning she worked for the V.O.N. for a year or so then took a Bible course at Three Hills and in 1948 she went to Ethiopia as a missionary nurse where she served until 1975. She is now matron of the senior citizens' lodge at Manning, Alberta.

Apart from attending school three years in Calgary, Tommy has lived his entire life on the farm here. In 1937 he married Elizabeth MacDonald. They have four children. Tyrone, the eldest, farms with Tom and they have acquired several of the neighboring farms. Curtis, the second son, is a school teacher and lives in Edmonton. He married Sonja Nyback of Camrose and they have four children. Sharlene, the only girl, married Orlen von Hoven and they also live in Edmonton where Orlen teaches. They have two daughters. Mark, the youngest, is at home attending David Thompson High School.

The winter of 1919-20 was the most severe one there has ever been since the white man settled here. The snow became so deep that many fences were completely covered and you could drive right over them. It stayed very cold through March and April and the snow did not start to melt until the first week of May. Of course, then it turned so warm the snow melted very fast causing the worst floods we have ever had. Most of the land was completely under water. P. O. Peterson built a boat at his place and was able to launch it right there and row it almost a mile across country to the Horseguard Creek. With the spring being so late feed became extremely scarce and many horses and cattle in the district simply starved to death. Hay was selling for over $100 per ton if you could find any to buy and very few people had that kind of money at that time. A lot of families only had an income of three or four hundred dollars a year.

There was no school in the district until 1912 when the "Little Horseguard School" was built. Hiram Hicks was the first teacher. He had a homestead 1 mile south of the school. He was killed in the First World War.

Until the 1920s the school operated on a very irregular basis as they could not collect enough from taxes to pay a teacher full time and there was no such thing as government grants at that time.

In 1914 the Lund family attended the Rocky Mountain House fair. They won a prize for having the largest family in attendance. The prize was a 100 lb. sack of flour!

As a young boy the two outstanding events I recall each year were the school Christmas concert and the July 1st sports day held at Alhambra. We would always compete in the races and hopefully win at least a nickel to buy an ice

In the early years several families in the district would often congregate on a Sunday afternoon at some farm where they had a hay field comparatively smooth on which they could organize a baseball game.

A Lutheran minister started holding services in the Horseguard School in 1912. The first years these services were very irregular and far apart. By 1917 they did become more regular although still at least a month apart as the minister lived at Sylvan Lake and had to come out here with team and buggy or cutter depending on the time of year. In 1924 a parsonage was built in Alhambra and Rev. August Fenske moved in, then services were held in the school twice a month. Rev. Fenske and the minister who succeeded him also served other congregations farther away while living here. These church services were held in the Horseguard School regularly until 1951 when a Lutheran church was built on Highway 11 one half mile east of the Alhambra corner. The land on which this church was built was donated by Havelock Sloan. Rev. A. Reiner was the minister here at that time. He was followed by Rev. Paul Gurbert, Rev. George Derwig, Rev. Edwin Lehman, and Rev. Wm. Kronen. By this time it had become very obvious that in order for the church to grow it would have to move into Rocky Mountain House as many people had left the farms. In 1970 a new Lutheran church was built in Rocky Mountain House and the one on Highway 11 was disposed of.

Prior to the building of the church on the highway in March of 1931 the men of the congregation here along with some interested neighbors got together and cut logs which P. O. Peterson sawed and planed at his sawmill for the purpose of building a church. An acre of land had been obtained on the SE corner of 31-38-5-W5 just a few hundred yards east of the Horseguard school for this purpose. However by this time the Depression had really taken over and it was impossible to raise money to go ahead with construction. A few years later this lumber was sold as it was starting to deteriorate and the money was put into a "church building fund" and it was used to help build the church on the highway.

In the fall of 1935 we bought our first car, a 1929 Pontiac for which we paid $350. This seemed like a big step forward as prior to that we had to get around on horseback or with a team or for greater distances, get a ride with someone who had a car.

It was after the last war before cars were used much in the winter as none of the side roads were snow-ploughed so became impassable.

In the spring of 1945 we bought our first tractor. Up to this time we did all our farming with horses, usually working from six to twelve of them.

Yes, there have been many changes and improvements since my folks homesteaded here a little over seventy years ago. But the land that my father and uncle took are two of the very few quarter sections that are still registered under the same last name that was on the original titles

THE IVER LUND FAMILY — by Evelyn MacDonald

The Iver Lund family came to the Little Horseguard district in 1907. The nearest place to get supplies was Red Deer, with the Lund homestead being the stopping place between Evarts and Rocky Mountain House. My grandmother's patchwork quilts and butter took prizes at the annual Rocky fair. Grandpa Iver Lund died in 1915. My first memory of a big social gathering was his funeral. All the neighbors always came to funerals to pay their last respects. The coffins were homemade and the women covered and lined them with cloth. Grandma was also the midwife for the district having at times to go on horseback on account of the bad muskeg roads. If one dropped into her place, if only for a minute, he might as well relax until he'd had a cup of coffee and a bit of lunch. The teachers always boarded there as long as she was able to care for them. She died in 1941 a sad day for all of us.

My uncle, Henry Lund, came up with the family, he could always tell you about the best fishing holes and the best part of the country to hunt wild game. After Grandma died Henry sold the home farm to my brother Josh and moved out west where he operated a sawmill for quite a bought Mrs. M. Eritsland's place and lived there until he passed away in 1973.

MARTIN, THE ANGUS L. AND SVANHILD FAMILY

Angus L. (Bud) Martin was born in Rocky Mountain House, Alberta, December 29, 1913. In 1915, he moved to the Ridgewood District with his parents where they were farming. Also he had five uncles farming in the same area. He took his early schooling at Ridgewood. In 1926, he moved with his parents to Lesliеville, where he went to school for a time. He says, "in one door and out the other." He recalls skidding logs at a lumber camp, that his Dad operated south-west of Phoenix in 1928-29. In 1930, he came to the Beaver Flat District with the family and in 1935 he started farming on his own, section 29-39-5-W5. His brother Ken, came to work with him and they ran the operation together. Bud spent several winters working in the lumber camps, while Ken did the work on the farm.

In 1947, Bud married Svanhild Sande, and in 1948, Ken married Irene Mushka. They all lived on the farm north of Alhambra that Bud and Ken operated. As well as farming, they had milk cows, range cattle and pigs, which kept them all occupied. In 1953, Ken and family moved to the other land that was purchased and each ran his own operation.

Before marrying Bud, Svanhild was secretary-treasurer of the Beaver Flat School District No. 1914 for a few years, then she worked as a receptionist for Dr. R. S. Wallin, Red Deer. When her sister, Anna, resumed teaching in Alhambra school, Svanhild lived at the Sunde home, taking care of the children, Allan, Sonja and Audrey.

Bud's and Svanhild's only child, Joyce, was born in Rocky Mountain House and attended school there. She attended David Thompson High school where she graduated. Then she worked on the farm before getting a position in Rocky Mountain House. She is presently employed in Calgary.

A few years ago, they moved into their new house on the other quarter. By now, they were established in their "cow-calf" operation, which involves growing hay and grain, and doing a lot of fencing. Several 4-H Beef Club members have bought their prize winning calves from Svanhild and Bud, which shows they have a fine herd of Hereford cattle.

KEN AND IRENE MARTIN AND FAMILY

Ken Martin was born in Red Deer, Alberta May 23, 1925, the son of Angus and Mattie Martin, who at that time were farming in the Ridgewood district west of Penhold. In 1926 he moved with his parents to Leslieville and in 1930 moved to the Beaver Flat district. He took all his schooling in the one room school at Beaver Flat. Leaving school at the end of June 1940 he helped his Dad on the farm at Ridgewood for two years. The farming was all done with horses and the summer of 1941 at 16 years of age he plowed 120 acres of hay sod with 12 head of horses pulling a three bottom plow. The winter of the same year he worked in a lumber camp for Wm. C. McDougall hauling logs with a sleigh and four head of horses. In 1942 he started farming with his brother Bud, in the Beaver Flat district.

Ken and Irene Mushka were married November 19, 1948 at Alhambra. Irene Mushka was born July 25, 1927 the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mushka, early settlers of the Alhambra district. Her father was section foreman for the C.P.R. since the start of the railway in this area until his retirement. In December 1952 Irene took all her schooling at Alhambra and High School at Sylvan Lake for two years and one year at Rocky Mountain House.

Ken and Irene lived on and farmed NW-29-39-5-5 from 1948 to 1953 when they moved to NE-20-39-5-5 which they purchased from Joe and Nancy McGhee the fall of 1952 and are still living there at the present time. They are also still farming

House January 20, 1965. Jean attended school at Alhambra, Lesliеville and David Thompson High School graduating in June 1969. The fall of 1969 she attended Olds School of Agriculture graduating in June 1970. She then worked in the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Rocky Mountain House for one year. In 1971, along with a girl from Acme, Alberta with whom she had gone to school at Olds, she went to Australia and for the next three years she worked her way a... over Australia and New Zealand doing [illegible] ng from working in offices to working on a large cattle ranch in Australia. then finished up working with a sheep shearing gang which travelled all over both the north and south Islands of New Zealand. She spent a short time in Suva, Fiji Islands, before returning home to Canada in 1974. At the present time she is working in Edmonton. Marilyn is still at home and attending school at Lesliеville.

As well as farming, Ken worked several winters in a lumber camp for Art Fisher of Rocky Mountain House. The fall of 1954 he started working for the Prairie Farm Assistance Branch of Federal Department of Agriculture as a crop inspector. In 1963 he was appointed assistant supervisor of P F A. under supervisor Ken Geddes of Amance, Alberta. During this time he travelled the area from the Saskatchewan border as far west as there were farmers in the central portion of Alberta. He finished this work the fall of 1974 when the P F A. department was phased out and replaced with Agri Rusk Crop In[illegible]

During this 20 years of seasonal work the late fall and winter chores were done by Irene and was quite a hardship on her especially when the children were small as they always had quite a good sized herd of cattle and milked some cows as well as raising some hogs. She always said it was a good thing their children were 14 years apart otherwise she couldn't have done it. In the spring of 1957 Ken started clerking auction sales for Clyde Stauffer of Evarts, Alberta and has clerked sales for several different auctioneers west of Red Deer. Clyde Stauffer retired from auctioneering in 1965 and he then started clerking with Russell Cole of Rimbey. In June of 1966 Russell Cole opened Cole's Auction Mart at Rocky Mountain House and Ken has been his clerk there since the day of the Mart opening until the present time. During this time he has donated his time to clerk many charity auction sales for different organizations the main ones being the Auctioneers' Association sales for Retarded Children and 4-H Calf Club sales for many years. But he says, 'Once a farmer always a farmer' so is still farming. He says he is a "Jack of All Trades and Master of None.

McGOWAN, MARYANN CAMERON

Maryann Cameron McGowan (Granny McGowan) left Scot and in the early 1920's and lived with her daughter Mrs. Jack Poplitt for a short while. Then she kept house for Mr. D. Fagg who homesteaded the SE 23-39-6-W5 west of Alhambra. After he died she lived there by herself for many years.

In Scotland she was a dentist's assistant. She attended at the births of many babies both in the Old Country and in the area where she settled here. Granny worked hard on the farm, but she also found time to help her neighbours.

She moved into the hamlet of Alhambra to spend her last years. On April 2, 1955, she passed away in the St. Joseph's Hospital, Edmonton, at the age of 94 years.

McGOWAN ARCHIE CAMERON AND MARGARET

Archie Cameron McGowan born in 1894 came to Canada from Scotland in 1920. His wife Margaret born in 1892 and their four daughters followed in 1923, arriving in Alhambra September 21 and the snow was very deep. They got off the train west of Alhambra at what was known as Poll.t's Crossing. The family stayed with their father's sister Mrs. J Pol tt for three days, then moved to the Dave Welsh farm north of Alhambra. Lizzie and Jessie went to Alhambra School with Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson as their teacher. On this farm they had their first experience in handling animals. They bought a cow from J Polllt named Rosy which they had to learn to milk. In the spring of 1924 they moved to the farm one mile west. Here Jessie had her first experience in handling horses. It was a team of heavyweight grey mares Jess and Dina that were purchased from Harry Hambleton. At this time Lizzie worked for Mrs Addy Sr at the hotel so it was up to Jessie to do the chores and put up the wood for winter. Then they moved to a house that was across the road from Polllt's. Here the first Canadian McGowan was born Archie Cameron, on August 11, 1924. In the spring of 1925 they moved to the Retiley place, south-east of W Hambleton. Lizzie and Jessie walked three and one half miles to Beaver Flat School where Mrs C N Beebe was the teacher. There were times when they had to walk through water to their knees to get to school as the roads were impassable and they had to go through Hambleton s field. When Mary started school Miss Wade was their teacher.

One incident that Jessie remembers well was when Mary took sick at school and the teacher sent her home at 10 o'clock in the morning. When Jessie got out of school in the afternoon she found Mary sitting in the ditch a little way from the school. Jessie carried her nearly all the way home. That was on a Thursday and on Saturday the parents took Mary to the doctor in Rocky Mountain House Dr Wm Hill, who later became Chief Medical Officer of Calgary, examined her and held up the C.N.R. train to send her to Red Deer on a stretcher. She just got there when her appendix burst. The mother had to be away for two weeks so Jessie had to care for Margaret and Archie, do the housework and the chores. Mrs. W. Hambleton came and helped on and baked the bread. The father at this time was away helping the Patersons bale hay around the country. In fact he was working away a lot of the time leaving the family to take over the work of the farm.

Among the many seemingly incredible feats for a young girl only five feet tall that were done by Jessie, apart from chores, were: cut brush and wood — build chicken house and barn — broadcast seed for greenfeed — cut trees and trimmed them, measured them and took them to be sawed into two by fours, slabs and flat lumber — hewed logs-built houses to live in — worked out taxes on road building — broke in horses — — nt on range cow round-ups — drove a bundle team on a threshing outfit — dug wells and cribbed them, but the water was often stagnant so hauled water from elsewhere and ploughed fire guards.

The home the family lived in the longest Jessie was proud of having built, although her father got a carpenter to help with doors, windows and the roof. As protection against cold the logs were chinked outside with cow manure, and she cut long furrows of sod with the old Sulky plow and hauled them on a stoneboat and piled them all around the house three feet high. On the inside she put three layers of tarpaper, then two layers of white building paper and then slats placed in squares, and the house was warm. That house burned down in 1936 or 1937.

They lived almost entirely off the land — had a garden — always had cows for milk and butter sometimes butter was made by putting cream in a jam tin and shaking it — by the kids! — had chickens for eggs and meat. The mother sold butter to the train men and they got customers in Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House for her. The children all went picking wild fruit to sell — it was plentiful so pailsfull were sold to the train men and the customers that they found for them. The blueberries were all cleaned by the children before selling them. These sales made possible the buying of the necessary groceries and coal oil. Jessie used to catch prairie chickens or partridges in trees and their mother stewed them with vegetables. They ate enough rabbits to be completely turned against them. Jessie says that they never went hungry but there was no variety in the meals nor in the school lunches. The Sande girls helped to see that there was some variety in their school lunches. Jessie says they always shared their hot soup or stew with her and Mary that they were a very good family — Mrs Sande purposely put extra soup or stew in for them.

Something Jessie remembers was when her little brother Archie, sat in a pot of boiling potato peelings that her mother had just taken off the stove — she was in the habit of boiling the peelings to feed the pigs.

As one can see times were very hard and Jessie's life so far was so filled with hard work that she had no real girlhood, so in January, 1932 she left home to seek a happier way of life.

This has been mostly Jessie's story.

The complete family of Archie and Margaret McGowan are:

Lizzie born July 31, 1912 in Glasgow Scotland, married to George Farrington.

Jessie born May 3, 1916, in Glasgow Scotland married to Mr Duncan.

Mary born March 20, 1919, in Glasgow Scotland, married to William Peacock.

Margaret born January 9, 1921 in Glasgow Scotland, married to Mr Devore.

Archie Cameron born August 11 1924. Killed in Action July 18, 1944.

Peter Cameron born August 12, 1926.

Nellie Smith born August 8, 1928, married Wm Meyers. Nellie died August 11, 1975.

Edythe Harrison born August 23, 1930 married George Wood.

Lillian born April 30, 1935, married C. D Wilson.

The last five were born in the Alhambra district.

Their mother, Margaret McGowan died February 22, 1948, at age 56.

Their father Archie Cameron, died at age 72.

Mary and Margaret attended school at Beaver Flat and Alhambra. Walking home, a distance of four and one half miles, after participating in a Christmas concert one year they froze their face and hands. Have you ever worn icicle pants? Well, Mary and Margaret did on this cold night.

They both had to work hard at home helping with the chores in the mornings and evenings while going to school and in the summer they helped weed the big family garden. Their father who worked out, was injured on the job in 1929 and spent some time in a hospital in Edmonton. After his recovery he was transferred to Field B.C., as a watchman on the railway. With their father away it was left to the family to take care of the farm.

In 1943 Mary was united in marriage to William Peacock. Her sister, Margaret, is now Mrs Devore.

WILLER, ERASTUS — by Olive Rutherford, Dave Berryman and Lyle Sarsen

Father was born in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, in 1873. He was married to Alice Russell at Rockford, Illinois in 1895, and in 1897 brother

Russell was born. In 1901 came brother Albert. In 1907 sister Olive and in 1909 sister Edna arrived. The rest of our family was born in Alberta.

In 1909 our father, ERastus Miller, along with his young family and his three sisters with their husbands and families emigrated from U.S.A. to Alberta where they took homesteads in the Condor and Alhambra districts.

After filing on his homestead claim, Father rented land east of Red Deer for a year or so and worked as builders' helper with his brothers-in-law in Red Deer. He later hauled freight from Red Deer to Pitcox (later called Hespero) with a team and wagon. The times were hard, but our father was a patient man.

While living east of Red Deer we welcomed a new brother, Chester born in 1911 and two years later 1913, a girl, Martha, arrived, much to our

By this time a small house was built and we moved to the homestead. Work was started on the C.P.R. and Father and other members of the family took a contract to build two or three miles of grade between Condor and Alhambra as we remember this was done with both oxen and horses pulling scrapers and fresnos. The roads were very poor and winding from one ridge to another, with corduroy in the low places. Other homesteaders were scattered every few miles and were always ready to help each other in any way. We were especially close to the Frank Maxwell family, our aunt and uncle. They homesteaded two and one-half miles west of us and through all the years were always there to help and cheer us. Often in times of sorrow and illness our families helped each other.

In those early years Mother acted as a mid-wife and often had to change clothes outside behind the house, because the expectant father was inside in the one-room house "waiting till she was ready". The Blairs, Stockwells, Leshes, Coopers and Pykalainen wives were just a few of the settlers she attended. We children basked with Dad until she came home again.

We spent many happy evenings in those days gathered 'round the fires while Mother read to us or sang songs. Wild berries were plentiful, also prairie chicken and rabbits and our older brothers were good with snare and slingshot, which helped out with the food bill. At that time too, there was a lot of timber. In winter time our parents and the older boys cut fence posts, mine props and firewood which also helped to keep things going.

In 1915, Russell enlisted in the army and in a very short time was sent overseas. Albert too, tried twice to enlist, but was turned down because of his age as he was only 15 at the time. Disappointed, he came home and worked for a short time on the railway. Still not happy he returned to the States and joined the navy, where he served for the next five years.

Olive and Edna went to school at what was known as the Davidson House, where school was held at that time, for the first years. It was a four mile drive with the wagon and they were quite small.

Later a school was built northeast of us, three and one-half miles. It was called Prairie Rose. Olive, Edna and Chester all went to school there. Some years later it was moved to Condor and the younger members of the family also attended there. We older ones sometimes rode horseback. The three of us on a brown mare called Kate and sometimes we walked. It was hard to attend regularly in winter as there was not much traffic and the roads would drift full of snow.

In 1915, brother Fred was born. Mrs. Eastman, a nurse who lived two and one-half miles to the south of us, came and attended Mother. She was one of the finest people you could ever find and for many years, travelled the country wherever she was needed, in a one-horse buggy pulled by a chubby little black horse called P[illegible]. She and Mother were close friends over the years and many times we girls were sent to take her a pail of berries or to help her with the washing.

Early in 1917 brother Earl was born and that fall an epidemic of cholera came and many of the younger children died. We lost brother Fred and at the same time, came the wire that Russell was wounded in action. It was a very sad time for us all.

In 1919 Russell came home from overseas. He was married the same year to Alice Cottman and moved to Vancouver, where they made their home. They had three children, Harold, Lorraine, and Wally. Alice passed away in 1966 and Russell in 1972.

In 1921, sister Lyla was born. It was a cold rainy night in September. Olive and Edna were sent to take blue berries to Mrs. Bell, collect the money for them, then stop at the post office at Condor to pick up the C.O.D. order, which was the baby's clothes ordered from the Eaton's catalogue.

There wasn't much money in those days as we remember. Most of our dresses, pants, and petticoats and such, were made from flour sacks. Quite often we had pants with "Purity" or "Robin Hood" written across the seat.

In 1927, Olive was married to Alex Rutherford. They farmed for a few years at Alhambra then moved to Red Deer where they remained. They have one daughter, Audrey. Alex passed away in 1959.

Edna married Charlie Berryman in 1928. They had first a daughter, Joy, then four boys, Clyde, Earl, James and Allan. For some years they farmed at Condor, then moved to Whitecourt, where Charlie passed away in 1953.

In 1939, Martha married Ben Simpkin. They made their home at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan and were blessed with four sons, George, Timothy, Blaine and Steven. Ben passed away in 1976.

Lyla was married to Clyde [illegible]sia in 1940.

They lived for a while in Condor and later moved to Red Deer. Their family numbered three: Wendy, David and John. Clyde passed away in 1973.

In 1950, Chester married Thelma Prentice. They had a family of seven: Dorothy, Mary, Fred, Billie, Annie, Olive, and Phyllis. They made their home at Condor where Thelma and the children still live. Chester passed away in [illegible].

Brother Albert made his home in Seattle, Washington and passed away in 1942.

Earl served in the Second World War from 1942 to 1946. He returned home and farmed in the Alhambra district for several years. Mother made her home with him till her death in 1957. Earl's death came in 1967. Father died in 1938.

OH HERE COMES LIMPY

When I was a youngster out where the West begins
We went to town on mail-nights to watch the train come in All the folks would gather at Meeres' General Store
And sit a swappin' tales, till they heard somebody roar!

Chorus: Here comes Limpy. She's comin' down the line
Here comes Limpy. She shore is doin' fine
Her whistle is a-blowin' and her headlight is ash-ine
She done her level best to get the mail here on time

When I was a little older, along about sixteen
There was a little boy I liked, his name was Jimmy Dean
I sat with him one mail-night, he courted me a spell
But when I went to kiss him, he started in to yell

Chorus: Here comes Limpy

I remember once the preacher held a meetin' in the square
It was quite a gathering, most everyone was there.
He said, "Now when the organ plays, each sinner must step out,"
But the whole crowd started runnin' 'cause they heard somebody shout

Chorus: "Here comes Limpy

At Cousin Willie's weddin' it really was a joke
Everyone looked solemn and just the Preacher spoke
Now William, do you take, he said, "this woman for your bride?
But Will looked out the window and here is what he cried

Chorus: Here comes Limpy

My Uncle Ned got sick one day, we all thought he would die
Pa went for the Doctor and Ma began to cry
Uncle Ned just lay there, so feeble and so thin
Till Limpy blew her whistle, then he shouted out like sin

Chorus: "Here comes Limpy

Those days are gone forever now, Limpy is no more
We don't go for our mail, They bring it to the door
But sometimes I get lonely and would give up all my pay
If I could go to town again and hear somebody say

Chorus: Here comes Limpy

This is a poem written about the train that used to run between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House during the years I was growing up.

Lyla Miller Sarasin

THE FRANK MAXWELL FAMILY by Lyla Rutherford

My father and mother, Frank and Edna Maxwell, came to Alberta in 1909 with their family. They came from Beloit, Wisconsin, U.S.A. to Red Deer on an immigration train and brought along some horses, cattle, machinery and household effects. Father and my older brother, Harold, came in the cars with the stock while Mother and the rest of the family came in the coach as far as Red Deer.

There was no railroad going west at that time and the roads were winding trails following the high ridges. Father, along with his brother Bert and his brother-in-law Erastus Miller, went west to what is now Condor and Alhambra and filed on their homestead. I think at that time one paid $10 to file claim, then had to live on it six months of the year. One had to fence it and clear and plow 15 acres to prove up and get the title.

Father was a brick-layer and plasterer by trade and to make ends meet, he worked with his brother Bert, on quite a few of the brick houses on what was the called Victoria Ave. in Red Deer also on the W. E. Lord's house and the Old Cronquist house. Dad and Harold also hauled freight from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House. They also worked between Condor and Alhambra, building grade for the C.P.R.

For the first two or three years we rented land east of Red Deer as my brothers and I were all of school age and there were no schools close to the homestead.

Around 1912, Father had managed to build a small, two-roomed, tar-paper house on the homestead, and we moved west. There were six of us children in the family then: Harold, Lee, Esther, Lyla, Stanley and Clare. Alice was born in 1912 on the homestead. As I remember, Father and my brother cleared most of the land on the homestead by hand and broke it with horses. The first few years we grew only oats as the land was quite wet and the seasons were short. Later we raised rye and barley and, as more land was cleared and the land dried, we grew wheat Prices were poor Oats, hauled to Rocky Mountain House were six cents a bushel

Mother was often called upon to go when

As we were a long way from a doctor and hospital we had to rely greatly on one another My parents, however never lost their taste for many American things, such as green tea johnny cake, corn-meal mush and molasses cookies

Stanley Clare and I went to school at what was called the Davidson school opened in 1914 Later a school was built at Alhambra and we also attended school there. Alice, some years later attended the Alhambra school

The first teacher we had at the Davidson school was Mrs Ralph Patterson Next came Mrs. Ludwig, then Mrs Frank Patterson, also Myrtle Smith from Red Deer who later married Mr Markle who ran an electrical business in Red Deer Annie White from Red Deer was one of our teachers also. These teachers worked hard as at that time, they taught from Grades 1 to 8 At Christmas time each school had a concert at which the children did plays, sang songs and did recitations There was always a tree filled with gifts, candy and big red apples

In those first years we gathered at another's homes for sing songs, games and dancing. Later dances were held in school houses one every two weeks, sometimes in one school sometimes in another Often we drove ten or twelve miles with wagons, sleighs or went on horseback to attend them. Music was supplied by Mr Cruickshank or Mr Chisholm on the violin Sometimes Albert Miller played his mouth-organ and if an organ was handy, someone would chord At Alhambra for years, Mrs. Luyckfassell, played the accordian for such occasions. During the first Great War Years, Box and Pie Socials were held and the proceeds were used for the war effort. Red Cross and such

Every year on July 1, we had a celebration at Alhambra There were ball games and foot races for young and old, also tug-of-war Prizes were given to the winner and the children were given a candy bar whether they won or lost. Lunch was served on long tables Everyone brought food and shared even to home-made ice cream

In 1913, Harold returned to the States and brought back our Grandmother Maxwell, who made her home with us until her death in 1925 Harold returned to the States a year or so later married and made his home there He has five

In the year 1915, Lee went back to the States and served for two or three years in the army He later returned to Alberta and purchased a quarter of C P R. land two miles east of Father's place. He returned to the U S A. again 1923 and passed away in 1924

Esther married Frank Birch in 1916. They lived for a short time at Nordegg later moving to Edmonton, where they made their home. They had one daughter Marjorie Esther, who died in 195

In 1923, I was married to Edwin Rutherford We had four children Lee, Grace, Gordon and Alex We farmed for several years in the Alhambra district. Later, we moved to Red Deer where my husband, who was a painter by trade went into the painting business, until the time of his death in 1960

Stanley was married to Vera Truman around 1935. He remained on the home place and farmed with Dad and Clare. Later he bought land close to Rocky Mountain House, where they still live They have three sons

Alice married Jim Anderson about 1936. They lived for a short time at Alhambra and Rocky Mountain House then moved to Drumheller for a few years Later they moved to Lacombe where they settled. Jim still lives there, Alice passed away in 1976

Clare remained at home with Dad and Mother until they passed away, Dad in 1957 and Mother in 1959 After that Clare sold the home place and bought land close to Stanley where he made his home until his death in 1969

Edwin J Rutherford, born in Glasgow Scotland in 1888, came to Canda in 1906, where he worked on sheep ranches around Walsh, Alberta

In 1910, his brother Alex G. Rutherford followed. They both worked on ranches to enough money to send for their mother and sister until their mother's passing They then went into the Armed Forces.

After the war they moved to the Alhambra district, where they took up land

In 1923, Edwin married Lyla Maxwell. They had a family of four Edwin was secretary of the U F A for some time He moved to Red Deer in 1928, where he was a sign writer and a painter until his death in 1960

Their sister Mary, married James Lamble at Medicine Hat and later moved to Calgary where he worked for the C P R They had one daughter

In 1926, Alex moved to Vancouver B C where he worked on odd jobs. He married Olive Miller in 1927 Their daughter, Audrey, was born in 1930. He worked for the Standard Oil Company at Matpole until 1937

In the fall of 1937 he moved back to the Alhambra district with his family He bought the C P R quarter one and one half miles east of Alhambra where he lived until the late 40s when he moved to Red Deer where he resided until his passing in May, 1959

MUSHKA, FRED AND ZENA

Fred John Mushka was born September 15 1888 in Cashwoka, Wolyn, Poland. He served in the Polish army from 1909 to 1911 He married

Zena Maruik (a 1911, who was also born in Cashwoka Wolyn, Poland on November 13, 1891

On March 3, 1913, Fred J Mushka came to Canada aboard the ship Libau, leaving his wife and young daughter, Lupka, behind. Lupka was born in Cashwoka Wolyn, Poland on September 25, 1912

Fred landed at Halifax, then came west to Alberta and started working for the CPR with a bridge gang in Edmonton. Then he helped to build the A.C R branch line between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House. He first worked as a laborer on the section of the track between Alhambra and Hespero, but he stayed in Hespero in the section house. When he became section foreman for the A.C R. on November 16, 1916 he moved in the section house in Alhambra

Fred tried to get his wife, Zena, and daughter Lupka to join him in Canada but World War I made this very difficult and for a time it seemed impossible as he could not locate them in Poland Zena and Lupka were separated, Zena was sent to a work camp, but finally they were aboard the SS Minnedosa and landed in Quebec, October 15, 1926. It was a joyous time when they were reunited with Fred and made their home in the C. P R. station house in Alhambra

In September 1920 Fred had purchased the SW 10-39-5-W5, the former Jim Boyd farm, and in 1924 he purchased the Charles Raine acreage, Block K in the hamlet of Alhambra. But the family continued to live in the station house as Fred was still the section foreman. He did some farming as well In September, 1932 he purchased the Cooks' homestead, the NW-3-39-5 W5. Zena was kept very busy caring for their family of two daughters and four sons. She enjoyed her neighbors and always was ready to lend a helping hand ew members of the family are

The value of a family journal is realized when one is suddenly faced with writing a synopsis of family history covering even a relatively short period of time The following events, relating to the Newman family have been recounted without the benefit of written reference and therefore some of the dates surrounding these events may seem a little vague or may, at times, have to be granted a little give or take

It was however, in the spring of 1939 that three members of the Newman family moved to the John Larson farm the half section situated immediately west of Alhambra corner on the north side of Highway 11. These family members were Mrs. Mable Francis Newman and the two youngest of her four children Roy Allan (Chub who was then 19 years old, and Rita Margaret Margie), 16 years old. Prior to this they had farmed in the Clearview district, south of Red Deer for approximately seven years. This branch of the Newman family originated in the Auburndale district, a community midway between Wainwright and Vermilion, Alberta The father Albert John Newman was at this time, still living on the original home farm The second oldest son, William Irving (Buster worked with him. Buster was 21 years old The oldest son, Clifford Albert (Cipper), had gone to Chicago the preceeding fall, to take a course in airconditioning He was then 22 years old

The actual move from Clearview to Alhambra was accomplished with the help of good friends from the Red Deer district, a brother and sister Raymond and Doris Nicholson and Cliff Stannard all of whom shared good humor and a pioneering spirit It was an event that lasted for several days and was in itself worthy of a short novel. Trials and fun evolved in every aspect of the undertaking The family's old car a 1929 Buick had to be coaxed to make the trip and then after one visit to the hamlet, it refused to start again, ever (It was eventually sold.) There was no electricity or plumbing at the farm, but Mrs. Newman, aided by the girls' cleaning power, made the house a home. With the aid of pitch forks, Doris and Margie then undertook cleaning and repairing the old pole and straw barn, to make it fit to house the milch cows that were to be transported by truck as the house furniture and some machinery had been. When everything else had been either moved or sent on its way Chub and Raymond, with Cliff's help began a two day trek with team and hay rack and saddle horses, trailing out the range cattle and the remaining horses. Before everything was settled, everyone had rare stories to tell In retrospect, this memorable event was to set the pattern for the way of life that followed throughout our the years the family remained in the area adjusting to necessity milking cows (in poor facilities), and farming with only horse power, but through it all enjoying friends, old and new

The first visitors to the farm arrived the second night lamp light was showing from the house. These were Jim and Dickie Davies and Frankie Wilson, curious kids from neighboring farms who had trouble finding enough courage to knock on the door Mrs. Newman and the girls were very amused by the boys giggling in the yard and Mrs Newman had to go out the door to invite them in. Their visit was very welcome and the new residents spent several pleasant hours learning about the neighborhood happenings and people The next day the cows arrived and were settled into the newly cleaned barn While the girls were doing the milking that evening, Dickie

Davies came back to let the girls know the first ball practice of the season was to take place "up town" and the girls were invited to join in. They rushed with chores, then walked the mile and a half to be welcomed into their first community activity. It was a good thing it was an outdoor event, the girls must have had something of an old barn" aroma about them.

Ball games, summer picnics (May 24th at Condor and July 1st at Alhambra) and dances were the main social events the family participated in, although Chub and Raymond, who were exceptional horsemen and aspiring cowboys, made their way to take part in as many stampedes as they could. Raymond had stayed to work and Doris visited as often as the girls could arrange it, which meant these friends shared many of the events surrounding the family during their first year or so in the district. The cowboys had to practice riding, and so to make this possible they built a pole corral with a chute. On occasion, Sundays or evenings, any of the farm animals that would buck were given the opportunity to do so. These practice events drew considerable attention from other cowboy minded young fellows who lived near-by.

Transportation to stampedes was sometimes hard to find, since the old car had given up. When the Rocky Mountain House rodeo was to take place at the end of June that first summer the boys and a neighbor, Eddie Wilson, planned to ride to it on saddle horse. The girls wanted to go too. Mother Newman, as always, soft-hearted and hard-working, agreed to do the chores for the two days they would be away, leaving early on the 29th and returning on the 30th. The boys thought they could discourage the girls because there were not enough saddles to go around. The girls wouldn't be discouraged and so, their first trip to Rocky Mountain House was made on horse back, bare-back. Afterwards the girls were able to brag that they had survived the trip in better condition than the boys. (no allowance was made for the boys participation in the rodeo.) The group arrived in Rocky Mountain House by mid-morning. The boys made their entries and in the afternoon they rode in both bareback and saddle bronc events. In the evening they all took in the stampede dance and then rode a mile or so out of town to spend what was left of the night with the Stanley Maxwells. Next day they returned to the stampede and the boys again made their rides. No record was made of how well the boys placed in the competition, but they did share some of the prize money.) Again that evening the dance was not to be missed, and finally, after mid night they all trooped home, to arrive just in time to help Mother Newman with the chores. Then to bed. It wasn't a long sleep for the girls because by then it was the 1st of July, and they were expected to play ball at the community picnic, which they did. Chub and Raymond barely found the energy to attend the picnic dance that evening. Eddie didn't.

In 1939 the gravel on Highway 11 stopped at Alhambra corner. During wet weather the Highway" traffic faced many problems along the flat west of the farmstead. Among the vehicles that were frequently stuck in the mud were Sorenson's bus and the C A D P milk truck which made daily trips to gather 8-gallon cans of milk at the gates of shippers from a point several miles west, hauling them into Red Deer. It was not uncommon to have some stranded driver walk up to the house looking for help. Sometimes a team could pull them out, sometimes they couldn't. At that time the 'bus was an elongated four seater car. This was probably the first step up from the sedan car that provided the original bus service between Rocky Mountain House and Red Deer. It became a point of interest to watch the vehicles change in size and shape as the bus service grew. Another segment of Highway 11 traffic that was interesting to watch was the horse and wagon caravans of native people who travelled east in the spring to work somewhere during the summer, then in the fall they headed back west to their reserves.

Sorenson's bus service was frequently used by the family for shopping and visiting in Red Deer. The milk truck driver at that time was a very congenial chap named Donald Luck. He was not supposed to carry passengers but occasionally he made an exception because he liked company on the road, and someone would catch a ride into the city with him. This was a favor the family was able to return a few times when the road to the west was so exceptionally bad that it was impossible to haul milk over it. If the truck swayed too badly through the mud, the cans which had to be stacked, would upset and spill. When Don stayed at the Newman's overnight, he would pitch in and give a hand with drying dishes or any other household chore that came up. On one such occasion the family learned he could handle a flat iron as expertly as he handled the truck. After that, Chub never found it as easy to ask to have his good pants pressed and eventually he learned to do his own pressing.

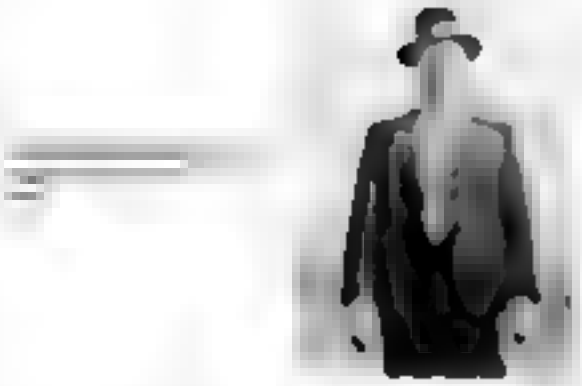
While the bus provided means for traveling to Red Deer, local shopping was done mainly on horseback, or sometimes, by team and wagon. It was not unusual for Margie to have everything from a sack of flour to a kerosene can laying over or hanging from the saddle. Two or three times Margie or Mrs. Newman rode to Rocky with Jack and Marie Davies when they were taking a calf to market by team and wagon. In later years, after these good neighbors had acquired a car, the Davies shared many rides to town.

Their first year in the district produced many new experiences for the family. After freeze-up in the fall, Chub went out to work in the logging camps west of Rocky Mountain House. It was rough, hard work but he enjoyed it and went back again the following winter. He thrilled in telling how well his skid or logging team had performed.

Time and circumstances effected many changes for the family, with World War II causing the greatest disruptions as it did throughout the world. Through many comings and goings by the rest of the family, Mrs. Newman was the only member who never left home for any length of time. She was a hard working, loving and capable woman who faced hardships head-on, a wonderful cook who could always make a tasty meal no matter how limited her pantry provisions became. Hard work was not new to Mable Newman. In the early years at Auburndale, she had worked with her husband in the field while keeping her house and cooking for the family and hired men, as well as doing chores and raising her family. All this combined with the worry of keeping the farm going at this time no doubt contributed to her declining health later.

Among the changes that took place, the family gradually saw less of Doris and Raymond Nicholson. Raymond went back to work with his father and later entered military service. Doris was married in Red Deer to Gordon Towers Dec. 27, 1940.

Shortly after Canada entered the war, the oldest son, Clifford, visited at Alhambra before leaving to go to England to join the R.A.F. He had education was less than would be accepted for a pilot in the R.C.A.F. 'Clipper' was more mechanically minded than his cowboy brothers. He had been responsible for keeping the old car running while the family lived at Red Deer.



Some of the neighbors there had felt that if the Buick had had even parts of wings, it would have flown then. Clifford became a Spit Fire pilot and as the war progressed he was promoted to Flight Lieutenant. During the Battle of Britain his plane was shot down over the English Channel and he was reported missing in action, June 1941. His body was later found on the coast of Holland and he was buried in a Military Cemetery outside of Amsterdam. He was 25 years old on January 21, 194

The second son, Buster, also visited the farm for a few months in 1939. He did not qualify for military service because of a hip damaged in a fall from a horse during his school days. He returned to Alhambra after harvest in 1940. His bride, Elsie (nee Ruud), had arrived before him. They spent most of the winter with the family and added another new member when their daughter, Arlene Mae, was born in Rocky Mountain House on December 24, 1940. When they returned to Vermilion they began farming on their own. They later had three more children, Helen Jeanette, born June 17, 1943, Lena Marguerite, born September 7, 1944 and Lyle Irving, born February 17, 1946. Buster and Elsie visited Alhambra with their two oldest girls for a short time at Christmas in 1941.

In the spring of 1941, Chub was called into the Army's one month training program for 21 year olds. About the time he would have been released, the program was extended to four months, and then again extended to full duty. While he was away Margie became farmer as well as chore boy. Chub later transferred to the R.C.A.F. and while he was training as a Wireless Air Gunner at Winnipeg, he became ill with rheumatic fever and was hospitalized just one week before he was to graduate with a WAG wing. He was confined to hospital for over six months and was eventually released from the service early in 1945 with a medical discharge as a result of damage to his heart during the il

On November 6, 1941 Margie was married to a local man, Angus Macdonald. They went to work for Lorenzo Cooper, a widower with a large farm operation south of Highway 11. On August 18

Newman came to help take care of the

Stuart found them to be special play mates. It was not uncommon to hear a ben squawking in because he was steering it around the yard with a wing in each hand. They never learned to keep out of his reach and the odd one had to take up swimming in the water trough

Muriel Cooper came to Ashambra in 1913, just after she had completed high school. She had been born and raised in part of New York City She came to visit her great-uncle Lorenzo, and originally planned to stay through the summer and then return to the U.S.A. to enter nurses training Her stay grew in length as she found the country living to her liking Although she had never before had the opportunity to ride horseback she greatly enjoyed the saddle horse Mr Cooper bought for her Watching Muriel learn to ride and handle "Blackie" was great fun. Life was quiet for her around her uncle's home so she made a habit of riding over to the Newman's on mail days and Sundays Her smile and bubbly personality were always welcome Her plans to return to school changed when she met a local man Charles Josh) Slinger Eventually Josh followed Muriel back to New York where they were married in 1916. They returned for visits to Ashambra but finally settled into farming at Peon Yann New York. They had one son, John

When Chub came home from the Air Force, he was unsettled and not ready to go back to farming steadily He worked at various jobs in different areas and came back to help out at times, but did not take up permanent residence at the farm again In his travels he acquired a faithful old 1929 Chev car which he left for Margie to use after one of his visits. He spent some of his time back at Vermilion and turned to chuck wagon racing with Buster

Mrs. Newman sold the farm in 1946 to two families named Robinson and Dolphin. The wives were sisters. These people were to take possession in the fall but as they did not have another place to live, they moved in during the summer and used the upstairs portion of the house. The men made use of their time by building a new barn one Marge wished had been here earlier

Mrs. Newman purchased another farm in the Condor district, a half section, formerly owned by the Begg family situated just east of the Withrow corner on the south side of Highway 11 The land was more open and the outbuildings were more usable. Chub arrived to help with the move and to put in the crop in the spring Settling into the Condor community was very easy as the family already had friends and acquaintances in the area. Chub's old car made getting around much easier up il he at last took it to Vermilion with him, and where it too, gave up. Friends often shared rides and it was still convenient to ranch the bus

During the summers at Condor the ball teams were again the centre of social activity, as dances were during the winters. There were only nine ladies in the district interested in playing ball in the summer of 1947 but they were indeed interested. There were no spares to draw on but he team never was short a player for a scheduled game. They also won their share of the games which were played against Rocky Mountain House. Alhambra and Erkville Some of the ladies would on occasion delay milking their cows until after a game but no one would let the team down

This great team spirit carried into the when they decided to put on a dance to raise money to buy sweaters. The community hall had lacked he care of a cleaning committee for some time, a fact that was so noticeable, attendance at local dances had dropped off because of the heavy dust raised by dancing The ladies decided the hall must be cleaned before 'their' dance and so, the whole group gathered, armed with cleaning equipment of all sorts to do the job They stoked up the fire and kept boilers of water hot while they attacked in full force, starting with the windows and woodwork Before they were through, they had put seven cans of paste wax into the freshly scrubbed hardwood floor Polishing the floor was accomplished by pulling one another around on dry mops that were wrapped in rags The hard work of the day went unnoticed because of the good fun and fellowship that went with it The ladies advertised their clean hall with their dance posters and had a very successful fund raising ondor School. She was a very attractive young lady a fact that didn't go unnoticed by Chub who was home for part of the fall, or by Dick Davies. who stayed with Chub for a short time Through their escorting Queenie to a dance and a show with Marge riding along, Queenie and Marge became good friends Later when a Friday night outing lasted a little longer than was expected, Queenie often stayed overnight with Marge, so that the people she boarded with would not be concerned about the hours the 'teacher' was keeping Queenie also became a welcome member for the ball team. Her many friends were sorry to see her leave the following June

During the winter of 1947-48, the ladies team again decided to raise funds. This time they added a play to their dance. Members of the men's team willingly agreed to help out. The result wasn't the greatest theatrical production ever presented but it was greatly enjoyed by at least the cast, through the many hours they spent in preparing for it

Stuart reached school age in 1946. His mother took him to the Condor school and thought he might be reluctant to stay alone. Instead, he felt quite at home, the ball diamond was situated in the school yard and the ladies had frequently played against the school team for practice. so young Stuart was well acquainted. He happily waved good-bye to his mother and it was she who was reluctant to leave alone

During the summer of 1948. Mrs. Newman and Marge made the decision to move off the farm and into Red Deer The farm was sold to a gentleman from Wetaskiwin named Pearson It was with some great regrets that preparations were made to leave the community, although Marge was not unhappy to see the end of milking cows. Friends held a farewell party in the community hall It was a sad moment in time for the family when Hilja and Ellie Syren sang "Now is the Hour" The move back to Red Deer was made in November 1948

In 1953, Chub was married to Ruby Hartley who had also lived in the Alhambra district although he had not known her at that time They eventually settled into farming in the Rimbey district They had two children, a son, Roger Allen, born February 22, 1954 and a daughter Karen Gail, born January 3. 1956. Roy Allan Chub Newman succumbed to the heart damage he suffered during the war. September 22, 1958. He would have been 39 years old September 30

Mable Francis Newman passed away in Red Deer at 79 years of age. January 23. 1893-April 6 972

Albert John Newman lived in Vancouver B.C. for many years before he passed away at 81 years (October 25, 1890-November 19, 1971)

At this writing Buster and Elsie Newman are living in the town of Wainwright They still raise cattle on part of their original farm

Margaret (Marge) Macdonald is still living in Red Deer and is employed with A.G.T Her son Stuart is living in Calgary and is employed as a Sales Representative for Labatt's Brewery

OLSON, EDWIN AND MICKEY FAMILY

My parents, Mr John B. Olson and Martha Olson came west to Rockford, Washington, a small town near Spokane, from North Dakota about 1904. At that time there were two children, Alma born 1902, married Everett Foreman who, as a young boy, had lived in Lesheville They have three children She is a widow now living at Redmond, Washington. Norman was born in 1903, Carl in 1905, and I, Edwin in 1907

In the spring of 1910 we came to the Home on the J.B. Olson homestead in the Moraguard district built in 1910.

homestead in the Horseguard district, SE 31-30

On July 7 1910, Angie was born, completing the family

We all went to the Little Horseguard School for our early education. To complete their schooling, Alma, Carl, and Angie went back to the U.S.A. and made their homes here

Carl and his wife, Hazel, had one daughter. Angie and her husband, Chester Schillen, had three daughters. Angie died as a result of a car accident in 1966. Carl died in 1969

I spent from April, 1926 to November 1931 at Toppenish, Washington. I came home to spend the winter with intentions of going back in the spring. In March, 1932, Dad passed away suddenly at the age of 66 years. Norman and I farmed together until 1946 when we dissolved the partnership. I bought two quarters of the Byram farm where I still live. E½-9-39-5-W5. Mother passed away in 1960 at the age of 88 years. Norman farmed the home place until he sold it in 1966. He lived in the Rocky Mountain House until his death in 1976

During the years I spent in Washington I met Mildred (Mickey) Thompson. As I had decided to stay on the farm, she came up to Canada with my sister Angie. I talked her into staying. On the 2nd day of October, 1932 we were married. At this time the Depression was really getting bad the cheque for a five gallon can of cream was about $1.45. We managed to get together three or four cheques, took off on a honeymoon in an old "Puddle Jumper" Model T Ford that I had paid $15 for and brought up from the U.S.A. We stayed overnight in Red Deer and came home the next day as that was all our finances would allow

Phyllis was born in 1935. She is now Mrs. Alfred Bolzer. They have two daughters and two sons. They live in Calgary. Delores was born in 1937 and is now Mrs. Donald Armstrong. They have one daughter and one son. They live in Eckville. Our girls went to the Little Horseguard School until we moved to the Alhambra district in 1946

In 1921 I walked the four miles from the homestead to the Alhambra school as there were not enough students to warrant a teacher for that term at the Little Horseguard School. The Depression years were very hard on everyone as all our hard work could not produce much money. We sold 2 100 pound hogs for $5.65 a hundred, oats for 9¢ a bushel, No. 1 timothy hay sold for $6 a ton, baled and loaded into a car at Alhambra, eggs sold at 5¢ a dozen. A yearling calf had very little value, so was kept until it was two or three years old

In 1935 we sold six three-year old steers and three yearling calves. We got a cheque for $62.77 for the nine head. In those years all the cattle were kept in the barn through the winter, so we did a lot of shoveling for what money we got. Trapping a few coyotes each winter brought more clear profit at $5 and $6 each. They helped to pay the taxes more than once

Coyotes trapped by Edwin Olson in 1937

OLSON, RUNE

Rune Olson was raised in Saskatchewan where, in 1942, he joined the Armed Forces. Upon returning from overseas in 1946 he came to Eckville and purchased the Sodler farm, SW 5-39-3-W5, 12 miles south on the Diamond Valley road. He brought his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Olson from the prairies the same year. His sister, Elvera, also came west and worked in Eckville for a time, Eckville being the closest town for doctors, hospital, mail route etc.

Later Rune's parents started work at the Raven Trading Store where Rune met Doris, the youngest daughter of Noah Heare, on whose land the store was located. Doris, her two sisters and two brothers were raised in the Raven district. Their father used team and wagon in the early days to transport grain and hogs to Hespero. There he took the team to the livery barn for a feed and rest before starting on the long trip home.

In 1952 Rune and Doris were married and left shortly after for the oil fields around Devon, later moving to Drayton Valley, as the oil fields expanded. They went to the farm only to put in crops and harvest them.

In 1957, after being back on the farm a year, they sold it and moved to Red Deer. Here they got back into the oil patch. The two oldest children, Teresa and Ronald, started and finished school in Red Deer.

After commuting back and forth to Willesongreen, Eckville and other oil fields, they decided in 1971 to move to Alhambra to the farm, NE 12-31-6-W5, they had purchased a year earlier from the Van Dammes'. Earlier residents were Mr. MacIntosh, Hartley's and Paisley's.

Here Mr. Olson kept on with his business and farm. The youngest Olson, Kerry, moved with his parents and started Grade 7 at David Thompson School, completing school in 1977 and is now employed in Red Deer. Teresa got married in 1972 and is now living in Vancouver. In 1973 Ronald came home to work with his father's

Since moving here, natural gas has moved into most rural and urban homes for heating, replacing propane, oil, wood and coal stoves and furnaces.

As 1977 draws to an end, a sour odor is in the air coming from a gas well, out of control in the Lodgepole area. The low ceiling in the atmosphere is carrying the fumes many miles in every direction, as the wind changes. They are hoping to get it capped by Christmas.

THE PATTERSON FAMILY PRAIRIE ROSE:

The Patterson twins, Leonard and Frank, came out from England in the spring of 1907. They had attended Dr. Fry's school in England and came to his farm east of Red Deer to learn Canadian ways of farming. They did not stay there for very long, coming out west and filing on land here. Eventually the family came. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Patterson, Ralph, the girls Dollie, Annie and Katie, and the young son Leaman. They settled on young Leonard's land, in the Prairie Rose district, where a very comfortable home awaited them. This home they called "Shendish", after the one they had left in Hertfordshire. Ralph's fiancee eventually came out from England and they settled on his land two miles or so, south-west of "Shendish". Ralph and his wife, Emmie, were married in St. Luke's Church, Red Deer. By now the boys farmed extensively for those days as Frank and his father filed on land in what is known as Alhambra district. Mr. Patterson's land eventually was sold to become part of the village district. Mr. Patterson, who had been in ill health for some time, died in the early part of 1914.

World War I was to interfere seriously with the quiet family life of the Patterson's. Leonard joined up immediately. Later on, Leaman joined the second C.M.R.'s, in Red Deer. Annie Patterson, who had been teaching in Red Deer, married Sergeant Frank Holt of the second C.M.R.s. Leaman was killed in action, June 2, 1916. Sometime later on, Frank Holt was also killed in action. By this time Leonard had been twice wounded, and after being hospitalized for a considerable time in the south of England, was returned to Alberta. Frank had joined the 211th battalion and left for overseas December 1916. With some others of the 211th, he was transferred to the 8th C.R.T., and when the war was over returned to Canada, the spring of 1919.

During their later years, the eldest son, Ralph, and his wife Emmie, enjoyed living in Kaslo, B.C. Ralph and his wife are both buried there. Leonard who stayed with his sister, Mrs. Holt, during the last illness, is buried in Red Deer Cemetery. Frank, who had married Elizabeth Meston, September 1916, on his return overseas service, resumed farming in the Alhambra district. They moved to Rocky Mountain House, where Frank became Justic of the Peace and later, Magistrate for a number of years. They had the pleasure of celebrating their Golden Wedding, September 1966, with their family and friends. The last of the Patterson boys, Frank died February 4, 1968, and was buried in Pinegrove Cemetery, Rocky Mountain House.

Ralph and Emmie Patterson had four children. Len is retired from the R.C.M.P. and lives in Regina, Saskatchewan. They have two daughters, Helen married and lives with her husband Stuart Dick, in Lacadema, Saskatchewan. After a long illness, Helen died about three years ago. Alec and his wife, Florence, still live on their ranch, at Claresholm, and he says he is semi-retired. They have a son and daughter, Ralph and Pat. The youngest of this family, Jane, was from some years, a nurse in the General Hospital, Vancouver, B.C., and married Charles LaCrue. They have one daughter, Anita.

Katie Patterson who taught for many years, married Henry Ludwig. After retiring from teaching at Medicine Hat, they moved to Victoria, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig have both passed away. Mrs. Annie Holt is the sole survivor of the family. The Frank Patterson's had a Leaman became a prisoner of war after Dieppe in World War II. Shortly after returning to Canada he married Joyce Ambler of Cochrane. They have four children. James, after extensive travelling, has returned to Canada. Dale is in the Navy. Theresa (Terry) is married with two children and Grant is a photographer on the Campbell River, B.C. "Courier". Frances M. Patterson married Wesley J. Teskey and they have five children. Four of them are grown-up and teaching. The youngest, Christine, is still in high school. Grandmother Mrs. Frank Patterson, still quite active, lives in Rocky Mountain House, enjoying friends and very often the company of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

It might be interesting to some to remember what teaching was like in the early days in Alberta. The province was young, many people with young families were flung on land. So rural schools were built and teachers were in demand. My first school was a log schoolhouse in the Beaver Flat District. This was in 1912. The pupils were children of people who had moved from the United States and Britain. After finishing at Calgary Normal, I began teaching at Beaver Flat School in the spring of 1912, the secretary being Ted Frodeen and the chairman, Oscar Litchfield. There were five Sims children, three Marshall children, and the three Gaffney children. The Turton children were also pupils as was Effie Washburn, also Cissy Rodgers and recess and a noon hour where we had lunch in school or out-of-doors if weather permitted. In his group, we had some good singers and all enjoyed Phys. Ed., sometimes taken out-of-doors. We were fortunate in having a well on the grounds and the cloak room was at the entrance, the boys having one side, the girls the other. Some of the children rode horseback. Most of them walked, sometimes barefoot, because Beaver Flat roads in those days were occasionally under water. I preferred to walk the distance from my parents' home to school, a distance of about two-and-a half miles, and I cut through a few fences, crawling under, through or over whichever was easiest. As in all the beginning schools, we certainly could have used more library books. As the years went on, I know this was remedied. The salary for teachers, those bygone days, was generally $50 per month.

The three R's were stressed. We put in full hours of study with a morning and afternoon

Later teaching at Bingley School, I remember Ethel and Jim Stewart, Frank Larsgard, Joe, Mabel and Norris Mannix, Lempi Lake, Mary Mikkela and Wenni Kohtala, also Jesse Nelson. J. W. Christian was secretary and Sigurd Sande was chairman. Kindly J. F. Boyce was then our Inspector of Schools. He would arrive by buggy and team and had the pleasant knack of putting pupils and teachers entirely at ease. At Gaetz School we had some big boys and girls, so to brighten things, we all took part in clearing away quack grass along the front fence facing the main road. Spades and rakes were brought from home. This project was worked on after lunch each day. Somehow or other, we acquired many packages of flower seeds. The results were certainly gratifying. Our inspector came out to visit the pupils, admired the lovely floral border and returned soon after to take a photograph, which was published in the A.T.A. magazine. Needless to say, the pupils felt amply rewarded. This would be around 1915. By this time, we had fairly good roads but in rain they were muddy. So I bought "Prairie Belle" boots to get back and forth to go to school. They were advertised in Eaton's catalogue. In this school were children of families that came from Germany, Austria and Norway — quite an interesting challenge here to teach English.

World War I years saw quite a few of the young men enlisting. In the Beaver Flat area, young Oscar Litchfield, Paul Frodeen, Claud Sims and Billy Rodgers went Overseas. Oscar Litchfield was sent home and died in Red Deer. [illegible]ly Rodgers was killed in ac[illegible] severely wounded, remained in hospital for many months and Paul Frodeen was killed in action a few hours before the signing of the Armistice. Alec Green, son of Mrs. Bert Hilbert, was one who returned safely to Alberta. He married one of my Beaver Flat pupils, Mamie Sims. George Meston was also one of the fortunate ones who returned home safely. He married Violet Innes and later opened the store [illegible].

PRENTICE AND COWAN FAMILIES — by I. [illegible]

After living in the Sylvan Lake district for years I took my family to Manitoba for 13 years where I worked for the Manitoba Paper Co. of Pine Falls, manufacturers of newsprint paper. Our last child, Shirley Elizabeth, was born there early in 1946. We already had five born back here in Alberta.

The tug to home overcame the two oldest children and Milton, our first born, and his sister, Thelma, returned to the home place of Thelma's new husband, a quarter section along Highway 11 half-way between the Condor corner and the Ashambra corner. Milton and Chester Miller ran a small sawmill cutting lumber for various people of the district, and farmed the few cultivated acres on the farm. Thelma's husband Chester bought Mr. Bennet's farm on the creek two miles north. With its buildings on the north shore, the Miller's decided to trade in Lesliеville.

Milton went to Sylvan Lake meantime, and he died suddenly there in 1958 on Good Friday. After the funeral, the rest of the family wished to be back in Alberta so, during summer holidays of the year '58, we returned to live in Lesliеville where I had bought a house from Walter Bunch, Ray Bunch's nephew. Later Mrs. Prentice and I took over Allan Scott's butcher shop and our daughter Shirley started attending the David Thompson High School located on Highway 11 and the four Cowan children, our three grandsons and one granddaughter went to Lesliеville Elementary School.

Mrs. Sunde of Ashambra was one of our daughter's teachers at David Thompson High.

After Mrs. Prentice's passing, at Christmas time in 1963, I became involved in a farming venture with Earl Miller until his passing in January of 1967. At that time I went to Caroline to work. My daughter, May, and her daughter Dorothy stayed on at the farm located one mile north and one mile east of Ashambra and Dorothy went to David Thompson High School.

Now May is in Taber and Dorothy is going to the Red Deer College and the youngest Cowan boy, Ronald, is operating the farm.

THE FRANK SCOTT FAMILY—by Joyce Lemke

Mrs. Agnes Annie Scott (daughter of Allan and Eleanor Kirkham, nee Pierce) was born December 13, 1882 at 130 Elliot Str., Preston, Lancaster, England. She had two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Crossley, who died September 8, 1965 of Banff, and Mrs. Ethel Clitheroe, now 86, living at White Rock, B.C., both born in England.

The Kirkham family in England ran a general store and meat market as Mr. Allan Kirkham was a butcher by trade.

Miss Agnes Annie Kirkham married Frank Scott who was born in 1882 in Preston, Lancaster, England, on October 30, 1905. Frank Scott was also a butcher by trade in England. Frank had two brothers, William Scott of Calgary, now deceased, and Mark Scott of Indiana, both of whom were born in England

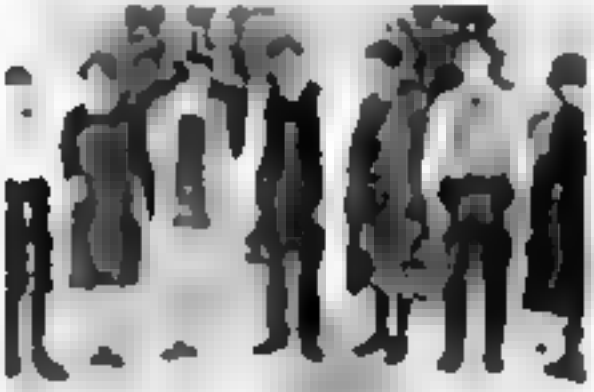
Mr and Mrs Frank Scott had three children, Marion Scott, baptised September 18, 1908 Margaret Scott born April 17, 1910, and Allan Scott born January 3, 1914. Marion lived only until age seven. Margaret Scott married Tom Stelfox on November 5, 1946, and had one son Tom born in 1948. Margaret passed away in 1967, age 57

Allan Scott married Margaret (Peggy Stelfox of Rocky Mountain House in 1940, to whom three children were born Joyce, August 27 1941, Margaret, October 3, 1944, and Brent, June 12, 1957 Joyce married Hugo Lemke in 1961 and to this union three children were born. Linda, Brian, and Teresa



In 1913 Mr and Mrs. Frank Scott came to Manitou, Manitoba and then moved to Calgary for a short while before another move to Innisfail. Their daughter Margaret, attended school at Innisfail, where the family lived for nearly 10 years

In 1924 Mr and Mrs F Scott bought a farm at Alhambra N E. 7-38-5-W 5 from Andy Lenon, a bachelor who homesteaded the land. Mr F Scott farmed this land and carried on a butchering trade too, with which the entire family helped. His son, Allan, was taught the skills of butchering by his father, Frank who had been well trained in England. Margaret worked for Sam Emmerson who had a general store in Alhambra. She took over the post office after Mrs. McGrath and she held that position for many years. Her good sense of humor and happy smile will long be remembered

In 1945 Mr and Mrs. F Scott sold their farm to Allan and moved to the coast Margaret also moved to the coast where she married Tom Stelfox They ran a general store in Vancouver for several years. Frank Scott passed away in 1945 as a result of a heart attack

His grand-daughter, Joyce, will always remember the time on the Alhambra farm, when she had left her rag doll on the kitchen table During the short while she was in the other room Grampa Frank Scott applied mustard to the seat of the doll's "undies" On her return Joyce was dismayed when he asked her why she didn't change her doll's diapers more often

Mr and Mrs F Scott had purchased their first team of horses from Henry Stelfox of Rocky Mountain House in 1924 They were heavy English work horses known as Shires. Mrs Scott was very capable of handling and driving the horses, as she had done it in England. Their first tractor was a 1530 McCormick Deering Allan purchased his first truck, a Model A Ford Pick Up, in 1935

Mrs. Frank Scott was always known for her lovely chickens In fact if visitors came and she wasn't in the house Frank would advise them to go and look in the chicken house! It used to annoy Frank when she would feed his good seed wheat to the chickens

Sundays were special days on the Scott farm as friends and neighbors would drop in to play cards or sing songs. Frank Allan and Margaret were all musical. Frank and Allan played violin and guitar for community dances

Allan and Margaret attended school in Alhambra in the early 1920's. Two of their teachers were Temple Crawford and J H. Hicks They rode two miles to school on horseback whenever the weather wasn't too miserable When Peggy and Allan lived on the Scott farm in the late 1940's, Joyce walked the two miles to school.

Around 1950, Peggy and Allan sold the Alhambra farm and built a meat market in Leslieville Allan did a lot of custom curing and was a skilled meat cutter The entire family helped with the business and Joyce and Margaret finished their schooling in Leslieville and David Thompson High School. Allan had the meat business for about twelve years, then decided to return to farming one section of land which he owned northeast of Rocky Mountain House. He and Peggy built a new house on this farm (the old Hall place) and lived there a few years, then Allan sold and moved to another farm he had purchased—eight quarters in all—about twenty miles northeast of Rocky Allan lived on and [illegible]ed that land until his passing on November 1977, age 63, of cancer His mother, Mrs Agnes Annie Scott had lived with him on this farm for two years prior to being in a nursing home in Ponoka for two years before her passing on April 8, 1974, age 91

Allan's passing brings a sad end to the Scott family story but the memories of these four wonderful people—Mr Frank Scott, Mrs. Agnes Annie Scott, Margaret and Allan, will bring smiles to the faces of those who knew them for many years to come They were all kind, humorous, good-natured, hard working folk

THE SINGER FAMILY—by Evelyn MacDonald

The Singer family came to Canada in 1912 first to Bassano, then Midnapore, Calgary Wilkie Saskatchewan, and finally settled in the Horseguard district in April, 1918. We walked three and one-half miles to school which took us about one hour. We didn't mind really as we always met the von Hollen's and others along the road and it was good company. In the winter our noses froze, but no problem we'd put our pails under the wood stove and by noon they'd be thawed again which was a real fun time.

My dad (Agustus or Gus as he was called) and the other neighbors worked out part of their taxes by building the roads which were over a lot of muskeg. There were five in our family Florence, Violet, myself (Evelyn), John, Si and Charles (Josh), the latter two born in 1918 (December) and 1924. I was so glad the war was over so they wouldn't have to join up but they were both overseas in the second World War.

In the winter the men hauled posts and firewood to Ashambra which Charlie Raine and Sam Emmerson bought to give credit for [illegible]

At that time Ashambra was quite a thriving little place. On the east side of the street was Charlie Raine's store with the dance hall above, Joe Sullivan's pool hall and barber shop (which later moved across the street where Ray Harris live now), the Addy Hotel (on the lot where Chapman's now live), then a dry goods store, next a house where the elevator man and his family lived and a big house on top of the hill which was Charlie Raine's. On the south street was Sam Emmerson's store which had the post office and long distance telephone (later the telephone exchange). Mr. Lessing's drug store and Roy Addis's store. Across the street were the blacksmith shop built by Tim Kirby and a big warehouse that was Sam Dickson's store and later Henry von Hollen's. On the west side was a restaurant and my dad's harness shop.

Chief MacDonald and my dad were on the school board, the teachers got only about $100. a month and at times there wasn't enough money in the treasury for that.

New Year's night was a real highlight at the Chief's, with all the food, the Chief playing the bagpipes and we doing the Scottish dances that they taught us. Another highlight was the 1st of July picnic in Ashambra and the Christmas concert in our school.

Then there were the wet years when one couldn't get the grain off the fields as the binder and horses would bog down. Somehow we came through.

Then came the hungry 30's and the war. I bought a small house in Ashambra for $325. at $25. a month and nothing down. I married Jock MacDonald in 1937 and our son, Richard, was born in 1943. Jock went overseas and came back in 1945. In 1947 we bought the old Sam Emmerson store, then built a store just out of Rocky Mountain House in 1958, and sold it in 1965.

Richard married Jeanne Steenson in 1965. They now have two boys and live in Red Deer.

THE ROBERT SMITH FAMILY

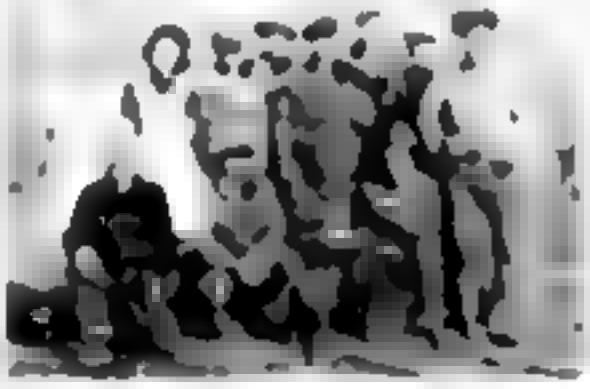
Robert (Bert) Smith came to the Ashambra district with his parents in 1912 at the age of 10. His parents, Robert and Barbara (nee Davidson) had farmed for many years in Scotland before bringing their family of seven to Canada. Robert Sr. had been known there as "Rabbit Robbie" because of the many rabbits he trapped and sold. His wife was referred to as "Butter Babbie" as she made and sold butter. The Smiths homesteaded the SE 34-38-5-W5 and in 1916 bought the SW 9-39-5-W5 next to the hamlet of Ashambra from Frank Hall. They built a new home there and moved into it in 1919. True pioneers, they were popular in the community. Mrs. Smith had been a midwife in Scotland and continued her work here, delivering many babies. There were many happy memories of days when large crowds gathered at the Smith home to celebrate Burns' Day and dance to the wee hours of the morning. Mrs. Smith died in 1947 at the age of 79 and her husband in 1955 at the age of 97.

Of their children, Charles, the oldest, married Lillian Blair of Condor. He was an engineer and worked in mines and mills in various places.

James was in the police force for many years and was a magistrate in Red Deer before his death in 1954. He had married Isobel Thackeray, a school teacher at Ashambra.

George operated the garage at Lesslieville for a number of years before moving to the oil fields in southern Alberta and then to Peachland, B.C. His wife is Mary Speckman of Okotoks.

William married a Lesslieville girl, Francis Hammond and lived and taught school in Red Deer for many years. Now retired from teaching, he lives at Three Hills.



Barbara who married Harry Simmons is now widowed and living with a daughter at St Albert

Jessie and her husband, John Leslie now both deceased, farmed at Leslieville They had five children. Ed, Flora, Jack Bill and Leonard Leonard and his wife, the former Jenny Kaniusis of Condor now live on the family farm with their five children

Robert (Bert) was the son who took over the Smith farm on the retirement of his parents He continued to live in the Alhambra district and work hard for the community until his passing on Oct 5, 1977 In 1940 he married Mabel Wilson of Alhambra and they had two children who still live in the Alhambra district Their son Franklin, married Marlene Howes in 1973 and they have two sons, Ryan and Logan. Daughter Heather, in 1964, married George Loomer and they have three sons Derek, Roger and Trevor

Along with the others in the area, Franklin and Heather took their schooling at Alhambra and were among the first students to attend David Thompson High School. This school brought together students from a very large area, and needless to say had caused much dissention in the area First there were arguments for and against centralization. Then there were arguments as to where a centralized high school should be built as schools then existed at Leslieville, Condor and Alhambra. The problem was resolved by placing it between all three areas, along Highway 11 Classes started in the fall of 1957 with a lot of very thrilled students attending

Following school Franklin took up farming, taking over part of his father's farm. Heather attended the University of Alberta and returned to the area as a teacher in 1961, teaching first in Rocky Mountain House and later at David Thompson High School and at Condor

THE JAMES WILSON FAMILY

James and Alice Wilson (nee Ewan) left Scotland in 1924 with their nine children. They arrived in Canada and settled in southern Alberta around the Picture Butte area where they farmed for 10 years before moving north to the Alhambra district. A 10th child had been added to the family by then. Mr Wilson passed away in 1935, shortly after they had moved to the area The farm was carried on by Mrs. Wilson and sons Ed and Frank until they moved to Stettler in the fifties

Frank by then was married to Shirley Mortimer of Rocky and Ed had brought over an English bride Alison Winton Son Jim also farmed in the area until he sold his farm to Wm Palm (It is now occupied by H. Nicolay.) One of the eldest daughters, Alice, married Charles Frasier and they lived in Alhambra for a number of years. They built the garage in the hamlet Mabel married Robert Smith and is the only one of the family still residing in the district The youngest daughter, Elsa, married Alex Poulet also of Alhambra. These members of the family along with Bill, Annie, Violet, and Clara are scattered throughout B.C and Alberta. Mrs Wilson passed away in 1973

THE STOLTE HERMAN FAMILY

The Stolte family comes from Overijsel Netherlands. Following the hardships of the Second World War there was great uncertainty about the economic situation in Europe and a massive emigration began As an agent for Canadian Pacific, Herman Stolte came into contact with many immigrants and so in May 1951 he followed the trend and came to Canada with his wife and seven little children

Nine days by boat four days by train and the Stolte family arrived in Lacombe where two brothers who had emigrated before World War II awaited them. These brothers had purchased a farm for Herman Stolte from John H Jones at S.W 6-39-5-5 but, having bought it in the winter they didn't know what the land was really like Herman Stolte was greeted by the expected bush, surprised by the swamp and welcomed by a house and a few outbui

The first few years, (very wet) were spent draining swamp and clearing land. Herman was very appreciative of the warm reception by his new neighbours and the advice of Havelock Sloan on how to farm "a la Canadienne." The English he had learned in Holland was soon augmented by interaction with his neighbours and children who began attending Alhambra school The children started school dressed in Dutch shorts and long socks but they were well accepted and soon learned the language and new dress code. In September the boys returned to school in long pants

At this time (1951-53) travel was difficult due to construction on Number 11 Highway west to

Rocky Mountain House. The children often had to bring back groceries and mail from Alhambra by bus on their way home from school. The family also remembers long trips to Rocky when a now ten mile trip to church could involve driving through Lesliеville. Along with other families in similar straits, they took lunch with them and met socially between services. Mrs. Stolte still remembers the hot chocolate and stacks of sandwiches she prepared each Sunday morning.

After the first four years, the hardest adjustment and work was over and the family could enjoy a new Canadian-born son, Allan. The farm continued to prosper and eventually launched the eight children into the world on their own.

Jenny studied a year at the University of Alberta and then taught in Lacombe. She soon moved to Ontario where, in 1965, she married Harry Van Belle, now a psychologist in the Fraser Valley.

Albert was the only one to continue farming. After working with his father in 1973 he bought his own farm two miles west of the home place and married Leona Vander Woude.

Arend graduated from the U of A and began teaching in Edmonton. He married Geraldine Nyland, a teacher in the same school, in 1968.

Riky studied briefly at the U of A and then went to work in a material store in Ontario. En route she met a Canadian soldier, Cliff Goebel whom she married in 196[illegible].

Gertie graduated form Royal Alexandra School of Nursing in Edmonton and worked there till she met and married David George in 1968. He is now an air traffic controller in Grande Prairie.

Bertha graduated from Calvin College in Michigan and then taught in Edmonton where [illegible] carpenter in [illegible].

Herman also graduated from Calvin College and taught briefly in Edmonton. He married Grace Hoeksma in 1976.

Allan went from his father's farm to work at Van's Sausage Company in Edmonton.

As of 1977, the Stolte's have 14 grandchildren.

SUNDE, THE KNUT AND ALMA FAMILY

Alma Louise Sunde, the second daughter of Astrid and Sigurd Sande was born October 15 1913, on the homestead. When she was four years old the family moved to the farm one-half mile south. She took Grades 1 through 8 at the Beaver Flat school. In order to continue her education she went to Bingley, Lesliеville, and Red Deer where she graduated in 1933. After her one-year teacher training, 1933-1934, she applied for several teaching positions advertised throughout the province. Four of her applications were accepted and she had to make up her mind where she wanted to teach. She decided to teach in the Alhambra School District No. 2930. After marrying Knut Olav Sunde, December 27, 1940, she resigned the following June and they lived in [illegible].

Knut was born in Olden, Nordfjord, Norway September 29, 1910, on a farm a few miles from the Briksdal Glacier. He attended the school in the district and helped with the farm work which included milking several goats. He helped to build the last part of the mountain trail to the [illegible].

In March, 1929 he immigrated to Alberta and worked on farms in the Duchess area in the summers and in the timber area west of Rocky Mountain House in the winters. At Calders' tie camp at Horborg, he hacked ties for 15¢ each. The following winter at Jack Allen's camp, he hacked ties for 7¢ each. The Depression had hit. He also hacked ties at Edson. While in this area he and a friend designed and built a motor boat the "Viking" intending to travel to Yellowknife via the McLeod River and the Athabaska River. After reaching Chisholm, they abandoned the "Viking" with its broken propellor. Knut went to work building and repairing elevators in Alberta and British Columbia.

At the outbreak of World War Two he did carpenter work at the Currie Barracks, Calgary and then built hangars at the Penhold Training Base. After he married Alma, he worked at the Army Camp in Red Deer. In the winters he loaded ties at Rocky Mountain House, Ferrier, Horborg, Phoenix, Lamoral, and Saunders.

In 1942 they purchased the S W ¼ and the ½ of N W ¼-8-39-5-W5 from Hudson Bay and this land had to be cleared before any farming could be done.

Knut and Alma have one son and three [illegible].

Allan James married Wanda Lynn Gordon. They have two daughters.

Sonja Arlene married Kenneth Robert Tweit. They have one daughter and one son.

Audrey Kathleen married Elmer Harold [illegible].

Carol Louise married Arthur Leonard Jobs. They have one daughter and twin sons.

Their first child, Allan James, was born March 19, 1942, at Rocky Mountain House. The following September, Alma returned to teaching at the Alhambra school for five years. Svanhild her sister worked for her looking after Allan, Sonja Arlene, (born August 12, 1943), and Audrey Kathleen, (born August 12, 1946). Both Sonja and Audrey were born in Rocky Mountain House. During this time, Knut operated his own tie camp, prop camp, cleared his land and did general trucking. Then in 1947, he got work in Nordegg trucking and doing carpenter work at the mine. The following year the family moved to Nordegg but they lived there for less than a year. Their third daughter, Carol Louise, was born July 21, 1949, in Rocky Mountain House.

Knut continued working out doing carpenter work and trucking on various jobs as well as farming. The Sunde family was very interested in the Rocky Mountain 4-H Beef Club. The four children took an active part in it and Knut was one of the directors for a while. In 1953, Alma resumed teaching at Alhambra for two years, then a Rocky Mountain House

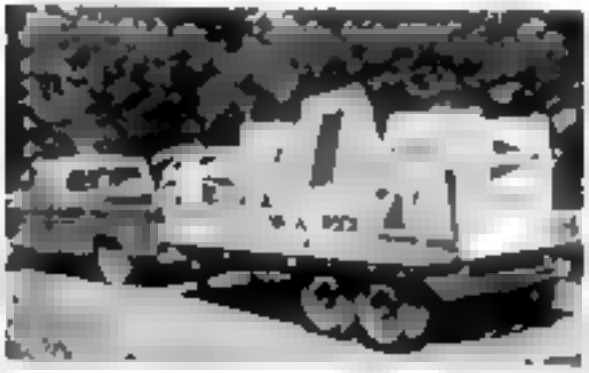
One of the highlights of 1957 was the family's four-month trip to Norway to visit relatives. Knut and Alma spent holidays in Norway again in 1970 and in 1975.

Alma resumed her teaching career in 1958, this time at the new David Thompson High. To further her teacher training she took summer school courses at U. of A. and attended evening classes held in Red Deer. When she received her B.Ed. degree in 1969 she was a grandmother!



Alma's centennial Buick ready for trip to Montreal

She taught at David Thompson for more than 16 years and retired in June 1976.

Knut's Centennial project was to commemorate the Voyageurs' Canoe Trip from Rocky Mountain House to Montreal. He and Mr. J. B. Killick trucked a large rock, with a bronze plaque suitably inscribed, from here to a site on the Expo grounds, Montreal. Eleven more plaques were placed around the base of this rock.

one plaque for each of the ten teams inscribed with the names of the paddlers, and another plaque for the Canadian Army

For a few years, Knut and Allan operated the farm together as well as working out. In 197 Knut left the farming and carpentry businesses and set up an aluminum awning shop in Kelowna, B.C. Alma joined him after retiring from teaching but a year ago they moved back to their home in Alhambra where they presently reside again, Knut has taken up carpentry and has worked on different construction jobs.

Knut enjoys hunting, fishing, boating, skiing and skating. His hobbies include working on the cattle and gardening. Alma's interests include needlecraft, reading, and travelling.

SUNDE, ALLAN AND WANDA FAMILY

Allan James is the first child of Knut and Alma Sunde. He attended school in Nordegg, Alhambra, Rocky Mountain House, and David Thompson High where he graduated.

Allan's keen interest in animals led to his active membership in the Rocky Mountain House 4-H Beef Club which continued throughout his school years. When he first joined the Club he was one of the youngest members. His enthusiastic participation won him trophies and prizes several times, including reserve and grand championships of the Club. Later he was the club leader for a few years.

After graduating from high school he attended the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology where he studied Petroleum Technology. He worked on oil rigs in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec, and British Columbia. Before he decided to farm the "home place" he spent a year at the U. of A., Edmonton, enrolled in the faculty of education.

In 1968, Allan married Wanda Lynn Gordon of Bentley, Alberta. Wanda has her B.Ed. from the U. of A., Edmonton, and has taught mathematics in schools at Grouard, Rocky Mountain House, and David Thompson High.

They have two daughters, Theresa (Teri) Lee born January 23, 1969, and Lori Rae born December 29, 1972.

Besides all the work involved in their "cow-calf" operation on their farm, Wanda finds time to do some substitute teaching and Allan is again a leader of the Rocky Mountain House 4-H Beef Club. Both of them are actively involved in the Alhambra Community Centre, and have served in a number of executive positions.

TWEIT, KEN AND SONJA FAMILY

Muddy roads in August set the stage for the [illegible] of Sonja Arlene Sunde. While Knut was attempting to navigate through the mud to the Rocky Mountain House General Hospital, Alma calmly brought forth their first daughter. With such an auspicious beginning Knut decided that she should take the name of a contemporary celebrity, Sonja Henie, the Norwegian figure skater.

Sonja attended school in Alhambra from Grades 1 through 7. Among her fondest recollections of this time was bob-sledding down Grandma and Grandpa Sande's hill at Beaver Flat. Before road construction altered the landscape she, her brother Allan, and her three cousins David, Agnes, and Harold Sande would careen wildly down the mile-long hill. Another memory she recalls is Grandpa Sande's raspberry patch of wide renown. Grandpa Sande personally instructed each grandchild in the fine arts of raspberry picking. Memories of freshly baked bread and pungent coffee aromata emanating from Grandma Sande's kitchen still create feelings of home and comfort to Sonja.

Grandpa Sande was an avid fan of 4-H Beef clubs. Each year Sonja would buy her calf from his Hereford herd and was quite often successful in winning the grand championship of the club.

In 1955, Sonja attended school in Rocky Mountain House for two years where she completed Grades 8 and 9.

In 1957 the family visited in Norway and upon their return, Sonja entered school at David Thompson High to finish Grades 10 through 12. School was made more pleasurable since the David Thompson High School was newly opened. Grandpa Sande was a prime instigator of the construction of this new school and he was duly honored at its opening ceremonies.

Sonja, her brother Allan and sister Audrey would indulge their Grandpa Sande in one of his favorite pastimes playing "Smear". Sonja and her other sister, Carol, enjoyed riding their horses. They would make frequent journeys to their Uncle Bud and Auntie Svanhild's farm, three miles away. Auntie Svanhild became so accustomed to these early morning excursions that she inevitably set a couple of extra places at the breakfast table.

Sonja left to attend the U. of A., Edmonton where she completed her B.Sc. in Household Economics and her B.Ed. degree. In 1966, she accepted her first teaching position at Grouard, Alberta. Her future sister-in-law, Wanda Gordon, whom she met while attending University, also taught in Grouard that year.

The next year Sonja moved to Lacombe to organize and instruct the Home Economics program in the Lacombe Composite High School. In 1970, she became engaged to a fellow teacher, Ken Tweit, whom she married on July 10, 197[illegible]. They purchased a farm five miles west of Lacombe where they still reside. On January 4, 1974, Andrina Kathleen was born to them, and one year later Robert Kenneth arrived on February 17, 1975.

Sonja is presently teaching half-time at the Lacombe Junior High School, and Ken is still teaching Business Education at the Lacombe Composite High School.

They both enjoy golf in the s[illegible]

ng in the winter. Combined with these activities eaching and operating their farm, they remain quite busy.

Ken was raised in Stettler, Alberta where his parents, Barney and Frieda Twelt, owned a farm. They are retired from farming and spend their winters in Phoenix, Arizona.

ARELIN VON HOLLEN FAMILY

Arelin was born July 26, 1942 at Butte, Alberta and is the oldest son of Ted and Lillian Von Hollen. When he was approximately three and a half years old the family moved to their present location on number eleven highway-Lesheville corner. He has five brothers and one sister.

At age nineteen Arelin bought the former Carl Lachmund quarter and has lived there since. In the spring of 1962 he married Fay Knopp. Fay was born at Hartline, Washington U.S.A., May 10, 1943, and moved with her family to the Condor district in the fall of 1961 where they settled on the Walter Sheppard quarter. Fay's parents Marvin and Tootsie Knopp have nine children, five girls and four boys.

Arelin and Fay have four children, two boys and two girls: Arlene is fourteen, Kleve thirteen, Jesse eleven, Darren seven and all are still at home. Each child has a special skill or ability that makes him unique as is the way with children the world over.

The family lived in a 12 x 48 house composed of three granaries hooked end to end until the spring of 1972, when they moved part of the old Rocky Mountain House Hospital onto their farm. They are still in the process of renovating and improving their home.

Arelin enjoys curling and pitching horse shoes. Fay's hobbies include gardening, planting trees and rock hounding. The family enjoys fishing trips, swimming outings, and visiting other family groups.

They farm in a very small way and Arelin works out at outside jobs periodically. They enjoy a very simple but satisfying way of life.

von HOLLEN, FRED AND LILY — by Margaret Cochrane

Fred and Herman von Hollen came from homesteading in Landa, North Dakota to homestead in the Horseguard district in 1908, followed by Fred's wife, Lily, and two children, Margaret and Sophie a few months later. Fred and Herman shipped two carloads of machinery, furniture, cattle and horses.

When they left Landa they drove 20 miles to Portal where their belongings were inspected before being loaded on the railway cars. Upon arriving at Red Deer they loaded the hay rack with their household effects and equipment in the [illegible] they had loaded it at Landa. But the impassable road from Red Deer west necessitated unloading things at seven different places along the way before they finally arrived at the homestead. While all the necessary belongings were in transport, Lily and two girls lived with Karl von Hollen in North Dakota until word arrived for them to come. Fred and Herman lived in a tent while erecting the log house on the homestead. Fred and Herman's mother came too, but she did not stay very long. The very first spring on the homestead a garden was pla[illegible] and produced very well. The hand-dug well was cribbed with sawed planks and 16 feet deep. It was used as a cooler for the cream cans, as it took a few days to fill the cream can since they did not have many cows. Lily made butter in a big wooden barrel churn and it was taken and sold in Red Deer whenever a trip was necessary to get supplies, which wasn't very often as the trip took three days. When the railway came through in 1914, Lily asked W. E. Lord of Red Deer, if he would buy butter for hats, for the Lily printed butter which was duly shipped to him and in exchange the hats came.

New family members were added, Annie Eugene (Gene) Herman, Lily, August (Gusty) Hilda, Willa and Lorna (twins) Lorna deceased and Anthony (Tony) Mrs. Anna (Grandma) Lund attended at the birth of eight of these children. When Fred made the trips to Red Deer for supplies, Lily couldn't stay alone all these three days with two small girls, and do the chores, looking after pigs, chickens, and milk four cows. Her first helper was Ethel (von Hollen) Walsh, only seven years old, but Lily said she was a wonderful helper. But Ethel was needed at her home so Lily's sister, Elizabeth Lachmund, came from Germany in 1910 to help Fred and Lily. Elizabeth married Herman von Hollen. Other helpers at this time were the Morgeau girls. In 1912 Lily's sister, Sophie Oppel with her two boys, came from Germany and she stayed and helped Lily for over a year. Later she homesteaded in the district.

As there was no school, not even a school district, the downstairs of the George Walsh house was used as the first classroom for a few months. The teacher was Chester Plank who came from Nova Scotia and when he went back there for Christmas he died of a heart attack. Then there was no school until the Little Horseguard School was built and opened in 1912 with Hiram Hicks as the first teacher. The first teachers only taught there as long as the taxpayers' finances permitted which often meant that there was only school for a few months of the year. In 1925 Alma Clark was the first teacher that got enough wages to be able to pay her board and room out of it. Before that time the teachers got a set sum of money plus room and board.

In 1923 the family did the janitor work at the school. The pay was $5 per month in summer and $7 in winter — the $2 extra was for lighting the fires early and carrying in the wood. The old wash basin was accompanied by two or three towels a week which the janitor had to wash. The school was thoroughly scrubbed twice a year and the floor thoroughly oiled to keep down dust.

At that time Grade 8 wrote Departmental Examinations and the teacher, Violet Jenson, from Innisfail gave extra tutoring during noon hours and after school.

There was no shortage of food as they had a big garden and the vegetables were wintered in a good root cellar until the new house was built in 1917. Lily and the girls canned many jars of wild fruit such as raspberries, blueberries, saskatoons and also different vegetables. Sauerkraut was a "must" so it was made every fall and then canned. Rabbits were plentiful and in season so were prairie chickens and partridges, which added meat to the menu.

In 1917 a new large house was built. This home served many purposes - weddings, all the six Fred von Hollen daughters were married in this house and so were some of the relatives. Social activities were often held here, too - a big verandah relieved this large living room of its furniture leaving space for dancing and games. Funerals were also held in this home for the following: Lorna von Hollen, Fred von Hollen, Roy von Hollen, Sophie Oppel, Karl von Hollen.

Rev. Andrew Hjortaas was the first pastor in this district. He drove from Sylvan Lake with a team and held services in the Little Horseguard School. He was followed by Pastor Thies from Morningside who held services every two weeks. The church congregation was inaugurated as the Immanuel Lutheran Church in 1927. The first church for this congregation was built on Highway 11. A few years later services were held in Rocky Mountain House at the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Then a new Immanuel Lutheran Church was built in Rocky Mountain House and services are held there every Sunday. The following children of Fred and Lily von Hollen still live in the area and belong to this church, Margaret, Sophie, Annie, Eugene, Herman, Gusty and Hilda.

Margaret married William Cochrane and they have three children, Lorraine, Malcolm and Angus. Lorraine married George McCallum and they have eight children. Malcolm married Anita Andersen. Angus married Gloria Nothof and they have two sons.

Sophie married James Hussin and they have three sons, Kenneth, William and Vernon (deceased). Kenneth married Maria Kuxderka and they have two sons, but the younger son passed away with leukemia. William married Joyce McCalla and they have four children but Karen was dragged to death by a horse.

Annie married Max Hansel and they have five children - Bernice, Dean, Laurine, Steven and Arlene. Bernice married Doug Meston and they have one daughter. Laurine married William McNutt and they have four children. Steven and June have two sons. Arlene married Edward Hammond and they have three children.

Eugene married Bernice Cole and they have one daughter, Jeanne, who married Gerald de Windt and they have one daughter.

Herman married Hildur Nelson and they have four children. Alfred, Beverley, Carmen and Wayne. Alfred married Dorthea Otto and they have two sons.

Lily married John Jack Leslie and they have one son, Gerrie. Gerrie and Lena have two children.

Gusty married Gwen Johnson and they have three children. David, Audrey and Karen. David married Linda Songer. Audrey married Ray Bolt and they have two children.

Hilda married Rev. Alfred Miller and they have three children. Carol, Ronald and Debbie. Carol married Norman Saar and they have three [illegible].

Willa married Walter Miller and they have two children. Myrna and Dennis. Myrna married Gordon Penner and they have two daughters.

Tony married Jean Dory and they have two [illegible].

Fred von Hollen who was born March 9, 1879 in Bremen, Germany, married Lily Lachmund in 1906.

Fred died September 20, 1937.

Lily was born in Bremen, Germany on November 27, 1884.

Lily von Hollen died January 17, 1963.

Lily Leslie died July 29, 1973.

WATERFIELD, WM. AND FLORENCE FAMILY

My name is Bill Waterfield and I have my wife, Florence, daughter Evelyn and two sons, Roger and John. I moved from Calgary to Alhambra in August, 1975. We live on the old Lessing place on the north side of the tracks. So being a newcomer I don't have too much history. I have the trees planted around the acre and some day hope to have a very nice corner. I have two ducks, two geese, two guinea fowl, a few rabbits and ban am chickens and also one goat. I am the care-taker at the David Thompson school. I am very happy I'm in the country and love my neighbors all around me.

WATTERS, PETER AND ALICE FAMILY - (By Alice Perich)

In 1927 Peter and Alice Watters arrived in Canada from the county of Armagh, Ireland with their three children, Micheal, Mary and Rose. They first settled around the Lacombe district where Peter worked with the railway at Chigwell, and at the experimental farm in the area. However, the quarter they farmed was very swampy and things weren't working out, so in 1928 they moved to the Ridgewood area, where they farmed for eleven years. In March, 1939, the family moved again, this time to the Alhambra district. Peter bought 2 quarters of land from George Farrington, NW 7-39-5-W5 and SE 12-39-6-W5. By this time many things had happened to the family. Four new members of the family had arrived, Peter, Alice, Johnny and Mctachy. The oldest daughter, Mary, was married and in 1940 the second oldest daughter Rose went east to join the convent in Ottawa, Ontario. Mike was no longer going to school by the time they moved to Alhambra, he was out working. The only two going to school were Peter who was in Grade 5 and Alice, who was in Grade 3, the two youngest boys Johnny and Mel were still babies at home. Some of the teachers through the years that taught the Watters' children were Mrs. Anna Sunde (Miss Sande), Miss Stagg, Miss Kennedy and Mrs. Allan Scott. One of the highlights of the family was in 1939 when Peter Watters went to Edmonton with his class to see the King and Queen. For this occasion, a special train was sent out from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House, so the children and their escorts could be transported to Edmonton.

On November 23, 1941 Peter Watters Sr. died at the age of 63 years from cancer. For many years he had suffered and during this time, a neighbor, Mrs. Bill Cochrane, would help Alice Watters administer the medicine he required. He was buried at Sylvan Lake.

This left Alice Watters with a farm to manage and five children to feed. So Mike and she continued to farm and manage as best they could. Alice Watters was a very well liked person and even though times were hard and as sick as she was, no one ever left without a cup of tea and something to eat. She had beautiful wavey red hair that stayed red till she died. At this time the boys also started building a new house to replace the log house they lived in since settling there. The youngest daughter, Alice went to train for nurses' aid at the C.N.A. school, in Calgary. She trained in many hospitals throughout Alberta and in 1951 she was called home to look after her mother who was very sick at this time. Grandma Watters never did see the new house the boys were building because in September, 1951, she died from cancer at the age of 55 years. She was also buried at Sylvan Lake beside her husband Peter.

This left the four boys at home batching. Since Johnny and Melachy were only 13 and 15 years old at this time, it was thought they would go to foster homes. So in order that this wouldn't happen Margaret and Harry Manning neighbors at the time, went to Castor to talk to Rose Watters, who was, at this time, Sister Alice of the cross, at the hospital in Castor. It was decided that she would come home and look after the two youngest boys, so they wouldn't have to go to foster homes. In 1952, Rose Watters, left the convent and came home to Alhambra. The years were eventful and there was never a dull moment with the boys around. In 1956, Rose got a job at the Rocky Mountain House creamery till the spring of 1957, when she went to work for Ludwig Construction as a cook. Also in 1957 Johnny and Mel went to work for Mel Laydon Construction where they acquired the experience that helped them later on. Pete and Mike worked in bush camps, Mallet Construction, oil rigs, etc.

March 14, 1961 Rose Watters married Arnold Buster Bye of Hanna, Alberta. They reside in Edmonton where Buster works with Union Tractor and Rose works at a government

Mary Watters, the oldest daughter, married Jacob Roth of Red Deer in 1936. In 1947 they moved from Red Deer to Salmon Arm, British Columbia where they are still living today. They have five children, Theresa, Frances, Dennis, Amy, and Eileen. All but two are married and live in British Columbia. Eileen is attending college in Calgary and Dennis is also in Calgary working.

Alice Watters married Ed Periche of Dovercourt on April 8, 1953. They farmed in the Dovercourt district for 20 years before selling the farm. They now reside on an acreage outside of Rocky Mountain House. They have four children. Jean the oldest is married to Larry Sota of Fort Macleod. Larry works for Alberta Government Telephones, and Jean is an assistant accountant with the Treasury Branch in Fort McMurray, Alberta. Gordon is working with Quon at the Aquitaine Plant (30 miles west of Rocky Mountain House). Linda attends college in Red Deer and Brian will finish grade 12 this year.

Mike Watters is married and has two children, Coleen and Darcy, both are still going to school. Mike works around Rocky Mountain House and area with heavy duty equipment. Also, Mike acquired the old farm in Ireland that was never sold when Grandpa Watters came to Canada.

Melachy Walters married Karen Campbell of Red Deer on April 4, 1959. They presently live in Medicine Hat and have three children Shell Kelly, and Dennis. Shelly attends college in Medicine Hat and the two boys still attend school. The boys are very involved in hockey

Johnny Walters married Donna Heikkinen of Benalto, and they have five children. Danny Loree, Kim, Carrie Lee and Lesne Rae. Danny is finished school and is apprenticing in Red Deer for a carpenter, the four girls still attend school Johnny works with heavy duty construction and Donna works in Red Deer They reside in Joffre Alberta

ANDREW SCHOOL (District No. 3888) – by Myrtle (Linder) Gale

On January 13, 1912 seven people interested in building a school in the Gilby district met at the home of Tom Sveen. Under the chairmanship of Frank Lee it was a unanimous decision that a school district be formed. The following persons were nominated as trustees, Tom Sveen, Wm Andrew and Karl Linder. Wm. H Lee was appointed secretary.

In March 1912 a meeting was called for the purpose of borrowing $800 to build the 24 by 30 Andrew School, to purchase two acres of land which was to be broken, seeded and fenced and to purchase school furniture. This loan was to be repaid in 10 annual instalments with interest not

The land was broken by John Liner using three oxen, and took one week. The lumber was hauled from Jabez McPherson's mill in Lockhart district, also by oxen driven by Mr. Frank Pike. Mr. and Mrs. Kern a built the school for $150. Charlie put in the windows while Mrs. Kernila shingled the roof.

Many important decisions were made at the board meetings, not the least of which was that at the January 1915 meeting the rate of taxes was set at 7¢ an acre. Tenders were called annually for supplying 10 cords of wood and the cleaning of the schoolhouse. Frank Palm repaired the school fence with fence posts costing 7 cents each.

Teachers were the heart of the school system then as they are today. Miss Lockhart (Mrs. Norem) was the first teacher hired. Mrs. S. Ethel Sambrook was the second teacher of the school, appointed February 1915, at the rate of $3 a day. She was followed by a succession of dedicated men and women who left their mark on the lives of the children and the community that they served so faithfully. It fell to the last teacher, Mrs. R. Betty Andrew in 1953, to close the doors of the Andrew School, thereby closing an era. The following fall the district children were bussed into Eckville.

To recall some of the happy school memories it was decided to hold an Andrew School reunion. Under the capable and enthusiastic chairmanship of Vivian Forsell Ogilvie and a cooperative steering committee, this proved a resounding success, when around 200 residents gathered at the Gilby Hall on July 8, 1972. Julien Sambrook and Edwin Linder sharing M.C. duties moved the interesting program along to its con clusion of animated conversation with old school pals and friendly teachers. The teachers present were: Mrs. Norem Miss Lockhart), Mrs Baldwin (Lisa Lundberg) Mrs Crawford Anna Liner Mrs. Pound Nellie Ashley and George Boorman now Dr Boorman of Rimbey

All who were a part of the small school districts such as the Andrew School feel a tug of nostalgia at their demise, and one can be grateful to have been a part of that wonderful time in our history

ANDERSON, HERB

Herb and Shirley Anderson, both from Bentley area rented the Wayne Siopsen farm five miles northeast of Eckville for three years, before buying the SE 6-41-3 W5 in 1959 from J Proudfoot When they came to the Gilby district they had three children Greg, Darcy and Jacqueline. Two boys, Wendell and Roland, were born later They built their present home in 1967

Upon selling their property, Jim and Dora Proudfoot moved to Kelowna B.C She had family ties at Kelowna and had lived there previously Jim was from Saskatchewan and has passed

The Anderson family like to have a part in community activities. Herb is an enthusiastic hunter and Shirley has enjoyed playing on the Eckville Ladies' Softball Team for the past 15

Greg and Darcy live at home as they are employed at gas plants nearby Jackie has worked at various jobs since completing Grade XII in June 197

ANDREW, WILLIAM AND ALICE

William Andrew and Alice Lee were married in England on January 7 1896

In 1905, they immigrated to Canada with four small children — Elizabeth (Ciss) Frank Charlie and Pryce. With them on the same boat came Mrs. Andrew's parents — Mr and Mrs John Lee her two brothers — Bill and Frank Lee: her sister Polly and husband Ernest Bradbury with their two sons — George and Fred and her sister Edie with husband Harry Battersby

After 22 days on the boat, they landed in Halifax, then came by train to Lacombe which was the end of the railway at that time. Trains moved so slowly then, that often the men would jump off to gather firewood to burn in the settlers' car stove for heating water, cooking and

They all eventually took up homesteads in the Gilby district

The Andrews' family spent the first year in Lacombe. Mr Andrew took employment with Bill McDermid, who was then in the draying business. In 1906, the family moved to the George Garries farm south of Bentley, where they were employed. Their daughter Ethel was born in July 1906, their first child born in Canada

A year or two later the family moved to their homestead on the NW 4-41-3-W5 in the Gilby district. It is believed that the lumber for their first home was hauled by team from Cumming's mill which was located near Gull Lake. Logs were used for the barn and other buildings

When the first few acres had been cleared, with an axe and grub hoe, a team consisting of a horse and a white bull was used for breaking the land. Oats were seeded broadcast and froze before ripening and was cut by hand to provide winter feed for the few head of stock Wild hay was also used for winter feeding In those early years, the rabbits were so numerous that feed stacks required fencing as they would eat much of the precious h

Prairie chickens and partridge, being very plentiful provided many delicious meals when other meat was so scarce. Fishing mostly at Wood Lake was usually good and was a welcome change in diet

Three children born after moving to the homestead were Gladys. Edythe and Roy delivered by Mrs. Tom Mary Sveen, who was a very dependable midwife willing to assist in any circumstance. They lived on the corner where Tom Thomas now resides

The need for a school was evident as the district became more settled and a meeting was held about 191. to begin to organize and plan for building and location. The school grounds were first plowed and disced by John Liner using three head of oxen. The lumber for the school was hauled by oxen from Jabez McPherson's Mill which at that time was located in the Lockhart district The school was first opened in 1912 and was named "Andrews School District" for the Andrew family The first teachers, from out of the district, also boarded in their home

With no community center, socials and dances were held in homes, ones that could provide enough space There were also picnics in the summer and skating parties on the rivers in the winter

The Andrew family were active in helping with the building of the Gilby Hall, contributing many hours of voluntary labor The hall was first opened in 1921. Their support continued throughout the years they lived in the area.

Mr. Andrew was an enthusiastic gardener but not being familiar with our Alberta climate had some disappointments in the first years. Winter and frost came so early one fall that a grub hoe was needed to dig the potatoes and a fire built to keep them from freezing until they could be brought inside. As years passed, and the boys took over the farm operations, he spent many hours with his garden and flowers. each year his well-kept yard was a blaze of color.

Their first home was destroyed by fire in 1911 and replaced shortly after with lumber from Jabez McPherson's Mill, located in the Lockhart district. Shortly after they purchased SE 4-41-3-W5 from brother-in-law Ernest Bradbury, who with his family moved to a farm at Burbank near Blackfalds.

Field work was all done with horses now and as time went on as many as 16 head were used, with eight being used on the plow, four each on harrows and seed drill. A John Deere tractor was purchased in the early 1930's, which retired many of the horses. They were still used for some field work, hauling feed, wood and hauling grain to the elevator.

Mr. Andrew's real love was good horses and he kept a well-groomed team of grays for driving. They gradually improved the cattle herd and raised good Shorthorn cattle, increasing the herd as time went on.

About 1930, they purchased SE 5-41-3-W5 which was used for grazing and until a tractor was purchased and part of the land was cultivated for grain.

Mrs. Andrew was one of the first members of the Gilby Ladies Club and remained with the Club until their retirement to Rimbey. Being of a very kind and motherly nature, there was scarcely a time through the summer holidays [illegible] part of their time at the farm. In later years, she was affectionately called "Grandma Andrew" by many friends as well as grandchildren.

In 1942 an auction sale was held at the farm after which they retired to Rimbey. Mr. Andrew continued with his gardening and had a very colorful yard through spring and summer. His well-arranged flower beds and vegetable garden were set out with plants, which had been started in his own greenhouse. Mrs. Andrew loved company and spent many afternoons visiting friends and patients in the hospital, often taking flowers from their own yard to add a cheery note.

On January 7, 1946 Mr. and Mrs. Andrew celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a family dinner at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Lester (Gladys) Saunders, followed by an open house in their home.

Mr. Andrew passed away in April, 1948 and Mrs. Andrew in March, 1964.

Names of the family in order of age are: Mrs. Albert (Elizabeth) (Miss) Bradley. Frank. Charlie. Pryce. Mrs. Paul (Ethel) Garries. Mrs. Lester (Gladys) Saunders. Mrs. Leslie (Edythe) Uhl and Roy.

ANDREW, FRANK, FAMILY

Frank (Francis) William Andrew, son of William and Alice Andrew was born in Suffolk, England on September 9, 1896. He married Clara Olidia Botten on July 26, 1921. Clara was the daughter of Hulover and Gunhild Botten. Born in Brenton, Minnesota, U.S.A. on June 5, 1895, Clara was raised in the Bluebell District and before her marriage was one of the first telephone operators in Eckville working at the Mountain View Hotel.

Frank served in the Canadian Engineers in the 1st World War. He served overseas for two [illegible]

Frank and Clara settled on the Gilby district the farm now owned by Herb and Shirley Anderson (SE 6-41-3-W5). There they had five children — Russell, Walter, Bernadien (born July 3, 1926 deceased December 27, 1928), Ethel and Cecil.

Along with farming, Frank had a breaking outfit with which he broke land for other farmers. While breaking he had a serious accident in 1930. He was run over by the plow losing one kidney and his spleen. Donations of blood from brothers, Pryce and Charlie, helped save him. He also had a threshing outfit, threshing in Leedale and Gilby districts.

In 1956, Frank and Clara sold their farm and retired to Red Deer. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1971. Clara passed away on December 7, 1975 at the age of 80 years. Frank now resides at the Eckville Manor House.

Russell, the eldest of Frank and Clara's family married the former Betty Boulton. Betty was the last teacher to teach at the Andrew School before centralizing in Eckville. Russ and Betty now reside on a farm at Olds where Russ farms and works in the feed mill. Betty teaches school. They have three children, Eric, Sheila, and Rhoda.

In 1942, Walter bought the W½ 28-40-3-W5 from Sid and Emily Jefferey and family — Clifford, John, Joyce, Sidney, Fred and Barbara who moved to a farm west of Edmonton. Walter married the former Evelyn Haarstad of Bentley. They have four children — Lorrie married Niel Judson and they have two sons, Kory and Shawn. Ron married Karen Brownlee and they have a daughter, Gina Dawn. Janice and Debra are both presently employed in banks. The children have always been active in sports and 4-H. Walter led the Gilby 4-H Club for six years. We all always enjoyed the pony practices held at the farm. Walter and Ron farm together in the Gilby district. Walter and Evelyn reside on land homesteaded by Adam Mathews. Selling this land in the early days Mr. Mathews then moved to the farm where Ron and Karen now live. This land was sold by Arnold and Ily Mathews to Ron and Karen in 1974.

Bernadien, their third child, passed away at a very young age (two and a half) in the Bentley Hospital two days before Ethel was born.

Ethel married Laurence Osberg of the Medicine Valley district. They live at Okotoks, Alberta where Laurence has his own roofing company. They have four sons, Dennis, Grant, Greg and Donnie.

Cecil married Helen Stolings of the Alhambra district. They live in Blackfalds where Cecil runs a sand and gravel trucking firm. They have three children, Diane, Darryl and Shelly.

ANDREW, CHARLES HENRY — by Hazel Andrew

Charles Henry Andrew was born June 8, 1900 in Shrewsbury, England and came to Canada with his parents, William and Alice Andrew, in 1905.

What little schooling Charlie had was acquired by attending the Benjamin, Stephenson and Andrew Schools. In the early years school was held in the summer months. When Charlie attended the Benjamin School he was lucky if he arrived by noon, as there were no roads, only trails through the bush and around the slough holes. He worked for a farmer in the Bentley area for his room and board while attending the Stephenson School. Many school days were missed as there was always work to be done on the farm.

Leaving school at an early age, Charlie worked in a lumber camp for Jabez McPherson in the Carlos area as a carriage rider in the saw mill. He also worked on a farm at Gleichen. While here, he drove five horses on a fresno digging ditches for irrigation. He later came home and worked for his uncle, William Lee, in the store at Lacombe.

In 1920 Charlie bought his first quarter section, NE 9-41-3-W5, from the C.P.R. This was a bush quarter so he spent many long working hours grubbing trees, brushing, burning, and breaking the land, with many additional hours picking roots and rocks. Breaking was done with horses and a breaking plow. Fencing was done by digging the post holes by hand with a post hole digger. In 1921 he helped build the Gilby Hall and joined the Alberta Wheat Pool in Eckville in 1922.

After his marriage to Ola Meredith of Bentley in 1924 Charlie rented the NE 4-41-3-W5 from his sister Elizabeth (Ciss) Bradley of Calgary. Ola passed away in 1930 after a lengthy illness and is buried in the Bentley Cemetery.

In 1932 Charlie and I, Evelyn Hazel Malcolm, were married. I was born and raised on a farm in the Lockhart district south of Rimbey, taking my schooling first at the Calkins Valley School and in 1930 and 1931 I attended the Olds School of Agriculture. I then returned home and helped my dad and mom (William and Katherine Malcolm) until my marriage. Charlie and I continued mixed farming, raising horses, cattle, hogs and milking cows. Many a mile Charlie walked, driving the horses to and from work on the hill. We were never without a good saddle pony and a good dog.

In 1938 we bought the NW 10-41-3-W5 from his uncle William Lee, and in 1945 we bought the NE 4-41-3-W5, which we had been renting from his sister, Ciss Bradley. This meant more work breaking the land with the help of our children, Bill, Albert, Evelyn and Irene. We would go out and pick roots and rocks, with us all working at it the job seemed easier. The smaller trees were hauled home to be sawed into blocks for firewood to be used in the cookstove and heater. Every farmer had a large wood pile for winter use. We used coal oil lamps in the house for lights and lanterns for outside use. They had to be filled with coal oil and the globes cleaned every night. Clothes were washed on a wash board until later when we got a hand washing machine. The water was brought in in pails from a hand pump outside for use in the house. Ironing was done with sad irons heated on the stove. We baked our own bread and made our own soap for washing. The most tedious job seemed to be churning the cream into butter. Having a bath on a Saturday night in front of the stove to keep warm, and using a small tub or wash tub, was something else! Later we put in the Calgary Power which was a great help in many ways.

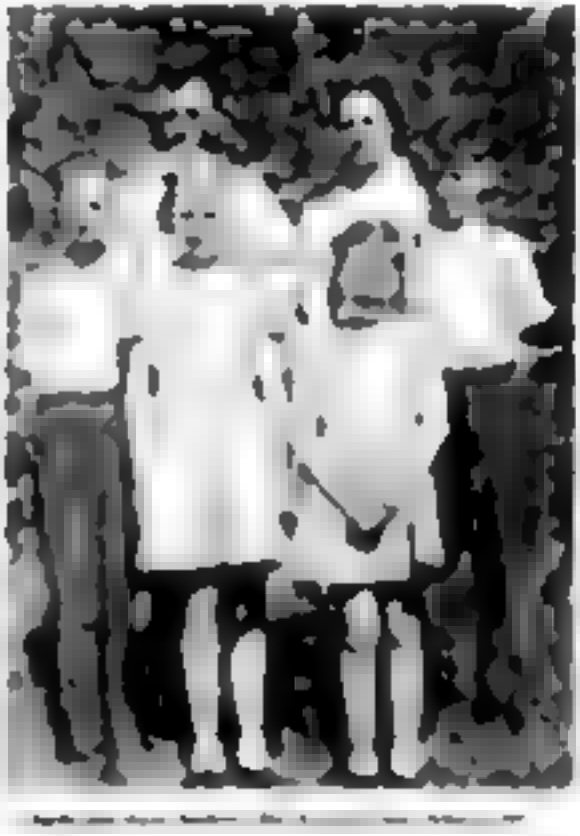
Charlie took great pride in caring for his horses and the harness. He loved to drive the team, especially in the winter months, using the sleigh. He would put the scotch tops, spread rugs and hip bells on the harness. The bells made such a wonderful sound as the team would trot down the road — it was truly a "musical ride". Every March for many years Charlie would take horses to be sold at the Lacombe Horse Sale. It took four to five months of feeding and grooming to get a horse in shape for the sale. Charlie also liked to break horses to drive as well as ride.

Life wasn't all hard work, as we would take our family to fairs, picnics, shows and dances. We went to many dances, as Charlie enjoyed dancing very much. He would be asked to call the square dances, which he enjoyed doing. The Christmas concerts put on by the teacher and her pupils were very much enjoyed by everyone. Quite often Charlie was asked to play the part of Santa Claus, giving the children their gifts and treats from a well decorated tree. The picnics at the end of the school term were enjoyed, too, as that was the day for races and bath games for the children and visiting for the parents, much lunch, coffee and homemade ice cream. We miss this today!



Alfred Molander purchased a 1928 Ford truck from Charlie and his brother Fred had driven it home and had been working on it. There had been a complete motor job, welding and hammering for a few days. One evening there was quite a commotion in the cab of the truck. Investigation disclosed a bantam hen, and behind the seat a nest of eggs. The hen had apparently been there all the time. Fred says he hates to think of what may have happened if the bantam had popped out, squawking, when he was driving home! The children were happy that no harm had come to their bantam hen.

Charlie would often sit down in an evening and play the mouth organ or Jews harp. Whenever we went camping in later years he always had his mouth organ with him. We both enjoyed picking berries, especially blueberries and low bush cranberries.

In 1935 we hired a girl to work for us for two months. The top wages then was $8 a month. We built our new home in 1949, and planted many trees around the yard, including spruce, pine, birch and apple trees. We made a fence in front using lanterns that we had bought at sales and had later painted. The old two-room house was moved away and used for a granary for many years. It is now demolished.

In January, 1953, Charlie, Bill and Albert [illegible] snow. July of that year brought great excitement to the valley when the first oil well was drilled on our place, NE 4-41-3-W5. This well is still producing today. Many a cup of coffee we served whenever the men working on the well came to use the telephone.

From May until October in 1958 Charlie lost his voice — he couldn't speak a word! That summer our good neighbors, George and Isabel Guest and family, Irvin and Clydie Both, Albert Guest and Ellen Guest invited us to go on a trip to Kamloops, B.C. with them. This proved to be a very enjoyable trip, even though Charlie couldn't speak a word.

In 1961 and 1963 we sold the half section on the hill to Shirley Edwards and Irvin Both. They later sold, and the new owners of both quarters, NE 9-41-3-W5 and NW 10-41-3-W5, are Wallace and Carol Kret.

In 1967 we retired from farming, selling our cattle and renting the farm for pasture. Then we were free to travel, go fishing or just take care of our yard, which we both enjoyed doing. We bought a new truck and camper and did a lot of travelling and fishing. Our first trip was to Alaska which proved very interesting and enjoyable. Every year at the first part of August we would travel with the Cavalcade to the Kootenay Plains for three days of entertainment hikes or visiting over a camp fire in the evenings We never missed going to auction sales, as we liked to visit, or buy some small item or a box of "Junk" to rummage through when we got home Surprising what you can find in one of these box

In 1970 we had a sale and sold our machinery and the antiques we had on display in our home for anyone to see The school teachers would bring their pupils to see and enjoy the antique items, and Charlie was always very happy to explain each piece of them

We sold the farm to our son Bill in 1971 then bought a home in Eckville. Both families moved in May of 1972

In June 1972 our children and the community put on a 40th wedding anniversary party for us in the Gilby Hall This was a day to remember! In that year our eight grandchildren's ages added up to 40 years, the same number of years we had been married

Charlie hadn't been feeling too well since 1971 and passed away December 18, 1973. He is buried in the Bentley Cemetery I continue living in Eckville, where I keep busy with my many hobbies, enjoy travelling, fishing, and taking care of the yard

Our children had taken their schooling at the Andrew and Eckville Schools. An account of each of them follows

William Charles Andrew was born March 12, 1933 He attended a two-year course at the Olds College of Agriculture in 1950 and 1951, returning home to help his dad with the farming until 1954 He then started to work for Texaco Exploration Canada Limited as a battery operator He is now the plant foreman. He married June Gerber of Eckville on June 15, 1963. June had attended Gaetz, Condor and David Thompson Schools After leaving school she worked for the Eckville Co-op as assistant bookkeeper Bill and June have three children, one daughter, Colleen, two sons, Collin and Curtis. They live on the farm and raise a few Hereford cattle

Albert Arthur Andrew was born April 22, 1934 and worked on the Lacombe Experimental Farm when he left school Following this he worked in Uranium City in northwestern Saskatchewan He married Marlene McLachlan June 27 1974, of Swift Current Saskatchewan, where he had worked for several years in the oil fields before moving to Wainwright Alberta Here he has worked for Husky Oil Company as a battery operator since November 1966 They have two sons, David and Douglas, and live on the farm which they purchased when moving to Alberta They raise a few cattle and raise and break the chuck-wagon ponies which Albert drives in the summer months. They also enjoy saddle ponies

Evelyn Mae, born April 12, 1935, worked for the Eckville Co-op Hardware when she left school, then worked for the Alpha Dairy Pooled Deer She married Franklin Brown on September 4, 1965 of Ste. Rose Du Lac Manitoba. They have one daughter, Audra Frank has worked for Alberta Government Telephones since 1956 and is now the construction foreman They live on an acreage south of Red Deer

Irene Loretta, born January 13 1938 graduated from school, taking a certified nursing aide course in Calgary She graduated in 1959, then worked in Calgary Drumheller Red Deer and Eckville On March 30, 1961 Irene married Harold Leach of Swanson Saskatchewan. They have two children, a daughter Ledena and a son, Myles. In 1963 Harold worked for the Eckville Co-op Hardware until 1967 when he moved to Kindersley Saskatchewan to work for the Co-op Hardware until the Co-op Service Center was opened in 1968, where he worked for another year He moved back to Eckville and worked for the Eckville Co-op Hardware for three years. In 1973 Harold started work for Sunoco Oil Company as a battery operator and lives in their new home which they built in Eckville. Harold teaches guitar once a week during the winter months from the basement of his home. He plays the steel guitar himself in an orchestra. In November 1977 Harold was elected Mayor of Eckville for three years He had been a member of the town council for two years previous to becoming Mayor For two years he was on the Lacombe District Regional Recreation Board

ANDREW PRYCE AND FAMILY

Pryce Andrew, born in England July 4, 1903, came with his parents, two brothers and a sister to Canada in 1905. Their first year was spent in Lacombe, later moving to south of Bentley to the George Garries farm, where his father was employed A year or two later the family moved to their homestead on NW 4-41 3-W5 in the Gilby

With no school in the district, Pryce and his brother Frank walked several miles to attend Benjamin School about 1910-1911 The walk was shortened in 1912 when the Andrews' School had been built and was opened. As there were no roads, they would cut across the pasture and creek on the shortest route. In the spring, after the morning milking and other chores were finished, would run all the way to school to play ball for a few minutes before the bell rang For two years, Pryce also worked for his aunt and uncle — Ernest and Polly Bradbury of Burbank and attended school at Blackfalds. His uncle operated the electric lighting power plant situated on the banks of the Red Deer River supplying Lacombe with electric power Later he helped his uncle, Bill Lee who owned and operated the Leedale store, returning home when the school term started

At an early age he was helping with the farm work at home, milking cows, helping to clear land and working with horses in the fields. After leaving school, he continued working on the farm creasing numbers of cattle, horses and pigs

Entertainment was home-made with ma often held at the place with the largest space · sometimes the upstairs was used. Horseback was the popular method of transportation — especially with the younger crowd. Many an afternoon was spent horse-trading, with everyone going home thinking he had made a real deal. In 925, the family bought their first car. It was a Ford Touring car and as Pryce recalls, cost $600 new. He was the only driver at the time as his father preferred his driving team

In the summer of 1935, Pryce moved to his own farm on NE 8-41 3-W5 and later the same year on November 21 was married to Jessie Malcolm of the Lockhart district

Although tractors were now becoming popular he farmed with horses until 1940 when the first tractor was bought. In 1945 he purchased another quarter SE 8-41 3-W5 from his brother in-law, Albert Bradley after having rented for several years. Harvesting was still done by cutting grain with a binder, stooking the bundles and threshing separator, with a tractor used for power. Wood was the main source of fuel used for heating and cooking, with some coal used during the winter. Hauling loads and loads of firewood was done in the wintertime — after the pressure of harvesting and field work was over. In spring neighbors exchanged work in sawing the piles of wood into stove lengths. When Calgary Power was brought in, in 1951, this chore was practically eliminated

Pryce served as a Board Member of Calgary Power when it was organized. He was also on the Gaby Hall Board for many years and on the Andrews School Board prior to the school closing about 1952, when the children were bused into Eckville. Before A G T installed phones in 1967, he was a board member of the Eckville Mutual Telephone Association for nine years and worked as line trouble man for this area. From the time he started farming was a member of the Alberta Wheat Pool and Central Alberta Dairy Pool.

They have four children — Faye, Janet, Allan and Shirley. Faye has three children — Karen, Brian and Drew and lives in Red Deer. Jan married Glyn Pugh and has two children — Terry and Elaine and they farm east of Ponoka. Allan is married to Darlene McLaren from Calgary. They have one daughter, Stacy and live on the home farm. He is presently employed as an electrician and is gradually taking over the farm. Shirley has lived in Yellowknife, N W T since November 1976 where she was employed by the Imperial Bank of Commerce. Since July 1977 she has been employed by the R.C.M.P. Detachment in Yellowknife.

They are still living on the farm and are semi-retired. Pryce, in the last few years, has spent many hours at his hobby of repairing old machinery, harness, and wagons as the farming load gradually decreases.

ANDREW ROY

Roy's parents sold him the W½ 4 and the N½ 5-41-3-W5, upon their retirement. He was a bachelor farmer until 1 March 1948 when he married Phyllis McDonald of Eckville. They lived on the homestead for 10 years and it was during those years that four of their six children were born. Their oldest, Donald Roy, was deceased in October 1950.

In April, 1958, Roy bought the W½ and the SE 34-40-3-W5 from Edward Moro and sold the W½ 4 to Shirley Edwards. Being the home place was one-half mile off the road there were many gates to open and close (before the time of the 'Texas gate') so the move meant progress. When the Moro property was purchased, with its complete set of fine buildings, the deal was considered a large venture but is small according to today's holdings.

Roy attended the Andrew School and for a time was the janitor earning the princely sum of 50 cents a day. Phyllis took her schooling at Eckville, attended Edmonton Normal School and taught for six years previous to their marriage. She recalls that boys and girls growing up in Eckville at that time had the chance to participate in many extra activities. There were school fairs, calf clubs, C.G.I.T. and Sunday School. Some of the various sports were skating, skiing, playing ball, biking, hiking and swimming — there were 'holes' in both the Medicine and Horseguard Rivers. If taking part in the commendable activities were too dull they sometimes went astray and would walk to the crests where they dared one another to climb the structure What a treacherous pastime!

Roy and Phyllis have five daughters. Sylvia the oldest has her R.N degree and is married to Daliph Ganga. They live in Edmonton. Bonnie took a Commercial Cooking course and is employed in Red Deer Lorene has her Distinction Award in aquatics has been employed at swimming pools for the past four summers and is teaching school in Rocky Mountain House Joan is employed as laboratory and X-ray technician at Edson Hospital Mavis attends Eckville High School and is in Grade 12. The girls enjoyed participating in many sports, were in 4-H clothing clubs and took music lessons from a very dedicated teacher, Mrs (Westergard Whidden, who prepared them for Toronto Conservatory Piano Exams in both theory and

Looking back over the past 30 years there is no doubt that the advent of Calgary Power brought the most notable changes in their way of living. When they first got the power in the fall of 1951, their workload was considerably lessened no separator to turn, cream to put down the well, or gas irons to fume away only to mention a few of the improvements that were of their benefit.

Roy and Phyllis consider themselves very fortunate that their pioneering parents came and toiled on homesteads so that they might have the satisfaction of mixed farming in this area

BAKER, C[illegible]

Christopher and Nellie Baker came to the Andrew School District from Coronation Alberta in 1922, with their oldest son, Ralph, who was then one year old. They purchased the SW 10-40-3-W5 or better known as the Canyon Place

At that time, their oldest daughter May was living with her grandparents, Mr and Mrs Jack Williams who lived nearby

Their second son, Frank, was born in 1925 and daughter, Olive, was born in Eckville in 192

In about 1928 Chris moved his family to Eckville where he managed the local butcher shop for awhile

From Eckville they moved onto an acreage south of Leslieville in 1929, while there, Chris managed the butcher shop in Leslieville, for sometime

Their son, George, was born at Leslievilie in 1930 and their daughter, Helen, in 1935

Later on they purchased a farm northwest of Leslieville, now known as the Paul Jones farm

In 1942 their oldest son, Ralph, joined the armed forces and spent the better part of four years overseas. He returned home to look after his father's farm in 1946. The farm was sold two years later

Chris and Nellie returned to Leslieville to retire Chris passed away in 1950, and Nellie lived with her son, George, for a few years in Calgary, before moving into a Calgary Senior Citizens home

Ralph married Irene Heikkinen they have six children, and are presently living at Winfield

Frank is married, has two children and is living in Airdrie

May and husband have three children and are now living in Prince George, B.C

Olive married Veno Cech and they had two children. She passed away in 1952

George is married and has one child. They are living in Calgary

Helen married Pete St. Pierre, they have three children and are living in Edmonton

BOSONWORTH, JACK AND M[illegible] LINDER
by Ruth Bosonworth

I first opened my eyes in a logging camp not far from Warren, Oregon U.S.A I was reported to have been born in a tent, and I guess that accounts for my love of fresh air Before I reached the age of two years my parents were looking for pastures new, and had heard glowing accounts of receiving free land in the form of homesteads in Alberta. Both being young, strong and ambitious, it appealed to them They left Oregon for Alberta to try their luck in farming on a homestead in the Gilby district

In time they acquired two more quarters of land and this was to be their home until they retired. I learned my three R's in the Andrew school, which was situated a mile from home, on one of the folks' quarters. I then took a domestic science course for the fall and winter months When I returned I spent the next winter at Wolfe Creek, giving school lessons to three children, as there was no school there. The necessary school materials were being supplied through the government

In the spring, upon my return to the farm, I was offered a job as a telephone operator at Bentley, which I gladly accepted and enjoyed immensely I was 19 years old at this time Unfortunately, after working there for approximately one year I fell a victim of T.B which started as a result of a bad cold and an attack of pleurisy When after six months of waiting for a bed at the Central Alberta Sanatorium at the Keith, as it was often referred to, about nine miles out of Calgary. I was finally admitted as a patient. I spent one year and 22 days, to be exact there When the folks asked if I could come home I was allowed to be released if I would promise to take my rest hours and continue the cure as I had been doing. I spent several years convalescing at home

In 1936 my brother Edwin, who was then working in Courtenay, B.C wrote to me and encouraged me to come out there for a short holiday Thinking the change might be beneficial, I needed nobody to twist my arm, and in a very short time I was heading for British Columbia.

When Jack Bosomworth, my boy friend heard of my plans he asked to accompany me which he did. Owing to my present state of health, my parents begged me not to enter the sea of matrimony for at least a year. After visiting with friends for a month or so Edwin told me that a couple of his buddies, who worked for the Comox Logging Company where Edwin was also employed, wondered if I felt strong enough to take a job cooking for them and Edwin. Feeling that I must do something if I was to stay on in B.C. I said I'd try it, and this is what I did. We got a place at Merville B.C., and I was there for about a year cooking for my brother and his friends.

The following year Jack and I were married at Courtenay, B.C., in 1937. After our marriage the boys I had been cooking for wanted to board with us, which they did for a time. On February 27 1938 our first child, a boy was born. We named him Innis John Karl. Shortly after this we moved to Comox, B.C., where our first daughter Beverley Kathleen, was born on October 28, 1940. When she was only three or four weeks old we purchased fourteen acres of land not far from where we were living.

Work at this time was scarce in the line of [illegible] so we moved to Vancouver where Jack got a job in the shipyards, as it was war time. We were there for approximately two years when we again moved back to our place at Comox, as we had heard of a new airport being built only about five or six miles from our home. Jack applied for and got a job on this project.

In 1945 Sharon, our youngest daughter, was born in the Comox hospital, on May 6. All of our children were born in the Comox hospital.

In 1960 our son Innis was married to Diane Ellis, of Courtenay, and a day later we moved to Alberta, where work seemed to be more plentiful, and Innis and Diane moved to our place. We were hoping to be gone for only a year or so, but ended up being away for nine years. In 1969 we moved back to Comox and built a new home for our retirement.

Innis' first marriage ended in divorce, so he married Connie Sharpe, originally from Stettler, on September 16, 1967. A son, Darren Allan, was born to them on October 12, 1975.

Beverley married Elmer Loyck and has three children, two girls and a boy. Lori was born on January 24, 1965, Joneel was born on October 4, 1966, and Dwayne on July 21, 1968. Beverley and Elmer lived around Rimbey for several years where Elmer owned and operated a garage for some time, later selling it to Marvin Sargeant. He then bought several quarters of land south of Benalto and went farming on a large scale. Bev taught school in Rimbey and Stettler before her marriage.

Sharon Marie Ruth married Earl Hadley of Red Deer, and they now live at R.R. 2, Ardrossan. Earl is employed with Schlumberger Oil Company, and works in and out of Edmonton.

Innis, our son, lives on our place where we gave him half an acre. He drives a big oil truck for Gulf Oil.

My husband, Jack was well known both in the Lockhart and Gilby districts, having worked for such old-timers as Mr. Bill Andrew, Mr. McTighe and Hilmer Thorp in the Gilby district and also for several men in the Lockhart district such as Carl Thomas. He left Edinburgh Scotland when he was 18 years old, to be with his brother Stewart, known as "Scottie" to his friends, in Carstairs. Later he came with Twineys, who settled in the Lockhart district. His first job was for Christ Baker, who then resided in what was known as the Canyon.

BRADLEY, ELIZABETH

Elizabeth (Ciss) Bradley eldest daughter of William and Alice Andrew came with her parents and other members of the family from England to Canada in 1905. She spent the first year in Lacombe with the family and when her parents moved near Bentley she remained in Lacombe to attend school. After leaving school she worked as a telephone operator.

She is married to Albert J. Bradley and they live in Calgary. They have two children — Doreen, married to Tom Hall who lives in Calgary and have two married sons. Roland and his wife Hazel live with their sons at the West Coast.

CHILDHOOD MEMORIES — by Edna Carroll

The 1930's I recall
Were very happy times
For I was just a little girl
With my head full of rhymes

Dusty summer country roads
Made soft puffs where ponies stepped Carrying us off to school
And past the friends we met

Trotting clip-clop by the farms,
And all along the river
And if a thunderstorm came up
We sat, all wet, and shivered

Nine o clock found us in school.
Doing Rapid Calculation
In afternoons the History Class
Taught us all about our nation

At recess time there were ball games
And playing Farmer-in-the-Dell
Oh how we loved hop-scotch,
And picking wild bluebells

Out beside the wood-pile
Where we ate our springtime lunch,
While gophers played and hornets buzzed,
Perched on sun-warmed wood, we munched

Salt pork with lots of mustard
On homemade bread and butter

Tasted just delicious —
While we watched a robin flutter

Built-in Nature Study
Was all around us throbbing
Frogs croaked along the roadside
And ducklings went a-bobbing

As afternoons turned cooler
We started out for home.
To milk the cows, and separate
And be a little while alone

Mother waited by the stove
To lay our supper out
Life on a farm was beautiful.
Of that I have no doubt

THE HEBRE FERGUSON FAMILY — by Eileen Matthews

Hebre K. Ferguson, with his wife, Abbey and young son, Clarence, arrived in Edmonton from Truro, Nova Scotia in 1906. Hebre worked there as a carpenter for a number of years. Abbey passed away in 1911, leaving Hebre with a young son to raise.

In 1920 Hebre and Clarence moved to a farm in the Gilby area. Clarence did farm work in the district until the time he was able to purchase his own land.

Clarence married Kathleen Lawton and they farmed in the Gilby district. The land had to be cleared of the timber and brush and broke with horses and a walking plow. The grain from the farm was hauled with a team of horses and wagon 12 miles to Eckville.

Hebre and Kathleen Ferguson, Wedding Picture, 1920

There were cows milked and the cream was sold to the Eckville creamery. These cream cheques helped to buy groceries for the family.

Clarence and Kathy have six children: Eileen, Ralph, Laurence, Leslie, Faye and Alec (Jay). The older children attended Andrew school, which was two and a half miles down the road. Clarence served on the school board for a number of years and was active in other community organizations as well. Throughout the summer months there were baseball games amongst the different communities and Clarence would be the umpire. All the families would attend, and there would be a picnic lunch complete with home-made ice cream after the game.

In 1938 the Gilby Calf Club was formed and the four older children belonged to this organization.

In 1942 the farm was rented out and the family moved to the town of Eckville where Clarence managed Larry Knudson's garage for one year.

In 1942 Clarence took over the John Deere and Imperial Oil Agencies from the late Phil Laybourne. He belonged to the Eckville Curling Club, Board of Trade, and also assisted the hockey club and other sports activities.

The farm was sold to Fred Johnson in 1946. Hebre, having lived on the farm with his son, moved into Eckville at this time. He passed away in 1953.

Clarence passed away in 1965. The oldest son Ralph and his mother managed the business until it was sold to the late Tom Klamak in 1953. This same property was sold to Revelstoke Lumber Company in 1958. At this time Kathy purchased her present home on 53 Avenue in Eckville from the late John Saari.

Kathy was night operator at the local telephone office from 1956 until 1967 at which time Alberta Government Telephones installed the present system.

Before retirement in 1969 Kathy worked in the Eckville Hotel Cafe, and also at the co-op coffee shop.

Ralph married Chris Caldwell and lived in the eastern United States for a number of years before moving to Edmonton, where they presently reside.

Laurence married Margaret McDonald in 1951, and they are presently living in Red Deer. Laurence manages the A & W drive-in restaurants in Red Deer and Wetaskiwin. They have a family of four — two boys and two girls. Eldest son, Sheldon, has a degree in business administration from Northeastern University, Boston. He is married to Dorie and currently coaches the Red Deer Rustler Hockey Club. Ronnie has his bachelor of arts degree from Wilcox, Saskatchewan. He is now a research assistant for Attorney General Jim Foster. Margaret Ann has completed her third year of pharmacy at the University of Alberta, Edmonton. Cindy took a teacher-aide course at Red Deer College.

Les married Pat Crawford in July, 1951 and worked for Alberta Wheat Pool for 16 years. He later moved to Red Deer. They have five children: Gwen, Donald, Grant, Dwayne, and Barbara.

Faye married Melvin (Bud) Osborne on May

1, 1953. They have three children, Dale, Rodney and Karen. The family is presently living in Ed

FORSELL, GUNNAR AND ADELINA — as recalled by Vivian Forsell Ogilvie

Adelina Erickson emigrated to Seattle, Washington from Uddevalla, Sweden in 1903. She had several cousins already in Seattle with whom she first made her home. She worked as a housekeeper for different families until her marriage. Adelina was born in Alvick, Sweden on July 19, 1883.

Gunnar Forsell, at 17 years of age, emigrated to Tacoma, Washington to be with his uncle Carl G. Forsell, in 1904. Gunnar was born in Vadevalla, Sweden, on April 3, 1885. While attending a dance at the Swedish Club in Seattle, Adelina met Gunnar. On August 3, 1907 they were married and set up a boarding house in Seattle. One of their first patrons was a couple from Alberta, on their honeymoon, namely Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson from Gilby. The Petersons who had already established a home in Alberta described the outstanding features of living in Alberta, and one of the features was the homestead. To be able to purchase a 160-acre plot for $10. appealed to the young Forsell couple. After some consideration, the Forsells sold their boarding house, packed all their belongings and entrained for Eckville.

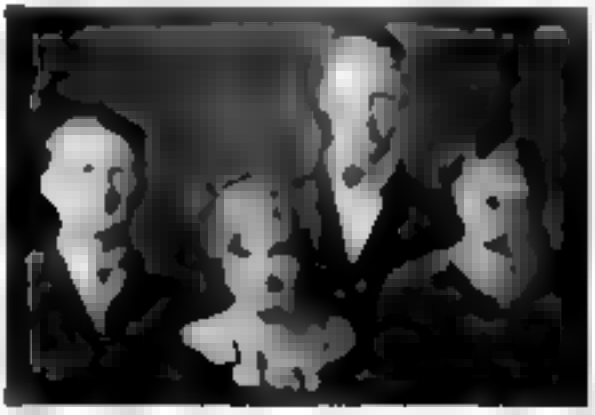
They were full of enthusiasm. Here was an opportunity to be part of the great open country and the possibilities of riches appealed to them. Little did they know of the hardships and deprivations of pioneering. Upon reaching Eckville they hired a Mitzner livery outfit and started north for the Peter Peterson homestead. Mother tells of the rig getting stuck in a slough about three miles north of Eckville and how she gathered up her heavy long skirt, took one long jump, cleared the buggy and a wire fence to land on dry ground.

This young couple struggled like all other pioneers to carve out a home on the homestead they acquired, the SE 3-41-3-W5.

Both Gunnar and Adelina worked in Calgary before establishing a permanent home on their homestead. Working as a team, they cut the logs and hauled them to McPherson's sawmill near Bentley. Their ox and horse provided the power for the haul. A frame house on the hill replaced the little old log house nearer the road. To make ends meet, mother did house work in Calgary and she also bought a horse. Dad drove two or three teams in tandem while hauling freight between Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House before the railway was completed.

To augment the often-empty larder resourcefulness was necessary. Partridges and prairie chickens, which were in abundance, helped in the survival, and a garden patch was soon established. Today much emphasis is placed on style — new outfits at least every month but in those early days the same dress or suit had to last for many years. Making something new out of something old became a real art. Many a shirt tail became a cute dress for a little girl and a new piece of material was a prized possession.

Two children were born to Adelina and Gunnar. In March, 1912 Vivian, now Mrs. William Ogilvie, was born and Elzer arrived in 1914. In January, Vivian became a teacher in 1930, having received her training at Camrose. In 1939 she was united in marriage to William Ogilvie, who passed away in Lacombe in 1973. They had one daughter, Dolores, who became a library technician and as of 1977, is working for Alberta Housing in Edmonton.



Elzer married the former Dorothy Simon of Forshee and he had a family of four — Gerald, Patricia, Carol Anne, and Susan. His family story is in a separate account.

The Forsells did their share in the Andrew School District, with dad acting as secretary-treasurer for 16 years. Those days that position meant sending out all tax notices plus collecting the tax money, paying the teacher, and, in general, doing the entire business of the local school district. Finally the books were moved to Bentley under the municipal system and then under the county system. The governing body was centered in Lacombe.

With the exception of one year spent near Tacoma, Washington, with Uncle Carl G. Forsell and four years in Ladner, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Forsell lived on the homestead.

Mother passed away in 1952, Dad passed away in 1954, and Elzer in 1956. All are buried in the Gilby cemetery. Uncle Carl G. Forsell passed away in 1937, and is also buried in the Gilby cemetery.

The present owner of the Forsell homestead is John Lauritsen.

The early settlers must have been a hardy sort. To survive they had to stand on their own feet. To be successful required even more effort. No doubt the pioneers would have had it no other way and would do it again — would consider it a challenge and a rewarding experience. There were no government grants, no farm loans, no come. With the corner grocery maybe 10 or 20 miles away a supply of flour was milled in the local mills from their own grain and stored in a dry place.

Oil wells dotting the countryside, gravel roads replacing the muddy grades and a wide hard-top through the valley would, no doubt provide a big surprise to pioneers if they were to take a look today.

FORSELLS — by Pat Lightbown

The wedding of Elzer Forsell and Dorothy Simon in 1942 begins this story. They came to live on the Forsell homestead where he and his father farmed. They had three children, first a son, Gerald and then two daughters, Patricia and Carol Ann.

I remember the harvest season the best because of all the excitement. When the threshing crew came we had a bunk house and a granary for the hired men. These places were supposed to be off bounds for the kids. The Indians camped in the pasture and we weren't supposed to bother them, either, but there were some kids to play with so we were around quite a bit. We had hired men come out from Ontario to work a couple of years during the harvest. We have kept in touch with two of these men and Gerry had visited them when he was stationed in Ontario.

Gerry started school at Andrews School and that year 1949 there were many teachers until finally one settled. Pat started the next year. There were five students in grade one that year and they all graduated together from high school in 1962. We went to school there until the school closed in 1952. We were a mile and a half from the school but didn't always have to walk because some of our neighbors had twice as far to go, so always room for two more to ride. In the spri supposed to be wearing shoes or boots we would stash them in a culvert to wear home again. If it was too muddy we had to wash feet under the pump before we were allowed into the school.

In the fall of 1952 we were bussed to Eckville. Carol Ann started school that year, too. The school was too crowded so some of us from that of the district were sent to the Estonian school. The classes were grades three to six, so Carol Ann went to Eckville and Gerry and Pat to Grandpa and Grandma had moved from the farm to Ladner, B.C. in 1948. They were living there when Grandma died in November of 1952. Grandpa came back to Eckville then and bought a small house in town.

I remember one winter while we were going to Andrews School. The weather had been pretty bad. I don't know if it was really cold, but there was a lot of snow and wind. Our road was drifted in solid from the half mile fence to the corner. As kids, we thought it was great to be able to walk anywhere in the fields without sinking into the snow. One night we went visiting the neighbors by sleigh. Gates and fences were no problem because they were drifted over. When the road was finally cleared out the banks were really high, the road was really narrow. Daddy and Julien Sambrook were going to his hayland early one morning. We were on our way to school when they were coming back with a loaded hay rack. We had to climb the banks to get out of the way. We were above the rack when they went by, and were seriously considering jumping on the load when Daddy looked back. We decided to go to school instead!

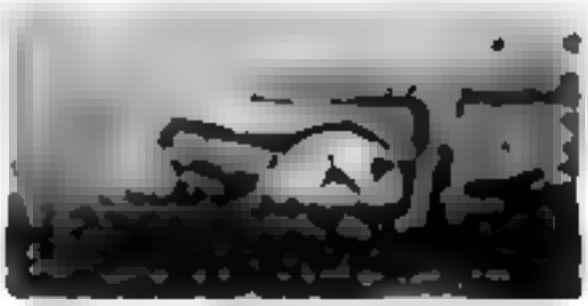
We continued our schooling in Eckville and were there for each new addition, the moving of the teacherage out of the school yard, and many other changes.

Grandpa lived in town for a couple of years but spent lots of time at the farm. He had great patience with us. He loved to play cards, and needing some competition, he taught us how to play crib and canasta and even solitaire, so we would let him rest from playing once in a while too. We used to come to his house in town too, and one night in particular, Hallowe'en night we were there. We had never been trick-or-treating in town before, so we were allowed to tour the next block that night. That was a real change for us, and we thought we'd really got a lot of treats. Grandpa died on New Year's Day of 1954.

The oil business came to our part of the country about 1955. The rigs were quite a strange thing in this part of the country. Daddy drove a water truck for one of the truck owners. The rigs were really busy and the trucking hours were to the extreme.

Alberta's Golden Jubilee was in 1955 and the school had a program in its honor. The teachers worked very hard organizing it. Our part of the program was a dance which we presented on the sidewalk in front of the school. The weather must have been good.

I remember Daddy belonging to the Bentley Elks and the Bentley Band. He was a great one to play a joke on someone. One time he'd bought Mom a new set of dishes. She was away at the time so it was a surprise, and we were very secretive about it. They were a new kind that didn't break. We brought her home and made some coffee before bedtime. She was sitting at the table and Daddy went to the cupboard, opened the doors and showed her the new dishes. Then he threw a cup to her. She was really surprized, but she caught the cup. Then he explained how they wouldn't have broken anyway. We thought it was a real funny joke. He played that trick on many people and we always got a real kick out of it.



Farming had really changed in that time from threshing machines and big crews to combines and a couple of men working together.

It seems that during the summer and fall of 1956 we were always on the go. We'd load up the big truck with friends and go berry picking and picnicking a lot. We'd just pick up and go whenever we could — it didn't matter if it was washday or whatever — if the weather was good or not — off we'd go. Mom and Daddy belonged to many groups, and I think each group had a picnic at Gull Lake every year. It was really fun. Gerry was in Grade eight, Pat in Grade seven and Carol Ann in Grade five when our dad died that November. It was a very hard time for us but we managed. Grandma Simon came to live with us. We had a new baby sister Susan the following January.

We stayed on the farm and rented the land for the next four years, moving to town in 1960. Mom kept the farm until 1964, when she sold the home quarter. In December of 1961 Gerry joined the Air Force and went East for his training. He had graduated from high school earlier that year. Mom was working in the Co-op and had been for a few years. Carol Ann and Pat were still in school. Pat graduated in 1962, Susan started school in 1963. Carol Ann graduated in 1964 and went on to a secretarial school in Calgary. Pat married David Lightbown in November of 1962. Mom and Susan moved to Fairview, Alberta on the Labor Day weekend of 1964. Carol Ann married Ron Craig in July of 1965. They have three children, Kathryn, Bradley and Charlene. They reside near Delburne.

Gerry married Beverly Shearlaw of Three Hills in France, in June of 1967. He bought out Dave Lightbown Trucking in February of 1976 and they now live in this district. They have one daughter, Rhonda.

TED AND MYRTLE (LINDER) GALE — by Myrtle Gale

Being the youngest of six children born to Karl and Emma Linder, I was the one privileged to go to high school. I attended the Red Deer High School, from 1939 to 1942, and later took my R.N. training at the Vancouver General Hospital, graduating in 1946.

In November of 1947 Ted Gale of Saskatchewan, and I were married in Nanaimo, B.C. We lived and worked in Vancouver until buying a small farm near Red Deer in 1953. I nursed for ten years in what is now known as the Michener Centre at Red Deer. In 1968 we moved to the Linder farm in the Gilby district, where we are still living.

We have two sons, Gordon Edward, born in 1950 and Bruce James, born in 1951. Gordon was married to Katherine West of Edmonton on December 27, 1975. He has his degree in Education, and is a journeyman plumber. They have a son, Jeffrey, born April 12, 1976.

Bruce was married to Pat Sim of Calgary on December 27, 1975. Bruce has his degree in Education from the University of Calgary and Pat is with the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce there.

Both boys have their homes in Calgary.

CARRIES, ETHEL

Ethel Carries, second daughter of William and Alice Andrew was born July 3, 1906, their first child born in Canada. She attended Andrews' School and on leaving remained on the farm sometimes helping with field work when needed.

On January 24, 1928 she married Paul Garries who operated Garries' Hardware in Bentley. On April 20, 1929 she passed away. They had one daughter, Muriel, who is married to Arvin Freeman and with their family live at Fox Creek, Alberta.

MAY THOMAS HARTLEY — by May Hartley

I was married in 1932 and we lived on the Carl Barhan quarter, about a mile south from Hespero store. Donna was born in 1934 at Mrs. Porter's Nursing Home south of Condor. We went there by team and cutter two o'clock in the morning on February 5. The roads were icy and the poor horses slipped a bit. We were on that farm for two years, then I was home with my parents, and Donna with me, for a year. Then we rented a quarter section from Arthur Thomas (father) for a year. Next we purchased an acreage from Bill Whittle, two miles south and one mile east of Hespero. I did a little of everything while here. We had a dug well so drew water in a bucket for the stock and house for awhile before a pump was put in. Then the water was pumped by hand. We had no pasture for our cows so had to turn them on the road allowance. Many are the miles I walked to get them home.

Later my dad bought the rest of the quarter (Mr. Whittle had passed away) so Mrs. Whittle sold the land, which we paid him for in installments. John was born February 10, 1941 at home. Mrs. Michel came to help. We had a straw and pole barn and chicken house for awhile before a lumber one was built. I took care of the stock a lot, also the poultry, of course, and did the milking. I also cut wood for the house with axe and buck saw. John helped me with that when he got older. He went to work in an auto body shop in Eckville soon after leaving school. He drove back and forth for a short time, then boarded in town.

I became ill in 1955 and had an operation in Red Deer hospital in December. My brother-in-law, Cliff Harvey, took me to Red Deer. Donna came and stayed to look after the house. She was married and Fran was less than a year old. I was in the hospital nearly two months. It was bitter cold weather. They just got in to see me once. Donna had her husband's car, so my folks and brothers and wives also came. My sister-in-law, Phil MacBride, living in Red Deer, came every day, when I was permitted visitors. My brother Percy brought me home from hospital, but I never regained my strength and didn't feel up to milking cows and sawing wood any more. In November 1965 my brother Percy brought me and my belongings in to Lacombe to my mother's the next day. I went to the doctor the next morning and he put me in the hospital again. I had another major operation, and again was in hospital for two months.

When I was released from hospital, John took me by car to California where Donna and her second husband, Ed Williams, lived. I was there six months or so, regaining my strength. Then a friend of Donna and Ed's was coming to Cardston, Alberta, so I came back with him. We drove right through, only stopping for gas and to get a bite to eat. We left La Puente, California about four in the afternoon and were crossing the line at Sweetgrass the next day about five in the evening. John came down from Penhold International Air Strip the next day in a four-place plane to bring me back to Red Deer, Penhold Air Strip, and by car to Lacombe to my mother's. There was room for only me and my suitcase in the plane so my trunk had to be shipped.

As soon as I was strong enough I took a position as baby-sitter and light housekeeping for a school teacher whose husband was on the town police force. The little girl was two and one half months old. I was there until she started school. I worked for another family then back at Sautz's for another few years as they had another baby girl. When she started school I took a position at the hospital where I worked until October, 1975. I retired at this time, as I was past 65.

The staff took all the house-keeping staff out to dinner at the Crow Bar as my going-away gift. They paid my way and also gave me a present. They are a nice bunch and I still see them now and then.

In November my brother Percy took me out to British Columbia to visit my other brother Martin and a niece live at Abbotsford. Irvin in Vancouver, a niece at Mission. Harold at Chase, an uncle and a niece in Vancouver and a niece at Kamloops. Then we went to Percy's at Sicamous. Percy's son, Mike, and wife came from Alberta, and I came back with them in November. I visited John and Doris at Fort St. John while he was mechanic at the air strip a few years ago. They get down once in a while, as they are now living at Wetaskiwin.

THE HUSEBYS — by Connie and Louise Huseby

Halvor Huseby and his wife, Karen Huseby came from Stravanger, Norway to Cottonwood, Minnesota, U.S.A. in 1898. With them they brought their three children, John, born in 1887, Ludwig, born in 1890, and Kristene born in 1895. Another son, Oscar, was born in Cottonwood, Minnesota, in 1899. Halvor and the daughter, Kristene, both passed away in Minnesota.

John Huseby came to Alberta from Cottonwood, Minnesota in 1911 and homesteaded west of Gilby. The following year Ludwig also came to Alberta and in 1913, after the death of her husband and daughter, Mrs. Huseby and Oscar arrived in the Gilby area. They lived with John on his homestead.

Ludwig took a homestead west of the Leafland school. He broke a few acres of land but later traded his property for some equipment, and along with his brothers bought a half section of land a mile east of Gilby and they lived together for a number of years.

He married Connie Rolfsen in 1921, and the family all lived together until 1926. At this time Ludwig, Oscar and their mother moved to a log house which they had built on the south quarter of their land. Their mother died in 1932 and Ludwig and Oscar batched there until Ludwig passed away in 1962.

Oscar married Louise Whiteside in 1962 and they lived on the farm until 1973. Oscar was disabled by a stroke and, being unable to carry on farm work, he then traded the farm for Roy Engen's home in Eckville. Oscar and Louise are living in Eckville at the present time.

John and Connie have a family of six children. Harvey married Josephine Lawrence, a teacher at Andrew's School. (She later taught at Lockhart.) They had two girls.

Muriel is married to Mart Engen and they live on a farm west of Gilby. They have four girls.

Thelma was married to Roy Engen. They lived on the old Engen farm for many years. A boy and a girl were born to them. Thelma passed away in 1969, after they had moved from the farm to a home in Eckville.

Violet is married to Gordon Carroll. They had five children but lost one little girl. They now live in Kelowna, B.C.

Ruby is married to George McTighe, and they live in Eckville. They had three children, but also lost one little girl.

Ken married Bernice Dyrland. They have six children and are living on the old Huseby farm.

John Huseby passed away in 1961 and his wife, Connie is now living in Eckville. For a period of time following her husband's death she had lived in British Columbia

IRWIN, CHARLES — by Olga Pedersen Irwin

My husband, Charles Irwin, was born in 1890 and came to Alberta from Kinnigo, Ireland, in 1921. He first worked on a threshing crew in the Brooks area, but returned to Ireland, living there until 1926, before returning to Alberta. He again worked near Brooks for a year and then came to the Gilby district.

We were married in December 1927 and soon after bought the NW 8-41-3-W5 from the Hudson's Bay Company. Our first home was a granary as times were very "tough". After a year we hired Alex Ferguson, our neighbor, to build us a house which is still my home.

We had a family of five children. Helen was born in 1929 and was deceased in 1934. William, born in 1931, lives at Rocky Mountain House. He and his wife, Donna, have four girls and two boys. Hazel, (Mrs. Melvin Cave) born in 1934, lives at Hoadley and has a son. Florence (Mrs. Andy Anderson, Rimbey) born in 1936 has a family of four, a boy and three girls. Albert, born in 1940, and wife (Darlene Balan) live on the home place. They have three girls. Brenda (born in 1964, Jeanette (born in 1968), and Angela (born in 1971).

My husband passed away in December, 1976 and is buried in the Gilby Cemetery.

KREIL, RALPH AND DOROTHY

We moved to central Alberta from Coaldale in the fall of 1975 and in the spring of 1976 moved to our present home, formerly the Irvin Both farm.

Our children are: one daughter, Dixie, and two sons, Todd and Greg.

We have made a few changes to the farmyard, such as a new house. Since Ralph is a carpenter by trade, we were fortunate enough to build a house. That meant the old house had to find a new home, which it did and is now gone. The old barn, chicken house and pig barns have also been removed.

There is one thing we will never change though and that is our beautiful hill up the canyon. Coming from the dry, windy south, we really feel we live in God's country.

WALLACE AND CAROLYN KREIL AND FAMILY

Formerly from southern Alberta and then near Monitor, Alberta, we moved to the Gilby area and in June of 1968 purchased the W½ 4-41-3-W5 from Shirley Edwards.

At this time our children were; Penny age seven, Cindy age six and Edward age five. Marty was born in the fall of 1971.

The first changes that we made in the farmstead were to move the driveway to the west side and to relandscape the yard. Continuing our efforts in 1970 we built a new barn, using as much good material from the old one as possible.

In June 1976 the time came to start building a new home. With the help of our neighbors and their tractors the old house was pulled from its location and into the yard. We lived in it while building our new home on the former site.

Seldom is there a Saturday night that we, Wallace and Carol, aren't playing in the dance band called "Wally's Westerners," along with Ralph Kreil and Jim Wingate.

We enjoy living in the Gilby area as we have many wonderful neighbors, friends and relatives here.

THE KURZMAN FAMILY — by Mrs. Dave Kurzman

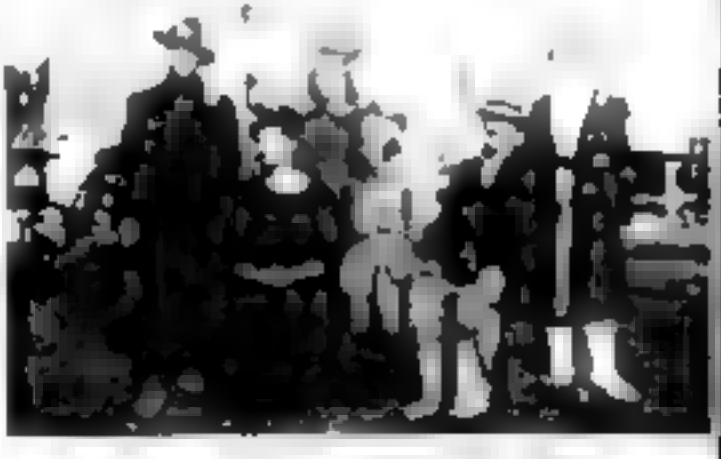
John and Mary Kurzman and two children came from Seattle, Washington, U.S.A. in 1910. They lived first on the Ad Smith farm one and a quarter miles north of Lockhart Hall. Mr. Kurzman filed on his homestead in March, 1910. This was the N E ¼ Sec. 8, Twp. 41, R 3 W 5.

This quarter was all bush land, so first of all land was cleared for a building site. Logs were cut in the hills and hauled by team to the McPherson Mill in the Lockhart district for making lumber. By 1913 the site had been cleared and the house and barn built, so the family was able to move to their own quarter in July, 1913. The house and barn built at that time are still standing.

In 1910 a daughter, Esther, was born and Pearl, their fourth daughter, was born on the farm in 1916.



Mr. and Mrs. John Kurzman [illegible]

Mr. Kurzman was a carpenter by trade and built houses and barns for a number of people in the community. He also built the Lockhart Hall. While Mr. Kurzman was busy with his carpenter work Mrs. Kurzman and their son Davie carried on the farm work. Much of the land was broken with a walking plow pulled by a team. Mr. Kurzman passed away in March, 1947.

Mrs. Kurzman was a good cook and the Kurzmans were a very hospitable family. Many picnics were held on their farm and many gallons of home-made ice-cream were eaten there Dances were frequently held in their home. thus affording good times for the people of the community Mrs Kurzman was a member of the Lockhart Ladies Club and helped with the C.G.I T for the girls. She passed away in March 1945

After his mother's death Davie took over the farm. He worked two years for E. Calkins in Bentley and spent two winters with Hough Mill working as a blacksmith's helper He helped build the Gilby Hall He sawed many loads of wood for the Lockhart and Andrew schools. He received three dollars a cord for this firewood During the threshing season, for several years, he operated the threshing machine for Harry Thomas

After the work was done in the fall a group of neighbors would usually go on a hunting trip This was a form of recreation for them. as well as a means of adding to the winter meat supply for the family Davie always joined in and enjoyed these trips

In 1948. Davie was married to Dorothy Jones of Forshee They lived on the farm and continued the farming operations until 1972 at which time they moved to Rimbey to enjoy their retirement

Davie and Dorothy have a son, Kenneth He is employed by the Westbourne Drilling Company

Violet married Fred Wager and they lived in the Wimsden Green district before moving to Calgary where Fred passed away in 1967 Violet still lives in Calgary They had five children

Esther married Jim Strachan and lives in Rimbey. They have two daughters who live in Edmonton

Pearl married Edd Cumming of Langley, B.C She passed away in 1975

Davie Kurzman was the last of the original settlers of the Lockhart District when he moved to Rimbey His first teacher is still alive and lives in the Red Deer Manor Mrs Zella McPherson, wife of the sawmill operator, is still alive and lives in Lacombe

LAURITSEN TOM – by Annie Laesen

Tom Lauritsen was born in the southern part

1925, at the age of 24 years. Upon arriving in Canada he worked for various farmers in Saskatchewan. Later he moved to Peace River, Alberta, where he homesteaded in 1931. After leaving his homestead in Peace River he came to the Gilby district where he worked as a hired hand for the Thorp family This is where he met Julia Pederson, my mother

Mother was born in Red Lake Falls Minnesota, U.S.A. in 1913. The family, of John and Mary Pederson immigrated to Canada when Julia was four years old. They resided in the Gilby district on the N E 32-40-3-W5. Mother received all her schooling in the Andrew School

Following the marriage of Tom and Julia in 1933, they resided in a log house on the William Steel farm N.W 35-40-3-W5) They resided in the log house for a short time until they could clear enough land on which to construct the present frame house in which they still reside. This house is situated on S.W 35-40-3 W5. which dad purchased from the CPR The home quarter was covered with dense brush, which they cleared almost entirely by hand

Throughout the years my parents purchased the three remaining quarters of section 35 which they still own and farm

My early recollections of farming include that of my dad farming with four to six-horse teams One simple implement which stands out in my mind is the brush harrow This harrow was made out of a huge willow bush. Also among the farm implements was the gang and sulky plows Dad continued farming with horses until he purchased his first tractor, a 15-30 McCormick

During the depression my father and mother recollect selling market-weight hogs for three dollars. Dad hauled the hogs to Eckville with a team of horses and wagon box. In return for the three dollar hogs he would buy a 100-pound bag of flour Dad also relates taking an 850-pound steer to market in Calgary, and not receiving enough cash with which to buy Mother her second-hand treadle Singer sewing machine for twenty-five dollars

Father and Mother raised a family of eight children. Betty the oldest daughter, was born in 1934. Betty resides in Red Deer where she is employed as a housekeeper John owns and farms two quarters - N E 34-40-3 W5 and S.E 3-41-3-W5. John married Orpha Jodoin in 1964 They have two sons, Chris and Gary Martin resides on the farm, where he helps dad with the farming. During the winter months he works in the welding shop in Eckville. where he is apprenticing as a welder

Hans and his family reside in Calgary Hans has worked with the oil rigs for several years. He recently spent several months drilling in the United States He has three children, Sand Denise, and Colin

I Annie own a farm in Sylvan Lake area where my family reside. I was married to Ray

Land in 1960. Ray and I have two children, Brenda and Brian. Ray passed away from complications of diabetes in July, 1964. Later I married Elmer Luoma of Eckville in December, 1965, and we have a son, Randy. Elmer also farmed a quarter of land on the north-west side of Sylvan Lake.

Mabel and her husband, Ron Lund were married in 1963. They have two children, Roland and Maureen. At the present time they reside on a farm south of Eckville, where Ron works at various jobs.

Edith resides at home with her parents.

Esther and her husband, Ralph Mockford were married in 1966. They have three children, Steven, Sharon and Darren. Ralph owns and operates a gravel truck. They reside in Eckville in the new mobile home sub-division.

The children all took their early schooling in Andrew School. We had three miles to go to school, and used various means of transportation to get there. When we rode horseback there were three on a horse. Later dad made a one-horse sleigh for winter use and a one-horse cart for summer. After the Andrew School closed in 1953 we were bussed to school in Eckville, from which Hans, Mabel, Esther and I graduated.

At the present time my father and mother still reside on the farm, where they raise cattle and grain. Dad enjoys his hobby of gun collecting and Mom enjoys her gardening.

NW 10-44-5-W5

The above quarter was homesteaded by Frank Lee, the NW 10 by his brother, William Bill, and the NE 10 by their mother Elizabeth Lee.

Fred Pimm bought the SW 10 early in 1919 and moved to a quarter in the Symonds district in 1922. (see Leedale for the Lee and F. Pimm histories.

Roy Cousnac bought the land from Chris Baker and lived on the farm from 1930-31. He then moved to Springdale and on to Barrhead, Alberta, where he still resides.

Walter Matthew farmed the quarter from the spring of 1934 until August 1939. There were three children in the family.

Histories of other families living on the SW 10 are in this book.

LINDER, KARL AND EMMA — by Edwin Linder

Karl C. Linder, my dad, was born in northern Sweden, in 1882, and my mother, Emma Maria Hultgren, was born in central Sweden, in 1883. They both immigrated to the United States, at the turn of the century. Dad got a job falling timber in Oregon, and often talked of wearily pulling a falling saw, the saw being slowed down by pitch, for a 10 hour day. Mother also settled in Oregon, and got employment in some of the better homes in Portland.

While Dad was working in a sawmill in Portland, he got acquainted with Gustav Hultgren, Emma's brother. He was so impressed with the fine character of this man, that he exclaimed, "Have you a sister? Then I can already begin to call you my brother-in-law." Romance proceeded quickly and in the year 1907 Emma and Karl were married.

Dad heard of homesteads being available in Alberta, Canada, so he and a friend, William Hammerbeck, (then only about 19 years of age and also of an adventurous frame of mind) got on a train and came to Alberta. Mother stayed behind, with the children, on a little acreage that they had bought in Oregon, while waiting for the word to come to Alberta.

In 1911 there were not many homesteads still available in the Gilby district, but there was one lying a mile and one-half northeast of the Gilby store, which had been abandoned by the man who had originally filed on it. Dad filed, and the SE 32-40-3-W5 was to be our home during those years when the family was growing up.

When my sister, Edith, was about three years old, and I was five months old, and my sister Ruth about a year older than I, Mother got on the train at Warren, Oregon, and headed for Alberta with her family.

Those were not the days of welfare offices and handouts. For a man to make a living for a family was a formidable undertaking. Before the homestead could be proved up, there were buildings to erect and a certain amount of land to be broken each year. There was the question of getting some power to pull the breaking plow, and the harrows and discs, so that seed could be planted, and a crop taken off.

Tractors did not arrive on the scene until many many years later. Strange to say, even horses were very scarce. In fact, when we first got a horse, it seemed to me that there had been a real advance made both in farming and transportation. The problem of locomotion was first solved by Dad, when he purchased three sturdy oxen.

Farming was not all glory in that age for even the lowly oxen. Even though grass was thick and luxuriant, the poor old oxen pulling a breaking plow (sometimes then called a "footwarmer" with the farmer following it on foot, had to contend with myriads of mosquitoes and flies. How those poor beasts must have suffered! Even the oxen had a spirit of independence, though, and one day, while pulling my dad's binder, they became so tormented by flies that they struck out for a clump of trees or willows, hoping to find refuge there from the attacks of the flies. Dad, who was intent on harvesting grain, not trees, undoubtedly tried to persuade the oxen to continue harvesting grain, but I understand that the oxen took the binder with them, and harvesting operations were halted for the time being.

Dad recounted how he got up very early to work, about three or four o'clock in the morning and continued till noon, when he broke off for that day.

The oxen were large and powerful and eventually the sod was broken. This was followed by discing, harrowing and seeding the oxen handling all these assignments.

When winter came Dad, who had grown up in Sweden where the farm animals were treated so kindly and where it would have been unthinkable to expect the animals to spend the nights outdoors, took them in to what passed as a barn. Imagine his surprise in the morning to find that during the night the oxen had broken through the side of the barn and were frolicking in the winter wonderland the next morning! Dad even took time out to do some custom breaking for the neighbours with his oxen.

Later he got a sawing outfit, which consisted of an old Stickney engine, used to operate a circular saw. That old Stickney was hardly new even then but he did some custom cutting of logs for firewood in addition to providing his own. There was really only one source of fuel at that time — good old poplar trees, cut into logs. Some of the neighbours got together, the logs were fed gradually towards the saw and wood, in stove lengths, was snipped off, one by one, to make the familiar 'woodpile' from which in the course of doing chores, farm boys repaired to, to fill the woodbox.

Having arrived on the old homestead, and before the land was cultivated, there was the problem of feeding the family. These were not the days of welfare offices and handouts. What was my dad to do? He found the answer in getting some traps, and tramped around the more unsettled land of that age, trapping muskrats and weasels. The pelts were sometimes mailed as far away as St. Louis, Missouri. The proceeds helped to buy the simple needs of the pioneers.

My parents told us of the multitude of rabbits and deer that were to be found in that day, so there was no shortage of meat. Dad had a trusty 30-30 Winchester and loved hunting. As children we certainly got to know the taste of venison and rabbit meat. As we grew older, we knew that if there was a fall of snow, the Winchester was taken down and the moccasins donned for light walking. Away Dad would go. Rarely were his hunting trips unsuccessful. There remain memories of those days about my father: moccasins for hunting, quinine for colds and putting his feet into hot water when he found a cold approaching. Some of the old remedies like the latter could probably still be profitably used.

So we survived those early days, continuing to grow and be healthy. In those days, long before electric lights, or even gasoline lamps, kerosene was a must. I remember trudging with my mother to the Gilby store. Mike Sestrap, the storekeeper was well known. Going to that country store would be as exciting for us as a modern boy of similar age going to a big town. Those, remember, were not the days when every child's fancies were expected to be gratified. But there were treats on occasion. For example, the kerosene can might lack a cap for the spout. No problem. Mike put a soft candy over the end of the spout and no spilling occurred on the way home. So a treat awaited me when we got home. The candy, with the spout problem now solved, was mine. Oh sure, it had a little kerosene on it and this did not necessarily improve the flavour but what is a little kerosene on a candy to a boy who had, up to that time, never eaten a chocolate bar!

The store contained products in bins, whether candy or rice. I do not remember packaged goods then. Cloth was found in bolts and sold by the yard. The ladies of that day had to improvise and probably loved to do so; they might as well like it, as there were no other avenues open. I remember the storekeeper skillfully measuring the cloth with his arm, he having been a tailor. I understand in his younger days.

I doubt if it would have been possible to buy bread already made at the store. No, the farm ladies made their own bread. I still cherish the experience of coming home from school to find newly-baked bread or buns on the table, covered with a white sheet. With a school boy's appetite, did I grab one, liberally covered with home churned butter? I sure did. Those were indeed the days.

My brother, Elmer, was born not long after my parents' arrival in Alberta, followed by Irvine and Myrtle.

Going back into the farthest reaches of my memory, I believe a word should be included about early threshing. There was something most exciting about the arrival of the threshing outfit. It invariably had a steam engine to operate it, with the accompanying water wagon. In those days bundles were stacked, and stacking was an art in itself.

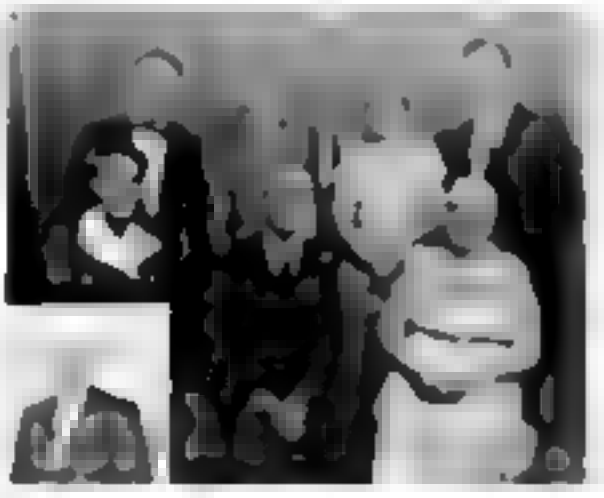
Threshing developed to the bundle rack stage and as my good appetite continued, and still does, I did not mind at all the competition that developed among the farm women to put on a real good spread for the threshers. Then there was, too, the morning and afternoon lunch. Coffee and refreshments were brought out to the threshing outfit, and there was much good natured banter between the threshers and the farmers' daughters as they brought the lunch out to the field.

When Andrew School was built, the acreage on which it stood was fenced off on land that was later bought by Dad, a quarter we dubbed "the C.P.R. quarter" (NW 33-40-3-W5). Dad acquired two quarters of land in addition to the homestead. The other was known as "the Hammerbeck quarter" (SW 33-40-3-W5) in memory of Willie Hammerbeck who had bought that quarter originally, then returned to Oregon and later sold it to Dad. (Mr. Hammerbeck died recently and Mrs. Hammerbeck is still living at Warren, Oregon.

The school was cold in winter and hot in summer, and creaked ominously during a windstorm. However, that is the school where we got our basic education. It was there we played during recess with boys and girls who, like ourselves, were children of the pioneers. It was there we surveyed the surrounding country during our recesses, and shared in the anxiety of our parents as they contended with the hazards of farming, cutworms, frost, hail and other factors. We knew that farming was the source of income our parents and we children depended on. The morals of the parents and children were wholesome and the values I learned there have influenced me all my life.

In thinking of a community we think naturally of the supply of water. Our first well was a dug one. It later provided refrigeration for the cream can. One could not expect to get 'grade special' for the cream if it was not kept in a cool place, so down went the cream can into the well suspended by a trusty rope. It was important to get the best price for cream, after all, our overalls, jackets and the mail order to Eaton's, started from the cream can.

In 1917 Billy Bjornson and his brother Louis came to our home with a real well-drilling outfit. The general principle was the lifting of a heavy object that drove a hole well down to water where the pipes followed to pipe the water up with the use of a pump. The first well was quite a long distance from our house, and we spent many an hour pumping water for the cattle. It was kind of fun missing school once in awhile but carrying pail after pail of water for the house took some of the joy away. Too, the water from the first well was hard. In later years Victor Johanson from Bentley began to drill for a well right at the house, on the porch as a matter of fact. Mother watched the drilling with much interest. One day Victor announced that he had struck water. "Is it soft?" Mother asked. "No, the water is not soft." "Then keep drilling," she replied. He did, continuing on for over 100 feet.



When he next stopped and reported water he said that the water was soft The well is still there, with good water Believe you me IT IS

My parents, Karl and Emma Linder retired from the farm early in the 1940's and spent the last years of their lives living with Edwin Linder, in British Columbia Dad dearly loved fishing for steelhead even when an old man in his last years at the coast Mother continued to be interested in her family until her death in 1966

A HISTORY OF MY LIFE — by Edwin Linder

I was born in Warren, Oregon, U S.A. on January 11, 1911, the son of Karl and Emma Linder In 1911, when I was five or six months old, my parents, with my sisters Edith and Ruth, and I came to Alberta and settled in the Gilby area. My brothers Elmer and Irving and my sister Myrtle were born in Canada

I was educated in the old Andrew School located a mile northeast of our home, and continued on the old farm helping with the farm work until I was 23 years of age Most of the depression years I lived in Alberta

In the spring of 1934 I went along with Jack Calling and his mother, from Alhambra, Alberta, who were on their way to settle on Vancouver Island. I got a job working for the Comox Logging and Railway Company in the Courtenay area of Vancouver Island. The logging operation was a few miles north of Courtenay I got a job there first on the section gang, at three dollars a day, and later got a job setting chokers. I continued in that logging operation, and others, advancing in position and pay, and finally moved to Ladysmith, B.C. where I resumed work for the Comox Logging and Railway Company. I sought to provide a home for my parents who, having sold out the farming equipment and livestock were retiring. Both my parents joined me, and I bought a house at Ladysmith in a section of that town known as the Diamond district My parents lived with me here until we moved to Duncan

I became treasurer of the Ladysmith and District Credit Union having learned shorthand and typing while on the old farm and supplementing my knowledge of bookkeeping in a business college in Vancouver when the logging camp was shut down because of heavy snow My knowledge, gained by myself and in school came in handy

In 1948 there was a disruption in the International Woodworkers of America, in which the radical leadership was displaced and new officers installed. I was elected financial secretary and also filled the position of office manager I continued in that job until I retired in 1976, being, to the best of my knowledge, the longest-elected office holder in the whole International Woodworkers of America, from Newfoundland to California, from Alabama to the Yukon

On September 3, 1985, I married Velma Geier then living in Saskatoon Saskatchewan. We live on 5330 Miller Road, Duncan, B C where we have resided since our marriage

My father Karl Linder was born on February 7 1862 and died on February 25, 1956. My mother was born on February 24, 1883, and died on March 17 1967

IRVING LINDER — by Myrtle Gale

Following his schooling Irving farmed with his father Karl Linder in the Gilby district In 1943 he and Muriel Shelby, of Campbell River were married in Vancouver Irving drove the bus for the Vancouver Island Coachline for several years before moving back to the Gilby district in 1951 Here he farmed until 1968. He and Muriel then moved back to their home in Campbell River which is scenically situated on the banks of the Campbell River

They had four children. Barry Brian Maureen and Norma

Barry, who has his own roofing company lives in Edmonton

Brian, who is married to the former Susan deHoan, of Dawson Creek, has two sons. Corey and Ryan. The family lives in St Albert Brian has his degree in Science from the U of A

Maureen died suddenly at the age of four years in 1954

Norma, the youngest child, is living and working in Campbell River

ELMER LINDER — by Edith Storms

Elmer son of Karl and Emma Linder was born in 1912. In the fall of 1936 he and Dorothy Hutchison were married at Gimlet. They spent the early part of their married life around the Gilby district and then moved to British Columbia.

Their three children are Larry, Verlie and Ross. Larry works in the Queen Charlotte Islands. Verlie is married and lives in Surrey Her children are Bruce, Bobby and Brenda. Ross is married, with two children, and living in Duncan B C

Elmer passed away at Courtney in 1961

EMIL PETER

Peter a coal miner's son, was born on July 26 1921, in Coleman, Alberta He received his education in Coleman

In 1940, he left the coal mines and went to Broderick, Saskatchewan, to farm with his parents

On July 17, 1947 Peter married Josie Trautman, a farmer's daughter Josie was born on March 13, 1927 in Strongfield, Saskatchewan She received her education in a country school which was called Cherry-Dale A school bus service has been put in on route from Strongfield so Cherry-Dale is no longer used for classes

In the latter part of June in the year of 1948 Peter lost all the wheat crop on his quarter section in Broderick The grasshoppers came in herds like cattle and ate crops, gardens, even the leather in harnesses

Farming was a very trying occupation on the bald prairies, and Peter decided to make a move. Leaving his parents behind, he and his wife Josie and her sister Jennie went to Alberta in search of jobs. The three took the passenger train from Broderick. The crops through Saskatchewan and eastern Alberta looked poor. Some parts were invaded by hoppers, in other parts of the country, crops were yellowed from

After travelling all night, they finally arrived in Red Deer. About four hours later they climbed on board a lazy freight and were on their way again. One thing that will always stay vivid in the trios minds is how scenic the countryside looked. Trees and crops were a beautiful green. The leaves and grass looked luscious enough to be used for salad. The tiger lilies were in full bloom along the railroad ditches and the girls had the urge to go out and pick them when the freight stopped for cream pick-ups.

In the latter part of the sunny but humid afternoon, the tired three got off the freight at the CPR station one mile south of Eckville and hitchhiked a ride with Marg Schofer to Eckville where Peter's sister, Mary, and her two sons, Joe and Louis Psikla, waited and took them to their home.

After a few days of enjoyable visit and celebration of Josie's and Peter's first wedding anniversary, Joe Psikla suggested that Peter and Josie apply for a farm hand and cook at the Ray Niemela farm in Benalto where they were employed until the middle of September. Peter's brother, Joe, brought out Peter's 1935 Chev and Peter and Josie went back to Broderick, Sask. Joe Liska stayed in Eckville to stook and after a couple of weeks he went back by train to Broderick.

After several weeks of packing, the family, Josie, Peter and his parents, his brother Joe and wife, Millie, and four girls, Irene, Mary, Helen, and Vicky were on their way back to Alberta. Josie, Peter and parents spent the winter at Wright's farm in Eckville.

On a dry, sunny, warm day in the first week in April of 1949, with the help of Joe and Louis Psikla and Roy Saari, Josie, Peter, and parents moved to the Hilmer Thorp farm, two and a half miles northwest of Gilby, Alberta. Peter and his brother Joe, and families were happy to have a roof over their heads and things looked quite encouraging until spring work began and the old 1927 Minneapolis tractor gave out. Peter's nephew Joe Psikla came to the rescue with his new John Deere D and put in the crop. With two months of dry spring weather and not being aware of what was in the soil, the barley crop turned out to be wild oats and thistle. Snow came early in the fall and harvest was a struggle. The winter of 1950 was miserably cold. There were no storm windows on the house, one heat register in the living room and none in the other seven rooms. There was very little coal and they had to use green wood for fuel. The temperature in the bedrooms upstairs was 23 degrees F. The Liska family felt that they had fallen out of the pan and into the fire.

In 1953, the Liska brothers felt they must repair the house to be comfortable. They remodeled the kitchen in the back part of the house which was the old homestead. A new basement was built adjoining the old one and bins were made for vegetables and coal. A new furnace was installed and hot and cold registers were put into the rooms. In 1958, electricity was put into the house and barn and several years later part plumbing for running water was also installed which made work a little more convenient.

There were approximately 100 acres of brush cleared and land broke for seeding. In 1957, the Liska brothers received an award of merit, seventh prize Regional, for malting barley. Peter and Joe also raised hogs and cattle and milked by hand as many as 18 cows. The Liska ladies helped with chores and raised bountiful gardens, so their deep-freeze was always full of good fresh frozen vegetables and meat.

There were happy times as well. In the fall of 1949, Peter and Josie attended a social at the Gilby Hall. Music was donated. A little bird told Percy Thubron that Peter was musical, so Percy took Peter in his truck to Peter's house and they brought back the old two row button accordion and guitar. Everyone had a nice evening. Shortly after, an orchestra originated which was called "The Polka Dots." Peter played accordion, Josie the guitar, her sister Jennie played piano and Joe Psikla played the violin. A few years later the two sisters left the orchestra and Waldo Raabis and Roy Leach joined the boys. They called the orchestra "Rhythm Boys."

About three years later, Waldo and Roy left the orchestra and Josie and her sister Jennie joined their husbands and are still playing for dances. They call their orchestra "Family Four."

On September 26, 1953, a son Philip was born to Josie and Peter. He received his education in Eckville. Philip was employed for several months with Walley Trucking. In 1972, he worked with his uncle, Carl Trautman, constructing steel buildings. Philip married Barbara Graham in 1973. They have two sons Geoffrey and Jason. Philip has been employed with Fletcher's Fine Foods in Red Deer for five years. The Philip Liska's have a home in Sylvan Lake, Alberta.

A daughter, Dolores Liska, was born on November 1, 1955. She took her Grade 11 in Eckville and finished high school at the LTCHS in Red Deer. Dolores was employed as secretary for S & B Auto Body Shop in Red Deer for a year. She has since changed positions and is now employed at Pam's Hallmark Shoppe in Red Deer.

In March of 1972 the Liska brothers realized that after 23 years of struggle on the Thorp farm they would never own it, so they set a date on May 3 for a machinery and cattle sale.

Peter and Josie now reside in Red Deer where they own a home. Peter is employed at Federal Pioneer Electric and Josie works at the Red Deer Nursing Home. They are enjoying the convenience of city life.

JOAN LAWTON) MADDOX by Joan Maddox

I came from Lacombe in May 1907 at the age of two years by covered wagon with my parents, Frank and Clara Lawton, brother Billy age seven, and sister Kathleen, age four years. My parents settled on NW 34-40-4 W5.

Our early years were spent playing near the buildings, as lynx and bear were often seen. Our three cows had to be herded as they would travel for miles, since there were no fences. Mother did not know her directions away from the buildings.

There was a small lake near by with an island, which Billy claimed as his own. If you were in his favor you were allowed to go with him on the raft. Otherwise he was Robinson Crusoe and had it to himself.

One day, when dad was building the log barn, mother and Miss Sjodahl decided to go blueberry picking. Kathy and I were told to watch Alick closely, as he was only a toddler. However he soaked. Mother got a large pail of berries, but next morning her eyes were swollen shut from insect bites.

When the men were all away working one midsummer day, Mrs. Jake Amburs came rushing over, carrying a small child. They couldn't find Jimmy, age about four years. Mother gathered us together to go the mile across the fields with her. As we hurried up the hill where a large barrel stood by the trail, up came a fair head from inside the barrel. Jimmy had climbed in and had gone to sleep there.

When Billy was raking hay one hot day on the far side of the farm with the oxen "Sam and Tom", the heel flies struck them. Home they galloped, across the narrow pole bridge and into the lake. Billy was still on the seat of the rake, in water too deep to wade out. In later years, as roads were being built, the lake had to be drained. It was a sad day for us children - no more swimming and rafting — but mother was happy as there would now be fewer wet clothes.

Billy and Kathy often went to John Rechy's on the next quarter. He always gave them a dried prune. He stirred his beans (these two being the main dish for bachelors) with his stove poker. One day I was allowed to go along with Billy and Kathy. I stood by the door, watching, and, sure enough, he poked the fire and then stirred the beans! On the way home they ran ahead and left me, saying the bears would get me. That night I had a terrible nightmare that kept them awake. They were punished!

Mr. McDonald, who lived three and a half miles west, often came by on his way to Gilby with his bay mare and single buggy. He was a minister, and a very educated man. Some of the pioneers thought him rather queer. He and my dad would sit for hours, talking astronomy. One day Alick and I were racing to the house for dinner. There, on the narrow porch, mother had put the rocking chair out for Mr. McDonald as he had walked from Gilby (his mare had died). I was ahead and ran right into him. Being very shy, I was terrified, and cried. The next time he came he brought me a lovely story book.

School days followed, with cold walks in winter and swamps to wade in summer. It closed after the Christmas concert, to open again in March, continuing all summer. I went only through Grade 8, as that year my father passed away and I stayed home to help Billy and Kathy with the farming.

Our social life consisted of dances and box socials. Gilby put on a Saturday social evening when they had boxing, sing songs, and games. We would go for miles in 20-below or colder weather either horseback or by sleigh load. We would have as much fun on the road as at the dance. Jack Mullarkey, a friend of my family, was always along. He had a fine baritone voice and always helped with the entertaining during the supper hour.

In 1928, I married Jervel Maddox who came to the valley with his folks from Missouri, U.S.A. at the age of 14 years. He worked out for farmers the next year. In the spring of 1916, being tired of the job at 50¢ a day, he joined the Canadian Army. He was there a month before his mother was notified. Being not yet 16, she took him out. By that time he had decided that the army wasn't so exciting after all. He joined the U.S. Marines in 1919 and was with them until 1921. At that time he came back to Canada and took a homestead at Winfield, Alberta.

We spent 1926 on the homestead then came back and rented land until March, 1930, when we moved with our daughter Marie (15 months old) to NE 6-41-3-W5, which we had bought for $2000 and poor prices made times rmed with horses, so had few expenses. With the cattle, pigs, chickens, and a large garden plus good management we were able to get better equipment and more land, owning 960 acres when we retired and moved to Eckville in 1967. Our three boys now own the land.

We had nine children: Joan Marie, Elizabeth Lorraine, William Steven, Edythe Pearl, Eunice Thomas Frank, Dianna Joyce, John Gilbert, and Ruby Lee. Five of the children were born on the farm, with the doctor waiting many hours for their arrival.

Our visiting and trips to Eckville were done with a team and buggy until 1932 when we traded cattle for a second-hand Model T Ford

Cooking for threshers was a big chore even with a girl to help. A large table was brought in to hold the 14 men. We would have to be up at five o clock get breakfast over, milk the cows, get the children off to school and then start dinner Sometimes the men wanted morning lunch as well as lunch in the afternoon. If we ran short of meat, chickens had to be killed

Our children grew up to be very responsible as the years went by enabling us to take a few weeks holiday each year

In September of 1967, we bought a house in Eckville, as Jervel was ill. He passed away on November 28 of that year I still live in the house with my daughter Eunice, who is handicapped, but a cheerful companion. The others took their schooling at Andrew and Eckville Schools

Marie married John Wilson. They had seven children. Ted, who served several years in the armed forces, is now an instructor in pollution a Whitehorse, Yukon. Richard passed away in 1987, after a long illness. Barbara, now Mrs Albert Brandl, has one son, Brent Randy Terry, Dale and Bradley are their four other children

Betty married Walter Cunningham. They had five children Lois now Mrs Peter Duncan, has two children, Kelli and Shawn. Gregory passed away in 1956. Gerald married Terri Mottus and has two children Jay and Melanie Darryl and Susan who is still in school

Bill lives on SW 8-41-3-W5. He married Joyce Dyrland and their four children are Carol, Steven, Marian and David at home

Pearl took a home economics course at Olds College. She worked as a dietician in Calgary General Hospital until she married Michael Dubyna. They have four daughters Sharon Mrs. David Werrett Sandra, Brenda and [illegible]

Tom lives on W 6-41-3-W5. He spent several years working for Mid-West Paper, in Calgary He then took a mechanics course at Olds. He is married to Caroline Chappell. They have three children, Debbie, Jody and Anna-Marie who are still attending Eckville School

Joyce took a secretarial course in Red Deer, then worked in Lacombe until she married Stewart Calkins. They have three children Gwen, Jeffrey, and Shelly

Jack lives on NE 6-41-3-W5. He married Susan Harcus. Their three children are Paul Robyn, and Craig all at home

Ruby-Lee took four years of University in Edmonton, getting a B. Ed. degree. She majored in French, and taught at Rocky Mountain House and in Calgary She married Thomas Houston They have two boys, Timothy and Brett

VOLDEMAR MATTHSEN and FAMILY

Voldemar Mathsen and his wife Rita Sigrid arrived with their three children, Hendo, Arne and Eda, at Eckville on June 1948. They were sponsored as immigrants by Volli's brothers, Alfred and Arnold Mathsen. Previous to this they had lived four years in Sweden, having escaped the Russian advance in Estonia at the end of World War II

Having purchased the three quarters of the Frank McTighe farm, W½ and SE 9-41-3-W5 they moved there in January 1949 As luck would have it, the move took place on a record breaking cold day. -50°F providing a hint of [illegible]

A mixed farm operation was commenced to support a family of seven, which now also in cluded Rita's aunt, Elsbeth Sildver and her mother, Melanie Dreybladt. They were deceased in 1960 and 1970, respectively. They were buried in the Gilby Kalmu Cemetery.

The oldest son, Hendo, entered the Eckville Junior High School and graduated from the Lindsay Thurber Composite High School in Red Deer in 1954. He studied Engineering at the University of Alberta. Arne and Eda began their schooling at the Andrew School and were transferred to Eckville in 1953 when the Lacombe County schools were centralized. Arne graduated there in 1958 as Valedictorian and Eda finished in 1962 winning the Eckford Trophy. They both continued their education at the University of Alberta. Arne studying Chemistry and Eda studying Psychology.

Arne married Carolyn Wilfley of Brooks in 1966 and they and their daughter Janet Ray have spent several years in Europe where Arne has been employed as a computer-ing analyst. He recently returned to Calgary as manager at Computalog Services Ltd. Hendo has been employed in the construction industry throughout Alberta. Eda has worked at the University Alberta Hospital as a psychologist since 1966. She married John McClung, an Edmonton lawyer. In 1973, who is now Supreme Court Justice of Alberta living in Edmonton.

The hardships of the early years of farming were eased by the arrival of three productive oil wells. For several years, Volli also worked as a battery operator. After that most of the farm operation focused on cattle and grain. In 1964 Rita entered the University of Alberta, in the Faculty of Education, to supplement her European training in Medicine and Dentistry. She obtained a teaching certificate and commenced teaching at the Eckville Junior and Senior High School in 1965. In addition to teaching she operates the school library.

Volli managed the farm operation until 1974 after which he rented the land. They continue to live there, enjoying the home place which they have developed over the past 29 years. Their children return often on weekends and holidays to enjoy and appreciate the flowers and gardens and the scenery of Medicine Valley.

THE McCRADY FAMILY

My mother, Reane, father, Homer John, sons Herb (Sonny), Wilbur (Chick), Milo (Bill) Raymond and daughter, Ruth, moved from Drumheller to a farm in the Andrew school district. The farm was known as "The Canyon Place" because of the road that ran through it in a canyon between Charles Andrew and George Fraser of the Lockhart district. They arrived at the farm in the Easter holidays of 1930 and remained there until 1935 when they moved to a farm in the Lockhart district.

Father had been raised on a farm in Missouri and carried some of his earlier memories into his

His basket rack for bundles was not a good design for the hills as the sloping sides allowed the load to overhang too far and tip. Mules were not in common use in the area and ours caused a lot of excitement as they were always ready to run, buck, kick or bray in order to get attention.

The McCrady home soon became quite a meeting place as my mother was one of the best cooks around and everybody was always welcome at our table.

Herb had a bright yellow Ford roadster that caught the girls' eyes, but Chick was usually the life of any party with his quick wit and yodeling.

Bill of Rumbey) was the woodsman, hunter and the one to keep the home fires burning when the rest of the family went anywhere. Sister Ruth, was my helper. We were likely given this duty as we were the youngest, except for baby Roy.

Later our older sister, Mrs. Rounds, came back to the family with her three children, Gordon, Geraldine and Marion. Mrs. Paul Eckes, Eckville) She then moved to the Line homestead where she took in Eunice Wells, a dwarf, and sister to Zeth Wells.

I'm sure the years spent on "The Canyon Place" were the happiest of my life even if it did take two bushels of wheat to buy my dad's tobacco. We were never hungry but clothes were very well worn before being discarded.

F. B. McTIGHE AND FAMILY

Francis Bernard McTighe was born in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, in 1879.

In 1905 he came from Holloway, Minnesota to homestead in Humboldt, Saskatchewan, where he met Eva Zengel. Eva was at her widowed mother's homestead in the Humboldt district.

Frank and Eva were married in Cranbrook B.C. on November 11, 1909

Frank bought grain for the Alberta Pacific Company for a period of 17 years

In 1919 they bought three-quarters of land in the Gilby district and lived there until the fall of 1948, when due to ill health the farm was sold to Volk Matlisen

The following January he went to Vancouver and Salt Spring Island on a holiday where he stayed six weeks, then returned to Alberta

He had previously bought a tract of virgin land in the Rocky Mountain House district. Sec 8-42-6-W5, now owned by Eileen Lawton. After Frank's return from the coast, with the aid of a caterpillar and his boys, he began to get this under cultivation. While engaged in this endeavor death overtook him

Frank and Eva had five children, Maurice living in Dawson Creek and Salt Spring Island Eileen Lawton in the Gilby area Phillip in Red Deer, George in Eckville and Nora (Mrs Brodersen) of Winfield

Eva McTighe was a very kindly even tempered lady, with a sense of humor who made the most of things. She was dearly loved by her

Besides her own family she helped raise nieces and nephews, boarded school teachers Miss Agnes Anderson and Miss Lenore McLean cooked for hired men and looked after less fortunate men that Frank would bring home but she drew the line when Frank wanted to adopt two little Indians, in their later years She must have been tired

In 1936 people came to the McTighe's, with horses and fresnos, to level an area for a skating rink Ice was made and a granary was used for a club house where lunch was served. In summer tennis, baseball and horseshoe games were played on the levelled ground

The sports activities were much enjoyed by all the young folks in the district and those coming a distance

After Frank passed on Eva married W A Saunders of Ponoka and lived there until his death 10 years later

She then moved to Eckville and later to the Westview Lodge in Rocky Mountain House. where she spent her remaining years

Maurice, at a very early age, helped with the farming and was in charge of five to six hundred head of ewes for the summer on a lease 30 miles from home. In the west country

In the spring with his sister, Eileen the flock his two dogs (Bob and Charlie), a covered wagon with a Jersey milk cow tied behind, they'd head west on a trip that took two days. Once settled in a shack, by a spring which came out of the side of the hill, his work would begin. He would shear the sheep, lamb out all the ewes, along with the care of keeping the sheep on the lease as it was not fenced. During the harvest, when Maurice was needed at home, Phillip or George would take their turn at replacing him

One fall the loss of sheep was heavy from rustlers and Frank was interested in sawmilling so the sheep industry was phased out

Maurice then began to build roads and help set up the sawmill. He at one time cooked for a crew of eight men, on a heater besides working with them on the road and when the mill was in operation he did the sawing

The mill was burned one winter and two years later a forest fire swept through burning a yard

Maurice escaped the fire along with Phil, but Maurice's nerves were bad so Frank sent him to Fulford Harbour where he bought a fishing boat "The Ulinston C" and went into fishing business. He then married Tillie Akerman from the Island and they went farming at Progress B.C

There they raised a daughter Mary Lory, two adopted children Don and Jane and two foster children, Roy and Brenda

Maurice and Tillie have built a house at Fulford and intend retiring there. For his good works and help to the Fathers in Progress district the Pope sent him a papal blessing

Eileen spent a great part of her earlier life in the west country and loved every minute of it, at the sheep camp, cooking at the sawmill and, in season picking berries

In 1946 Eileen married Bob Alexander at Mill Bay, Vancouver Island. They adopted two children, John and Pat but before Nan was officially adopted Bob passed away

Eileen then came back to Alberta and married Alick Lawton. Alick and Eileen adopted Nan and had two children of their own Jim and Lorrie

Phillip enjoys living and people He was active in hockey and baseball in his youth. He ran the steam engines at the sawmills and when his sister would go to the boiler room from the kitchen he would remark that she smelled of the kitchen and would let out hisses of steam from the big chrobbing engine

Phillip spent three and one-half years in the navy on the 'Prince David' In Vancouver he met and married Sybil Green. When the war was over he settled north of the home place and there they raised a son and daughter, Wayne and [illegible]

Sybil passed away after a lengthy illness. Phil then went to work at the Red Deer General Hospital where he is still employed and as a sideline trains dogs. Phil married a widow, Peggy McDonald, from Red Deer

[illegible] were great pals If they went horse trading with Pryce Andrew, who was working across the fence, in the field, George would always see to it that Nora was looked after with a fur neck piece even if she was barefooted

Nora lost her garters so her mo her threatened punishment if it were to happen again. That night at the supper table, mother was very much surprised when she looked down at her youngest daughter and saw that on one leg she was wearing a polka dot bow tie and on the other a red plaid one – George was looking after his little sister

George took over the farming of the land north of Rocky after his father passed on. He married his childhood sweetheart, Ruby Huseby They later moved to Eckville where George worked for an oil company and for Skoodopole Const Ltd. There they raised two children Susan and Bob

Nora spent some time on Salt Spring Island working in a store at Fulford Harbour Later she picked fruit at Sannichton with her sister Eileen, and when the season was over they took over a job painting a house and garage in that [illegible]

Nora returned to Alberta and married Dennis Brodersen They lived in the Lockhart area for awhile, later moving to Winfield, on a farm where they raised a family of ten: Larry, Holly Elden, Debra, Wayne. Layna Bernie. Jilayn, Billy and Angela

OSBORNE, ROY AND EDITH (LINDER — by Edith Osborne

Roy was born in Wisconsin U.S.A., but grew up in the Bentley district. I was born in Warren Oregon, U.S.A. in 1908, and my folks, Karl and Emma Linder, moved to Alberta in 1911 I had my schooling at the Andrew school

Roy and I were married in 1931 We spent [illegible] years buying grain and then farmed in the Bentley district and on the Linder farm north of Gilby Later we moved northwest of Cochrane Alberta, and ranched there until our retirement We are now living at Crofton, B C on Vancouver [illegible]

Our three sons are Allan, Boyd and Gordon Allan Myrna and family live in Black Diamond They have two children Lorna and Mitchell

Boyd and wife Edna Kalev) and their children, Daryl and Janice, live in Cremona

[illegible] Jennifer and their children, Christine, Wesley and Lillian, also live in Cremona

PALM FRANK AND HILMA — by Hazel Andrew

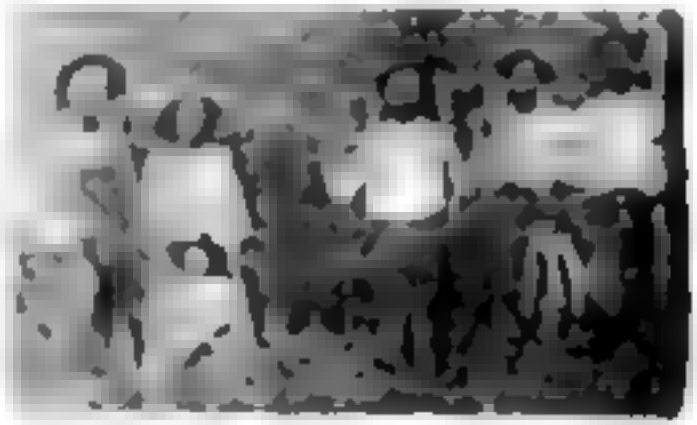
Frank and Hilma Palm were the original owners of the NE 4-41-3-W5. (the late Charlie Andrew farm homesteading from 1905 to 1915 when they sold out to Jim Clausen (no relation to Dan Clausen. Frank and Hilma moved, and Frank worked at Manyberries and Red Lodge They had four children One son, Harold (now deceased left one daughter Dlorah, living on Vancouver Island. Of the three daughters, Mrs Arnie Gertie) Vander is buried in the Sylvan Lake Cemetery Flora, who was married to a Doctor, is buried in Oregon, U.S.A. Another daughter, Mrs. John (Frances) Glotzan, who is living at Nanaimo, B.C has one daughter



[illegible]

Frank and Hilma separated and in 1930 Frank left for Russia where he married his second wife in 1931 Her name also was Hilma. She passed away in 1944 and is buried in Kaljala Bleio March. Frank passed away in 1937 at the age of 59 years, and is buried in Russia

Jim Clausen farmed the land until 1919 or 1920, when he sold to Mrs. Elizabeth Bradley of Calgary Jim was a bachelor I was unable to find any record as to where he had gone from here

EDWARD PAULL FAMILY—by Sharyn Paull

In October, 1972 we purchased the Davie Kurzman farm and moved into the Gilby district We were not complete strangers to this area as I was born and raised in the Rimbey-Bentley area Edward, everyone else calls him Ed, was raised in the Bentley area. Both of our parents are still living at Bentley

We had two girls, Pamela aged five and Leanda, aged three when we decided to start farming The next summer we had a boy Jayson Jay

In 1974 we were able to purchase a half section southeast of where we live, buying the land from Charley Walker. Everyone calls that land the Dvornek and Carl Johnson place.

Along with our farming, Edward works for Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas; he has been employed with this company for nearly 12 years.

One of these days, with any luck, we hope to be full time farmers and enjoy our farm life and good neighbors more.

PEDERSON, JOHN E. — by a daughter Olga Irwin

John Pederson was born in Norway in 1869. He came to the U.S.A. and stayed for a short while in Illinois. While here he married Mary Peterson, who was also from Norway, and had been born in 1869. After their marriage the couple made their home in Minnesota, until 1919 when they moved to the Gilby district, settling on the NE 32-40-3-W5. My parents bought the farm through a land agent O Norem. Charles Kemlin had been the previous owner.

Upon arriving we were surprised to see that cattle had taken shelter in our home. The door had been left open and livestock ran "at large" in those days.

There were four boys and four girls in our family. While in Minnesota a girl passed away in infancy. The seven children coming to Canada and the years of their births were: Magnus — 1898, Albert — 1899 deceased in 1933, Herman — 1900, Elmer — 1901, Bertha (Molander) — 1903, Olga (Irwin) — 1905, and Julia (Lauritsen) —

We were all kept busy as we milked 25 cows. The cows were housed in the large barn which was demolished only a few years ago. We also had many pigs which were fed the milk. The cream was taken to Eckville by team and shipped, by train, to the Dairy Pool creamery at Alix.

Herman resides in Rimbey and was predeceased by his wife, Evelyn.

Magnus and Elmer are living on the home place. Furnishings must have been well constructed in those days, as my brothers are still using the same large Usona cook stove that they brought with them in 1919. Many a meal has been cooked on the stove and, in spite of continuous use, it is still in good condition.

My mother passed away in 1948 and my father in 1950. They are buried in the Gilby Cemetery.

PETERSON PETER AND CARRIE — recalled by Vivian (Forsell) Ogilvie W½ and NE 34-40-3 W5

Carrie was first married to Mr Olsen and to this union was born one daughter Esther. A logging accident took the life of Mr Olsen. He was hauling a load of lumber south of the homestead (NW 34-40-3-W4), when the load slid and caught Mr Olsen killing him in about 1905.

Peter Peterson, a bachelor and homesteader living nearby married Carrie Olsen and they made their home on the NW 34. It was this couple, along with Esther, who were guests at the Forsell boarding house in Seattle, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Peterson and daughter Esther from about 1907

Esther married a man by the name of Whitey Murphy and they lived on the SW 34-40-3-W5. In 1935 misfortune struck them and their large hip roofed house and valuable contents were completely destroyed by fire. The Murphys then built the cottage-type dwelling that is still on the Roy Andrew farm.

Carrie died in Calgary in 1935 and was buried there. As far as is known Esther and Peter Peterson spent their last days together in Bellingham, Washington.

Peter and Carrie Peterson had many different families living in their buildings and renting the land. So that those pioneers be not entirely forgotten we are including as many as can be remembered in the Peterson history.

Living on the NW 34 was the John Saari family who later moved to the Saima district. Then came Carl Hule a bachelor who lived there with his brother August and wife. About 1925 the Hule Bros. had a sale and the three of them went back to Estonia. Andrew Frederickson a bachelor and hired hand, was also employed by the Peterson sons. Andrew's living quarters were in a small shanty close to the Peterson dwelling. He died in 1939.

The SW 34 also had many occupants. In the early '20s a family by the name of Crane resided on the quarter and were succeeded by Esther and "Whitey" Murphy. The Whitaker family then rented the three quarters. A hot day in the middle of May 1939 was a tragic one for them as one of their sons was killed by lightning and the other was seriously burned. The brothers were fencing at the time. In March, 1940 the Whitakers had a sale.

Esther Murphy then sold the land to Edward Moro. A very enterprising farmer and businessman, Ed and his wife, Hilda, soon had many superior buildings erected on the farmstead. The property much improved. Ed sold and went to other challenges.

QUINN, JOHN

John Quinn emigrated from County Down, Ireland. He worked as fireman on the C.P.R. passenger trains in the Big Valley area and lived in Calgary, Alberta for several years.

In 1921 he bought the W½ of 6-41-3-W5 through O. T. Norem, land agent.

One evening while visiting the Lester Dobbe family and relating a humorous story he tilted the kitchen chair, thinking the wall was behind him, as it was only a curtain, he fell into the bedroom. Another time he ended a tall tale by slapping his leg, igniting a box of matches. He ran outside, gripping his pocket, to save burning himself.

He farmed with horses and also raised Clydesdales of which he was very proud.

In 1949 he sold the farm to Jervel Maddox upon retiring. Mr. Quinn lived in a hotel in Calgary until he was hospitalized for a brief time before his death.

Marie and John Wilson lived there for several years. Tom Maddox now owns it.

This S.W. 6-41-3-W5 was homesteaded by Mike Sestrap about 1910.

RAABIS, JOHN AND ROSALIE — by Jean Raabis Hutchison

In 1903 John Raabis immigrated to Canada from his native Estonia, as did many more Estonians, and settled in the Medicine Valley. When he arrived he filed on his homestead about one and one-half miles north of where the Gilby store now stands, on SW 32-40-3-W5. His wife Rosalie, along with others, and her young son Harry arrived in 1904 from their homeland. Arriving in Red Deer, they were met by Mr. Kinna, who had gone in by team and wagon to pick them up and take them to their new homes.

A trip to Red Deer in those early years was a three-day affair by team and wagon. They would go as far as Sylvan Lake the first day and stay overnight with a family that later became very good friends. The next day they would continue on to Red Deer and do their business and return to Sylvan Lake that night. On the third day they would continue the trip, arriving home that night. This journey certainly was a highlight in their lives.

The roads were nothing but bush trails in those days and traveling was very slow. Their first home was a log cabin which they built themselves. These were very difficult and trying times for them.

During the winter months of those first few years John, along with other settlers, went to work on the railroad at Kananaskis while their wives remained on the homestead to look after their cattle and take care of their children. In order to be able to plant a garden, land had to be cleared. The bush was very thick and it was very hard work to clear the necessary plot of ground.

In 1909 Rosalie gave birth to her second son, Carl John, and in 1911 their daughter, Louise, was born. Bush partridge, jack rabbit and fish were plentiful in those early years. Flour, sugar, salt, tea and coffee were the main staples which were bought. Wild berries were picked in the summertime and made into preserves for the winter months. From their garden they were able to store vegetables that would see them through the winter.

[illegible] people, and provided most of their own needs. There were many bad times and good ones, but I think most would agree that the good times surpassed the bad. House parties, picnics and visiting your neighbors was the only form of entertainment in those early years, so quite a community spirit emerged.

In 1916 Rosalie fell and broke her leg. She was taken to Rumbey to the hospital but about ten days later gangrene had set in and she was taken to Lacombe where she had it amputated. This incident was very hard on her, her husband and their young children. Neighbors were very kind though, and somehow they managed. In the following years she had an artificial leg and was able to do her own work. Besides looking after her home and family she was a mid-wife for many years. She delivered several babies for many ladies in the area. Some of their families or descendants still live in the Medicine Valley.

In 1921 the Raabis family was saddened by the death of Harry, the eldest son. He died undergoing an operation on his leg.

In 1928 Mrs. Marie Hermanson, John's sister came from the Old Country and made her home with them.

In 1937 Carl Raabis married me (Jean Hutchinson) and we lived on the homestead with Carl's folks until 1941, when the senior Raabis moved into the house that their daughter Louise had had built. Louise had gone to work in Erkville in 1936 for Mr. Ferris, a merchant. She was married in 1940 to Alfred Isaacson, son of

Mr and Mrs. Fred Isaacson. They made their home in Eckville and later moved to the farm

In December of 1941, Grandpa Raabis was hurt in an accident he had while driving his horses. He died from those injuries. His sister, Marie Hermanson died the following year, 1942, and her death left Grandma Raabis alone. A year later Louise and Alfred moved to the farm and Grandma Raabis lived with them until her death in June of 1949. All three of these old folks are buried in the Gilby cemetery.

Carl and I had three sons: George, Tom and Terry. They attended the Andrew School until it was closed when the Consolidated School Divisions were formed. Then they were bused to Eckville where they finished their schooling.

Carl sold the homestead quarter to his sister, so it still remains in the family. He was employed by the County of Lacombe from 1948 to 1958. He then operated a gravel crusher for Hopkins Construction for several years.

In 1958 our son George left home to work at Banff and then apprenticed there to become a mechanic. He received his journeyman's papers in December of 1962. He was married in 1964 to Florence Kelly, of the Bentley district. She had two children, a boy and a girl, from a previous marriage. George adopted them and he and Florence have one son of their own. They live in British Columbia where George is assistant foreman with the Department of Highways.

Tom, our second son, married Mary Crouch of Condor in 1962. At that time Tom was employed at the co-op store prior to his marriage. He stayed there until 1965, when he moved to Red Deer and was employed by Red Deer Packers until 1968. When the Canada Packers opened in Red Deer in 1968 he transferred and has been employed there ever since. They make their home in Red Deer and have two daughters and one son.

Terry had gone to Edmonton in 1962 to go on the staff of McLeods Store there. He remained there for about six years. In 1964 Terry was married to Beverley Smith of Three Hills. They moved to Red Deer in 1968 and Terry apprenticed to become an electrician. He is now a journeyman electrician. They make their home in Red Deer and have two children, a boy and a girl.

In 1986 I was employed by the Red Deer Nursing Home and worked there for 10½ years, retiring in February of 1997. Carl has been employed since 1966 by a company that sells chemicals, fuel, and so forth in the oil fields, and is still with them. We make our home in Blackfalds, Alberta.

NE 26-40-3-W5

In 1931 Carl Rangen moved to his father's (Albert T. Rangen) homestead where he resided until his passing. The farmstead was on the west side of the quarter and Carl batched for 20 years before marrying. In 1949 the family moved their building site to the main road, where a lovely hedge of poplars had been planted. After Carl's passing his wife, Audrey, had a farm sale in November 1972 - see Leedale.

Glenn Rangen then became the owner of the quarter and he in turn had the farmstead made into an acreage, which was bought by Barry and Mary Moxness in August 1977. This couple have two children, Michael and Lisa, and are from Red Deer.

SAMBROOK, JAMES E.

March 21, 1924 was not only the beginning of a new season, for another much-loved and very hungry being was born at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel "Tim" Sambrooke. Being the "born" in mention, I remember little of that birthday or the spring, some of the following ones held more for me. The first spring that I recall included mountains of snow, and mountains of what later proved to be wood blocks. The latter were brought into the house, but the former were not. Later in the spring the mountains of snow turned to little rivers, sloughs and small lakes, and the wood mountain turned to what my mother said was all out of bounds. Spring meant water, birds, small animals, green leaves, snakes and frogs.

Summer, berry season, fall. Christmas, all held me in a state where my elders wished there was more of spring's attractions at hand, I'm sure. The great dust clouds were tolerable, "that came about that time". If I was closed behind the house doors, although at some times Father had some problems assuring Mother and I that all was well.

More sombre things were in store. Off to Andrew school for eight years. At that time it seemed to me that money could be mine by working, and not by going to school. Later I was off to the grainfields, trucks and sawmills. At about 20 years of age, bricks, plaster and stucco became the focus of my attention. After about 15 years employment with this kind of work, I became allergic to some part of the business — maybe the work!

I then reviewed the surroundings for some kind of work to fulfill my money requirements, and the oilfield seemed to be the answer. After five years in the "oil patch" other requirements seemed needed to be looked after. I viewed the surroundings again, and at Alliance on April 29, 1960 I was married to Jean Sheppard of Alliance. Of this marriage we are blessed with three sons: Gregory, Graham, Garth, and a daughter, Margo. A son, Colin, passed away at age nine months on December 4, 1962. We have since been transferred to Rocky Mountain House where we now live.

SAMBROOK, JULIEN K.

Julien K. Sambrook was born November 3, 1916 in Lacombe, Alberta, and is the oldest living son of Samuel S. Sambrook and Ethel Sambrook of the Gilby district. In November of 1917 a brother Samuel, arrived, and the Sambrook household was soon echoing to the laughter and sometimes screams of two pair of lusty lungs. A third brother, Harlan, arrived in March 1923 to join the Sambrook household.

The Samuel Sambrook family were all blessed with good hearty appetites and no time was lost getting the chairs up to the table when the time was opportune. While it may be considered a good omen to be blessed with a good appetite, there were times when the demand almost exceeded the supply. Father Sambrook was a good hunter and whenever the larder was getting low a brief jaunt to the hills west of the homestead was all that was necessary to replenish the meat supply.

The "dirty thirties" came and went and the second World War was upon us. My brother Sam joined up immediately, and thus started a lifetime career as a soldier. Julien remained on the farm, known as the NE 33-40-3-W5. He married Laura Robson in November 1941 and set about building a small dwelling as soon as his efforts at a saw mill had produced enough lumber. Money was scarce, and Julien and his wife worked in the lumber camps during the winter months. Such was the case in late December of 1943, when his father passed away. Leaving their employment at the mill where they were being paid $200 a month clear for their combined efforts they returned to the farm. Purchasing the farm from his mother, he and his wife began farming in earnest.

In August of 1952, while polio was rampant throughout Alberta, Julien fell prey to the virus. By 1956 it was apparent that he would have to give up the life of a farmer and try something that required less physical stamina. In April of that year he held a sale, after which he began working for the Eckville Co-op Livestock Marketing Association. In 1958 Julien opened an insurance office and remains at this work at the time of writing in 1978.

Two chosen sons were added to the family over the years, Roland in 1962 and William in 1963.

SAMBROOKE, SAMUEL EARL

Samuel Earl Sambrooke was born on the homestead on November 9, 1917 and spent his earliest years in a continuing search for food. His problem was caused not by a food shortage but rather by his inability to hold enough to meet his other demands. Despite his shortcomings he managed to complete the curriculum at the Andrew School at age 13 and then offered his skills and talents to the labour force of that day.

His timing couldn't have been worse as the rather attractive wages of the 1920's had been wiped out by the stock market crash in 1929 and he thus commenced work at the very depth of the great depression. All youngsters of that time were faced with almost 10 years of rock bottom wages. $1 a day in summer, $2 to $2.50 for harvesting. The jobless thousands in the cities posed no threat to the jobs for the farm kids who had strong backs and callouses on their hands. The local farmers were a very tolerant lot who gave the local boys preference probably more out of a feeling of social responsibility than anything else.

Sam was an indifferent worker who sought employment only because it was necessary to meet his everyday needs. Distant lands and great green pastures beyond the hills bore a strong attraction for him. When the war broke out he went overseas with the army. There, during six years of war, he proved, if nothing else, that he had a strong survivor instinct. Returning to Eckville in 1945, he farmed for a while in the Lockhart district before he returned to the army to round out his 25 years of service.

After release from the service he and wife Margery (a native of Winnipeg) operated a small motel in Penticton, B.C. until they sold out couver, B.C., the land of liquid sunshine.

One daughter, Elizabeth (Tillie) now Mrs. Richard Kotylak, lives on a farm at Waskatenau, Alberta, along with her husband and three children. A step-son, Jim, resides in Vancouver.

SAMBROOKE, SIDNEY (TIM) AND FAMILY

Samuel S. Sambrooke was born on January 3, 1882 and spent his early years in a small village on the outskirts of Wolverhampton, Staffordshire County, England; the oldest boy in a family of three boys and four girls. At the age of 11 years, his education being completed, he joined his father working at a blast furnace in a steel mill. There, for 12 hours a day, six days a week he hammered out axe-heads for the New Zealand and Canadian markets. Pay was poor, about a shilling a day, and the future not particularly bright.

The rather straight-laced life in the class conscious English society that offered little other than music lessons, singing in the choir and membership in the Guild did not appeal widely to the young men of that day. The C.P.R. advertised widely of the excellent opportunities that existed in Canada, and "Go West, young man, Go West" was the clarion cry of the times. Young Sammy, although ultra-conservative by his background and training, was sufficiently non conformist to yearn for something different. Finally, in the spring of 1903, he had saved sufficient money to book passage from Liverpool to Winnipeg. Had he chosen to take with him one of the axe heads that he had produced in quantity instead of a 38 calibre pistol, he would have been better prepared for the trials that lay ahead.

Aboard ship he met another Englishman of his own age, by the name of George Beddoes who was also booked to Winnipeg. They became close friends and travelled the same trails for the rest of their lives.

Somewhere along the way Sammy dropped his Christian name could you blame him?) and went by the name of "Tim". Also for some inexplicable reason he dropped the last letter from his surname. Thus explaining why some members of that family spell the name differently depending on their particular viewpoint!

On arrival at Winnipeg George and Tim soon found that Englishmen were not in great demand in the farming community, but they managed to get employment even though little pay was involved. Before long they learned to harness the horses and hook them to the plow and perform other routine farm tasks. Tim always nursed a particular dislike to milking cows because, to use his words, "It's pretty tough in the cold weather, milking with your mitts on". As most farms required farm hands to milk cows at least during the winter Tim found it more convenient to work in the logging camps near Kenora Ontario, returning to the prairie in the summer time.

He was soon joined by his younger brother Arnold, who had returned from service with the British Cavalry in the Boer War. The group of future farmers had now become a trio. Arnold became nicknamed "Dick" by which name he was best known throughout the rest of his life.

It soon became apparent to this group of tenderfeet that no homestead land was available in the arable portion of Manitoba. They conned the Immigration Agent at Winnipeg into believing that they were qualified, as newly arrived immigrants, to reduced fare to Calgary. After fortifying themselves on beer and free crackers and cheese at a hotel near the station at Calgary Tim and Dick looked for work while George Beddoes took the train to Lacombe where, by proxy he filed on four quarters of land — one for each of the "Three Musketeers" and also one for his younger brother Len who by that time had arrived in Winnipeg. George then journeyed all the way back to Winnipeg, picked up his brother and returned to Calgary to rejoin the Sambrooks. Thus in November 1905 the two sets of brothers finally arrived in Lacombe where they legally filed on their land through the Government Agent one Frank Vicarson. They then faced westward to locate their Bonanza.

Having no equipment, and little other gear they easily negotiated transportation to Bentley with John Veefkin, who hauled freight for the Bentley Mercantile. At Bentley they obtained a night's lodging and meals, then proceeded on foot to Jabez McPherson's saw-mill in the Lockhart district. Here they found employment at $1 a day less a small charge for meals. As the food was excellent the greenhorns felt they had struck it rich, a far cry from their days in Manitoba where the meager fare had reduced them to skin and bones.

The winter of 1905-1906 was extremely mild necessitating the transportation of logs to the mill by team and wagon but it provided a fine opportunity for the new landowners to locate and appraise their previously selected acreages. They found that they lay on or near the township line between Townships 40 and 41 and not too far from the mill itself. Their land was situated as follows: George Beddoes, NE 35-40-3-W5; Len Beddoes, NW 35-40-3-W5; Tim Sambrook, NE 33-40-3-W5; Dick Sambrook, NW 3-41-3-W5.

There were three situated high and dry in the Medicine Lodge Hills. Dick's quarter was straddle the ridge immediately to the north of one of the highest features (Rabbit Hill) and Tim was located on the western slope. The question of the soil or difficulty of clearing land did not worry them whatsoever. The most important ingredient, "good hunting" was situated right on the doorstep!

Since they had no tools, farm equipment or horses, their efforts at building cabins progressed slowly but as the country was dotted with areas of good solid fire-killed timber, they made some progress with little other tools than an axe. In the summer of 1906 more homesteaders appeared in the immediate area. Carr and Dad Thomas arrived on the east half of section three with two wagon loads of effects pulled by four huge oxen. The Thomas' were originally from Ontario, had spent some time in the gold rush at Dawson City Yukon Territories and had obtained the equipment and oxen in Vancouver. The bulls were huge brutes, weighing almost a ton each, and had been employed in the clearing of Granville Street in Vancouver before making the pilgrimage to the homestead. The Thomas erected a solid log cabin on their land during the fall of 1906. This cabin reflecting good workmanship with its dove-tailed corners is standing on its original location having served in many different capacities in the 70 years of its existence. The land is now owned by Philip [illegible].

After the arrival of the bulls the bachelors made more rapid progress toward proving up their homesteads. The powerful but docile brutes gave reliable service at all times except "fly time" when they would sometimes panic throw their tails in the air and head for the tall timber taking with them the plow, the wagon or whatever. The ox-yoke used at that time can still be seen at Julien Sambrooke's residence in [illegible].

The Thomas were somewhat more affluent than the rest of the bachelors as they had amassed a few dollars in the Yukon and were thus able to devote full time to farm development. The remainder wandered far afield seeking work to supply the winter larder. During the summer of 1907 Tim and Len worked at construction of the cement plant at Exshaw. In the fall they returned to the homestead with three Cayuses they had bought from the Indians on a reservation at Morley. These ponies were of limited use as farm animals and spent most of their idle moments trying to escape back to the reservation. Not until they had raised colts on the homesteads did they settle down to their new life

Winter was a time of celebration in the new community as the bachelors re-assembled to swap yarns and display their newly acquired possessions. They conducted the fall hunt to lay in a good supply of meat and thousands of rounds of ammunition were expended in skill-at-arms competitions. The stewing pot was always on, and though they frequently sang "We are poor [illegible] degree of fussiness wasn't always apparent. T[illegible] appointed cook for the day always had to field lots of complaints, such as "Too many pellets in the rabbit stew". "The partridge has been hang ing a month too long

The winter was a convenient time to dig the well. Tim selected a building site in the NE corner of his quarter, offering a panoramic view of the valley, good drainage, and everything seemed right until it came time to get water. After digging through rock, shale and blue clay for 40 feet, he gave up and moved down to the flat, where he got water in 20 feet of easy digging

When the bachelors felt the need for more sophisticated forms of entertainment they could always find it by hiking to Bentley. There they practiced their barbershop quartets while Tim re-acquainted himself with the piano. He had also spent the long nights in the cabin practising on the violin, much to his mates displeasure. Many of the married folks in Bentley were quite young and readily participated in activities. C. F. Damron teamed up with Frank Thorpe to compose little parodies about the local characters, which they would sing and recite at [illegible] brook at that time was very proud of a new fur coat which he maintained was genuine raccoon. His friends agreed it might be coyote, but the village dogs were certain it was goat and treated it accordingly. Also at that time he was being chided about making only a token contribution to the church building fund, so a parody on the big time spender soon appeared. It ran something as

Tim Sambrook, we note, has got a new coat
He surely keeps our eyes a blinkin'
When he got his new coat, he gave them his note
And they took it, of course, without thinkin'
To church he did go, and he made a good show
Till they passed round the plate with the chink in
He showed his good will, with a ten dollar bill
But dropped in a dime, without thinkin

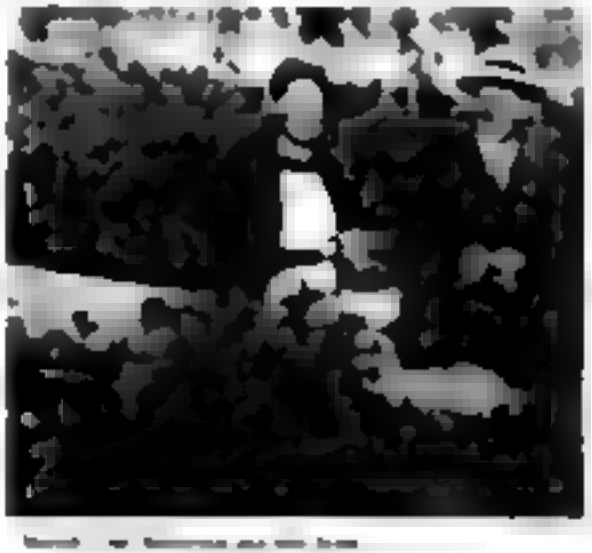
E. St. John O'Neill, who later bought the Len Beddoes homestead, also was selected. He was pretty well a confirmed bachelor even at that time and never did get married, but must have at one time had notions of romance. His ditty was brief

Then there is this singing O'Neill, for whom we all feel
His own clothes he does wash and does rinse
Fell in love no doubt, but it didn't turn out
And he hasn't loved anyone since

Thus the single men added their contribution to the entertainment of the day. Most all of them at one time or another found themselves the target of C. F.'s pointed pen. Humor was often quite personal, and always uncomplimentary, but everyone took it in good grace, as it was considered better to be ribbed than ignored

But the carefree days couldn't last forever. The sounds of revelry eventually gave way to sounds of babies crying in the night as one by one the bachelors got married and adopted a more serious attitude toward the future. The homesteads were fenced, a few acres broken and the land was qualified as being proven up

In 1912 Tim Sambrook married Ethel C. Reed who was teaching at the Bentley school. Ethel was born in 1884 in Iowa, U.S.A. Her mother had died during childbirth and she had been raised by an aunt and uncle at Moville, Iowa, U.S.A. where she attended school and obtained her teaching certificate. After teaching school in Iowa for a time she travelled to Alberta to rejoin her father, who had immigrated earlier and located at Ponoka. After attending Alberta College in Edmonton to obtain an Alberta teachers' certificate, she taught school in two locations in Alberta before arriving at Bentley in 1910



After their marriage in 1912 Tim and Ethel lived for a time in the log cabin on Dick Sambrook's homestead, as it boasted two rooms. With the help and technical direction of John Kurzman, who had located on the NE 4-41-W5, Tim erected a frame structure (two rooms and a path) which Dick plastered inside. This house without a doubt, took the prize as the coldest house in the whole world. The Government of the day didn't offer any grants toward insulation either. Ethel taught school for a year at the As drew school before the children commenced arriving on the scene

Five children all boys, were born to the couple, two of whom died at birth or shortly after The first of the survivors, born November 3, 1916, was named Julien Kitchener after two World War I military leaders. The second son followed in 1917 and, following the century long tradition of Samuels, was unofficially christened "The Prince of Wails" for obvious reasons. The third son, James Harlan, was born in March, 1923

The Bjornson Brothers of Bentley made a tour of the district during the years of World War I with a well-drilling outfit, and most of the homesteaders availed themselves of the opportunity to obtain a good supply of water With water available, the Sambrooks started raising a small herd of cattle and some pigs, the place started to resemble a farm, but many disappointments still lay ahead

The parents both contracted the flu in the deadly epidemic of 1918, and narrowly escaped death Dick Sambrook happened to call by just as everything was freezing solid Tim and Ethel both delirious with fever didn't even know their own names, much less being able to feed the children or look after the stock Dick started the fires, fed the children, took care of the livestock and within a few hours the crisis had passed, with no casualties. The extremely long cold winter didn't pass quickly and the long-drawn out spring of 1919 saw the fledgling herd of cattle finally crawl away and die just as the grass was about to commence growth. The debts incurred for feed at 25¢ a bundle (in the stook and covered with snow) took a number of years to pay off

The "roaring twenties" brought some relief to the beleaguered farmers as grain and hog prices were quite good, and the weather co operative. Tim bought a C P R quarter a half mile west of the homestead, which he called "The Swamp" It offered about 50 acres that was easily brought under cultivation and the remainder varied from pasture land to impossible bog But times were good, only the pessimists worried about tomorrow They would have been better off if they had, as the hungry "thirties" were just around the corner

No attempt will be made here to give an account of that period of suffering that reached into every household and left its scars on the personality of so many Tim Sambrook had suffered throughout his life with a serious thyroid condition for which medical science at that time had provided no cure. This condition affected his temperament, causing deep pessimism to take over from periods of high optimism He seldom lost his sense of humor, but frequently lost his sense of direction of farm operations

The demands of the depression contributed to the development of a small enterprise of the Sambrook farm that was quite successful Because little money could be raised from other farm products, Tim started to raise raspberries and strawberries on a commerical basis In a community that had long relied on the canning of fruit for the winter months, and the fact that over-grazing in the hills had destroyed the wild fruit, this project enjoyed a surprising measure of success

The war years brought about a man-power shortage, pickers could no longer be found and it was necessary to plow up what had been a reliable source of revenue. It is interesting now many years later, and after many unexplained changes in the value of goods, to compare the relative value of a case of berries against the value of other commodities at that time A case of berries (24 pint baskets) brought $3 A select bacon market hog brought $5 A pair of G.W.G. cowboy kings cost $1.45. A two-year-old steer brought $40 The prices quoted were those of about 1936 or 1937 and you can place your own estimate on the farm value of these same commodities today but you will readily see why that was the time "to be in the berries"

Tim Sambrook's health deteriorated steadily and in December of 1943 he passed on to his reward. Ethel lived on in the family home alongside that of her son Julien and his wife Laura, for a number of years before moving back to Bentley to live with her youngest son Suffering from reduced mobility in 1959, she moved back to Eckville for a time before it was finally necessary for her to obtain full-time care in the Rimbey Hospital for Senior Citizens. She passed away in December, 1964 and was laid to rest alongside her husband and one son, in the Bentley Cemetery

The story of the Tim Sambrook elders is not one of great successes or impressive accomplishments, but rather one of perseverance in the face of great odds, an ability to laugh about their own shortcomings, and go back at it again It does depict rather graphically how ill equipped and basically unsuited at least some of the early homesteaders were for the trials involved in the great land adventure of the early twentieth century

They had a wide circle of friends in both the Lockhart and Medicine Valley. Their life-long friends, Len (now 93 years old) and Flora Beddoes are still hale and hearty living in their own home in Penticton. The friendship between the two families has now endured for 75 years and holds chances of many more years duration. Without the assistance of the Beddoes' keen memory, this writer would have been unable to relate the many facets of life in the early days on the township line.

SAUNDERS, GLADYS (ANDREW)

My parents were William and Alice Andrew, homesteaders of the Gilby district. After completing Grade 9 at Andrew School I took a course at the Olds School of Agriculture. In 1926, and in the fall of 1928 went to work at a general store for Charles Rolston, in Rimbey. There I met and married Lester Saunders. We managed different businesses in Rimbey after we had farmed for Lester's dad for four years.

In 1950 we moved to Ponoka where Lester was assistant-secretary for the Municipal District, which later became the County of Ponoka. He was secretary for 23 years. Upon his retirement we enjoyed fishing and travelling. Lester passed away in May 1977 and is buried in the Forest Home Cemetery, Ponoka.

We have two sons. Donald and Gerald. Donald is Ponoka's town manager and he has two children, Blaine and Sharon. Gerald took an electrical course at S.A.I.T. and has worked for Calgary Power for 19 years, still working for them at Brazeau. He lives three miles from Drayton Valley and drives with three others to work, 35 miles away. His two children are Karen and Randy.

I am still living in Ponoka where I belong to a number of organizations.

SCHOOL PICNICS OF THE 20's

The end of the year picnic — a very happy day.

Always sunny and dry in the morning although it usually seemed to rain enough to stop the last ball game.

The unusual sight of your neighbors dressed up. All the new babies in their little soft muslin dresses.

Blue jeans hadn't been invented.

No one wore "overalls" to the picnic.

White shirts, suit pants and new caps.

Ladies in fluffy organdy dresses or bright flowered prints.

Kids barefoot for the races; cars polished.

Ladies new colored "anklets" worn with canvas shoes.

Courting couples parked in cars to watch the ball game in delicious solitude unless the boyfriend was on the team. Then the girls stood at home base, cheering until they lost their

That was the "thing to do". If one didn't have a boyfriend, it was dreary.

Everyone enjoyed our school yard, for it was on a hill, and the ladies and babies could put down blankets to sit on and watch from above the softball diamond.

Every lady tried to have home grown radishes ready for her potato salad. The men took turns cranking the ice-cream freezer. Afternoon rain in the lemonade. Remember that indescribable smell of fresh green grass and rainy lemonade?

The school itself seemed foreign, with parents and neighbors seated along the aisles and squeezed into our tiny desks.

It seemed wrong to see children running around the teacher's desk. But it was cool after a race and the voices from the ballgame blew in through the open window.

A lovely lazy day, and all the summer before us.

But sad, too, for we'd have to part with Teacher. (The 17-20 year-old ruler of twenty to forty little, dusty rascals.

Teacher had told us our future outlook on life.

If we were treated fairly and were appreciated, Teacher had our undying love.

If, by chance, through inexperience with people or by accident, Teacher hurt our feelings or wrongly accused us, it left us with a lifetime bitterness or a sensitiveness to others' feelings, depending on our own nature.

Either way, our teacher made more impression on us than almost anyone else in our lives.

Our teachers taught us honesty, Faith in God and respect for others.

The ladies were dainty, sweet and very firm.

The men were gentle and wise and strong.

Oh, I was lucky.

SCHOOL PONIES

There was Buck, Dan, Smokey, Red Cloud, Star and many others who should not be overlooked as pioneers in any district. Whether it was 90° or 60° below, these trusty steeds made their way to the drafty building called the school [illegible]. Some pulled a cutter or a buggy or cart. In any way, they were always ready and willing to do their duty. The only pay for their day's work was a bundle of oats or a feed of chop or whole grain — Depending on the shape of their teeth.

Many a race took place on the way home from school, many an arm was broken when the rider fell off the school pony, many a youngster received a nasty kick which may have given a lasting scar — but the ponies still made their way to school.

The early 1950's saw the end of this method of transportation, when the centralization of schools began. The ponies were put out to pasture when they were gradually replaced by the big yellow vehicles called school busses

It was farewell to the school pony, the school barn and the races often held on the w[illegible] from school. Many a pony knew the w[illegible] without even a touch of the rein. These were the pioneers of the rural school era

SODERLUND KARL

In 1902 Karl Soderlund left his country of birth, Finland, to try his luck in the United States. He worked at various places doing carpentry work, a trade he had learned while a young man

In January 1905, Reverend Hjelt persuaded him to come to Canada, as Mr Soderlund could do log work and build log houses. The two travelled as far as Red Deer and then on west. In April 1905, Mr Soderlund filed on a homestead in the Gilby area believed to be a quarter on the W½ 34-40-3-W5. By July of that year he sent for Mrs. Soderlund and their two children. His family made their home with Mr John Heikkinnen, who lived two miles north of Eckville. In the spring of 1906, their homestead house was finished and they moved into it. They sold the property in 1908 for $1 200 and moved to the Elspeth district. In 1950 he built a house in Eckville and lived in it a year before moving to Sylvan Lake.

There were 13 children in the family. Mr and Mrs. Soderlund both passed away in 1950 and are buried in the Kuusamo cemetery.

CARL SORENSON

During the 30s several young men came to the farming areas to act as hired hands. Carl Sorenson emigrated from Denmark during the depression years and worked for William Andrew, where he was happy to receive wages of $12 per month plus room and board. While at the Andrew farm Carl learned many valuable lessons on the care of farm horses.

He served overseas in World War II and while in England married Ivy. Upon retirement from the army Carl came to Lacombe where he and Ivy live in their comfortable bungalow.

THE STEEL FAMILY

In the spring of 1906, Mr and Mrs William Steel, (Jack and Anne) landed in Calgary from Scotland. They stayed with the late Mr and Mrs John Davidson and Elsie, whom they had known in Scotland. The Davidson family lived on the quarter where Jack Maddox now lives. During their stay in Calgary Mr Steel got blood poisoning in his hand and had to spend some time in the hospital. While being in and out of hospital he filed on a homestead, SE 10-27-4-W5, north of Cochrane Alberta. The family lived in a tent, on the homestead, during the summer and before winter set in they moved into their log house. It was hard to keep the house warm, the attic was the warmest place to sleep.

Mosquitoes and black flies were very bad and smudges were often lit to give the livestock some relief. The land was not fenced and as a result their cattle wandered away. When located, a calf had a well known rancher brand on it. They did not know about brands until then, but soon obtained one for cattle and horses.

After putting in one year on the homestead they moved to White's ranch at Mitford for the next two winters looking after the horses there. It was there that Anne was knocked down by a horse that her mother was feeding. The doctor came by horse and buggy from Cochrane to set her broken leg. He and Mrs. Steel tore a bed sheet into long strips. She was then instructed to make a pailful of starch. When this was cool enough to handle the cotton strips were soaked in the starch and wound around Anne's leg. She had to lie on a table until the bandages were thoroughly dry. So a pioneer cast was made. While she was laid up, her mother taught her to knit, crochet and sew a neat hem.

Jim was born in Cochrane in May 1909 and Margaret (Peggy) was born on the farm at Cochrane in 1912.

In 1919 they sold the homestead and moved north of Eckville, taking four railway cars of livestock, machinery and household effects. By this time Wm Steel had a number of registered Clydesdale horses.

The Steels had bought the Dick Sambrooke (NW 2-41 3-W5) place and the SE 10-41 3-W5 from S. O'Neill. Jack, Jim and Margaret attended Andrew School. The family shopping was done at Rimby and Eckville. Entertainment was limited a gathering of neighbors in the various homes, to mention a few — Kurzmans, Sambrooks, Forgells and O'Neil Bros. — St. John's Sinjun and William's Bi[illegible] was always an enjoyable affair.

Mr Steel a tailor by trade was very mechanically inclined and as a result made himself a stationary horse-powered threshing machine. Horses were hitched to the machine and walked in a circle, (much like a merry-go-round) providing power for the thresher.

Neighbors recall that Mrs. Steel's scones were very tasty and that her house was always

In 1921 Jack went back to Cochrane where he worked on various farms and did freight trucking from Calgary to Banff. He joined the navy in 1941 and was discharged in 1946. After the war he was in the excavating business and upon retiring did a great deal of travelling. He passed away November 13, 1977.

Mrs. Steel moved back to Cochrane and bought a house where she gave room and board to so many over the years. Jack and Margaret made their home with her. She passed away in 1958 at the age of 81 years. Margaret, still living in Cochrane, takes a great interest in gardening and house plants.

After Mr Steel passed away in 1936, Jim con moved to farm his dad a half section and had also got a homestead SW 2-41 3-W5. He was a very progressive farmer and was interested in the care and protection of wildlife. Some of his hobbies were: movie pictures at the work, reading, travelling and watching TV. He was the first in the district to have a set. He was a long-time member of the Wheat Pool, Farmer's Union and Lockyer Credit Union. Jim passed away January 13, 1978 and was buried in Rumbey Mt. Auburn Cemetery. John Lauritsen has rented Jim's three quarters for the past 11 years.

Anne Melland married in 1926 and has lived in Calgary since. She has one son, Ian, and two grandchildren, Jeffrey and Jill Anne. She is a member of the Eastern Star and is interested in her church work. Her husband passed away in 1955. Note: Most of the Steel history was given us by Anne Melland.

STONE, ANNA

Mrs. Anna Stone and her son, Dan, emigrated from Norway in 1908 and homesteaded the NW 3-41 3-W5. In 1914 Anna married Agot Wilson, a homesteader from the Lockhart district and the three of them moved to a farm east of Gull Lake. Mrs. Wilson rented her homestead quarter, in the Gilby district, until 1933, when she sold to Gunnar Forsell.

Mrs. Wilson passed away in 1954 and Mr. Wilson in 1958.

Dan and his wife, Lily (McNaughton), are now retired and live at Gull Lake.

SVEEN FAMILY — by Martha E. Piney (Sveen

In 1884, Mother, at the age of five years, came to America from Norway with her parents and her two younger brothers. They settled in Minnesota, U.S.A, not too far from Staples, where other brothers and sisters were born, 10 in all. Mother being the eldest of the 10 became very responsible, and this probably led to her knowledge of people and problems. My dad also came with his parents from Norway to North Dakota at the age of 15. He was the youngest child and the only son of a family of eight. Being sponsored to America, and having to work out at an early age for little money, led them to be an inventive family.

My mother met my dad while she was working in Devil's Lake, and they were married somewhere near there in 1901, and settled near Adams, N.D. on a farm. A large house was built and it was very modern for those times. It even had a pump in the kitchen! My brother, August, was born there December 28, 1903. The terrible storms of winter, and the tornadoes, and wind and drought in summer brought little money to pay for anything, so they decided to sell their home and go west. Spokane, Washington was the next stop. Five acres of cedar stumps, which is today the center of a metropolis. My brother Melvin was born there. The only thing my mother said she missed when they left was the two Jersey cows that gave so much cream that she was able to sell a lot of butter.

After two seasons of grubbing and blasting stumps they were only able to clear a garden patch, so felt it was hopeless to try and clear the five acres. They soon boarded the ship out of Seattle for Alaska, where Dad worked on the railway for two years and my mother cooked for the crew of eight men, all living in the same tent. This task would seem impossible today in sub zero temperatures. After two years they had earned some money, so set out to take a homestead in Canada. That is when they came to the Gilby district, in 1909. My brother Melvin was two years old then and August was six. These were happy times, building a new home and so many other families around them in the same category. Helping one another with different tasks, picnics, and dances, were the order of a lot of Saturday nights. My dad was a fine violinist. I can recall my mother saying punches were served also oyster stews. They nearly danced their legs off all night. Church services were held at their homes each in turn, on Sunday, usually followed by a picnic lunch outdoors in summer and of course coffee was brewed indoors in the winter. A lot of the services were held outdoors as the houses were small and a lot of homesteaders always gathered.

Schools had to be built also, so my dad having two sons almost ready to attend school decided something must be done, so he and others had a meeting and the Andrew School District was formed between 1911-1912. I believe he was on the school board for several years. I can remember them telling that Melvin had to start school at a very young age to make the number of pupils needed. I can well remember my mother telling of the need for doctors and eachers and of all the different problems, how they had to help one another delivering babies doing housework, picking roots They finally named mother "the Lady with the Lamp I can also remember her telling about Mrs. Stenvig having to go to Lacombe to have her leg amputated several times before the gangrene was stopped. Mother took her there with a team of mules. and returning in a few weeks the same way going home and having to help her in her home until she was able to get around again on crutches. So it must have been a rushed life for mother doing her own work as well. My dad was a busy man — blacksmithing raising hogs and farming in general, gunsmithing was also his trade and helping neighbors with most everything. They told of how August and Melvin found a coyote pup and raised him Dad built a kennel for him and he was chained but the chickens kept disappearing, every time a hen went past the kennel the coyote had the chicken So many chickens less, a fine bed of feathers for himself, he became a fine pelt the following winter Then I can remember Mother telling of how one day in winter she saw two children coming across the field to their house It was [illegible] vian and Elzer Forsell They announced that they had come to stay Their mother had disciplined them for something so they were leaving home to stay with Sveens where they would be treated as people. I can well remember them talking about different neighbors, Peterson, Wilsons, Forsells, Kurzmans, Linders. Stenvigs. and Mother always regretted leaving such a fine neighbourhood., but at the time it was a frosty territory and they were unable to raise enough grain or potatoes for the hogs or themselves. Dad decided to sell and it was Mr and Mrs. Thomas who decided to move into their home in 1918 They moved to the Athabasca district and farmed there until the time of their death

I was born there on the farm in 1921. so knew very few of the people they talked of from the Gilby district however I can remember the many things they told about the Gilby distric

My husband and I are now retired here in the Wanogan and the door is always open to visitors or travellers as it always was in Sveen home

HARRY E. THOMAS — by Beulah May Thomas. Hartley

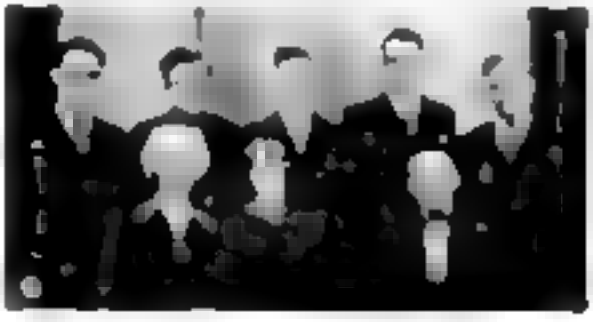
Harry E. Thomas came to Alberta from Iowa. U.S.A. in 1900. Relatives had come on ahead. as Dad came with the livestock to care for them The early arrivals took a homestead for Dad which was hilly, with a few good-sized sloughs Even though he didn't care too much for the location, Dad put up good buildings and lived there until 1917 when he sold out We then took a trip to Iowa and Minnesota, U.S.A., to visit Dad's and Mother's relatives.

Upon our return to Alberta. Dad started looking around for a farm to his liking When he saw the Martin Sveen farm, SW 3-41 3-W5. he looked no further, but purchased the farm, lock. stock and barrel, in 1918. The purchase included four horses. Reppa Becka, King and Roany a pony which would shy and also run away Dad later traded this pony for a smaller sorrel pony which we called Nancy Also in the purchase were included one cow, and I suppose there were some chickens

Father purchased a red Case tractor in 1918 to use for breaking land, as there wasn't much broken The grain was cut stooked. and, when dry, put into stacks to be threshed during the winter There was a dug well, from which we pulled the water up in a bucket. My dad had a man from Bentley drill a well which gave us soft

When we came to the Sveen farm in 1918 there were three of us children. We had all been born in the Haynes district at home on the homestead We were Harold, age 10, born March 4, 1908 May, age eight. born May 30, 1910 and Boyd, born March 17 1913, about five years old Boyd died in 1945 in British Columbia. On August 6 1919 Percy was born at Mrs. Vale's nursing home in Lacombe Mother had fallen sometime before and hurt her leg rather badly so couldn't stay home. when the rest of us were born. with Grandma Thomas to look after her Beatrice Pimm came to look after the house and us older children Martin was born at home on April 12 1922. We had had a blizzard and the roads were drifted. When Harold went to get Mrs. John Raabis. three miles west and north he got stuck when almost home. but managed to get the old Ford dug out and arrived home in plenty of time



[illegible] Percy Boyd, 1941

We all attended Andrews School. walking a mile. Dad would hitch up the team and take us when the snow was deep and the road not traveled. Harry Irvin was born in Lacombe on April 15, 1925. I left school at the age of 14 years so I was at home to look after the house and also to milk the cow

Dad got a larger Case tractor and a thresher and the threshing was done from bundles drawn in by teams of horses hitched to a rack or basket, on the wagon. Busy days, those, for the women as well. with threshers to cook for but we enjoyed those threshing days

In 1922 Dad had an elevator built just south of the old log barn. In 1964 a fire started in the loft of the old barn and the elevator burned too. Later Dad built a barn, using the foundation of the elevator as it had not been damaged by the fire. This gave shelter again for the animals.

Dad supplied the poles and put in a telephone line which was joined to another line running two miles south of our home. He also served on the school board at one time. Dad always kept up with the latest machinery. It took a while to get all the trees off the east quarter. It was necessary to chop the roots through and pull the trees with a team of horses. Stubborn stumps were blown with stumping powder. I remember Charlie Andrew and his wife saying that their dog was afraid of thunder, and when the stumping powder blew he came into the house and crawled under the bed.

We had a McLaughlin Buick car to get around in for a while. We went once or twice a year to Haynes to visit Grandma and Grandpa Thomas. Later we bought a Chrysler sedan. We used to get telephone messages for neighbors who didn't have a phone. I often got the job of taking the message to them. I really enjoyed the horseback ride, but the messages were often of a death, or something serious, and I didn't like that.

In 1929 Dad purchased a Chevrolet truck which seemed like a large one to us. It saved that long trip for the horses to town with grain or pigs. I used to drive it, too. This same year Dad, Mom, Harold, Boyd and Irv (who was then four years old) made a trip up to the Peace River country. As a result of this trip Harold and Boyd took up homesteads in the Hines Creek area. I stayed at home, as Percy and Mart were still in school, and while my parents were gone I took pigs to town with the truck. Mr. Tim Sambrook came and helped to load them.

One teacher boarded at our home in 1922. Her name was Annie Moorhouse. She walked the mile to school. Teachers surely earned their wages in those days. The last year I went to school there must have been about 30 of us, in Grades 1 to 9 and 10. Miss Kingsep was our teacher when I was taking Grade 9. She taught us to play basketball, and the district men put up courts for us. Since there were enough girls old enough to make up a team, we played baseball, girls against the boys, sometimes. At other times we would choose up sides. Later the older ones who had left school used to meet on the school grounds to play ball.

We had parties at one another's homes once in a while, where we played games, or cards, and had a good time. Every summer during school holidays, they had a picnic at Gilby. One time I remember our basketball team played against the Benjamin girls. We often went to the Estonian Hall to play basketball and we played once at the Eckville Sports Day. I left home in 1932, so lost track of things there after that time.

Harold married Mable Ostrem from Peace River. They now live near Chase, B.C. Their five children — Sam, Judith, Ronald, Leatha and Genevieve — are all married.

Percy bought the home farm in the 1940's. Dad and Mom went out to British Columbia for a while where they had a raspberry farm. They had to hire pickers. In the 1950's Mom and Dad sold their land to Mart as he and Anna were also living in the area, and they returned to Alberta where they purchased a home in Rimbey.

Dad later had a stroke which made it necessary for him to use a cane when walking. A second stroke put him in the hospital in Rimbey, but he rallied and came home for a while, only to have to return to the hospital later where he died in April, 1960. He is buried in the Gilby Cemetery.

There was a log blacksmith shop north of the house, with a loft. The chimney was made of wide boards. Dad had been doing forge work in there one day, and that night it burned down along with a garage lean-to at the back. It was thought that likely a chimney fire had started it. Our father liked to go hunting and fishing. He would get some neighbor or friend, Mom would pack the grub box and get the blankets and such ready, and he'd be off in the sleigh to Buck Lake for fishing. They would make camp and set nets in the lake. I for one, used to get a little tired of eating fish. It was packed in a big box at home in ice and we had to eat it before warm weather came. We also canned a lot of it. The hunting trips, out by Rocky Mountain House, usually with horses, always resulted in a deer and quite often a moose. When we first came to the farm Dad could take a saddle horse and ride back into the hills and have a deer in a few hours. There were so many prairie chickens then, too, that they'd be thick around the straw piles in the wintertime, and would even come right into the yard at home. When Harold was fairly young he would hunt partridge in the bushes on our own land.

In 1929 Father purchased the swamp quarter across the road south of the west quarter, so we had pasture. He built a straw shed for pigs and put feeder boxes in to feed them their chop. Later a hog barn made of lumber was built in the northeast corner, a well was drilled there, and self-feeders were provided to feed the chop to the pigs. This made taking care of the pigs a lot easier. Dad also had an eight-foot corral built of logs, or rails, where he put colts to wean them, steers to be fattened, or used for whatever purpose needed. This was on the slope south of the house. He built a big straw shed in the lower corner with a long straw-feeder up one side where a big load of straw could be put into it, so the stock did not waste so much while eating.

We had a good saddle horse by the name of Fly". I always thought of him as mine. He was a big bay which Dad had bought when I was about 12 years old. I would often ride him to visit school mates, and sometimes I would ride him two miles north and to the top of the big hill just for the pleasure of riding

THOMAS, PERCY AND ANN — by Percy Thomas

We, Percy and Ann, were married in 1937 and started farming on our own in 1939 in the Leedale district on a C P R quarter, for which we had paid the full price of $700. Our first son Junior" Percy Leroy arrived in 1940 and our second son, Phillip, was born in 1943

In 1945 we bought the former Billy Woods farm at Lockart In 1948 we ran the A B Cafe in Rimbey for six months, but in that same year we bought our half section of the home place from father Harry Thomas

In 1947 our third son, Tom was born

My long series of back operations began in 1949 with infection starting 12 days after surgery Numerous operations followed, trying to stop the bone infection, which however, still exists

Three more sons were born to us Doug in 1950, followed by Harry in 1954 and Michael in 1955

In 1956 we rented the Pete Moro farm and later also part of the Forsell farm the former Annie Stone place

In 1959 son Junior started his university training. He took six years at the University of Alberta and then three years in Australia, where he received his Doctorate in Plant Genetics. He is now doing research work for the Federal Government and is living in Winnipeg

Phillip attended the University of Alberta After receiving his Master's Degree he worked as District Agriculturist in Sangudo and in Vermilion and then was promoted to the position of Supervisor of Crops for the province and is stationed in Lacombe

Harry Douglas and Michael are doing oilfield construction work and are living in Eckville

My father Harry Thomas, was a small man but his size was the only thing small about him He had an endless supply of energy In 1924 he bought a 22-40 Case tractor and a 32-inch thresher, which was a large outfit for those years. That tractor could be heard chugging away on the 4-14 plow at four o'clock every morning

He had a team of horses that weighed 2000 pounds each. I can remember seeing them weighed at the Pool Elevator at Eckville Dad built an extra-wide grain box on the sleigh that held 200 bushels of oats and that team used to haul that load the nine miles to Eckville every day Our neighbor William Andrew used to josh Dad about standing on an apple box when harnessing the team

We raised a lot of chickens in those early years and, of course a few turkeys for Christmas. In the autumn, when they were all fat the owls came at night to feast One night the chickens were squawking and Dad, in his pajamas and armed with the 1897 twelve-gauge, went to the fowls' rescue The blast woke us kids and we rushed out to look for the owl All we could find was the turkey hen, as dead as could be She had decided that night to roost in the top of the tree

My father had bought the second self-propelled combine in the district in 1941. One harvest, on our long steep hills at Leedale, the driveshaft broke and the combine took off at speeds unheard of, and came very close to ending up in the middle of the creek at the end of the field

All of our sons married very lovely and efficient girls, and we have eight grandchildren — six girls and two boys

In 1974 Ann and I sold our farm to our son Tom who had worked with us on the farm for eight years. We then bought an acreage in the Green Park area of Sicamous, B.C. and are now building our own home there

MARILYN GUSTAVSON THOMAS

Marilyn went to school in Eckville. She graduated as a registered nurse in January 1965 from the Edmonton University Hospital.

She and Percy Thomas were married on June 19, 1965. Percy is the eldest son of Ann and Percy Thomas. He went to school in Eckville and at Olds Agricultural College He obtained his B.A and M.A. degrees in Agriculture at the University in Edmonton Following their marriage they lived in Winnipeg where Percy worked at the Federal Research Bureau at the University of Manitoba Marilyn worked at the General Hospital there

Percy received a three-year leave of absence to continue his studies in Canberra, Australia, earning his Ph.D. in plant genetics there. They now live permanently in Winnipeg where Percy works in research

They have a daughter Turi, born in Australia on November 28, 1968, and another daughter, Nicole, born in Winnipeg on November 17, 1970

THE THORP FAMILY

Mr Jewel, a pioneer of the Gilby district, went to Tacoma, Washington and told J M Thorp that farm land could be purchased in Central Alberta. Mr Thorp became interested in his friend's stories of the land so that he, too, settled in the area and bought section 31-40-3-W5 from the C P R in 1909. About 1915, his son, Hilmer came up from the U.S. and farmed with his dad Hilmer was joined by his wife, Pearl within a

In 1924 the Thorp family had a household and machinery sale and went back to Tacoma returning to the farm a year later In 1936 the family again sold out returning to Washington and the land has been leased since. Their renters have been John Huseby, Joe and Peter Liska, Bernard Grutterink and presently Walter Andrew

Hilmer and Pearl had two sons, Bill and Russ, who still have joint ownership in their grand father's land. The boys were raised in the family s large house on the NE 31 and attended Andrew School. Bill and Russ were the envy of their fellow pupils, they had bicycles to ride to school

They each had three children and Bill now has four grandchildren while Russ has three. Bill has been a life insurance agent for 16 years and Russ is a veteran of the oil, tire and auto parts business. Bill and Russ have been living in the Tacoma area since leaving Gilby 40 years ago

UHL, EDYTHE

Edythe Uhl, youngest daughter of William and Alice Andrew was born at the farm in the Gilby area. She attended Andrews School and on leaving worked away from home through the winter returning to help at the farm during the busy season in spring and summer

She married Earl (Rudy) Platt of Rimbey and had three children, Joyce, Lorraine and Rodney (now all married) In 1943 Earl died in a plane crash on a return flight out of the north under adverse conditions. In 1949, Edythe married Leslie Uhl and they have one married daughter Dixie. They farmed west of Rimbey until retiring to Rimbey in 1973

WARES, RUDY

His parents, John and Lenna Wares, came to Eckville in 1911 from Estonia They homesteaded a quarter section at Gilby and later bought another quarter from Adam Matthews Rudy s uncle) The two quarters were the W 28-40-3-W5, presently farmed by Walter Andrew

Rudy and his sisters, Elga and Erta, were born on the farm. The family moved to British Columbia in 1933. Mrs. Wares passed away in 1934 and Mr Wares in 1968

Rudy and his wife Maxine, live at Surrey B.C Rudy is employed there as a machinist They have three children — Howard, Theresa, and Barry

Elga and Erta are married and have families They too, live in British Columbia.

CARL AND LAURA WESTERGARD — by Lorna Tink (Their Niece

Carl P Westergard purchased the recently rebuilt Gilby Store in the early part of 1938. At Christmas of 1938, he brought his bride, Laura I Whiteside, to share life with him in the community Soon the store became a meeting place for friends exchanging news, as well as a place for purchasing goods

When Laura agreed to teach in the Eckville High School during the war, Carl needed someone to work for him in the store Thus a large group of capable persons found their way into the area throughout the ensuing years, some of which were Jim Nelson, Ada Cumberland, Lyle and Iola Whiteside, Laurie Lonneberg Audrey Branson, Harold Westergard, Etta and Laura Svendsen Minnie Nugent and Mrs Mason

Carl and Laura Westergard

In 1946, Laura was granted the position of Principal at Dickson School grades one to 12 where she was soon dubbed "Westie." This position necessitated weekly trips, as she returned each Friday night to be with Carl and their Gilby friends. Most Saturday nights were "company nights" with someone special arriving — frequently to fare on Carl s superb pancake suppers. Singing, crokinole, checkers or just good conversation were all the entertainment needed. Sundays were celebrated quietly with

"Meeting" at the home of a friend, and lunch together before Laura returned to school.

Carl loved to fish and whenever he could find a willing partner, he would head out to some stream or lake nearby. He and Laura both appreciated purebreed Shorthorn cattle and purchased two quarter-sections of land for pasture. This was the NW 20-40-3 W5, where the Leonard Skjonsberg family have built their home and SE 29-40-3 W5, which has been purchased by Verral and Lorna Fink.

In 1955 Laura transferred to Lesliеville School and then to David Thompson in 1957 where she remained teaching until her retirement. Perhaps because Laura and Carl had no children of their own they seemed to "adopt" those around them. Many students, neighbours, nieces and nephews will remember being made to feel especially important as young people around Mr. and Mrs. Westergard. Following her retirement from classroom teaching, "Westie" brought young people into her home where she taught piano, organ, theory, or tutored in academic subjects for a very small fee, and often none.

In February 1964, Carl died after a short illness. He is buried in the Gilby Cemetery. The store was too involved for Laura to handle alone, and was sold to Jim and Johanna Blades. Carl and Laura had owned it for 30 years. Laura also sold one quarter-section of their land to Skjonsbergs but retained the "home" quarter. She continued to teach music in her home until April, 1972 when she died very suddenly. She is buried at Gilby. (Laura had married Eric Whidden of Rocky Mountain House in 1971. He is presently living at Rocky Mountain House.

ANDERSON, ARNOLD AND MARION — by Mildred Anderson Nierst

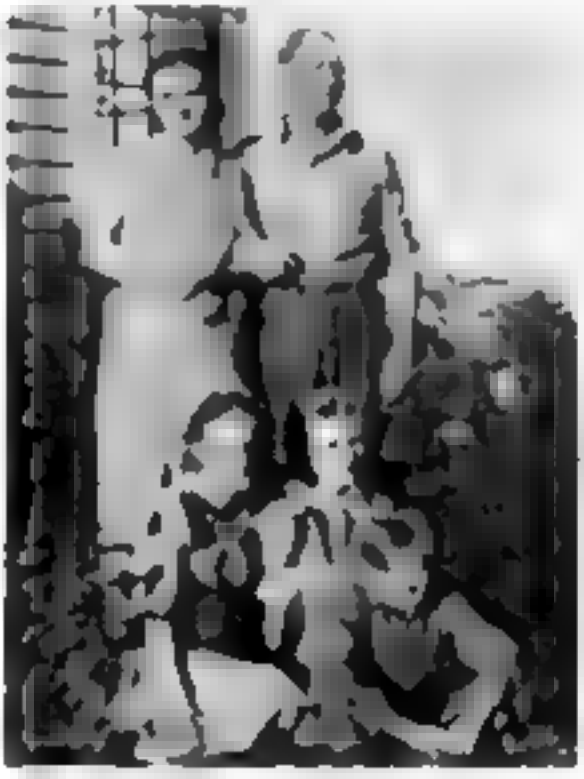
Sven Arnold was the only son born to Swan and Elma Anderson. He was a very welcome addition to the family, especially because he was a boy but also because he was the first new member in the family for eight years, and a brother for Annie and me.

Arnold was still a baby when Grandmother died. However for the first four years of his life he had a very special friend in Granddad. Due to his somewhat failing health Granddad was spending more of his time at home.

As soon as Arnold was able to keep up with Dad they did the chores together. This responsibility grew with the years.



Arnold first attended Melita School then Benalto when it replaced Melita. Now that he had a bicycle he had no problem in getting together with his school chums, Ernest and Arthur Longal.

Arnold was 13 years old when the doctor diagnosed that his failing health was due to diabetes. This he had to contend with the remainder of his life but he learned to accept it and tried to live as normal a life as possible.

As a young lad Arnold went with Mother and Dad on their first holiday from the farm, to visit the Einar Sundstroms and Wayne Heikkinen in Vancouver. Some years later, Mother and Dad accompanied by Arnold and Earle Farris made a trip to Montana. With so many of Mother's relatives around Missoula, there were hosts and hostesses of all ages to entertain them.

For entertainment Arnold enjoyed dancing, curling and traveling when the opportunity arose. It was while he was on a trip to Seattle with Roy and Laurel Nielsen and Bert Cole that all four boys witnessed their first night baseball game. On their return they stopped at Lake Louise and decided to climb the glacier. Having accomplished this feat to their satisfaction they began their descent. It was while they were thus occupied that a ranger confronted them. As they had not received permission for their venture they were soundly "reamed out". This dampened their spirits a bit, but by the time they had reached the car they were ready to continue on to Banff. By about midnight they finally had their tent set up. In the wee hours of the morning a storm blew up and this quartette was rudely awakened by a collapsing tent. After groping their way out from under canvas and tent-poles into the rain, they spent the rest of the night huddled in the car. That was the beginning and end of tenting for this foursome!

While attending high school at Eckville, Arnold was asked why he didn't take one of the junior high school girls to a dance. His comment: "Those kids!" It was one of "Those kids" Marion McCrady Rounds, that he later married. After attending high school at Eckville and then at Red Deer, Arnold began farming with his dad.

Marion was the third of six children born to

Fern and Roy Markely Rounds, in Newcastle, near Drumbeller

Marion started school in Drumbeller but when she was six years old the family moved to the Lockhart area north of Eckville to the farm of Dolly and Homer McCrady Marion's grandparents To attend school at Calkins Valley three miles away, Gordon and Geraldine rode ponies, but Marion rode a Shetland pony Before moving to Eckville, they attended Benjamin School for a short while

Marion's granddad worked at a mine in Saunders, so she left Eckville for awhile to live with him, her grandmother, and her two uncles, Chuck and Raymond. She continued her education through correspondence lessons. Besides supplying their own entertainment such as horseback riding and target practice they attended shows, dances, and hockey games at Nordegg. At times they would walk to Alexo and take the "jigger" hand-car back to Alexo There was even a tennis court and skating rink at Saunders for one year

After returning to Eckville, Marion was a ward-aid in the hospital She took a break and went to British Columbia to thin fruit and to work in the packing plant before returning to the Eckville Hospital for two years

In 1950-51 Marion, Jean Anderson and Doris Walsher attended a Nurse's Aid Course in Calgary, in the old army huts near S.A.I.T.

Shortly after completing her training, Marion and Arnold were married at the Eckville Presbyterian Church. They lived on the family farm. To them were born three children — Sven Richard, Kathryn Lynn and Marion Susan

Farming, chores and a family kept Arnold and Marion busy, but there was time for family get-togethers and picnics, fishing trips and dancing, including participation in a square dance club Day long trips as far as Drumbeller or more lengthy ones to visit family members in British Columbia Saskatchewan and the bordering states, were very much a part of their lives

Arnold's health problems mounted. He finally lost his sight three years before his passing However Marion and Arnold continued their life-style much as before except that now Arnold could no longer farm He never gave up hope for relief from his diabetes, nor for the return of some sight so as to see his children once more especially Susan whom he had never seen. Arnold died in the fall of 1957

Marion and the children continued to live on the family farm for awhile, but then moved to Arnold's farm near Eckville NW 10-39-3-W5

Rick, Angele and their two children, Christine Marie and Sven Daniel, are now making their home on this site near Eckville Kath and Bo Zaleski are living on the S½ of SW 32-39-3-W5 Susan and Blair Penner reside in Edmonton

CLARENCE ANDERSON FAMILY

Clarence was the second son of Charley and Lillie Anderson, born in Split Rock, Minnesota U.S.A. in May, 1909 His parents moved to the Manyberries district in southern Alberta later that same year Here they took up farming, raising a family of six boys and two girls. Clarence attended the New Home School, of which he also served as janitor for several years

Following the drought of the early twenties like many other prairie farmers, they were compelled to leave the farm and move further north to the green area of Central Alberta. Clarence was 16 years of age when the family located on a farm in the Eckville-Hespero area In 1929, they moved to the Jack Simpson farm at Benalto

In 1933, he married Aili Huhtala of Benalto She was born there on her family farm Together they took up farming in 1936 on a half section farm owned by Orme McKee Here they lived for eight years, leasing farms from the Armstrong Brothers and Charles Klint. In 1944 Clarence purchased the SE 6-29-2-W5 from the Armstrong Brothers, as well as the quarter section directly across the highway — SE 31-38-2 W5, from Frank Jenkins. There were no buildings on the land so he purchased a small one-room cabin from Mr Jenkins, adding a lean-to kitchen to one side. A small barn was erected for milk cows These buildings served their needs until a larger barn and house were built in 1946 and 1948 respectively. The home quarter had a heavy stand of spruce which was processed into lumber Part of this lumber was used in the buildings, and the remainder was sold

In 1948, he bought the SW 32-38-2 W5 from Paul Burdick Along with these three quarters Clarence also still rented farm land from the Armstrongs and Mr Klint Most years the crops were good, but in 1949, a hailstorm destroyed the entire crop, making it necessary to plow the fields

Following the death of his father Clarence sold the farm to Alfred and Nellie Woehler of Williams Lake, B.C in 1956, and took over the operation of Central Steam Baths in Sylvan Lake. He was interested in carpentry work and built two houses on the property, as well as a four-suite apartment, remodelled from the old Sylvan Lake School In 1963, they sold the steam baths to his brother Richard, and his wife They then moved to live in Rocky Mountain House Clarence worked on construction in Calgary and for the Rocky Mountain School District for some time, preferring, however, to live in semi retirement until his passing in November 1972 Aili still makes her home in Rocky Mountain House

Clarence and Aili had two children; Gary born in 1940 and Delores in 1943. They attended schools in Benalto, Sylvan Lake, and the Lindsay Thurber Comprehensive High School in Red Deer Later both attended the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary. Gary study

ng Electronics and Deloren Chemica

Gary married Patricia Potticary of Eston Saskatchewan. He is employed by Alberta Government Telephones in Red Deer where they make their home They have a family of four — Kevin Kathy. Kelly and Kimberly

Delores worked in sulphur research in the University of Calgary until her marriage to Forrest Bird of Olds They make their home in Rocky Mountain House where Forrest is vice principal of the Junior-Senior High School. Their three children are Lisa Carl. and Ryan

Clarence was an avid outdoor person He never missed an opportunity to go big-game hunting or fishing — sports in which he encouraged Alll and the children to join him. He also enjoyed curling and was a member of the building committee, promoting the building of the four-sheet curling rink in Benalto. He was a careful, conscientious worker, both in farming and construction work, as evidenced by the result of the work he left behind

THE ARMSTRONG BROTHERS

James C Armstrong (1846-1907) of Dutch Mills, Arkansas, U S A , married Mary Elizabeth White (1852-1904 of Cincinnati Arkansas on January 26. 1873 To them were born the following children at Little Rock, Arkansas James Elbert on December 22 1874 Robert Lee on September 11. 1877, William Jackson on October 31 1878 Thomas Gaylord on September 17 1880; Gracie Pearl on March 6. 1882, Sloman Garland on December 13. 1884, and John Peyton on June 16. 1886

The Armstrong family came to Alberta in the latter part of April in 1904. They bought the W 1 38-3-W5 for five dollars an acre. They lived in tents until they were able to accumulate enough logs to build their house (which is still standing today). The house had one room upstairs and one room downstairs. A lean-to was later added which became their kitchen with a small attic for an extra bedroom

Grandma Armstrong, not being well when they came to Alberta, passed away on October 4. 1904. Grandpa passed away on July 9. 1907 after he had acquired a homestead — the quarter east of what used to be Melita School

The Armstrong brothers each took out a homestead and also continued buying and until their holdings eventually added up to seven quarters, much of it under cultivation. At one time they had 300 head of horses some of which supplied entertainment at the " Famous Benalto Fair and Stampede Gaylord was always there decked out in his cowboy hat and striking white chaps, riding around the grounds However, finding pasture and providing winter feed for so many animals sometimes created a problem

Gracie Pearl married Jesse Craig and they farmed south of Benalto until their retirement to Sylvan Lake They had two sons. John married

Gaylord Armstrong, Misty Barham and Gladys Turner

Neva Crawford, who lived in the Diamond Valley District John and Neva's children are Maureen Murray, and Brian Hal married Pat Savage and they took over his parents farm. Pat and Hal have a home in Phoenix. Arizona U S.A. where they spend their winters. They have a summer home in Calgary, and Hal works during the summers as a hail adjuster in some areas Their three children are Wayne, Beverley and Elbert

John married Lulu Lenore (Kit) Barham in 1913. They had three children — James William Bill Barry Barham and Laura Marie

Bill married Lenora Shamlock and they had two children. Gail Marie and Joan Louise Bill served overseas in World War II He passed away in Victoria B.C. in 1958. Lenora and her mother were killed in a car accident west of Ed

Barry married Irene Talson and they had five children Barry Bud Darwin, Barbara Marie. Betty Lou, Bennett John and a baby boy who lived only a few hours and is buried in the Eckville Cemetery Bud married Jeanine Moos Their three children are Debbie Dawn, Dannet Sue and Daileen Marie They reside at Sherwood Park where Bud is in the oil business Barbara married Bill Partica They have a son, Timothy Bill is also in the oil business and they have spent many years overseas Their mobile home is in Sylvan Lake Betty Lou is married to Terry Hannin They have a son, Chad Michael, and live in Red Deer Terry is in the pipeline business. and Betty Lou is a legal secretary Ben is following his great uncle's pattern of remaining single He also works in the pipeline business and makes his home in Red Deer Barry died in 1949

James Elbert William Jackson (Bill), Robert Lee Bob). and Thomas Gaylord remained bachelors. Sloman Garlan passed away on July 2 1935 at Little Rock Arkansas

Sadness came to Kit and John when their little daughter passed away at the tender age of three years. She died of scarlet fever.

The Armstrong brothers, being very musical often played for dances. Left-handed Elbert played a right-handed violin, and it was sweet music, believe me. Quite often we would drive [illegible] summer evenings and hear him playing "[illegible]s Traveller" or "Listen to the Mocking [illegible] or many others of his favorites. Elbert also was "chief cook and bottle washer". Everyone enjoyed his hot biscuits and corn pone (Johnny cake). He left this life on April 29, 1956.

Friends seem to have a special memory of each of the brothers. Bill worked the fields and was about the best story-teller of all. He never laughed at his own jokes. Quite the charmer! Bill passed away on October 30, 1941. Bob was the "Boss Man" until his death on December 15, 1942. He was always consulted about any business transaction in the family. Gaylord was the horseman. He would head the round-up when it came branding time. He also shone as a ladies' man. Bash. He departed this life September 5, 1954. John was the "Old Married Man" as their French housekeeper, Madam Piecereaux, affectionately named him.

John and Kit lived in what is now the Jobs home. They had planned to build a new home and had lumber shipped from British Columbia. The site was selected when one day Kit took off on her horse, Headlight, to choose a new building spot on the hill where the Krause family are now living. Theirs was one of the first homes in the area to have inside plumbing and electricity. John passed away May 7, 1960. Kit and John were avid hockey fans and drove the boys, Bill and Barry included, to their out-of-town games. The Hockey Club's dances in Eckville were very well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Kit resides in Red Deer now and attends all the Eckville Eagles' hockey games and functions.

THE AUSTIN FAMILY

Henry Luther Austin was born in Wisconsin. Rosie Prevo was born in Iowa. They were married in Nebraska in the latter 1800's. They had two sons in Nebraska, Orlie and W.J. Bill. Lute Austin as he was known by his neighbors homesteaded west of Red Deer in the Poplar Ridge district in 1902. He moved his wife, Rosie, and the two boys to the homestead in 1903. The first home was a sod house. Two more sons and two daughters were all born on the homestead: O.M. (Millard), Vera, Retta, and A.L. (Buster). All went to school in the Poplar Ridge School.

Lute brought one of the first threshing machines to the district, being a 28 inch Case. This machine was hand fed and had no straw blower only a straw carrier. They later modernized this machine by adding a blower and self feeder. After the machine was dealt off it turned up east of Red Deer and was still in use in the 1940's. It was first powered by six or eight horses on a horse power unit. Later a single cylinder gasoline engine was used that had been converted from a stationary engine to a traction engine by means of a friction drive. This had no steering apparatus so had to be steered by horses on a pole. This was called an "old famous". At that time most of the threshing was done from sacks to avoid being snowed under. They threshed from Red Deer to Hespero, and some years were almost late for spring work. The family also operated a sawmill on the farm for a while cutting the native timber for themselves and neighbors as a lot of building was needed.

Bill took over the machinery work about the time of the first World War. Bill and his brother-in-law A.D. Archie Smith bought a new threshing machine, a 28 inch Avery that was used until 1936. They also bought a large gasoline traction engine. This engine was a twin sister of the Mogul, and could have been made by them but was sold by International Harvester and there was no real name on this monster. This engine was a "two cylinder" and had to be left running all night in the cold weather as you could not turn it over. Archie and Bill worked together until 1928 when Archie moved to Rockford, Illinois.

Bill then took over on his own and kept up this work until he sold his farm in 1948. Three quarters of raw land was bought from C.P.R. This was three miles east of the old Sylvan Lake Creamery and there was some extra large timber on some of this land. Along with getting the land cleared, breaking, threshing and some other custom work, Bill also ran a sawmill and lumber planer for a few years at different locations. These were powered by two steam engines. These sawmill operations brought him in contact with the Skoodopole Bros. from Botha who had built one of the first brush cutters in the country. A deal was made for lumber and they cleared the large timber areas of this land and some of his fathers original homestead. Some of this timbered land had stumps so big no ordinary tractor of those times could attempt to break it. As the land was needed for farming the steam engine was fired up and with two ploughs behind breaking was started. As the breaking continued, dry wood became a problem so the old two cylinder gas engine was started up and as long as the ploughs hung together nothing could stop either of these engines. Most of the land was broke by them.

All of the Austin men were the neighborhood handy men. No one would think of getting a mechanic from town before getting consultation from one of them. After the experience on all the old gas engines and all the old machinery the neighbors seldom had to go any farther.

Orlie, the oldest boy, married Connie Wilson, a school teacher who taught school in the Evarts district. They have two girls and one boy. The family moved to British Columbia in the 1920's.

THE JAMES BARHAM FAMILY

James Barham was born in Exira, Iowa U.S.A. He came to Alberta in 1911 with Charlie Jenkins, and purchased a section Sec 2-39-3-W5. of land across from Armstrong Brothers. James Barham's son, Guy followed two weeks later in an immigrant car with furniture and horses

Mr and Mrs James Barham's children were Olive, Eloise Skyler Guy and Lulu

Laura (Granny) Barham later brought Lulu who was nicknamed "Kitten" because of her fondness for cats This name was later shortened to "Kit" by which she is presently known to everyone. They were met in Red Deer by grandad (Jim) and Bob Armstrong at the railroad station. Bill, Gaylord, and John Armstrong had been back to Arkansas, U.S.A. to visit with relatives Bob and Jim met Granny and Kit and gran's sister Eva Jenkins, Charlie Jenkins wife, who lived in their house for a time The house was new and had two rooms downstairs which Ava and Charlie occupied. Granny Jim and family had two bedrooms upstairs, plus a pantry and kitchen downstairs. It did not appeal to Kit and granny after leaving a nice home in Iowa, but they managed very well and acclimatized to their new environment

Olive and Eloise married two brothers, Jack Freeman and Clyde Freeman and moved to the United States to live in Oregon

Skyler (Punch) was a druggist at Atlanta Iowa, and remained there, but came to Canada later where he was employed in Calgary by Parson & Denoon Stock Exchange as a salesman. He married Loucila and they have three children — Marion (Knowles Robert Walker, and Janet They are all living in the United States

Olive and Clyde later moved back to Exira and have two children Doris and Jamie

Eloise and Jack Freeman lived on Jim Barham's quarter which Jim had purchased earlier They have three daughters. Laura Mrs Charles Harrison lives in Pender B.C They moved there after Charles' retirement as Fire Chief in Calgary Their three children are Brenda Ann Dana Sue and Charles (Chuck) They all reside in British Columbia

Eva Naomi Mrs. John Murray lives in Calgary. They have six children — Marilyn Nikki Linda, Janice. Colleen and Ken

Norma (Babe married Terry Fowler and they are making their home in Calgary

Guy Barham married Florella Johnston She was one of the first school teachers at the Salma School Everyone loved and respected her She is presently living in Nanaimo, B.C with her son Roy Marjorie, their daughter, is also living in British Columbia All of the school children were saddened when their oldest daughter, Dorothy died in California at the age of three years They had pulled up stakes here to make their home in California They returned after Dorothy's death and Floss came back to teach at Salma. Guy farmed his father's land until he was tragically killed in a binder accident in the fall of 1937 His horses panicked and the horse-drawn binder ran over him

Kit (Lulu Lenore married John Armstrong in 1913 They had two sons and one daughter James William (Bill), Barry Barham and Laura Marie. Bill passed away in Victoria, B.C. in 1969 Barry died in December 1949 and Baby Marie died in 1920 at the age of three years

Mrs Laura Barham, affectionately called "Granny" by everyone, enjoyed the company of young people She cooked huge meals for the ball players who came by to play ball on Sundays She also had her famous recipe for baked beans She often said, "I've got to bake beans in case the Lutz boys come by." The first words Art Lutz would say were "Hey, granny bring on the beans!", whenever he arrived. Granny would chuckle with delight. To our sorrow she passed away on February 21 1950, at the age of 85 years and five months

The Barhams brought with them two cows and horses, one a pony for Kit named "Flash" a pacer which Kit often rode

They also brought their piano with them. Kit played it and their friends, Gladys and Ralph Matchett, along with Norman Turner. (who later married Gladys would come by, so they had good music. Arthur Kinna, a very good violinist would often join them. All in all, it was very enjoyable. Norman Turner also accompanied them on the piano

A couple of days after her arrival. Kit was out hanging clothes when Bob Edgar rode in on his horse. He told her about the dance at Pilcox (now Hespero) the following night. He was happy to see young people coming to the country. They went to the dance and had a great time although the boys far outnumbered the girls. There were only seven girls in attendance and Guy somewhat shy, didn't even ask a girl to dance

Kit was an ardent curler and she delivered milk to the village of Eckville daily, rain or shine.

John was agent for the United Grain Growers elevator for several years. Unfortunately, he had to retire early because of repeated attacks of arthritis

BENALTO AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY — by W. E. (Dick) Austin

It's a shame that no one has kept a record of the society, so my history is based on common knowledge of a few of the old timers that are left and bits and pieces picked up here and there. Most of it is from newspaper clippings, some old minute books and old fair books

The original society was formed in 1917 and the first fair was held in 1918. Prior to this, a sports day was held in Evarts, which ran annually from 1905 until 1915. Due to the railroad being moved to north of Evarts and possibly some other reasons this was moved to Benalto in 1916. Some of the old timers claim there were a few bucking horses and a few horse races held along with this in 1916 but it is not known for sure

S.E. McKee, president of Benalto Agricultural Society, 1917 to 1921

P.N. Cameron, president of Benalto Agricultural Society, 1927 to 1929 and 1931 to 1933.

Henry Hewson, early director and past president of Benalto Agricultural Society

The first full scale stampede was held in 1917 and has been held annually since then. There are also some old timers that claim a few exhibits were also in the first stampede but it is not known for sure. The first registered fair under the Benalto Agricultural Society was held in 1918.

The full success of the society has to be given to the early founders of it and to the many men and women as officers that took part in the beginning and the ones to follow them. The fair and stampede were run by two separate groups in the beginning but were run on the same days. After a few years they joined together but the actual year is not known.

Here is a list of the original officers and the others that followed to carry on their work (note some of the time these officers spent in office) See figure 3

Along with these officers, hundreds of directors and other members over the years have put countless hours of work into the society to make it what it is to-day.

The Stampede in itself can be to the credit of the late F. G. Jenkins and the Armstrong Brothers. They organized the first show and ran it for many years to make it one of the main summer events in central Alberta. The Armstrongs along with Ed Medin, Orin Wylie and many more supplied the stock for many years of charge. The announcing was done by Frank Jenkins on a saddle horse with the aid of a megaphone.

Bonnie fair and Stampede

Many of the early exhibitors turned their prize money back to the society to help pay expenses. One of the early directors did this for many years, this was I. Hyvonen.

In the early 1920's Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Peter Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. A. (Archie) Norton moved into the district. They became exhibitors and promoters for many years. Their years in office and leadership can be appreciated in helping to keep things going during the lean years. In 1919 the total gate receipts were $97. In 1920 an aeroplane ride could be had — 12 minutes for $10. In 1921, $3,900. was paid in prize money. $100. was paid to the best bronc rider. $15. was first prize for a horse race.

By 1924 there was a hall, a poultry building, a horse barn and a grand stand that would seat 500 people. These were all built at a total labor cost of $25. In 1935 under President, Thomas Smith the society became free of debt.

In the first stampede there were no chutes so Bill Hansen was the ear man to ear down the broncs. In the second year only one chute was made so to save time, his services were needed again. Since then several sets of chutes have been built, changing locations at times but always in the same area. In 1968 a new set of steel chutes were built with all new corrals we hope they will outlast many of us.

Some of the riders in the first stampede were Levi Erickson, the Watrin Bros., Sykes Robinson and John Chitwood. The winner of top money at his event was a man from Clive but we were not able to come up with his name. The stampede has been run every year despite some horrible weather conditions. In 1937 it had to be postponed for one week due to the weather but was run off a week later in fine style. The cowboys had to billet in the hall for a whole week as the roads were so bad most of them couldn't leave anyway. This is the year that Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir were to have attended the fair on their way to Rocky Mountain House, but the roads were so bad their only stop was at Swan Anderson's.

Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. Norton at the Bonnie Fair

The fair has been held every year with the exception of 1932. Money was so scarce then the fair was not held but a ball tournament held in its place. Benalto joined the pro rodeo circuit in its early years and have stayed in the circuit ever since.

The original land she is the same location we use to-day. In the early 1920's the land was up for tax sale and had it not been for the efforts of Peter Cameron and the McKees and other, this land would have been lost. The roads were almost impassible as it was during the spring run off, and someone had cut the fences that were used as a telephone line in the early years. However with their efforts and contributions they met the deadline by only a matter of a couple of hours and we still retain the land to-day. It was not until 1946 that the deed was obtained and is now in the name of a board of trustees. We now have one of the finest community grounds in the country and we can be most proud of our forefathers who made it possible. The grounds consist of our rodeo grounds with grand stand and race track, concession booths, a fine community hall, large parking facilities, an outdoor skating rink and our multipurpose building that is used as an agriculture barn by the fair and 4H Clubs and as a curling rink in the winter.

I would like to thank everyone who helped me get this information, and a special thank you to Alice Durward for the use of a complete set of fair books and a scrap book that her mother Mrs. Pete Cameron kept. I'm sure without these my [illegible]

RENAL TO BAPTIST CHURCH — by G. H. Longhead

In the fall of 1927 a group of interested families met at Mr. O. McKee's home, and from this beginning a Baptist Church was started. By the spring of 1928, and from the home of Grandma Burdick, the church was organized. The original 20 chartered members included:

|---|---|
| Mr. S. E. McKee | Miss Elsie McKee |
| Mr. Wm. Holsworth | Mr. Lynn Burdick |
| Mrs. S. E. McKee | Mrs. Lillian Nielsen |
| Mrs. Ruth Burdick | Mr. Everett Nielsen |
| Mrs. Wm. Holsworth | Miss Bessie Burdick |
| Mrs. Irene Bardwell | Miss Sarah Burdick |
| Mr. J. E. McKee | Mr. Dave Holsworth |
| Mrs. Elmer McKee. | Mr. W. O. McKee |
| Mrs. W. O. McKee | |

The first Pastor was Rev. Howard Phillips. The congregation held services in several places, such as the Booster Hall and the Knight's of Pythias Hall, until they purchased the Broderson house and had it remodeled. This was then to be their place of worship until 1945. Rev. William MacDonald was now the pastor and under his guidance a new church was built. The old church was sold and is now the lovely home of Orlie Nielsen on his acreage east of town.

This church building served the congregation until 1963, under the pastorate of Rev. Ron Allen. It was overflowing and bursting at the seams. As a result, the new church was built, the lovely building we now worship in. It was a great day in 1970 under the ministry of Rev. Stewart Windrum, that the final payment was made, and the mortgage was burned.

Our present Pastor, Rev. Denis Burriss came in 1972 and in 1974 a new manse was built after selling the old manse, which was moved.

Pastors of the Benalto Baptist Church have been:

The Stockades have Gary Hillman Earl vokes, Dennis Burriss and Robert Aki.

The girls' program has Barbara Hillman and Ruth Burriss as leaders. We can say, "Here is hath the Lord Led

BENALTO — ITS EARLY SETTLERS ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES — by George Sterling

Probably the best-known organization around Benalto is the Benalto Booster Club. The history of the club itself dates back to the very beginning of the location of the Hamlet itself, to 1912, when it was first considered that a townsite be surveyed at the present location along the Alberta Central Railway It is shown on the C P R. plan as Blocks 1 to 4, A & B Plan of subdivision of part of S W 31 38-2-W5, made by D. T Rownsend A L S. and dated January 2. 1914 It was registered in the Land Titles Office at Edmonton on the 4th day of June. 1914. as Plan No. 5237 A Y

Frank Jenkins, his cousin, Charlie Jenkins. he Armstrong Brothers, Swan Anderson, Jack Simpson Mait and William Wuori are among the names of those who persuaded and suggested the location of the Hamlet of Bena.to

The first passenger train to come west from Red Deer on the Alberta Central Railway which passed through Benalto. was in 1914. Passengers on this train included, among others, Charles Little, Locomotive Foreman, Watson Hall district Superintendent, W C. Donley, Red Deer C P R agent, James Carrol, conductor Lloyd Hambly.

The first time that the Booster Club actually held a community program was in 1915 when a small group put on a stampede on or near the same location on the farm of Charlie Jenkins This eventually brought about the acquisition of the present parcel of land, some 27 acres, now known as the Benalto Agricultural and Benalto Booster grounds. Charles Jenkins, with his cousin Frank Jenkins, transferred the ownership eventually to be jointly owned and registered in the name of the Benalto Agricultural Society and he Benalto Booster Club

Frank Jenkins was born on August 17 1873 in he County of Audubon. near the town of Brayton, in the State of Iowa, U S.A He came to this district and purchased land in 1912. During his active years he farmed, was an auctioneer, carried on a livestock shipping business and for a few years operated a livestock business in Calgary, which went under the name of Barbaa and Jenkins, a partnership. In the 1920's it was common to hear the broadcast of the noon prices of this firm over the W W Grant Radio Station now CFCN. He continuously kept his interest in Benalto and the Benalto Booster Club. He was as president from 1917 to 1928 and from 1931 to 1933, and was Stampede Manager for most of these years as well. During the time he was not Stampede Manager, his cousin Charlie took on this work for him until Charlie bought a farm in the Leslieville district. and even then Charlie was on hand to help with the Stampede

Frank's knowledge of the district and his con

enabled him to call on people throughout the whole area to help in the work and activities in putting on a Stampede each year as well as encourage people to come to Benalto to develop various business activities which after all. was the purpose, and still is of the Benalto Booster Club

Among those were the Armstrong Bros., who were some of his best supporters. They had the horses for the Stampede. Ed Medin had the cattle. and Frank needed both horses and cattle to put on the Stampede Gaylord was the horseman Ed the cattleman. and they were always ready to oblige He also had an outlaw horse, owned by Orrin Wylie. that was one of the hardest for the cowboys to ride

The Benalto Booster Club in its earlier years as well as having an interested and active president also had a very active and interested secretary-treasurer George Warren filled this office for many years. He had come to Benalto as its first elevator agent in 1919 Before coming to Benalto he had farmed the SW 25-38-2 W5. which was owned later by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Opp

fellow and did everything possible, by petition and advertising, to have people come to Benalto, and to help those who came with assistance in starting their business. To encourage McCanna & McKenzie to establish the first Hardware in 1921, the Booster Club bought Lot 4, Block 4 on Railway Avenue, and built a building 28' by 40' with 10' studs, and agreed to sell it at fifty dollars down and twenty-five dollars per month until fully paid. The agreement of sale was apparently fulfilled at the proper time, as McKenna & McKenzie sold out to George Kock of Strathmore in 1926 and George Kock in turn sold out to the Atlas Lumber Company & Builders Hardware in 1928. The building is still used and operated as a Hardware and is part of the building presently owned by George R. Sterling

The Benalto Booster Club worked hard to get the station located in the present Benalto townsite. A copy of 53 names on a petition which includes farmers and businessmen throughout the Markerville, Evarts, Happy Hill, Craig and Benalto districts bear this out

The Stampede and Fair grounds, which consist of over 27 acres, were acquired from Charlie Jenkins for the community. For the earlier years ownership rested separately in the names of the Benalto Booster Club and the Benalto Agricultural Society. The operation of the two organizations on a separate basis often led to considerable discussion as to which one made money and which one lost money, especially after the Fair and Stampede. To make for better relations, the property was finally registered in a joint title in the Land Titles Office, Edmonton, Alberta Certificate No. 17d I. 127 in the name of six trustees, namely: Langton Wells, Swan Anderson, Clifford Hillman, G. R. Lougheed, Lloyd McNeil and Everett Nelsen, these trustees representing both the interests of both the Benalto Booster Club and the Benalto Agricultural Society

This amalgamation marked the commencement of very important growth in the development of the property. A permanent highway serviced by the County of Red Deer No. 23 serves the property. A four-sheet curling rink with modern facilities and cooling refrigeration equipment, is available for the Benalto Agricultural Society for the Fair and other special events and the Benalto Curling Club for winter bonspiels

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks No. 404 entered into a co-partnership with the Benalto Agricultural Society and the Benalto Booster Club for the building and operation of the Community Hall by agreement signed with the trustees on February 22, 1961. Since then a new community hall has been built, fully modern, for the use of the community and under the care and direction of the Elks and Royal Purple

The Benalto Booster Club played its part in getting the Benalto School property. The land was made available for purchase by the Rocky Mountain School Division by the owner, Mr. John Heikkinen in 1937. It was built by Waterman & Waterbury, Regina, with the material supplied by Atlas Lumber Company, Benalto. The 28' 2' x 8' were cut by Dave Adams' mill, west of Rimbey and hauled in by his son, William Adams. The land was levelled through the efforts of a "Bee" under the direction of Mr. Matt Harju of the Kuusamo district, who brought in the largest grader in use in the Municipal District of Lorne at that time. The trustees of the day were Emma Kinna, Archibald Norton, and Everett Neilsen. And Mr. Gust Makl was the representative trustee for the Rocky Mountain School Division. The school was ready for operation in the fall of 1938

Roads were always a problem of which the Benalto Booster Club was aware, and they constantly endeavoured to bring attention to this problem by the government representatives and municipal bodies. In 1930 a big effort was made to have a direct road to Sylvan Lake one mile south of the present Highway No. 11. In 1940 a representative group drove to Edmonton to try to get help from the government. Included in the group was Alex Duncan, Councillor for the Municipal District of Golden West, and Alf Foster, father of the present Attorney General Honorable James Foster. This trip was made in April. To get to Highway No. 11 it was necessary to have Albert Johnson (who at that time was our graymen) haul the car we were to travel in to Highway No. 11, and he also met the committee about ten o'clock that evening when we got back from Edmonton, to haul us back into Benalto. The mud was so deep no vehicle could operate under its own power. That delegation did have some success as a small grant from the government by way of the municipality did get gravel for the mud holes, which was hauled and spread under the direction of Dewey Nielsen acting as foreman. One problem arose as a result of the gravelling — the rocks in the gravel kept coming to the surface. Eventually this problem was solved with the paved road which now leads in from Highway No. 11 from the east and west

In 1937 during the Fair and Stampede the roads into Benalto were practically impassable The Governor General of Canada Lord Tweedsmuir and Lady Tweedsmuir Lord and Lady Buchan were slated to be in attendance for a short visit during the Stampede events, but the rain fell and made the roads impassable for travel into Benalto. The grounds, grandstand and buildings were decorated with Union Jacks and red, blue and white bunting. Three archways were also set up along Railway Avenue, and the bandstand was designated as the place where the guests of honor and their party would be located. The torrents of rain and wind shattered the archways and completely mutilated the decorations It was not a complete disappointment for the Governor-General and his wife, however He had requested on this trip to Benalto, that arrangements be made, if possible, for them to stop at a home with a Finnish Bath. Since the Anderson home was on the highway, they were able to visit at the home of Mr and Mrs. Swan Anderson at the Benalto cor

Due to the heavy rains the Stampede itself had to be postponed for one week. Plans were made to have the cowboys and the midway remain in Benalto. Travel was at a complete halt except by railway E. J Casey Shows, of Winnipeg, had the Midway and were travelling with trucks. To accommodate the cowboys and the showmen the cowboys were given the use of the Agricultural barn and the showmen were given the use of the Booster's Hall. The arrangements went along well for a few days, until some of the cowboys felt that the members of the Midway result was a raid on the sleeping quarters of the midway, and, as you can imagine. "all Hell broke loose

One word that has always been commonly heard in Benalto is the word "bee" Whenever something was to be done in the community such as build a community hall, build a school, a church, a curling barn and rink, build a grandstand, have a clean-up or even build the new eating booth in 1977 the accomplishment of these projects invariably is carried out by means of a "bee " The names of all the willing helpers for these activities would make a long long list

In the 1920's and early 1930's those who curled in Benalto were members of the Evarts Curling Club. In 1933 it was decided to form a curling club at Benalto. Ray Nourse, who was the agent for the Alberta Pacific Grain Company Ltd arranged through his superintendent, Mr MacMillan, to buy a set of second-hand rocks for two sheets of ice. Mr. MacMillan not only arranged to buy these rocks but also delivered them with his auto on the various trips he made on his inspections at Benalto. These were of variety of weights and sizes — little "Tea Kettles" from an old Scottish Club in Scotland to big bunbos, which were about five pounds heavier than the standard size. Even with the variety of rocks, the members were thrilled to have two complete sets. Curling has proven to be a very successful sport at Benalto. At the official opening in 1933 among those who were invited to throw the first rocks were R. B. Welliver of Red Deer, Percy Duffield of Sylvan Lake and Hugh McLevin of Red Deer Laurel Nielsen can be mentioned as one who down through the years has spent many hours preparing and looking after the ice for the Benalto Curling Club as well as the Benalto Skating Club, which adjoins the Curling Club

Archibald Norton, C. P R. Agent who came to Benalto with his family in 1921, played an important part in the life of Benalto for over 25 years He was always a very enthusiastic Benalto Booster Club member For years he was the correspondent for the Red Deer Advocate, and served many years as the secretary-treasurer for the Benalto Agricultural Society and was honored as Honorary Secretary for his faithful years of service During his years with the C.P.R. he was instrumental in selling many acres of land to those who came into the Benalto Evarts, Happy Hill and Craig districts

Peter Cameron was another who, with Mrs Cameron played an important part in the Benalto community, especially in the life of the Benalto Agricultural Society and the Benalto Presbyterian Church. Whenever a "bee was called you could be sure you would find Mr Cameron along with Mrs. Cameron and their boys, Grant and Wilson, taking an active part in the work A special banquet on January 24, 1946 was held honoring Mr and Mrs. Cameron for their years of support and faithful service to the Benalto community

Clyde Stauffer and his family after moving from Alsask in 1935 and buying the Frank Jackson farm, has played an important part in our community life, as an auctioneer, Hereford breeder, as president of the Rural Electrification Association for the Province of Alberta, as president of the Benalto Agricultural Society and as Stampede Manager

During the 1930's and 1940's the Benalto Tennis Club was active and in 1932 a ladies' competition was held and among the players were Delia McKee and Alma Sterling. Reverend J W MacDonald, minister of the Benalto Baptist Church, was a very active member during the 1940's. As well a large number of other well known people were active members

The Benalto Home and School was very active in the development of the school in the community. The first president was Mrs. Lilian McBride, who served in 1939 and 1940, and again in 1942-1943 and 1945-1947 Others who served as president were Mrs Laura Holsworth, Mrs. Jean Pugh Ralph Lough and Mrs. Pearl Jensen Those who served as secretary-treasurer included Thelma Foster, Jack McBride, William

Morris, Bessie Burdick, Laura Holsworth and Grace Benner

A general store was operated for a number of years. It was started in the 1920's by a Mr O C Hansen, on Main Street where Mr and Mrs Gil Hills now live. He sold out in 1931 to Mr H J Arlint who came from Balcarres Saskatchewan. One New Years Eve in 1934 the building burned to the ground. Then a dwelling replaced the store and for a short time Mr W J Pickard operated a jewellery store in this dwelling.

Another fire in the 1920's was the loss of the first Benalto Hotel on Railway Avenue. It was rebuilt in the same location and has since passed through the hands of several owners, being now owned and operated by Ed Toperosky.

The Benalto Booster Club, the Home & School Association, the trustees and the various other supporters who established permanency of a school at Benalto found its greatest support in the splendid teachers that devoted their interest and service down through the years. During the first school year at Benalto, 1938-1939, A Franklin Van Horne was the Principal and Laimi Mak was Assistant Principal. Others who served as Principal were W C Davidson, George Trasov, W E. Farris. Assistants included Clifford Awcock, Anna Sterling who served for several terms. In 1952 an addition was built to the school and four rooms came into operation. In 1954 a room was added in the basement, and Annie Simpson joined the staff. Through the years many other dedicated teachers served on the staff. Anna Sterling was on the staff continuously from 1940 until 1971, when she retired. During this time she also served for several years on the Post Secondary Education Board for the Government of Alberta.

George Sterling and Wilma Pratt, Anna Sterling and Ruth

It was during the years of the Benalto Home and School Association that a regular contact was continued with the Rocky Mountain School Division by the Benalto Booster Club for support and extension to the school. The trustees for the School Division that gave a listening ear, Bjorn Thorlakson, Gust Mak, John Hillman, David Pearson and, after the transfer to the County of Red Deer No. 23, John Jillman, Levi Erickson, David Pearson, and Stan Swainson. The Home and School Association was discontinued at Benalto, but an association of the parents and teachers still carry on in the name of the Benalto School Parent Group. Among the main activities of later years is their assistance with the Strawberry Tea, the Christmas Concert and the annual year-end school picnic and sports day. The active officers have been Anne Thiels and Lucy Nielsen.

Among the merchants that have served in the Hamlet of Benalto are as follows: Jack Simpson and Scott Hardie who built the first store in 1915 followed by Mr MacRae V. B. Buchanan and Arthur Kinna. Mrs. Emma (Kinna) Jenkins, Donald J. G. Wilkes and Ruth Wilkes, and Mr and Mrs. Roussel, all who, along with the general store, served in the distribution of mail with the post office. Following Mr and Mrs. Roussel, the Post Office was transferred across the main street to G. R. Lougheed, who was operating a general store there, in the same location where the community had been served by the Imperial Bank of Canada, a general store operated in turn by Brodersons, Simpsons, Robinson and Fleming, Foster Mullen, Knowles and now by Dick

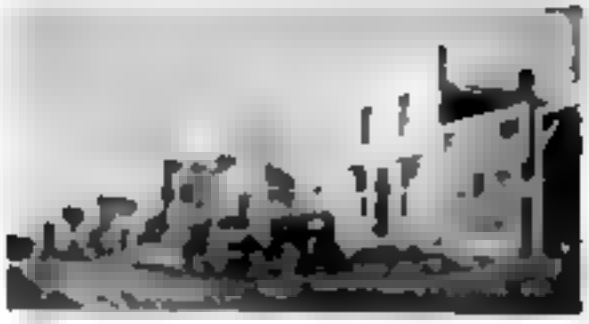
In the late twenties and early thirties Herman Schmidek, along with Emil Schill, operated a hardware store and a machine and oil agency on the west end of Railway Avenue, which is now occupied as a dwelling by Mr and Mrs. R. M. Simpson. Mr James Longair worked with Herman Schmidek during the 1930's as a bookkeeper and also secretary-treasurer for the Benalto Curling Club. In 1939 Mr and Mrs. Longair moved to Calgary where they took over the management of the Woods Christian Home for boys for a short time. Mr Bert Swift carried on a hardware business in this same building for a short time as well as Mr Armitage. This was followed by an electrical business operated by Mr Max Simpson.

Among the builders and carpenters who constructed the various buildings in Benalto the following contributed their skill: S. E. McKee, John Hillman, Joe M. Hillman, and John Rotvik.



S. E. McKee moved to the Benalto district from Red Deer where he served as mayor of that city. His first active interest in the community was his election as president of the Benalto Agricultural Society. He followed this by his activities in his church. He was one of the original leading officers in the Benalto Baptist Church, which brought about the organizing and building of the new church and manse, now served by Rev. Dennis Burriss as Pastor. John Hillman was for years an active carpenter throughout the Benalto, Evarts and Markerville districts. He also served for years as trustee in the Rocky Mountain School Division and was the councillor was also active as a carpenter, mail carrier, and for years operated the livery barn at Benalto. John Rotvik, who built his own building on Railway Avenue in Benalto, was also an operator of a threshing machine in the Diamond Valley district for years. His sons, Gus and Elif who now live in the Wetaskiwin area, served as pitcher and catcher on many occasions for the Benalto baseball team during the 1920's and 1930's.

Among those who painted the buildings as they were built during the 1930's and 1940's was Pete Hansen, who was well known throughout the Benalto, Markerville and Dickson districts.

Baseball was a featured sport in Benalto, as pecially during the years that Frank Jenkins and O M Nielsen and his boys lived in the area. The Benalto Fair and Stampede grounds right from the beginning featured a baseball diamond, and the names of Nielsen, Hambly Fink, Rolvik, Hansen, Stewart, Bardenhagen, Lien, Forhan, Daley Wilkes, Sisson, Swainson, and Farris bring back many memories of Baseball here

Among those recognized down through the years for their interest in the Red Cross and having received their Red Cross Service Pins, were Emma Kinna Jenkins, Alma Sterling and Annie Simpson The Red Cross has always been a well supported charity in the Benalto district During the Second Great War Emma Kinna Jenkins who at that time was postmistress and operator of the general store, gave unstintingly of her time and services to the Canadian Red Cross She grew up the daughter of Thor Gudmundson in the Markerville district, taught school for a number of years, and when she came to Benalto she came as Mrs. Arthur Kinna Her daughter Ruth took over the store and post office after the Second Great War She married D J G Wilkes who had served as a flying officer in the Canadian Air Force. They are living in Peterborough Ontario where Don is employed with the Department of Veterans Affairs

Baseball, and the Stampede program, were the main sources of entertainment during the earlier years at Benalto The Booster Club actually came into being as a result of these sports The district owes a debt of gratitude to the Stampede Managers for their contribution Frank Jenkins was manager from 1918 to 1926, and from 1933 to 1936. Charlie Jenkins from 1927 to 1931 Clyde Stauffer from 1937 to 1940 Dewey Nielsen from 1941 to 1948 Ludwig Kathol from 1949 to 1961 Swan Anderson form 1962 to 1967 Evart G. H Bain was elected in 1968 and continues to serve at the present time (1977) Clyde Stauffer, Ludwig Kathol and Swan Anderson were made Honorary Life Members of the Benalto Agricultural Society

The McBride family in their development of the Riverbend Farms Ltd. have made an outstanding contribution to the development of the community through their interest in the church school, 4-H clubs and the Benalto Agricultural Society On Friday March 2, 1956. Mr and Mrs Jack McBride were honored by the community as winners of the Canadian Rye Championships at the World Seed Fairs held in Toronto and Chicago in 1955

The Livery Barn was an important business in the 1920's. During this time it was operated by J M and Helga Hillman, Orval Gatzke, and Albert Johnson. This property is now owned by G. R. Lougheed The barn has been replaced by a lovely new home at the present time

The blacksmith shop, a very important business in the earlier years, was located south of where the livery barn was. Tom Simon was for years the blacksmith at Evarts, and the mail carrier from Benalto to Evarts Henry Johnson who also operated a trucking business, George McLevin, who now operates McLevin Welding Ltd. Red Deer spent a short time working in this shop with Henry Johnson in the early 1930's L. Bjornson, who came from Iceland made the iron railings on the side of the steps of the Benalto Presbyterian Church In the winter of 1936 the old blacksmith shop burned to the ground The property was taken over by James McGowan, who rebuilt and established a welding shop and a garage along with the Imperial Oil agency Mr McGowan sold out to Uno Lundequist in 1941 and served during the remaining years of the War as an instructor for the War Department of the Government of Canada. After retirement he has made his home in London, Ontario. This business was taken over from Mr Lundequist by William Austin Sr and his son William Austin Jr , the present owners, who now use the building for storage and as a private garage

The buying of livestock at Benalto was a very important business during the early years This, with the selling of grain through the elevators, was the source of income for the farming industry Hundreds of carloads of cattle and hogs were bought and shipped during these years Some of the livestock buyers who dealt with a great many of the shippers from the area were Frank G. Jenkins, George Daley H McLennan Ole Bardenhagen, Thomas Smith Jack Simpson Sivert Lien and Dewey Nielson

The old-time tie rack for teams of horses extended from the elevators to the C P R station along Railway Avenue. It was common to see teams of horses tied the full length while their owners were doing shopping at the stores or having repairs made at the blacksmith shop after they had delivered their loads of grain to the elevators or to the livestock yards. The livestock yards and scales were located in the area where the Commeo Elevator and shed are now situated One particular teamster, Henry Rowles, who farmed in the Raven area, drove a team of heavy draft horses. He groomed them beautifully So that they would not suffer too much from the heat on their trip during the summertime he would leave home at two o'clock in the morning in order to arrive in Benalto before the sun got so hot, and would wait until late in the afternoon before starting home. Mr Rowles was a brother in-law of Hon George Hoadley, who was Minister of Agriculture in the U F A Government of that day

In order to raise money in support of community projects the Benalto Booster Club often sponsored plays or musical programs. It seemed as though everyone was willing to take part A special feature involving the Kinna's musical talents was the musical saw Jack and Lillian McBride featured a sleight-of-hand act that always kept the audience in a happy mood, and the Norton family were great supporters in putting on plays

Down through the years an entertainment that was featured prior to the Stampede Dance which was held in the Booster Hall was a boxing match. This always attracted a full hall and continued as an attraction until the late 1940's. Soon fireworks became a closing feature for the Stampede events. The first year of the Fireworks a laughable situation arose The Stampede events continued until well after dark. The people were getting restless to get home The boxing match packed to capacity To satisfy the clamour by the grandstand to start the fireworks to wind up the show the committee in charge of the fireworks program set off the display. No sooner had a couple of loud explosions occurred than those attending the boxing match started to vacate the Booster Hall and the boxing match In less than a minute by exit through the windows and doo the hall was emptied. All that was left in the Hall were the two boxers and the referee No one to this day ever knew who won the boxing match

In 1937 the Benalto Recorder produced several issues which were edited by Mr Gordon Simpson while he operated the general store. In he issue for September 27 a letter by the late Rev R S. Stevens, minister of the Memorial Presbyterian Church, Sylvan Lake, was printed Through this letter he was soliciting help for drought striken parts of Saskatchewan in the way of vegetables, clothing and food of any kind Calgary Power was mentioned as having built a line through Benalto, and plans were being made to be on to his service. One of the features in the Simpson a Store add was Shelled walnuts twenty-six cents per pound Nabob coffee thirty nine cents a pound (compared to the 1977 price of four dollars per pound!), and ten bars of Pearl White Naptha Soap for thirty-nine cents

Among those who have served as officers in the Benalto Booster Club down through the years are the following Frank Jenkins, Charlie Jenkins, George Warren, W D. Murphy George Richardson, D. J G. Wilkes, W J Morris, Ralph Lougheed, A. Norton, Sivert Lien, Earle Farris, Alma Sterling Dale Nielsen Gordon Steadman George Sterling, and Ray Walker

BENALTO ELKS No. 404 — by W. E. (Dick) Austin

In the spring of 1956 some of our men, which later became members, had the occasion to be invited to an Elks function in a neighboring town Most of them liked what they were told about the Elks and set out to see if an Elks Lodge could be formed in Benalto. Bro M. M. Jenson, who later became the first Exalted Ruler of the Lodge, got some advice from Bro. John Watson and started the ball rolling The Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of Canada was contacted. Shortly after a Grand organizer was sent out to see the possibility of forming a new lodge in Benalto. There was enough interest so prospective members were called to a meeting After a few meetings 43 men signed up for membership in the new lodge These men were to be known as charter members. The date for the institution of the new lodge was set for June 26 1956. With the aid of the Red Deer Elks patrol team and the Red Deer officers, the initiation ceremony was carried out on the 26th of June 1956. Two of the 43 members were unable to attend this ceremony so only 41 names appear on the charter

The first Exalted Ruler was Bro. M. M Mads) Jenson, who was one of the main ones in the helping to get things started. His term started in June. 1956 and went until November 1957 He was then followed by: Bro. Reg Hambly, 1958; Bro. Eric Matson 1959 and 1960 Bro. Herman Stettner, 1961 Bro. Cliff Hansen, 1962 Bro D. A. Dave) Hietala, 1963: Bro. Jake Tolonen, 1964 Bro Murrie Steele. 1965 and 1966: Bro. W E (Dick) Austin, 1967 and 1968 Bro. C. V (Bud Gefle. 1969. Bro. Don McCutcheon, 1970, 1971 and 1972. Bro. M (Pete DeChamps. 1973 and 1974 Bro. Howard Kathol, 1975, Bro. Les Ray 1976. Bro. Terry Niemela, 1977 Bro. Walter Murto 1978

The principles of the order are charity justice, brotherly love and fidelity Where charity is needed money is also needed and some of the money making projects was an annual car bingo turkey shoots, raffles, etc Our main job in the community other than helping where help is needed is the upkeep of the community hall in which we were the main body in the building of it Our national project is the Elks Purple Cross Fund by which any child under the age of 18 years may obtain medical assistance where and when the need arises. We are very fortunate in our area as we only had to use this service twice As we are fairly new in Benalto, our history is short. Our membership now stands at 192. Dick Austin is historian for the Lodge.

BENALTO GARAGE

Sometime in the early 20's, the exact year that the original building was built is not known, but it was built by a John Henry Johnson. This was expected to be a large business as it was equipped with a double set of blacksmith tools. The original business was called Benalto Blacksmith Shop. As near as we know this business was owned by the Johnson family until it burned down in 1936. Many different people worked there or rented it for short periods of time but it never seemed to grow to the foresight of the builder.

Some of the people that were connected with it at different times were: Emil Schill, George McLevin, Simonds Brothers, there was a Thompson and two other partners whose names are not known, Joe O'Hara, Thor Bjornson who some knew as Lowkie Bjornson, and possibly more that have been forgotten.

The original building having burned, in 1937 Jim McGowan built a new building that is still in operation. Jim sold the business to Uno Lindequist in 1941. Uno operated it until 1946 and for health reasons sold it to W. J. Austin. Under Uno Lindequist the name was changed to Benalto Garage and Blacksmith Shop. The Austins changed it to Benalto Garage and it remains that to-day. It was owned by W. J. Austin until 1961 when he sold it to his son W. E. (Dick) Austin.

BENALTO HOTEL — by Elsie Hellsinen

Mr. and Mrs. Redell built the Benalto Hotel in 1919. Campbell and Griffin built a buying station and Creamery in 1920-1921. Mr. Alex Karkainen built a pool hall in 1920. There was a lot of over two percent beer sold there during his time. Alberta was dry until 1924, but Mr. Karkainen managed to get over two percent beer in some way from Saskatchewan. The children of the district recall the "jumbo" ice-cream cones that they were able to buy for five cents.

In 1922 a Chinese man bought the [illegible] and opened a restaurant. At four o'[illegible] spring morning in 1924 the restaurant caught fire from an overheated stove. The cook was baking pies and frying doughnuts during the night for a horse sale to be held at the fair grounds the next day. The doughnut grease caught on fire and he couldn't control the blaze. The restaurant as well as the hotel and pool hall were burned.

Alex Karkainen rebuilt the hotel in 1924. He operated it until 1926, when he sold out to Mr. and Mrs. Varley Buchanan. They operated the hotel until the passing of Mrs. Buchanan in June of 1942. Mr. and Mrs. Sivert Lien leased the hotel from July 1, 1942 until October 1, 1946. It was then taken over by Varley Buchanan's son Jack, who sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Billings in August 1947.

Mr. Billings ran it until July 1948. It was then bought by Mr. and Mrs. A. West, who managed it until the year 1955. It again changed hands when Mr. and Mrs. John Watson bought it. In the history of the hotel they owned it the longest period of time, staying until 1969.

The next owners were Nick and Nellie Korotuk, who were there from June 1969 until November 1973. In the next three years there were two owners — Bob Stenart and Art Kissinger. In November 1976 it was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Taperosky, who are the owners at the present time.

ORDER OF ROYAL PURPLE, LODGE No. 233

On April 29, 1959 The Order of Royal Purple Auxiliary of the B.P.O. Elks instituted Lodge No. 233 at Benalto. There were 41 charter members, many of whom are still in regular attendance at the monthly meetings. Over the years many of the Eckville ladies have been members of this Lodge and have helped earn monies needed for their charitable causes. Over the years, members of O.O.R.P. Lodges all over Canada have played a big part in helping their Brother [illegible] Detection for Children. In 1976 the Order of Royal Purple contributed a total of $101,411.96 toward this fund.

BENALTO PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH — by George E. Sterling

The first church services that were held regularly at Benalto by the Presbyterian Church were in the early 1920's. The minister, Rev. W. G. McKerlnie at Evarts, arranged to hold alternate services with Evarts and Benalto. There do not appear to be any records of this arrangement but Mrs. Norma (Norton) Stewart tells us that when she came as a girl to Benalto, this was the arrangement at that time. She recalls that about the first Sunday she attended a church service after coming to Benalto, she was requested to be one of the Sunday School teachers.

The church service and Sunday school in those days were held in the Benalto Booster Hall. Lighting the fires and the janitor work was a volunteer service provided for the most part by Archibald Norton, who was station agent for the C.P.R. In the wintertime when it was too cold to have service in the hall, he invited the minister and the congregation to the waiting room of the station, for a church worship on Sunday.

The first records show that Rev. O. E. Mann arranged for regular services at Benalto in 1927 with Thomas Smith and Peter Cameron acting as Elders. He was followed by a Mr. J. S. Dingle who was from Australia and served the field for about a year.

In 1931 Mr. Harold Corkey, a student at the time, spent that summer on the field. His father at that time was the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in northern Ireland.

In 1932 Rev. Joseph Carter, a graduate of Spurgeon's College in London, England served on the field until the spring of 1933 when he suddenly took ill and died.

During the summer of 1932 Mr. H. Dasler served on the field and in the summer of 1933 a Mr. Forbes served the field.

In 1934 Malcolm S. MacLean of Brampton, Ontario was appointed to field as a student to serve Eckville and Benalto. He continued on the field until 1935. Mac, as he was known to all who knew him, served during the World War II in the Airforce and after the war completed his theology at Knox College in Toronto. He is presently serving the Church in Winnipeg as Superintendent of Missions.

Rev. Duncan Campbell was appointed to the field in 1936, living at Benalto for a short time until a small manse was built at Eckville where he continued to live until 1940, when he was succeeded by Rev. J. M. Fraser.

In 1942 the Women's Missionary Society for the Presbyterian Church, appointed Miss Ruby Walker as a deaconess to the field, at that time serving Eckville, Benalto and Hespero. Miss Walker is presently serving in Grace Presbyterian Church in Calgary, Alberta.

In 1943 Mr. Otis MacGregor was appointed to the field and served until 1944 when Rev. Douglas Crocker was appointed for the summer.

In the fall of 1944, Mr. Murray Coles, who farmed at Acton, Ontario, offered his services to the field for that winter and served until the spring of 1945, when Rev. A. F. Howick was appointed.

On graduation with his M.A. from Knox College in 1946, after serving for a short time on Vancouver Island, Rev. Douglas Crocker was appointed to the field, and served until 1949 when he accepted a call to serve Rupert Street Presbyterian Church in Edmonton.

It was during the years that Rev. Crocker served on the field that the Benalto Presbyterian Church was built. The corner stone was laid on May 26, 1947 by Rev. R. A. Sinclair who at that time was Moderator of the Red Deer Presbytery. Rev. Crocker conducted the first baptism in the church on September 4, 1947 when Linda Heikkinen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Heikkinen, was baptised. Rev. Crocker also performed the first wedding ceremony when Roy Nielsen and Inez Johnson were united in marriage on July 2, 1948.

Opening Services, Benalto Presbyterian Church

Dedication of Benalto Presbyterian Church, 1947

In the summer of 1950 Mr. Kingsley King, a student at Knox College, was appointed to the field.

In the summer of 1951, Mr. William J. Klempa, a student at Knox College served on the field. He travelled by bicycle for the most part, and did a thorough job of visiting and looking after the regular church services. He is today one of the outstanding ministers in the church, presently serving Rosedale Presbyterian Church in Toronto, Ontario.

In the fall of 1951 Mr. Kenneth Grant was appointed to the field as a Layman. He carried out an extensive visitation program and held services regularly at Benalto, Eckville and Hespero, as well as at the Happy Hill School. To assist him, Rev. Thomas Roulston, minister of Memorial Presbyterian Church at Sylvan Lake, conducted the sacraments of baptism and communion. The records show that on October 25, 1953, Rev. Roulston baptised nine children at the morning service at Benalto.

In 1956 Rev. Peter Walter was appointed to the field and served until 1958. Rev. Walter is presently the minister of Eastmount Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Ontario.

Rev. Sheldon MacKenzie was appointed to the field in 1958. It was during his year on the field that plans were made to build the church in Eckville. He was also on the committee of Presbytery that arranged for the building of the new Manse at Rocky Mountain House. After leaving the field in 1958 he served in the First Presbyterian Church in Montreal and the First Presbyterian Church in St. Johns, Newfoundland. He is presently on staff as professor at the Memorial University, St. Johns, Newfoundland.

In 1959 Rev. Howard Grace was appointed to the field and after serving a year he returned to his home in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Hugh Simpson, whose father at that time was the minister of St. Giles Church in Calgary, served the field during 1960 and 1961.

In 1960 the Benalto congregation transferred to the Sylvan Lake field, and since then Rev. John Voos has served as the minister. Since that time Benalto, with Sylvan Lake, has become self-sustaining, and have added to the church furniture, a new Hammond organ, a Baptismal font and a Communion table.

Organists serving during the years have been Emma Jenkins, Norma Stewart, Edna Smith, Mrs. Ray Nourse, Ardis Bramall, Laura Holsworth and Alma Sterling.

Among those who may be mentioned for their assistance in establishing the church at Benalto include Dr. M. S. Blakburn, Dr. J. A. Munro, Mr. A. B. McGorman, Mr. Ernie Ross, Dr. Oliver Nugent, all members of the Presbytery of Red Deer, who at various times were serving offices in the church.

Special mention must be made of the Benalto Presbyterian Ladies Aid, which has been an active organization for the church and the community from the very beginning of Benalto. It was their interest and financial help that made it possible to carry out the construction of the church building in 1947. Their thoughtful interest in the needy, the sick and the newcomer have made them an integral part of the church and the community.

THE BENALTO PRESBYTERIAN LADIES AID — by Mrs. W. A. Holsworth

The Ladies' Aid in Benalto has a long history dating back before 1929. The minutes of the meetings prior to 1941 were all destroyed, but a bank book starts with an entry of May 3, 1929 — credit $1.02.

During the war years, Victory Bonds were purchased and donations were given to the Evarts Red Cross, and to the Benalto Red Cross. Parcels were also sent to the soldiers overseas.

When the Eckville Hospital was being furnished, the Ladies Aid gave money to the dining room suite fund. For a number of years the Presbyterian Church of Benalto and that of Eckville were one field. Money was raised for the Eckville manse fund.

The biggest project undertaken over the years was to raise money to help build the Presbyterian Church in Benalto. The corner stone was laid on May 28, 1947. Extras have been provided, finishing the basement, fencing, carpet for the aisle, choir gowns, hymn books, and money to help buy the pews. Sunday School supplies have been paid for by the Aid. Yearly donations have been made to the W.M.S.

The chicken supper which was held each fall to raise money was also a social event. Often a bazaar was held before Christmas. The Ladies Aid ran a booth at the Benalto Fair with good [illegible]. One spring a fashion show, "The Spring Review", with the husbands modelling the [illegible].

A neighbourly spirit pervades our Ladies Aid [illegible], and the bereaved have been a way of showing that we care.

We enjoy the Christian fellowship of our monthly meetings, our annual church picnic, and the potluck supper at the time of our annual Church Congregation Meeting.

BENNETT DAVID FAMILY EARLY HISTORY — by Arthur Bennett

David Thomas Bennett was born in 1867 in Bagnalstown in southern Ireland. Annie Thorpe who later became his wife, was born in 1872 in County Ross, Ireland. They were both Protestants. In 1893 they were married and later travelled to New Zealand where they purchased a dairy farm. Their three children born to them here were John, (who died of rheumatic fever in 1899) Irene and Harry. [illegible] seven years the family returned to Ireland, County Carlow, where the second daughter, Mae, was born. The decision to come to Canada was made with a view to having a look at the homesteads then being offered for settlement. We arrived in Brandon, Manitoba in 1901, where we spent the winter. David had gone to the Calgary area to look for a suitable homestead and applied for a quarter section six miles west of Cayley. Early the next summer we met dad in the town of High River where he had gone on ahead to begin building a house. We drove out the nine miles with wagon and team, and got our first view of the majestic Rocky Mountains — stretching out as far as the eye could see from north to south. Although the mountains were clearly visible there was no human habitation to be seen. Just the smell of the prairie flowers, the chorus of frogs in the distance, and the feel of the balmy chinook breeze. I remember my mother taking one look at the lonesome landscape, after which she sat down and cried.

We suffered all the hardships common to the early settlers. Fortunately, the winters of 1903 and 1904 were mild, and we were better prepared for the winters that followed. The winter of 1906-1907 was especially severe, and thousands of head of cattle which had been left on the open range, died from the extreme cold and lack of food. Only the horses survived, as they could paw away the snow and feed on the prairie grass below the snow. The Last Chance School was opened in 1905 and Irene and I rode horseback one and a half miles to attend this school.

In the year 1909 my father sold the homestead for $20 per acre and in 1910 bought two quarter sections of land south of Bassano for $11 per acre. During the move to the new location it was my duty to ride our little grey mare, named Minnie and drive the cattle and horses, and with the help of our dog Rover, I managed to keep them together. We spent the first night at the home of a friendly homesteader along the way, and the next day by evening we had reached the big bridge across the Bow River, 12 miles south of Gleichen, on land belonging to the Blackfoot Indian Reservation. Our plan was to continue on to Gleichen that night, but the tired animals kept laying down, so after about two more miles, we decided to leave the wagon and buggy there and return to town for the night, taking the team and the saddle horse. At the hotel a bed for two for the night cost $1, with meals at 25 cents each.

When we got back to the wagon the next morning we found only the cattle — no horses were in sight. After we had spent considerable time searching for the horses two Indian cow-boys came along with half of the number of horses, for which they demanded $4. A $3 compromise was reached, then the Indians said they would bring the rest of the horses for another $4. By this time we had found that two unbranded heifers had disappeared, so Dad agreed to the $4 price if the two heifers were also included. We finally got the horses for the $4, but the Indians agent advised us to accept that deal, and in return an effort would be made to find the two heifers for us. However, we never did hear anything about the missing animals, which was quite discouraging as the $7 Dad had already paid was about half the price of a good cow in those days. This incident was the only unpleasant experience we ever had with the native people, and in later contacts with them we met some very honorable people among them. After reaching Bassano we bought supplies. 12 loaves of bread for $1, 1 pound of butter for 20 cents, a tin of salmon for 20 cents and a pound of tea for 25 cents.

After Dad and I reached the Bassano farm we put up a 12 by 14 foot frame shack and a barbed wire corral for the cows. Then Dad left by train for High River to bring the balance of the farm equipment and household furniture, and the rest of the family to the farm. No school was available however, which meant that we had to move to Bassano for a three-year period, where Fred, Violet and Arthur attended school. We brought the milk cows to town, also, and Irene, May and Violet milked them and carried the milk in pails around town to customers, who paid $1 for 12 to 14 quarts. This was done before and after school, as the girls and I looked upon school as a most interesting pursuit.

In the winter of 1913 Dad had a bad attack of pleurisy, and had to be sent to a hospital in Calgary. He was able to return home in the spring with two tubes inserted in his lower lung to drain off fluid, but he became a semi-invalid and Harry had to take over most of the work.

In 1915 Dad purchased an irrigated farm near Lathom, seven miles east of Bassano. Here the eldest daughter Irene, taught school. At this time three of the children received their public school education under the direction of their sister. Later on Arthur went to high school in Bassano where Mr. Gordon Foster was the principal. In 1922 Irene was married to Cary McKenna, and they lived in Benalto. Harry Bennett worked the Trenholm dry farm, which was located about six miles south east of Bassano. Arthur helped him when not attending high school. He travelled to and from school on horseback during the years 1925 to 1928. For several years Violet held a position as a typist, then in 1927 she married Robert Prowse of Gleichen where they lived for some time on a farm. They later moved to Calgary where their three daughters now live.

Fred Bennett attended Olds Agricultural College in 1925, under the principalship of the gospel preacher named Howard Phillips, Fred was converted, and attended the Moody Bible Institute in 1926. He became a Baptist minister. In 1940 he enlisted in the second World War and served for more than four years in Italy and France. From 1936 to 1945 he lived with his family, who by now had moved to the Benalto area. During the years from 1947 to 1974 Fred preached under the Southern Baptists in Washington, U.S.A. At present he lives with his wife, Hazel, at Puyallup, Washington.

In 1929-1930 Arthur took his senior matriculation in Red Deer. He attended Camrose Normal in 1930-1931, then taught school until 1945, when he joined up in World War II. He served in England, France, Holland, and Germany with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment. He also worked as Educational Corporal at Taplow near London. After three and one-half years war service he returned to his home at Benalto. When teaching in Tortington in 1947 he met Krause, whom he married. They now live in Red Deer where they have retired.

George Bennett studied at Three Hills Bible Institute in 1930-1931 under the Reverend Maxwell. After his marriage in 1943 he and his wife went as missionaries to Japan in 1948, where their two children, Kenneth and Gwendolyn were born. They are now living in Nanaimo, B.C.

It was in 1927 when the Bennetts moved to Benalto, where they settled on the Woodmancy farm. In 1930 they bought the Charlie Jenkin's farm nearby. Harry farmed this place for a number of years with the help, at times, of Fred, Arthur and George. David Bennett, the father, lived in Benalto until his death in 1944. Harry Bennett then bought the B.C. Learned farm east of Sylvan Lake in 1950. He lived on it with his mother. In 1958 Mrs. Bennett moved into the Senior Citizen's Home in Red Deer, where she died in 1961 at the age of 89 years. Harry is now living in Ladysmith, B.C.

Additional information for this account was supplied by Fred Bennett and by Harry Bennett.

EINARSON, EINAR AND EDNA

Einar Einarson and Edna Hyvonen were married in Red Deer. Einar was hurt in an accident shortly after. This happened at the C.P.R. crossing near Sylvan Lake Creamery while hauling wheat for Fred Grimson, with a sleigh and four horse outfit, the pole dropped and upset the load on him. They didn't expect to find him alive, but he was, and he was taken to Red Deer hospital.

Their first home was in the Burnt Lake district, south ½ of 3-38-2-W5.

Their first child was Walter who was born in Red Deer.

When Einar bought the farm wheat was $2.00 a bushel. He broke some land and when he sold his first crop of wheat it was 18¢ a bushel.

They farmed in this area until May, 1936, when they moved to Oras, S.W. 14-39-6-W5. They lived in a small house with Ben Kestila and later bought his farm. Einar logged and sawed the lumber for their new house. Pine shingles were used for the roof. Jack McCarrol and Harold Anderson built the house.

During that time they farmed with horses, even had a horse baler. They bought a Model A Ford, which they enjoyed, also using it occasionally to haul groceries for the George Meston store from Rocky. At this time they got their first battery radio and really enjoyed listening to the church services.

Wild fruit was plentiful — raspberries, huckleberries, cranberries and high bush cranberries, which were picked by many buckets full for the winter's and jam.

Walter didn't have many playmates, just Herby and Bunny, so he was happy to have a little sister LaVona arrive. She was born at Rocky Mountain House.

In March 1940, Mr. Hyvonen went to Finland to fight in the Finnish-Russian war, so they went back to Benalto to their dad's farm.

They rented the farm at Oras to the Antila Bros. Later they sold it to Dr. Greenaway and purchased the Wayne Pikanen quarter, S.E. 11-39-3-W5, just west of Hyvonen's.

In 1947 John and Miriam Hyvonen came and lived on the south half of that quarter. The lane to the farm drifted very badly every winter, so Mrs. Hyvonen and the Einarson's moved to Mr. Hyvonen's other quarter, N.W. 6-39-2-W5. They moved a house from Sylvan Lake. Fred Grimson, Walter and Howard Johnson, Ray Niemala and Matt Sytela helped move the house. They used two tractors and sleighs. Later Nick Rahko remodelled the inside.

Most years you could expect hail, but there was always enough feed for the stock. We had a threshing machine and stook-loader so we had lots of straw.

We used a freezer locker in Eckville for meat. This saved a lot of work canning.

It was an exciting day in 1947 when they got Calgary power. A. Huhta did the wiring.

Einar worked at the Penhold Air Base two summers, one summer at Sylvan Lake and five years at Atlas Camp 15 near Nordegg. That is where he became ill, and so in 1956, he sold the farm at Benalto to Jim Davis.

We bought a house in Innisfail from William Gires at 4512-50 Avenue. From there Einar drove to work at C.F.B. Penhold. Ill, he retired in 1975. He also helped in the Innisfail Tip-Top Bakery.

Einar and Edna moved to the town of Rocky Mountain House in 1973, next to the Nazarene church. They could walk to church now.

They now live at Westbourne Place, Calgary. Walter and LaVona went to the Benalto School. Walter later married Gail Morton in Vanderhoof, B.C., where they now reside on an acreage.

Walter operates a tree farm. They have two sons, Steven and Robert

LaVona finished high school in Innisfail and after worked at the Treasury Branch. She married Ray Newsham. They farmed in this area until 1972, when they moved to Calgary where Ray is employed with the Provincial Government. They have three children, Loretta Sheila and Keith

A SHORT RESUME OF MY LIFE IN BENALTO 1944-1963 — by W Earle Farris

I came to Benalto in the fall of 1944 as the principal of the Benalto School. Alma Sterling was the second teacher, teaching the grades one to six, and I had the grades seven to ten inclusive I had been transferred from the Dickson school to Benalto and I stayed in the hotel for several months before moving into the old store presently resided in by Mr and Mrs. Max Simpson. While in that building I recall doing the cooking and feeding the Neilsen threshing crew in the fall of 1945. The following year I moved into the house behind the lumber yard which had been the former residence of Elmer Opp and family One of my early memories of the house was the complete overrunning of mice in the pantry It took weeks to get rid of them. Bert Cole came to Benalto to work in the Midland Pacific feed mill and he boarded with me

Bert was one of the star pitchers of the Benalto Baseball team. At that time we were in a league with Nordegg, Rocky Mountain House Eckville, Bentley, Red Deer, Clive and Ponoka What a time each team had to get to Nordegg in a truck if it rained, and it often did Most games in Nordegg were always double-headers so travelling there was cut in half

From the Elmer Opp house I moved to Sivert Liens' house opposite the Midland Pacific elevator It had been a granary, apparently, which the Liens had moved to the property and had fixed up for a home. Bob Sharkey and Vester Niemi's brother boarded with me while they worked at the Midland Pacific

Because the house was small, Matt Sutela who was the handy-man for the Rocky Mountain School Division, built on a nice-sized kitchen The house was moved back on the property and put on a foundation after I was married

On July 6, 1952, I married Janet Margaret Staniforth. What a day it was rain, rain, rain — and of course we were without power for three days before the wedding. With no gravel on the roads, many cars had to be pulled in and out of the Staniforth farm, where the reception was held. My faithful best man, Arnold Anderson saw to it that Jan and I got in and out safely

On July 21, 1954, during the first day of the Benalto Stampede, our first son, William, was born and on Easter Saturday, April 30 our second son, George, was born. The roads were flooded, so it was a long trek over to Eckville to see my wife and George

The Benalto school began to grow substantially and it was not long before two new rooms and a full basement were built onto the old school A fifth room was opened in the basement room shortly after the new part was opened

During the time I lived in Benalto I played ball for the Benalto Ball Club became secretary treasurer of the Benalto Booster Club, secretary treasurer of the Curling Club, became a charter member of the Benalto Elks, for which I was the secretary A very active square dance club was organized for the community and after a winter of instruction from the Sylvan Lake Club I did the instructing of new dances. I helped the Eckville square dance club organize the following year

Of interest to all residents of Benalto and Eckville would be the finding of a part of a shoe along the right-of-way of the C P R. just north of Benalto. The sole and part of the upper sides were of metal construction, with the uppers of leather Some of the leather was still attached Apparently this was a common footwear of the construction gang who worked in the building of the railway It is still in my possession, and is much prized because of its history

As a member of the Presbyterian Church I played an active role in organizing the church booth at the Annual Benalto Fair and Stampede I was a member of the Board of Managers as well as being a member of the session

In the fall of 1962 the senior grades of the school were moved to Sylvan Lake and I went to Spruceview to teach for one year In the spring of 1963 Burt Hansen and I motored to Vancouver Island. The result was that I received a teaching position with the Cowichan School District In August, 1963 our household effects were loaded onto a van and we left Benalto with very fond memories of the years spent there. Our present residence is in Mill Bay B.C on Vancouver Island

THE HIETALA FAMILY — by Marie Hietala

Alexander Hietala was born in Finland on September 16, 1872. He came to the United States as a young man and worked in the copper mines in Butte, Montana. There he met Venla Miller eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. Peter Miller Venla was born on February 28, 1887 in Vadso Norway She came to the United States with her parents in 1891 Alex and Venla were married in Butte in 1903, where they made their home for several years. Their only child, David, was born February 12, 1904 in Butte

In 1906 Alex moved his family to New Port, Oregon, where he had bought a small acreage on which they raised fruit and cattle. The law there required that you buy half high land and half low land. Alex also worked in the logging business hauling logs with team and wagon When he sometimes took Dave with him on these trips, he had to tie Dave onto the top of the load because the hills were very steep. Dave always looked forward to these trips with his father

Beaver Creek ran through the acreage and Dave and two of the neighbor boys used to have fun running and jumping across it One time two of the older neighbor boys held on to both of Dave's hands and dropped him into the creek, which Dave thought was a very dirty trick to play on him

In 1910 Alex moved to Benalto, Alberta and bought 80 acres of Isaac Luoma s land, this being NE 12-39-3-W5. This was the next quarter east of his brother Frank, who had come out a few years earlier Alex's sister and brother-in-law Mr and Mrs. Olaf Johnson arrived a few years later and bought the other 80 acres of the same quarter, the home of Mr and Mrs Isaac Luoma

Venla and her son, David, came to Red Deer, Alberta by train where they were met by M Charles Kasper They drove with horse and buggy to the home of Frank Hietala, where they resided until their house was ready.

Alex did his first farming with three oxen. For the first three winters he returned to Butte to work in the copper mines while Vena and Dave stayed home on the farm. When the C.P.R. line was built east of the home place, Mrs. Hietala would sell eggs and butter to the railroad workers. About 1916 Alex bought a quarter of land east of the home place, NW 7-39-2-W5, once owned by Max Ernest Bittner. At this time the farming was all done with horses.

Dave took Grades 1 through 8 in the Melita School. His teachers were Mr. J. M. McDonald from the Eckville District and Miss Bertheuson of the Marianne District. Dave and his cousin Walter Johnson, took their Grade 9 in Red Deer. Dave belonged to an athletic club, and took part in boxing and baseball. The neighbor boys used to hold boxing matches in the Young People's Hall.

Dave started helping his father with the farm work at an early age, root picking and clearing. There was a big slough on the east quarter where Dave caught muskrats and sold enough skins to buy his first bicycle. His father drove him to Red Deer by horse and buggy where Dave bought his bike for $10 and proudly rode it home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hietala and son David Alex

Alex liked to shoot prairie chickens, but on account of his failing health he had to wear a big fur coat. Most of the time the chickens saw him before he saw them. He passed away at the age of 53 years on December 10, 1925. He was buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery. Dave and his mother continued to run the farm, and in May 1929 they built a new seven-room, one-and-a-half storey house. The lumber was ordered from British Columbia. The cost involved was:

A. Kopsala and his son Dick were the head carpenters. The house was plastered by Dick Sambrook and painted by Mr. Hoglund and his son Walter. Dave and W. Thorkman lathed the inside of the house.

David married Marie Jansson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jansson, on March 31, 1934. Marie was born July 12, 1914 and grew up in the Gilby district. Dave and Marie made their home on the farm with his mother. In 1935 Dave bought his first tractor, a John Deere, having steel wheels with lugs, from Jack Sunnell of Sylvan Lake. The horse-farming was fading out fast. In 1936 Dave bought a quarter of land from Von Holtum of Eckville, NE 7-39-2-W5. On December 10, 1945 he bought a quarter from the estate of the late Matt Talson through Henry Talson, the administrator. The 152 acres, SE 7-39-2-W5, sold for $5000. Since the C.N.R. ran through this quarter, Dave kept the 80 acres adjoining his quarter on the north side of the railroad and sold the remaining 92 acres on the south side of the railroad to Ray Niemela. Dave now owned 445 acres of land.

The Young People's Hall, owned by the Loyal Finns of Canada, was situated a half mile north of the farm. Church, dances and picnics were held there. Every June 24 a midsummer picnic was held. Both young and old enjoyed participating. A cleaning bee was held the day before to clean the windows, floors, benches and the yards outside. The one acre that the hall occupied was sold to Paul Eckes of Eckville in 1973. He burned the hall down and built his new home there.

In 1943 Vena Hietala bought herself a two bedroom house in Benalto from Walter Koures for $3,300. She made her home there until her passing on August 19, 1947. Vesla was buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery.

In 1949 Calgary Power was available to the Benalto farmers at the rate of $649 per farmer. The introduction of power was the first step in the series of events leading toward the era of

In 1950, Dave and Marie joined the Benalto Curling Club where they made many acquaintances and enjoyed many years of curling. In 1951 Dave bought his first combine, a No. 21 Massey Harris, from Chester Kasha for $3,057.75. In 1951 the two-mile road past the farm to No. 11 highway was graveled. The three neighbors, Niemela, Hietala, and Johnson each paid an equal share of the cost. Alfred Haarstad of Bentley was counsellor for the Lacombe district at this time.

In June, 1956, Dave became a charter member of the Benalto Elks Lodge No. 404. In 1966 he was the Exalted Ruler for the Benalto Elks. On October 29, 1971 he was given a life membership in the Benalto Elks Lodge. Marie became a charter member of the Royal Purple of Benalto Lodge No. 233.

On March 31, 1959 Dave and Marie celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at the farm. The open house was enjoyed by children, neighbors, relatives, and friends.

Because of failing health, in 1967 Dave rented part of his land, and then raised only hay to feed his cattle on the remaining land until 1973, when he sold the farm to George Burkholder and moved to a new home in the West Park area of Red Deer. On June 7, 1976 Dave passed away, and is buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery.

In 1970 Dave and Marie had accompanied their daughter and son-in-law, Mae and Neil MacDonald, on a trip to New Port, Oregon, U.S.A. to visit the home Dave had left 60 years ago. The house was still standing and the trees were laden with fruit. Their neighbor's house was still being lived in, but by a new owner.

Dave and Marie raised four children. Harry Irwin, born August 27, 1937, Mae Irene, born May 30, 1942, Albert Alexander, born April 19, 1945 and Ruth Marie, born March 5, 1957.

Harry was born August 27, 1937 in the Red Deer General Hospital. He was an active and mischievous child who loved animals. He took his education in Benalto with Mrs. Alma Sterling as his first teacher and then Earl Farris, later attending high school in Eckville. In 1950 Harry joined the Benalto 4H Beef Club with Clyde Stauffer as club leader. Harry received a trophy for the best kept record in 1954 and a trophy for most efficiency in 1955; he also belonged to the grain club for a year under the leadership of Ray Niemela. Harry started to curl with the Benalto High School and later joined the Benalto Curling Club. He became a member of the Benalto Elks Lodge No. 404 in 1960. On September 8, 1965 Harry and Robert McBride won first prize in a canoe race. They finished a 30-mile run in two hours, 28 minutes and 42 seconds.

Harry enjoyed helping his father with the farming, and was very handy with machinery. He rented some land from Ed Medin for a few years and raised some registered grain. He also worked on oil rigs. He was accidentally killed at Rocky Mountain House on August 22, 1974, and is buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery.

Mae Irene was born May 30, 1942 at the Eckville hospital. She began her education in Benalto with Mrs. Alma Sterling as her teacher. In 1956 the Lacombe school zone was changed, so Mae took Grades 9 to 11 in Eckville and Grade 12 at Red Deer Composite High School. She joined the sewing club in 1956 with Edith Niemela and Olga Stenvig as leaders. She also curled with the Eckville High School and made many friends through this sport. She studied education at Calgary University and taught her first class in Mirror, Alberta. In 1962 she married Neil Charles MacDonald, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacDonald of Fort Saskatchewan. Neil served in an armed forces station in Calgary and Mae continued teaching in Calgary. In January 1967 Neil and Mae moved to Germany, where they lived for four years. They have two daughters, Robyn Marie, born November 17, 1964 in Calgary, and Karen Mae, born September 10, 1968 in Germany. Mae, Neil and the girls arrived back in Alberta on July 14, 1970. Neil was stationed at an armed forces station at Assiniboia, Saskatchewan for three years. He was then transferred to Grand Centre, Alberta, where they are currently residing. They both enjoy curling, square dancing and traveling. Robyn is active in figure skating, swimming and gymnastics. Karen also enjoys sports and

Albert Alexander was born April 15, 1945. He began his education in Benalto with Mrs. Alma Sterling as his teacher. In the summer months when the weather was good Albert rode to school on his bicycle, or his father would drive him to school. In 1956 he began attending the Eckville school, being picked up by school bus. He took grades 5 through 10 in Eckville. For a year Albert drove the Benalto High School bus to Red Deer and drove taxis during the day there. In 1964 he enrolled at SAIT in Calgary, where he took two years of training in Electrical Technology. He was sent to the Westinghouse Company in Hamilton, Ontario. He didn't like it here, so he returned to Benalto and started with Calgary Power in Alix. He was later transferred to Innisfail. On April 13, 1968 Albert married Dorinda Marlene, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Niemela of Benalto. They made their home in Innisfail until January 1970, when Albert was transferred to Hughenden. In the spring of 1973 he was transferred to Rocky Mountain House, where they still reside. Albert and Dorinda have two children, Bonnie Marie was born March 15, 1972 and Trevor was born on June 18, 1973.

Ruth Marie was born on March 5, 1957 at Eckville. She took her first 10 years of education in Eckville and finished her high education at Lindsay Thurber Comprehensive High School in Red Deer. Ruth continued her education at the Red Deer College, where she studied rehabilitation service. She won three academic scholarships during the two-year program. She is presently employed at the Michener Centre Group Homes in Red Deer.

FRANK AND EMMA HIETALA FAMILY — by Jean Hietala

Frank Hietala was born at Vihrat, Finland and grew up there. He served his tour of army duties which was compulsory in Finland when you were 21 years of age. He then came to America. Emma Herranen and Caroline Hietala (Frank's sister) had come to Montana, to Butte, and also spent some time in Calumet, Michigan. They worked at domestic sciences. When Frank came over he found work at Butte, in the copper mines. Frank Hietala and Emma Herranen were married in 1893 and settled to live in Butte. Euphemia (Fem) and Henry were born in Butte. In 1900 they decided to go back to Finland, where they stayed for only one year. They came back to Montana and father went to work again in the same place where he had been working before he left. In 1903 Emma was born and mother was kept busy with her family. Copper mines weren't the best places to work, and many a miner lost his health while working in one.

In 1904 father came to see about land here in the Benalto-Eckville area. He was able to buy the NW 12-38-3-W5, which a party had tried but had given up, but it was still under homestead status. It had a one-roomed cabin, a potato patch and a few improvements. They moved here January 15, 1905 along with a number of other families who settled here at that time.

The cabin was very cold — the wind blew right through it, so they papered it with old newspapers that they had brought with them. The next summer they built a better house. Alec and Vic were born to the family while we were on the homestead.

It was not easy to start with a family in a new land. Father had to go back to work at the mines in Butte for two more winters. It was bad for father's health, and for the last five years before he passed away in 1916 he was not able to do any work. Mother and the children carried on the best they could, and now they are all grown up and time has gone by so quickly. Mother passed away in January of 1947.

Femmie was married to Leonard Klagsep in December, 1917. Emma was married to James Cunningham.

Vic is married to Wayne Pitkanen, of Sylvan Lake. Henry is married to Jean (Jennie

Henry and I have had seven children, four girls and three boys. We have five children grown up. Elsie is married to Laurance Robinson of Red Deer. Their two daughters are Marilyn and Carolyn.

Barbara is married to Preston Parks of Red Deer. They have four children - Danelia, Greg and twins Kevin and Karen.

Allan is still single.

Dorothy is married to Gordon Fisher and they live in Vancouver.

Ronald is married to Shirley Raines, and they live in Calgary.

Baby Violet passed away in 1946 and Ed in 1967.

Henry and I still live on the same farm as Henry came to with his parents over 72 years ago. He still puts in a day's work on the farm.

BJALMAN, JOHANN (JOE) MARIUS

Joe Bjalman was born November 15, 1888 at Akra, North Dakota. His parents had emigrated from Iceland. At the age of two, his parents, sister and brother came to Calgary and from here by ox cart to the Markerville area.

Joe attended school at Hola and was confirmed in the Lutheran Church. He was a member of the Woodman of the World Lodge and the Independent Order of Good Templers. Interested in music he was a member of the original Markerville Brass Band.

He married his childhood sweetheart Gudrun Bjornsson, in November 1913. Four children were born to this union, Helgi Sigmar born July 5, 1914. Johanna Gudrun born December 29, 1915. Larus Magnus born November 29, 1917 and Anna Thordis born October 28, 1919. All were christened by Rev. Peter Hjalmsson who had married their parents.

In May 1920 Gudrun passed away suddenly leaving the four small children. The baby was raised by her parental grandparents and the three eldest lived with their maternal grandparents until they reached school age at which time they returned home to attend Happy Hill School.

During the summer of 1927 while Joe was away building roads a cyclone and hailstorm struck the area badly frightening the children. Leaving the farm Joe moved to Benalto where he operated a livery barn. He did all the local hauling with his horses — all the lumber and coal that came on the train was unloaded and delivered. In 1928 he bought an acre of land and built a small cabin supplementing his income by doing carpenter work and painting. During the Stampede there were many extra jobs. The children now attended Mehta School.

In 1929 Joe took over the operation of the Cockshutt Plow Agency and obtained a milk route. In 1930 he took over the R.R. 3 mail route from Erkville and also the operation of the B.A. Oil agency in Benalto. Joe built a skating rink in Benalto flooding it with water hauled in 45 gallon drums on a stoneboat. Lighting was by Coleman lanterns strung on wires. Later a Delco was installed for electric lights and for pumping water to flood the ice. With the help of Mr. Simpson and Mr. Hastie plans were drawn up and the first curling rink was built by volunteer carpenters interested in curling. Thus the "Booster Club" originated in Benalto.

During the 1930's the children completed their schooling and worked at various jobs.

Johanna married and moved to Carstairs. Soon Joe had a grandson to enjoy. Larus joined and went overseas with the 13th Field Regiment. During the war Joe and Helgi worked on various armed forces building projects.

In 1946-47 Joe built a home for Johanna at the West Coast and decided he liked the climate so he remained there. Helgi married and also lived at the West Coast.

Joe passed away suddenly on November 18, 1961 and is buried at Hasey, British Columbia.

HOLSWORTH, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM, III — by Mrs. W. A. Holsworth

Mr. and Mrs. Holsworth. Will and Rosa moved from Red Cloud, Nebraska to the Evarts district in 1914. They left Nebraska because they had no hope of owning the high-priced land there. For 20 years they had moved from rented farm to rented farm. John Holsworth, who had already settled in the Evarts district wrote to them of the good land available for abou $15 an

They came by train to Red Deer with their family of six; Mabel, 18 years old, Edna 16, David 14, William 12, Ethel 10, and Clara eight years old. A neighbour, Mrs. Alice Tennant, made the journey with them to join her two sons, Richard and Charlie, who had homesteaded in the Evarts and Diamond Valley districts. The large wicker lunch basket held enough food for the nine travellers for at least four days

For two years Mr Holsworth rented land from Douglas Walker before purchasing a half section of raw land, N 21-38-2 W5, from Parks and Carscallen, real estate agents in Red Deer A walking plow and four head of horses were used to break the land

The next spring the Chinese restaurant was moved from Evarts for a house. It took eight teams of horses to pull it on sleighs to its present location on the east quarter A year later an addition was constructed using lumber from the Evarts Creamery which Mr Holsworth purchased and tore down

In the 1920's Mr Holsworth purchased the SE 29-38-2-W5, school land which was sold by auction at Eckville, and also the NE 20-38-2-W5, which was the Charlie Johnson homestead This homestead land was fenced and had 30 acres broken and sown to hay This quarter was very wet, and Bill trapped muskrats to earn money The other quarter had been open pasture, and had been frequently burned over so there were no large trees on it. Eight head of horses pulling a Van Slyke breaking plow were used to break the land

Life was not all hard work In the winter, rabbit hunts were organized, and these were a real social event. Everyone gathered at one home, and while the men were hunting the women prepared a bountiful meal. The men arrived back one time, with a wagon-box load of rabbits, and with good appetites. Target shoots for both men and women were fun at these hunts In the summer there were many outings to Sylvan Lake for fishing or for picking wild raspberries, and always a picnic

Mr Holsworth took an active interest in community affairs. For many years he served on the council of the Municipal District of Golden West He was a founding member of the Benalto Agricultural Society, a director for years, and was the president in 1930-31 He was a member of the Evarts School Board from 1927 to 1930. Mr and Mrs. Holsworth faithfully attended the Evarts Presbyterian Church, and after 1928 they attended the Benalto Baptist Church. He was a deacon in the Baptist Church

Mr and Mrs. Holsworth retired from farming in 1939 and built a house on an acreage east of Benalto. Mr Holsworth died on July 26 1945 at the age of 76 years Then Mrs. Holsworth moved into Benalto to the house which she bought across the corner from the Baptist Church. Here she resided until shortly before her death on November 17, 1956 at the age of 86 years

The oldest daughter Mabel, married Charles Tennant on June 26, 1918 and moved to his homestead in the Diamond Valley district They had two children, Harold and Alice (Mrs. Asgie Berdahl Harold died in North Africa, and Mabel, Charlie and Alice are buried in the Diamond Valley cemetery

The second daughter, Edna, married Edwin Mannerfeldt on December 8, 1920, and they lived on his farm in the Evarts district After Ed died Edna retired in Sylvan Lake. Their daughter Dorothy (Mrs. Harry Periche, lives on the farm

In June 25, 1925 Ethel married William Ormiston McKee, and moved to Condor where Orme was the elevator agent. After a few years they moved to Orme's farm north of Benalto They had two children, Ronald and Margaret Orme is deceased, and Ethel has retired in Victoria, B.C

The youngest daughter, Clara, married Elmer McKee on June 14, 1928. They resided on the McKee farm for a few years before moving to the NE 34-38-2-W5, opposite the Kuusamo school They had two daughters, Doris and Jean. When they retired they moved to Red Deer

William A Holsworth married Laura Norton on July 18, 1930, and remained on the home farm for five years (Their history appears separately)

David Holsworth married Elsie McKee on December 15, 1930. At first they lived on David's farm, and later moved across the road to the William Holsworth farm. Next they moved to Salmon Arm, B.C They had five children Howard deceased , Evelyn, Elsie, Marilyn, and David. All of them live in British Columbia

HOLSWORTH, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM A. BILL AND LAURA) — by Laura Holsworth

We were married on June 18 1930 in a ceremony performed in the garden of the Norton home by Reverend Stevens, the Presbyterian minister I had been teaching for three years, one at Happy Hill and two at Kuusamo. Bill had been farming with his father, and he continued on his own for the first five years of our married life

The depression was a discouraging time. I sold eggs at the O C Hansen store in Benalto for 5¢ a dozen. After they had been government graded, Mr Hansen asked for a few cents back as he had overpaid me. Making butter to sell at the store for seven cents a pound was an unprofitable venture We bought an incubator and after hatching, raising and dressing the chickens, we received 25¢ apiece for them. Bill bought two weaner pigs from Orrin Wylie for $5 After they were fed to market weight they sold for $8. Grain was not worth much, eight to 10 cents for barley and oats, and wheat 15 to 30

We decided to stop farming, and held an auction sale in the fall of 1935 This was the last sale which Mr Frank Jenkins held. Mr Clyde Stauffer, who was a newcomer in the Evarts district, was introduced by Mr Jenkins, and he sold some of the items.

For the next three years we kept a general store in Tees. This was a bad move for us. Business was poor as the depression was still on. People managed with very few groceries. In 1938 we gladly came back to Benalto to farm again This time we lived close to the Benalto School, which was an advantage to our four children Rosemary, Elizabeth, William and Joan

In 1940 I started teaching again, first at Evarts, then at Kuusamo, and finally in Benalto until I retired in 1974. Bill retired from farming in 1970, but we have continued living on our farm

Our eldest daughter, Rosemary, taught in Edmonton, and is at present a music consultant for the Edmonton School Board

Elizabeth married Le Rae (Hap) Nielsen They live near Benalto with their five children Arthur, Ann, Elizabeth Mary and Christine

William married Carol Williams in Perth Australia. At present they live in Bendigo, Victoria, Australia with their four children Mark, Ian, Trevor and Cynthia

Joan married Stanley Mannerfeldt the eldest trict They now live in Mill Woods, Edmonton and have three children, Rosemary, William and Marilyn

THE HUHTALA FAMILY

Being of an adventurous nature and hearing of opportunities in the New World, Abram Huhtala left his home in Siikajoki in the County of Oulu, Finland before the turn of the century He followed the example of many Scandinavian immigrants, arriving in the state of Minnesota U.S.A., and finding work in the mines in Ely

It was here he met and married Helka Mary Salo, who had followed her sister Hilma and brother Matt from Kaustinen, County of Vaasa, Finland, and arrived in Duluth, Minnesota She later found employment in a boardinghouse in Ely Following their marriage in 1900, they moved to the mines in Rock Springs and Diamondville, Wyoming, U.S.A. Their first son Frans William, was born here on January 9, 1902 In March of that year leaving his wife and son behind Mr Huhtala and his friend, John Lassila decided to find a new home in Canada Homesteads were available by improving the land, and living on it for three years. After arriving by rail to Red Deer, they made their way west, and chose adjoining quarters on 36-38-3-W5: Mr Huhtala choosing the southwest quarter and John Lassila the southeast quarter

Assisting one another each erected a small log cabin on his quarter Abram soon sent word to his wife to dispose of furnishings in Wyoming, and set about clearing a plot large enough to grow potatoes the first year With the help of a close friend, Andrew Jarvis, who acted as auctioneer, Mrs. Huhtala sold their furniture and took the train to her new home in Canada. She was accompanied by Isaac Luoma, who was also coming to homestead here Mother and son of six months arrived in Red Deer on June 26, 1902 having paid a fare of one cent per mile to travel on the railroad. Mr Huhtala, who had no means of travel except walking, hired Mr Abram Holappa with his wagon and team of horses to meet them in Red Deer Their first purchase besides groceries was a door for their home, and flour sacks to serve as covers for the cabin windows. They had to have something to keep out the hordes of mosquitoes

Mrs. Huhtala, having heard stories about hostile Indians in her new country, was a bit apprehensive about meeting them. Her fears were somewhat overcome on leaving Red Deer Following a trail through the trees, they came upon a fallen tree blocking their way Just then an Indian, carrying an axe, came along and obligingly cut and removed the tree. She declared later that she had always remembered her first encounter with an Indian with gratitude

Travel through the forests and muskegs was slow, so the first night was spent at the home of Alex Pasma, a small house located two miles west of Snake Sylvan Lake

As with most pioneers, Mrs. Huhtala worked side by side with her husband, grubbing the poplars and willows, doing her baking and washing at night while her husband wove a fish net to catch fish from the Medicine River, tanned hides, and made shoes. The fish along with rabbits and upland game birds, were the source of their meat supply. During the first summer, they purchased a milk cow from a farmer in the Burnt Lake district and a kind neighbor, Jack

Warwick presented them with a hen and seven chicks. The weather was rainy and humid. Mosquitoes were very numerous, making clearing land a very trying task. With the coming of winter it was necessary for Mr Huhtala to leave his family once more to work in the mines in Frank, Alberta. He was there at the time of the slide, but was in a neighboring town at the time. News of the tragedy reached the people at home and many anxious days passed before they found out who had survived. In the meantime, Mrs. Huhtala took charge of her son, cow and chickens at home. Indians often passed by and never having quite overcome her fear of them she would take her baby and hide in the trees until they were gone. She had several Finnish neighbors. Mr and Mrs. Salamonson and Mr and Mrs. Isaac Johnson and family. Their frequent visits were of great comfort to Mrs

Household facilities were crude. The wash tubs were made by sawing a wooden barrel in two. It was necessary to carry water from a slough a quarter of a mile away until a well was dug the following year. This was accomplished by them both, he working in the well, while Mrs. Huhtala, several months pregnant at the time winched up the pails of clay and rock.

With the money earned in the mines, they were able to buy a yoke of oxen, hand breaking plow and other implements. More land was cleared — enough to grow oats for feed for the livestock. Often Mrs. Huhtala drove the team of oxen on the breaking. While discing one day, the oxen were stung by heel flies, causing a runaway. A tragedy was averted when the oxen ended up in the bush, one on each side of a pole poplar tree. By this time Mrs. Huhtala's foot had slipped between the discs under the axle.

Neighbors took turns driving to Red Deer 25 miles to the east bringing back supplies. Driving a team of horses it was necessary to leave home at 3:00 a.m. in order to return by 10:00 p.m. During frosty winter nights the anxious families at home could hear the screech of the sleigh runners for miles as the men returned. Sounds carried far on still nights. Mr. Lassila, their closest neighbor, was a talented violinist. Often, while walking to visit the Huhtalas, he would play his violin the three quarters of a mile, and his music could be heard for the entire distance.

Earning money in the mines during the winter, and clearing more land made it possible to acquire horses and machinery. Each member of the family who was big enough to help did his or her share. Life became a bit easier with the establishment of the village of Evarts only four miles to the south, eliminating the long trips to Red Deer. Potatoes and eggs were exchanged for

The Huhtala home was a convenient stopping place for people from north and west, going and coming from Evarts, and many were the visits over the ever-present cup of coffee. Mail picked up at the Evarts Post Office was brought in from Red Deer.

Enough land had been cleared to grow oats which were sold as horse feed to the C.P.R. builders, which came through in 1912. Wheat was ground into flour in the mills in Lacombe. The highlight of the year was the threshing season with the huge steam engine operating the grain separator. Grain bundles had been stacked earlier to keep dry until the machine arrived often after a snowfall.

Having cleared most of the original homestead, it became necessary to expand. Mr. Jack Robinson sold them the adjoining northwest quarter and later they purchased the SW 32-38-2-W5 from John Koski.

The Melita School District was founded in 1906. The school was built later the same year by Mr. Matchett. Mr. Jack Warwick having hauled the lumber from Red Deer. This gave the family a school within one and one half miles. Mr. Huhtala served as trustee on the school board for several years.

In 1914, Jack Simpson built a store and post office beside the C.P. railroad. It was here that the hamlet of Benalto was developed. Now the mail and groceries were within one and one-half miles — a far cry from the 25 miles to Red Deer.

Mr. Huhtala took a keen interest in the community. He was one of the founding members of the Alberta Wheat Pool and later of the Eckville Co-op Store, both of which he was a member until his death in 1927 at the age of 60 years.

Mrs. Huhtala continued farming with the help of her family. Later, she married Charles Raunio of Rocky Mountain House, and together they lived on the farm until retiring in 1953, at which time they sold it to Evald and Sylvia Larson. They bought a home in Eckville where they lived until 1966. In 1967 they moved to the Senior Citizens' Lodge in Sylvan Lake. Mr. Raunio passed away in February 1971. Mrs. Raunio moved to live with her daughter, Olga Harvilow in Sylvan Lake. She was the last of the original pioneers of the Benalto area.

Mr. and Mrs. Huhtala had a family of seven children, two of whom died at a very early age — Edward at 14 months and Arthur at two and one half years. William married Lillian Aho, and moved to live in the Finnish Karelien sector of the U.S.S.R. in 1931. He passed away in 1942 at the age of 40 years. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Violet, Emily, and Alice.

Olga married George Ignatius. They farmed three miles north of the home farm. They had two daughters, Edith and Hazel. Her husband passed away in 1953. Later, she married Andrew Harvilow, with whom she retired to Sylvan Lake in 1962.

Olva married Ingrid Delaney. They farmed in the Kwusamo District, and had two children, Calvin and Phyllis. In 1962, he retired to Sylvan Lake, where he passed away in 1972 at the age of 60 years.

Alli married Clarence Andersen. They also farmed in the Benalto area. They had a son Gary, and a daughter, Delores. Clarence passed away in November 1972, after having retired to Rocky Mountain House where Alli still resides.

Arthur, the youngest of the family, married Emma Mottus. They have one daughter, Lynn, and now reside in Edmonton. An electrician by trade, Arthur works in Fort McMurray on the tar sands development.

HYVONEN, JOHN

John Hyvonen was born in Finland and immigrated to the U.S.A. In 1893 his wife and children joined him there.

After Mrs. Hyvonen's death in 1901 Mr. Hyvonen, with his four sons, Matt, Andrew, John and Bill, settled on land north of Benalto, the same quarter where the Young People's Hall used to be. This was SW 18-39-2-W5.

John Hyvonen remarried (his bride also was from Finland). Soon after this Mr. Hyvonen took his wife and two youngest sons, John and William, back to the U.S.A.

In 1901 his oldest son, Ilmar, drove his one team and wagon from Montana to his dad's farm where Matt and Andrew were still living. In 1906 Ilmar married Ida Kinnunen. In 1907 he bought SW 12-39-3-W5. On this land he built a one-room log house which is still standing. Ilmar and Ida had four children: Olva, Edna, of Rocky Mountain House, Alli, and John, of Sylvan Lake.

At this time there was no town of Eckville or Benalto, and no roads or railroads. Mr. Hyvonen made numerous trips to Red Deer for provisions for his family and for neighbors. This was done, of course, with horses.

The Hyvonens were very hospitable people and many a tired traveller would stop there to rest awhile on their journey or even to stay over night.

Mr. Hyvonen enjoyed taking in the fairs at Benalto, Red Deer, and Rocky Mountain House. He always showed his animals, and through the years he won many trophies and championships with his Percheron horses, Shorthorn cattle, Oxford and Suffolk sheep and Plymouth Rock [illegible].

Ilmar went to Finland in 1940 and enlisted in the Finnish Army. He earned many medals in Finland, and as a result became interested in collecting medals and also coins. He loved to play cards, to travel, and to watch or listen to all kinds of sports.

Mrs. Hyvonen was born in Michigan in the U.S.A. At the age of 14 she came to Red Deer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kinnunen, her sister Minnie, and four brothers John, Alex, Arvig, and William, in 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyvonen stayed on their farm until 1963, when they sold the farm to Ray Niemela and retired to the Autumn Glenn Lodge in Innisfail. Here they celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary. Mrs. Hyvonen was then 84 years old and Mr. Hyvonen was 91 years of age.

JENKINS, FRANK G.

Frank Jenkins will possibly be most remembered in connection with the Benalto Fair and Stampede. Coming to Canada from Iowa in 1911, he and his wife Josephine settled near the north end of Sylvan Lake on a homestead which he subsequently sold to the Murto family during the depression for one dollar down.

With the coming of the Alberta Central Railway, Benalto became one of the trading centers of the district, and Frank, along with

Many other public spirited settlers, felt that an annual summer celebration would be a welcome event for the area. The Benalto Fair and Stampede began with many improvised facilities but much enthusiasm and enjoyment and is unique in being one of the few continuous affairs of its kind in the province. Many will recall Frank riding his horse around the stampede enclosure announcing events through a large, hand-carried loudspeaker with Gaylord Armstrong exhibiting his exceptional horsemanship as he picked up contestants. Frank continued as Stampede manager for [illegible].

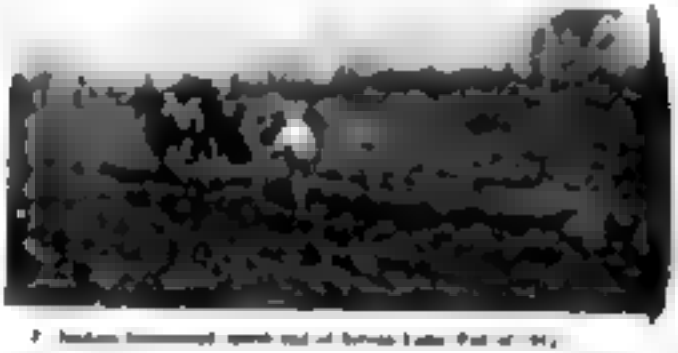
In common with most pioneers, great skill in hunting and fishing became a way of life, not only for provisions for the home, but primarily as one of the few forms of recreation. The fall big game hunting trips were looked to with great excitement. Trophies were mounted and photographed. Among Frank Jenkin's collection were moose, deer, mountain goats, and a golden eagle. The Armstrong brothers and Arthur Kinnan were frequent companions on these trips.

Not all events can be remembered with as much pleasure as hunting, for tragedy struck many homes during the 'flu epidemic of 1918. Frank recalled taking supplies to many stricken families and, as he was a constant pipe smoker, the story circulated that he remained immune because of the pipe.



Always interested in livestock, Frank became a dealer with shipping points along the Alberta Central Railway and eventually moved to Calgary to continue in the business. He and his wife and Theresa Hoven, who was with them for many years, returned to Benalto in the early thirties to farm and buy livestock until he retired in [illegible].

During the second World War Frank made a noteworthy contribution in his enthusiastic sale of War Bonds. In 1945 he married Emma Kinnan and several years after her death in 1951, he moved to Fairview, Alberta, where he died in 1963.

JENSON, MR. AND MRS. CARL AND FAMILY — Written by Mrs. Carl Jenson

We, Mr. and Mrs. Jenson, originally homesteaded in Saskatchewan, but the drought conditions prevalent there at the time drove us out and in 1937 we rented a farm six miles northeast of Camrose, where we lived for seven years. Here we found the winters quite severe, and we missed the chinook winds that we had experienced on the prairie. With these thoughts in mind, we were persuaded, in the spring of 1943 by a salesman from Canada Mortgage in Edmonton, and also a refugee from the dried-out area in Saskatchewan, to buy Section 2-39-3-W5 the former Barham place, for the sum of $8,000.

That summer Mr. Jenson drove an Oliver 99 tractor from Camrose to the newly-purchased farm. This tractor had been purchased in 1940 for the sum of $2,150. He pulled a rubber-tired wagon behind the tractor on which he hauled a tiller with seeder-box attachment. He went right to work in preparing for the next year's income and Gaylord Armstrong told some friends that a crazy man was sowing fall rye in the stubble and quack grass." However this fall seeding resulted in a crop of 2,900 bushels of rye harvested the next year and sold for ninety cents a bushel.

It was not until March of 1945 that we left the Camrose area for good. The last week in March we moved into a very dilapidated house on our property. The many layers of paper had become detached from the laths and hung down in bulges, weighted down by large quantities of dirt. The cracks between the laths made good viewing spaces for the mice, and I'm certain they didn't approve of our taking possession of their home.

Kim Armstrong was our first caller as she rode in on a frisky saddle horse to round up her horses that had been wintering on the section. Neighbors were friendly and this we much appreciated, as I was left alone with the four boys while Mr. Jenson returned to Camrose to fetch the combine. One day Orrin Wylie drove in on his way to Eckville and discovered that I had no gasoline for my wash-machine motor. In just no time he had siphoned some from his car and thus solved my problem.

We had brought with us about 100 laying hens. Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson supplied me with chicken feed. We also had some milk cows which made the creamery in Eckville an important place for us, as we milked cows and sold eggs for a living in those days. Prices weren't very good for either eggs or cream, but we made out all right.

In 1947 we had a good crop of fall rye and prices were good. We had made plans to build a new house, but when we found that labor was so scarce we decided to buy the Heikkinen place close to town. Our five sons never missed a day of school due to weather or road conditions which was a pretty good record.

Our oldest son, Morris, married Audrey Salminen and they have two daughters. Paul lives in Edmonton. Earl married Alva Gray and they have one girl and one boy. They live in Vancouver. Chris married Margaret Pease after finishing his veterinary course in Guelph, Ontario. They have two girls. Allan, his wife, Karen, and daughter Natalie are planning to make their home on the NE 2-39-3-W5 of the Barham section, as it is always called.

In the spring of 1967 we retired to Summerland, B.C. where we are enjoying good health and keeping busy with gardening and social activities.

THE MORRIS JENSON FAMILY — by Audrey Jenson

Morris and Audrey Jenson (nee Salminen) reside at SW 2-39-3-W5, which is one mile east of the "Eckville Corner" north side of No. 11 highway in a brown and white house that Gus built.

They raise Hereford cattle and Morris carries on a trucking business during the summer months. They have two daughters. Debra Ann is married to Rick Gordon and lives in Calgary. Their daughter, Lindsey Danielle was born in September 1976.

Sandra Lee graduated from the Eckville High School as valedictorian of her class in 1977. She plans to attend the University of Calgary and will major in education in preparation for becoming

JOHNSON HOWARD AND HELEN — by Helen Johnson

Howard's interest in farming kept him on the family farm living on the N ½ of N ½ 12-39-3-W5. We supplemented our income by renting land.

During the years 1947-1948 we operated "Johnson's Dairy" supplying milk to Benalto and Eckville. However Howard was more enthused about mixed farming, so we gradually changed over to beef cattle and rented more land.

Faye Evelyn arrived on February 17, 1953.

We enjoyed our community activities and Howard was as interested in sports as before. Many of the winter evenings were taken up with curling.

Faye was at home until she graduated from high school in Eckville. She moved to Calgary in 1971 to attend university and still lives there. At present she is teaching school.

Howard and I farmed until he passed away in 1973.

The land is rented out now and I am at home living in the original house the Johnsons came in 1913.

ISAAC JOHNSON FAMILY — by Mr. L. E. Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Johnson and their family of six boys arrived in Alberta in March of 1902 and settled in what is now known as the Mebin district. The boys were Lester, the youngest at four years of age and David, Philmore, Louis, Steiner and George, the eldest, at 17 years of age. Two older daughters, Ida and Lizzie, remained in Montana. We came by train through Sweet Water, Montana, to Calgary and on to Red Deer where we hired a team and wagon to take us to Sylvan Lake. There were about 10 families already homesteading in Sylvan Lake, most of whom had come from the same area of Montana We stayed with the Passma Family, whom we had known in Belt, Montana. We homesteaded on SW 6-39-2-W5. There were two families already settled there by the Medicine River the Wylies and a half-breed family by the name of Wilts A log house was built and also a steam bath which was enjoyed by all. An acre or two of land was ploughed for potatoes and vegetables. That first winter Isaac Johnson returned to Montana to work in the mines for the last time

There was a store and a post office called Evarts about five miles south where more people had settled earlier After our arrival the settlers started to come into the country going west and north. No roads were open yet, so everybody travelled the old Indian Trail that went through our place. Many of these settlers put up at our place and none were ever turned away Sometimes there were as many as 20 people staying overnight The Armstrong family was the biggest outfit to come, with their five boys and one girl They bought a quarter of land. 160 acres, for each boy and the girl They came from Oklahoma, and with them they brought horses mules, and about 20 head of cattle They lived in tents until their house was built Shortly after they came Mrs. Armstrong died of blood poisoning after cutting a corn off her foot

About 1905 the Melita School was built Since it was located on our place, we were close to school There were no desks when the school first opened, so we sat around the walls in a circle on seats made from lumber placed on nail kegs and boxes. A Nova Scotia girl by the name of Miss McGregor was our first teacher The first place she boarded was at Jack Warwick's and then she stayed at our place A room was partitioned off for her and the logs were lined with cheese cloth The school was closed for three months at Christmas time. Miss McGregor was a real nice girl she never complained about anything, and really enjoyed the steam bath She taught school for a term and a half and then got married to Mr Forhan who had a small drug store at Evarts Later they had a drug store in Eckville

Mr and Mrs Johnson could speak Swedish, Norwegian, Finnish and English. Mr Johnson was called on at times to act as an interpreter on court cases in Red Deer Mrs. Johnson was a midwife, and she was called on at all hours Sometimes she was away for a day and a night

In 1910 the Alberta Central Railway was started by John T Moore and Associates. It was supposed to go on to the Yellow Head Pass. After they got the Charter they were to get a government grant so two camps were established, one at Burnt Lake and the other at our place to see how much it cost to build a mile The workers had to run to Red Deer all winter long to get the wages Moores bought our place as townsite for the railway After they got the government grant they gave the whole thing to the C.P.R The railway siding was moved to C P R. crown land a half mile south. What a farce The railway never did get any further than Rocky Mountain House

It was in 1905 when my sister Lizzie died in Montana and left three boys. They were brought out to our place to live. Their names were Harry Gordon and Tommy Trimmer They were about the same age as we younger ones were and they grew up as a part of our family

The coldest winter that I can remember in Alberta was in 1906-1907 It started in December and for three months the temperature was almost always at least 30 degrees below zero F The winds drifted the snow along the fences so that all you could see were the tops of the fence posts. A thousand head of cattle died in the southern part of the province and in Montana Then came an early break and the grass was green by the end of March

The winter of 1909-1910 was the year Halley's Comet was to split the earth, so they said! It was to be the end of the earth' My brother and I were playing cards at our neighbours' It was a cold winter night with steam clouds floating around We were on our way home about 11 o'clock at night when we saw it in the east at a 45-degree angle. Needless to say, the earth was not split in half'

I came to Vancouver during World War II in 940 and worked at fish processing work in a plant until my retirement There were a lot of true. There have been so many people coming here, looking for work

The best years of my life were spent on a homestead in the Melita district in Alberta I just passed my 80th birthday Most of my generation have passed on

JOHNSON, OLAF AND KAROLIINE — by the Johnson Family

Olaf and Karoline Johnson arrived in the Benalto-Eckville area in May, 1913. Coming from Butte, Montana, they purchased from Isaac and Anna Laioma the N½ of NE 12-39-3-W5

Olaf Mukkala was born in Vadso, Norway in 1866. His parents, fishing people were drowned at sea leaving him an orphan at the age of 12. In 1879, at age 13, Olaf set out with his younger sister Matilda to find his two older brothers Henry and Eric in America

Leaving Matilda in Michigan, Olaf now 17 began to find his way west by working as a water boy for construction crews along the Oregon Trail. Olaf's journey led him to Butte, Montana where he successfully found employment in its copper mines

Karoline Hietala was born in Virrat, Finland on May 15, 1868. When she was 18, she and a friend, Emma Herranen, who would later marry her brother Frank, came to Hancock Michigan Both women worked as housekeepers with families who helped them learn some of the English language Karoline spent time in Michigan with a Methodist minister and his family as a companion-helper Karoline later followed her two older brothers to Butte, Montana where she found work in boarding houses where miners lived. She worked for a time at the boarding house owned by the Ladic family whose son Karoline's eldest daughter was destined to marry. It was in Butte that Karoline met Olaf

The trials of being an immigrant with just eight days of formal schooling had forced Olaf Mukkala to become Olaf Johnson. Olaf and Karoline Johnson were married on November 28, 1894. In Butte Olaf worked in the mines and daughters Lydia (Beth) and Mary (Rae) were born in 1896 and 1898 respectively

The family moved to Calumet, Michigan and their sons John and Walter were born in 1901 and 1903. The mines in Butte, though, provided secure employment for Olaf Johnson and so the family moved there where Ann was born in 1907 and Ted was born in 1919

It was at this time that Karoline's brothers Frank and Alec Hietala were homesteading land in Alberta and 1913 the Johnsons followed these brothers and settled on the farm between their

Shortly after the family settled in the area their eldest daughter Beth, returned to Butte to attend nursing school. Then, in 1915, the last member of the family Howard, was born. In these years and ones to come, Olaf often spent winters working in the Butte mines to supplement the farm income

The flu epidemic of 1918 saw Beth return home for a period of time. She spent long days and nights with her horse and buggy going to homes of the sick to nurse them and help with chores. Karoline had taught her well by example. In her years on the farm she often would walk miles to visit the sick, usually with a freshly baked cake under her arm. When people came to visit the Johnsons home and see the flower gardens Karoline loved, she usually sent home with them a freshly picked bouquet. And visitors were frequent

The early day church services, mostly Lutheran, were held at the nearby Young People's Hall. These services were well attended even though many in the congregation had to travel long distances by horse and buggy. Every Sunday, the Johnson home had many of these for coffee and there was always company for Sunday dinner

Young People's Hall was a community centre for the area, and when church services or dances were held it was generally one of the Johnson family lighting the fire in the stove before and sweeping the floor after never expecting a nickel. The dirty coffee cups were often taken home where Mother Johnson would wash them clean for the next time

Although breaking new land, planting and harvesting crops, and caring for livestock in Olaf's case hogs, were no easy tasks, it certainly wasn't all work and no play to make son John a dull boy. There were weddings, chivaris dances, ball games, and competitive gymnastics. The two main events in the early days were the mid-summer picnic and dance on June 24 and the Victoria Day dance on May 24

By the 1930's the family had mostly grown and gone. The girls were settled in Seattle. John had gone off prospecting and for a time stayed with the Bill Lowry family when he worked in Drumheller. Walt was working mainly in lumber camps. In 1932 Olaf died

Howard and Ted remained on the family farm with their mother until she died in 1944 and Ted left the farm. During this time both Ted and Howard played softball on the Young People's All Star Team while Walt often acted as scorekeeper

On December 27 1945 Howard married Helen Niemela and there another story begins

Ted has always had a keen interest in music and while he was living on the farm he occasionally played at dances

JOHNSTON THE RALPH FAMILY—by Norma Stewart

Ralph Johnston arrived in Elspeth in 1[illegible] operate the Wheat Pool Elevator at the s[illegible] between Benalto and Sylvan

In 1930 he was married to the former Marion Mather at Trochu. Their son, Wesley was born in 1932. They left Elspeth in 1935 and after living in southern Alberta, Grand Forks, B.C. and Pimbey they moved to Lacombe where they now reside. Recently they have been spending their winters in Arizona, U.S.A.

While in Elspeth they were closely associated with Benalto, usually walking in during the winter time. Their son, Wes, graduated in Pharmacy from the U. of A. With the help of his wife the former Norma Jean Stewart, he has been operating a drug store in Edmonton. They have two sons, Ralph, recently married to the former Jo-An Olstead, and a member of the Edmonton City Police, and Stewart, who is at home

KALPUTAS, ANDERSON GUST

My parents, Gust Kalpuras and Elmina Soderback, were united in marriage in Evanston, Wyoming on June 20, 1894. They immigrated to Canada from Rock Springs, Wyoming in 1903 where dad was employed in a coal mine. They were met in Red Deer by August Halstien and they stayed the winter with them.

Dad homesteaded the NW 28-38-2 W5 which had formerly been homesteaded by Edward Aho and had returned to the crown.

A one-room log house was erected to house the family also a small barn for the cow and oxen. William Aho, who owned the land adjoining on the east was a great assistance in building. Hardships were many for the pioneers the first years on the farm. There wasn't any ready wood pile just tall timber. It all had to be cut into stove lengths.

The snow was deep and often, over night snow piled so high behind the door a shovel had to be used to go out.

Water wells were shallow and froze up. Snow was melted for use in the house during the cold winter as well for the cattle. There were no roads just trails. Trees had been cut down and a trail cleared wide enough for a wagon to pass through. These trails would wind from house to house. A main trail to Evarts passed by our home which was used by travellers from north and east of us.

Our first animals on the farm were a cow and a team of oxen. The one named Mike was a real pet and we could ride him around the yard. Sometimes there were three of us on his back.

Dad was a hard worker, clearing land during the summer with the only tools available, a grub hoe and axe. In the fall and winter he built houses for the settlers. Logs were plentiful and made cheap warm homes. The logs were fitted, hewed and with corners shaped made comfortable houses.

Land was cleared and had to be made into fields. We purchased a team of horses, Dick and Molly from the Indians. They were a great asset to our farming. The horses worked well with the oxen breaking land. They were faster on the road and on needed trips to Evarts and Red Deer. Also, in later years, they were our school ponies.

With an ox and two horses pulling the plow the sod was made into fields to grow feed and grain. Turnips and potatoes were also grown. When harvest time rolled around neighbors helped pick turnips and anyone who came for a visit went home with a boxfull of turnips, which were fed to the stock. The potatoes were taken to Red Deer and traded for essentials.

Machinery was bought together with the neighbors to share cost. Dad had a Massey Harris mower in joint with Sylvester Saha, a rake with John Koski Sr. and a five-foot Deering binder with a right hand cut with Alex Staudinger. This went on for years til they had to get larger machinery.

Melita was our first school. School was held in the summer months due to the amount of snow and inclement winters. Then Koutsamo school was moved further west from its original site and we were transferred there. Travelling to school was difficult. There was water everywhere on the way to school. The lowlands and hollows were filled with water. One evening riding home from school we decided to cross one of the bodies of water. Lying on the horse to keep our feet dry, we drove into the water and made it across which was quite a distance. This went on his yard and reported the incident to our parents. Needless to say our short-cut promptly ended.

In a few years, we had accumulated several milk cows. The cows were milked outside in the summer. Smudges were set burning to ward off the millions of mosquitoes and bugs while milk

Milk was delivered each morning to the cheese factory a distance of four miles. The factory was owned and operated by T. B. Miller.

Wild fruit was plentiful, we picked blueberries, strawberries, saskatoons, currants and gooseberries. We almost lived on wild fru... during the summer. It was a glad change to the dry fruit diet of prunes, apples, and apricots. Fresh fruit was only available in the store during the summer and this consisted of apples and oranges.

Homesteaders were still arriving, staying with us until finding homesteads further west in the Pincox (Hespero) area. Some were the Mat... Kangas and John Tukkanen families. The house was small but there was always room for a few...

As the years passed by, fields were larger so the need for a threshing machine was evident. A syndicate was formed, a steam engine and thresher were purchased, which was named the Sambo. The shareholders supplied the bundle teams and men, also the grain haulers, counting 18 men in all. The machine operators were hired as was the water monkey. The water man had two wagons with a 400 ga...lon tank on each wagon drawn by four horses. He was the busiest man on the outfit. He pumped water into the tank by hand and sometimes had to haul water quite a distance from creeks or lake. Farmers had water wells but pumped water by hand so it was easier to obtain water somewhere else.

The cooks were also a busy lot. Food prepara...tion went on for days ahead. Few homes had ex...tra dishes, so dishes were borrowed from the neighbors. Those were happy days. Harvest in...volved hard work and long hours but no one com...

They were milking cows and doing chores for neighbors and tending to their care. December 29, 1918, tragedy struck our home when Mother passed away at the age of 44 years. This left Dad with three of us in school but we seemed to manage with the help of kindly neighbors. Mrs. Matt Lund, Mrs. Matt Wuori, the Aug. Halsteins, Saha's and several others.

Mother and Dad were both laid to rest in the Kuusamo cemetery.

The family consisted of eight children, four girls and four boys.

Elmer Waino, the eldest, born April 21, 1896. Elmer was married to Anna Bay and they lived in Minneapolis, Minnesota. After Anna passed away Elmer moved to Newport, Washington where he resided until his passing on December 9, 1972. He is buried in the veteran plot of the Newport cemetery.

Mathilde Wilhina, born February 6, 1898, attended Melita School. She is presently living in Vancouver and she is married to Charles Hoicka.

Charles Gust, born March 29, 1900, attended Melita School and after leaving home operated a hotel in Orofino, Idaho. Charlie passed away August, 1951, and is buried in Spokane Washington.

Matt Arvid, born August 31, 1902, attended Melita School. Matt is married to Hazel McFaul, the eldest daughter of Russell and Rosie McFaul of Red Deer. Matt worked for the C.N.R., retiring to Sylvan Lake where he presently resides. They have two children. Sheila Dawn (Mrs. Harvey Wylie) of Rocky Mountain House. Sheila has two daughters, Becky Dawn and Stacey Lynn. John Richard lives in Red Deer.

Ada Elida, born January 3, 1905, attended Melita and Kuusamo schools, married Albert Proudler of Ontario. They lived in Sylvan Lake for a number of years before moving to Caroline, where Albert sold real estate and was Justice of the peace. Albert and Ada had two children. Donald Ivan Francis is transit superintendent for the city of Red Deer, married to Barbara Thomas of Stettler. They have two sons, Steven and David Charles. Dorothy Mae, an R.N., was a Captain in the R.C.A.F. until retiring last year. She lives with her mother in Victoria, B.C. Albert passed away January 25, 1955, and is buried in the Red Deer Cemetery.

John Erlo, born August 21, 1907, attended Kuusamo school. He served with the R.C.A.F. during World War II. John married Eva Mathias of Saunders Creek. They lived at Hammond, B.C. Their daughter Mary Ann (Mrs. Barry Shortt) of Toronto has three sons, Graham, Frazer and Duncan. Judith Margaret (Mrs. Brian Crossett) is living on Vancouver Island and has two children. John passed away October 19, 1949, and is buried in the veterans' plot of the Blaney cemetery.

Sylvia Katherine, born June 2, 1911, attended Kuusamo and Eckville schools. She is married to Charles Thorkman of Eckville. They have farmed in the Salma district since their marriage. Charles and Sylvia have five daughters. Betty Marie (Mrs. M. Leo Silbernagel) of Calgary, took her schooling at Sa... Red Deer, going on to receive her R.N. at the Misericordia Hospital in Edmonton. Betty has three sons, Peter Charles, Jerry Stuart and Dale Allan. Margaret Eileen (Mrs. Morley Grose) of ...live, took her schooling at Salma, Eckville and Red Deer, going on to take her B.Ed. at the U. of A. She has two sons, Warren Keith and David Wesley. June Bernice (Mrs. Doug Nelson) of Calgary, attended Salma, Eckville and Red Deer schools, going on to the University of Alberta to receive her Bachelor of Science in Home Economics and her Bachelor of Education. She has three children, Phillip Douglas, Timothy Daryl, Jay Kelly Gay.

Jean Edith Elida (Mrs. David Williams) of Hinton, B.C. attended the Salma and Eckville schools. Jean is loans manager with the Royal...

Bank. She had four children, Gregory Gene Katherine Ann, Robert David. Patrick Allan reg passed away May, 1977. Fern Catherine Mrs. Glenn Skoodopole attended school at Saima, Eckville and Edmonton. She has four children twins Steven Charles and Susan Catherine Carla Jean and Gerald Edward.

Frances Louise, born November 15, 1914 attended Kuusamo and Sylvan Lake schools. She s married to Rupert Griffith, formerly of Ridgewood district. They have five children and ive at Peace River. Florence Mrs. Wilfred Chateau) of Fairview has five children. Jean Mrs. Laverne Knox) of Peace River has five children. Mae Mrs. Henry Desanto) of Manning has three children. Beverly (Mrs. Russell Lowe) of Peace River has two sons. Lee and Blaine reside in Peace River.

Music played a central role in a great many pioneer families and so it was within the Kinna home. At an early age in Estonia, Arthur Kinna showed exceptional promise as a violinist and his father, John Kinna, who taught him his first notes, sent him away to study. When the family immigrated to Eckville during Arthur's fourteenth year, his interest in music continued. Together with other members of the family, the Kinna orchestra played for many community events. The first gramophone in the district was owned by Henry Kinna who requested Arthur to choose an excellent selection of records. These records were a great source of instructions in Arthur's musical education and he eventually played with the Calgary Symphony Orchestra and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. On one occasion while playing violin in a Calgary concert, the American guest soloist failed to appear. As Arthur was the only one who knew the selection, he filled the gap admirably.

Although earning a living had to be of [redacted] violin and such pupils as Johanna Schuneman not sure about the name) gave him a great satisfaction. The family mail contract from Red Deer to Burnt Lake, Evarts, and Eckville required trips three times weekly sometimes in adverse weather conditions.

In 1921, Arthur married Emma Gudmundson who taught school in the districts of Beaverflats, Sylvan Lake, Kuusamo, and Estonia. While teaching at Estonia school, she boarded with the Moos family, close neighbors of Kinnas. They began the operations of a general store and Post Office in Benalto in partnership with V. B. Buchanan who had married Arthur's sister, Minnie Kinna.

Education for pioneer families presented many problems. Those with a foreign mother tongue were probably the most eager to advance their learning and Minnie was no exception. With drive and ambition Minnie completed her grade 12 in Red Deer working for her board and won this distinction written on the fly leaf of POEMS OF LONGFELLOW — Presented by the Alberta Women's Association to Minnie Kinna for having made the greatest progress in Grade Eleven of the Red Deer High School during the year ending July 1912. After completing Normal School she taught in many districts until her marriage to Varley Buchanan who was a native of Ontario, coming west to work in the Bank of Commerce in Eckville. Minnie Buchanan was a well respected and ardent worker in the Benalto community affairs.

After dissolving the partnership of Buchanan and Kinna, the Buchanans operated the Benalto Hotel until Minnie's death in 1942. Their son Jack continued in the hotel after his discharge from the R.C.A.F. and he and his sister Mona subsequently sold the business to L. Billings. Jack moved to Brantford, Ontario to be with his father until Jack's death in 1962. Mona married Harold Crawford of Red Deer and their two children Debra and Jack live in Red Deer. Mona died in 1973.

Tragedy struck the Arthur Kinna family in 1928 when after a very short illness Arthur died leaving two small children, Ruth and William. Emma continued the business and was once again bereaved when in 1930 William died. As with all small communities each individual is called on to make contributions to civic affair and Emma endeavored to do so with work in the Red Cross, Booster Club, Ladies Aid, and School Board.

Ruth was the first girl child born in the hamlet and in 1944 married Don Wilkes of Lacombe, Alberta who was on leave from five years service with the R.C.A.F. After his second return from overseas in 1945, he purchased the Kinna store and operated it until 1963 when they sold it to W. Rozek of Red Deer.

Both Don and Ruth served the hamlet of Benalto and area for these years in the Booster Club, Agricultural Society, Curling Club, Boy Scouts, and Presbyterian Church. Three children were born to them, Gregin 1946, Donald in 1948, and Mona in 1960. Moving from Benalto in 1963, they resided in Fairview for seven years and now live in Peterborough, Ontario.

LONGAIR FAMILY — by Ernest Longair

The Longair family moved to Benalto from Edmonton in 1933. Jobs were scarce in Edmonton so my father James Longair moved his family to Benalto to work in my uncle's, Herman Schmidek's general store. Herman Schmidek operated a general store, the Benalto Store and the Imperial Oil bulk plant. Having one good hand and a hook, he was able to roll barrels of fuel around with amazing dexterity, combining the two. Fuel was delivered to the surrounding district in his Chevrolet truck. Gasoline was available at the store from two pumps. If the customers arrived too early, it was appreciated if they pumped up their own gas for filling up their cars. Both were hand pumps with overflows at the top for zeroing the gallons. Customers received more for their money on cold days than during summer afternoons, after the gas has heated. Oil for the cars was poured into large metal pouring cans for transfer to the cars. While cars were fairly common, horses with wagons and sleighs were seen driving through town in at least equal numbers. Something that always fascinated me was the Finnish families from north of Benalto coming to town in winter using homemade skits or pushing along foot, a two runnered sleigh with a chair arranged for passengers. These too were handmade with typical Finnish mastery.

As I was six years old I gathered my lunch and enrolled in the Melita School one mile from Benalto on the Sylvan Lake highway. There were approximately 27 students in the one room school under the direction of Miss Myrtle McLean. The following year Miss Annie Anderson became the school teacher much to the delight of most of the boys. This attractive lady walked to and from her home farm one-half mile west of the school. Water was carried in pails therefore proper respect was paid to this valuable commodity. One pail usually lasted the school for the day. The furnace was in the back of the school surrounded by a large metal guard so that people wouldn't accidently burn themselves. Coal was burned, usually handy in a coal scuttle, sitting beside the furnace. Pouring more coal into the fire was always a pleasant diversion when class got boring. As all grades were in the same room one to eight, if your particular lesson wasn't too fascinating you could always listen in on what other classes were doing. At recess we quickly organized a softball game, playing scrub with one bat and one ball. No one owned a glove for several years until Arnold Anderson finally appeared with one. Needless to say, ownership of such a valuable piece of equipment carried considerable clout. Our school used to compete occasionally against Kuusamo School about four miles east. After the softball season and ave over the school, provided entertainment during the recess period. Pum-pum-pull away from the east fence and the school also flared in time. After the afternoon recess, time dragged until school was out at 3:30. Occasional breaks would come when a black Plymouth from Sylvan Lake used to roar by with horn tooting and dust flying from the gravelled highway. Max Simpson was at the wheel, which explained Miss Anderson's blush and the students' interest in watching her degree of redness. A few years later we lost her completely to him as they were married and lived in Sylvan Lake.

Millie Halstein, who played the piano program. With this virtuoso came problems, at least for the boys, for the Christmas concert was to be in the form of an operetta. The whole school has to participate. Most boys would have sooner died than sing in public. Three of us boys were to be the witch's helpers and were to take the princess, Mona Buchanan, by the hand and sing a little ditty as we led her to the witch. Well, there was competition to hold her hand, but silence when it came time for the ditty. However Miss Halstein and Mildred Anderson decided on a psychological approach, and when one of us made a peep the praise received was too much for the rest of us to stand so we decided to outdo the other by singing even louder. From then on we had volume but I'm not sure about the notes. The pinnacle of courage was reached by one of the boys who had to sing solo to the tune of "My Grandfather's Clock". Listening to Miss Halstein play the piano was a delight until shattered by your turn to sing. The play was presented at Christmas but my memories of Christmas concerts were more than that, as we got a bag of candy and a present from the school board. Free Presents were given from a list which each student submitted. I wanted a knife one year but was turned down as it was too war-like. I received a gun instead.

With the building of the new two roomed school in Benalto, Melita was on borrowed time. Grades 1 to 6 were held in Melita while the senior grades were held in Benalto. When the Benalto School was completed all the students moved into it. Now Grade 9 was offered at Benalto, and my brother Arthur for one, was able to continue his schooling, going to Grade 9. Abandoning Melita also saw the end of wending your way to school through the snow in winter, with the lowest temperature I can remember being -60°F.

There were frozen noses that morning. Some could ride Johnson's sleigh for five cents. The rest of us walked. Gone too were the detours through Anderson's and Harry Hambly's woods in search of magpie eggs. One cent was paid for magpie eggs and two cents for crows' eggs. Five cents were paid for feet. Needless to say, we ounty. Yellow lady's slippers and tiger lilies could be enjoyed along the railway right-of-way.

Our home in Bena to was the rented two room C.P.R. house. A wood heater, a few feet from the beds, provided warmth. The kitchen stove warmed the other room. The trees behind provided the fuel. Later when Herman Schmidek sold his store to Swan Anderson, my father operated the store for Swan. My uncle left to run a service station in Vancouver about 1935. After working in the store for about a year, my parents went to work for Frank Jenkins on his piggery. After about one year there, we shared a house with Harry Hambly. My brother and I were caretakers at the school receiving a total of $12 per month for our services. July and August were no pay months. Harry's rent was very reasonable and he allowed us a garden, pasture for a cow and a house for some chickens. With our annual $100 for essentials, we were able to get by with the meat, milk and vegetables we could provide. Hunting beer bottles at 10 cents per dozen, provided for any extras such as 22 shells at 25¢ for 50. These provided the odd fool's hen or rabbit. Baths were rather scarce but Saturday night steam baths at Swan Anderson's were a god-send. Besides, Mrs. Anderson always provided the best coffee and cake for lunch afterwards.

About 1937 my best friend, Arnold Anderson came down with diabetes. As we were in Grade 4 or 5 at the time, the disease didn't mean that much, except that Arnold had to take insulin, test his urine, and eat special candies. The candies may have been special but they still tasted good as he always shared a few with the rest of us.

In 1939 as we left the Baptist Church one morning someone said Canada was at war. All that meant to me was that my Dad, who had been in the first World War might be sent away and be shot. It worried me but that was all the war

During the fall of 1939 my mother, Agnes Longair, received a letter informing her that she had been appointed matron of the Wood's Christian Home at Bowness, just west of Calgary. We were to receive $75 per month plus free room and board. This was nearly the same as we had been receiving per year. It seemed unbelievable. This meant we would have to sell our belongings which we had moved from one place to another. What we lacked in quality, we made up for in quantity. We finally held an auction sale at Harry Hambly's and sold our possessions. The next morning we caught the train and left for Calgary. Harry Hambly very kindly volunteered to take our two dogs Buster and Trixie. Leaving them was the hardest part for me. The Baptist Church gave us an electric floor lamp and many friends gave us their best wishes.

My father worked at the Wood's Home for three years, then to the airport at De Winton for the remainder of the war. We moved to Calgary where we attended high school. My brother Arthur enlisted in the Signal Corps and then transferred to the Air Force. I finished school and went to work for Calgary Power.

Both my parents died in Calgary, my father in 1962 and my mother in 1970. My brother is teaching high school in Calgary and I am teaching high school in Lethbridge.

Some events that might be of interest nowadays was Pastor Gibbon's winter baptism service. Pastor Gibbon's six foot frame carried on a variety of tasks from cutting (thinning — the clippers pulled every second hair out by the roots) hair, preaching and filling horse troughs with water for "saving" his congregation from the fiery furnace. Anyway I didn't think I should chance the furnace so I decided to be baptized just in case. Well, Pastor Gibbons borrowed the horse trough from Sterling's hardware and filled it with water pumped by hand and heated on his stove. By Sunday evening the trough was ready and his volunteers had showed up in a variety of wettable get-ups. As the pump organ wheezed out a tune and the congregation sang, each one of us was dunked under, brought up again and hastily sent to the manse for dry clothes. He deserves honors for enthusiasm anyway. I noticed the next baptism was held in the Medicine River in June.

One other highlight was our trip with the school children from as far west as Rocky Mountain House to see the Queen in Edmonton. We were to see street cars for the first time and a real, live Queen. Well we found our seats along the parade route and soon the Queen came by. We were disappointingly tired but we didn't give up and rushed off to see her again at other points along the route. Altogether I saw her three times and to me she was as beautiful as queens should be. The train carried its load of tired kids home getting us home about 10 P.M. We weren't concerned about Canada's political problems; we had just seen our Queen with our very own eyes.

THE HISTORY OF LOUGHEED'S GENERAL STORE — by Ralph and Mac Lougheed

On Lots one and two, on Main Street in Benalto, a small building was erected, which was the home of the Imperial Bank. The late Stan Hooker was the first and last manager to run the bank. Stan always came back to the annual bonspiels held in Benalto, to renew acquaintances whenever he could get away.) After the bank closed down Emil Brodersons started a grocery store, which he operated for about three years. O. C. Hansen then had the store for the next seven years. He enlarged the building and made the upstairs into living quarters.

In 1934 Jack Simpson purchased the building and his two boys made some more additions to it. Gordon and Jim were the storekeepers until 1937 when Jack Robinson purchased the store and carried on the grocery business. He in turn sold out in 1939 to Alf Foster. Alf and Thelma Foster, their children, Joyce, Dorothy and Jim (now Attorney General of Alberta) continued in the grocery business. They renovated the living quarters and also added the Cockshutt farm equipment agency to the business. Later Alf Foster was Comineo agent for fertilizer.

In 1945 Howard and Helen Mullen purchased the store, but carried on for only a year before selling out to Ralph and Arnold Lougheed. The Lougheeds came from a little town of Sibbald in eastern Alberta, having left with the family in "the dirty thirties" to settle in Caroline, and later in Condor. Arnold served overseas in the R.C.A.F. and when he came back he joined Ralph for a short stint in the grocery business which was now known as "Lougheed's General".

Arnold still felt the call of a military life, and after a year or so he rejoined the air force. He spent the rest of his career in the R.C.A.F. and since his retirement he has been working for the Douglas Printing Company in Edmonton.

Ralph and his wife Mae, the former Mae Larsen of Bentley, carried on the business for the next 30 years. The business prospered through the many years, several additions were made and in 1958 a complete renovation took place with a 14-foot extension being added to the building. It now had a complete new concept both in the store and upstairs. Modern new fixtures were put in and self-serve was introduced in the grocery section.

By this time the fertilizer business was expanding and Ralph introduced the custom spreading of fertilizer to his customers. This practice proved beneficial for both farmers and the business. It wasn't long before our business was among the top fertilizer sales outlets. One year we won the sales contest sponsored by Comineo Fertilizer.

In 1967 the nitrogen fertilizer, anhydrous ammonia, was introduced to our Benalto farmers and those of the west country. Our sales required five 45-foot applicators and two truck tankers to supply it to the farmers.

In 1971 a new venture started when the Rimbey-Rimbeyman Valley Propane Association awarded us the contract to deliver propane to their customers. This gave us a great opportunity, as we already had the tankers to use. In the spring we hauled ammonia, and during the rest of the year we hauled propane. Our sales territory reached from Caroline in the southwest to Innisfail on the east and as far as Ponoka in the north. This took in about 750 customers. We consider this one of the largest ventures we ever took on, and we give special credit to the capable help that Ralph Dowler gave in managing the fleet of seven trucks.

We were fortunate, as Comineo built us an elevator complete with a blender for our fertilizer. This made it possible for us to supply the proper blends of fertilizer which the farmers needed.

In 1967 we acquired the post office. Elenor Windrum had joined the staff as full-time bookkeeper, and assistant post-master. Barbara Nielsen who was on staff for 15 years, was a great credit to the store in her position as manager of the grocery department. At peak seasons there were as high as eight or nine people on staff.

In January 1974 the store and post office was sold to Jack and Pat Knowles, and in September 1976 Ralph Dowler bought the fertilizer and propane business, which he is presently continuing to operate.

Ralph and Mae built a new home in Benalto, where they are retired (or trying to be!).

ISAAC AND ANNA LUOMA — by Ken Laitila

Isaac and Anna Luoma came from Wyoming U.S.A. around 1907 or 1908. They filed on a homestead on NE 12-39-3-W5. Later they sold this land and bought 40 acres on SE 14-39-3-W5, in 1913. They began building the house that same year but the completion of the house was delayed by Isaac's passing in November. They had no children.

In 1915 their niece, Eva Sylvia Laituri, came to live with Anna. Eva had been born to John and Tekla Laituri in Almy, Wyoming, U.S.A. on May 13, 1907. She moved with her family to a homestead in the Oras area prior to moving to Eckville. She started her schooling at Melita school and finished in Eckville.

Anna Luoma passed away in January, 1936 leaving the place to Eva Sylvia Laituri.

McKANNA, CARY AND McKENZIE, JACK FAMILIES – by Mac (Bennett) McKenzie and Lucille (McKanna) Perry

In the spring of 1922 Jack McKenzie and "Mac" McKanna of Vulcan, Alberta, went to Benalto Alberta as partners in the first hardware store there. Jack left a position with the Bank of Hamilton in Vulcan and Mac had been farming in the same area. They were greatly assisted in their new venture by the Benalto Booster Club, of which Frank Jenkins was the president at that time. The store, plus living quarters at the rear, was soon erected by the two partners and many local volunteers. Even though it was not quite finished, they opened for business in about eight month a time. Their business was called the "McKenzie and McKanna Hardware

It so happened that at that time Jack and Mac were courting two sisters, Mac and Irene Bennett, also of Vulcan. I (Mac) was employed with the Canadian Bank of Commerce there and Irene was teaching school in the same area. Naturally our interest in the boys' success was keen and, had it been necessary, we would have been with them pounding nails. However everything seemed to fall into place and as a result Jack and I were married on October 25 1922 and Irene and Mac were married one month later.

We spent two very happy years in Benalto. Everyone was community-minded, and most anxious to see progress. The yearly mid-summer Stampede, the baseball games, dances and the weekly picture shows all helped to make life more enjoyable.

In 1924 Jack's mother, who owned and operated the Nanton Hotel in Nanton, needed help in managing the business, so we had to dissolve the partnership in the hardware store. We were sorry to have to leave Benalto, but we did return for visits in the years to follow.

Mac and Irene continued in the hardware business for another two years, then the Atlas Lumber Company bought them out. Mac then took on the agency of grain buyer for the Alberta Pacific Grain Company and moved to Elspeth, in that capacity. He was transferred in 1926 to Spring Coulee, and then to Nobleford about 1936, where he continued to operate as a grain buyer until his retirement in 1954. They continued to live in Nobleford and Irene resumed her teaching career at Noble Central School as a teacher of Grade I. After Mac's death on September 23, 1958 at the age of 77 years, Irene continued teaching there for another year before moving to Lethbridge. From Lethbridge she commuted to Sunnyside School, about seven miles out of Lethbridge. She was ill for about three years before her passing on December 19, 1964, at the age of 67 years. She is buried beside her husband in Archmount Memorial Gardens in Lethbridge.

The children of Mac and Irene were Lucille, Jean and Robert. Both Lucille and Jean were born in the family home in Benalto with Jean Barton in attendance as midwife. Robert was born in the Bassano Hospital while the family lived at Countess. Lucille started school in Countess and Jean Barton was her first grade teacher. Jean and Bob started school in Spring Coulee. Lucille (now Mrs. William Perry of Chinook, Alberta) became a school teacher and taught for 18 years. Her family consists of one daughter, Linda, who lives in Whitehorse, Y.T., and three sons, Kent, Donald and Cameron, all living in the Coaldale area. Jean married Bob Welsh of Noblefield, who was a farmer. Prior to her marriage she had attended Garbutt Business School in Calgary and had worked in Washington, D.C. in the United States, for the British Government during the war. She had two children, Barbara and Barry. She now lives in Calgary. Robert married Millicent Speaker of Lethbridge, where they still reside. Bob was a member of the Lethbridge City Police Force for a number of years, then was deputy warden at the Lethbridge Provincial Gaol. After a time he left this position to become assistant manager of Capital Furniture in Lethbridge. They had four children: Sandra, living in Calgary, (one girl who died in infancy); Kevin, a radio announcer in Winnipeg; and Cary, living at home.

To Jack and Mae McKenzie, only one child was born, a son, Gordon. He enlisted and served time in the Navy during the last war. He was married to Joyce Noble of Calgary in 1945, and they have three fine sons. Jack passed away in 1953. I have continued to live in Calgary since that time.

MELITA SCHOOL — by Annie M. Simpson

The North West Territories Gazette Vol. 2-3 records the date of the establishment of the Melita School District No. 1458, of the North West Territories, as February 10, 1906. In the Alberta Gazette, Vol. 2 — 15, it is recorded that permission to borrow $1000 for the purpose of fencing the site, building a school house, erecting a woodhouse and other outbuildings was given on July 26, 1906.

The school was located on one acre of land of the SW 6-39-2-W5, which had been donated for the purpose by the late Isaac Johnson, then living less than half of a mile north of the school site. This was a central location for the several families who had children of school age. In the records of the Department of Education the district was named Melita, after a girl named Melita, who became the first secretary-treasurer of the district. However, according to information received from the late Isaac Johnson's son, Lester Johnson, the name Melita was chosen from a list of names sent out by the government. This would seem more probable, as not one of the early settlers interviewed has heard of anyone in the surrounding area named Melita.

The Matchetts, who lived on the south side of Eckville, built the school. John Warwick hauled building material by team from Red Deer, and perhaps some of the lumber was also purchased from a sawmill which was in operation west of Evarts.

The first school board consisted of Messrs. William Wylie, Frederick Woodmancy and Isaac Johnson, with Mr. R. L. Abel as the secretary.

There are no written records of any kind available, but according to information gained from the early residents, the first pupils were Onni and Mary Koskinen, Robert Wylie (now in the U.S.), Orrin Wylie (now a farmer in the Benalto district), Viola Wylie (Mrs. Max Light, known now of Sylvan Lake), Ella Wylie (Mrs. Peter Carlyle of Happy Hills), Emma Wuobio, the late Mrs. E. Niemela, Benalto; Euphemia Hietala, the late Mrs. L. Kingsep, of Summerland, B.C.); Henry Hietala (a farmer in the Eckville district); David Falconer; Kate Abel; David, Phillmore and Lester Johnson; Harry, Gordon and Earl Trimmer (who resided with their grandparents, the Isaac Johnsons); Ida Aho (taught school in Finland afterwards); Lizzie Koski, the late Mrs. Kemila of Eckville; Elmer, Mamie, Charlie, Matt, Ada Kalaputas; Matt of Sylvan Lake, Elmer and Charlie deceased. Mamie now Mrs. Charles Holeka of Vancouver and Ada Proudler of Victoria, B.C.; Walfred Kujala (a farmer in the Kuusamo district until his death); Lillian and Mary Kujala (deceased); Emil Maltson (farmer in the Kuusamo district); George Maltson (deceased); Selma Ropsfelt (the late Mrs. R. Kangas of Hespero); Selma Pitkaaen, Luella, John and Kasper McCardle.

Some of these pupils were from the Kuusamo district and attended Melita School for only a short period of time. When the new Kuusamo School was built at a more central location they began attending school there instead of at Melita.

The first teacher at Melita School was Miss Annie McGregor (the late Mrs. Oswald Forhan, of Eckville) who taught there for two years. She received her teacher training at the Provincial Normal School at Truro, Nova Scotia in 1901 and 1902, and came to the West, to join her friend, the late Mrs. J. Killick, who was then teaching at Evarts.

An amusing incident occurred when Miss McGregor was teaching at Melita School. Mr.

Wylie, a trustee, had the occasion to write Miss McGregor a letter inviting her to accompany the family on a picnic to Sylvan Lake. She answered the letter promptly but, by mistake, sent him the wrong letter — a love letter written to her by her fiance, Mr Forhan, regarding their forthcoming marriage. Great was her embarrassment when Mr Wylie returned the letter to her, in person.

Following Miss McGregor many teachers served the Melita school but one especially Mr imprint on the memories of his pupils. He taught at Melita first in the summer months of 1912. In January of 1914 he enrolled in the Calgary Normal School but returned to Melita in June and continued teaching there until 1918. He initiated exchange softball games with Bluebell and Kinusamo Schools. The boys were taught how to make excellent bows and arrows from near-by birch trees. These would shoot true for 100 feet but their use on the school premises was not con

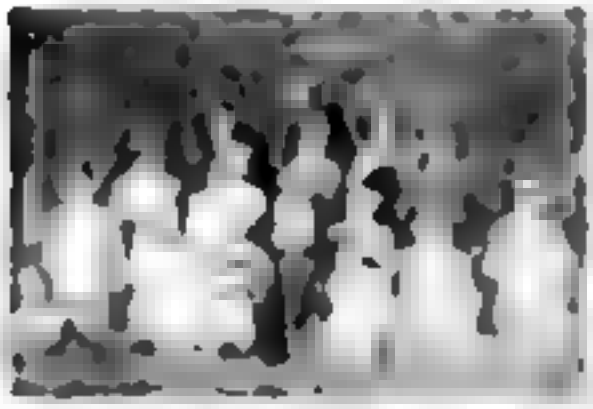
McDonald engaged in several side-line oc

surance and also did considerable "butchering". To the delight of his pupils, he would often dismiss school at 2:00 p.m. or on occasion, even at 11:00 a.m. to attend to these other duties. On occasion he dismissed school early because of a threatening storm and sent the children home. It was well he did, for the children while still within sight of the school, saw the lightning strike the brick chimney, shatter it and strew bricks all over the ground. The stove inside the school was also badly damaged.



With none of the old registers or secretary's minutes available, it is impossible to accurately list the teachers who have taught at the Melita School throughout the years. So often the schools were closed for the winter months with classes held only in the summer and sometimes several teachers would be hired to teach during one school term. Among those whom I have been able to determine taught at the Melita School for three or more years were: Mr J. McDonald, Mr William Code, Mr William C. Davidson, Mrs Alma Sterling, Mr Earle Farris, Mrs Barbara Goedicke, Mrs. Laura Holsworth, Mrs. Arnie Simpson, Mrs. Dorothy Periche and Mrs. Ardis Bramall. The Melita School District as such was terminated and the Alberta Gazette, Vol. 37, records the change of name to the Benalto School District, No. 1438, as of June 7, 1941. Many of these teachers, of course, served after this change was made.

The school building itself was not completed when school began in the fall of 1906. The pupils sat on planks placed on top of empty nail kegs, and their slates were used on planks serving as desks. Texts were few and included those in arithmetic, grammar, geography and the readers. The school was heated by a square box stove, which often proved to be inadequate in the winter time. The janitorial work was done by the teacher or pupils.

The students were of various grades and abilities. Some had attended school previously either at Kinusamo or in the United States, but most of them began in Grade 1. The school term was not the regular 10-month one as we have now, but depended on the weather and the available teacher supply. Pupils often attended school in July and August. The attendance itself was sporadic as the need for an education was by many, not considered of prime importance and the transportation of children to the school was often a problem, too. Walter Johnson stated that he had attended school for 220 days in five years — only 22 days in one of those years! The Wylies came across country two miles by horse and "stone-boat". Walfred Kurala related how they drove a mule and a home-made cutter to school and lodged the mule in the wood-shed during school hours. The mule often chewed through the tie-rope, then wandered home by himself leaving the children stranded, so they would have to walk the five miles home. Jennie Woodmancy had a novel method of getting to school: she rode in a sleigh pulled by a big black and white dog for her two and one half mile trip. Mr Hyvonen related how he, too, used a sled to transport his son, Olva, to school. It was attached by a lariat to the saddle of the horse which he himself rode to the school.

Discipline in those early days was more rigorous than it is now. Some of the pupils were bent on mischief and would "get the strap" almost every day. However, some of the teachers used slightly different methods of corporal punishment. Miss Coughlin taught several lively boys, among them Fred and Ted Heikkinen, Ted Johnson, and Olva Hyvonen. These boys she would send as a body, across the fence to the willow patches with the command

"Cut yourself a gad." They did, and on their return, she would forthwith administer the Fighting among the boys was common. One loyal lad saved his brother from a forthcoming pen-knife wound by hurling a brick at the offending party, thereby rendering him unconscious. Live gophers and dead mice placed in the desk drawers of teachers, especially the female ones, added excitement to the day. On one occasion the two Timmer boys, aged 10 and 12 years, brought to school two real six-shooters, which they had brought with them from the United States. The firing pins often jammed as they would shoot live bullets at targets as well as at each other — a type of Russian roulette, which, miraculously had no tragic results!

Recreation was not forgotten. During the winters skating was enjoyed on a nearby pond. Ball games were common during the warm weather, as well as various other outdoor games. Sometimes the ball teams of one school would compete with those of another school. After a few years the well at the Melita school became infested with gophers, and the pupils eagerly vied for turns to make the noon-hour trip to the nearby farm of the late Swan Anderson for their daily pail of water. Dances in the early years were held at the school, not to mention the traditional Christmas concerts, a highlight of the year.

The Melita School District had several men and women who devoted many years of their time to being secretaries or trustees of the school. Among the secretaries were Messrs. R. Abel, Mr. J. W. Slack (who for many years served simultaneously as secretary-treasurer of the Melita, Kousamo, and Evarts schools. He collected the school taxes which were about $10 to $20 a year per quarter section of land.), V. Buchanan, J. Simpson and Mrs. F. Barhan. Among the trustees were: I. Johnson, W. Wylie, F. Woodmancy, A. Hubtala, I. Hyvonen, J. Warwick, P. Niskanen, J. Heikkinen and S. Anderson. At the time the Melita School District was transferred into the Rocky Mountain School Division, No. 15, on October 16, 1937, the school board consisted of Mrs. Emma Kinna, Everett Nielsen, and Guy Barhan, with A. Norton as secretary. Subsequently with its transfer to the Red Deer School Division No. 35, on December 30, 1954, and to the Red Deer County No. 23, on January 1, 1963. Mr. George Sterling has served as official trustee.

The district of Benalto, whose name the school later acquired, was named, about 1911, by a CPR surveyor during the time the rail line was built through to Rocky Mountain House. "Ben Nevis" is Scotch for "hill", and "Alto" is Latin for "high"; hence the name, as Benalto is situated on a hill overlooking the CPR tracks.

The new Benalto school itself was built by Waterman and Waterbury, contractors from Regina. The school was a frame building covered with insul-brick siding with the materials supplied mostly by the Atlas Lumber Company, of Benalto. The first teachers to serve in the new school were Lainie Maki and A. Franklin Van Horne. It was during that year 1938-1939, that the teachers and their classes planted the Russian poplars, which are now such effective shade trees, on the east side of the school.

In 1952 the Kousamo School was centralized at Benalto, which required the building of two more rooms. Mrs. Laura Holsworth and Mrs. Barbara Goedicke were added to the teaching staff. In 1954, with the additional centralization of Diamond Valley school, a room in the basement was converted to a classroom and Mrs. Annie Simpson joined the staff. Old Hola, New Centreville, New Hill, and Happy Hill were centralized in 1957 and Evarts School in 1959 and Mrs. Dorothy Periche was added to the staff then.

In 1961, with the addition of Mr. Ivan Jenkins plus Mrs. Anna Sterling, who had commenced teaching in Benalto in 1940, and Mr. Earle Farris, who had begun in 1944, the staff was enlarged to six members with instruction in Grades 1 to 10. In the intervening years between 1939-1961 Grades 1 to 10 or 11 had been taught. During this time the students in Grades 11 or 12 had completed their education, for the most part, at the Lindsay Thurber Composite High School in Red Deer, and in the period 1958 to 1963 had been supplied transportation there by a county bus. In 1962 the Grade 9 and the high school students provided with a bus for this purpose. At this time the Benalto School reverted again to teaching only Grades 1 to 8 and to four classrooms. By 1969, with decreasing enrolments, only three rooms were in operation. With the retirement of Mrs. Anna Sterling in 1971 the school reverted to two rooms, in which Grades 1 to 6 are now being taught. The present staff consists of Mrs. Annie Simpson and Mrs. Ardis Bramall.

The Superintendents who have served the district are: Mr. Boyce, Mr. Dwyer, Mr. Gibson, Mr. McLean, Mr. L. Thurber, Mr. H. R. Ross, Mr. F. Barnes, Mr. A. F. Doverall, Mr. E. Read, Mr. S. A. Lindstedt, Mr. R. V. McCullough, and Mr. H. Hall.

Many former students of the school have achieved recognition in their various walks of life. The "little red school-house" has done its work well.

THE EVERETT NIELSEN FAMILY OF BENALTO

Everett Theodore Nielsen, son of Ole and Elizabeth Nielsen, was born in Wall City, Iowa, U.S.A. in 1899. He came with his family to Saskatchewan in 1901. In 1919, the family moved to the Evarts district and farmed where Elmer Loyeks now farms.

In 1926, he married the former Lillian Nielsen, daughter of John and Anne Marie

Nielsen. She was born in Nebraska, U.S.A. in 1900. Her family moved to the Olds district in 1902. They moved to the Milner district in 1904, then moved to Bellingham Washington. U.S.A in 1912. In 1914, they moved back to Alberta and made their home in the Benalto district. The lumber for their home in this district came from the old Evarts Hotel.

After their marriage Everett and Lillian moved to New Westminster B.C. where their son, Lorne Melville, was born. They came back to the Benalto district the following year residing on the Frank Jenkins place now owned by Will Richmond. Later they lived on the Charlie Jenkins place, now owned by J. McBride, where Everett rented the land.

[illegible]

In 1932, they moved to the town of Benalto, purchasing the property of Mr. McKenna. Here Everett went into the general trucking business and had the bulk service for British American Oil, later Gulf of Canada.

Everett liked playing ball and was the catcher for the Benalto team. He enjoyed curling, being one of the first curlers in Benalto. For several years he owned a threshing machine and with his crew threshed for farmers in the district. He played in the Markerville Band.

Everett's son Lorne is better known as "Tunnie", getting this nickname from the former Frank Jenkins, after Gene Tunney, the boxer. Lorne attended school at Metita until the Benalto School was built. He went to High school in Dickson and Red Deer. He worked with his father in the trucking and gas business until his father retired in 1971. In 1947 they built a garage and for some years had a general garage service. From 1957 the late Arthur Bowman was mechanic until his passing in 1965. In 1961 they purchased the farm from Carrie Nielsen, wife of Dewey Nielsen, this being the farm of John Nielsen. From 1947 to 1949 Everett, Lorne, Laurel Nielsen and Earl Farris had an orchestra and played for dances in the district.

In 1950 Lorne married the former Lucy Vick, daughter of Edgar and Marie Vick of the New Hill district. Lucy attended school at Hazel Dell and New Hill No. 2 schools, and high school at St. Joseph's Convent in Red Deer. Prior to her marriage she worked at the Imperial Bank of Canada in Eckville. They built their home on the property of the late Mr. Buchanan. They have 10 children, six sons, Larry, Terry, Leslie, Ralph, Glen and Jeff and four daughters, Wendy, Brenda, Lorna and Dianne. Brenda was married to Peter Dawley in 1975 and is living in Prince George, B.C.

[illegible]

In 1966, a daughter, Lorraine, came to live with Everett and Lillian. Lorraine took all her schooling in Benalto, then went to work in the Imperial Bank of Canada in Red Deer. In 1965 she married Norman McKenzie of Red Deer. Norm is a chartered accountant and has his own business in Red Deer. In 1973, Norm was president of the Red Deer Chamber of Commerce and is now a Red Deer Alderman. They have two daughters, Debra and Sandra. Debbie was married in October 1977 to Jim McCutcheon son of Doug McCutcheon of Sylvan Lake.

NIELSEN, THE HAP FAMILY—by Betty Nielsen

I, Betty Nielsen, have lived in Benalto most of my life. I was born in Red Deer on February 12, 1934. (See W. A. Holsworth history). I lived on a farm three miles from Benalto for the first two years of my life. After a three-year stay at Tees (my parents operated a store there), we moved back to Benalto to a farm on the east edge of town when I was five years old.

My earliest memories of Benalto are the station, where my grandparents (Nortons) lived, and a wonderful hand pump on the kitchen cupboard, the train with all its steam, noise and bustle, and the horses at the station hauling the freight. I also remember the board sidewalks and losing pennies and once a quarter, down the cracks.

At school, we felt very smug, as our school was the only one for miles around with indoor plumbing. I went to the Benalto School from Grade 1 to 11 and then to the Red Deer Composite High School for Grade 12. My teachers were Mrs. Sterling, from Grades 1 to 6 and Mr. Farris for Grades 7 to 11. I spent many happy hours playing ball and rehearsing plays.

After completing Grade 12 I took nurses training for three years at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. I then nursed for two years at the Blood Indian Hospital at Cardston, Alberta.

On December 27, 1957 I married Hap Nielsen from Glenwood. After living in Calgary for a short time then in Three Hills for several years we returned to Benalto. I nursed at the Eckville Hospital for one year. We then built a house on a wooded acreage on my parents' quarter and near their home. Hap did all construction work for about six years and then he went into business for himself—"Hap's Construction".

We have five children. Arthur 19, Ann 15, Elizabeth 13, Mary 11, and Christine 10 years old. Quite often the younger ones ask where they will live when they are grown up. For them it is hard to imagine any place better than Benalto. To be honest, I can't imagine any place better, either!

NIELSEN, LAUREL AND MARY

In 1919 the Nielsen family moved from Dundurn, Saskatchewan to the family ranch south of Evarts, Alberta. The family was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen, May, Everett, Orlie, twin brothers, Murle and Myron, Laurel and Roy. Later, the family moved to Benalto where they have resided ever since. Laurel and Roy were engaged in a farming partnership for some [illegible].

On July 24, 1948 Laurel and Mary Palm were married in Red Deer. Mary was the youngest daughter of John and Eva Palm of Sylvan Lake. Laurel became involved in construction work.

One son, Gary, was born in 1949. He took his education in Benalto and Sylvan Lake. Gary works in the sheet metal trade and is employed at Pincher Creek. Gary and his wife, Karen have two children, Lori Ann and Darren James.

Laurel has been active in all sports including hockey, baseball and curling. He is a member of the Elks Lodge No. 404, a member of the Benalto Agriculture Society and a member of the Benalto Curling Club. For several years, Laurel has been the caretaker of the local curling rink.

Mary is a member of the Royal Purple and the Benalto Ladies Aid. Her interests centre around her home and family, plants, her yard and craftwork. For two years, Mary worked in the Eckville Post Office. Next, she was employed for one year by Don Wilkes in his general store in Benalto. Mary worked for seven years for G. R. Lougheed in his Benalto store.

Laurel and Mary celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on July 24, 1973. Their family and friends put on a program and dance in the Benalto Community Hall. Laurel and Mary are looking forward to enjoying their retirement years in Benalto.

NIELSEN, MYRON by Barbara Nielsen

Myron Nielsen was born in Dundurn, Saskatchewan. In 1919 he moved to the Evarts district with his folks. They bought the SE 4-38-2 W5, called the Island Ranch. This farm consisted of nine quarters of grain and hay land. They brought a large herd of good quality Hereford cattle, horses, machinery, a model T Ford and a Maxwell car.

Myron finished his schooling at Evarts. In the spring of 1933 he bought and moved to the John Woods place, SE 20-38-2-W5. He worked on the railroad at Benalto for a few years, also on road work and bridge work. In 1937 Myron married Barbara Murphy of the Diamond Valley district. We have four children, Virginia, a registered nurse, trained at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. She nursed at the Edmonton and Red Deer hospitals. She married Marvin Prier of New Sarepta, and they have two children, Gail and Ross. They farm at New Sarepta.

Wayne was a cowboy and followed the rodeos for a few years. He then managed a garage in Ontario, then took to trucking, going through the States. Wayne is married and has one daughter, Cindy.

Mervyn worked in a garage at Sylvan Lake for a few years. He is now a field supervisor for an oil company. In 1968, he married Penny Gar on and they have a son, Randy. They live on an acreage east of Red Deer.

Raymond lives at home and attends school at Sylvan Lake. In 1962, we sold the farm and bought a house in Benalto. Myron worked out on construction jobs at Red Deer and out west. I worked for Mr. Ralph Lougheed, at the Benalto store for 15 years and later for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Knowles. Our children took all their earlier schooling at Benalto.

AARNE RAYMOND NIEMELA

Ray Niemela was born in Red Deer on July 19, 1919, the son Eino and Emma (Wuoblo) Niemela. He took his elementary education at the Metcalfe School near Benalto, and Grades 9 and 10 at Kinusamo. For one year he studied motor mechanics at the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology and Art in Calgary in 1935-1936.

scientific agriculture, which proved very fortunate as he lost his father when only 12 years old, and became the man of the farm from then on. But, his interests expanded to embrace community welfare as well as the business of making a living.

The depression years were happy times as he, along with Howard and Ted Johnson, took an interest in and managed the Young People's Hall group, under the sponsorship of the Loyal Finns.

maple hardwood dance floor, even with their 35 cent admission charges. There was fun galore — was welcome, and attendance was good. Very often the Roth family orchestra of Red Deer provided the music.

A highlight of the Young People's group was the operation of the STAR ball club, with Ray acting as manager. There was never a shortage of players, rules were strict and closely adhered to. One season 33 games were played and only one was lost. But in 1939 war broke out, men were called up, and a happy strong relationship came to an end.

In the winter Ray played hockey with the Palm Bay Hockey Club, on the ice of the Sylvan Lake North shore. He also played with the Benalto Hockey Club. These were the days when young fellows had to depend on their own resources and ingenuity to indulge in such sports. Government handouts were, as yet, unknown and the boys, with their own hands created the facilities which made their play

But, after all, work is the essence of a farmer's life. Ever at the forefront in adopting progressive methods, Ray very early, decided that the day of the horse was nearly gone; he bought his first tractor, a Twin City, 3-plow machine, in 1936, costing $850 new. It burned the old Turner Valley naptha, or "skunk gas" as people called it then. About the same time he purchased a new Chevrolet half-ton truck for $802. Obviously that was when a dollar was still

For a time, Ray raised registered Tamworth hogs, an operation he began in 1944. In 1943, he also began raising registered seed barley, an enterprise which became his prime interest, and he finally abandoned the hog project. His first seed project was with Olli barley and he produced select and foundation seed of this variety for 30 years. For many years he has grown registered seed of other varieties, as they were presented the Robertson Associate Award, the highest distinction available to members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. The award is presented to members who have fulfilled with conspicuous fidelity and success their obligations as members of the Association.

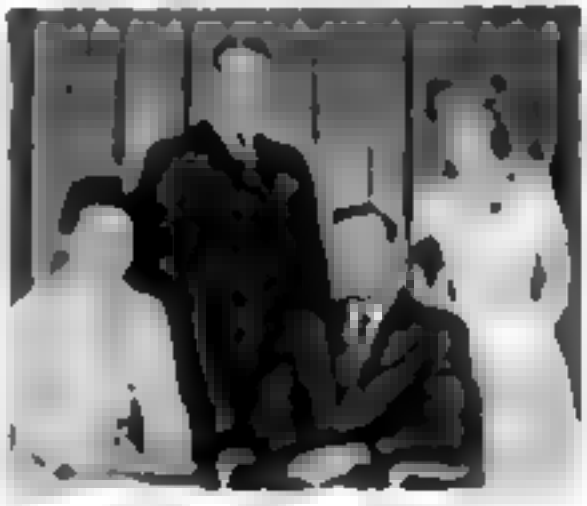
Ray began with the three-quarter sections of land that had been his parents, SE 12-39-3-W5, SW 7-39-2-W5 and NE 1-39-3-W5. Over the years he enlarged his holding with the purchase of the following properties. In 1961 from Mrs. George Gilpatrick the SE 1-39-3-W5. In 1964 from Ilma Hyvonen the SW 12-39-3-W5, in 1946 from Frank Jenkins the SW 8-39-2-W5 which is now farmed by his son Terry, in 1946 from Matt Talson estate, a 92 acre portion of SE 7-39-2-W5, now owned by Ray's sister, Helen Johnson.

In addition, he has leased the following parcels, from the Armstrong Bros. NW 1-39-3-W5 in 1941 now owned by Harley Stamm. In 1942 the SE 7-39-2-W5 from the Matt Talson estate; in 1944 the SW 6-39-1-W5 from Anna Huerliman, presently owned by her nieces Marie Pijeau and Josie McGrandle. In 1944 the SW 1-39-2-W5 from James

Millar, in 1944 the N½ 5-39-2-W5 from E. Nikkola. In 1971 the SE 31-38-2-W5 from Wm. [illegible]

From the time when he began to take an active part in farm work until his marriage, he worked together with his mother and sister. In 1946 he was married to Edith Helen Ignatius, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ignatius. From this time on, he took over as sole operator of the farm.

Edith was born on her father's farm home on July 29, 1926. She took her public school at Salma, and went to Red Deer for her high school graduating in 1945. Prior to her marriage, she was employed in the office of the Central Alberta Dairy Pool in Red Deer. To them were born two children, Dorinda Marlene, born March 24, 1947 and Terrance Raymond born July 12, 1949. Their daughter married Albert Bietala in 1968 and they have two children, Bonnie Marie and Trevor Lee. Their son Terry married Marilyn Kubik in 1973 and they have one daughter, Karri-Lynn Anne.



Since 1970, Terry has been an active partner with his father.

Over the years, the Niemela's have benefitted from the work of many capable hired men and [illegible] some of whom have become lifelong Modern facilities have gradually changed the nature of farm life and work since the early years. The first telephones came the year of Ray's birth, 1919. Service was improved slowly, and in March 1967 the present day underground cable system was completed, eliminating the old party lines. Electricity was brought in by Calgary Power Ltd. in 1949. Natural gas service came to the farm in 1972. Now, the modern farm homes of the district enjoy all the amenities people used to associate only with city homes.

The farm dwelling, itself, has undergone a veritable transformation. Ray and Edith started their married life in the house which included the old Wuobio homestead, later enlarged and remodeled, and finally in 1969, they moved into their present fully-modern house, designed by themselves, and built by Four Star Construction of Red Deer.

The actual work also has been transformed thanks, in part to modern labor-saving improvements. When Ray began selling registered seed, for example, he had to bag by hand as much as 20,000 bushels in a season and sew the sacks the old slow way. Now their chore is quickly done by means of an electric hand sewing machine.

Formerly seed cleaning was done on a custom basis by Mr. Carl Selstrom, now it is done by their son's own modern mobile unit. Binning and weighing is now done in their own building with their own scales, capable of handling truckloads up to 40 tonnes.

Community affairs have always been of great interest to Ray and Edith and their family. Edith was Benalto 4-H Clothing and Garden Club's leader for several years, and has given 16 years service to the Girl Guides of Canada. Ray was chairman of the Building committee at the time of the erection of the Benalto Community Hall in 1962, and the curling rink in 1953. He has served as leader of the Benalto 4-H Grain Club for a number of years. He was also chairman of the finance committee for the building of the Sylvan Lake Memorial Presbyterian Church in 1976. From 1971-1977 he served as an advisory member on the Agricultural Service Board for the County of Lacombe. Thirty years he has been a director of the Benalto Agricultural Society, several of these as president. At present he is chairman of the local board of the Provincial Agricultural Development Committee, for the County of Lacombe. Since 1949 he has been a director of the Eckville Rural Electrification Association.

With all the busy activities of farm and community come many satisfactions and pleasures as well as aching backs and tired muscles. They always look upon seeding time and harvest as times of special contentment and reward. Lunch in the midst of the bounty of harvest satisfies the yearnings of the soul as well as the hunger of the body. So it is with all the many busy demands of life. Serving as Elder for the Church also satisfies the human desire to to something for one's fellow man. So does their continuing involvement in such organizations as Club Finlandia, which they like to keep up to maintain the connection with their ancestral roots, however much they love to think of themselves as Canadians. Life demands service and commitment, but it bestows satisfaction and contentment.

NIEMELA, ELNO

Elno Severi Niemela was born in Westlahti Onkemaki, Finland, on October 21, 1891. He immigrated to Canada in 1912, making his home first in the Rocky Mountain House area, finding whatever work was available for willing hands and a clever mind. In 1914, he worked for a time at the coal mines in Nordegg.

He later worked in the United States for a short while finding employment in the mines at Anaconda, Montana. But, Canada lured him back, and he took up land in the Oras district settling on SW¼-34-39-6-W5. Elno possessed an extraordinary skill with axe and broadaxe. On his homestead he built two finely crafted substantial log buildings with wooden dowels, using no nails whatever. These buildings were made to last, both were later moved to his farm at Benalto, where one is still in regular use as a granary and is solid as ever. In it one can see the skillful fitting of the logs, an art which is practically unknown today.

By 1916, he had made the acquaintance of the Wuobio family north of Benalto. He worked for the Wuobios on the farm, and that year married their daughter Emma. She did not wish to move to his place at Oras, as she was the only child and did not wish to leave her parents. Since she had come with her parents to settle on this place, and had been part of the local community, she was reluctant to leave. Elno sold his farm at Oras and purchased from Mr. W. E. Payne, the quarter south of his father-in-law's place. NE 1 [illegible] W

In 1919, together with Mr. Wuobio he purchased SW7-39-2-W5 from Mr. Max Bittner. The farming operation was beginning to expand and prosper. Meanwhile, he had been busy with his trusty axe, grub-hoe, and four-horse team soon had his own quarter entirely cleared, and under cultivation. The land proved fertile and productive, and he raised exceptionally good crops of wheat those early years.

Also in 1919, their only son Ray was born. He still farms the same land and still finds it equally fertile and productive. The old settlers chose well.

In 1918, Elno's mother-in-law, Mrs. Wuobio died, a victim of the Spanish influenza. Mr. Wuobio passed on in 1922.

In 1922, a daughter Helen was born. She, too, has lived all her life in the same community, she is now Mrs. Howard Johnson, and lives on her own farm just one mile north of her childhood home.

The year 1925 was another milestone in the family's progress, they bought their first automobile, a Chevrolet touring car. The modern age had truly begun.

By 1930 the Niemela's were ready to enlarge the old family home, which had been built by Mr. Wuobio. To the original frame building, a four room addition was built, making a comfortable roomy house. This addition was built on contract by Mr A Steinback of Rocky Mountain House for $1,600

The "Dirty Thirties" were a difficult period for the Niemelas, as they were for all farmers According to family records, here are some of the prices received for farm produce at that

15 dozen eggs brought 90¢ in 1933

47 spring chickens, total weight 236 pounds brought $11 90 an average price of 5¢ per pound

Other prices were comparably low These were hard years, but hard work and thrift saw the farmers through them. just as these qualities had stood them in good stead during those first years of settlement

Mr Elmo Niemela died on June 2, 1933, aged 41 years. He is remembered by all local people as a man of rather quiet disposition, one who minded his own business and did not interfere in the affairs of others. He left his wife Emma, a son of 13 and a daughter of 11 to operate the farm. Emma Niemela capably managed and operated the farm with the assistance of her children and hired help. Struggling through depression years, despite costly mistakes, she - able to keep the family farm in operation

The family grew in number when Helen married a neighbor's son, Howard Johnson, in 1945, and in the following year 1946. Ray also married a local girl Edith Ignatius

Emma, retiring off the farm in 1947, moved to Sylvan Lake She bought. Port Dover, on 4th Street East which she sold in 1947 A new home was built on 2nd Street South West where she resided until her passing, August 1964. She is buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery

In her retirement years, she took a keen interest in her church activities and received much asure from her grandchildren Faye Johnson Dorinda and Terry Niemela

NIEMELA, TERRANCE RAYMOND

Terry was born in Eckville July 12, 1949 His public schooling was taken in Eckville, and for his high school, he attended the Red Deer Composite High School After graduation, Terry took a two year course in Agriculture. at the Olds Agricultural Vocational College, graduating in 969

After leaving college, Terry decided to farm with his dad Ray Niemela, in the growing and selling of registered seed grain. In 1970. Terry purchased one of Carl Selstrom's mobile grain cleaners with which he did custom grain cleaning in the community as well as cleaning for himself and his Dad

In 1971, Terry met his wife Marilyn nee Kubik) of RR No 4, Eckville. Marilyn attended the Condor and David Thompson High School. In 1972, she took a Certified Nursing Aide Course in Calgary, graduating in August 1973

Terry and Marilyn were married on September 1, 1973, in Red Deer They purchased a mobile home, which they moved on to the Niemela farm near Benalto. Terry is presently the fourth generation living on the original Wuobio homestead, which he now owns (SE 12 39-3-W5

On August 14, 1974, their first child was born a baby girl named Karri-Lynn Alane

In the winter of 1974-75, Terry designed and built a new mobile grain cleaner The new mill has a capacity to handle from 125 to 225 bushels of seed per hour depending on the type of seed it is required to clean. His old mill was sold to Marianne Farms (Staudinger Bros

In 1978, Terry and Marilyn hope to see their steel constructed building completed, that will house their grain cleaner which Terry hopes to use as a stationary seed processing plant

Terry and Marilyn are both community minded. Marilyn belongs to the Benalto Order of the Royal Purple, and Terry belongs to the Benalto Elks Lodge No. 404. In 1976-77 Terry served in the capacity of Exalted Ruler of the Lodge

NIKKOLA, ELI AND FRANK — by Sylvia Thorkman (As told to me by Helmi Erkkila)

Eli and Frank Nikkola came to Canada in 1904 from their native land, Finland. They spent several years working in Eastern Canada before coming to Alberta in 1911. During that winter they filed on a homestead located in the Codner area northeast of Rocky Mountain House

After summer arrived they realized that most of their land was swamp and muskeg. which made clearing and breaking the land impossible Determined to get the title for the land they built buildings from logs, close by. and also bought a horse and a cow Homesteaders in those years

Eli and Frank were musicians so evenings on the homestead were often spent playing the accordian and organ. They were never lonely for neighbors gathered at their home to spend the evenings singing and dancing

After three years on the homestead and no way to dry up the land, they decided to move on. Leaving their home in 1914, they moved to the Kuusamo district, where they rented land from Mrs. Ida Peterson, SE 4-39-2-W5, for four years. Mrs. Peterson passed away and the land was sold to the Burdick family from the United States. Another move had to be made.

In March 1918 Eli and Frank bought the NW 5-39-2-W5 from the C.P.R. This was new land, no buildings or improvements, so they decided to move their buildings off the Codner homestead to their new property.

Most of the winter was spent dismantling the log buildings, marking the logs, and loading them onto a C.N.R. flat car at Codner. They were then shipped to Elspeth, then hauled to the farm to be set up to make the brothers a place to live.

The following year they purchased the adjoining C.P.R. quarter, the NE 5-39-2-W5, to make the half section. In the years that followed they raised Shorthorn cattle and Percheron horses, in which they took great pride.

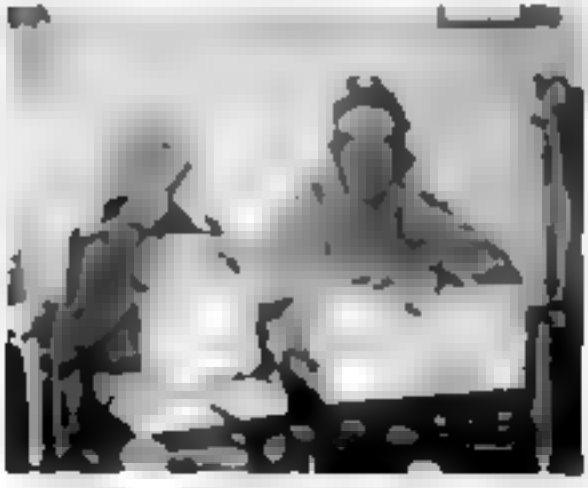
Eli and Helmi Saha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Saha, were married March 13, 1923. They have one daughter, Hazel, who was born April 11, 1924. She is married to Bob Cosman of New Westminster, B.C.

Eli and Helmi purchased Frank's share of the land. Frank made his home in a separate house in the yard until his passing in 1930. He is buried in the Kuusamo cemetery.

Farming in those years was done with horses, so the days were long and strenuous. Eli still found time to help in community affairs. He was the first secretary-treasurer of the Mutual Telephone line east of Eckville. He was also on the board of directors on the Sambo Thresher Company, of which there were 14 shareholders.

Eli passed away in March, 1945 and is buried in the Kuusamo cemetery.

Eli and Helmi raised two foster children, Irene and Leonard Euren. Irene is married and lives in Wetaskiwin. Leonard is married and lives in Calgary.



Helmi continued farming alone until October, 1955 when she married Bill Erikkila. The Erikkilas continued farming for several years before retiring and renting their land to Ray Niemala. They still live on the farm and are enjoying their retirement. In 1975 they made a trip to Finland, and have made several visits to various parts of Canada.

THE PETER NISKANEN AND SWAN ANDERSON FAMILIES — by their Granddaughters, Annie Simpson and Mildred Niemi

Peter John Niskanen and Albertina Tikkanen were born in Kuuraveden pitajassa, Kuopion laanissa, Finland, he on September 25, 1863 and she on August 20, 1871. Both families had immigrated to the United States and Peter and Albertina were married on February 16, 1891, later changing their name to Koski. A daughter, Anna Emma, was born to them in Red Lodge, Montana on July 1, 1897.

Albertina and Peter Niskanen and daughter Anna

They lived in various places in Montana and Idaho for a number of years, but their nomadic life was over when Peter came to Canada in 1909 and bought the NE 36-36-3-W5, which was to be their home for the remainder of their lives. At first Peter farmed with oxen, but later bought horses and raised their colts.

Although Anna was an only child, she was not lonely, for she had a pony named Tony, which she rode to visit neighboring girl friends, and her parents had a lot of company as well. Their home was used as an overnight stopping place for people travelling from further west to Red Deer. She attended Melita School to the end of Grade 8, and for a part of the time did the janitor work at the school. With this income she bought a large mirrored bureau, which is still in the family.

Peter continued his farming operations alone until 1917, when he rented the farm to his new son-in-law, Sven Anderson, selling the farm to him two years later. Although Peter and Albertina were separated in the later years, both continued to make their home on the farm, with Anna and Sven. Albertina spent some of her time in hand to help out on the farm during the busy

Montana where most of her relatives lived Peter became a cattle dealer, and rode

By 1928 Albertina's health had become very poor as she suffered from both kidney and heart ailments. She was cared for at home by her daughter Anna until she passed away on December 2, 1928 Peter also passed away at home, on February 7, 1932 Both were buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery

The story of our parents follows

THE SWAN AND HSON FAMILY

Sven Adolph Anderson was born on May 2, 1881 in Polstorp, Sweden, the second youngest of a large family. In December, 1911, his brother Albin, who was already living in Big Horn, Montana, U.S.A., sent Sven $90 for his ticket to America and an extra $60 for spending money

After working on the railroad for two years in Montana and South Dakota for $1.35 to $1.50 a day, Sven accompanied a co-worker, Ole Rustad to Rootuk in April, 1914. Since Ole's brother was railroad section foreman in that area Dad began working on the railroad, helping to build the grade for the tracks to be laid west to Nordegg He soon became a section foreman, earning $2.90 a day

Dad lived in an "engineer's shack" which was located about one mile north of the Number 11 highway It was at this time that Dad met Mother when he would go to her home to buy milk, eggs, bread and butter from her parents In July 1914 the shack was moved to Benalto to serve as the station With 1915 being a very wet year the resulting high water moved the west end of the railroad bridge on the Saskatchewan River near Rocky Mountain House, and Dad was part of the crew sent out to repair the damage and clear away the debris floating down the river Dad continued to work on the railroad until December 1915, when he returned to the United States

As a result of Mother writing to Dad that Granddad wanted someone to take over the farm, Dad returned to Benalto and they were married on April 24, 1917 in Red Deer with Reverend Wolfard M. Ryan officiating. A charivari following their return from a two-day trip to Calgary and a wedding dance on May 1 at the Socialist Hall, completed the festivities, and then began the task of Dad learning to farm — something he had never done

They first rented Granddad's farm, but after two years they bought it. Those first few years were difficult ones paying $250. for a mare who died, along with the foal, when foaling; Mother getting the flu in 1918, when Dad was gone hunting (Mother would likely have died had it not been for the care and kindness given her by an old bachelor, Ben Kesterka, who happened to drop erysipelas in 1921 Dad and we two daughters having scarlet fever in 1922 the complete loss of their 80 acres of crop destroyed by hail and the loss of a horse who had got into a granary of wheat

We girls, Annie and Mildred, were both born in the old house. Mrs. Isaac Johnson was the midwife who delivered both of us. Mother had a goitre, and after failing to have it removed by two trips to doctors in Montana, it was removed by Dr Thatham in Edmonton

Visiting was done on a leisurely basis in those days, and was often combined with going to have a steam bath After the chores were done our whole family would leave on a Saturday night for friends homes sometimes as far away as Pitcox (Hespero), with a team and democrat or a bobsled in the winter time After the baths the men would play Norwegian whist, the ladies would visit, and the children would sleep until the wee hours of the morning Social events of any kind were always family affairs

In 1924 Dad and Mother bought a "Tin Lizzie — a 1922 black, side-curtained touring car for $325 Although Mother learned to drive, her driving days ended abruptly when she stepped on the wrong pedal as she was approaching the closed gate at the end of the lane. Fortunately the gate wasn't much of a barricade, so no great damage was done, except that Mother never wanted to drive after that episode

In the early days the grain was stooked or stacked after being cut with the binder Prior to 1917 Mother's records tell of Langer's coming to thresh on the afternoon of October 23 and leaving to go to Huhtala's on the evening of October 26 They had threshed 3072 bushels in all. They charged three and one-half cents a bushel for threshing oats and barley and five cents for wheat. The threshing bill came to $108.25 after deducting a discount of three and one-half per

It was in 1927 that Arnold was born. Mother and Dad were overjoyed to have a son, and we to have a baby brother. When he was about nine months old he developed severe convulsions, and was very ill for a time. This same year Mother and Dad purchased a brand new "glassed" or closed-in" blue Chevrolet coach car, costing $1015. It was one of the first in the area, but touring cars soon became a thing of the past, as people became accustomed to the greater comfort of the closed-in cars. The evening of the day we got our new 1927 Chevrolet we all went to Liberty Hall to see a play directed by Henry Jokinen, Saaristo Laiset". We had previously seen two shows at Benalto, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Lighthouse Nan" in 1925 and 1926.

When we were babies we were left at home with Granddad while Mother and Dad went to dances, but as children we attended the dances at Elspeth Hall, and as young ladies we would attend the dances in Sylvan Lake. Picnics at Sylvan lake were regular Sunday occurrences, and the Christmas concert and school fairs were highlights of the years. Another highlight of our school days at Melita was the time we walked to Jack Simpsons at Benalto to listen to King George V speak on the radio. New Year's Eve was a gala celebration among neighbors. It was the Finnish custom to melt tin, lead or solder in a long handled dipper. It was held in the firebox of the stove, and then plunged into a tub of cold water. The resulting creation was then studied to attempt to predict what the New Year would bring. The Benalto Fair was another highlight in the community. To earn money for this occasion we children picked weeds from the garden, for which Dad gave us 25 cents, and Granddad always saw to it that we had extra spending money. When Grandmother was in the States she often sent us a new dress to wear, both for the fair and at Christmas time. If she didn't send one, Mother had one made for us. These were the days when we wore long underwear and dark home-knit stockings in winter. Mrs. John Kangas had a machine on which she would knit stockings and mitts to order for those who desired them.

Even the work sometimes became a social occasion for the men. Most farmers had an ice house, used to keep the milk, cream, and other food products cold. This was a pit filled with chunks of ice, insulated with sawdust. Neighbors would go together to cut blocks of ice from Sylvan Lake, load them onto bob-sleds and fill the ice house for each of the farmers. Firewood also had to be cut and hauled from tree lots, and again neighbors would work together, first hauling them and then cutting them into firewood. The resulting sawdust was used in the ice house.

The education of their children was of prime importance to Mother and Dad. All three of us started school in Melita. After Grade 8 Annie and Mildred took part of their high school in Kuusamo, and completed it in Red Deer. Times were hard when we went away to Red Deer. In 1930 and 1931 eggs sold at five cents a dozen, wheat was worth 22 cents a bushel, a five-gallon can of cream brought $1.70, a pig was worth $3 and a large cow would sell for $15. Still, by milking eight to 11 cows, and by personal sacrifice our parents managed to put away enough money to send us to school. Annie took a one-year secretarial course at Garbutt's Business College and then she and Mildred attended Calgary Normal School, and became teachers, which profession they have followed for many years.

Mother, Dad and Arnold took their first holiday in 1940 when they went to Vancouver to visit the Sundstroms and Wayne Heikkinen. Later they began making frequent trips to Montana to Saskatchewan, Wymoing, Washington, and British Columbia. Dad made a trip back to Sweden in 1957 — after an absence of 46 years — to visit his five sisters and two brothers. Everyone was very surprised that Dad spoke such good Swedish after having been gone for so long.

The years went by quickly. Dad purchased more land and in 1935 bought his first tractor from Jack Sunnell for a team of horses and $1000 in cash. This was a Model D John Deere. Arnold had joined Dad in the farming operations and lived at home, but we girls were both away teaching school. Throughout the years Dad maintained an interest in community affairs. He had been trustee of the Melita School Board for nine years, had worked arduously for the Benalto Agricultural Society, as Stampede Manager for several years, and was Honorary Life Member of the Benalto B.P.O.E. Dad was an original contract signer with the Alberta Wheat Pool and remained a member in good standing until his death. His farming efforts had been rewarded by his winning the reserve provincial championship award for malting barley in 1950 and in 1951 the provincial championship and the reserve championship in the interprovincial competitions.

Mother suffered from crippling arthritis for a number of years. In 1945 she gained some relief from a three-month stay at the hospital in Banff where she underwent "gold" treatments and had mineral baths.

Mother and Dad lived a full life, and Dad lightened his working burden somewhat during the last few years. Their grandchildren gave them special pleasure throughout the years with their regular visits.

50th wedding anniversary on April 24, 1967 with a community get-together at the Benalto Community Hall, with a supper served by the Ladies of the Royal Purple, followed by a dance. During the last year of their lives together their 55th wedding anniversary was spent quietly at home with close friends and family. The power had been off for some days, but the house was kept warm with an auxiliary stove, the food had been prepared by the family and the house was lighted with a lamp and candles. It was a memorable evening, and deeply appreciated by Mother and Dad. The lights came on before the night was over so it was a nostalgic evening combining the past with present.

Dad passed away on December 30, 1972, in the Red Deer Hospital and on February 10, 1974 Mother passed away in the Eckville Hospital. Mother, Dad, and Arnold were each laid to rest in the family plot in the Red Deer Cemetery.

THE NORTON FAMILY

My father, Archibald Norton, was born near Huntsville, Ontario in 1860, the youngest of seven children. His parents had emigrated from England in the early 1850's and had settled on a rocky farm in the northern Ontario district where they endured many hardships.

Starting in a small way, the family delivered milk in the town of Huntsville for 26 years, only missing one day, that of the father's funeral. The milk was measured into containers supplied by the customer — some buying as little as a cupful at a time.

My father attended night school when possible, acquiring some additional knowledge, particularly in business techniques. He played a cornet in the local band at this time. During their teens my father and one of his brothers acquired timber limits nearby where they felled trees for lumber and also sold the bark to a large tannery operating on the shores of one of the Muskoka Lakes.

My mother, Mary Smith, was born in England in 1865 and moved to Huntsville at an early age, later marrying my father. They farmed near Woodstock, Ontario for a short time, where Laura was born. Then moved back to Huntsville where I was born.

Along with many others, my parents moved west in 1912 and settled in Bassano, Alberta where George was born. My father started working for the CPR as a freight clerk, learning telegraphy during this time. He then became a relief agent so for a few years we moved almost continuously until we finally took up residence in Benalto during 1921 when the station was opened for a permanent agent. My father came in February and remained until his retirement in 1946. We followed late in April, after a severe blizzard.

During this winter my father and Mr. Stan Hooker walked to Evarts occasionally on a Sunday to attend the church service and have dinner with the Madisons. We lived in the house on the Woodmancy farm (now owned by Max and Annie Simpson) where we spent two very happy summers, roaming around the farm and playing in and on the old buildings. We enjoyed living near Sylvan Lake and had numerous picnics on the beach, often spending all day Sunday, swimming or trolling for fish in a row boat. The Morrisroe and the Sestrap families were often the only other people in sight on the beach. We made many trips out west, also, picking berries, catching fish and picnicking. My Grandmother Norton visited us frequently until her passing in 1928.

In the winter we drove from the farm to the station in a homemade cutter pulled by horses borrowed from Eli Gislman. Then we walked to the Melita School, often down the railway track. The section men often stopped and gave us a ride on their "hand car" if they were going to work in that direction.

After a year and a half we spent a winter in a one-room cabin south of the tracks, which was then moved and became the kitchen when the new house was built. It is now the Bowman residence.

During the summer of 1923 or 1924 we had a severe hailstorm on a Saturday night. Trees were blown down around our house and the next day the fields appeared to be swept clean — the crops had disappeared. However, the farm people attended church as usual on Sunday morning. All around our property was unbroken land. We used a path through the trees leading to the elevator house where Warrens lived (now the Dick Austin residence).

I, Norma, graduated from the Calgary Normal School and taught at the Bluebell and Melita Schools, marrying Peter Stewart in 1932. Our history appears elsewhere in this book.

In the summer of 1925 or 1926 the Pocock and the United Grain Growers elevators were built. Where our house now stands, tents were set up for the men with a large cook tent for meals. I spent a happy summer helping the cook and running errands for her and some of the men. Laura and I were attending the Convent at this time, as there was no schooling offered here past Grade 8. Our teachers here had been Miss Coghlin, Miss

Stewart, from Ontario, and Miss Solomon George also had Miss Eileen Fera later Mrs Tommy Wilworth). Miss Barton and Miss Ruth Garries later Mrs. O. Lundberg) as teachers

We later moved to the new station and my parents lived in it for many years They caught rainwater in a cistern and the train men left barrels of water for them as a well was never drilled. They used kerosene lamps, Coleman lights and burnt briquets for fuel

My father was fond of gardening and also planted the blue spruce trees on the Bowman property He was commended by the CPR for his care of the grounds adjacent to the station

Through the years my mother and father attended the Presbyterian Church faithfully although they were members of the Anglican Church. In the early 1920's church was held at Benalto and Evarts on alternate Sundays, with most people attending both places. Church was held in the Booster Hall in Benalto and occasionally in the waiting room of the station My father lit the fire for many years, and attended to the other janitorial duties, which sometimes included cleaning up the hall following a dance

I remember one Sunday School picnic held at Sylvan Lake in 1921 We went early in the day with the Jack Simpson family in a wagon. The road wound in and out among the trees, probably utilizing the higher ground and avoiding a large slough west of the Kuusamo School. The picnic was held on the beach and the foot races were held on the sandy road in front of the present garage west of the hotel Another picnic was held near the Medicine River, probably on the McBride farm. I had hoped that all of the young people would have a swim. However much to my disappointment the young fellows slipped away by themselves, as they were not using bathing suits

Mr McKechnie, our blind minister always came by train and stayed with various families over the weekends One year he offered a prize at the Fair for learning and reciting a passage from the Bible (First Chapter of the Gospel according to St John, verses 1-14) Alice Durward (nee Cameron), Alice Sundstrom and myself competed with Mr McKechnie acting as the judge sitting up on the platform in the hall. Alice Cameron was declared the winner My Bible still bears witness to the time I spent learning those verses, apparently without the benefit of enough soap and water

Another interest shared by my mother and father was the Agricultural Society My father served as the secretary for many years and my mother was a director Various work bees were held, one when the barn was being built, another when the roof of the hall was raised others when the grandstand was enlarged The women did their share by supplying meals and lunches to the men

One humorous incident which I remember was moving all of the exhibits to the station so a dance could be held on the first night of the Stampede, as well as the one always held on the last night I believe on this occasion the cowboys were blamed for helping themselves to a pie Another time a dog belonging to the Henry Falson family was shut in the hall overnight by mistake. The food exhibits were all on display, but I believe that he left them alone

The cowboys were usually in attendance at the stampede dances, which were very popular throughout the country. The hall was always packed, so dancing was almost impossible and the floor either very dusty or muddy

Box socials were held in support of various projects

For many years, during the Fair and Stampede John Heikkinen had the job of patrolling the grounds in search of people who had gained admittance without paying This was possible as there were no gates or fences at the far side of the grounds

Both of my parents enjoyed curling. Before the rink was built in Benalto a few of the local men journeyed to Evarts, often in bitterly cold weather to take part in the curling there

During the wintertime people travelling to Red Deer drove their cars or travelled by sleighs across Sylvan Lake on the ice whenever possible to save a little distance Sometimes, when something urgent arose, my mother would travel to Red Deer by train and stay overnight in the Arlington Hotel. Although reluctant to do this she always felt better if Laura and I could stay with her, even though we were still children

My father and Laura were interested in Amateur Dramatics and sometimes took parts in plays which were presented in Markerville Alhambra and Caroline, as well as in Benalto My mother was a member of a Ladies' Community Club, the Ladies' Aid and a bridge club which was formed in the early 1930's In the early days my mother was often called out during the night to assist a new baby into the world, or if an illness had occurred. She also boarded teachers for a number of years

During World War II a committee comprised of John Watson (chairman), Tom Smith Sr George Sterling and my father (secretary) sold Victory Bonds throughout the country

My mother passed away in 1944 My Father moved shortly afterwards to Nanaimo, B.C where his two sisters were living He made frequent trips back to Benalto until his passing in 1963

My sister Laura attended high school at the Red Deer Convent and the Red Deer High School and graduated as a teacher from the Camrose Normal School. After teaching for three years — one at Happy Hill and two at Kuusamo, she was married to Bill Holsworth. (Their history is recorded elsewhere in this book)

My brother George took Grade 9 at the Melita School. He and Aili Huhtala Mrs. Clarence Anderson) were the first to take Grade 9 at Melita. He took the rest of his high schooling in Red Deer, and then attended the U of A where he graduated in Medicine. He volunteered for service at the beginning of World War II and served overseas until 1944.

After his return George took post-graduate work in Radiology from McGill's and then moved to Vancouver where, until his recent retirement, he has been associated with a firm of radiologists. He was married before leaving for overseas to the former Lois Andrew of Alix, a graduate nurse. They have a family of three boys and two girls.

Peter, George's oldest son, after obtaining his Ph.D. in math and teaching in the University of Toronto, is now in his last year of medicine. He is married to the former Sally Bence and they have [illegible].

John, the second son, is a Nuclear Physicist and is employed by an oil firm in Calgary. He is married to the former Sheila Kelly and they have a son and a daughter.

George, the third son, attended the UBC in the faculty of Mathematics and is currently an assistant manager in the Treasury Branch in Red Deer. He will be moving to Mayerthorpe in 1978 to take up duties as manager in the Treasury Branch there. He and his wife, the former Chris Arnet, have a daughter and a son.

Susan, the elder daughter, married Nick Lane and they have a son and a daughter. They are living at Prince Rupert, B.C.

Mary, the younger daughter, is married to Phil Michaelides and they live in Vancouver.

SAHA, SYLVESTER AND AMANDA

Sylvester and Amanda Saha were married in Finland and immigrated to Canada in 1902 to the Benalto district, Sylvester arriving in the spring. Amanda and daughter, Helmi, in October of the same year.

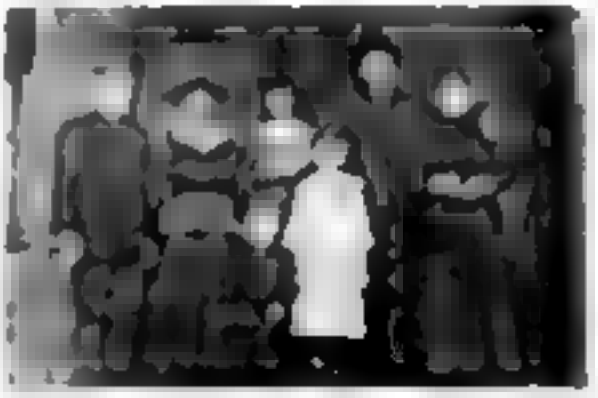
Sylvester's brother, Sam, had immigrated to Canada from Dakota earlier and homesteaded the SE 28-38-2-W5. He encouraged Sylvester and sent him the fare to come to Canada and settle here. Arriving, he found the land next to his brother was available. Sylvester homesteaded the SW 28-38-2-W5.

He spent a busy summer preparing a home for his family. It was late October when Amanda and Helmi arrived in Red Deer. No definite time was known for their arrival so there was no one to meet them. Inquiring for a ride to the homestead, she met August Halstein who could speak her language. He arranged a driver, team and democrat to take her to her destination for the fee of $5. The first winter was cold and snowy. Shortly after Amanda arrived, Sylvester became ill. With no doctor or medicine closer than Red Deer, Amanda applied her home remedies and soon Sylvester recovered. Money was scarce and with equipment to buy, so like several other homesteaders, Sylvester found employment in a coal mine in Frank, Alberta.

He farmed with three oxen purchased from the late Victor Pastobak for the price of $75 each. Oxen were difficult to handle during a hot day in fly season. The hours had to be arranged to early and late and a rest during the day. A pony was bought to team with the oxen. Later sold for the same price purchased and replaced by a team of horses.

On June 22, 1909, a daughter, Hilja, was born. Work in the field was a family affair. Mrs. Saha helped with stooking and haying which was heavy work. Neighbors were relied on for help in work and for supplies. One day Helmi and Mr. Saha were returning borrowed harrows and coal oil to the neighbors, the team bolted and they were upside down in the bush, with Helmi under the harrows. The first words Mr. Saha spoke after the runaway was to inquire if the coal oil was all there. Much to their relief, capable Helmi had held the container through it all, never spilling a drop.

Mr. and Mrs. Saha loved social life. They danced the old time dances like they were floating on a cloud. Onlookers gave them great applause after a dance. Neighbors were always made welcome with a friendly visit or a game of cards.



In 1933, they sold their farm to their son-in-law and daughter Hilja and purchased land two miles east of Sylvan Lake. They farmed there for nine years, then selling their land, retaining four acres on which they built a cottage and retired.

Mrs. Saha's sight was failing through the later years. She became totally blind the last few years but was able to do most of her house work and bake bread. Mrs. Saha passed away October, 1947 at the age of 71 years. Mr. Saha passed away November 1956 at the age of 82 years. They are buried in the Kansanen cemetery.

Helmi married Eli Nikkola March 12, 1923. They farmed the NW 5-39-2W5 north of Benalto. They have one daughter born April 11, 1924, and she is married to Bob Casman, New Westminster, B.C.

Hilja married Wilho Euren in 1938. She passed away suddenly at the age of 30 years leaving to mourn her loss a husband and five small children. The grandparents raised the two older boys, Albert and Harold, and Mr and Mrs Nikkola raised the two younger children, Irene and Leonard. Elvo remained with his father.

Eli Nikkola passed away in March, 1945, and is buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery. In 1955 Helmi married Bill Erikkila, they farmed for a number of years before retiring.

GEORGE SALONEN AND FAMILY

George (Yrjo) Salonen was born in Montreal on December 26, 1894. According to the Finnish Canadian Archives in Sudbury, Ontario, he was the first Finnish person born in Montreal and also thought to be the first Finn born in Canada.

His parents immigrated to Montreal from Merikarvia, Finland in 1888. They moved on to Belt, Montana in 1896 and then on to Red Deer, Alberta in 1900. Later they settled in the Kuusamo District. When George was old enough, he started farming one and one-half miles east of Benalto.

In August of 1922, he married Selma Tommola, who also came from Finland the same year. They were married in Red Deer. In 1923, their first daughter Hilja, was born. Slowly they built a log barn for their many horses and few cows. Selma started raising turkeys each spring, and did so for many years. In 1925, they built their first sauna, out of logs also.

In the fall of 1925, their second daughter Toini, was born, and in 1926 Ella was born but passed away in 1932.

Mr Salonen had 160 acres of his own, on part of which the land had to be broken. In 1928 he acquired another 160 acres as a homestead. He would get a clear title to this land, after 40 years of farming, with a crop share going to the [illegible].

In 1929, their fourth daughter, Ethel, was born. To clothe the four girls Selma was kept busy sewing and making over new clothes. She carried the babies along with her to the fields as she stooked the bundles of grain.

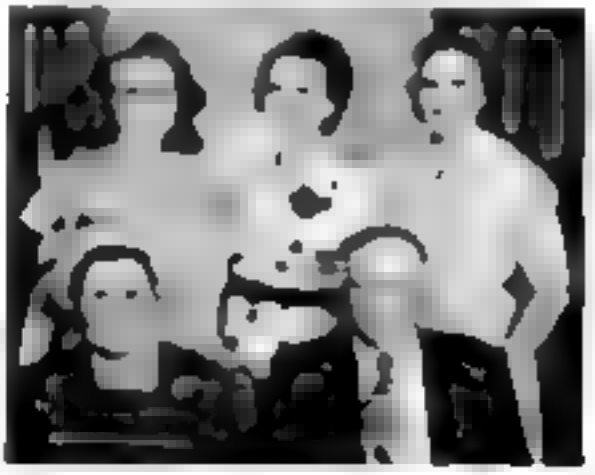
At one time they had as many as 23 horses which they used to do the work in the fields. In 1939, Mr Salonen bought a new Case tractor as only four of the horses were kept after that.

The girls travelled three miles to the Melba School. In summer by horse and two-wheeled cart and in the winter by horse and cutter with a bag of hot oats under their feet, which Mrs Salonen had heated up to keep them warm on their way to school. Toini still remembers when they took a 12-dozen crate of eggs on their way to school in the morning in the two-wheeled cart. These eggs were sold to the store in Benalto for $1.08. Out of this money Toini bought herself a pair of running shoes for 98 cents.

As the girls got older they helped with the feeding of a hundred pigs, discing the fields with the tractor, sitting on the binder during harvest time and making hay.

In 1938 the Benalto School was built, so it was now only a mile and a half to school.

The Salonen girls were married, Hilja in 1944, now living in Edmonton, Toini in 1945, now residing in Beausejour, Manitoba, and Ethel in 1950, and now living in Calgary.



Mr and Mrs Salonen continued to farm until 1967 when the farm was sold to Mr Ed Much in 1968. Mrs. Salonen passed away on August 6, 1968 after a lengthy illness. Mr Salonen moved to live with his daughter Hilja until his passing in August of 1971.

SAMPO THRESHING MACHINE — written by Ivor Malstein (Published exactly as written by the contributor at his request.)

This is the story of a co-operative threshing company that was in operation in the combined districts of Kuusamo, Benalto and on the border of Eckville from the year 1917 to 1924. There were 11 members whom I shall name here regardless of their possible mention elsewhere.

Starting at the most northerly point they were Emil Matison, Matt Kujala, Henry Lund, August Halstein, Sylvester Saha, Gust Kalaputas, John Koski, Jack Ropsfelt, Matt "Little Harju" Mad and Bill Wuori, Frank and Eli Nikkola.

This co-operative threshing outfit operated smoothly with no disputes, the man who got threshed first one year would be last next year. Those were the rules and no one disputed them.

In those days it was a steam outfit consisting of a Port Huron engine and a Gaar Scot separator and the farmers named it "Sampo" and the only Finn interpretation I can find is Giant.

When that outfit arrived it took stout-hearted cooks to meet them as a normal crew consisted of 20 men give or take a couple, but these pioneer women rose to the occasion.

They brought their own bunkhouse where evening games of whist sometimes brought consternation to those who got skunked

The engineers blew a get-up whistle at six in the morning, at noon, and at quitting time. If the water monkey was on the point of being late he was told to hurry with three long blasts of the whistle. Water is a must around a steamer. The grain haulers were given short blasts if they needed to be hurried up. The whistles on the various engines were a slightly different tone from each other and every one knew their own whistles. The engineers would say "Hello" to each other with their whistles from a distance of several miles on a still morning.

The engineers employed were Fred Isaacson of Eckville, Gust Maki of Benalto, Henry Wright of Rocky and Bill Staudinger of Sylvan Lake. John Koski, an Eckville blacksmith was separator man as was Felix Halstein of Sylvan Lake.

Eli Nikkola was secretary-treasurer to start. Later when Emil Marison returned from overseas in 1918 he held the position until dissolu-

Every year more land was cleared so by 1923 it took forty days to thresh the members so it dis-had to give way to smaller gas outfits. Finally the separator was wrecked and steam engine 506 once resplendent with brass trim and gleaming injectors went to work heating a Red Deer garage.

Old timers of Eckville I salute you!

SCHMIDEK'S HARDWARE STORE

Two brothers-in-law, Cary McKenna and Jack McKenzie, had built and operated a hardware store in Benalto in 1922. They sold it to the Atlas Lumber Company in 1926 and the partnership was dissolved. Subsequently, McKenna built another store for heavy hardware and implements down the street next to the hotel. He operated it himself for a short time but, upon becoming a grain buyer for the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, sold it to Herman Schmidek in March, 1928. This business became known as Schmidek's Hardware Store.

Mr. Schmidek will be remembered for his adeptness with the steel hook which replaced a hand he had lost while dynamiting rocks at Medicine Hat. Upon taking over the business he expanded it by adding other sundry items, such as groceries and dry goods, to the stock. In 1933 Mr. Longair was hired to work in the store and continued doing so for about a year after Swan Anderson bought the business in 1937. Subsequently Uno Krimila, Herbert Swift and Mrs. Armitage leased the premises for short periods of time, after which it was used as living accommodations by several residents.

From 1947 to 1962 Simpson Electric was located in the building. It is now used solely as a residence.

SIMPSON E. M. FAMILY — by Annie Simpson

My entry into the world was in one of those Marchs' when it came in "like a lion". My grandfather Peter Niskanen, rode his pony through waist-high drifts to Ropsfelts to ask them to fetch the midwife, Mrs. Johnson. Fortunately she arrived in time to deliver me, Annie Mae Christina, the first child of Swan Anderson and Elma Niskanen Anderson.

I was a colicky baby, and Mother and Dad spent many sleepless hours rocking me in an attempt to stop me from crying. Finally a neighbor said to Mother, "You're starving the child. Put her on the bottle." This my mother did, and the results were gratifying.

The next year my sister Mildred was born and several years later my brother Arnold was born. We had a happy childhood on the farm, helping with chores, pulling weeds, herding the cows home from the pasture to be milked and even giving a hand with the milking. Picnics at Sylvan Lake were regular occurrences, where the children played in the shallow water while the men set about catching the fish for the fish mumigan" which was a part of every picnic. The fact that a few flies would invariably sample our "dish" did not deter us from enjoying it.

An attack of appendicitis gained for me my first trip to Red Deer, when I was 11 years old. I had been sick at home for several days, and Dr. Nix operated on me as soon as possible after I reached the hospital. He felt that any further delay would have resulted in a ruptured appendix, with likely fatal results.

After completing Grade 8 at Melita school I attended Kuusamo for two years, where Mr. Glen Paul was my teacher, then took Grades 11 and 12 in Red Deer High School. This was followed by a year of business college in Red Deer as I was still too young to attend Normal School.

The next fall I went to Edmonton to enroll in the Edmonton Normal School, but through a mix-up, I should have gone to Calgary. However as we visited the Legislative Buildings and witnessed the swearing-in of the late Premier Aberhart who had just won his first election by an overwhelming majority.

The next day found us travelling down that winding dusty road to Calgary. That year must have been one of several dry ones. Seeing the parched grass and treeless "wasteland", I thought I knew now what was meant by the prairies.

The polio epidemic was especially widespread that year, and no sooner had classes started than we were sent home for a few weeks as a safety precaution. We were given assignments to be completed at home, and I "burned the midnight oil" but the thought of slacking up on any of them never entered my mind. My parents had worked hard and sacrificed much to provide me with an education, and I just couldn't let them down.

As a beginning teacher, I found the first few months of teaching at Melita school especially difficult, and without the help of an experienced teacher, Mrs. Ena Kinna, to whom I appealed for guidance, I think those first few months would have finished my teaching career. Little did I anticipate then, the number of years that I would spend in the classroom! After two years spent at Melita I taught the next three years at Carriti school. My salary for each of these years was $840 a year.

It was while I was teaching at Melita school that I met Max Simpson. He was one of a family of six - five boys and one girl. His parents had come west from Peterborough, Ontario. His dad was a station agent and wireless operator at Airdrie, Canmore, Field, Penhold and Sylvan Lake. The youngest child, Max, was born while they lived at Penhold. He attended school at Penhold and Sylvan Lake. While he lived at Sylvan Lake he came to my first Christmas concert, and four and a half years later we were married.

Max was an avid curler. He was one of a four some of teenagers from Sylvan Lake who excelled in the sport and who won many prizes at local bonspiels. After we were married, he made curling history in the Benalto area by scoring an eight-ender against a friend, Don Wilkes. Don felt really let-down as he himself, had accidentally shoved the last rock in to give Max and his rink — my dad, Vester Niemi and Carl Seistrom — the final count.

After our marriage we lived at Sylvan Lake for a year before moving to Edmonton, where Max took training and worked as a sheet-metal mechanic at Aircraft Repair Ltd. It was while we were there that our first son, John Robert, was born.

When Max joined the Navy and was sent to the east coast, I came back to the farm to live with my parents until the end of the war. When Max came home again he took an electrical course in Calgary, then we moved to Benalto where he became very busy wiring homes, as the countryside was being equipped with power. By now our second son, William David, had been added to our family, and a few years later a third son, Kenneth Maxwell, was born.

It was when Ken was three years old that Earle Farris, the principal of the Benalto school, asked me to teach in a new room which had been opened to accommodate the pupils being bused in from the surrounding area. With two weeks before the opening of school, I was fortunate to be able to secure Jessie Ignatius, who lived across the street from us, to care for Ken. She did this until Ken started to school, and no one could ask for a more devoted companion for a child. She took him for walks, taught him the nursery rhymes, read to him, and defended him against his older brothers, even though he was often in the wrong!

Those were good years. The boys had their grandparents a mile away to visit, do odd jobs for to earn spending money, and also to gain a sympathetic ear when they felt that their parents were being too strict. Cub and Scout leaders, such as Don Wilkes, Ralph Lougheed, Jack Purdy and others, kept the boys busy with various outdoor activities and we parents worked behind the scenes to the best of our ability. Our son Jack earned numerous badges, and became a Queen's Scout. He was presented with his award in Edmonton by the Lieutenant-Governor.

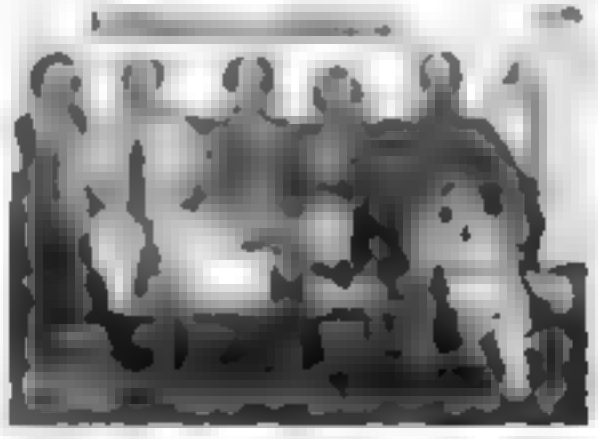
Sunday School, fishing expeditions, curling, camping trips, and school occupied our time. The regular "sauna" at Grandma's and Grandad's took care of what we would do on Saturday nights until the boys were well into their teens, so discipline was not the problem it is today.

During these years I continued teaching, as well as updating my education by evening credit courses in Red Deer and summer sessions in Edmonton and Calgary. I obtained my B.Ed. in 1966 and my Diploma in Curriculum and Instruction in 1972.

After my brother Arnold's death in 1967, it became increasingly difficult for my dad to farm alone, so Max quit his electrical work, rented some of Dad's and, and began farming — an occupation he carried on until 1974.

Our three sons are all married. Jack, who is Department Head of Science at M. E. Lazerte High School in Edmonton, married Jill Bennett of Edmonton, and has a son and a daughter. Bill, who is Head Draftsman for the Alberta Energy Company in Calgary, married Marjorie Peers of Acadia Valley, and has two daughters. Ken, who, after earning a degree in Geology and working for a short time in the Arctic, turned to teaching and now teaches science in the Junior High School in Okotoks. He is married to Peggy Grainger of Edmonton, has one son. Teaching seems to be a popular profession in our family, for of our three sons and their wives, four are teachers.

Max and I have continued living in Benalto.



The Simpson family reunion, 1979. Front: Annie, Max and Andrea, daughter of Bill.

We have been here over 30 years, so we are fas. approaching the time when we will become the old-timers" in the area. Like so many "old timers though, we find that time does not hang heavy on our hands. Max has served as secretary of the Elks Lodge for over 15 years and I am kept busy with my teaching activities

THE HERMAN STETTNER'S — by Marj Stettner

Herman is the third son of Carl Stettner and am the second daughter of Jack McDougall both of Carmangay a small town in southern Alberta Both our families farmed in adjoining districts east of Carmangay where we grew up and spent our early life

Herman and I were married in January 1940 in Lethbridge. For the next four or five years Herman worked in the coal mines in the winter and on the farm in the summer He worked in the mines in Shaughnessy and in Coleman

In July, 1946, he started as helper with the Alberta Wheat Pool in Carmangay In April of 1947 he was given the elevator in Namaka where we lived on 1 August, 1953, when he was transferred to Benalto

The elevator here was a more modern one than the one in Namaka, but it was still powered by a big gas engine. However when they built the new annex in 1954 they put in the electric powered motors which was a big improvement We thought they were being really good to us as in the summer of 1958 they built us a new house

Benalto being small but active It was not time until we were involved in every organization here. Around this time Herman's dad was a familiar figure here at Stampede and Bonspiel time He never missed any of these events for many years. One of his best friends was Swan Anderson. He doesn't come up anymore He is 92 years old and lives in the Golden Acres Lodge in Lethbridge. When we go down he never fails to ask about his friends up here

Herman and I both used to curl a lot but the last years the Elks, Royal Purple, Agricultural Society and Church activities have kept us busy I have sewed for the last seven or eight years, and have met many wonderful people. I feel really honored when I think back to the number of young girls who asked me to make their graduation dress and then later their wedding dress I was always so proud of them, and they helped me keep in touch with the younger generation since our own two girls were grown up

Donna our oldest daughter, took a Radiological Technician course and went to Yellowknife to work She married Fred Dornan, who is now vice president of Wardair Northern Operations. They live in Edmonton and have two children — a boy and a girl

Betty took a secretarial course and also went to Yellowknife to work She married Jerry Carter, an Aircraft Engineer with Mobile Oil They live in Sherwood Park

An elevator agent's days are usually quite routine. but one day a loaded box car had no brakes and it got away on Herman He rode it halfway to Eckville before it stopped. Four or five men with poles tried to stop it at Ray Walker's, but couldn't

Another time to remember was in 1971 After 25 years of service Herman was presented with a gold watch at a party at the Palliser Hotel in Calgary by the Alberta Wheat Pool. Al Kuntz was honoured at the same time

As I think back, recalling things that happened years ago, I can't believe that it has been 24 years since we came to Benalto

STEWART THE PETER FAMILY — by Norma Stewart

I was born as Norma Norton so my history prior to my marriage to Peter Stewart in 1932 is covered in the Norton history

Peter Stewart was born in Scotland in 1906 and came to Canada with his parents in 1912 After living for a short time in Prince Rupert B.C they lived on a farm in the Burnt Lake district In 1922 they settled in Evarts where they operated the store and post office for many years. We have remained closely associated with the Evarts people through the years

Peter was very fond of animals, particularly horses, and started farming at an early age He continued his farming even after moving to Benalto in 1944 where he operated the U.G.G elevator for 27 years until his retirement in 1971 He prized the warm and lasting friendships that he made with his customers while working in the elevator

After living in the elevator house for 20 years we moved it to the farm We built our present home in Benalto During our years in Benalto we were active in various organizations, including the Presbyterian Church (Peter served on the board of managers the Agricultural Society (as directors and the Curling Club. We helped with the car bingos which were held in the early 1950's to help finance the building of the Agricultural Barn and the Curling Club. After our barn was built in 1949, two dances were held in the loft to assist the Baseball Club financially, and all of the parking space in Evarts was filled on both occasions. Peter was also associated with the Booster Club, especially in the earlier years, and the Boy Scouts' Parents group. Together we enjoyed many evenings of square dancing after the Club was formed in Benalto

I am a charter member of the Royal Purple, a member of the Ladies' Aid and I helped with the 4-H Sewing Club, the Brownies, and the Home and School Association. I enjoyed a group called the 'Knitters", as all the members had small children at the time, and it was often our only night out during the week Through the years usually accompanied by my sister Laura, and her husband Bill Holsworth and their family, we enjoyed numerous picnics and berry-picking trips all through the West Country Berries were more plentiful in the 1920's and early 1930's sometimes covering the ground in a solid mat

In 1950, while we were away doing some Christmas shopping in Red Deer, a fire started in our basement Luckily the town people were able to get the fire out, even though the floor boards were partially burned through

About the time we were married, I believe the prices were at an all-time low. I remember oats selling for 6¢ a bushel, butter for 15¢ a pound, and milk cows for $15 each. We bought a side of pork for $2.00. We received $30 a month for carrying the mail to and from Evarts, a job Mr Simon and Peter's father had held for many years previously I resumed teaching in 1961, working as a teacher-librarian in Bentley David Thompson and Eckville, but retired in 1971 when Peter retired from the elevator

Our first child [illegible] we were living in [illegible] Evarts Benalto and Red Deer then went on to the University of Alberta where she obtained her B.Sc. in Pharmacy. She is married to Wes Johnston and they have operated a drug store in Edmonton for many years They have two sons Ralph is married to Joanne Olstad, and is a member of the Edmonton City Police Force Stewart, the younger son, is still at home

Mary, our second daughter also born at Evarts, graduated from business college in Red Deer and is employed in the accounting office of the Summit Hotel in Calgary She was married to Ray Horn of Edmonton, and has one daughter Leslie, who is attending high school

Isabel, our third daughter lives at Prince George, B.C and is now employed by Simpsons Sears. She has training in business education and comptometer work She was married to Murray Salsauler They had a son, Rodney, who passed away at an early age

Graham, Isabel's twin brother, graduated with a B.Sc. and a degree in Education from the University of Alberta He is teaching Art in a high school in Edmonton. His wife, the former Rynie Versendaal, is also a teacher but since the birth of their daughter, Laura, has remained at home

While growing up our children all studied music, took part in the Young Peoples Society the 4-H Clubs, and Graham was a Cub and a Boy [illegible]

TALSON, MATT

Matt Talson was born in Wyoming, U S A in 1891 and he passed away in 1930 His wife was the former Selma Kopsala. She was born in 1892, and also died in 1930

Matt first came to Alberta with his parents in 1902 When he grew old enough he went back to Wyoming to work in the mines. Later he and a friend, Elmer Hyvonen, both 17 years of age drove a covered wagon from Wyoming to Alberta. When their horses became worn out from the many days on the road, they traded with the Indians for a team of wild horses. With this team they were able to continue on to the Eckville area where his parents were living

Matt filed on a homestead about six miles to the north of his parents place. Later he sold this homestead and bought a quarter section on the [illegible]

Of their six children Bill and Oscar are now deceased Frank, John, Elmer and Ethel are all living in British Columbia. There are 18 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren

The Matt Talson children were raised by their uncle Mr Henry Talson, and his wife after the death of their parents in 1930

Oscar was born in 1917 and died in 1958

John was born in 1920. He, also, was married in 1946 — to Mary Lardner They have seven children. Arlene (Mrs. A. Gaudet) Janis (Mrs E. Floileau), Eric Leonard, Arnold, Mike and Daryl. John has seven grandchildren. He is now retired and is living in Coquitlam, B.C

Elmer was born in 1925. His marriage to Lenora Fielding in 1946 made the third marriage in the family in that year They have three children, Victor, Donna (Mrs R. Flemming) and Deborah. There are four grandchildren Elmer now owns and operates a trailer court in Comox on Vancouver Island

Ethel was born in 1928 She married Mel Day in 1947 They have two children, Cameron and Brenda (Mrs W Hanson) and four grandchildren. They live on Douglas Island B.C., where they work for the forest industry

[illegible], B.A.M.

Isaac Wuoblo was born in Tornio, Turtous O.L. Finland, in 1866. At the age of 18, Isaac left his native land for Hancock, Michigan, where he worked in the mines. After a few years at Hancock, he travelled west to Butte and worked in the mines.

At Butte, Isaac Wuoblo and Olga Karkinen met and were married November 24, 1891 making their home at Red Lodge, Montana. Olga Maria Karkinen was born in 1870, at Karstula Vastinkin Kyla, W L. Finland. Olga left the land of her birth also at the age of 18 to go to Ironwood, Michigan, where she worked in a steam laundry After a short period of time, she moved to Butte, Montana

In the year 1895, while they were residing in Red Lodge, Montana their only child, a daughter Emma Pauline was born

When Emma was small, the Wuoblo family moved back to Butte, where Isaac was again employed in the mines, but underground work caused a crippling rheumatism and he was advised to find something else to do

In 1899, Mr Wuoblo bought the homestead rights of W Koski on a quarter section of land at Rolla, North Dakota, and moved his family there. Occasionally, he had to go back to the mines to earn enough money to run the farm

In the early spring of 1902, Isaac read in a Finnish newspaper that homesteads were plentiful near Red Deer in the North West Territories Canada

It was April when the farm was sold and a neighbor, Mr Toivanen, took them to Cartwright, North Dakota, with a team and wagon. By train they went from there to Winnipeg then to Red Deer

The first of June that year Mr Wuoblo squatted on a homestead with the Medicine River running through it. The town of Echville stands on the west side of that land

The season was rainy and mud was everywhere. Isaac was not satisfied. He could see no future in the country so he abandoned the land he had squatted on, took his family to Red Deer and bought tickets to Winnipeg. Hearing of good land to be had around York on Saskatchewan he took his family there

With three other men, they hired a livery team with a driver and went in search of land, but found that Saskatchewan had an abundance of rain, too. After fording two swollen rivers, the third one seemed too much for the livery team He asked the men for a $500 bond if his horses were to cross that one That was as far as they went They turned back

Mr Wuoblo was not satisfied with the land there It was prairie and much like what he had left in North Dakota. There was no bush, and the water had to be hauled for two miles

Going back to Yorkton, where Mrs. Wuoblo and Emma were staying in a hotel, he took them back to Winnipeg After staying there two weeks they decided to go back to Finland

Upon going to the station in Winnipeg, they met personal friends, en route for Alaska who advised them that they would not like Finland So, once more they returned to the west

When they arrived back in Calgary, heavy rains had washed out the C.P.R. tracks between here and Red Deer When the tracks were repaired, they resumed their journey to Red Deer where they bought a team of horses from Mr Peterson the father of Mrs. Reg. Whyte and a new wagon

They started back to the land they had abandoned, but found that in their absence it had been taken up by Mr Kaupp

Their new wagon loaded with trunks and other articles needed at the homestead the Wuoblos found travel very slow, and progressed only 12 miles the first day, due to muddy roads

The next day they got as far as the Salmonson home, now owned by the Andersons

Mr Wuobio finally succeeded in locating available land on the SE 12-39-3W5, two miles north of Benalto

Staying at the Salmonson home while getting settled, they made the acquaintance of three men — Mr Gust Hill, Mr Henry Lund and Mr Matt Harju who helped them build the homestead cabin. Red Deer 25 miles away, was the closest town where building material could be obtained. There they bought their first [illegible] cows and a heifer

While struggling through the construction of their homestead home, shelter for nights was made by turning the wagon box upside down [illegible] by

In July, they moved into the new cabin which had no floor, no door and no windows, and little Emma often cried because of mosquito bites. The mosquitoes were thick and vicious in those days

Later that summer, the Wuobios bought a haying outfit from Red Deer as well as a four week old pig from a settler in the Burnt Lake District. On their return, while the team of horses were feeding, they found the pig had made a hole in the bottom of the jute sack and disappeared into the woods. The chase proved unsuccessful. Later they learned that the pig had wandered to a settler's place, been taken home, raised and slaughtered making for a delicious Christmas dinner for the finders

The first winter the homesteaders cut logs and had them sawed at a new mill located two miles north of home on SW 13-39-2-W5

By now, other new settlers were coming in, and Mr Wuobio helped to locate them on homesteads and many times acted as interpreter at the land office

New people arriving always found room to sleep in the 16 x 16' Wuobio cabin. Hay was often spread on the floor for beds. The family made their home in this homestead cabin from 1902 to 1912

The following summer Mr Wuobio and Mr A Huhtala cut hay on the school land near by. Mr Huhtala had a horse and an ox, and Mr Wuobio had a team to pull the mower. Mrs. Wuobio raked the hay with a single horse rake. Mrs Huhtala helped stack it.

The children played by the wagons while the men and women made long stacks of hay for winter use and to sell to other homesteaders

A walking plough was bought during the first [illegible] Clearing the land was a slow, back breaking business, for it was done by hand, there were no bulldozers or tractors then. Men's muscles and horsepower provided the energy for the job. Many tiring hours of labor were needed to clear a small field. The first grain crops were usually oats and barley. When the crop was ripe it was cut with a mower, tied by hand into sheaves, and threshed by hand with a home made flail.

A neighbor, Mrs. Olson, and her daughter walked three miles, helped thresh the grain, then carried some of it home for their chickens

By 1906, a horse-powered threshing outfit owned by Mr Kingsep of Eckville, threshed for the homesteaders. Later came steam-powered threshing machines, owned by the Langer brothers, A Kinnunen and I Hyvonen

By 1912, they had prospered to the extent that they could afford to build the comfortable frame house which the family lived in until re[illegible]

In 1916, Emma was married to Mr Eino Niemela, a young Finnish immigrant who had assisted the Wuobios with the spring and fall work several times. The wedding performed by the Rev. Andrew Harju took place in the Young Peoples' Ha[illegible]

Further progress resulted from the years of conscientious work, and by 1919, Isaac Wuobio, together with his son-in-law were able to purchase more land, SW 7-39-2-W5 from Mr Buttner. These lands have been the centre of the family's farming operation ever since

Mrs Wuobio passed away Oct. 30, 1918, a victim of the influenza epidemic, and Mr Wuobio in 1922 at the age of 56 years. Both are buried in the Kuusamo Cemetery.

WUORI, MATT

Matt and Bill Wuori came to the community from Massachusetts in 1914 after a few years of mining in the United States. While they established the homestead, Matt's wife, Alexandra, and two daughters, Hulja and Jean, returned to Wassa. Aly (as she was called) opened up a dry goods shop while she waited for Matt to get the homestead established. Then in 1915 she [illegible] migrated to Canada. As this was during World War I they were accosted by a German ship. The captain of the passenger vessel quickly had all the women and children appear on the deck to show the Germans that they were not on a warship and at the very last moment the German ship turned around and left

After the initial shock of arriving in the middle of "nowhere" Mother soon adapted to the new way of life. She was very fond of animals and gave names to all the cows. One thing that bothered her were the hawks that attacked her chickens. Matt had told her to shoot at them but did not show her how to use a gun. However one day Mother picked up the 22 rifle, went outside, aimed into the sky (supposedly at the hawks), closed her eyes and pulled the trigger. Needless to say she never hit the hawk.

Six more children were born to the Wuori family. After Hilja and Jean came the first set of twins, Hans and Margaret. Then came Roland, Alma and last but not least another set of twins, Thelma and Violet. This kept Dad busy building sleighs and skis, as well as kicking sleighs. All the children attended Melita and Kunsarna [illegible]

Dr. Backus, who was the area doctor, called first to see Mother as he would have her accompany him on his visits to the sick. She also went on her own to help sick children and elderly people. Her medical knowledge was passed on to her by her mother who was a doctor in Wassa, Finland. Mother was a victim of the 1918-1919 flu. Their son, Roland, was born at that time and she barely recovered from the ordeal. She lost all her hair which was auburn in color and curly but when it eventually grew back it was grey.

Social activities took place in the Elspeth Community Hall where Mother contributed to some of the musical programs by singing operatic numbers. When dances were held the whole family attended. The younger members were usually put to sleep on the back stage while the parents and children kicked up their heels in polkas, the schottische and Scandinavian waltzes.

Picnics were held during the summer on the shores of Sylvan Lake with several families participating. Men folks did the fishing while the women prepared fish mulligan and other goodies. The youngsters enjoyed playing in the water and the boys usually climbed trees looking for crows' eggs.

The area had its share of hail and dust storms. One hail storm in particular had every member of the family holding feather pillows against the windows to keep them from breaking. Margaret and Alma got lost in a blizzard walking home from Benalto. Mother, Dad and neighbors set out with lanterns to look for them. Finally Dad came through the open field in two feet of snow and found Margaret carrying Alma piggy-back. Both suffered frostbite on their knees.

Five of Matt and Alexandra Wuori's family served in the Armed Services in World War II. Hans served in the Navy, Roland in the Army, Alma in the Air Force, and the twins Violet and Thelma in the Army. Also two grandchildren, George and Ronnie Staudinger, served in the Air Force and Navy respectively.

All the children married and had families of their own.

Matt Wuori passed away in 1956, his wife in 1959, their son, Roland, in 1957 and their daughter, Hilja, in 1960. The remaining members of the family are located as follows: Jean Rich and Margaret Downs in Calgary, Alberta, Hans in Rossland, British Columbia, Alma Strachan in Victoria, British Columbia, Thelma Fertich in Montrose, British Columbia and Violet Lund in Vancouver, British Columbia.

WYLIE, WILLIAM LEMUEL — by Gwin and Iva Wylie

William Lemuel Wylie was born in Williamsburg, Ontario in 1865, leaving for Post Falls, Idaho, in his early teens where he married Nettie Mae Hite. They lived for eight years at Hauser Lake, in the Spokane Area, where the first of their family was born.

In 1901 he came to Central Alberta and filed on a homestead in the Burnt Lake area, returning to Idaho for his family. They travelled by train to Red Deer, N.W.T., sending their belongings, plus four head of cattle, two head of horses and two wagons in a box car. Upon arriving in Red Deer, they lived in "Government House", in the present Windsor Hotel, a residence for early settlers. They lived there the summer of 1902 and later that fall moved by wagon to their homestead.

William Lemuel was noted for his athletic abilities. During their stay at Government House he proved his athletic ability by winning foot races, kicking contests (to see who could kick their leg the highest). He was about six feet two inches tall, and could kick four inches forwards and backwards above his head. He was an ardent hunter and marksman, winning a 12 gauge Winchester shot gun in a contest in the States.

On a trip west to look over the country, Mr. Wylie saw some land he liked better and so gave up the first homestead and filed on NE 26-38-3-W5 where he farmed till passing away on March, 1942. Before taking the NE ¼ of 26, Lemuel came out to inspect it and noticed that there were hay stacks under water, belonging to Slack & Younge. Despite this, it meant that hay was readily available for his stock so the homestead was taken.

Until the subdivision of the School Districts about 1905, this land was considered to be in the Evarts District, since Evarts was the closest post office and shopping area.

At the time of settling on his homestead none of the land was under cultivation, but there was about 25 acres of natural hay flats. The rest of

The first house built on the homestead was constructed from logs cleared off the farm. The roof was built from rough lumber purchased from Dan Clausen's sawmill which, at that time was located on the present farm of Chris Anderson. The roof itself consisted of two layers of lumber with tar paper between. There was no chimney and roof fires were frequent. The house itself contained a combined sitting-room and kitchen and a bedroom on the main floor, and two bedrooms on the second floor. The house was constructed by Will Wall, a Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma, in 1902.

Some of the earliest neighbors in the area were Slack and Young, who had a cattle ranch where Norman Wells now lives, and the Wall family who lived on some of Carl Jensen's present land.

During his early years Mr. Wylie saw log drives coming down the Medicine River, originating in the Leedale area and going to the sawmill in Red Deer. He remembered a water powered flour mill breaking loose and floating down the river until caught in the corral of the Smith Brothers Ranch, south of Evarts. As the water rose it took the side out of the corral, and the mill continued on as far as Red Deer. The mill belonged to Kinna Brothers, who lived on the riverbank on the land now owned by Les Kind.

In or around 1908 a dust storm unexpectedly blew up and some of the Wylie children were caught out in it. They sought refuge in a hog house but the wind was so strong that it lifted the roof off and scattered it in pieces over the field.

Mr. Wylie was believed to have had the first riding plow known as the "Flying Dutchman" which he brought with him from the States. Jack Worwick had the first Chev touring car in or around 1915 or 1916. Mr. Warren, an elevator agent at Benalto had the first radio. Mr. Warren invited Mr. Wylie and his brother over to listen to the radio one evening, but they had to return several times because the reception was so poor. They stated that they wouldn't believe it until they heard it. This happened around 1924. The first horse-drawn threshing machine was owned by Robert Wilson. This machine was powered by eleven horses. The crew consisted of five men. There was one man pitching bundles from the stack, one man feeding the machine, two men taking the straw away and piling it and one driver. The capacity of this machine was about three hundred bushels a day. Pederson from the Burnt Lake district, is believed to have had the first steam threshing machine, about 1906 or 1907. The crew consisted of seven men. There was one separator man, one water hauler, one steam engineer and four pitchers, pitching from the stack. A lot of time was spent lining up the machine when moving it from stack to stack. The machine was pulled from farm to farm by two teams of oxen. The first gramophone was owned by the Smith Brothers. They held a social in the Evarts School in the early 1900's so everyone could hear it, and the social was well attended. The first train from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House was in 1914. Two days were required to make the round trip.

For entertainment the people would visit back and forth for card games. There were a number of socials of one kind or another to raise funds for Christmas parties for the youngsters of the community. Later on, the people had rodeos at their farms — usually on a Sunday — to test or prove their riding ability. Arthur Kinna was noted for his musical talent and supplied the music for all the social gatherings. He was entered in many violin contests across Canada. There was an annual picnic at Evarts, which included horse racing, sports, and novelty events. This was a real treat to look forward to each

On Christmas Eve, 1883, William Wylie was married to Nettie Mae Hite. She was born in 1868 in Des Moines, Iowa, U.S.A. As a young child she moved with her parents to Post Falls, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. Wylie had five children born in the United States before coming to Canada. Nettie Mae died on February 8, 1936. In all, Mr. and Mrs. Wylie had eleven children, two of whom, James and Elsie, are now deceased.

Mary Ellen married Monroe Peter Carlyle and had the following children: James, Jenny May, Harry and Steven. Pete Carlyle passed away in 1970, but Ella still lives on the farm in the Happy Hill district.

Margaret Viola married Max Lightbown and had the following children: Edward, Lillian, Elsie (now deceased), Robert, Bud, Darlene

David Viola and Max retired and resided in Sylvan Lake, Alberta, but after Max passed away in 1971 Margaret Viola moved to Abbotsford, B.C. where she is now living.

Robert Lemuel married Beulah Olmstead and had the following children: Sheila, Patrick, Florence, John and Carolyn. Robert and Beulah are retired and reside at Toulmine, California U.S.A.

William Orrin married Iva Christie and they had the following children: Harvey, Patricia, Robert deceased, Carolyn, Elaine and Arlene. Orrin and Iva reside on the William Lemuel homestead near Benalto, Alberta.

John Wesley married Mae Hunter and had the following children: Kenneth, Lucy Mae and Margaret. John and Mae reside at Iroquois, Ontario where John is retired.

Nancy Irene married Theodore Bardwell and their children are: Kenneth, Joyce and Alice. They resided at Benalto where Theodore was employed at a lumber yard until his death. Irene then married Rudy Rasmussen and had the following additional children: Ronald, Daniel, Shirley and Loyal. Irene and Rudy are retired and now reside at Abbotsford, B.C.

Hilda Lenora married Henry Monteith. Their children are: Florence, Marian, Donald, Diana, Robert, Orrin, Neil, Norma, Betty and Sharon. Hilda and Henry reside on their farm at High Prairie, Alberta.

Ida May married Stewart Meeres and had the following children: Murray and Lyle. Ida and Stewart live in Red Deer where Stewart is employed in real estate.

Ernest Oliver married Violet Cairns and had the following children: Lionel, David, Sandra and Pauline. They reside on their farm at

WYLIE, WILLIAM ORRIN — by Orrin and Iva

William Orrin, born March 19, 1900 in Post Falls, Idaho, came to Canada with his parents in 1902 to live on his father's homestead west of Benalto. In 1906 Orrin started school, walking three miles across country to Metlia School. His first teacher was the late Mrs. Oswald Forhan. On his first Christmas concert he remembers a neighbour coming to take the family with team and sleigh, driving right across fences, as the snow was so deep and hard. In the summer he remembers walking to Evarts to exchange eggs and butter for groceries and to collect their mail. It was necessary to use a boat to cross the river.

As Orrin grew older he and his sisters spent much of their winter hunting and trapping, often catching between two and three hundred muskrats and weasels. He remembers driving horses or a team of oxen to dances. He later raised a number of horses and cattle, and often on a Sunday the folks of the district would gather at the Wylie farm for a stampede, picking out the best buckers for the Benalto Stampede.

On February 2, 1940 William Orrin married Iva Christie. In 1942, after taking over the home farm following his father's death, Orrin was hailed out one hundred percent but managed to salvage green feed for the stock. In the spring of 1943 there was one of the worst floods in the country. The Wylies had to wade, in water one and a half feet deep, to the hog houses to rescue newly born pigs. On April 1, 1948, there was a bad blizzard, the temperature 30 degrees below zero, and the snow so deep and hard one could reach over the telephone lines on what is now the Number 11 highway. The highway was impassable for over a week, the only vehicles mobile being Skoodopote's "cats", removing snow. In the spring of 1948 there was another flood on the Medicine River. In 1945 Orrin changed from horse-drawn machinery to power machinery. The telephone was put in in 1946, and in 1956 electric power was installed. Iva (Catherine Christie) Wylie was born at Jenner, Alberta, where she went to school for two years. Her father was a veterinarian. Then the family left for Viking where Iva attended Ribstone Hill and Phillys, a school near Viking. Iva worked at various homes in Turner Valley, Stauffer, and Benalto before getting married.

Of the children of William Orrin and Iva, all were born in Eckville. Harvey attended school at Benalto and continued by taking a year at SAIT. He spent quite a few years driving "cats" on construction work. He married Sheila Kalaputas in 1962 and their two children are Becky and Stacy. They presently have a quarter of land three miles east of the Dovercourt Hall, where they raise Quarter and Appaloosa horses. Harvey works for the Alberta Gas Trunk Lines and Sheila works for the RCMP as a secretary.

Patricia Ella took her schooling at Benalto and afterwards worked at the Eckville Hospital and at the Eckville Co-op, as well as working at the Eckville Dairy Pool Creamery. In 1961 Patricia married Ronald Kind and they live in a trailer on the Norman Wells farm. Ron is a water well driller and works for Roy Forrester. Ron also, during his spare time, helps Norman Wells on his farm. Patricia and Ron have two girls, Cindy Patricia and Rhonda Gail.

Robert David lost his life in an accident in 1967.

Carolyn Mary Mae also took her schooling at Benalto. After leaving school she worked in the Eckville Co-op for about two years and then worked for some time at the Central Alberta Dairy Pool. Carolyn married Wayne Oberne and they are now living in Kamloops, B.C. where they manage the Trans-Canada Gulf Oil Station. They worked for some time in Eckville before leaving for British Columbia, Wayne working at the Revelstoke Lumber Yard. Carolyn and Wayne have two children — Tammy and Trevor.

Elaine Ruth received her education in Benalto and Eckville then went to work in the Imperial Bank in Eckville. Later she was transferred to various branches of the bank in Alberta and British Columbia, and also worked as receptionist and pay roll clerk at St Francis Hospital in Nelson B.C for three years. At present she is bookkeeper for Shell Oil Company in Kamloops, B.C

Arlene Joan attended school at Benalto, Sylvan Lake, and Kamloops, B C She also spent a brief time at Red Deer College After leaving school Arlene worked at various jobs but, being much younger than the rest of the family has not yet decided upon a career

AINSWORTH, KELSA WADDELL "BILL"

Born September 18, 1907, Bill Ainsworth came to the Leedale area in April, 1933. He worked some time for O. B. Moore operating a breaking plow helping to break up many acres of land in the Leedale area. Bill was also handy with tools and did a lot of mechanic work in the area for the farmers. In the spring of 1941 he purchased the SW 27-41-3-W5, a raw C.P.R. quarter.

Ernest Morlock came out the spring of 1942 and worked with Bill until August. They both returned to the Big Valley district where Bill married Ernest's sister, Ruby, in August 1942.

Bill and Ruby lived at Benjamin part of two summers, 1943 and 1944. Stewart, their eldest, was born in the Rimbey Hospital.

In August of 1944 they moved to Byemoor. They were blessed with four more sons, Max, Allen, Marvin and Merlyn (twins). They raised their family on a farm, where Bill and Ruby retired, turning the work over to Max. Bill passed away July 6, 1975, and is buried at [illegible].

Ruby resides on the farm with Max. Stewart resides in Sangudo, Allen in Fort McMurray, Marvin in Calgary and Merlyn in Edmonton.

Bill was always kind and thoughtful, helping anyone any way he could.

For the smallest baby (two pounds and a few ounces) ever born there and having lived only because his father gave him brandy after the Doctor gave up, and later said he could never stand hard work, Bill did manage to live thru' a good many years of just that!

THE BENJAMIN GET TOGETHER CLUB

The club started in February 1945 with 16 members, which in the next few months became 30 members. The first meeting was held when Isobel Guest invited us to her home to start a social club. We had a membership fee of 25 cents and 10 cents for tea. We retained these fees until 1973, when we raised them a little.

The first officers were: Mrs. von Tettenborn as president, Mrs. J. Layton vice-president, Mrs. J. Wingate secretary and Mrs. C. Land as reporter to the Rimbey Record. At the fourth meeting we assumed responsibility for the annual picnic and the Christmas entertainment. From that time on we assumed more duties to assist the community. Three entertainment groups were chosen, these would provide entertainment for the month, also wood for the fire. Some very good entertainments were put on. Mrs. F. Vipond was especially good at writing li[illegible]

The "Get-togethers" believed in getting together in spite of weather or roads. There are several stories of getting to those early meetings. Like the time Mr Bakke hitched a two wheeled wagon to an old tractor and headed for a meeting at Beryl Layton s, picking up club members and their children on the way, until they were hanging on at all angles There was the day it was muddy (and very little gravel) for a meeting at Molly Oborne s. Margaret Mogensen took her rubber tired wagon, a couple of horses and a lot of club members We got to the meeting in fine style but it must have rained during the afternoon, because on the way home we all took off our shoes and had a perfectly hilarious time helping to push the wagon up the hills. Such mud! Clydie Both used to pull her youngest up the long hill in a little wagon to get to some of the meetings and Clara and Beryl Layton remember going to a meeting at Alma von Tettenborn s with their young children in a Bennet Wagon and a team of horses and spending a couple of hours on the way home, because one of the horses just lay down in the road and refused to move Nels Mogensen came to the rescue that day with a team and pulled the balky one up The men co

by taking their wives to the meetings Quite often they would stay and visit with the man of the house for the afternoon

During the war we sent parcels to the boys of the community who were in the armed forces and at the end of the war we put on a banquet in their honor

When the schools were centralized and the children were bused to Eckvale the community decided to buy the school for a community hall The club was willing to take over the responsibility of running it, but the government wouldn't have it, they didn't think ladies clubs were noted for a very long life

For our 25th anniversary we had a pot luck dinner at the home of Mrs. H. Land with an anniversary cake decorated by Mrs. J Wingate We also celebrated with a party at the hall. We invited all the former members that we could and put on a program with skits and plays that we had used in the earlier years

In Canada s Centennial year we held a pot luck dinner and picnic We invited former pupils teachers and anyone who had lived in the community Approximately 120 people joined in the festivities and everyone reported a good time

There are only three members left of the original club Mrs. J Layton, Mrs. J. Wingate and Mrs. H. Land. Fourteen of the original members are now dead – Mrs. C Land, Mrs. F Wingate Mrs. E. B. Guest Mrs C Pierson, Mrs C Bakke Mrs. R Maddock. Mrs. F Vipond Mrs. W Scott Mrs. G. Misner Mrs R Naylor Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. S. Kraft Mrs. J C. BENJAMIN SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1605 by Mary Kilpatrick

When the first settlers came to this district it was a virgin land, trails were nonexistent. trees had to be felled by hand and cleared away to let the teams of oxen and horses pulling their heavy loads of possessions through and then only to be stopped by a swamp or muskeg In summer these trails usually followed the high land and when winter came then could the swamps be crossed when they became a vast, snowy frozen waste and. Our district has been blessed with many settlers who filed on their homesteads still remaining in the families up to five generations later There are the Lands, the Hoppers. the Taylors, the Wingates, the Layes the Porters (now Shorrocks the Laytons, the Frasers, the Boyers and Johnsmans (now the A Kilpatricks and Dave Kilpatricks) This district when it was first formed included sections 36. 25. 24 and 3 in 11-4-W5. Later on these sections were deleted and part went to Leedale and part to Gimlet districts

When these first settlers came into the district their closest railroad and town Lacombe which was 40 miles away to the east and our province was then known as the North West Territories

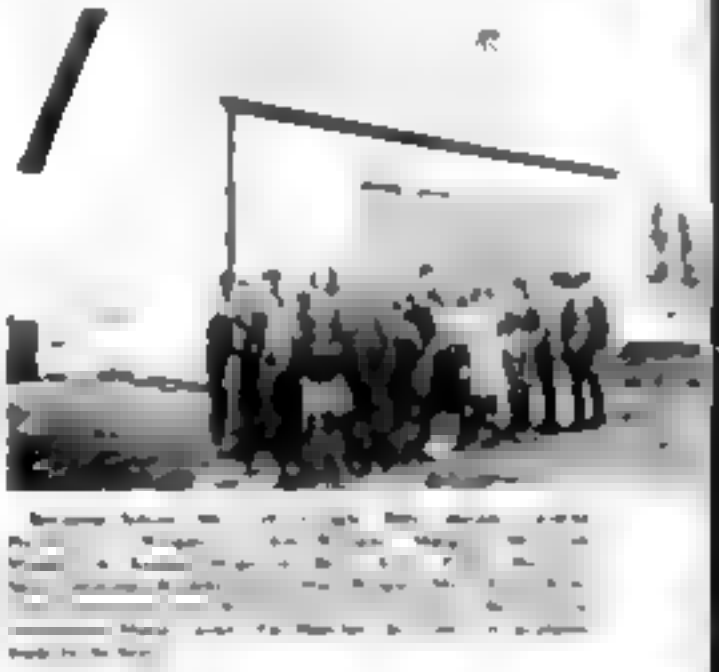
In 1906 a group of homesteaders got together to organize a school district and the first school board members were. Frank Benjamin, George Taylor and Duncan Layton. Frank Wingate donated land for the school site at the NW corner of 20-41-3-W5. Part of the building material was hauled from Lacombe by George Taylor and his team of mules The school was built in 1907 with Link Boyer and Frank Benjamin as carpenters

Hopper Laurie Layton Kneeling: Jim Wingate, Jessie Laye, Alice Land and Mary Johnsman

School opened in 1908 with Duncan Layton as the first teacher. Some of the first pupils were Ernie, Fred, Ralph, Gene and Eva Benjamin. Eva much preferred to be called Evangeline as she liked the name much better than Eva). Eth Hazel and Shelby Taylor. As Frank Benjamin had the most children going to school it was decided that the name of Benjamin be given to the district and school. In 1910 Frank Benjamin moved away leaving the school in a precarious position with not enough children to get a grant. This plagued the district for quite a number of years. During this period school was held only half time. School in the early days was held mostly in the summer months as cold and distance made it to risky to send children to school in the winter. As was customary in all the districts the school was not only a place of learning but also the hub of community life there were card parties, dances, church, picnics, political meetings and elections. There was the most important occasion of the year the Christmas Concert with its hours of preparation when the children got up on the stage and performed their recitations, songs and plays to the best of their ability. Each and every one of the teachers would put in many long hours getting costumes and props ready for that night. On this special night the school would be overflowing with parents, children and friends. One thing that amazed me was the huge amount of Christmas treats that were bagged up for all the children who came from within the district as well as those who came from other districts. Times were hard when these homesteaders were trying to get started farming and there was not much extra cash to be had but every child went home clutching their little bag of goodies.

It would not be fitting not to mention the wonderful teachers who put up with so many hardships in those days. They were a special breed of people who came out to these isolated frontiers to teach. There was no teacherage at the Benjamin School, so they either had to ride drive or walk to school every day from the home where they were boarding. Many of the teachers would take the children on nature walks through the woods, along the creek or up on top of "old Baldy". In 1935 when Mr Dowling was teaching one of the highlights of that era were our softball games. Every chance Mr Dowling got he would let the children out to practice ball. He entered our school in the Central Alberta Softball Tournament at Lacombe. The children from Benjamin put on a very good showing and their last game was against a town team. This team from town figured they had it in the bag when they saw the country bumpkins they had to play against. As it turned out the town kids found out that those bumpkins were no push over and we won the cup for Central Alberta. The cup was a coveted possession of the Benjamin school children for that year.

In the southeast corner of the Benjamin District is a large hill that is known as "Old Baldy". The road to Eckville used to wind around the east and south side of this hill. In winter it would become as icy and slippery as a skating rink and it was a challenge to either go up or down. The mud in the summer season was just as bad to have to contend with. Baldy in the early days was noted for its snakes and I'm sure that when fall came that every snake in the country for miles around went up on the hill to hibernate. Then in the month of May on a warm day if you should have gone up there the ground would be litterly crawling with the serpents. John Archer built a home on the hill in the early days but he never lived there too long. Why he left is not known, perhaps all those snakes were not to their liking as his home was situated close to the top of Baldy. When the trees were not as tall as now it was one of the most scenic areas in the district. When you looked across the valley to the southwest you could see the Medicine Valley with all its settlers' homes, fields of golden grain. The autumn colours the distant purple hills and in the far distance the majestic Rocky Mountains.



The years that Benjamin District was in the Rocky Division is not known but it was in when Mrs. Anna von Teitenborn was teaching the term of 1942 and 1943. Irene Wingate was doing janitor work at the school and they ran out of wood so they used up some old broken chairs or anything else they could get hold of that would burn and when this supply of wood ran out they went over to Wingates and finished the day of school there. The school districts were as hard up as the people, first there was the depression and then the war so there was little extra money to be had. One day in 1945 a car drove into the school yard with horn blaring and a Union Jack flying from the radiator cap and a young man by the name of Jim Wingate was yelling "The war is over the war is over" That was a day Mrs Tettenborn recalls there was a holiday for all the pupils in the school

Later on the Lacombe Municipality took over the district and in 1948 they bought a school house from Blackfalds and moved it three quarters of a mile east on Sid Hopper's land. The old school was put up for bids and Alfred Kilpatrick bought it and moved it to the farm where it is still in use to this day. The property where the old school stood was bought back by Jim Wingate before it could be returned to the Wingate homestead

The following list of teachers has been compiled from the memories of some of our district s residents and former teachers. They may not be in the order they taught and it is with regret should any be missed. Mr D. M Layton, Mr Fawis, Mr Marsh, Miss Flo Johnston Miss Kingsep Mr Trenholme, Mr MacDonald Miss M. Craig Miss E Edmonds, Miss Tona Miss O Heffren Miss E Smith Mr Wm. Fraser Mr E Dowling, Miss B. Wallace Miss E Hyde. Miss M Ross. Mrs Alma von Tettenborn. Mr E Ingram Mr E Dahms. Miss S Peterson, Miss I Hunt Supervisors at about the year starting 1946 were Miss I. Johnson Miss N Bakke, Mrs. Dora Wingate, and Miss Jean Beddoes. The teachers who taught in the new school were Mrs Helen Newman, Mr W Saunders, and Miss D. Dobbs

About 20 years ago the Anglican Church held services in the school and at that time there also was an undenominational Sunday School held too. The school was closed in 1954 and the community bought it for a community centre and the children were bused to Eckville

In September of 1953 a small feeder bus was used to bus the children from the west and north end of the district to the big bus These two buses met at Herb Land's corner A. Hancher took on the job of driving the small bus but soon turned it over to his son Laverne Laverne drove this bus for several years. There was a break in between when Gene Lazzer took over busing the children to school. Then the county bought the buses and they hired Laverne to drive the feeder bus again The first year that the buses ran in the Benjamin District there was no such thing as roads There was no gravel on any side roads and in some places there were no roads. In 1956 our counselor Alfred Haarstad put in 13 miles of roads in three weeks What a wonderful change to not have to pull our cars out by tractor to a main road to get to town. Very little has been done to these roads since except for grading and gravelling. There is now a paved road that goes through the district from north to south and is in about the middle of the district. It is Secondary Highway No. 766

This is a list of the very first homesteaders in the Benjamin District on whom there has been no history available. All these people lived at one time within township 41-3-W5. Thanks must be given to the Provincial Archives of Alberta from whom this information was obtained. Please note that only the sections are mentioned not the quarter sections and that the year also is men

This summarizes all the history that has been obtainable of our district I hope that the readers will bear with me as I know there are perhaps m stakes as to events and dates It is very hard to put a history together when there are no records obtainable. Without the help of the many old timers who are still living this history would not have been compiled

HUGO BOOS

It is reported that Hugo Boos was born in Wisconsin. U.S.A in 1882 He filed on his homestead the SE 32-41 3-W5 in the Benjamin District and received his patent in 1910. He left his homestead to join the Canadian Army when World War I broke out. He returned to the homestead in 1919

Hugo Boos worked in sawmills west of the Gimlet Creek in the early days. He was a very humorous and kind man. All his neighbors had the highest regards for him. He was very fond of animals and took great pride in his horses and stock.

In 1944 or 1945 Hugo Boos sold his farm, stock and machinery to Mrs. Winnifred Whiting and moved to B.C. He passed away in B.C. on July 7 1947 at the age of 65.

IRVIN BOTH FAMILY

Irvin Both and his cousin, Lee Both left Blackie, Alberta and moved into a log shack northeast of the Aurora school. They arrived on November 12, 1934. They lived in this shack for a month or two then moved in with Bill Gardner. The three of them cut posts about six miles west of Aurora, for which they got the big sum of three cents a post or three dollars a load of 100 posts. They traveled back and forth with horses, and delivered their loads anywhere in the country. A load of posts brought enough to buy tobacco, one hundred pounds of flour and a pair of overalls. They also shot squirrels for seven cents a hide and rabbits at three cents each. They got fifty cents a cord for firewood which they cut and

In the spring of 1935 Irvin went to work for Joe Fizer. He put the crop in on crop shares that year. Irvin's mother and sister (Gertrude, now Mrs. Gaylord Fizer) came out in 1935 from Vancouver Island. In the fall the family moved into a log shack belonging to Mrs. Everenden.

Irvin worked around the Eckville area in 1936 and 1937 and was married to Clydie Reidinger on November 12, 1937. Irvin worked many winters in the sawmills at McTighe's mill for one dollar a day. The Government took thirteen cents a day of this for a hospital plan. All through the forties he worked at a number of sawmills.

After our marriage we lived in various places until we settled on a quarter SW 10-41-3 W5, on May 24, 1939. We farmed with horses for many years. We farmed this place for exactly 36 years before moving to Eckville on May 24, 1975. We sold the farm to Ralph Krell.

We have five children. Lee was married to Erva Heringer in 1958. They farmed for Walter Hoglund for a number of years then moved to their own place in the Benjamin area. They had two children, Melanie and Kevin. Lee and Erva parted company after ten or twelve years and were divorced. Lee is now married to Mabel Fell and they are farming in the Benjamin area.

Jim was married to Sharon Jackson in 1964. They live in Red Deer area and have three girls, Sherrie-Ann, Rhonda and Jamie. Jim has done carpenter work all these years.

Charlie married Ann Hebert in 1965. They live in Calgary, where he is an electrician. Their two boys are Tim and John.

Doreen was married to John Noble in 1964. They farm northeast of Bluffton. They have two girls and a boy — Shelley, Tammie and John.

Gloria is still single and living in her own home in Red Deer. She is a Certified Nurse's Aid in the Dr. Richard Parsons Hospital.

BOYER & LINCOLN BAUM KATHRYN AND JOHNSMAN HARRIET AND FRANK — by Mary Kilpatrick

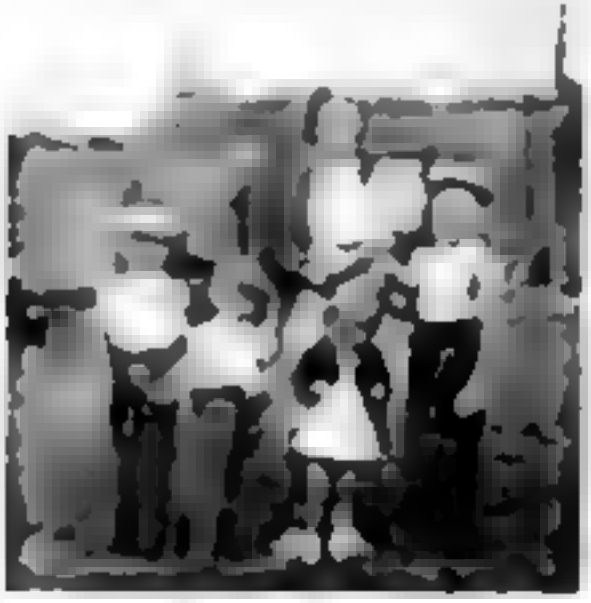
Mrs. Kathryn Baum, my grandmother was born in Butler Indiana, U.S.A. in August of 1842. She was married to Eli Boyer in 1866. To this union were born three boys, A. L. Link in 1868 on January 6. The other two infants died within a month of their births. In 1875 Eli Boyer passed away. Eighteen years later Grandmother married Jesse Baum from Valparaiso, Indiana and they had one child Harriet who became my



Uncle Link came to the Medicine Valley near Lonsdale in 1902 with Guy Farrow. These two men came from Hitchner, South Dakota where uncle had land near the ceded Yankton Sioux Indian Reservation. Uncle and Guy Farrow blazed the rail from Fred Schrader's homestead southwest of Rimbey to the SE 36-41 4-W5. These two men were looking for range land to run a large herd of cattle and horses. The trails they blazed to what was to be their homesteads was in virgin land and they had many hardships as in places they were stopped by thick stands of bush, trees and impassable swamps. I remember Uncle telling of the time they got a pack horse down in a swamp and they worked for hours trying to get him out. The horse was one of the sulky kind and so their decision was not a happy one because they could not leave the animal stuck in the swamp to slowly die. When these two men saw the valley they thought it was a cattleman's paradise as the wild grass and vetch grew abundantly everywhere they looked. Uncle picked out the quarter he wanted for his homestead. He built his cabin upon a hill overlooking to the west the lovely Medicine Valley. Guy Farrow did not prove up on his land as he later went to British Columbia to live.

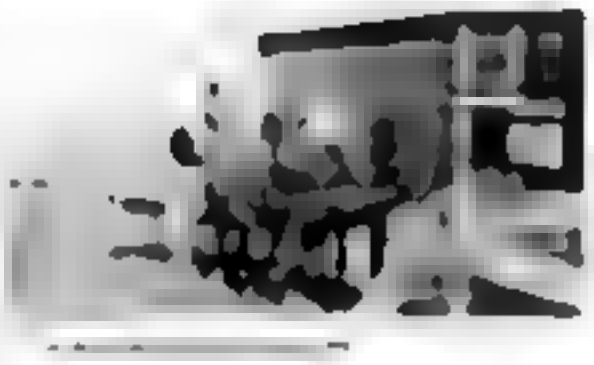
As soon as Uncle built his cabin he went back to the States. He returned the following year early in the spring and he made his homestead entry for the SE 36-41 4-W5 for $10 on March 23, 1903 and the on April 22 he bought the quarter directly south from the C P R for five dollars an acre. Settlers began to arrive in the valley soon after his return so Uncle Link gave up the idea of ranching and went to farming. His little cabin was home to many who came into the valley looking for farm land, and many stayed with him until they built their cabins. His cabin door was never locked whenever he was away as there was always the chance of someone needing shelter. He often came home and found Indians waiting at the cabin for him. They also were given food and shelter should they need it.

In the Medicine Lake area there were lumber camps and he went up there and worked part time until he acquired enough lumber to build a house and barn. Early in 1906 he built his barn and put up the frame work for his house. He had not planned on building so soon but due to unforeseen circumstances his plans were changed and he built a much smaller barn than he had anticipated. Five generations have lived in this house and it is now the home of our son, David Kilpatrick and his family. The house was remodeled in 1961.

In the fall of 1906 Uncle went to Washington State harvesting. He used to tell of driving 36 head of horses on a combine. The people he worked for had a pet mule which was a nuisance when they were combining. One day the boss told Uncle to hitch the mule up in the outfit. Apparently with the hitch they had on these horses they could hitch up the wildest horse and he could go only one direction and that was where the lead team was driven as this team controlled the whole outfit. It only took one day of this kind of treatment and the mule stayed clear of the combine from then on.



In the latter part of 1908 Uncle went back to the United States and Grandmother Baum returned with him to the homestead. They were driven from Lacombe by a Mr. Hamilton and in a postcard sent to my mother Grandmother told of how beautiful she thought this country was. She tells of quote "How straight, tall and thick the poplar trees are, so thick that a rabbit can hardly get through." Grandmother would take my brother and I for walks through the woods and she would tell us the names of all the plants and what ones had good medicinal value. She brought her dandelion seed with her when she came up to the homestead so she would have plenty of greens to eat. Little did she know how prolific they would become in this country. She used to make clabbered milk (yogart today) and with a little cinnamon and sugar it was a treat fit for a queen. Sassafras tea was another treat she used to make for us children.

In December 1908 a well was drilled, it was 96 feet deep. It must have been a blessing as Uncle hauled his water from the creek a half mile away. Winter was always the best time of the year to go to the nearest town to put in a supply of staples. The rivers were frozen over and Gull Lake could be crossed on the ice to their nearest shopping town of Lacombe. On one such trip Uncle Link went with Frank Benjamin who was driving his team of oxen. It was a cold 40 mile trip behind those slow plodding creatures.

Grandmother spent much of her time alone on the homestead as Uncle was away in the fall and winters working in lumber camps, as long as as she had close neighbors it was not so lonesome. Many people came into the valley in the early days and many found pioneering too full of hardships and so departed for other lands. When there were no neighbors close Grandmother usually had someone come and stay with her. Her long winter days were spent sewing, knitting and reading her bible. She could make the most beautiful quilts and every stitch was perfectly sewn. In the summer she raised huge gardens and she was well known for several miles around for her abundance of garden produce. In 1910 grandmother got a root cellar and she sold $10 worth of cabbage. How many pounds of cabbage this would have been is not knows but imagine that it would amount to several hundreds of pounds

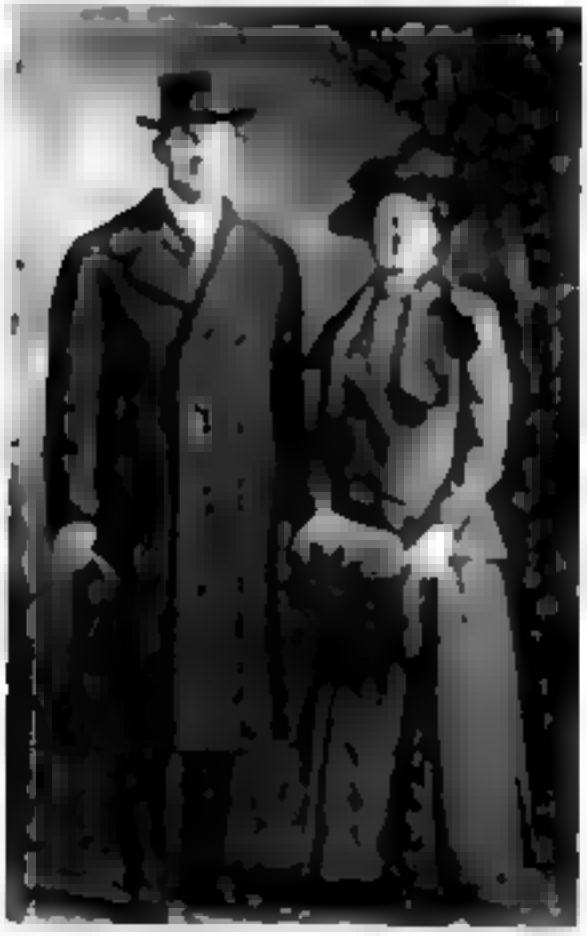
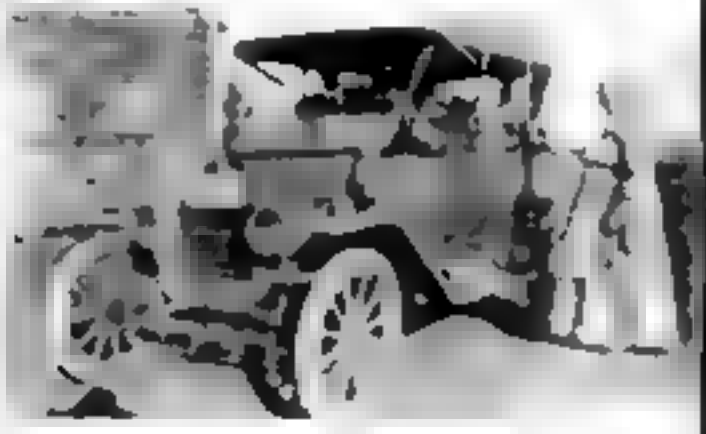
The following year Grandmother had a trip to Florida and when she returned to the homestead her daughter Harriet (my mother) came with her The lonely times were over for grandmother Mother was a trained nurse and she had completed her training at Cook County Hospital in Chicago. Mother's uncle. Dr John Firestone had wanted her to come to Denver where he was practicing and nurse there. The wages were $25 a week. Instead she decided to come to Canada to be with her brother and mother It was not long until Mother was called on to serve in the frontier districts in many an emergency The closest doctor was at Lacombe the first two or three years she was here Mother used to tell of the conditions she had to nurse under Pneumonia and appendicitis were the two most common and serious ailments She went winter summer, day or night over trails that were hub deep in mud in the spring and full of bog holes when she left her brothers little homestead shack on the hill Mother always praised the home made kitchen tables for operations as they were sturdily built She used to tell of one young lad she nursed through pneumonia only to have him come down with an appendicitis attack The doctor was sent for at Lacombe and when he and his assistant arrived the kitchen had already been transformed into an operating room by Mother and the operation was carried out by coal oil light The young lad after a long convalescence grew into a fine young man. In 1914 Dr Samuel Byers came to Rimbey and Mother nursed for him in this area until a hospital was built in Rimbey in 1932



Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnsman's wedding picture

Grandmother and Uncle Link used to have a tall, dark and handsome young bachelor come over to visit them. This young man's name was Frank Johnsman he came from Celina Ohio in 1907 and owned a homestead NE 6-42-3 W5. This is how my Mother and Father met and they were married four years later in Calgary in November 1915. Dad and Uncle Link started farming together and farmed the rest of their lives together

On a winter's day Dad was out splitting wood when he accidentally chopped his thumb with the axe When he got to the house and Mother saw the injury she saw that he had severed the thumb close to the first joint and that the severed part was being held to the rest of the thumb by a small piece of skin on the inside of the thumb Mother had Dad bend his fingers and cradle the injured thumb into the best forefinger, then they went to Rimbey to the Dr's office. Dr Byers took a good look at the injured thumb and said he could not have done a better job of setting it himself and to keep it in the position until it healed. Dad was always proud of the excellent job Mother had done on his thumb as there was only a hairline [illegible] remained him all through the [illegible]



[illegible]

Dad bought two more quarters before 1920 the SW 31-41-3-W5 from the C P R and the NW 30-41-3-W5. As Dad and Uncle Link cleared more land they bought more livestock and raised hogs They hauled eight wagon loads of hogs one time to Eckville with the help of several neighbors they left in the early morning hours in the summer so that the heat of the day would not effect the hogs. They also bought a carload of work horses in Calgary about this time too. The one quarter Dad bought was heavily timbered and Dad girdled 120 acres of this land. To girdle a tree you would chop through the bark all the way around the tree trunk about two or three feet up from the ground. This would kill the tree and then after when a strong wind came up the trees were all felled. Dad broke a fire guard around this area and when conditions were just right he set fire to the fallen trees. Two or three burnings like this and the land was barren of all trees and brush and ready to break up.

My brother Frank was born July 6, 1918 and I Mary came along the cold winter of 1919 and 1920. It was about 1923 that Dad and Mother moved over to the NW 30-41 3-W5. They had John Liner build them a house and Dad built a log barn. It was from this farm that we children went to school at Benjamin. In 1925 I contracted polio and with all the Dr. bills and the depression Dad never finished our home the way he would have liked to do. Grandmother passed away on May 18, 1931 at her home and is buried at Rimbey in Mount Auburn cemetery. It was during this time that the depression hit everyone alike and emergencies. It was during this period that my brother Frank came down with an attack of appendicitis. It was on a September day in 1934 that he was operated on in the St. Paul's Hospital in Rimbey. While convalescing at home he got an embolism and passed away at home on November 18, 1934 and is buried at Rimbey in Mount Auburn Cemetery. I finished my schooling in the Leedale High School and also in Ed

In 1940 Uncle Link passed away in the Lacombe Hospital, on November 23, and is buried in Mount Auburn Cemetery at Rimbey.

It was on July 7 1941 that Alfred Kilpatrick and I were married. We have two children a boy David and a girl Frankie. We have four grandchildren. My husband and I are living on the farm across the road from the old homestead. In 1945 Mother and Dad moved into Rimbey and retired there. Dad passed away June 6, 1961 and Mother on October 18, 1968 and both are buried in the Mount Auburn Cemetery at Rimbey. Under the Dan Kilpatrick story more is written on our family.

I have written the story of my family after spending hours looking through old documents, postcards and letters. It spans a period of 76 years and starts when Alberta was then the North West Territories to the present time. I sit and ponder why did my parents come to this country was it the pioneer spirit in them or did they feel there was a freedom here that was not to be had in their country. If it was freedom we must all guard it very carefully and not let it be taken away from us slowly and silently by controls and regulations.

BURKE, ED

Mr. Burke came to the Benjamin District from Ontario. He homesteaded the NE 16-41-3 W5. He usually worked on his land for the summer months but often went to the lumber camps west of Rocky Mountain House for the winter.

The Luser children remember Mr. Burke as a good natured bachelor neighbor. They walked across his yard to and from school and they loved to stop and talk to Mr. Burke. He was always ready to visit with them or tell them a story.

Mr. J. M. McDonald stayed with Mr. Burke when he was teaching Benjamin School. He drove with his horse and buggy from there to the school.

Mr. Burke married a widow from Leedale in the fall of 1923. Shortly after that Mr. and Mrs. Burke sold the farm and moved to a place south east of Rimbey.

Mr. Burke passed away a few years later.

CARROLL, CHARLES AND EDNA – by Edna Carrok

Edna Shorrock married Charlie Carroll of Gleby, formerly of Drumheller, in September of 1941. They farmed south of the Medicine River for one year before Charlie received his call to the army. In April, 1942 he went to Camrose for Basic Training, leaving Edna at the home of her parents. Soon he was stationed at Victoria, B.C. in the Canadian Artillery, where Edna joined him in November 1942.

After five years, at the end of World War II they began farming again with Charles' father in 1947. They lived again on the farm south of the Medicine River on Section 36. By this time they had a three-year-old daughter, Beverly Jill, followed by a daughter Heather Anne, born in 1947 and a third daughter, Penny Jane born in 1950.

In August, 1951, they hired Art Lutz to move their three-room house to a new location five miles away on the quarter where they still live. They were blessed with three more children, daughter Nita Louise, born in 1953, and a son Charles Freeman Stuart, born in 1957. Kathleen Marie was their last child, born in 1959.

Beverly married Ronald Aldridge of Golden B.C. in 1964. They have two sons, Terry and Steven. Their home is in Williams Lake, B.C.

Heather married Robert Hebert of St. Albert in 1964. Their two daughters are Rochelle and Candace.

Penny Jane married Bill Rushton and lives at Blackfalds. They have two sons, Jay and Jimmy.

Nita Louise married Neil Harrison of Lacombe in September, 1972. They have one little son, Ryan Charles, and live at present in the Red Deer area.

Son Freeman passed away at the early age of 13 years, in 1971.

Daughter Kathleen still lives at home. She graduated from high school in Eckville in 1977.

THE FAMILY OF HURLEY EMMETT CARROLL

As so many other families in the 1930's, the Carroll family moved here from southeastern Alberta's Drumheller area in 1931

Mr Hurley Carroll was born in Oregon, U.S.A., coming to the Cariboo area of British Columbia at the age of 18 years, after a short time spent in the American army He had been trained as a telegrapher and worked for the Railway at Vancouver and Prince George There he met Charles and William Gow also railroad employees. The Gow brothers and their sister Beattie had recently come west from Peterborough Ontario. Beattie worked in a florist's shop in Vancouver On their visits from Prince George her brothers brought along Hurley Carroll.

They soon were married and moved around the Cariboo district, where Mr. Carroll worked as a telegrapher and also as a packing-guide out of Quesnel for a while They were living at 150 Mile House when their first two children were born, Helen Margaret and Marjorie Jean As there was no town at 150 Mile House as yet Mrs Carroll was taken by stagecoach to relatives in Kamloops to await the birth of their child
